It is just as THE DEMOCRAT stated last week, Plained is elected governor of Maine, over Davis, republican.

Samuel Barry, of Augusta, Maine, has made affidavit that he was paid $10 for voting the republican ticket at the late election.

We publish in another column a brief biographical notice of the Hon. W. H. Waldby, the democratic nominee for congress in this district.

At a "flopers" meeting recently held in Pittsburgh, Pa., the officers who presided were formerly republicans, and there were 100 vice-presidents.

Geo. F. Robinson, of Detroit, will address the Hancock club next Saturday evening Oct. 3, at the court-house. Let there be a full attendance of the members.

The republican party was organized in 1856 within the shadow of the Michigan state prison. Is it any wonder, conceived as it was in sin and brought forth in iniquity, that the party is corrupt?

The greenback ticket in this county is simply a figure head. There never was a time when the party stood any chance of electing their men in this democratic stronghold, and they should have sense enough to know it.

It is hardly the thing for a man to go roaming through the state of Michigan, abusing honest democrats, and calling them rebels and traitors, when he himself is known to have lived out of the democratic party for years.

The Ypsilanti accuses the tramp printer of stealing his editorials from the New York Sun, Dana's paper. Didn't you know, brother Woodruff, that the tramp is looked upon here as the greatest news thief in the country? THE DEMOCRAT named him "Clippings" some months ago, by which appellation he is known.

Frazer did not draw worth a cent in Ypsilanti last Friday night, although his coming had been announced through the Commercial and by flaming posters. It was to be a republican meeting, but only about 150 persons condescended to attend, and a number of them were democrats who had a curiosity to see the great political acrobat, in the role of a greenback, prohibition republican reformer. They went, they saw, they heard him, and a more disgusted small crowd probably never got together before in this county.

The miserable, lousy devil, who attempts to fire the northern heart by publishing such damnable stuff about the south and her people, and which is reiterated day after day by the radical press and republican stump speakers, shows to what desperation they are driven. It will only reflect on themselves, for the great mass of the reading, thinking public believe all such twaddle to be as false as hell. The paper that publishes it for truth lies, and the man who reiterates it from the stump, is a sneaking, cowardly villain.

The tramp printer has his piece learned, and his will soon go forth to speak it in a number of places in this county. Perhaps he could be induced to declaim on the night of the meeting of the Hancock and English club. His speech is said to consist of a number of stolen editorials from New York papers, which he has committed to memory. This notorious plagiarist, whose sheet is looked upon as a poor apology for a paper, has damaged the democratic cause in this county at least one hundred votes. The candidates on the democratic ticket with whom we have conversed, look upon the tramp in about the same light as we do, and some time ago wrote him down an ass.

The Adrian correspondent of the Free Press writes that "the prospects of Mr. Waldby's election over Willis grow brighter daily. From every part of the district come assurances of republican support from reputable well-to-do business men, who have become utterly disgusted with Willis' course, and with his monument of broken promises that rears itself aloft in every portion of the district. Even from the Ohio line old friends, republicans, come and pledge themselves to labor with the Michigan farmers and others living in the southern part of the county. The republicans here are doing nothing for Willis, and with their present feeling it is not to be wondered at."

Edward King, of Ypsilanti town, who has been nominated by the democrats of the first representative district, as a candidate for representative, was born in London, England. He came to this country when a small boy and for four years lived in New York city. He afterwards came west and located in Ypsilanti, where he was engaged in business until 12 years ago, when he moved upon a farm in the township of Ypsilanti. He has been a successful business man and farmer. In 1874 he was nominated for representative, against E. D. Lay, of Ypsilanti town, Ann Arbor city and town were then in the first district. The republican majority in that year was over 300, and Mr. King was only defeated by 63 votes. He is as popular to-day as six years ago, and the democrats of the first district feel confident that he can lay out Capt. Allen, the republican nominee.

Some days ago the Adrian Times and the Chicago Inter Ocean, stated that M. Clifton, of the former place, had come out for representative. It was a lie, and made out of whole cloth, as the following letter from Mr. C. goes to prove:

"I am informed that a report is in circulation to the effect that I have changed my life long political views and am now an ardent supporter of Garfield and Arthur; this is to deny any such imputations. I have the utmost faith in our gallant standard bearer. I have confidence in the great party and its principles, believing that as I always have, that it and it only is the only true protector of the rights of the people and the producing class.

I shall, therefore, vote for the true and loyal representative of the people, W. S. Hancock, whose election I feel confident of.

In order to bolster up their sinking cause, the republicans are obliged to lie not a little but a good deal. How was it about the Maine election? The question is easily answered.

