No Child.

Col. John Hay of Ohio takes great satisfaction in the thought that Mr. Jas Gillespie Blaine of Maine is no child. "We have not gone either to the cra dle or the grave for a candidate," he writes. "Our trusted, loved, and honored leader is a man in the full vigor of his years, in the maturity of his splenlid powers."

Precisely so. And we may add that he is tolerably certain to exercise those powers, if he should become President, in accordance with the standard of hon-esty indicated in the Mulligan letters, which were written, we believe, after Mr. Blaine's splendid powers were fully

The Republican candidate is doubt-less a person of vigorous manhood. The question is whether he is a man of the right sort. But so far as any childlike qualities are concerned, Col. Hay has taken needless trouble. He has been at pains to refute an imaginary charge. Nobody has ever accused Mr. Blaine of being a child. A child is innocent.

The temporary organization was affected in the choice of William Daniel of Maryland as chairman, and Mcs. Woodbridge, president of the Onio Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Charles S. Carter of Washington, D. C., as secretaries.

Mr. Daniels in his speech spoke of the progress of the temperance work in his state, and of the results which had been accomplished. All due credit was given to the grand work being done by state organizations, but only by the general government could the work in its broadest scope be done. The signs of the time were propitious. There is victory in the air, and it is coming soon. At the close of the chairman's address the convention adjourned until afternoon, and when it re-assembled, the memorial of the W. C. T. U. was presented by Mrs. Mary Woodbridge of Ohio. The memorial was a petition for the adoption or such measures as skall secure prohibition of the manufac-

A Terrible Crime.

A Terrible Crime.

The little village of Carey, Ohio, is more excited than it has been before for years. Two miles distant lived James Beach, a wealthy farmer, his wife and a grown up daughter. Last week stone masons were employed to tear down the wooden steps leading to the door of the house. After the steps had been removed a small dog scratching in the soft earth dug out the bones of an infant. The workmen gathered the bones and an investigation followed. The daughter, now aged 18, admitted that the child was hers and that the father had strangled it and put it where it was found, to hide his crime.

The father was arrested and held in $10,000 ball. He is wealthy and the daughter is engaged to marry a prominent young man of that place. The young woman is a graduate of a New York seminary.

At Sunday-School in India.

An American woman who has recently traveled in India writes: While in Campore I have had some little chance to inspect the American missionary work which is being prosecuted here. The American Methodists seem to have taken India by storm, just as the Baptists have British Bur-

I stopped over Sunday at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Maxwell. One morning we rode over to Miss Eastman's zenana-school, where our American teachers are educating English and Eurasian girls at a nomvery liberal toward any educational project, and will not only cede land for such purposes, but pay a certain annual sum toward the current expense of the institution. On the morning in question the venerable George Muel-ler, of Bristol Orphanage fame, was addressing the children. Miss Eastman took us out into her garden and picked fully half a bushel of the most beautiful roses for us that it has ever been my lot to behold. I saw none in California or Canton that could quite equal them in their extraordinary proportions and delicacy of coloring. We also picked some orange blossoms along with ripe fruit, some pomoloe blossoms and quite a quantity of the Indian box—more fragrant than the American tuberose. Constant irrigation and constant fighting of porcu-pines are essential to horticultural success in India; but with these conditions fulfilled the results are little short of

But perhaps the most novel experi-ence in the missionary line was afforded me on Sunday, when in company with Mr. McGrew I paid a visit to two of the twenty American Methodist Sunday-schools in this city. With solar topees and our neutral-tint spectacles were gathering fuel into huge baskets borne on their heads, women grinding two at each mill, and men going about their ordinary pursuits.

At length we halted in front of a room about ten feet square opening upon the street. A crowd of urchins were playing tag, or some game akin to it, in front of this little room. The moment they saw our gharry they ceased playing and began to swarm about us, the while shouting "Salaam, Sahib, Salaam!" Oh, they were dirty, but who minded that? Some of the boys were absolutely naked, and so were some of the girls; but only the prudish traveler is annoyed at so com-mon a sight. In they rushed, pell mell, and began to squat Turk fashion upon the floor of the room before mentioned. I suppose there were thirty children in that tiny room. I know there was no room for more. Some of the faces were exceedingly bright and "Is this a Sunday-school?" I inquired as we seated ourselves in the only two chairs in the apartment.

Democratic Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT, GROVER CLEVELAND, Of New York.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT, THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, Of Indiana.

THE republican state convention will be held in Detroit, August 11.

