MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The steam-boiler in the large fruit-drying establishment of Charles Loose & Son, at Monroe, exploded with such terrific force, a few days since, as to utterly demolish all the buildings, killing three persons and seriously wounding about twenty others. The explosion is attributed to the carelessness of the engineer, who paid the penalty of his act with his life. Portions of the building were thrown a hundred feet into the air, while a large piece was thrown nearly across the river Raisin. A barn sixty feet distant and two valuable carriages contained in it, were completely destroyed. The loss to Loose & Son will exceed $3,000, besides the interruption of every profitable business.

A SPIKED GUN.

Another Republican Campaign Is Disposed Of—Interesting Correspondence.

The following correspondence has just been made public, and effectually disposes of a charge upon which the Republican party was arraigned for its violation of the Constitution, its encouragement of jobbery, and its squandering of the public money. The resolutions wound up by rejecting with the Fusion-Masters, and cataloguing the Republican party as a party of jobbery, and its squandering of the public money. CINCINNATI, Ohio, September 30, 1880. To General W. S. Hancock, Governor of Indiana, New York.

DEAR SIR: I enclose slips from the Gazette and the Commercial of this city, both of them newspapers of large circulation and influence in Ohio and Indiana, referring, as you will see, to the most important subject in our politics of rebel claims. These newspapers and Republican stump-speakers are constantly asserting that, if you, as President, were to accept the log of wood to the rebels, you would be guilty of a crime against the Constitution, and that you should be impeached.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

When Marshall Jewell heard the news from Maine he was overheard to mutter something like "I don't keep a continental for the State, but it's worse than rumatiz to sink so much good money in that bottomless bog."

The Republicans will carry Iowa by a large majority. Due notice having been given to the voters of a continental for the State, but it's worse than rumatiz to sink so much good money in that bottomless bog.

There were also overflow meetings in the immediate neighborhood which were attended by Sammie J. Randall, who spoke of the "Solid South" and said that it was a monstrous falsehood that the term implied antagonism to the North as charged by the Republicans.

THE RECORD OF REPUBLICANISM.

"Look at our record," say Republicans; "upon that we are willing to stand or fall." Well, let us look at this record. It will be twenty years on the 4th of March next since the Republican party came into power, and the first result of its supremacy was four years of civil war.

Whether Republican rule from 1861 to 1865 is worth the price paid for it at the outset, we leave the people to determine. The opinion prevails in this quarter that the country has been exceedingly dear if it has been redeemed by the Republican party.

There is this much to say about the projected count-out in Maine, to the accompaniment of which Mr. Blair is now devoting himself, that the Democracy can stand it if the Republicans can. The country will understand the fraud and it will give new point and pertinency to all that is said about the Presidential stool of 1876.

