THE ROUND OF LIFE.
Two children down by the shining strand,
With eyes as blue as the summer sea;
While the sinking sun is all the land
With the glow of a golden fire,
Lamenting alit at the sea-mew's cry,
Gazing with joy on its snowy breast,
Till the first star looks from the evening west,
And the amber bars stretch over the west.

A soft green dell by the breezy shore,
A sailor lad and a sailor fair,
Holding hands while the tale of yore
Is borne again on the listening air;
Love alone the heart can fill,
And the dear old tale that has been told
In the days gone by, is spoken still.

A trim-built home on a sheltered bay;
A wife looking out on the glistening sea;
And prattling imp beneath the old root-tree,
By the open door in the falling night;

A weeping home and a warm embrace
From the love of his youth and his children bright.

A golden light from the western sky;
His wife by his side, with her silver hair,
Sweet on the blythe gleaning falls,
In the glow of the morning star;

But dearest to them are the jasper walls,
And the golden streets of the Land afar.

An aged man in an old arm-chair;
A golden light from the western sky;

His wife by his side, with her silver hair,
Sweet on the blythe gleaning falls,

With the glow of the amber west;

Two young still on their peaceful rest;

The fisherman's boats going out with the tide

In the fiery glow of the amber west.

The night that follows the morning clear,
A rainbow bridging our darkened skies,
Are the round of our lives from year to year.

—Chamber's Journal.

'You have friends in Hazlewood, I presume?' ventured Mrs. Green. 'I am sure that I hope you may find rest and recuperation there. It is a lovely place.'

'So I perceive,' said Sue. 'I can ask for the place for myself.'

'You? You're too young, too young, too young!'

'I can do all that you mentioned.'

'Can you cook? Cook, I mean; not burn and waste, and spoil things generally?'

'With an assurance utterly convincing. Sue answered, 'I can cook.'

'Where did you come from? What sort of recommendations have you? How old are you? Can you make a strawberry short-cake as my mother used to make? Can you?'

'I can,' said Sue. 'I have had a long talk with Mr. Kirke, and gained the grateful affection of his mother by one or two of the little attentions which old people are so quick to notice and appreciate. Shut out as she was by her infirmity from social life, the old lady was touched by the thoughtful kindness that prompted Sue to explain to her, by clear slow speech and easy, expressive signs, who she was, and what she had come among them to do.'

'Mr. Kirke, you ask too many questions at once. If you will permit me to try, I think I can suit you, and if I do that, it is nothing to you where I come from who I've cooked for, nor how old I am. The question about the short-cake is the only one to the point, and that's the one I ask permission to answer. Shall I stay?'

'Sensible young person. Stay? Of course you'll stay. That's what you came for, isn't it? Of course you'll stay. In you can find the servant girl I think it might be a good thing. She does occasionally do some little service that reminds you of her existence.'

'Sue said, 'If you'd have a little more air and sunlight in this room you'd feel better, and that's all I ask.'

'Young people are not specially grateful for smiles, or tender words or acts that are young, the world is before them; but to the old, those who feel themselves growing daily less and less necessary to those about them, every pleasant attention or tenderness is doubly prized.'

'Sue knew this. And as for Kitty, the events of the afternoon had inspired her with a respectful admiration for Sue, that was little short of reverence.'

'Talking with Mr. Kirke, Sue said, 'I suppose that it would be the correct thing to tell you a little about myself, who am I, and where I came from.'

'Do just as you please—the fact that you are here is the most important one, though, to tell you the truth. Miss Hamilton, I think—'

'And what?'

'A little better-natured.'

'If you came here expecting to find a saintly old man, who will be paternal and patient, and then die and leave you a fortune, you've come to the wrong place—this isn't the house. I don't think, in fact, that the party lives in this neighborhood. What I want is what I have said. And I'll tell you that I'm exacting, and impatient, and cross. So well have that understood.'

