Miss Bessie Colby, of Freyburg, Me., will be three years old on August 9. A few days ago she encountered a poisonous adder longer than herself which she seixed just below its head and carried home to be killed. The spirit of General John Stark, if permitted to behold the infant's exploit, must have repiced exceedingly, for this wee sister of Hercules is of the same blood as the Revolutionary hero.

Ir General Butler were Governor of Texas he might perhaps find a legitimate object of attack in the Daflas County Poor-Farm, the alleged brutal management of which is said to be creating intense excitement and indignation. Already there are reports of a man clubbed to death and a little girl beaten with a fence-rail, not to mention one death through neglect, constant cruelty and insufficient food. An official investigation, with sensational results, is expected.

It is claimed with a show of reason. that England is to a certain extent responsible for the presence of cholera in Egypt. The putrid carcasses of animals that have choked the canals, and the general prevalence of filth to which the epidemic is ascribed were the direct results of the war precipitated by England. If Great Britain had the well being of that unhappy country at heart why did she not set her soldiers to cleaning up the country and improving its spitars and the country and the country and the c

The method consists mainly of object-teaching and an exaggerated plain pronunciation of words by the teacher, whose pupils gradually become accustomed to the sounds or words used to designate various objects; and in time they succeed in hearing and pronouncing these words themselves. Now that this interesting experiment has succeeded, there is no reason why it should not be tried in other similar institutions.

THE Pennsylvania Legislature passed an act at its last session providing for the settlement of disputes between employers and employed by voluntary trade tribunals. It is a noteworthy fact in connection with the present agitation against pauper immigrants that the strongest opposition to the landing of people of this class comes from representatives of their own nationality who are already here and are well to do. The outcry against the assisted Irish came first and loudest from the Irish. And now it is the Hebrews who do not want their pauper brethren sent over. Several families of Polish Jews arrived in New York a few days ago on the Lydian Monarch. They had been helped across the ocean by the Hebrew Society of London, and although they had a little money in their possession the Emigration Commissioners decided that they were likely to become a public charge: so the Polish Jews will be returned without thanks to the London society. In 1879 a town was founded at Eureka Springs, Ark., and for nearly a year nothing was done to give any prospects for the future success, but in 1880 upwards of 4,000 persons settled there, and now the number of inhabitants is 10,000. Outside parties have pre-empted certain lands within the city limits, and laid out building lots. At the same time they gave out a report that the waters there possessed great curative properties, and thereby they claim caused a heavy emigration and caused property to sell rapidly and increase in value. The question arose who owned the town—the people who have gone there and made the place what it really is, or those who pre-empted a large portion of the town and wish to sell at high figures? The Commissioner of the Land Office decided in favor of the former. IN FAVOR OF THE SETTLERS.

AROUT THE STRIKE.

The striking telegraphers are still determined to "fight it out on this line," while the different companies declare they will not yield, and that in a very short time the comparatively inexperienced operators who have been called to the front by this action of the strikers will be perfectly competent to manipulate the wires. The trouble caused by this partial suspension of communication has already here expension of communication has already here expension of communication has already been experienced by business men, and it will very soon become a question whether the companies can hold out as private employers, or whether as public carriers, they will not have to yield to the demands of the strikers in order to satisfy the demands of the public.

CONFLICTING REPORTS. The reports from different cities and towns The reports from different cities and towns concerning the telegraphers' strike are very conflicting, but are reliable enough to show that the situation has not improved. The operators stand firm, and from their reports it seems they have plenty of backing. The report that the cable operators had joined the strikers created considerable excitement, but the report was denied, and the subsequent reception of foreign news confirmed the denial.

Strike of Telegraph Operators.

Strike of Telegraph Operators.

Several days ago the announcement was made that at noon on Wednesday the 18th inst, nuless their demands were complied with, all telegraph operators belonging to the ielegraph er's brotherhood, would leave their keys. The operators among other things demanded an in crease of salary and fewer hours of labor. Their grievances were laid before the managers of the different companies, who made vain endeavors to effect a compromise with the dissatisfied wire-workers. The operators were firm, and would not yield, though they did grant one day's time to the managers, and did not strike until the 19th inst. But prompt at noon of that day, every operator belonging to the brotherhood left work, only to resume when the companies shall grant their request. The strike is general, both in the United States and Canada. In Michigan, with the exception of Detroit, where all struck, the full force of operators remain at their posts in Jackson, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Port Huron, Ann Arbor, Adrian, Marshall and Battle Creek At Bay City al' left the office except the manager, and East Saginaw telegraphers also generally struck. A partial force remains at Kalamazoo and other cities. In nearly every case the men are orderly and determined, and say that they are prepared to stay out three months. A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS. The panic throughout Egypt is increasing. From Catro come most heart-rending stories. For the 24 hours ending July 19, over 100 deaths are reported. In the short space of three hours 80 funeral processions passed. It is stated that 16 towns are affected. The death rate is decreasing at Damietta, simply for lack of fuel.