F. M. Holloway, who was nominated by the recent democratic state convention, for the office of governor, in reply to a letter from Wm. D. Wilkins, the president of the convention, notifying him of his nomination, writes that gentleman as follows:

"Permit me, through you, to express my profound thanks to the democracy of the state for the high honor conferred; it is highly appreciated, and the fact that the nomination has come unsolicited by me.

Weighing well the duties and responsibilities attaching to the office, and considering the fact that this is but the second time in the history of our state where the nomination for the office has been tendered to one actively engaged in tilling the soil, I accept the nomination gratefully tendered in the spirit in which it was made, and I assure you, as I do to the conservative representatives of the people in the coming assembly, that in placing me before the electors of the state for that honorable position, it was intended to honor, not me, but the large class of our fellow citizens, that I, in an humble way, represent.

Should I be elected to the exalted position of Chief Magistrate of this great state, it will be my endeavor to emulate those who have preceded me in that office, and approach as near as may be to their virtues.

In a time of profound peace like the present, the chief duty of the executive of the state of Michigan as defined by the constitution, are mostly embraced in sections 5, 6 and 8 of article 5, and it is in the discharge of the duties defined in these sections that the happiness and prosperity of our people of all classes, conditions and industries are brought more directly under his care.

It will be my study, while in the performance of the duties defined in those sections, to conduct the affairs of state that no industry shall suffer at the expense of another, and that the law be faithfully executed in the spirit of liberality, justice and equity, constantly bearing in mind that the true excellence of government is that which brings the greatest good to the largest number.

The declaration of principles adopted by the convention recently held at Cincinnati, as well as those adopted at Detroit, I accept the nomination that places me in nomination, have my most cordial support.

HON. WILLIAM H. WALDBY. His Candidacy for Congress in the Second District.

The convention for the Second Congressional district of Michigan, which met at Manchester August 24th, was one of the most harmonious and unanimous gatherings of the kind that perhaps ever assembled in Michigan. There were no "rings" or "cliques" to be satisfied or crushed. The convention came together with it the impulse of the people of the entire district who had become so restless under the old party rule. The members of the convention came together with one purpose, and that was to put in nomination a man for the important position who not only embodied all the requisites for the honorable and responsible office of representative in congress, but also one who should stand before the people as a genuine, solid, unassuming and unblemished character as a man and a citizen. It seemed to be a necessity that a man should be found who could stand before the people in the light of a true representative, coming from the masses, without taint, and without having been put in training by a set of men to further some pet scheme or hobby, but one who had naturally grown up in the ranks of the people, and who, if elected, would have in view only the best interests of the district. Such a man was found in William H. Waldby, of Adrian, who according to the unanimous wish of the convention and accepted the nomination with reluctance, and without doubt at a great sacrifice of personal convenience, yet not desiring the place, Mr. Waldby at once goes actively into the canvass, and is already one of the most formidable contestants that a republican candidate has ever had in this district. And why is this the case? Simply because he is a man of marked business capacity and integrity, of strong character and high moral principles, and an aggressive partisan, though always a democrat from principle. He has for many years been a business man in Adrian, and his career is marked with signal success. He has not only been successful in business, but he has also gained fairly and honorably, and has no antagonisms to overcome. He is without a doubt one of the "clearest" and most successful business men in Michigan, and his record speaks for itself. the past winter Governor Crosswell, recognizing his eminent fitness, appointed him a member of the Board of Control of the Michigan reform school for girls.

Through his untiring energy and ability to cope with all the efforts put forth by many other localities, he succeeded in securing the location of the school in Adrian, for which the citizens will always bear him in grateful remembrance. He has, also in many other directions lent his energies and his means in benefiting and improving the city of his residence and choice. As an evidence of his popularity "at home" it may be proper to say here that a few years ago, when he was endeavoring to form a new ward in the city, he was elected mayor, carrying every ward in the city, although Adrian was at that time a republican stronghold.

Finally the citizens of Adrian and Lenawee county have in him first, last, and all the time, and we predict for him in November not less than 900 majority in the old Lenawee; and we commend him to all voters of the county, and to every worthy citizen who will not betray their confidence, or break his promise.—Adrian Press.

And still they come. The Abend Post, published at Adrian, hosts the names of Hancock and English.

Gabriel Derrick, a well-known German republican of Cincinnati, now president of the board of aldermen, is out for Hancock.

Henry C. Sayres, Wayneburg, Greene County Pa., has not only come out for Hancock, but has turned over to the democrats about sixty acres of land which did service for Hayes four years ago.