'For a week, Sue rose drew off her gloves, laid off her hat, and proceeded to open the blinds a little. The sunlight revealed a very tidy room.'

'I think,' said Sue, 'the first thing I do will be to put this room in better order. I don't blame you at all for being impatient and cross in such a looking room as this.'

'Who said I was impatient and cross?'

'Oh, no—one—that is, no one to mention—only, I would if I were you.'

'She went out in pursuit of the maid-of-all-work, whom she found reading a dime novel in the kitchen.'

'I understand?'

'Not being an absolute idiot, I understand.'

'By the way, Mr. Kirke, she continued, 'now that you know of my great musical gifts, if you ever feel like singing, Miss Hamilton; and since I do, I'll sing for you and excite the unresisted spirit for you.'

'It's Sue! uncle,' said the young woman.

'It's Tom! Mr. Kirke,' said the young woman.

'Yes, of course, Tom and Sue; I know that.'

'My darling Sue, uncle, whom I lost so long ago.'

'Tom, Tom, Mr. Kirke,' said Sue.

'All very fine,' said Mr. Kirke.

'What's all this—what's all this? cried Mr. Kirke. 'What do you mean, young man, by such conduct? What do you mean, young woman, by such freedom?'

'It's Sue! uncle,' said the young woman.

'It's Tom! Mr. Kirke,' said the young woman.

'Yes, of course, Tom and Sue; I know that.'

'My darling Sue, uncle, whom I lost so long ago.'

'Tom, Tom, Mr. Kirke,' said Sue.

'All very fine,' said Mr. Kirke.

'What's all this—what's all this? cried Mr. Kirke. 'What do you mean, young man, by such conduct? What do you mean, young woman, by such freedom?'

'It's Sue! uncle,' said the young woman.

ANN ARBOR DEMOCRAT.

JOHN L. BURLEIGH, Editor.

THURSDAY MORNING... November 10, 1881.

Entered as Second Class matter in the Post Office at Ann Arbor, Mich.

It is intimated that Judge Folger will only remain secretary of the treasury until December when Roscoe Conkling will be given the office.

There was splitting in Detroit Tuesday. The republicans elected city officers, but Miner, democrat, with shame it is said, was re-elected police justice. Miner, it will be remembered, was re-nominated by the humbler element that controlled the democratic city convention, and was supported by the humbler element in both parties, to whom he owes his election.

Stephen Fairchild is in Toledo sick.

Mrs. Ralph Whiting is attending a sick sister in Ypsilanti.

Eugene Smith and Douglas Beaham will be tried in the circuit court to-day.

Mrs. R. Low and Miss Loew, of Detroit, are the guests of Mrs. August Hutzell.

J. Haller & Son will move into their new store, No. 45 South Main street, today, sure.

The new building of the Keek manufacturing company will soon be ready for occupancy.

Rev. Dr. Steele will lecture next Sunday evening on "The young man's first night from home."

Mr. McCann, general agent of the Michigan aid association, made us a pleasant call yesterday.

The freight business of the T. A. A. & G. T. R. R. is increasing so rapidly that another train will probably be put on.

A German society has been organized in this city for the purpose of studying German literature, and having a social time.

E. Bycraft, who has lost considerable wood from his woodard of late, caught a woman walking off with some Saturday night.

J. E. Fardon, graduate literary department, class of '73, is dangerously ill. His father, mother and sister are with him in Detroit.

Next Tuesday J. Sprague will go to Detroit to count the votes of the grand officers elect, of the I. O. O. F. the coming year.

The homoeopathic students last evening paid their respects to Prof. Wilson at his residence, it being the anniversary of his birth day.

E. D. Galloway who graduated from the university, lit. class of '73, now engaged in the lumber business in Big Rapids, is in the city.

Last Thursday C. Bliss & Son received an order for a gold watch from a former member of the law department who is living in New Mexico.

The side shoot between members of the Ann Arbor Schutzenbund, which was postponed on account of the weather, will take place Thanksgiving day.