All bills against the county must be presented on or before the third day of the session. S. W. Bodwell, whose horse was latched in front of the fair grounds the night of Forepaugh's circus, had his harness cut in a number of places. A man in the employ of Forepaugh was badly injured Monday, by being stepped on by an elephant. He was taken to the hospital for repairs. Kearney did an immense business at his restaurant last week. He had plenty of help to wait upon the hungry, and all were served in short order. W. T. Lawrence, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, and the Hon. Wm. H. Walby, both of Adrian, were in the city yesterday. Wm. McOsler, a student in the university, was robbed of a gold watch and chain, a draft for $200, and $15 in currency last Monday evening. Two hundred and seventy-one dollars and seventy-seven cents, was the amount of orders allowed on the general fund by the council Tuesday evening. It seems the greenbackers are bound to keep up an organization in this county although their numbers have sadly diminished since the election two years ago. The principal exhibitors of cattle were Phelps Bros., Webster; J. F. Stabler, Ann Arbor; J. V. N. Gregory, Lima; T. Sutherland, Pittsfield; and Isaac Dunn, Ann Arbor. Chief Johnson collared a tramp on Main street Monday, and took from his person a vest belonging to John Sweet, which had been stolen from Kitredge's livery barn. The Monroe Democrat says: "Walby has done more for Adrian and the county surrounding, as a private citizen, than Willis has for this district, since he has been in congress." The house owned by W. J. Clark of Ypsilanti and occupied by W. T. Barber, with its contents was destroyed by fire last Thursday morning. Insurance on dwelling, $500. There was no insurance on the furniture. Among the new business enterprises in Chicago is the Duffy Tool Manufacturing company which owns seven acres of land on the Calumet river. The company manufacture their own steel, and will soon make it hot for the Pittsburg manufacturers. Evening News: All Washtenaw county could produce but two babies pretty enough to inspire the parents with the courage to put them on exhibition at the county fair baby show. One was the child of Joe T. Jacobs and the other that of J. S. Sherman. Mrs. J. S. Sherman still holds to the opinion that she was entitled to the first premium on her baby. She claims that of the four babies, she had the finest and best behaved baby on exhibition. The other mothers probably think their babies too were entitled to the first premium. The colored men of this city to the number of 51, met in secrete conclave at the court house, last Friday evening. It is rumored that the only business which came before the meeting was of a political nature, and that speeches were made by a number of prominent colored men. The gas went out all over the city last Wednesday night. Willets, who was speaking in the court-house, said he had been notified that the supply of gas was limited; but some thought for a time that it was the work of democrats. The trouble was at the works, where repairs were being made. Nelson Patrickerson, a colored man from the country, was found dead—drunk in the rear of Earl's building on Main street Monday evening, and was taken to jail by Constable Loomis and Policeman Millman. The next morning he had no money to pay his fine and the justice sent him down for 15 days. A paper recently contained the following item:—"A building in this city took fire in the roof of yesterday from spontaneous combustion. An examination into the cause was made, but nothing bearing on the subject was ascertained beyond the fact that the edifice was tenanted by thirty-eight lawyers." The steamer was given another trial Tuesday afternoon. It was placed near the bridge at the foot of Liberty street, and three two streams of water through 850 feet of hose, some 35 feet over the tops of the buildings on Main street. One man in particular who voted against an appropriation for a steamer, was delighted with the way it worked. A severe hail storm passed over the township of Saline in a south-westerly direction last week. Some of the stones measured seven inches in circumference, and the ground was covered with them. Apples were knocked from the trees, and branches measuring from one to two feet were broken off. Windows in a number of houses were also broken. The quarterly meeting of the Washtenaw county medical society, was held at the court-house Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Kapp, president of the society, in the chair. There was a full attendance of the members. The chief business was the reporting and discussion of cases. Dr. Batewell of Ypsilanti, read a very interesting paper on "Injuries of the spinal column." Evening News: Michigan still leads. Prof. Harrington from his eyrie at Ann Arbor last Thursday night found a comet, and it was no little two-cent comet either, with a tail three seconds or two minutes long; but it was a noble fellow dragging behind it a brush a full degree in length. "The glory of the Michigan observatory has not yet departed, and two comets a year is a good score. A German who claimed to be from New York, got into