ANN ARBOR NEWS.

An unknown laborer, evidently a stranger, was run over by the Toledo & Ann Arbor street car, consisting of eleven cars of iron and iron, two miles west of Battle Creek. The man was killed instantly. The head, arms and legs were cut off.

Harry T. Bush, of Monterey, was killed by the car on the way to the dig. It took over two hours to dig him out.

James F. Chambers, a farmer of Odesa, Iowa county, committed suicide by taking morphine at the residence of McCall Shaw, Lowell. He told Mr. Shaw he had traded furs with a neighbor, making thereby $400, and that the papers were all made out and signed by everybody but his wife. She not only refused to sign the deed but shut the door in his face and locked it, thus preventing his entrance to his own dwelling house except by violence. He then hanged himself by the neck from a tree in the yard.

A bottle containing morphine was found in his pocket. Dr. Peck and Dr. Purple were summoned upon discovering his condition. They did all they could to save his life, but he died.

Prof. A. S. Welch, president of the Iowa agricultural college, formerly principal of the Michigan State normal school, has been back in the city of Ann Arbor, Mich., and visited with Prof. George.

Harry Hunter, the notorious pickpocket who was under arrest at the Toledo & Ann Arbor street car, was taken to the city jail, and held in $1,000 and left town. He was originally $1,000, but was easily secured, and now the worst thief in North America is at large again.

December 12, 1882, Ellen L. Huntington was thrown from a sleigh while crossing the bridge and falling into the water. She was rescued by a man named Nelson, who took her to his home and nursed her. She was recovered and returned to her home.

A little son of Hon. E. Topf of Eaton Rapids was bitten by a rattlesnake, while returning from school the other day, and died the next morning.

J. S. Newberry, of Detroit, has donated the Presbyterian society at Newberry, four good lots and will build a $100,000, thousand dollar church thereon.

The Chicago & West Michigan railway company has commenced work on a new line from Chicago to Detroit, and will be completed in the fall.

Charles Hartwell, an insane man, hung himself in a barn in Detroit, Michigan, on the 10th inst. He was a well known farmer, living near Morenci, having been three times with the city jail, and was found by him and taken refuge with a daughter, thereupon forbade his children visiting her. Their parents, however, were not satisfied with this, and on her return she brought company. He waited until the company had left, and then took a rope and hung himself from a beam in the barn.

One hundred and fifty thousand pounds of wool were purchased at Owensboro this season.

Connecting of spiritualists begins at Orion Aug. 10.

Prof. C. W. Stone, of Battle Creek, who was killed in the Caydon disaster, was a cousin of President Arthur.

Hon. George L. Brown, who represented the Battle Creek district in the state house of representatives in the last session, died at his home in Battle Creek, Mich., July 27.

A very fine piece of copper, weighing two pounds and ten ounces, was found on the farm of Mr. Sackett, in Calhoun county, recently. It has been taken to Battle Creek, where it is being examined by the Michigan Geological Survey.

A general strike of the miners in the Michigan coal fields is expected to begin in the fall.

WASHINGTON.

ANOTHER MICHIGAN MAN IS POSTMASTER OF KALAMAZOO, ASSISTANT POSTMASTER OF BATTLE CREEK.

Sherrerd has acted as assistant postmaster of Kalamazoo for several seasons, and filled that office very satisfactorily. His appointment gives universal satisfaction.

NO FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.

It has been reported to the Treasury Department that the British Parliament is considering a bill to prohibit the importation of cattle from foreign countries where the foot and mouth disease prevails, and that an attempt will probably be made to have it apply to imports from the United States. It was stated at the Treasury Department that such application would be unwarranted, as no door investigation of the subject, just concluded, has shown that the foot and mouth disease does not prevail among cattle in this country. Steps will be taken to bring this matter to the attention of the British Government.

For President in 1884.
GEN. WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK.

THE COLORED CITIZEN.

