On Saturday evening a large and interesting programme was presented at the meeting of the Library Alpha Phi. The Emerson quintette and F. P. Blum, an amateur pianist, furnished the music.

The Christmas number of the Argonaut appeared on Wednesday evening. It is not quite the last of last year's regular numbers. Tewfik, Frederick Townsend and other popular authors contributed some good pieces of literature.

Joe B. McMahon, president of the university total abstinence club was serenaded last evening by the members of the club accompanied by their fine band. After several pieces had been rendered, the serenaders were invited inside and treated to refreshments by the honored host.

THE RINK.

About 400 persons were present at the reopening of the rink on Saturday evening. The management has gone to great expense in laying a new floor and improving the building generally. A smoking room has been provided to be used also as lounging room for gentlemen. The benches around the surface have been removed and chairs placed there instead. The new floor is laid over the old one, a layer of sand and tar being put between to deaden the sound and to absorb the moisture. The present lot of ice has been repaired and 100 pair of the latest Fremont improved skates have been added. The managers expect to add new decorations and conveniences from time to time, hoping by their constant endeavors to make their patrons feel at home, and thereby to secure a large and steady patronage. Mr. Wyman expects to be in the city at least once a week to superintend the rink generally. A large number of attractions have been booked and polo games with the best clubs will be arranged for.

The rink will hereafter be open every afternoon, evening, except on Sundays, from 2 till 5:30 p. m. and 7 till 10 p. m. Full band on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Usual prices on band evenings. Other evenings and matinees, tickets 15 cents, children, 10 cents. Skate tickets 10 cents.

The management have booked the greatest novelty ever seen in Ann Arbor in the shape of the New York and London Exhibition for the rink generally, and evening. Do not fail to see them.

The most exciting game of the season will be the polo game to be played tomorrow evening between the Ann Arbor and the Detroit Light Guards teams.

Instructors are heretofore to skate with beginners only and not more than ten minutes at a time with the same person.

The management suggest that heretofore gentlemen while skating will remove their hats and wear polo caps instead.

A new figure in the grand march occasionally would be very acceptable.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wyman spent all last week in Ann Arbor.

The Orange race is to be repeated soon by special request.

The music sounds immense with the new floor.

Edward Come has charge of the skate room.

Have you observed the new rules? How do you like the new skates? Warranty Deeds.

Bright's disease, diabetes, weak kidneys, or urinary complaint quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed.

A doubtful state—Wondering whether we will accept him or not.

The modern hot house—A crematory.

EAST TO SEE THROUGH—How can a watch—no matter how costly—be expected to go when the mantaining won't operate? How can anyone be well when his stomach, liver or kidneys are out of order? Of course you will say "He cannot." Yet thousands of people drag along miserably in that condition, not sick abed, but not able to work with comfort and energy. How foolish, when a bottle of two of Parker's Tonic would set them all right. Try it, and get back your health and spirits.

A Texas steer—Giving a man 24 hours to leave town in.

Crazy patchwork—Mending a "cracked brain."

ONE BOTTLE INSTEAD OF A DOZEN— "And it took only one bottle to do it," said a gentleman, speaking of Parker's Hair Balsam. I had a cut of fever, and when I got well of that my hair began to fall out so fast as to alarm me. I really don't know what to do, until one day a friend said, "Try Parker's Hair Balsam." That was some time ago. What surprised me was the fact that one bottle was enough. I expected to use up a dozen." Clean, highly perfumed, and not a dye. Restores original color.

"Tile, the Greatest Labor-Saving Machine of the Age."

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

DIVISION, Ill., March 16.—One of the strongest and most convincing facts that I have yet seen with regard to the drainage system brought out in the December report of the Agricultural Department of Illinois. It is this:

ACREAGE.

Increase in corn in Livingston County, 1881..... 368,507
1882..... 140,550
Increase in corn in Logan County, 1881..... 147,758
1882..... 3,970,901

Livingston over Logan, 1881, 3,602,394
Total number of feet laid in Livingston County up to 1881..... 1,140,798
Total number of feet laid in Logan County up to 1881..... 9,689,499

This table shows beyond all doubt that owing to the free use of tile that one county has been able to produce nearly as much corn on 10,000 acres of land as another county has produced on 265,000 acres, which is nearly double, and the beauty of the whole is that it was done with half the work! Mr. Editor, suppose a kind Providence should lengthen out the span of our day until we saw Illinois thoroughly tile-drained, where would be put the corn that this State would produce, and what would we do with our drain? From the same source of information I gather the following as regards the progress of tile-drainage in these two counties:

ANN ARBOR DEMOCRAT SUPPLEMENT.