Monday night several chests of tools belonging to the workmen on Prof. Frieze's new house were broken open, and the most valuable of the contents carried off.

The homoeopathic hospital is so full that one patient was turned away Tuesday night, and another had to sleep on a stretcher. Two more patients are waiting to get into the hospital.

Geo. W. Long, a graduate of the medical department, class of '81, died at his home in Dearborn recently of consumption. Mr. Long will be remembered as being the violinist for the last two seasons in the opera house orchestra.

The school board Tuesday evening allowed a number of bills. The matter of changing text books was referred back to the committee on teachers and text books. There was no election of trustees to fill vacancy, on account of there barely being a quorum present.

Wm. A. Hatch, Jr., the popular dry goods clerk, has been in one store 17 years, the 25th of last Oct. He is 14 years with C. H. Miller, and C. H. Miller & Son, 18 months with J. N. Gott, and the same length of time with D. F. Schaefer. Will has a happy faculty of selling goods, and is just at home behind the counter.

A pantomime entertainment under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Hamilton, assisted by the following ladies and gentlemen, will be given in the parlors of the Presbyterian-church to-morrow evening: Miss Steele and Miss Gregory, of this city, Miss Newell, neice of governor Newell of the Indian territory, Messrs. Higby, Rosecrans, and others. The pantomime is to be read by Joel W. Hamilton, a well known lawyer of this city.

In accordance with the recommendation of the faculty of the department of medicine and surgery, the degree of M. D. was conferred upon Geo. W. Peckham.

The attention of the board Wednesday evening was occupied in hearing the testimony of C. Howard Skeels, formerly a student in the homoeopathic college. He stated that he entered the college January 6, 1880; that he severed his connection with the school April 16 following. He received a certificate of attendance from Prof. Franklin which was for 20 weeks, when in reality he had attended only 18 weeks. His testimony was the same as given in his affidavit, which has been published in the papers. He charges Dr. Franklin with giving him a time certificate, etc.

The following was proposed:

WHEREAS, It is represented to this board by council for Dr. E. C. Franklin that, on account of imperative engagements in court, he cannot proceed with the further investigation of the charges affecting Dr. Franklin at this time; and

Resolved, That when this board adjourns to meet Tuesday evening, December 6, 1881, at 7:30 p. m.; and that the special order for that meeting be the completion of the investigation of the charges affecting Dr. Franklin at this time;

The board of auditors was instructed to have the insurance renewed which may expire before January 1, 1882.

The action of the steward in employing Miss Lucy H. Chapin to assist him in his office was endorsed by the board.

A communication was presented by ex-Regent Climie, asking that this bill for $325 previous to his appointment as superintendent be allowed. Referred to the committee on buildings and grounds and finance committee.

One thousand dollars was appropriated for the equipment of the engineering department or new mechanical buildings.

The committee on buildings and grounds was instructed to have a diagram of the campus made, showing the location of gas, sewer and water pipes.

On motion of Regent E. C. Walker, the building committee and secretary Bennett were instructed to repair and refit the president's house at a cost not to exceed $1,000, the repairs to be made in accordance with the wishes of President Angell, the same to be ascertained by correspondence with the latter. Nothing has been done to the building for many years and some repairs are found to be very necessary. When it is learned what changes President Angell desires, it is proposed to have them made, if possible before his return.

Stephen Fairchild is in Toledo sick.

Mrs. Ralph Whiting is attending a sick sister in Ypsilanti.

Eugene Smith and Douglas Beaham will be tried in the circuit court to-day.

Mrs. R. Low and Miss Loew, of Detroit, are the guests of Mrs. August Hutzell.

J. Haller & Son will move into their new store, No. 45 South Main street, today, sure.

Elections were held in a number of states Tuesday, and the result is a little mixed. In New York the democrats will have a majority in both branches of the legislature probably. The democracy have made large gains in Wisconsin, and, at the present writing, it is not known which party has carried the state. Mississippi gives 35,000 democratic majority. Massachusetts, Minnesota, Connecticut, Nebraska and New Jersey went republican, but in these states the democrats have made large gains. The democrats of Virginia were defeated by the Mahone readjusters and republicans who favor readjustment.

