For three long hours he sought the boon in vain, and when at last it came to him, and his tired eyes closed, how could he but dream of those other eyes just awakening in the far off home, which somehow to-night had so persistently haunted his thoughts?

In the little cottage all was bustle, for Mrs. Stanley had determined to give her boy a surprise, and the train for London started very early.

it seemed a pity to touch it with the scissors, and she would seem more natural like to Frank in her stuff dress. How often had she pictured him in his lonely home. She hoped he might be out when she arrived, that she might take off her bonnet, and, slipping on her white cap, let him find her, with her knitting in hand, quietly sitting by the fireside, waiting his return. All the way in the train, when at last she had got started on her journey, she could hardly keep her happy thoughts to herself, and more than one glanced at the smiling old face, with something tugging at their heartstrings, which almost brought moisture into their eyes.

It was quite nightfall when the city was reached. There had been some slight delay on road, and the old lady felt a sinking at

RAIN AND SNOW, BUT A VAST CROWD OF VISITORS.

The ceremonies attending the inauguration of President Garfield and Vice President Arthur, were carried out according to programme at Washington, on Friday. A terrible storm of rain and snow prevailed the night before and during the early morning, but it is estimated that 50,000 strangers witnessed the inauguration notwithstanding the state of the weather.

To the south the question is of supreme implain'y heard by every one upon the stand, and for a long distance on every hand. Its delivery occupied 45 minutes.

THE ADDRESS.

To the south the question is of supreme impertance. Further esponsibility for the existence of slavery did not rest upon the court alone. The nation itself is responsible for the extension of suffrage, and is under special obligations to and in removing the linteracy which it has added to the voting population. which it has added to the voting population. For north and south alike here is but one remedy. All the constitutional power of the nation and of the states, and all the volunteer forces of the people should be summoned to meet this danger by the saving influence of universal education. It is the high privilege and sacred duty of those now living to educate their succe sors, and fit them by intelligence and virtue for the inheritance which awaits them. In this beneacent work sections, and them. In this beneficent work sections tinies of the republic.

AN APPEAL FOR UNION. My countrymen, we do not now differ in our generations; and hence our children will not be divided in their opinions concerning our controversies. They will surely bless their fathers and their fathers' God that the Union was preserved, that slavery was overthrown and that both races were made equal be-fore the law. We may hasten or we may re-tard, but we cannot prevent the final reconcil-iation. Is it net possible for us now to make a truce with time by anticipating and accept-ing its inevitable verdict? Enterprises of the highest importance to our moral and material all our people, leaving behind them the battle-fields of dead issues, move forward in the strength of liberty and restore the Union to grander victories of peace.

Under this constitution, the boundaries of freedom have been enlarged, the feundations of order and peace have been strengthened, and the growth in all the better elements of national life has vindicated the wisdom of the founders, and given new hope to their descendants. Under this constitution our people long ago made themselves safe against danger from without and secured for their mariners and flag quality of rights on all the seas. Under this constitution 25 states have been added to the official, with constitutions and laws framed and enforced by their own citizens to secure the manifold blessings of local self-government. The chief duty of the national government in connection with the currency of the country is to coin and declare its value. Grave doubts have been entertained whether congress is authorized by the constitution to make any form of paper money legal tender. The worth of the present issue of United States notes has been sustained. Such paper should depend for its values ad currency upon its convenience in use and its prompt redemption in coin at the will of the holder, and not upon its compulsory circulation. These notes are not money, but promises to pay money. If the holders demand it, the promise should be 1 pt.

AGRICULTURE AND MANUFACTURES. The interests of agriculture deserve more attention from the government than they have yet received. The farms of the United States afford homes and employment for more than one-half our crople, and furnish much the largest part of all our exports. As the government lights our coasts for the protection of mariners and the benefit of comme.ce, so it should give to the tillers of the soft the lights of practical science and experience.

If successfully accomplished the will secure a large decrease in the annual interest payment of the nation, and I earnestly recommend, if the bill before you shall fail, that another measure for this purpope shall be adopted before the present congress adjourns. While in my opinion it would be wise to authorize the secretary of the treasury in his distortion to offer to the public bonds bearing 3½ per cent. interest in aid of refunding, I should not deem it my duty to interpose my constitutional objection to the passage of the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the contain of the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not contain, in its fifth the present bill, if it did not conta

The withdrawal and the enforced winding up of banks in con-sequence, would inevitably bring serious em-barassments and disasters to the business of the country. Banks of issue are essential in-struments of modern commerce. If we pres-ent efficient and admirable system of car ring is broken down it will inevitably be followed by a recurrence to other and inferior methods of banking. Any measure looking to such a result will be a disturbing element in our 5-nance system. It will destroy confidence and surely check the growing prosperity of the country. Believing that the measure for refunding the national debt is not necessarily connected with the potional banking law and onnected with the rational banking law, and harm, I herewith return the bill to the hous of representatives for that further considera tion which is provided for in the constitution RUTHERFORD B. The Monroe Democrat, in commenting on the torthcoming judicial district convention says, that every high minded, erudite lawyer is not fitted for the bench is a fact so well ascertained as to justify apprehension of the success of any fresh incumbent, but Judge Morris has demonstrated even beyond the most extravagant anticipations of his friends, that the

He has brought to the bench a fine education, supplemented by a life of rich experience with human nature, a character to which the most uncompromising integrity has been habitual, and a legal mind clearly cut, balanced, and incisive.

Within his term of office, he has had some of the most important cases which have ever arisen in the counties of Monroe, Washtenaw, Lenawce and Hillsdale, and with a success which has challenged the favorable comment of both lawyer and layman, irrespective of political preferences, and in fact we have yet to hear a dissenting voice from the universal expression of satisfaction at his equable administration of justice to every one, and his distinguished courtesy to all.