THE PROGRESS OF EVENTS.

What Has Been Accomplished in the "Land of Montezuma."

[George Alfred Townsend.]

The nature of the influence which the United States may, if it chooses, exert over the republics of South and Central America is clearly shown by the quiet progress of events in Mexico during the last ten years. Prejudices of a generation's growth have been swept away, the suspicions of litigious allayed, the superstitious terror of strangers, so universal among the lower classes of the Mexican populace, have certainly lessened. And all this has been the result of a private enterprise conducted on Mexican soil by American capitalists, of increased travel and closer social relations between representative men of the two republics.

The tone of our diplomatic course has not noticeably varied during the past ten years, but our business relations have so increased that fifty persons in the United States are now interested in the welfare of the "Land of Montezuma" where scarcely one was a decade ago. A glance at the titles of books published in the United States of late years will prove this. Ten years ago who wrote or read a book on Mexico? A few sensational novels, a few newspaper letters, a few untrustworthy and badly written works of travels and compilations of history comprised all that was being published. At present nearly every publishing house of note has its works upon Mexico, its climate, resources, history, ethnology and antiquities.

Few persons realize how actively the Mexicans themselves are taking hold of other enterprises in connection with American capitalists. There are a great deal of wealth hidden away in Mexico in some of the old families. Living has been so cheap for centuries, and the mines have paid so well, that many young and energetic Mexicans, some of them educated abroad, some in the United States, have the necessary capital to take their part in the industrial development of the country. The inevitable increase in real estate values has also fallen largely to the profit of the natives.

The three things that the chief cities of Mexico will soon have are telephones, electric lights and cable cars. The other day the Mexican Cable Tramway company was incorporated. In the city of Pachuca, the capital of the state of Hidalgo, population 30,000, a two-mile cable car line is now being constructed for passengers and freight. The extensive ore reduction works near this town make the promised traffic large and profitable. The horse railroad in Guanajuato, a city of 75,000 population, is to be replaced with a cable road, and the same will be done in Zacatecas. Cable roads will be soon commenced, it is said, in San Luis Potosi, Puebla, Guadalupe, all cities of nearly 100,000 inhabitants. The expected cable roads in the City of Mexico will cover about twelve miles of distance.

A Gigantic Pneumatic Tube.

The New York Graphic gives the following details concerning the proposed pneumatic tube for carrying letters and small packages from Chicago to New York: The idea at first seems impracticable, but on examination it turns out to be feasible. Two tubes are to be made of brass, which will run side by side, although, it is said, one tube will be tried at first. A powerful engine with an exhaust wheel is to be stationed at one end. It is said that if the tube is properly made and planted no air will escape. The right of way, it is believed, can be secured for nothing, or at a nominal expense, and the main cost will be the tube and the engines and stations. A letter, a sample of grain, or package of any kind which is to be sent, is inclosed in a leather ball. A ball presents the least friction as a rolling object, and the leather is to be stiff and heavy. A continuous current of air is passing through the tube constantly.

With one pipe the plan is to reverse the engine every hour—the first hour forcing air into it at the Chicago end, and sending packages to New York, the next hour exhausting the air at Chicago and drawing the packages as quickly back. The men who have it in charge do not say how long it will take to send a package in this way, but claim to send it in less than a minute. Stations will be established at the important cities on the route. It is expected to pay a large profit, and to do the business of the telegraph companies, express companies and the mail. They say the scheme of sending crude petroleum by a pipe for long distances, as is now done, was laughed at at first, and that this one is more practicable, if possible, and not nearly so costly, as the pipes are to be so small, and can go around curves and over hills, as well as on a level.

Just the Leg for an Arctic Climate.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]
All Smith sound explorers have something to say of the Esquimaux with the wooden leg. Everybody knows, of course, that timber does not grow in that part of the world, and the man with the wooden leg must be quite a curiosity to the Ellesmere Land Esquimaux, who occasionally visit their friends on the Greenland coast. His name is Arrowtah. One day, when he was quite a boy, he was out on a bill hunting birds, when a great stone rolled on his foot and crushed it. His mother, to save his life, cut off his leg about six inches below the knee with a knife made of bone. Arrowtah survived the rude surgery, and grew up a stout young man, but was almost entirely helpless to his tribe, because he could only hop around on one leg.

In 1848 the surgeon of the North Star, one of the Franklin search vessels, made him a wooden leg, which was repaired and renewed by Dr. Hayes eleven years later. Twenty-four years after he first put it on the Polar party found him still stumping around on his good, stout wooden leg, and he could hunt seals with the best of his tribe, though the difficulty of traveling over the rough ice made him useless as a walrus hunter. Arrowtah at last accounts was very anxious to cross over to Ellesmere Land in search of a wife. He said none of the ladies in his own tribe suited him.