Party lines have been mostly ignored in Detroit this fall, democrats and republicans uniting on an independent nomination for police justice and for some other offices. This augurs well for a careful administration of local affairs, if the people's candidates are elected, and should be the precedent for future guidance in local elections. This thing of making bad nominations and sticking to them merely because a lot of scabs have forced them on your ticket is played out. Decency and independence revolt at it. It is time party conventions were taught a lesson in this respect, and we hope the citizens of Detroit will rise in their might and teach them it.

Some time ago the students of the Lansing agricultural college raided a farmer's melon patch doing considerable damage. The farmer, several days later, complained to the school authorities that the students, in a body, went to his house and forced him to give back to them the money he had received. The faculty have been trying hard to learn who were to blame in the matter, and their investigation so enraged the students that they resolved to consider themselves suspended or, in other words, to "bolt" the college. It is to be hoped that the ring leaders will be found out and dealt with as they deserve. It is a case of insubordination, and the rewards should be made to feel the strong arm of the law, and should also be expelled from the institution they now disgrace.

A great many improvements have been made in this city during the present year, and it is remarked on all sides that Ann Arbor is becoming more and more a metropolitan city, in everything except the matter of streets. These are in a worse than filthy condition, the mud on Main and Huron streets being deep enough to almost drown the intrepid pedestrian and mire the poor beasts of horses, compelled to traverse those thoroughfares. It is a perfect shame and disgrace that Ann Arbor, with its manifold beauties, should be at the complete mercy of every little shower. Scraping seems to do no good, as only another coating of deep mud instantly follows the next rain. Graveling makes the nuisance worse. There is only one adequate remedy—paving. The only argument against paving our principal business streets is that it is expensive. Yes, but not as expensive as the mud, singular as this statement may appear. We have no doubt that in fifteen years, the average length of wear of a good wooden pavement, our merchants lose more trade on account of having more goods ruined by the mud and dust than the pavement would cost twice over.

Regents' Meeting.
The regents met Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and went into executive session. At the request of the board, which was unanimous, Dr. MacLean withdrew his resignation.

In accordance with the recommendation of the faculty of the department of medicine and surgery, the degree of M. D. was conferred upon Geo. W. Peckham.

This augurs well for a careful administration of local affairs, if the people's candidates are elected, and should be the precedent for future guidance in local elections. This thing of making bad nominations and sticking to them merely because a lot of scabs have forced them on your ticket is played out. Decency and independence revolt at it. It is time party conventions were taught a lesson in this respect, and we hope the citizens of Detroit will rise in their might and teach them it.

Some time ago the students of the Lansing agricultural college raided a farmer's melon patch doing considerable damage. The farmer, several days later, complained to the school authorities that the students, in a body, went to his house and forced him to give back to them the money he had received. The faculty have been trying hard to learn who were to blame in the matter, and their investigation so enraged the students that they resolved to consider themselves suspended or, in other words, to "bolt" the college. It is to be hoped that the ring leaders will be found out and dealt with as they deserve. It is a case of insubordination, and the rewards should be made to feel the strong arm of the law, and should also be expelled from the institution they now disgrace.

A great many improvements have been made in this city during the present year, and it is remarked on all sides that Ann Arbor is becoming more and more a metropolitan city, in everything except the matter of streets. These are in a worse than filthy condition, the mud on Main and Huron streets being deep enough to almost drown the intrepid pedestrian and mire the poor beasts of horses, compelled to traverse those thoroughfares. It is a perfect shame and disgrace that Ann Arbor, with its manifold beauties, should be at the complete mercy of every little shower. Scraping seems to do no good, as only another coating of deep mud instantly follows the next rain. Graveling makes the nuisance worse. There is only one adequate remedy—paving. The only argument against paving our principal business streets is that it is expensive. Yes, but not as expensive as the mud, singular as this statement may appear. We have no doubt that in fifteen years, the average length of wear of a good wooden pavement, our merchants lose more trade on account of having more goods ruined by the mud and dust than the pavement would cost twice over.