Business has been transacted with such dispatch and fidelity that the counties have been saved hundreds of dollars at every term of court, and the unfailing presence of Judge Morris in his seat at every consecutive term of his court, and his there remaining until every available case was disposed of, we instance as a

On behalf of the county agricultural society, J. D. Baldwin offered a resolution that this society make the fruit ex. hibit for said society at their next annual fair. The proposition was friendly discussed and accepted. On motion of J. J. Parsball, a committee of five were appointed to confer with the officers of the agricultural society to fix terms under which the pomological society shall condact the exhibition. The following gentlemen were selected as the committee: J. J. Parshall, J. D. Baldwin, C. C. Clark, Prof. E. Baur and Jacob Ganzhorn.

J. D. Baldwin, from the committee on preserving fruits, said that as the president, who is chairman of that committee, was not present, a report on the same could not be made at this meeting and the matter would have to stand over. Miss Sarah Fletcher was then called upon to address the meeting on the jellies she had made and on the display. Miss Fletcher said that she produced eleven 1-2 pint cups of jelly from a peck of the Yellow Beliflower apples, to which she used 3 pounds of sugar. The different cups of jelly varied in color, although she said all were from the same apples and made alike; granulated and what is Yellow Bellflower apples, to which she known as a coffee sugar were used, and this, she thought, would account for the difference in color. The Bridgeport, Connecticut, Daily Standard of January 11th, contained the following very complimentary notice to ture in Bridgeport: "The lecture of the evening, as previously announced, was delivered by Mr. I. L. Whitmyer on "The Liquor Traffic in the Light of Political Science," and was a practical and scientific statement of the moral effects of the uses and sale of alcohol as a beverage, not only upon the individual, but the community, the state, and the nationshowing that the liquor traffic was an in vasion of the rights of the many by the usurpation of the few, and a most flagrant outrage upon society. The lecture throughout was thorough and scholarly, and worthy of a more extended hearing. An exchange says there are but few iving actresses more thoroughly deserving of a high position in the profession than Miss Davenport. Of artistic parentage and possessed of a fine figure and a good voice, and a face at once beautiful and capable of the most varied expressions, she was richly endowed with all natural advantages. But throughout her whole career she has never been satisfied torely upon her gifts she has studied with unremitting diligence, and conscieniously paid the closest attention to the most minute details. Half the actresses of to-day, in selecting their dresses are sufficiently pleased if they are called handsome, and if, after consultation with their dressmakers, they are convinced that they are made in the prevailing mode. With Miss Davenport, upon the contrary the choice of a costume is, as it should be, a matter of graver importance; in place of trusting to the caprices of a dresmaker, she examines old and new illustrations and time-honored engravings, in order that she may adapt herself in every point to the character she is about to personate, or the person of history she is to illustrate, Thus in every drama in which she appears there is a singular appropriateness ineverynatural abilities and habits of painstaking thus so happily allied, have been followed with their well merited fruits.

Habits of Insects

Sir John Lubbock, president of the British Entomological society, called attention the other day in his annual address to the researches of M. Fabre on the habits of insects. Among other things M. Fabre has continued his curious observations on the solitary wasps. He describes the singular state of par alysis into which they throw their vic tims, which, if killed, would decay, and if buried alive would, in their struggles, almost infallibly destroy the egg or young larva of the wa. p. The wasp, however, stings them in such a manner as to pierce the ganglia and thus with out killing them, almost deprives them of all power of movement. The following positions, as general rules, in reference to this matter, are fully sustained in law. 1. In the school room, the teacher has the exclusive control and supervision of his pupils, subject only to such regulations and directions as may be prescribed or given by the school board. 2. The conduct of the pupils on any part of the premises connected with the school-house or in the immediate vicinity of the same (the pupils being thus are accessible to every one, and can virtually under the care and oversight of the teacher), whether within the regular school nours or before or after them, is properly cognizable by the ed a newspaper called the Erie Disteacher. In this unhappy state the Professor remained until he was released by a friendly policeman, who utterly rejected the theory that electricity had anything to do with the affair, and brutally hinted that the Professor had buttoned his ulster around the lamp-post while laboring under a temporary absence of mind induced by beer. The story was told solely with a view to do good, since it was supposed that it might save other German Professors in other cities from a like calamity. That it was strictly true need hardly be asserted here. The evidences of its truth, among which may be ranked the undoubted fact that Milwaukee exists and contains German Professors. lamp-posts, beer, and ulster overcoats scarcely fail to carry conviction to the

> A CAT STORY .- It is about time to ring down the curtain on cat stories, but before the bell sounds there is just time for a good one. A man now living in Kingston emigrated to the West many years ago and bought a house which had stood unoccupied for a considerable time. The first night he heard sounds which convinced him that there were rats in the cellar, and selves there. Having eaten a quarter of beef down to the bone, they were playing tag among shelves and boxes. He offered to introduce the family cat but she declined to be presented. The next day she was missing and the family supposed they had lost her; but on the fourth day a familiar "meow" was heard, and there was tabby at the head of a column of three dozen cats in light marching order, their backs up and their tails rampant, The front door was opened and the detachment moved down the cellar stairs in good order. The next morning a flour barrel full of dead rats was buried behind the house and the cats returned to their homes.

Among the claims presented by a farmer to the Rhode Island Legislature, for damages done on his premises by a militia regiment was one of $50 for "use of house while taken care of sick soldiers & attention & so." This item is found to have been based on the fact that an indisposed soldier sat on his piazza from 10 A. M. until 4 P. A., and all the damage was in the terrible men-