A POWDER EXPLOSION. An explosion occurred in a powder mill at St. Petersburg, Russia, and nine persons were killed and several others seriously injured.

DESPAIRING EGYPT. DESPAIRING EGYPT.

Twenty nine deaths from cholera occurred on the 30th at Mansurah, twenty-four a Sama noud, twenty-eight at Ghizeh, forty-four at Chiribin and three at Damietta. It is said at Cairo unless the English authorities promptly take the direction of affairs, checking the spread of cholera will be hopeless. Even the simplest sanitary arrangements are neglected. The funeral system is most obnoxious. Corpses are encased in very slight coffins, and carried through the streets on men's shoulders. The clothers of persons dying in the hospitals are ofter stripped off and taken for wearing purposes by relatives. While a man stricken with cholera was on the way in a cart to the hospital, the driver stopped opposite a cafe and gave the invalid a drink from a water to the hospital, the driver stopped opposite a cafe and gave the invalid a drink from a water bottle used by customers of the place. A few minutes afterwards the sick man died opposite the largest cafe in Cairo. The only precaution taken in this case was to sprinkle a little chloride of lime on the corpse. The cart then pursued its way.

Is Alum Poisonous?

Dr. Hall's Journal of Health, in a re cent issue, says : "This question has caused a good deal of discussion. Alum is used by many bakers to whiten their bread, thus enabling them to use an inferior flour. It is more extensively exployed as a cheap substitute for cream of tartar in the manufacture of baking powders. It has not been considered immediately dangerous; although if continued it induces dyspepsia and obstinate constipation. But the fact that many cases of poisoning have occurred from baking powders which contained alum, puts the question in a more serious aspect, and prudent people will exercise caution in the selection of baking powders.

"Under what conditions, then, does this substance-formrerly used for me bination with the alum, constitute a

"Then, again, we know nothing of the causes of constitutional peculiarities. Why is it that one person can eat all kinds of green fruits and vegetables with impunity, while the same course might cost another individual his life! One person can handle poison ivy and sumac without being in the least affected; another is poisoned if he approaches to within ten feet of them. Out of a family residing in a malarial district, some of the members will suffer half the year with fever and ague, while the others will enjoy excellent health during the entire year. Foods that are whole some to some persons are actually poisonous to others. This is especially true of some kinds of fish. There is no convenient than yeast; and bread and pastry made with them are just as whofesome, and far more palatable. We are in entire sympathy with the manufacturers of the Royal Baking Powder-who commenced and are vigor ously conducting the war against the use of alum in baking powders. "Before committing ourselves, however, we made tests of a sufficient number of baking powders to satisfy ourselves that the substitution of alum for cream of tartar in their composition has not been over-estimated, while a careful examination of the Royal Baking Powder confirms our belief that Dr. Mott, the government chemist, when he singled out and commended this powder for its wholesomeness, did it wholly in

AN AMUSING COLLEGE STORY.

Hazing Freshman Solberg.

Solberg was effeminate in appearance and not more than five feet four in height, with slight form and a pale face. Notwithstanding this, he acquired and re-tained, all through his Freshman year, the reputation of being the most expert boxer, and withal the "heaviest" man in a melee that ever entered our college.

This disproportionate reputation was gained by a single act, or adventure, but the facts in the cases were not known until Solberg was in his senior year. He then gave the true version of the story at one of our class dinners. At Commencement, the class historian incorporated a humorous account of it in the amusement of the audience.

was marked as a "victim" by the Sophomores of the class above us. though so small and slight of build, he had an independent bearing, and had already committed the indiscretion of appearing on the campus with a cane in his hand. It was whispered, too, that he had a "tall hat" in his room, which he designed to wear on Sundays.

Canes and "stove-pipe hats" were then the undisputed prerogatives of the Sophomores. They allowed no Freshman to sport these supposed emolems of manly dignity, and various were the penalties which they inflicted on the 'Freshies'' who ventured to make a display of them.

There was the "Thompsonian treatment' which consisted in introducing pump, down the back of the Freshman's eck, or up a leg of his pantaloons, and then vigorously using the pump handle for two or three minutes.

