The statures of William IV. and George IV., which adorned the Westminster vestibule, were overturned. The unusual number of lady visitors to St. Stephen's as well as the Tower increases the growing suspicion that the dynamite miscreauts are either women or men in female disguise. Between one and two o'clock an extraordinary number of women carrying jealously gnarded parcels were observed by the police, who are becoming firmly convinced that these parcel carriers formed a band of conspirators. All the halls and rooms of the house of commons are covered with horsehair from the massive covered with hersehair from the massive furniture wrecked by the explosion. Several suspicious characters were arrested during the afternoon, one or two of whom were re-leased, and the others retained.

HISTORICAL SKETCH. We append a brief history of these famous Westminster hall is one of most cheristed subjiquities of England. It was originally the grand banqueting hall of an extensive palace built in the year 1097 by William Rafus, the son of William the Conqueror—the second of the line of Nor-Conqueror—the second of the line of Norman kings. It was long famous as the largest hall in Europe, the roof of which was supported without columns. It is the only portion of the original palaces still remaining. It has for centuries been the scene of state trials, and upon the accession of every new king a grand banquet was served tin it. It was here that Charles I. was tied and sentenced. Since the erection of the new houses of parliament the principal entrance to the same has been through the hall, which has thus formed a vast corridor to the magnificent pile. Westminster hall entrance to the same has been through the hall, which has thus formed a vast corridor to the magnificent pile. Westminster hall is 270 feet in length and 74 wide. The roof is an open timbered gothic construction of great beauty and strength. Plans have of late been under consideration for improving the north front and west side, which latter has for a century past been disfigured with latter has for a century past been disfigured with has for a century past been disfigured with modern buildings containing the law courts. modern buildings containing the law courts.

These having now been pulled down, the old original walls and buttresses have been revealed, all of which it was the purpose thoroughly to restore. No other building in London except Westminister Abbay is more rich in association or the destruction of which would create more popular horror and indignation.

EXPLOSION!

Great Excitement in London.

A few minutes past 2 on the afternoon of Jan. 24, a terrific explosion occurred in the vestibule to the houses of parliament. The spot at which the explosion occurred is close to the House of lords. An immense amount of damage was done to the building. Four people were seriously injured and two policemen, who were in the immediate vicinity of the explosive when it went off, are said to be dying. The internal machine was first seen by a lady, who, being curious to know the contents of the strange looking package, pointed it out to a policeman named Cole, at the same time asking him what it was. Cole seized the box and the explosion followed, dealing destruction on a l sides and completely wrecking the hall. Three minutes the avalanche came with a crash and a roar apou the outselt to the conset that the fall of such a mass of snow would account for any vibrations labeled.

Surface in billowy motion, and in less than three minutes the avalanche came with a crash and a roar apou the outselt of the town, burying rome houses thurty feet in snow, and sweeping higher structures before it like straws. Parties of men at once rushed to the rescue of the overwhelmed citizens. On the upper slope it was found that many habitations had been utterly swept away. Twenty-five corpse were discovered, some of them stripped of every particle of clothing and horribly mangled. Nearly a hundred persons were found suffering rom contused wounds or crushed and helpless under beams of snow. Lower down the work of digging out the snow imprisoned was begun and carried on with vigor. Menny were rescued. On the upper slope it was found that many habitations had been utterly swept away.

THE DREADED AVALANCHE. Terrible accounts continue to be received concerning the frightful work of avalanches in the region of the Piedmont Alps. A young fellow named Otto Frank was arrested in Chicago recently charged with having stolen books from the public library, the books being found in his room. The boxes in which the books were found were removed to the City hall, and an examination of them revealed aix or eight infernal machines containinf dynamite. Consternation reigned when the discovery was made, and Frank was placed under strict guard. When questioned, Frank said he was only experimenting for scientific purposes. The statement was made at Police head quarters, however, that the young man was a socialist. Any one of the machines was poweful enough to blow up the entire city hall.

A CINCINNATI TRAGEDY. A terrible tragely took place at Newport, Ky., Jan. 25. Mrs. Carrie L. Winslow choked her son, 7 years old, to death, beat her 10-years-old daughter so severely with a base ball club that it is believed her injuries will prove fatal, and then cut her own throat with a regar producing speedy death. Keelers were instanly killed. Another man, named Joseph Breur, will probably die. The factory employs 270 men, and had the accident occurred a few minutes later the loss of life would have been terrible. Damage to building $25,000.

The "Doctor of Alcantara," was given at the Grand opera house last Thursday evening by Ypsilanti home talent, under the direction of Prof. F. S. Undoubtedly the best work was done by Mr. Ben Joslyn and Miss Ella Joslyn, who played the parts of The Doctor and Inez almost better than could have been expected. Next in orcould have been expected. Next in order of merit was the acting and singing of Mr. Elder as Carlos, and Miss Everise as Lucrezia, and we wonder indeed why the part of Isabella was not given to Miss Everise. A LOSING JOKE. 'A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to 'a lady patient who was complaining of her 'continued ill health, and of his inability to cure 'her, j kingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The 'lady took it in earnest, and used the Bitters, 'from which she obtained permanent health. 'She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, 'but he is not so well pleased with it, as it 'cost him a good patient.' FEES OF DOCTORS. The fee of doctors at $3.00 a visit would

Thousands Hastened to their Graves

By relying on testimonials written in vivid glowing language of some miraculous cures made by some largely puffed up doctor or patent medicine has hastened thousands to their graves; the readers having almost insane faith that the same miracle will be performed on them, that these testimonials mention, while the so-called medicine is all the time nastening them to their graves. Although we have