It is estimated that the defection from the republican ranks, in Adams, Long Island, reaches fifty. Among those who have joined the central democratic club are Alvin Dunham, a large property owner, Lyman Cooper, a soldier who served under Hancock, and David Andrews, a well known citizen.

Col Noah L. Cochen, a Brooklyn veteran, who has just returned, says the republican leader no longer represent republican principles; that General Hancock proved his devotion to the Union during the rebellion; and Wm. Stecker, once a member of the union league, Kings county, resigns from the thirteenth ward republican committee saying that he is for Hancock, who promises that life conviction and unconditional pardon shall be preserved inviolate.—Free Press.

James A. Garfield went down into Louisiana to see a fair count in 1875. He is allowed to manipulate the returns and to dictate the course to be pursued by the returning board. Then he came back and sat on the electoral commission, where he voted not to go behind the returns, and he was elected.

Mr. Blaine's virtuous indignation at the use of money by the democrats in the Michigan canvass will probably be blacked with the most lustrous polish, because, don't you remember how Willis said he could tell a democrat by his ragged coat and the state of his boots and shoes, and that he would not shake hands with a man who had such ragged boots and shoes? There was a large audience present to hear McCullough at the Ypsilanti opera house last Monday. We could but notice how quiet and orderly it was when the curtain was down. Ypsilanti people notice the difference when they attend an entertainment in this city. Here, persons in the audience show their ill-breeding by hallooing, stamping, and singing, and the responsibility rests upon the students.

A. W. Wright, who lives in the fifth ward, was not disposed to take up with the offer made by the Northeastern road, for the right of way through his land, and the result was the impelling of a jury to assess the damages. The jury was composed of the following well known citizens: Dr. W. B. Smith, John M. Swift, A. Wood, Aretus Dunn, and Thos. Keach. After examining the matter carefully they assessed the damages at $1,100. The road will run diagonally through two lots and near the residence of Mr. Wright.

The farm residence owned by Michael and P. Duffy, in the township of Webster, caught fire last Saturday afternoon from a defective chimney. The men folks were at work some distance away, and before they could return the fire was under such headway that they were unable to save only a few chairs and two beds. Everything in the house, furniture, clothing, etc., burnt up, also about 600 in cash, which one of the Duffy's had in his trunk. They estimate their loss at $4,000, on which there is an insurance in the Washington mutual of $1600 on the building, and $1,000 on furniture and wearing apparel. The barns were in close proximity to the burned building, and it was through the greatest efforts of the neighbors they that were saved from destruction.

Several weeks ago there arrived in this city, from Port Sarnia, an old gentleman, who had traveled all over this state in pursuit of his son, a boy some fifteen years of age, who he heard through a party in Jackson, was residing here. Policemen Millman and Porter, who had previously worked up a case for a lady in Canada, a friend of the old gentleman referred to, were given the case. The policemen took Constable Loomis into their secret and the three, after working diligently for a number of days, and when they supposed they could put their hands on the missing one, were doomed to disappointment. The boy had an inkling that the old man wanted to see him, and mysteriously left the city. The officers said nothing, but kept up a heap of thinking. Their disappointment was only temporary however; the lad, supposing the old gentleman had given up the chase, returned to the city last week. The father was immediately notified by telegraph, and he came on and reclaimed his missing son, who had probably repented, for he seemed anxious to return home, and the two left for Sarnia last Monday.

Last Thursday night about sundown, Jesse Comstock, a one-armed peddler, drove to the residence of Jacob Stabler's in Hea, where he put up for the night. He arose the next morning at six o'clock, and after eating his breakfast complained of a severe pain near his heart. Comstock got on his wagon and drove off. He had not gone a great way, when he died, setting in his seat, just as he was driving into a lane which led to Jacob Paul's house. Coroner Johnson was notified and went out and viewed the remains. O. M. Martin, the undertaker, arrived soon after. He took charge of the body, which was removed to his shop on Main street, where an inquest was held. Comstock had often complained of his heart, and at different times informed his friends that he was liable to die suddenly. On the morning of his death he so stated to Mr. Stabler and a man in his employ named Forshee, who was riding with him, when he expired. The coroner summoned the following jury of inquest: O. M.

Martin, O. M. Martin, Jr., L. C. Risdon, F. A. Randall, J. F. Schuch and Ambrose Kearney. Only two witnesses were sworn, Arthur Forshee and Jacob Stabler, who testified to the facts above narrated. The verdict of the jury was that Comstock died of disease of the heart.

Hancock and English.

Some days ago Wm. G. Doty, secretary of the Hancock and English club, addressed a letter to Geo. F. Robinson, relative to addressing the club here on the evening of Oct. 2d, which caused the following reply: Detroit, Sept. 20, '80.

