THE FAMOUS KEMPFF CASE AS DISCUSSED IN THE WASH. TENA POST.

F. Pistorious has a long advertisement of himself in the editorial column of the Washington Post last week for which he has paid in doing dirty work for the feminine sheet. It is all about the Kempff case. That distinguished attorney is supremely happy to think that in settling that case as executor he managed to get up one law suit in the probate court, two law suits in the circuit court, and two law suits in the supreme court—five suits in all—by this means nicely feathering his own nest. It is needless to say that F. Pistorious is the only person who made any money out of all this litigation. The estate lost, the heirs lost, the county lost, as it had to pay the expense of running the circuit court to try them.

Frederick Kempff, a quiet, peaceable and honest old gentleman, who was living with a second wife and had two sets of children employed F. Pistorious to draw his will, which contained in substance three principal divisions. First, He gave his farm and the property on the farm to the wife and the youngest set of children. Second, He gave all the rest of the property to the oldest set of children. Third, For some reason or other the old gentleman made him, Pistorious one of the executors of the will. Notice this fact. Mr. Kempff by this will disposed absolutely of every dollar of his property.

Pistorious when he came to render his final account in the probate court actually insisted upon building a monument for this family. The older children desired to erect a monument at their fathers grave themselves and were willing to pay the expense. Mr. Pistorious objected and insisted that he was the man to erect a monument at the grave of Frederick Kempff and not his children. Judge Harriman decided that Mr. Kempff having disposed of every dollar of his property by his will the executor had no right to take part of that property and build a monument—thus taking a part of the property from the very persons to whom Mr. Kempff had given it in his will, especially as Mr. Kempff's older children were ready and willing to build the monument themselves and pay the whole expense.

Mr. Pistorious appealed from this decision of Judge Harriman to the circuit court and from thence to the supreme court. This was the first case. The supreme court decided that an executor or administrator could build a monument and allowed Mr. Pistorious to draw his fees out of the estate. This decision made Pistorious happy—there was money in it—for him.

On the hearing of the final account of Pistorious another question arose. The will gave the farm and the property on it to the widow and youngest children as property on the farm; he decided that it belonged to the older children. Mr. Pistorious, acting for the widow and youngest children, appealed from this decision to the circuit court and from there to the supreme court. The supreme court decided that Judge Harriman was right and that the wheat did not belong to the widow and youngest children, but they also decided that the will was so vaguely drawn and so indefinite in its provision that they gave Pistorious his fees in this case also. This decision also made Pistorious happy, there was money in it—for him.

This ended the five law suits which Pistorious managed to get up at the expense of the estate of the honest, industrious, Frederick Kempff—a man who abhorred law suits and shuddered at wicked litigation.

Moral: If you want no law suits after you are dead don't let Pistorious draw your will.

WORTH CONSIDERING.

The term of probate judge is four years. During that time many an estate is lost and trouble. We believe it is universally conceded that Mr. Harriman's administration has been singularly successful and satisfactory. His decisions have given satisfaction and his perfect acquaintance with probate proceedings has prevented litigation, and saved immensely, by rendering our advice unnecessary. Now, every man wants the assurance that in case of his death, the administration shall not cut up his estate. The matter of expense is largely under the control of the probate court, and the main ground of objection to Judge Harriman's re-election is said to be that he has prevented the accumulation of charges for legal services, and saved to estates thousands of dollars which another might have just as well let flow in the pockets of attorneys. We can remember the time when the probate office afforded a regular income to an outside lawyer or two. Under Harriman it has not been so.

These considerations should weigh more with every voter than party allegiance. The office comes right home to every man and it comes after death, when he can no longer guard his own interests. Heah-ud provide before he dies, by selecting a man for judge of probate who can give the greatest assurance that estates will be protected and justly disposed of. In this case there is no chance for a doubt. Mr. Harriman's administration has established just that reputation for him. Mr. Honey is entirely untrue.

The above is from the Ypsilanti Sentinel, and is a correct view of the matter. The people of this county will look at it in the same light and will see to it that Judge Harriman is re-elected to the office which he has so faithfully filled for the past eight years.

The arguments used by the republicans to induce Irish-Americans to desert the democratic party are answered in one question. Why should we leave our party now that its bill of victory has come?

"What has the democratic party done for Irish-Americans," asks one of those who have gone over to the republicans. If it is meant, what office has it given them, the answer is obvious: a party that is not in power has no offices to give. At least let the democratic party have a chance to prove itself.