At the recent election held in Kentucky for state officers, one of the candidates on the republican ticket for register of the land office was a colored man named Asbury, of good ability and character, and yet he ran far behind the balance of his ticket. This simply shows that the colored voter is to use him for the purpose of carrying the day. The black man, however, is beginning to see that he will never command respect or demand respectful recognition in politics until he is able to act upon judgment, no longer submitting to the guidance of sentiment. So long as he deemed his citizenship insecure, or that the republican party had something more to promise, some exclusive benefit to him which did not pertain to other citizens, he was very naturally held by the republican party and guided by a sentiment of mixed gratitude for past favors and expectation of favors to come. True, the friendly care that treated him as not a citizen, but as a citizen with difference, was not for his good. It was productive of harm. He would have fared better standing upon the simple plane of American citizenship and gradually working out his rights as a citizen between the two parties.

It was thus citizens of foreign birth found their way to their proper status. At a time when they were divided between the old parties, one of these proposed harsh and hostile measures, and they massed themselves in the other. When many of them conceived that the party which had befriended them was threatening their rights as free men and menacing free labor with slavery, they left the democratic party to oppose slave labor in the "irrepressible conflict."

The colored man will best secure his rights when he divests himself of sentiment, to rely upon judgment, and to go from party to party, simply as an American citizen demanding his rights and place. Thus he will best secure all he shows himself entitled to, and such place in politics as he fits himself for and shows himself capable of filling.

So long as the colored people continue to belong exclusively to a party which promises without performance, and uses the colored vote solely to perpetuate its own power, they advertise themselves as determined to rely solely upon a party which has no longer even promises to make, and whose leaders have exhibited such performance as opposing the giving of what was promised. There is surely no common sense or judgment exhibited in this exclusive adhesion to a party, in a country where other citizens follow judgment, political opinions, and the higher interests to secure freedom and equality wherever they may be found.

GUITEAU is vindicated by a host of letters from republicans in various parts of the country to the Chicago News, saying that Arthur's conciliatory and impartial course has united the republican party. That is just what Guiteau said he removed Garfield, being spiritually moved to do it. All now concur with Guiteau that Garfield had hopelessly divided the party. Even M. Halstead, who used to speak ill of Guiteau, and to pitch into Arthur and Conkling, and the other stalwarts, with all his might, now writes to the News that Guiteau has harmonized the party. Rev. Justin Fulton sees the hand of God in it, just as Guiteau said he did. Never was a party and an administration in so bad a conflict as Garfield got them into in less than four months. Never was such a work of harmonizing done as these letters credit to Guiteau through Arthur. These letters, from Garfield's friends, are Guiteau's apotheosis. This unity is the thing he said he was willing to die for. Guiteau is now the republican saint.

The republican party has been staggered to falling by the absolute proof that it was controlled in 1880 by a gang of knaves who bought the presidency, thinking they were buying future immunity, and opportunity to feather their private nests unmolested. Happily party divisions to the consternation of some half-breed and of some stalwart leaders, exposed the gang, and of late the entire connection of these knaves with the party, their rule of it, the means by which they bought the presidency, have all come out. Happily, also, for the memory of Garfield, the hold of the ring on him was not as secure after the election as they thought it was before, or matters might even then have been patched up. These disclosures have fallen with terrible force. The ablest of their leaders can not rally or defend. Their staggering under the blow is pitiable, too pitiable to be amusing.

This government is working smoothly at the capital. The administration is never so satisfactory to the republican party as when it is away out of sight and hearing. The ensuing month will be the most popular of Arthur's administration. The Rouch-Chandler navy job is fixed up. The public building investigation is suppressed. The compromise with the great star route contractors is arranged. The special prosecutors of the small contractors have looted the appropriation with their $100 a day fees, and will have to wait for another. If there is no new eruption of corruption, the ensuing month will be the halcyon period of this administration, and will far surpass in popularity all that the republican letters to the Chicago News have told of the past.

The answer is that the government runs just as well when the president and heads of departments are away. No one disputes it. The exposure of plunder which followed Grant's two terms and Hayes' term proved that whether the heads were present or absent, all went on the same. The system has become so fixed and powerful in each department that the head who should seriously wrestle with it would get thrown. So they might as well go off on junketing excursions. But this success raises the question, whether the government could not spare them altogether, and be better for the saving.

