Wolf of Saginaw, and later deeded the property with the incumbrance, to his bride. His friends came to the rescue and put up bail bonds for $1,000 and he was released, but was again arrested on complaint of Wolfe, who charges that Kniffen obtained the $600 under false pretenses. In default of bail, fixed $1,500, he was locked up, but a prominent business man came to the rescue and bailed him out.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.

JAN. 27,-SENATE-The Attorney-General communicated to the Senate his opinion, as requested, that a reference to "Howell's Annotated Statutes," in amending the laws of the State was not sufficient. The Attorney General recommends a reference to the par-ticular section to be amended by number and section and year; also to the section of the compilation of 1871, if contained therein, and also as a matter of great convenience to the particular section of "Howell's General Statutes." In the opinion of Attorney-General Taggert "Howell's General Statutes" are not within the meaning of the Constitution a "compilation of the laws," though a sufficient evidence of the laws, A resolution was introduced, and laid over, for a joint special committee of two from the Senate and Ira Cox of Cadillac stole $450 from his room mate William McGraw. Lake Michigan railroad. Adjourned until Who Owns Michigan's Metropolis? A special to the Detroit Free Press says:-A sensational suit, involving the title to 300 acres of property located in the business center of Detroit, valued at $50,000,000, is about to be brought by Barton & Son and Alexander Stevenson, leading attorneys of Pitts-burg Pa. The claimant is James Donahue, a resident of Pittsburg. In 1832 Richard Donahue, a father of the claimant, moved to Detroit and engaged in real estate speculations at the time when land was very cheap. He had acquired about 300 acres when hesuddenly died without a will. His personal effects were forwarded to Pittsburg to members of his family. No knowlege of his real estate transactions was ever made known to his children, but about a year ago James Donahue's wife in searching through one of the old trunks came across several deeds and papers which were shown to her husband. He in turn submttted them to his attorneys. The attorneys visited Detroit and became convinced that the claim of Richard Donahue's heirs to the property in question was Rossa says:—It was a premeditated affair, and this woman was simply the engine by which the dastardly work was accomplished. She had no private revenge to gratify. No relative of hers had been injured in the English explosions. It is the work of the English glish government, whose policy has always been to assassinate men they could not other-wise reach. She is the agent of the British minister or somebody else. This woman came to me and said she was Irish, but that her husband did not sympathize with the cause of Ireland. She is rabid in her views on dynamite. She said the London explosions dynamite. She said the London explosions were no good, and wanted a horrible sacrifice of life to strike terror to the hearts of Ireland's enemies. I told her I was not engaged in that business, and that I received no money for such purposes, but only to help the Irish cause. She reiterated that thousands of lives should be sacrificed in London. I had been to see my printer at 4 o'clock, when I started out to meet her. She wanted me to sign a receipt for money. The receipt me to sign a receipt for money. The receipt contained the word 'dynamite' and I declined to sign it. I put the paper in my pocket and walked out with her. A SLIGHT DECREASE.

Reports from 21 cities, representing 35 per cent. of the total sales of stamps, postal cards, and stamped envelopes show a falling off in sales of 1.2 per cent. for the December uarter of 1884 compared with 1883. Only our cities on the list show an increase as follows: Brocklyn 4.274, St. Louis 6,266, Detroit 6,729, New Orleans 906. The aggregate sales for the quarter which ended Dec. 31, 1884 were $10,500,000 against $10,-678 674 the corresponding quarter of 1883.

Chief Engineer Melville, of Arctic fame, has issued an address to the American public, wherein he expresses the belief that the time is now ripe for making of a final and successful voyage to the North Pole. The route he advecates is by way of Franz Josef Land, and he declares it to be an entirely safe and feasible one. It would be, he thinks, an actual saving of life to make the attempt now before the 'knowledge born of experience expires, and he trusts there is some man in America who will rise to the

The Wound not Dangerous, to the Regret of the Woman.