The republican party has been in power for over twenty years, and it has excluded Irish-Americans from every public office and honor that it could, both in the state and the federal governments. Now the time has come for the democratic party to take the reins, and Irish-Americans have, at least, a fair show of public recognition. The republicans, however, refuse to them as a drowning man clutches at a straw, and say: "Desert your party and come to our aid. Keep your party in office, and we will be your friends."

Do the republicans think that the Irish-Americans are fools as well as traitors? If we are to depend on promises we will take the word of the party to which we have been loyal, rather than a party which has been disloyal and inimical to us. Why should we leave the democratic party when the object for which we have worked for twenty years is within our reach? To oblige the republicans? To make that man president who as secretary of state, congressman, local partisan, has been the particular republican against whom we have the deepest grudge? Nonsense! Irish-Americans are going to vote as they have voted since the war—for the party which has been true to them in principle, and which will be true to them in its power and practice, remembering their loyalty in the days of its defeat.—Boston Pilot.

We believe that the business men, farmers and soldiers will make no mistake in their votes for congress this year and therefore have confidence in the election of Col. Eldredge. His work during the last session will be the best guarantee that he will not neglect the interests of any of his constituents. He will not permit a tariff robbery if his vote will secure it. He has been true to his constituents, and he will be true to them in the future. He is not a party man, but a man of principle. He is not a party man, but a man of principle. He is not a party man, but a man of principle.

Can the girl who eloped begeth the "maid of the mist"? A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Mary A. Dabney, of Tusculum, Pa., was abducted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for short time she was completely cured, gaining ten lbs. in a few months. Free trial bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Eberbach & Son's drug store. Large bottles $1.

These are solid facts. The new blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the liver, biliousness, jaundice, constipation, weak kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulant, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Eberbach & Son.

Sleight of hand—Refusing an offer. ALL IN THE LINE OF NATURE—There is nothing in the line of magic or mystery about that wonderful and popular medicine, Parker's Tonic. It is simply the best and most scientific combination possible of the essential principles of those vegetable curatives which act powerfully and directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. But there needs, if it is, or will be, any success in its use, it is all the time curing those who it has despaired of ever getting well. For yourself, your wife and children.

A trying situation—The district attorney's. We are pleased to know that all over the county the democrats are up and doing, working with only one object in view, the success of the whole democratic ticket from congressman to coroner. That the Cleveland electors and the state ticket as well will have large majorities in Washtenaw county even the most radical republican admits. From now until the day of election let democrats do their duty and the majorities that will be rolled up for the national, state, congressional and county tickets will astonish the natives.

CAVE. ALDER'S friends should insist on his speaking only in strong democratic towns where he can do himself no damage.

Don't look like a wreck.—"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick. Yes, that is so. It is said, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation, and sold at the low price of 50 cents.

A rising young man—The elevator boy.

A lady's perfect companion. FAIRNESS, CHILDREN, a new book, tells how any woman may become a mother or without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to prevent and overcome morning sickness, swollen limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. Physicians highly recommend it as the wife's true private companion. THE FACTS IN THE CASE.

WHAT THE HEIRS OF THE LATE FREDERICK KEMP HAVE TO SAY OF PISTORIUS.

THEY CAME TO THE FRONT WITH AN AFFIDAVIT.

Which Bears Down Pretty Heavily on the Honest Executor.

Mrs. Christina Kemp has caused to be published in the Washtenaw Post an indorsement of one Pistorius, presumably based upon the conduct of this honest man in the Frederick Kemp estate.

The attention of the public is called to the following statements relating to that much litigated matter: After the litigation had ceased and Pistorius was making a distribution of the estate among the legatees, at the law office of E. D. Kinn, in the city of Ann Arbor, attention was directed anew to the final account made under oath in the probate court by the honest executor, Pistorius, from which it appeared that Pistorius had failed to account for certain moneys received by him as such executor. When claim was made for such moneys Pistorius positively denied having received the same, but a gentle pressure from the other side and reference to a criminal prosecution, induced the honest executor to produce his books, when it appeared from his own books that his account as sworn to by himself in the probate court was false. And thereupon this honest executor drew additional checks upon a bank in Ann Arbor for a part of the money which he had attempted to retain as will appear by the books of the bank. The legatees under the will were not then entirely satisfied that they had received their just dues, but under the advice of counsel they gave their receipts, his account having been passed, and the only remedy being a criminal prosecution, which they did not care to pursue.
