AROUND A GREAT STATE.

Good Health Results From Sanitary Work. Sanitary authorities have claimed that the sanitary work which they have recommended to be done as a preparation for cholera,—such as preventing and abating nuisances; attending to drains, sewers, privies, and cesspools; cleaning up generally, and unusual carefulness in regard to foods and drinks,—would reduce the sickness and deaths from diseases, even if cholera did not come. The weekly reports for July, 1885, to the Michigan State Board of Health, by physicians in different parts of the state, indicate that this claim is being realized in Michigan, so far as relates to the lessened sickness,—it having been lessened from nearly every disease, and greatly lessened from fevers and from diarrheal and other diseases believed to be especially influenced by sanitary conditions; and this is true notwithstanding the meteorological conditions in that month were rather more than usually unfavorable to health.

It is proper to state, however, that the sickness is the proper to state, however, that the sickness is the proper to state, however, that the sickness is the same and the sickness in the same and the sickness is the proper to state, however, that the sickness is the same and the sickness is the same and the sickness is the proper to state, however, that the sickness is the same and the same and the sickness is the same and Sanitary authorities have claimed that the that month were rather more than usually unfavorable to health.

It is proper to state, however, that the sickness in any month is infruenced by the meteorological conditions in the preceding month, and that the meteorological condition in June, 1885 were favorable to health.

Observations in Michigan for many years have shown that in July the meteorological conditions especially unfavorable to health are high temperature, excessive humidity of the atmosphere, and deficiency of ozone. The bulletin of "Health in Michigan, July, 1885," says: "For the month of July, 1885, compared with the average of corresponding months for the seven years, 1879—1875, the temperature was slightly higher, the absolute and the relative humidity were more, and the night ozone were less."

Compared with the average for the months of July is the seven to the seven to the seven the seven the seven the seven the seven the seven that the seven that the seven the seven that the seven the seven that the seven night ozone were less."

Compared with the average for the months of July in the seven years, 1879-1885, remittent fever, intermittent fever, dysentery, consumption of lungs, cholera infantum, diarrhea, cholera morbus, measles and whooping-cough were less prevalent in July, 1885.

A large part of this decrease in sickness has undoubtedly been due to the medical and sanitary journals and the newpapers, which have constantly kept before the people the necessity for sanitary work and the facts as to the spread of cholera in Europe.

It remains to be seen to what extent efforts for the exclusion of cholera from this country,

It remains to be seen to what extent efforts for the exclusion of cholera from this country, and the general preparation for cholera by boards of health and the people, shall prove effectual, but even if cholera shall not be entirely prevented, there will remain the belief that the measures which have so greatly decreased the sickness from other diseases cannot but have had their influence in decreasing it; and if cholera does not occur in this country it seems quite probable that, by reason of the suffering elsewhere, there may be as many cases of serious sickness prevented in this country as there have been cases of cholera in Europe. But this may not continue without continued vigilance and effort.

Murdered in Cold-Blood.

Thomas Goodrow shot and instantly killed Edward Pritchard, a lumber jobber in Lake City the other night. It seems that Pritchard and Goodrow had had trouble last winter about a matter of wages. On the night of the murder they happened to meet at Ed. Stimson's place a little way out from Lake City, and hot words ensued. Goodrow stepped into the house, came out with a gun, and shot Pritchard, blowing the top of his head off. There were others present. Goodrow sald he would go to Lake City and give himself up to the sheriff, and was allowed to go alone. He did not show up at Lake City, however, and now the sheriff is looking for him. The Strikers' Riot.

A terrible riot took place the other morning at Carrier, Heath & Co.'s mill, Essexville, near Bay Citv. The strikers organized in the First ward, Bay City, and marched to Carrier's mill intending to shut down all the salt blocks along the river. Sheriff Brennan was telegraphed for, and, with a number of deputies, hastened to the scene, arriving just as the rioters had shut down the salt block of Carrier, Heath & Co. The sheriff ordered the crowd to dispense, and was hooted at by the strikers. He undertook to arrest one of the leaders, when he was set on by the crowd and

MONTREAL'S PLAGUE.

Cholera has been declared epidemic in Montreal. Several isolated cases appeared a few days ago, and every effort was made to keep the matter quiet. The disease, however, developed itself all over the city and the board of health was obliged to declare the disease epidemic. Great indignation exists at the refusal of the physicians to attend small-pox patients, even when they are the family physicians. The simplest precautions are disregarded by the people among whom the disease is prevalent.

THE MONUMENT TO GRANT.