BLAINE'S letter of acceptance falls like a wet blanket on many a republican in this vicinity.

JOHN P. St. JOHN, of Kansas, has been again nominated, this time at Pittsburg, for president on the prohibition ticket. Some of his admirers here believe that he will receive 500 votes in Ann Arbor. Perhaps this may be the case, but we are inclined to the opinion that the count on the evening of November 7 will make a different showing.

THE Detroit Free Press says that in calling attention to the large increase of the assessed wealth of the country between 1860 and 1880, Mr. Blaine was not as specific as he might have been. He might have called attention to the fact them.—Ypsilanti Sentinel. that he was very intimate with a gentleman who, when he entered politics, was not worth a cent, but whose "prosperity" increased, particularly while speaker of the house, from $5,000 a year to a fortune of $1,000,000 or thereabout. Did the republican party accomplish that?

WHILE the unhappy wives of American naval officers are hovering in the seaports of Europe and elsewhere for a chance glimpse at their husbands, whom Secretary Chandler inflexibly forbids them to accompany, the Secretary himself is junketing on the Tallapoosa without any regardito the department interdict against women on naval vesseis. Perhaps it is as well for Chandler to make his hay while the sun shines. This is the last his pleasure jaunting at the public expense.—Free Press.

"Make hay while the sun shines," is the motto of an emigration concern in Washington engaged in supplementing American workmen with labor from Europe. Congressman Foran's bill to become a law, as the senate did not act on it. The plan of those engaged in the work is to hold special inducements out to skilled workmen to come here and take the place of American workmen at before Foran's bill can be passed at the next session of congress. Thus does the tariff protect the American workman,-Evening News.

THE Pontiac Bill Poster discourses thusly on Cleveland and the workingmen: Cleveland is becoming stronger among the workingmen as the campaign progresses, His vetoes, when carefully examined, are found to be in the interest. of laborers. His veto of the bill repealing mechanic's lien laws was a practical benefft to mechanics. The street car measure would have lowered the wages measure would have lowered the wages Wormer, killing one horse and blinding of conductors and car drivers, and com- two others. Mr. VanWormer, who was pelled the hiring of extra men. Now, the men are hired by the hour and work sixteen hours for sixteen hours pay. This is better than working eight hours for half their present daily wages, as the bill contemplated! The five-cent fare bill was in the interest of wealthy men, as it provided that the fare on the elevated railroads should be five cents at all hours of the day and night. The fare is now five cents at all hours of the day, when workingmen have to use the roads most. Cleveland's veto of the Catholic appropriation bill has been commended as sincere and discreet by H. L. Hoguet, the president of the organization most interested in the measure. The attempts of republican trixters to alienate workingmen and Catholics from Cleveland on account of his vetoes have proved a flat failure.

THE SCANDAL.

One of the pernicious brood of "independent', sensational penny dailies, the Buffalo Telegraph, seized upon some case in the legal business of the firm in which Cleveland was a partner, years ago, to form the basis of a scandal so atrocious, that had it been true, the perpetrator would be unfit to live. This was too juicy a bit of carrion for another of the brood, the Detroit Journal to pass by. It was accordingly seized and published at full length, with the most impressive editorial notice the establish-The regular republican organs, were well pleased to see the dirty work of detraction performed by others, and treated it lightly, without becoming in any way responsible for it. 1. To begin with, it is a FRONT CUT, four feet, and four feet three inch machine, and carries with it all the advantages of a front over a rear cut machine. The question has been settled everywhere in the last few years in favor of the front cut, and now in the mind of the intelligent buyer it simply becomes a question as to the relative merits of the different front cut

The Cutting Bar has imparted to it a rocking motion, and is under perfect control of the driver It can be lifted from the ground or tilted at pleasure.

Marjorie laughs and climbs on my knee, And I kiss her, and she kisses me. I kiss her, but I don't much care, Because, although she is charming and fair, Marjorie's only three.

She will smile and prettily blush, and then
I shall long in vain to kiss her again,
When Marjorie's seventeen.

AN AMERICAN HEIRESS.

Lady Francis Trimston was charming. She was also clever, wonderfully well preserved, had a natural complexion, a moderate jointure, a good milliner, was a widow, and had only one child-a son.

She had experienced little care or sorrow, for her husband was an old man when she married him, and he was gathered to his fathers before he became very disagreeable. He was ately well off.