O'Donovan Rossa, the "Irish Dynamiter," was shot on Chambers St., New York, on the alteracon of the 24. inst., by a woman who gave her name as Ysealt Dudley. The first shot took effect in O'Donovan's body and he fell to the sidewalk. The woman continued to shoot until she had emptied her five-chambered revolver. Only the first shot took effect. City Marshal James McAuley was present at the time, and breaking through the crowd that had collected even before the shoting was over, seized the woman, who still held the smoking pistol in her hand, and told her she was under arrest. Matthew Lawson, a coal miner living near Hays station, Penn., took home with him a three-pound package of blasting powder the other night and placed it on a table under a shelf on which stood a lighted lamp. Next morning while Lawson was absent at work a piece of plastering from the ceiling overhead f.ll upon the lamp, overturned it, and igniting the powder, caused an explosion. Lawson's wife was blown across the room, her head striking the wall with terrific force, rendering her unconscious. Two of her sons, age nine and thirteen, were knocked down by the force of the explosion and both were injured internally. A daughter, age five, will probably die. Aside from the injuries she received from being dashed against the wall, her clothing took firs and a part of her body was burned to a crisp. Matthew Lawson, a coal miner living near

MUTINY ON SHIPBOARD.

Capt. Endstrom, of Swedish brigantine, Natsl, who arrived in New York Jan. 28, had a thrilling experience with mutineers while on the voyage from Boston to Brisbane, Australia, involving the death of three persons, the terrible wounding of the captain and the injury of others on board. The mutineers first brained the second mate and threw him overhoard. He was a son of Clark Endstrops overboard. He was a son of Capt, Endstrom. They then attacked and twice shot the first They then attacked and twice shot the first mate, Sylvanus, who was in charge of the deck. At the same time the ship's carpenter went below and attacked the sleeping captain with an adze, the blow being badly aimed, only shattering the jaw bone. The captain awoke and a truggle ensued, in which he was badly cut in the neck with a sheath knife. The first mate then came to his aid and the carpenter fied. The mate and captain went on deck and found the steward and two seamen, Toton and Refus, armed with axes and capstan bars. The captain drew his pistol and the mutineers ran torwards and jumped down the booby hatch. The scuttle was put on and battened down, making them prisonon and battened down, making them prisoners. A Michigan Maid's Sorrow.

A correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, writing from San Francisco says: Miss Edith Miller, a beautiful girl of 18 years, graduated from Vassar College last summer and returned to her home in Marquette, Mich, where her father, Horatio Miller, lived in fine style with his family. Miller is the owner of several copper mines in Michigan, and is very wealthy. Soon after the young lady returned home a Pittsburgh drummer named Hiram Meldrum, whom she had met in Poughkeepsie, torned up in Mar uette, and after a brief containip much against the father's wishes, the young couple eloped in October last.

The parents were stricken down with grief, and search was made everywhere for Edith. In December Mr. Miller heard that his daughter was in San Francisco and hither he at once came. After some search he found her, but his grief almost killed him when he discovered that she was an inmate of a house of ill-repute. His first impulse was to kave her to her shame, but the thought of the broken-hearted mother at home anxiously awaiting her child's return, induced him to take back his now penitent daughter and a couple of dava ago they A correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, riting from San Francisco says: Miss

To the Editor Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat.

Sir,—On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible disease. I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, and weighed over 200 pounds, and hardly knew, in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull pains in various parts of the body and do not understand it. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malsdy which had fastened tself upon me first began. Still thought nothing of it; that probably had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a heavy, and at times neuralgic, pain in one side of my head, but as it would A young, warm-hearted girl receives daily from a pleasant, gentle-mannered young man all those little attentions in homely domestic relations that are in reality so little, but which express so come one day and be gone the next, I paid little attention to it. Then my stomach would get out of order and my much, and feeling day by day that she, and she only, is the one to whom he have first such attentions in just that pays first such attentions in just that these things meant anything serious. manner, and who could not fore-see the I fancied I was suffering from malaria and doctored accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids I was passing-also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled. And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot un-

I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the famed mineral springs in America and traveled Maine to California. Still grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation, another, dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility, another congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of many of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable The slight symptoms I at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant disorders. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a burden to myself and friends. could retain no foods on my stomach and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrolable. In my acony I frequently fell to the floor and clutched the carpet. and prayed for death. Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My water was filled with tube-casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's Disease of the kidneys in its last stages!