Regents' Meeting.
The regents met Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and went into executive session. At the request of the board, which was unanimous, Dr. MacLean withdrew his resignation.

In accordance with the recommendation of the faculty of the department of medicine and surgery, the degree of M. D. was conferred upon Geo. W. Peckham.

The attention of the board Wednesday evening was occupied in hearing the testimony of C. Howard Skeels, formerly a student in the homoeopathic college. He stated that he entered the college January 6, 1880; that he severed his connection with the school April 16 following. He received a certificate of attendance from Prof. Franklin which was for 20 weeks, when in reality he had attended only 18 weeks. His testimony was the same as given in his affidavit, which has been published in the papers. He charges Dr. Franklin with giving him a time certificate, etc.

The following was proposed:

WHEREAS, It is represented to this board by council for Dr. E. C. Franklin that, on account of imperative engagements in court, he cannot proceed with the further investigation of the charges affecting Dr. Franklin at this time; and

Resolved, That when this board adjourns to meet Tuesday evening, December 6, 1881, at 7:30 p. m.; and that the special order for that meeting be the completion of the investigation of the charges affecting Dr. Franklin at this time;

The sum of $500 was transferred from the general fund to the library fund.

The board of auditors was instructed to have the insurance renewed which may expire before January 1, 1882.

Heman Drury, of Ypsilanti, who died Monday, came to Ypsilanti in 1824. He was a son of Elihu and Lavina Drury, early pioneers of the country, the former of whom died at Adrian in 1876, having three children living. Heman, the elder, grew to manhood in Washtenaw county, and engaged in the mercantile business at Jackson in 1869. In 1875 he bought the "Parson's mill" at Saline, and two years later purchased a drug store in Ypsilanti. He engaged in the latter business only a short time when he retired from active life.

Some weeks ago we announced the arrest of H. W. Pettit, the artist, on the charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. He was brought here from Detroit and lodged in jail. His examination was continued several times, and finally Monday he was let off on his own recognizance. Pettit, it seems, was a married man with four small children, and the complaining witness learned of this, went to see them. The wife told a pitiful tale of how she and her little ones had been neglected by the husband and father. The complainant in the case against Pettit, who is a kind-hearted gentleman, thought perhaps he could be induced to go home to his family, and as he promised to do so, was let off on his own recognition.

Pettit was taken for a single man when he came to the city, and was quite popular with a number of young ladies.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

MICHIGAN.

The Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad company has taken possession of the lands granted by its charter, although the road is built only to L'Anse. The state board of control of railroad lands at its recent session at Detroit passed a resolution setting forth that the company, in order to earn the lands it has secured, must go at once and build the road from L'Anse to Ontonagon.

The Yale boys beat the Michigan university 'eleven' at foot-ball, by two goals to none.

The sheriffs of Michigan have been in session at Grand Rapids comparing notes as to the methods of catching criminals.

Mrs. John Helmen, wife of a Battle Creek merchant, took poison mistaking it for quinine, and died from the effect.

Hughes and Ward have secured 500 red ribbons at Buchanan during their series of meetings.

A mineral deposit thought to be antimony is creating some excitement near Indian river.

A dispatch from Berrien county says: "The prosecuting attorney of this county has intimated that he will institute no more prosecutions before justices of the peace for violations of the liquor law, but will lay all cases of the kind before a grand jury to be called at the next term of the circuit court. The present liquor law is so stringent in its provisions that it is almost impossible to effect a conviction in a justice court. The mildest penalty for a violation of the law is ten days imprisonment and a fine of $25. A jury drawn from the immediate locality of the dealer is naturally averse to inflicting this sentence upon one who is perhaps a friend or neighbor."