a little difficulty with a young man named Binder, which ended in a fight. The police afterwards attempted to arrest the stranger and he fought like a good fellow. A passing hack was hailed and it took the united efforts of half a dozen persons besides the police to get the belligerent into the hack when he was driven to jail. Only 16 inches of water in the public cistern near the Catholic church, and not a drop of water in the one at the corner of Jefferson and Fifth streets. The two cisterns are of 1,400 barrels capacity. We think it would be well for the committee on fire department, to have them fixed. If they will not hold water, and there is no way of getting water into them, it strikes us it would be a good idea to have them filled. The new steamer, W. B. Smith, was tested last Saturday afternoon, in the presence of a large crowd, who stood for an hour in the rain. First one stream was thrown on the court-house, and then two streams were thrown on. Protection engine then threw a stream of water to the clock dial, beating the steamer several feet. Another trial was had Monday afternoon. The steamer gives general satisfaction. E. B. Hall's coal team ran away Tuesday afternoon. At the corner of Main and Ann streets the wagon collided with the gas post which was broken off. The horses ran down Main street and turned west on Catherine street. The hind wheels of the wagon were thrown against a porch in front of C. B. Davison's house with such force as to partially demolish it. A little daughter of Mr. Davison was standing in the door, but she got out of the way just as the wagon struck the porch. John Keegan and Joseph Graves, awaiting trial on the charge of robbery and larceny, were taken to jail last Friday night and made their escape. But then there will soon be a change, and it remains to be seen whether the same carelessness will be exhibited under the in-coming sheriff. It is no excuse that the jail is a rickety old concern, and that prisoners can easily effect their escape. It is the business of the turnkey to spend a portion of his time in looking to the prisoners' safety. If this had been done during the past four years, the papers would not have had a dozen or more jail escapes to record. The democratic representative convention for the second district was held at the court-house Tuesday afternoon. E. Clancy of Northfield, was elected chairman and Nathan Sutton of Northfield, secretary. Geo. V. N. Ronwick of Salem, in a few well chosen words nominated J. B. Vanatta of Salem. P. McKearney of Ann Arbor seconded it, and on motion of P. Wall of Northfield, Mr. Vanatta was nominated by acclamation. Judge Harriman then introduced Mr. V., who thanked the convention for the high honor, and stated that if elected he would go to Lansing and look after the interests of the farming community and the interests of the university as well. The pioneer society, and many leading citizens not members of the society, for a long time have manifested considerable interest toward having the history of Washtenaw county compiled and published, but owing to one thing and another no definite steps have been taken until now. The arduous labor of gathering up, arranging and publishing our county's history has at last been undertaken by the publishing firm of Chas. C. Chapman & Co., of Chicago. The historical committee of the pioneer society has made all the necessary arrangements with these gentlemen to publish a history of the county, and they begin their work immediately. They employ a corps of experienced historians and we may expect a work which all can look upon with pride. Last Monday evening two law students the worse for liquor became involved in a quarrel in the Cook house, and were "bounced" from the office by the proprietor. When in front of Andrews' book store one of the students attempted to put his foot through a chromo, and passing to the next door they entered Holmes' drug store, where they thought to have their fight out. They smashed a large glass bottle, and just as the fight was becoming interesting, Chief Johnson put in an appearance, when the belligerents went for him. They tore his coat and unmentionables, but he managed to hold his own. Constable Sciall came to the rescue and the students were marched off to jail, where they remained overnight. Tuesday morning Justice Winegar let them go on paying $25. Each promised to behave better in the future, and if their names were only suppressed they would feel under many obligations to the justice and reporters. The Grangers. The annual meeting of the Washtenaw county grange, was held Tuesday afternoon on the supervisors' room in the court-house. W. P. Groves of Northfield, was elected chairman, and G. A. Peters of Sco, scribe. The committee on credentials reported the following delegates entitled to seats. Grange No. 476, H. G. Warren, J. B. Waterman, Mrs. Sarah Warren, Mrs. E. P. Waterman; No. 351, R. Johnson, W. D. Smith, Mrs. R. Johnson, Mrs. Bruen; No. 32, Chas. Alban, Mrs. Alban, J. M. Brining, Mrs. Brining, No. 651, Wm. Wood, C. M. Glen, P. W. Watts, Chas. Cooper; No. 329, W. P. Groves, Mrs. Groves, Geo. Sutton, John Brokaw; No. 56, P. D. Martin, R. Rice, N. Carpenter, H. C. Rice. Delegates