Friends of THE DEMOCRAT, who have business at the Probate Court, will please request Judge Harrison to send their printing to this office.

JOTTINGS.

Janaushek at the opera house April 7. Horse thieves are quite numerous hereabouts. The St. James hotel has a new lot of dining room girls. Mrs. S. C. Andrews has returned from a short visit at Paw Paw. Jerry Knowlton has recently put a telephone in his residence. Miss Cora Miller presides no more over Willis Boughton's new stand. Mrs. Stevens, of Jackson, is visiting her sister Mrs. H. Kitttridge in this city. Miss Josie Davison has severed her connection with Lewis & Gibson's art store.

"Only a Farmer's Daughter" combination stopped at the Cook house while in the city. M. F. Guinon left last Sunday evening for Fargo, D. T., where he intends to remain until fall. Henry C. Waldron last week obtained a judgment of $717 against the T. A. A. & G. T. railroad. Geo. Leonard takes a gang of five men from Ann Arbor to work on the Canada Southern. William Caspary and George Mast were admitted to citizenship in the circuit court last week. John D. Cook, of Ypsilanti, seeks a divorce from Sarah Cook on account of incompatibility of temper. Prof. Obetz, stopping with his family at the St. James, is the happy possessor of a two weeks old daughter. On Thursday night of last week Judge Joslyn granted a divorce between Converso G. Cook and Mary Cook. With three tickets in the field this spring the average citizen ought to be able to choose who he will support. A new tar walk is being laid from the northeast entrance of the campus to the plankwalk on North University ave. In the grand musical festival to be given at university hall April 18th all the musical talent of Washtenaw county will participate. A very small but highly appreciative audience greeted the presentation of "Only a Farmer's Daughter" last Tuesday evening. To-night, at Saline the ladies of the Presbyterian church give a bon-bon social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Mason. Mr. T. Smith, of Curtis & Smith, of Syracuse, who has taken the pictures of the senior class and pharmlcs, left for his home Monday after taking nearly 200 negatives. The Harvey brothers were arrested for stealing four sheep of Wm. Hicks valued at twenty-six dollars. The boys pleaded guilty and were remanded to the circuit court for trial. A. V. Robinson has sold to Gilbert S. Howe one half of his interest in the livery stable of A. V. Robinson & Son. The business will continue under the firm name of Robinson & Howe. Last November while driving near Saline a son of Andrew Campbell had a slight collision with a widow lady named Collins. Campbell refused to pay the damages, about two dollars, and was sued and appealed to the circuit court where after occupying the energies of five lawyers and consuming two days, judgment was rendered against the defendant for seven dollars. Minnie Mendel Garrison, of Ypsilanti, aged 18, filed a bill for divorce on Tuesday from her husband Richard A. Garrison. She alleges that they were married secretly in Detroit April 3, 1883, and that her husband, until recently, denied the marriage after it was found that they had been together at Detroit on that date thus bringing great disgrace upon her. She also charges him with failure to support. The destruction of life and property in Cincinnati last Saturday and Sunday beggars description. The mob destroyed property worth over one million dollars, and upwards of 200 lives were lost, all because one criminal was convicted of manslaughter when the citizens thought he ought to be hung for murder. By that means good citizens lost their lives, and property was destroyed worth over a million of dollars. All good citizens should throw down mob law, for there is no telling what it will lead to or where it will end.

The Cost of the Sophie Lyons Trial.

Many reports have been circulated about the county in regard to the cost to the county of the three trials of Sophie Lyons. Most of these reports have placed the amount at sums ranging from $4,000 to $5,000. All of them are greatly exaggerated however, as the following summary of costs taken from records in the clerk's office shows:

Witness fees.....$576.90

Jury.....1,380.00

Officers.....138.00

Board of prisoners at jail.....138.00

R. E. Frizer, ast. prosecutor.....121.60

J. W. Babbitt.....176.00

Clerk's fee.....30.00

Board of Jury.....32.00

Total.....$2,589.50

This estimate does not include Mr. Babbitt's fees on the third trial, should they be the same as on the second trial, the total will be increased to $2,765.50. It should be stated also that it does not embrace the expenses of Mrs. Lyons' confinement in the house of correction and several minor costs, the exact amount of which it is impossible to ascertain. It may be safely said, however, that the total expense of the county has been put on to account of this woman does not exceed $3,000.

"The latest addition to Mme. Janaushek's repertory, "Zillah," was presented for the first time last evening at Haverly's theatre to a crowded house. The orchestra occupied an upper proscenium box, and the space in front of the stage was filled with occupied chairs. The audience was enthusiastic over the play, calling Mme. Janaushek before the curtain two or three times at the close of each act. The final curtain was not rung down until half past eleven o'clock. "Zillah" is a liberal adaptation of an old French play, "La Tireuse des Cartes" (The Fortune Teller). The present version has received the most careful attention of Mme. Janaushek, and will undoubtedly prove a most valuable addition to her repertory. There is a prologue and four acts. A child is stolen, in the prologue, from "Zillah," and the motive of the piece in the four subsequent acts is the determination of the mother to find her child, and her despair at being unable, when found at last after long years, to win its love. Around this the characters of the play are skillfully grouped. The situations are fine and the climaxes well wrought out. For a first night performance the company did very well. "Zillah" will be given again this evening.—[Philadelphia Record.]