There was the "plain duck," which was the simple inversion of a water-bucket-two or three perhaps-from the second or third story window upon the pany with a chair and two hassockshead of the unsuspecting Freshman who out beneath the staircase in the hall.

his bed, blindfolded, and then "lost" by devious windings through a neighborduring the remainder of the night.

ewhat similar to this last method of ill-treatment was the "gathered-to-his-fathers" method, which consisted in taking out the bewildered victim of Sophomoric displeasure, at dead of night, to a remote old grave-yard. where he was first stretched on his back upon one of the sarcophagus-shaped tombs, and then bound fast to the memorial slab which served as a lid to the stone chest.

Here he was left to "count the stars" and commune with silent nature for the the crashes among his furniture by the rest of the night, or until his cries and resounding thumps on the craniums of struggles brought relief from some his enemies chance source.

Then, too, there was the "barber's frolic," during which the devoted Fresh- on the ground beneath the windows; man's head was either wholly or half shaved. By the second week of the term, Solberg had been twice "ducked" while going to or returning from recitations. The wounded were too numerous to His room, too, had been forcibly entered, make a rally acceptable on the part of and the reported tall hat roughly searched for. Our wary classmate had, however, taken the precaution to conceal the hat in the room of a friend.

The following morning he found a mysterious notice posted on his door, hinting darkly that if a certain Freshman was again seen supporting his tot-tering steps with a cane, "Cain" would be raised in his behalf at a short notice. Hot with inward rage, Solberg brooded over these insults, and vainly longed for the strength of Achilles to set his tormentors at defiance. He regarded it as brutal tyranny, a mean triumph of the strong over the weak; and out of the simmering of his wrath he conceived a method of retaliation that was at once striking and effective.

There was then living in the outskirts of the town a man who had achieved a wide notoriety. in a profession which the goed sense of the country has since seen fit to restrict by stringent legal

A sound as of running water indicates a small river or spring in it, and it is thought that a stream from the well-known Frying Pan spring on the other side opposite there, lost under ground, runs into it. -- Boston Globe.

Long Finger-Nails. According to the writer of an article on "Extraordinary Finger-Nails" in the World of Wonders, it is the custom of the Chinese, Siamese and Anamese to allow the nails on all their fingers, except the forefinger, to grow to a great length, and among the former they sometimes attain the incredible length of from sixteen to eighteen inches. Among the Siamese so distinctive a mark of nobility are long nails esteemed that the belles and beaux wear siver cases, either to protect their nails or else to make people believe they are there, whereas in reality they are not. As regards the little finger, the writer tells us that "Ambassadors and visitors of distinction from Asiatic States to Eu rope are often observed to permit the excessive growth of the nail of the little finger, and this is also a common occurrence with many of the people of India and other parts of Asia."—From Notes and Queries.

Where the Word Dude Came From. The just now popular word dude, meaning an empty-headed, languidmannered young swell who bangs his hair, proves to be no foreign importation, but, like many another expressive term, to be of good New England parentage. The word (pronounced in two syllables) has been used in the little Town of Salem, N. H., fortwenty years past and, it is claimed, was coined there. It is common there to speak of a dapper young man as a "dude of a fellow," of a small animal as "a little dude," of a sweetheart as "my dude" and of an æsthetic youth of the Wilde type as a dude. But how the word attained so sudden and widespread a notoriety puzzles Salem. Its revival at New York is A new indictment was brought credited to a disgusted Englishman, who against the unhappy trade dollar by a remarked, after visiting a rich club, bride of six months last Monday in Phil- that the young men were all "dudes."

Girls on Foot.

The first comment an English traveler makes upon American women as a class s that they are not as strong and healthy looking as English girls. This is mainly due to the indoor life our young girls lead throughout the year. Of course jority of young women walking and riding regularly every day is out of the question, habit, custom, and the convea dead practice.

True, the English climate is less severe; but still there are a few days in the year when the weather is either too bitterly cold or too intensely hot to admit of a comfortable, brisk walk of few miles. The narrow-shouldered, flatchested, and shapeless looking girls, with pinched, colorless faces, would fill out by the best exercise the human frame can enjoy. Walt Whitman,

I called on Walt Whitman, the poet, the other day, because I had heard he was ill, and while in his parlor I made a discovery. Walt is not ill. I may tell you in advance. That is, he is no worse than usual, though you must know he is and has been for years a sort of half-paralytic. He hobbles along rather slowly, but he is fond of hobbling, and he spends a good deal of his time on Chestnut street here and on the ferry boats between this city and Camden, where he lives. Walt's appearance is, to say the least, peculiar. He is approaching his 64th birthday, but his upon he dismounted, put the potatoes face is ruddy and his long white hair, on his shoulders, and again mounted beard and mustache plentiful.