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, at that time rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures of cases like my own which had come under his observation, by means of a remedy, which he urged me to try. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being in the least eneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised 1 would waive my prejudice. I began its use on the first day of June, 1881, and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but this I thought was a good sign for one in my debili tated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was finally able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I oticed a decided change for the better, as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so re-joiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying bed, I vowed in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover, I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity, and this letter is in fulfilment of that vow. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain, and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Cure, the remedy which I used. Since my recovery I have thoroughly till the time was up. He started in again, but he got into a row which led to a duel. They had a pretty good fight, and he came out best, but it laid like the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a him up for three months more. J. B. HENION, M. D. ROCHESTER, N. Y. Dec. 30. Lieutenant Greely's Paper

Lieutenant Greely of Arctic fame has recently published a letter which contains an interesting survey of future Arctic work. Among the five routes toward the Pole he prefers that of Franz Local to ward the pole he prefers that of Franz Local to ward the pole he prefers that of Franz Local the prefers the prefers that of Franz Local the prefers the pref Josef Land, basing his judgment mainly upon the necessity of finding a coast are complaints that only women suffer, with a western aspect trending northwith a western aspect trending north-ward in order to penetrate beyond the eighty-third parallel. A Russian expedition it ing, especially to women, and to men, too, is already announced, will make Franz for when women suffer, the household Josef Land its base of operations, and is askew. if the English endeavor to surpass Lieutenant Lockwood's record they will undoubtedly follow in the track of Leigh Smith's yacht to Eira Harber. As for future American explorations, it s well known that Chief Engineer Melsecond Grinnell could be found to fur-nish the ships. Nevertheless, it is by no particulars. World's Dispensary Medmeans certain that the Austrian ice ical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. lands extend beyond the eighty-third parallel. If Franz Josef Land be an archipelago similar to Spitzenbergen, progress byeond Cape Vienna, the extreme point sighted by Lieutenant Payer, would be as impracticable as beory excludes a coast not having a western aspect. Lieutenant Greely dismisses it with a cursory glance as bar-red out by the heavy drift ice on the coast. Nevertheless, the German expedition found a good harbor on the coast, and Lieutenant Payer in the ourse of a month's sledge journey was able to go as many miles as he subsequently traversed in Franz Josef Land in about the same period. The latitude reached was five degrees lower because the ship wintered on a lower parallel; and it is not probable that a more northerly berth for a ship can be found on that coast than the Germania's win-ter quarters. The sledge-work begins on the seventy-fifth instead of the there will be a much greater distance to be traversed toward the Pole. At the same time, the base of operations is more accessible than Eira Harbor and there will be a coast line, certainly as far as Lieutenant Lockwood's extreme point, and possibly a long way beyond. ogs, basing his recommendation upon Lieutenant Lockwood's experience. He doubts whether the United States government will extend aid to such exeditions for a long time to come, but opes that Lieutenant Ray's proposal for a scientific colony at Boothea Felix in search of the Magnetic Pole will receive immediate support. One objection to this scheme is that the colonists would have a roving commission. The Magnetic Pole was approximately located by Captain Ross in 1831, but un-fortunately it does not remain stationary. It revolves around the North Pole once in nineteen centuries, moving something over eleven minutes a year. The scientific colonists would have to search for it in that inhospitable archi-belago where Sir John Franklin was lured to his death.

Climatic Marvel. The Green Mountain News. Although the vast territory of Alaska neasures 1,400 miles one way and 2,200 the other, and its furthest island s as far west of San Francisco as that city is west of Bath, in Maine, few pecple have any clear idea of that country and its people. Within the 1,400 miles between its northern and southern boundaries, there is chance for a great range of climate, and while the north-ern mainland lies within the Arctic cirele, and is wrapped in the snow and ice of polar regions, southern Alaska rejoices in winter that is not as severe as that of Maryland or Kentucky. The isothermal lines make strange curves on the Pacific coast, and influenced by the warm Japan stream or Kuro-Sino, mild, temperate climate is given to the shores and archipeligo of south-western Alaska. As in California, tem-perature and climate depend more upon the distance from the sea coast than upon distance from the equator, and Sitka summers are quite as windy and foggy, but hardly cooler than those of San Francisco. Sitka itself lies in the same atitude as Aberdeen, Scotland, and in all the islands south of it there is much the same climate, accompanied by the corresponding ocean currents as prevails on the west coast of Ireland. By the records of the Russian observatory, maintained at Sitka for fifty years, tory, maintained at Sitka for fifty years, the thermometer fell to zero only three times during that period. The reports of commanders of the United States ships during the past four years confirm this climatic marvel, and show ships during the past four years confirm this climatic marvel, and show many other strange things in meteor-