Wm. G. Doty, Esq. Secretary Hancock and English Club, Ann Arbor, Mich. Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of your letter of the seventeenth inst., asking me to address your club on political topics on the evening of Oct. 2d.

I assure you such an invitation does me an honor I esteem very highly, and I take great pleasure in accepting it. I will try to give on that occasion some good reasons why young men especially should enlist under the banner of our gallant Hancock. Yours Truly, GEO. F. ROBINSON.

Mr. Robinson is a young man who for merly resided here, and let the club turn out and give him a large audience. Persons intending to compete for premiums at the fair which commences next Tuesday, Sept 23, should observe the following rules: All articles must be on the ground, entered and arranged, on the first day of the fair, and all live stock by ten o'clock of the second day.

Exhibitors will be careful to have their animals and articles arranged in their appropriate places, and in season, otherwise they will be overlooked by the viewing committee. Persons employed by the society shall wear appropriate badges, and be in readiness to receive articles entered for exhibition in their several departments.

All articles intended for exhibition must be entered at the business office, at the entrance of the fair grounds, before entering the enclosure. Exhibitors of stock should be very careful to enter their animals in their appropriate class. Any unbranded animal as thoroughly bred, will be excluded from competition in the class to which it belongs.

Any person entering stock claimed to be thoroughbred, shall prove to the satisfaction of the judges their ages and pedigree on the side of the dam and sire, to be thoroughly bred, mode of breeding, and how near they approach to full blood. All animals entered for premiums shall be entered in the name of the owner or his agent. No article or animal entered for competition can be removed from the grounds until 2 o'clock of the last day of the fair, without leave of the superintendent, without forfeiting any premium that may have been awarded.

Democratic District Convention.

The democratic district convention for the first representative district of Washtenaw county, met at the Goodrich house in Saline last Friday at 2 o'clock p. m. The convention was called to order by Charles R. Whitman, of Ypsilanti.

F. J. Swain, of Ypsilanti, was made chairman, and D. R. McLachlin, of Saline, secretary. C. R. Whitman, of Ypsilanti, and J. S. Henderson, of Pittsfield, were appointed a committee on credentials.

Jason Gillett, of Ypsilanti town, E. M. Spencer, of Ypsilanti, and F. E. Jones, of Saline, were appointed a committee on permanent organization. The following DELEGATES were reported: Augustus—Wm. Lowden, Charles Merritt, Charles Rogers, Levi Rogers.

Pittsfield—Henry DeFue, J. S. Hender son, John Talte. Saline—H. M. Russell, F. E. Jones, Ezra Sanford, E. W. Wallace, J. H. Ortman, D. B. McLachlin.

York—M. J. Kelsy, Geo. Coe, Horace LeBaron, Gilbert M. Brown, Joseph Gaubert. Ypsilanti town—Jason Gillett, Edward C. King, Wm. Willings, Wm. Bell. Ypsilanti city. First ward—E. M. Spencer, Geo. Palmer. Second ward—C. R. Whitman, Joseph McLutry.

Third ward—Clarence Tinker, D. W. Thompson, Bernard Kirk. Fourth ward—F. J. Swain, M. L. Shuts. Fifth ward—L. Z. Forrester, John Tarns, H. Hordlinghouse, Wm. M. Roberts.

The report was accepted and adopted. The temporary officers were made permanent. On motion of F. E. Jones, an informal ballot was taken for a candidate for REPRESENTATIVE.

C. R. Whitman nominated Edward King, of Ypsilanti town. W. M. Roberts nominated E. M. Spencer, of Ypsilanti.

The ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes cast: Edward King received 20, E. M. Spencer received 19, G. W. Alban received 2, Blank 1.

The formal ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes cast: Edward King 22, E. M. Spencer 5, Geo. Alban 2, Ezra Sanford 1.

Mr. King was declared unanimously nominated. Messrs. Albert Crane, of Ypsilanti, D. R. McLachlin, of Saline, and E. F. Gooding, of York, were appointed a district committee for the ensuing two years.

Mr. Whitman, who was called on for a speech, said he would commence active work about the 3d of October, when all would have an opportunity of hearing him, as he intended to make a thorough canvass of this county, speaking in every school district. In this district the republican majority is not so great but what we can elect our man. To obtain success we must have confidence and half the battle is won. From now on the democracy should spare no pains, but go to work with a will and success is sure and certain.

Messrs. C. R. Whitman and J. S. Henderson were asked to notify Mr. King of his nomination, who thanked the convention for the confidence reposed in him. Forepaugh's Great Show is to exhibit at Ann Arbor, Monday, Oct. 4.