Lady Francis' life-or, at least, her widowed life-had been strewn with roses; and, although she could have settled down comfortably again, she preferred to retain, as she said, her whose husband was a young scamp. Few of us are perfectly content with our lot, and Lady Francis had a grievance that marred sadly her happy, butterfly existence. Do what she could, her son Jack would not marry.

"Dear Jack is so poor and so extravagant, I wonder what will be his end?" she sighed. "He will marry a rich girl, of course," said Clare. "It is his duty to do so, as I tell him; but he only laughs at me," sighed Lady or two perhaps." Jack Trimston had been out west, hunting buffaloes, shooting prairie chickens, racing Mexican mustangs, and playing "poker" with the miners. He had a pleasant time of it, for he liked America and the Americans, and he was sorry to have to return so soon But life in America is expensive, and Jack, who had extravagant tastes and a knack of getting through money, had spent in two months the sum he calculated would have lasted him for four, and he was in the middle of the Atlantic, on board an Inman liner, when his mother told her friend that he was shooting Indians and buffaloes. The passengers on board were chiefly Americans who were going to Europe on a pleasure-trip. There were one or two pretty girls amongst them, and Jack, who was a dangerous lady'sman, commenced a hot flirtation with one of them before he was two days at Katie C. Brown was a nice girl, and had a pair of soft, brown eyes, that always did great execution-when they opened fire, and they did now upon Jack. The Brown party consisted of three, for, besides Katie C. Brown, there was Mary L. Brown-a fine, honest American girl, with no pretense to beauty, but with a look of strength and character about her homely face-and Samuel Washington Brown, who had made money in 'Frisco in the good old days of gold-mining and wild speculation. He invested a part of it in a silver mine in Nevada, which turned out a gigantic success, and Samuel was worth his good $5,000,000.

Jack Trimston was pretty deep in the intricacies of hard flirtation with Katie C. Brown before he heard who Samuel was. It was his friend Gen. G. Jones who enlightened him. I guess, stranger that girl has got a say.

Francis, springing to her feet, intensely excited. "Half a million of money! O Jack, what are you about?" 'Why what is the matter? You are you like when it is mine.'

"O dear, Jack, do be sensible," said all about the American girl and her family. "There are two sisters-Katie and Mary; no mother. The father is worth at least a million, and is not a bad sort of fellow.

"Of course I must call on them. When do they come over?"
"In a few days, I believe. I said you would look them up, and I think you will like Katie; she is great fun.

"And you, Jack, have you any chance, do you think I mean "Chance? I rather think I have," said Jack, interrupting. "Chance, indeed! Why, I have to keep the girls away from me at the point of my

"The best thing you can do is to give out that Jack is engaged," said Clare. "You can do that for me, dear." "Of course but you will have to entertain and make much of them-Americans are mad after society and our set.'

"It will be very expensive, but I sup-pose there is nothing else to be done," sighed Lady Francis.

The Browns arrived in London and put up at the Langham hotel. Lady Francis called upon them immediately after their arrival. She was delighted with Katie, and told her friend Clare that with the exception of her American accent "she was just as good style as anyone else." "They are so quaint and original, my dear. Fancy, they call their father 'Uncle Sam.' "

"Perhaps not, dear, but what can I do? Jack is so obstinate, and I positively believe he is serious at last.'

Lady Francis had half a dozen of her relatives to meet the Browns. The dinner was, of course, perfection, and the guests well chosen-two lords and a duke and their respective wives-and as there were no young men Jack had Katie all to himself. Samuel W. Brown did not appear at all abashed in the presence of the old nobility. He was a shrewd man who had studied human nature, and had seen many phases of his master delivered a red-hot ball life, and his anecdotes of America were directly at him he received it without most interesting. ### The Men With the Pig.

A few days ago two men, says the Free Press, who were afterward found to be Detroiters, arrived in a town about fifty miles to the west of Detroit, leading a pig. It was perhaps big enough and heavy enough to be called a hog, but they termed it a pig, and as rest for the night one of the men ex-whoever hits it gets fifty cents." This provoked a large and selected stock of winks and smiles, but no one walked up until the pig man said that any one person could guess as many times as he cared to, provided a dime accompanied each guess. Then a rush Three or four merchants put up 50 guesses each. A justice of the peace took thirty. A lawyer said about twenty would do for him. fore there was any let up in the guessing about six hundred had been registered and paid for. Every soul of 'em guessed at 170 pounds. It was curious what unanimity there was in the guessing, but the pig men didn't seem to notice it. When all had been given and lo! his weight was exactly 174