were elected to the state grange which meets in Lansing on the 9th of November. A. Day, Northfield grange, and H. Baldwin of the Chelsea grange were elected delegates. Meeting of the H. and E. Club. Notwithstanding the rain last Saturday night a fair audience assembled in the court-house to hear the issues of the campaign discussed from a democratic standpoint. The meeting was held under the direction of the Hancock and English club, and at 8 o'clock was called to order by Vice-President Manly, who stated that owing to sickness, Geo. F. Robison, one of the speakers, was unable to be present, but that his place would be filled by Mr. John Enright, of Detroit. He then introduced Mr. E., who spoke for nearly an hour. In closing he paid a glowing tribute to Gen. Hancock. Said the speaker Hancock and English will be Tilden and Hendrick's successors to the presidency and vice-presidency of the United States. Hancock has shown to the world his ideas of true statesmanship. He holds that the civil law is paramount to military rule. There is just enough in his words to command the respect of every true democrat in the land. It is needless to say that republicans are alarmed at the popularity of Hancock, and against his brilliant soldier record, they are unable to say a word. The republican party have been so long in power, they think they have a divine right to rule. In the Hancock-Sherman correspondence they got more than they bargained for, and his recent letter on the payment of rebel claims, has caused republican stump speakers to change their line of argument. No man is better qualified to carry out the precepts of Thomas Jefferson, than the brave and gallant Hancock. Elected to the presidency, as he surely will be, he will give to the country a pure and economical administration. As the speaker was not notified until Saturday noon by Mr. Robison, that he wished him to fill his engagement, and as it was the first speech of Mr. Enright this campaign, that gentleman did exceedingly well, and his remarks were well received. Chas. R. Whitman was next introduced and made one of his usual interesting, logical and unanswerable speeches. "He could not understand why a republican who voted for a change in 1860 because as they claimed the administration was corrupt, when the expenses of conducting the affairs of the government were only $64,000,000, and now under republican rule in the year 1880, they have increased to the enormous amount of $190,000,000, could not consistently vote for Gen. Hancock. Sumner said in 1873 that the republican party was losing its identity, and instead of republicanism there will soon be left nothing but Grantism. The republican party is to-day the party of rebellion, and the people are waked up on this subject. As the business of the north depends on the prosperity of the south, thousands of republicans will vote for Hancock because the success of one section depends on the prosperity of the whole country. The election of Hancock will bind together the sectional wounds. He is a man who will bring prosperity and peace to our unhappy land. In this county the democrats have a majority, and we can elect every man on the ticket. An unbroken front can win. The question is shall we present such a front and sweep the entire democratic ticket into office on the second of next November?" Real Estate Transfers. Fair Notes. The entries exceeded those of last year. The display in floral hall was the best ever made. O. L. Warner, was one of the principal exhibitors of long wool sheep. C. A. Murray had the best pair of matched horses on the grounds. The receipt of the first two days of the fair did not foot up to quite $1,000. Miss Matie Cornell had on exhibition some very handsome pencil drawings. Mrs. Hoffster's baby Calumet, carried off the first premium in the baby show. Decoration paintings by Mrs. N. M. Schoff, attracted considerable attention. There were 265 entries in floral hall and in stock, poultry, horses, etc., some 1,200. John Vanatta took first prize for the best pair of matched mares three years old. Notwithstanding the weather was cold last week, a large number of persons attended the fair. Dr. Wilson exhibited two imported English Pug dogs, four years old. They were perfect little beauties. Messrs. Hubbard of Ypsilanti, and Smith of Ann Arbor, were the largest exhibitors of vegetables. James Toms, Mrs. P. Winegar, Miss Sarah Fletcher, of this city, and Mrs. Hall of Saline, made a fine display of flowers. Of the exhibitors of half thoroughbred stallions five years and over, R. L. Godfrey, of Pittsfield, carried off first premium. Eugene Laible of Ypsilanti, exhibited a case of handsome fowls, artistically arranged in wreaths, horse shoes, and a cradle. There were several beautiful specimens of needle work by Mrs. John N. Gott, Miss Ida Noble and Miss Hiseock, and lace work by Miss Andrews. In dry goods Bach & Abel, Mack & Schmidt, and Wines & Worden were the only exhibitors, and the display made by each of these firms was exceedingly good. "Abu Lincoln," the imported thoroughbred stallion from Kentucky, was one of the finest stallions exhibited. The horse is owned by J. Hoffstetter and took first premium.