Judge Joslyn.

Judge Joslyn has finally awakened to the feeling of the bar in regard to his alleged partiality for his son-in-law. On Monday a case which he was expecting to try, in which Mr. Whitman was interested, had to be put over as opposing counsel wished another judge to try it. Tuesday morning Judge Joslyn sent to each member of the bar in the city a request to meet at the court room in the afternoon. Fourteen attorneys came in obedience to his request and the Judge addressed them as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE ANN ARBOR CITY BAR:

I have invited you here this afternoon to notify you of a resolution which I have adopted. I have this to say: I have lived in this country more than forty-seven years. During half that time I have held important public offices. I have tried, or helped try, more than $300 cases. I thought I had earned the repute of a fair and candid, if not honest man. I came on this bench with a full determination under oath to be an impartial judge and I have kept it. I resolved that no man should have a just cause for saying I had not given him, his attorneys and his cause a fair hearing. Some of the bar of this city have sought to make for me a different reputation and have so far succeeded that my honorable citizens of this county have come to believe that from want of honesty or independent manhood I have not done as I had sworn and resolved I would. As a continued dropping of water wears a stone, so this continued assault had yesterday so far worn me that I had almost resolved to leave the bench that some other man might take my place. To-day I have resolved not to resign, and at this request, I will not suffer try a case in this county when Charles R. Whitman appears in it, and will largely exchange with other judges to do the work of this county."

The bar and others, even the warmest friends of the Judge, think that this was the only solution of the disagreeable situation.

"The great historical play "Marie Antoinette" has lost none of its absorbing interest, as was abundantly proved last evening when a large audience witnessed its splendid performance at the Detroit opera house with Madam Janaushek as the condemned queen. Her impersonation was even more powerful than when she gave it here last season. It was grand, austere, fierce, tender and pathetic, and her melodrama were in popular demand among the ladies. The support was admirable. The king was acted by Mr. George D. Chaplin, the Marquis de Lafayette by Mr. Stuart, Malesherbes by Mr. Taylor, Santerre by Mr. Stevens and Simon by Mr. Shine. A new departure was made last evening in the substitution of one of the ladies for the Dauphin. The part was taken by Miss Lavina Shannon and the change is much for the better, it being impossible for a child to simulate the necessary feeling to make the second act a powerful success. The wardrobe of the company were the finest ever seen in this piece in Detroit, and are all new, and the play was finely mounted."

Mr. Chandler, a former proprietor of the Gregory house, took an extensive journey west with his wife and son, last summer prospecting, with views of locating a home. They were gone about six months, visiting Oregon and California, together with other places, but returned convinced that no better place did the sun ever shine upon than "Michigan my Michigan," and of all counties Washtenaw was preferable, so bought what is known as the old Whitmore farm on the south Ypsilanti road, midway between the two cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti and has commenced beautifying the premises.

One of the St. James hotel cooks, Kittie Eder by name, became violently insane Sunday morning and was taken to the jail for safe keeping. Her insanity being only temporary she is rapidly recovering.

Street cleaning has begun. Democratic convention to-night. The Oracle of '86 went like hot cakes. A slight fall of snow last Wednesday morning. Beethoven concert postponed until after Easter. Hayden & McLay will build the roller skating rink. The Commencement Annual was issued last Wednesday. Judge Huntington, of Mason, was in the city last week. Joe T. Jacobs and son returned from the south Saturday. An expert roller skater astonished the Ypsilantites last Tuesday. The city band boys of Saline gave a dance at their hall April 3. James McMahon was called to Detroit on legal business Monday. A. F. Martin & Co. have put in a telephone at their lumber office. Homer Henderson has been appointed on the Ann Arbor police force. Hanley's McSorley's inflation troupe stopped at the St. James hotel. Edward T. Pate was granted a divorce from Helen M. Pate on Saturday. The building occupied by E. J. Johnson on Main street sold for $3,000. Harry Sayles, the evangelist is holding a series of meetings at Ypsilanti. Janaushek at the grand opera house next Monday and Tuesday evenings. Prof. Beman conducted a teachers' examination at Chelsea last Wednesday. D. F. Almendinger is manufacturing an organ for the M. E. church in New Haven. William Flynn is the candidate for constable in the third ward on the Union ticket. The Ypsilanti cricket club held a meeting for the purpose of electing officers last Tuesday. M. M. Peck, late clerk of the St. James, is now clerk in a hat and cap store in East Saginaw. Oscar Welner and Geo. F. Lutz have dissolved partnership in the saloon business. Lutz goes it alone. The fact that spring is approaching is attested by the frequent loads of furniture passing along the street. And now Mr. Sayles sets the year 1885 for the second coming of Christ. Why not 1884? Where is the data? The residence formerly occupied by Dr. Franklin, on Fifth street, is now rented by the Zeta Psi society. Wm. Stockman, who has been, until lately, in the employ of Lewis & Gibson, left for his home in Toledo last week. The republicans of Ann Arbor on Saturday nominated Fred B. Braun for supervisor and Lorenzo Davis for clerk. Newport and South Rockwood have the scarlet fever, and the public schools of the latter place have been closed because of it.