From the Detroit Free Press, in which city the establishment recently exhibited, we clip the following: Forepaugh claims to exhibit a show superior in many things to Barnum's, and in all things its equal. He came here yesterday, and the verdict of his immense audience was, that his exhibition was equal in every department to Barnum's; and there are several features in Forepaugh's great show which Mr. Barnum, or any manager, cannot easily duplicate. One is, the FIRING A HUMAN BEING FROM A CANNON loaded with powder, as was witnessed in Forepaugh's Circus yesterday; another, is the high wire performance of Madame Zaila, who, blindfolded, crosses a lofty line and carries a man upon her shoulders and wheels a barrow along the giddy road. Still another feature, which neither Barnum nor any other manager can reproduce, is the appearance in Forepaugh's arena of a great herd of acting elephants, also a trained giraffe. The mammoth pavilions are all illuminated by the new and WONDERFUL ELECTRIC LIGHT, and all the machinery for producing it is exhibited afterwards as well as evenings to the audience.

The street parade was extensive and creditable. The herd of elephants, the baby camels, the cage of lions with their trainer among them, were the more noticeable of the many attractive features. The tents were well filled with animals and evening. The collection of wild animals is the largest and rarest that has been seen here. It includes a living hippopotamus, said to be the only specimen in this country; an immense rhinoceros, baby camels, trained elephants which do almost incredible feats in the ring, under the management of A. Forepaugh, Jr., who is a youth of 18; a giraffe which is driven in harness, etc.

There are thirty cages of animals. In one cage were three immense lions and a tiger fraternizing quietly enough. They presented a fine subject for an artist like Landseer. Two lion cubs looked as harmless as kittens. The animals all show signs of excellent treatment. The giraffe is a very delicate animal in this climate, and it is seldom that one survives the rigor of our winter. There are 320 horses in the concern, all sleek, handsome, well-fed animals. A stable tent is pitched at one side, where they are well provided for. There is also an eating tent; but the ring performers usually stop at hotels. There are 280 men connected with the show and the expenses average $1,700 per day. The cost of running such an immense establishment will be seen to be enormous. Mr. Forepaugh is with his show continually, and is one of the showmen and most experienced managers on the road. He owns all his railroad cars on which this establishment is transported.

The performance in the ring was very complete, and included some remarkable acrobatic feats. Frank Melville is probably without an equal, is an accomplished equestrian. No circus in the world ever had two more skillful riders than Wooda Cook and Mr. Ewers. The acrobatic acts of the great Herbert Brothers, Fred Leontine, Ajax, Ashton and Geyer, and the riding of Miss Annie Carroll, Mlle Tournour, Madame Ewens, Mlle Elvira and Boshell has never been equalled here. The dramatic exercises of Messrs. Hemmings, William Forepaugh and Leander; and the whimsicalities of the clowns, Burke, Seely and Walker, all added in their way to a two hours' amusement feast, which for novelty and variety has never been equaled here by any of the tented exhibitions we have thus far seen.

A stable tent is pitched at one side, where they are well provided for. There is also an eating tent; but the ring performers usually stop at hotels. There are 280 men connected with the show and the expenses average $1,700 per day. The cost of running such an immense establishment will be seen to be enormous. Mr. Forepaugh is with his show continually, and is one of the showmen and most experienced managers on the road. He owns all his railroad cars on which this establishment is transported.

The performance in the ring was very complete, and included some remarkable acrobatic feats. Frank Melville is probably without an equal, is an accomplished equestrian. No circus in the world ever had two more skillful riders than Wooda Cook and Mr. Ewers. The acrobatic acts of the great Herbert Brothers, Fred Leontine, Ajax, Ashton and Geyer, and the riding of Miss Annie Carroll, Mlle Tournour, Madame Ewens, Mlle Elvira and Boshell has never been equalled here. The dramatic exercises of Messrs. Hemmings, William Forepaugh and Leander; and the whimsicalities of the clowns, Burke, Seely and Walker, all added in their way to a two hours' amusement feast, which for novelty and variety has never been equaled here by any of the tented exhibitions we have thus far seen.

I am putting in an IMMENSE STOCK OF CLOTHING, HATS, CAPS and FURNISHING GOODS, and will be pleased to have all who are interested in the same to call and at least examine goods and prices. JOE T. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE. The most successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Road Proof Below. PRESEVERANCE WILL TELL.

Stoughton, Mass., March 16th, 1880. R. J. Kendall & Co., Gen'l. —In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with "Kendall's Spavin Cure," one very large one; don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no lumps to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here; but if it does for all what it has done for me its sale will be very great. Respectfully yours, G. L. PARKER.