Grant's Literary Work.

[New York Letter.]
Mr. Roswell Smith of The Century tells me: "The current story that we have agreed to pay Gen. Grant $15,000 for his four battle articles, and $50,000 for his autobiography is absurd, though a royalty might possibly give him that. The fact is that we have made no bargain whatever. We shall certainly give all they are worth." The general himself, whose bodily afflictions are less severe, told a friend of mine that he enjoyed writing more than he ever enjoyed anything else in his life. "More than fighting?" he was asked; and he laughed and answered, heartily "I never liked that."

Attention is called to the extraordinary inducements that Blittz & Langsdorf, better known as "The Two Sams" are offering to the public in the line of clothing and gents' furnishing goods. Johnnie Marin, son of J. M. Martin, was accidentally shot Monday afternoon at St. Thomas' school, by his school mate, Willie McGuire. Both of the boys sit together and at the afternoon recess Johnnie asked Willie to cock a revolver. It being a self-cocking, the bullet went off, the bullet passing through his left leg, carrying with it a piece of his pants. The revolver, 32 calibre, belonged to Mr. Cunningham, who rooms at the Knickerbocker Hotel. Willie attended the wounded boy, who is getting along finely.
It is likely become the proprietor of a certain paper published here who should receive the support from the people of this community, to advise those who intend making purchases to go to Detroit for their goods. There is no place in the state where better assortments of everything are kept and offered at reasonable prices as here in this city. Every branch of trade is represented, the merchants are obliging and so accommodating and give you the best of service. Hence it is poor policy to extol Detroit merchants, and especially so for a newspaper man doing business in Ann Arbor.

Peterson's Magazine for January is certainly the most beautiful number ever issued, even of that progressive lady's book. There are two steel engravings, each a gem in its way: "The Rag-Baby," after the celebrated German artist, Knickerbocker, and "End Amor, Blossoms" after the hardly less celebrated Carl Schen. Next there is a colored pattern for a curtain-border, etc., a most exquisite and costly affair, at retail it would certainly cost fifty cents. The double-size fashion plate, printed from steel, and colored by hand, is also a miracle of beauty. As for "fun" stories, etc., they are the best possible; all original, and all by American writers. Mrs. Ann S. Stephens begins a powerful novel, "Motherless Girl," which will bring tears to every eye. Specimens of the magazine are sent gratis, if written for, to get up clubs with. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Chas. L. Davis, who never fails to draw, will appear at the opera house next Tuesday evening in the play of "Alvin Joslin." The Daily Telegram says: "The Chas. L. Davis Alvin Joslin comedy company was the talk of the town, when before the curtain was rung up at the Grandold opera house. The celebrated band in their showy uniform, and the grand display of diamonds in Chas. L. Davis' show window, being the objects which set the people agog, and when the play commenced one of the largest and merriest of audiences had assembled to enjoy the capital comedy. Mr. Davis is one of the most ingenious of actors. He does so much to amuse an audience that it would be simply impossible to give even a partial description of his geniality in a review of moderate length. You should go and see him and enjoy the fun yourself. His company is good, the scenery and stage appointments unusually appropriate, and the music well adapted by his own orchestra, enchanting.
It is a great relief in this day of made-to-order-stars, to find a man like Roland Reed, who has not sprung up "like a mushroom in a single night," but who served as apprentice and journeyman in the profession, and can present talent, polished and nearly perfect, by long experience. When but a few months old he made his first appearance as the baby in the old farce of "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White," in Mrs. John Drew's theatre in Philadelphia, his native city. At an early age he became an actor of that good old home of the drama, and when fifteen was called-boy there, and occasionally said "My lord, the carriage waits." Here his capability in comedy was suddenly proven in a manner which, while surprising, was highly satisfactory to the management. Lotz was then in the first flood of his success, and was playing "The Firefly," supported by that excellent comedian, he late Robert Craig. Just previous to the rising of the curtain, one evening, Mr. Craig was taken suddenly ill, and could not appear. After all plans had been thrown aside as impracticable, Mrs. Drew said: "Roland, will you play Mr. Craig's part to-night, to oblige Miss Lotz?" "Oh, I will be glad to oblige both you and Miss Lotz," and I need not read the part, as I know it from listening and reading the prompt-book at rehearsals. And so he did, and played it that night (singing all the music) in such an excellent manner that the public was not aware of any change in the cast.
