OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Hydrophobia's Approaches. A LATE Providence (R. I.) special to the New York Sun says: Last Monday a little son of James Molyneux of this city was taken down with symptoms of hydrophobia.

The child is nine years old, and had been bitten, as nearly as his parents could learn, some three weeks before by a cur on the street. All of the more violent symptoms of hydrophobia last Tuesday the disease was clearly defined. The child is now in a very bad way, and his convulsions produced the choking noise, sometimes likened to the snuffing of a dog, and there was the attendant foaming at the mouth. While his father and mother were tending him he bit them both, and it being impossible to care for him at home he was sent to the Rhode Island Hospital.

Last evening Mrs. Molyneux, the mother, without the slightest pretension excepting a feeling of lassitude, suddenly convulsed. She was sitting at the time with some friends at her residence on ship street. The spasms became more violent, foaming at the mouth and other symptoms that had been noted in the boy were observed. It was impossible for the friends to control her. They saw and heard her at the moment she was seized, and that this action caused them to remember that she had been bitten by the little boy Harry. Mr. Molyneux was away, and the public authorities, in his absence, immediately entered the room and approached the bed on which Mrs. Molyneux was lying. She seemed to have gone there in a moment of delirium, but at the moment she saw the officer she sprang at him. The struggle for a few minutes had a terrible effect. He could have mastered the woman easily, but he feared that in the struggle that would be necessary she might bite him. He seized the bedclothes and threw them in a great bundle around his arms, and thus protected himself. He also mounted for help, and shortly three officers arrived. Mrs. Molyneux's house being but a short distance from the Rhode Island Hospital, the bedclothes to protect himself, took to the bed, and threw the blankets quickly over her head, and she was taken to the hospital.

If it ain't too late we desire to put on record our deliberate conviction that they did not only "take the cake" as it were, but, in fact, captured the whole bakery.

"I expected to be postmaster under Hancock as much as could be, but oh! how he was defeated! (sad) sad! And now when I lay me down to sleep I imagine I am running the Ann Arbor postoffice. But alas! it is only a dream. Democrats, pity me." Of course we pity you, but we would advise you to go to work. Hang up your harp on the postoffice question, for it can never be.

As a student named Phipps was passing the Buchen block with two young ladies Saturday evening, three loafers jumped from an alley and attacked Phipps. He managed to give one of them a black eye, and during the fracas Phipps lost his seal skin cap. He informed the police sometime after the occurrence, who, on going to the depot, learned that three men had purchased tickets for Grand Rapids. Policeman Millman notified the Jackson and Grand Rapids authorities by telegram to be on the look out, and to arrest the men.

The New York World says the latest thing in dances is called "raquet," and is neither a waltz nor a polka, though the best parts of both are preserved. The music strikes up with a crash, as though a new volcano had broken out, and the girl will cling tightly, as though frightened, if she understands the dance, and the young man will reassure her by a gentle pressure, if he understands the dance or knows anything at all. At the second crash they dodge, as though some one had thrown a blacksmith shop at them, and they start in. They begin by imitating the struggle for life, representing a person who is drowning, but at each crash of the cymbals and bass drum they dodge and scoot to one side, then dart back again, jam each other sideways, and then as the crashes of music become more terrific and deafening they try to drive each other through the floor by main strength, get desperate, and claw and tear and pull, and all at once they go raving mad with hydrophobia and delirium tremens, and gnash their teeth and rave and suffer the most terrible agony—and all is over. It is a short dance, as the design is amusement and not murder. But short as it is, it is said to be very sweet. We should think so, and wonder if Irish & Minnis of the dancing academy are on to it.

Our County History.

A present year by the pioneer society to engage some person or persons to compile and publish the history of Washtenaw county. This committee is known as the historical committee and is composed of three of the best citizens of the county, men who are thoroughly interested in preserving the history of the lives and acts of the pioneers of the county; they are also men of experience, of literary taste, and excellent judgment. For several months they labored earnestly to engage with competent and responsible parties to carry out the enterprise. They conferred with several firms but not until Sept. 30, 1880, did they make permanent arrangements for the publication of this county's history. Upon that date the committee, after a careful examination of the plan of the historical work of Chas. C. Chapman and Co., Chicago, made a contract with them to compile and publish the history of Washtenaw county.

Below we give the contract made by the committee with Messrs. Chapman & Co.

ANN ARBOR, Sept. 30, 1880, We, the undersigned, historical committee of the pioneer society of Washtenaw county, having examined the plan of historical publications adopted by Chas. C. Chapman & Co., of Chicago, Ill., hereby give our official approval of the same, and recommend them to the pioneers and residents of this county as worthy of their confidence and patronage as compilers and publishers of their history.

We do also, as instructed by resolution of said society, give them access to the records and archives of the society in the hands and under the supervision of its secretary.

Report of President Frieze.

The annual report of President Frieze was submitted to the board of regents last week and was an unusually interesting and able document, embodying a statement of the work done in all the departments during the past year, and advocating certain changes and improvements of an important nature.

As President Frieze remarked, it would doubtless have been extremely gratifying to President Angell to have presented in person the report for the year, which has been by far the most prosperous in the history of the university.