ELAM, the recently wounded Virginia editor, declares that he cannot see why a man should not lay down his life as readily for a political as for a religious conviction. It is thus he replies to those who have criticised him for engaging in a duel. If Mr. Elam, filled with the noble martyr spirit, had allowed himself to be burned at the stake, after the manner of the martyrs, in the sacred cause of redemption, nobody would have objected.

The defeat of Captain Webb by the Niagara gorge is received as a challenge to England and all creation. Another English swimmer says he can do it, and some Americans want to show that they can do what the Englishman failed to do. The matter will not be permitted to rest until that gorge and whirlpool have been beaten by a man.

"It" is a boy, and weighed ten pounds to start with. Judge Joslyn is getting to be "granda" quite numerously.

Bitter Bread.

Complaint is frequently made by those who use baking powders that they leave in bread, biscuit, or cake raised by them a disagreeable, bitter taste. This taste follows the use of all impure baking powders, and is caused either by their containing alum (introduced to make a cheap article), by the impure and adulterated character of other ingredients used, or from the ignorance of their manufacturers of the proper methods of combining them. These baking powders leave in the bread a residuum formed of lime, earth, alum, or other deleterious matters, not always thought of, but distasteful in the food, and by all physicians classed as injurious to health. The Royal Baking Powder is free from this serious defect. In its use no residuum is left, and the loaf raised by it is always sweet, light and wholesome, and noticeably free from the peculiar taste complained of. The reason of this is because it is composed of nothing but absolutely pure materials, scientifically combined in exactly the proper proportions of acid and alkali to act upon and destroy each other, while producing the largest amount of raising power. We are justified in this assertion from the unqualified statements made by the government chemists, who after thorough and exhaustive tests recommended the "Royal" for Governmental use because of its superiority over all others in purity, strength and wholesomeness. There is no danger of bitter bread or biscuit where it alone is used.

Too much of a good thing, as the kitten said when it fell into the milk pail.

GRIGGS' GLYCERINE SALVE.—The best on earth can truly be said of Griggs' Glycerine Salve, which is a sure cure for cuts, bruises, scalds, burns, wounds, and all other sores. Will positively cure piles, hemorrhoids, and all skin eruptions. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Only 25 cents. For sale by Eberbach & Son.

A wood-cutter never fells a tree against its will. He axes it first.

PERFECT SUCCESS.—These two words have a meaning when fully comprehended. A perfect success can be truly said to have been achieved by Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder. It is a perfect tonic to the blood, purifier, it keeps the skin clear and bright, drives away pimples and makes the general health excellent. Price 50 cents, of Eberbach & Son.

BEECHER'S BAD HEAD. For two months in the year Henry Ward Beecher can't preach. In August and September he takes his vacation and endures the onset of the hay fever. And it is, so he says, something terrible and tremendous. A man with hay fever isn't accountable for his actions. He is merely a wild beast—frantic with snuffing, sneezing and head-aching. His eyes are red, and so is his nose. Every nerve in his skull thrills with distress, and his head is a fountain of tears. He lives only to fly from seaside to mountain-top in search of relief. And yet, whether we call this form of Catarrh hay fever, rose fever, hay cold or rose cold, Ely's Cream Balm will cure it. This remedy is simple, pleasant and easy of application. Placed on the nostrils it penetrates and soothes the affected parts at once, restores the impaired senses and creates healthy secretions in cases of the long-standing. You cannot run away from hay fever, but you can drive it from you by using Ely's Cream Balm.

"No eye like the master's eye." Had Æsop lived in our day he might well have added, "No popular curative like Kidney-Wort." All eyes are beginning to turn to it for relief from diseases of the liver, bowels and kidneys. Kidney-Wort is nature's remedy for them all. Those that cannot prepare the dry can procure it in liquid form of any druggist.

The Bad and Worthless.

Are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B. and, consequently, many of the people suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with various device names, in which the word "hop" or "hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "hop" or "hops" in their name, or any word connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.