Real Dow, the well-known temperance lecturer, will spend a portion of the coming winter in Michigan.

Congressman-elect E. S. Lacey is at Hot Springs, Ark., trying to get rid of rheumatism.

The university regents have induced Prof. MacLean to withdraw his resignation from the faculty of the medical department. The sum of $1,000 has been appropriated for improvements on the president's house.

It is alleged that the bodies of G. W. Harris and daughter of Crawfordton's Quarry, Mrs. Dr. Patterson of Rogers' City, and Frank M. Cowles of St. Ignace, who were lost in a sail boat near Adams Point, Escanaba Isle county, some time ago, have been found concealed in the woods near the beach, plundered of jewelry and $800 in money known to have been in the pockets of Cowles. It is suspected that tramps found the bodies on the beach and plundered and hid them several weeks ago.

Capt. Eads, of Mississippi battleship fame, has sent $500 to the Michigan fire sufferers through Senator Conger.

Jas. H. Little, alias Wilson, has been arrested at Buchanan to answer to a charge of forgery of a $170 note on Charles Failing, which was discounted by Jas. W. Sheldon of Albion

H. B. Fox, who has been a year in the Jackson penitentiary on a charge of bigamy, has been released by the supreme court, which decides that he is guiltless of the crime charged. There is no redress in law for the great injury done to the innocent prisoner.

Congressman Julius Caesar Burrows has gone to Washington to look after his chances for the speakership.

The new salt works at Manistee made 667 barrels of salt last month.

The Kusterer brewery at Grand Rapids was injured by fire to the amount of $15,000 on the 4th inst. Insurance $14,000.

The United States circuit court of New York makes permanent the injunction restraining Samuel J. Tilden from disposing of his stock in the New York mines at Ishpeming, Michigan.

Some time ago a melon patch was raided near the agricultural college. The master was seized by one of the raiders. Next night 100 students compelled the owner of the melons to refund the amount paid. The faculty have tried to get the students to return the money, but the students have refused. Wednesday night all students engaged in the raid were suspended. A students' meeting was then held, and it was voted 35 to 35 to rebel and leave in a body on Saturday.

It has been decided to hold the Peninsular Thanksgiving Day in City in 1882.

In the Circuit Court at East Saginaw, Wm. Murray and Charles Russel, the circus men who engaged in the Channing riot last summer, in which Officer Emory lost his life, and who were convicted of murder in the second degree, were sentenced to fifteen years each in State Prison.

The commissioners to locate the new asylum for the insane have decided to locate it at Traverse City, on a tract of land containing 400 acres, half a mile from Grand Traverse bay, which has been purchased for $21,991. $40,000 was appropriated for a site and plans, and $40,000 for the erection of the building.

An awful tragedy occurred about two miles south of Capac on the 5th inst. Charles Heiden, a wealthy farmer, partially insane for some time past, made his will on the 4th inst., and on the 5th cut the throat of his little son three years old with a razor, almost severing the head from the body, and then cutting his own throat so that he died in a few moments.

Upwards of one thousand new buildings have gone up in Detroit during the past season at a cost of upwards of $2,000,000.

The rebellious students of the agricultural college have received from their proposed action. They now offer to pay back the money and attend to their studies. The faculty insist that the leaders shall remain suspended.

Olivet College has upwards of 200 students this term, a larger number than for four or five years. Prof. Estabrook is doing good work for the college.

The 11th annual meeting of the Michigan state horticultural society will be held at South Haven, Van Buren county, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 5, 6, and 7, in acceptance of an invitation tendered by the South Haven pomological society. The program is an unusually attractive one.

The adjusting agent of the Agricultural insurance company of Watertown, N. Y., has settled the company's losses in the burned districts of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties. There were 85 losses, aggregating over $50,000.

Dr. B. Barnum of Schoolcraft, an able physician, committed suicide. He laid himself out on his dissecting table, placed his revolver to his heart and died instantly.