The change in the faculties during the year were only few, and consisted of the appointment of ex-Gov. Felch as Tappan professor of law, the resignation of Dr. H. F. Lyster, who was appointed to take Dr. Palmer's place while the latter was absent in Europe, but who resigned before the opening of the semester, and the temporary appointment of Prof. G. S. Morris to the chair of modern languages during the absence of Prof. Walter for the first semester.

Four hundred and ten degrees on examination and four honorary degrees were conferred during the year as follows: Pharmaceutical chemistry, 24; Mining Engineer, 3; Civil Engineer, 4; Bachelor of Letters, 3; of Science, 4; of Philosophy, 16; of Arts, 29; Master of Philosophy, 2; of Arts, 7; Doctor of Philosophy, 1; of Medicine (department of medicine and surgery), 91; Bachelor of Law, 175; Doctor of Medicine (homeopathic), 19; Doctor of Dental Surgery, 34; total, 410. Honorary—Master of Arts, 2; Doctor of Philosophy, 1; Doctors of Laws, 1; total, 4.

The total number of students was 1,430, as follows: Literary, 448; medicine and surgery, 353; law, 395; pharmacy, 81; homeopathic, 78; and dental surgery, 83; the total being 54 larger than that of last year.

Dr. Frieze discusses at length the question of the relative standing in the schools and the university of the classics and science, and shows conclusively that the complaint sometimes made that too much time is spent on the former, is unfounded. Of the 16 years which he estimates to be the average time spent by a Michigan boy or girl, in passing through the primary school, the high school and the university, the candidate for the degree of B. S., girls two per cent of that time to Latin, and none to Greek; the candidate for B. L., Latin, give ten per cent, or a little over a year and a half in six years, to Latin; the candidate for B. L. (English) no time whatever to Latin or Greek, and the candidate for B. A. gives 22 per cent or a little more than three years in sixteen to classical studies, with the privilege of adding more of this kind of study if he prefers.

President Frieze refers with satisfaction to the diploma system as binding together the schools of the State and the university and making the former the part of an actual organism, and our State system no longer exists merely on paper. There are now 10 "diploma" schools.

He also advocates the advancement of the library department from the condition, it now occupies in common with the other American colleges, (of a German gymnasium or French lycee) to that of a genuine university department of letters and philosophy. Our faculty should cease as soon as possible to expend all their time and strength on that which ought to be the work of the high school, thus compelling our more ambitious students to resort to foreign countries to complete their education.

In the attendance of women there was a slight increase over that of the previous year, while the proportion to the whole number of students was less. There were in the literary department, 81; department of medicine and surgery, 43; law, 1; homeopathic college, 8; school of pharmacy, 2; dental college, 2; total, 138. Fifty-nine of the literary department were candidates for degrees as follows: Bachelor of letters, 7; of science, 3; of letters (Latin), 21; of arts, 28. There were twenty-two pursuing special studies.

Of the 1,430 students in attendance, 643 were from Michigan, and of this number 251 were in the literary department. Thirty-five of the States were represented, and there are also students from England, Prussia, Japan, Burma, Hawaii, the Bermudas, and the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick. The fees for matriculation and other purposes received from the 787 students, outside of the State, amounted to about $30,000.

The attendance in all the professional schools was increased except in that of the law, which remained about the same and the work of the various departments was in every way satisfactory. Medical education has been much advanced by means of the amphitheatres and hospitals; the appointment of ex-Gov. Felch in the law department has added greatly to its efficiency, especially by affording junior students an opportunity for daily class recitations. The school of pharmacy has secured a position at least as high as that of the best schools in the country. The dental school is steadily growing and its good service to the important profession which it represents is already widely appreciated.

The pressing need of a new library building is forcibly urged, and the importance of a gymnasium, to the physical education of our students is presented in a manner which will be gratifying to the latter.

Almost Young Again.

My mother was afflicted with a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system; head ache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her a good thing. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with good effect, and she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family.—A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal.

Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of charge, or a regular size for $1. A MORAL VICTORY.

Rev. Dr. Carroll had always placed great stress upon the moral victories; not judging people by what they were at the present time...

But his position was all in vain with Dr. Carroll. He was a man of large person, large heart and brain...

Along through the pasture they hastened, coming out upon the top of this bank just above the camp...

But this thought was banished from his mind, for there at his very feet stood his son in altercation with the minister...

"No, sir; Hugh didn't fall in the road, but that man did, and then Hugh and Mr. Gifford came part way home with us and then went back again..."

Dr. Carroll was dumfounded. His son, he said, had been found in a brutal brawl; and on Sunday, too, he had been in the direction in which he would be likely to find them...

As they hurried across lots to reach the spot, he said, some half mile from the village, the minister's mind was in a tumult...

There's their camp," said his companion, "as if we turn to the left and go across the pasture, we'll come to the right place."

Dr. Carroll could see the canvas tents some fifty rods away, close by the edge of the ice-covered pond.

"I am Mr. Carroll, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this town, and this is my son, Hugh, who has been found in a disgraceful fight."

"I'll protect myself," answered young Carroll, taking off his coat and hat, and looking up at the minister...