Alvin Wilsey showed the Clough & Warren organs; James R. Sage, the Estey organ, manufactured by Taylor & Farley; D. F. Almindinger, organs of his own manufacture. A beautiful hair wreath with 20 varieties of flowers, and which required 10 months' labor to complete, was the work of Mrs. Everett B. Clark. The wreath was valued at $100. The fair was fully as good as the one held in Ypsilanti the previous week. The grounds here are much larger and of course several thousand people would not make the same show that a like number would on the Ypsilanti fair grounds. On entering floral hall from the south door the section at the right was occupied by Bach & Abel of this city, who had on exhibition fancy articles, ladies' cloaks, dress goods, silks, laces, ribbons, etc. etc. No display in the building attracted more attention as everything was tastefully arranged. It was a splendid advertisement for this firm, who have one of the largest establishments in the county. The total number of entries in the different departments was 1,321, as follows: Cattle, 50; horses, 235; sheep, 43; swine, 14; poultry, 110; agricultural implements 25; grain and seeds, 43; fruit, 375; vegetables, 117; butter, cheese, etc., 16; carriages, sleighs, etc.; 9; mechanical arts, 15; other mechanical arts, 3; steamboats, 4; flowers, 26; fancy needle and crocheted work, 55; fine arts, 14; miscellaneous, 25; ladies' department, 33; domestic manufactures, 54; boys' department, 6. LETTER NUMBER TWO. THE COUNTRY ABOUT BURT LAKE—THE FISHING ON THE LAKE. From a Lady Correspondent. Arriving at Smith's Landing, at the head of Indian River where it debouches from Burt Lake, we are struck with the picturesque view of the grounds and are shown by our kind friend, Captain Bockes, a beautiful spot where we proposed to locate our summer home, or at least so much of it as shall give us entire exemption from our annual distressing malady. Within sight stands a large commodious hotel which has lately been completed for the temporary sojourner, and presided over by the genial Bockes, and which looks out upon the handsomest sheet of water I ever saw. Here Mrs. Bockes presides as mine hostess, and all the wants of the inner man are bountifully supplied with the products of the lake and forest, beside the fruit and edibles that are daily brought from Potoski and Cheboygan. We sit down to a real dinner of venison and bass, and with other additions make a hearty meal. This over, we are shown to our camping ground on a table land having a gradual ascent from the lake where the tall pines and maples lift their heads, rivaling it, seems a nearer approach to the clouds. Here is a charming spot, amid a dense grove which the sun never shines upon, and over looking Burt Lake to the right and the river in front. At a convenient distance there emerges from the sandy soil an almost ice cold spring where we cool our parched lips and drink in the delicious beverage. "More healthy than ale, more inspiring than wine," God's free gift to man, from his store house divine. Here we pitch our tent and here we shall abide till a plentiful lack of our sub-treasury compels our departure. All hands set to work and soon our canvas home is prepared for this and future evenings lodgment, and we sup together under the grove of pine trees that surround our dwelling and plan for to-morrow's sport. The camp fire is lighted and the pestiferous mosquito disturbs not a little the pleasure of the hour and we lie to our camp and pennyroyal to prevent his forays on the exposed parts of our body. Now, gentle reader, when you come here to enjoy the luxuries of fishing, bathing, and the cool air that pervades this lovely spot, remember your mosquito netting, for camphor or pennyroyal or even that execrable coal oil don't stop their poisonous attacks. Everything of real need to the fisherman or tourist can be obtained close at hand. Within pistol shot stands a large, well furnished and commodious country store where everything required for camp life from a double mattress to a fish hook, can be procured. In the rear of the store is the Indian River post-office, where our mail matter is handed to us three times a week by the courteous and accommodating Mr. Hayden, who is ever ready to wait upon the anxious enquirer for letters from home. To the fisherman, hunter, and pleasureist, the first thing to be possessed of is a boat; and here Mr. Thos. Dagwell, the boat builder, late of Put-in-Bay, is always prepared to furnish one at short notice and at reasonable rates. The fairy clinker, the majestic yacht and the easy steamer of his own handiwork are here and ready at a moment's notice to do the bidding of their occupant. Sailing, rowing, or steaming is within the reach of all; and anyone coming here need not feel any dissatisfied about these aquatic indiscretions for his use and comfort, for here they are of almost every conceivable fish and pattern from Mr. Dagwell's boat building establishment, which also bait of all kinds can be procured of his son at a slight compensation; he will also, show strangers the most successful fishing grounds. Quantities of bass, pickerel, perch, and sturdy muskellonge are daily caught by the expert angler whether in the river or deep banks of the lake. Our almost daily catch of these kind of fish are from fifteen to thirty pounds a day during the fishing hours. In fact, after a few days remunerative sport we soon become surfeited, and sigh for other streams to cast our line and other varieties of the finny tribe to capture. A jubilee of fishers is to be held at the hotel next week and arrangements are to be made for a journey to Pigeon River, about twenty miles distant, where the gamey greying finds his haunts; and we shall attend, and if agreeable, make one of the party. Another expedition is talked of by some gentlemen from Ohio to take in the trip to Mackinac and from there go to Carp River in the Upper Peninsula, to try the speckled beauties, under the guidance of Captain Dave Smith, of the internal lake transit, and the king of fishers about this locality. We will tell you all about the greytling in our next letter. HAT FEVERITE. Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic prevents Malaria. Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic cures Dyspepsia.