A Huge Electric Battery. In erecting the great Statue of Lib-erty, two things had to be considered that seem very trifling, and yet, if negected, might destroy the statue in one day, or cause it to crumble slowly o pieces. One is the spn, the other is he sea breeze. Either of these could destroy the great copper figure, and something must be done to prevent such a disaster. The heat of the sun would expand the metal and pull it out f shape, precisely as it does pull the Brooklyn Bridge out of shape every lay. The bridge is made in four parts and when they expand with the heat of the sun they slide one past the other, and no harm is done. The river span rises and falls day and night, as heat and cold alternate. The great copper tatue is likewise in two parts, the frame-work of iron and the copper overing; and while they are securely fastened together they can move one over the other. Each bolt will slip a rifle as the copper expands in the hot August sunshine, and slide back again en the freezing winds blow and the ast figure shrinks together in the cold. Besides this, the copper surface is so thin and elastic that it will bend lightly when heated, yet keep its gen-

LIFE IN AUSTRALIA. Sydney and Melbourne Compared with American Cities. "There is a great difference between Melbourne and Sydney," said a young gentleman from Australia to a San Francisco Chronicle reporter. "Sydney is a quiet place, a rather goody-good sort of a town, you know, while Melbourne, on the contrary, is fast-nearly as fast as San Francisco, though I must say that I have seen more in this city than in any part of the world."

"Do our people remind you of those you have left at home?" "Yes, they do. You resemble the Melbourne people. There the girls on the street dress to kill. You see quite as much silk and satin on the streets there as you do here, while in Sydney the women go abroad in sober garments.

"In Melbourne are they fond of pleasure?"

"Certainly they are-very fond of it. But, you see, your tastes are different from ours. We are fond of outdoor amusements. Why, the races will bring out the whole town, and a footthey turned it over to the care of the ball or a cricket match will attract a landlord at whose inn they proposed to crowd of twenty thousand people. Everybody enjoys an outing in the year there is nothing thought of but "Not at all. In Brighton, near Melbourne, for instance, people hire a house for the season. They do not seem to take to the hotels as you do here. Perhaps for the reason," said the speaker candidly, "that they are not so good as they are here."

"We are more luxurious then?"
"You are. Take the matter of saloons. Perhaps there are about two saloons in Melbourne which have a piece of dry bread and cheese lying on the counter; and then, when I come to think of it, drinks are a penny dearer in the colonies than they are in San Francisco. Colonial beer is a great beverage out there." "I have heard a good deal of your horses and riders. Are they really so extraordinary?"

"It depends a good deal. If you the pleasures of others.—LaBruyere. want to see a really good rider just take up a mounted policeman. Do you know what the qualifications are for admission to its ranks? Well, sir, they have an old horse, well up in every knack, that is bound to throw a man. They put you in a small inclosed space; the walls have an apology for padding, while the ground is somewhat hard. They let you mount, and then the horse is goaded to desperation by being whipped by men stationed within the inclosure. "Does a fall debar you at once from the service?' "Oh, no. They are good enough to give you enough chances to kill yourself. For you may depend upon it, these falls are sometimes serious. I know a young squatter who had no reason to join the service, but did so for the fun of the thing. He went through the ordeal without once being

"There is something peculiar about them. It would surprise you to see how many sorry-looking animals there are in the colonies. The truth is, that he best horses are shipped off to India

"There is the very best of feeling exsting. I am certain that if Great Britain was in any trouble the colonies would come to her assistance, though I can not help thinking that the day is not far distant when they will follow the example set by this republic. Railway cars drawn by eamels, it is

"No Physic, Sir, in Mine!"

A good story comes from a boys' board-ng-school in "Jersey." The diet was nonotonous and constipating, and the learned Principal decided to introduce some old-style physic in the apple-sauce and await the happy results. that Alpharetta has a bee industry conducted by Judge Nesbit. His apiary is in his orchard. He uses the Modests hive. He has now forty hives, from which he has already taken about six hundred pounds of honey. The season is about half over, and he will get yet four or five hundred pounds more. The honey is extracted from the comb, and it is replaced in the hive and re filled two or three times during the season. Judge Nesbit has sold two hives this season at $10 per hive. For his honey he receives 12½ cents per pound readily. Thus it will be seen that this industry will yield him this year for one thousand pounds of honey $125, two hives at $10 each, from which may be subtracted for new hives and other expenses about $25, leaving him the neat sum of $120 for his care of the bees. The rate of increase in hives each year is about 50 per cent.