Gov. Jerome has issued an order removing Spencer B. Russell from office the Mayor of the city of McLemore. It appears that Mr. Russell was a member of a firm with whom a contract was made to publish the proceedings of the common council and do the official printing of the city. Section 10 of chapter 11 of the session laws of 1873, provides that any member of the council or city official who shall be interested directly or indirectly in the profits of any contract made with the corporation of which he is an officer, shall be fined not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 and imprisoned in the county jail not less than six months, and shall forfeit his office. After inquiry before a circuit court commissioner, and a finding that the contract was made with the full knowledge of the Mayor as to his liability, the Governor has promptly acted in the matter by removing the Mayor from his office.

Prof. D. Patman has been appointed principal of the state normal school of Ypsilanti in place of Dr. McVicar, who has removed to Ontario, Ont.

Four hundred pounds of powder exploded in the Quincy mine, instantly killing two miners, Wm. Jarvela and Ole Olson, also a boy named Geo. Myers. The explosion tore the timbering out of three levels and caused great damage to the mine.

At the election in Detroit, the Republicans elected the entire city ticket except police justice and one member of the upper house of the council, and 10 out of 14 members of the lower house.

Diphtheria is causing considerable anxiety among the inhabitants of Cheboygan. It is not because the disease threatens to become an epidemic, for there are only a few children sick, but the anxiety arises from the fatal course the disease takes after a child has been recovered. Four deaths have occurred where the children were able to live at the house, and appeared to be nearly well. They become paralyzed and die, only living a few hours afterwards.

Gov. Jerome has appointed Thursday, Nov. 28th as thanksgiving day.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The comptroller of the currency has appointed Hon. Frederick Theodore Frelinghuysen of Newark, receiver of the broken Mechanics' National bank of Newark, N. J., and Louis M. Price assistant receiver. It appears that the bank examination was deceived by a forged letter purporting to be from the New York bank and acknowledging a deposit of $2,000,000; whereas the genuine letter gave no such credit.

The judge Thomas M. Bowen has been offered $10,000 cash for his recently discovered gold mine in the Sumner district, Colorado, the ore from which assays $20,000 to the ton.

Elder Morgan has a company of 125 converts to Mormonism who will escort to their new home in Colorado. They are nearly all from West Va. and Tennessee.

Henry B. Marchbank, corresponding clerk of the broken Mechanics' bank at Newark, N. J., has been arrested. He is charged by the United States district attorney with having robbed the bank of $50,000. Cashier Baldwin knew of the crime and drove Marchbank out of the bank, but was afraid to make the matter known lest his own villainy should be discovered. Bail in Marchbank's case has been fixed at $10,000.

The postal authorities are trying to ferret out the postmasters who sell stamps outside of their territory to increase their salaries.

The resignation of the Hon. John W. Foster, United States minister to Russia, has been accepted.

Thursday, November 24, is designated by the President as Thanksgiving day.

Parties who stamp advertisements on government coin are to be prosecuted.

The bank examiner reports that the losses in the Newark, N. J., bank case aggregate $2,411,445, with assets which may enable the bank to pay off 90 per cent. to depositors. The stockholders will lose all their stock. The directors are willing, if the receiver can settle up everything and determine all the obligations of the banks within 30 days, to make good all losses and save all expenses of litigation.

An investigation of the reported misconduct of the 9th Massachusetts regiment at Yorktown is in progress, before a commission of army officers.

A bill granting suffrage to women has passed both branches of the legislature of Washington territory, and it is believed, will pass the other and become a law.

The indications are that the bottom has dropped out of the Confederate bond speculation. There are no more orders to bankers from New York, and few are purchasing at as low as $1.50 per $1,000.

Scott, ex-governor of South Carolina, now living near Toledo, whose trial for a homicide committed last Christmas day has aroused intense interest in northwestern Ohio, has been acquitted on the ground of self defense.