Gen. S. Burdette, commmander-in-chief of the G. A. R., who attended the G. A. Grant, and they were unanimously in favor of its location in Washington. "It would have done you good," said he, "to see the enthusiasm that was awakened at the chance given the boys to honor their dead commander. The Grand army propose to subscribe 10 cents from every member, and there are 200,000 of them throughout the country. They mean to erect a monument to Gen. Grant in Washington, and I don't think that the day is far distant when Gen. Grant's remains will be placed for final rest in Washington." In reply to Gen. R. B. Hayes' letter suggesting that the authorities of the G. A. R. encourage their comrades to contribute to the building of a monument on the grave of Gen. Grant, Gen. Burdette says: "I have been unable to bring my mind in accord with you on that point. I hold to the opinion that the G. A. R. will desire first of all to erect its own distinctive monument to our comrade, not at a great cost, but for that purpose ra'sing only such sum as is composed of the equal contribution of each individual comrade as shall be within the reach and the glad gift of the poorest. The national monument to be erected to Gen. In a recent issue the News opened on the Lant I foard by reviewing its work. The paper now makes the claim that the lourd, by its negle t and mismanagement, has lost to the shoot fully do the state the sum of $1,750,000, which should have been collected under the law from the cattlemen during the past eightten months. The News says that in Feoruary, 1884, an act was passed directing the land board to appoint grass belonging to the state and being occupied by cattlemen whose duty should be to ascertain by constant inspection the area of free grass belonging to the state and being occupied by cattlemen without leases of any character. Under this law all occupiers of such lands were compelled to pay occupation tax. Twenty-mi lion acres of free grass lands of this character have been constantly grazed upon since the passage of the law. Yet the land board only recently appointed and sent out the grass commissioners, upon whose report the tax could only be collected. The law makes no provision for back taxes, hence the state has lost pearly $2,00,000, which has simply remained in the members of the land board of intentional wrong, but in the next breath it says: "Th's loss of $1,750,000 was not accidental, and not being accidental it is presumably the result of intelligent design." This creates a sensation. The board is composed of Gov. John Ireland, State Treasurer F. R. Lubberek, Land Commissioner W. C. Walsh, Comptroller W. J. Swain and Attorney-General John D. Templeton. This galaxy of names comprises the most distinguished politicians in Texas.

My Lords and Gentlemen—I am glad to be able to relieve you from the labors of a session which has been protracted and eventful. When you assembled in October I informed you that an expedition was advancing up the valley of the Nile to the relief of Khartoum. Three months later, with deep sorrow, which was shared by all my people, I learn that the expedition arrived to late. The heroic Gordon and his companions had fallen. An endeavor, which was ineffectual, was made to reach Khartoum by constructing a rallway from Suakim to Berber. My troops were ultimately withdrawn from the whole of eastern Soudan, except Suakim, and from western Soudan down to Alashyert. Although the objects of the expedition were unattained, I have great reason to be proud of the bravery and endurance displayed by my soldiers and sallors, and of the skill wherewith they have been commanded. The Great Value of Small Fruits to a Farmer's Family-Industrial Brevities.

Small Fruits on the Farm.

writes a correspondent of Vick's Magazine, not as a matter of profit in the way of dollars and cents, but because I believe that such products are conducive to the health and pleasure of the family, therefore profitable in the best meaning of the word. In no other way can so much variety in the line of fruit be secured. The woman who undertakes to set before a family daily, on a farm where little or no attention is paid to the growing of small fruits, a bill of fare which shall not be open to the charge of monotony, finds her-self often at her wits' end to accom-plish her undertaking. Potatoes, meat, and bread, and butter are all good in their way, but we tire of a repetition of them day after day, and wish there might be "something new." The skillful housewife will contrive various attractive dishes from the limited list of material which most farms afford during the winter, but she will sigh for "something new" also, for every woman knows how much easier it is to please the palates of the "men folks" when she has a variety of material at hand to work with. With plenty of fruit, canned or dried, at her disposal, she can concoet pies, puddings, and sauces which will afford the desired variety, and act as "relish" for the more substantial articles of food. But on not one farm in ten, I think I can safely assert, is there small fruit enough grown to supply the family through the winter. This is not as it should be.

The practical question to be determined is how to combine both professional grower from succeeding with it. Others think it is "puttering" work, like gardening, therefore they never undertake it. Some begin making a collection, but they soon lose their enthusiasm, and in a year or two the bushes they set out are swallowed up in a sea of grass, and they conclude it "doesn't pay to bother with it." Probe to the heart of every code and creed;
Cut uncut pages of Creation's book;
in life itself for life's deep secrets look;
Intent his heart and v gilant his brain
The seventh essence of the truth to gain.
He shall be humble, yet supremely bold

To insure accuracy in the amount of alum used it is best to make a solution of half an ounce of alum to a quart of water. Dissolve the alum in a cup of boiling vater, pour this into a quart measure, and fill up with cold water. Keep in a properly labeled bottle. Fifty-four drops of this solution, or a scant tea-spoonful will contain two and threetenths grains of alum, which is the quantity for a gallon of water. It is not important to be very exact, as twice the quantity would be harmless attacks, liver and kidney trouble. THE BROOK.

BY BESSIE O. CUSHING. Down in a mossy hollow
At the roots of an aged oak,
Through whose dusky shadows
The sunlight never broke.

Under the ferns and cresses:
A tiny stream begun,
And out among the rushes
Went gliding into the sun.

Out in the world of sunlight
It wandered far away,
Where the blossoms smiled upon it,
And the birds sang all the day. It rippled over the pebbles,
It kissed the drooping flowers;
It smiled, as the leaning thorn-tree
Rained down her snowy showers.

On, ever on, it hurries, Dancing along in its gladness; On, ever on, it rushes; Dashing along in its madness. Here it comes, wildly leaping
Over a ledge of stone.
There it goes, waltzing a blossom,
Down from the dogwood blown.

Woodbine over you twining, Violets peeping below; Thrushes singing merrily; You are happy, Brook, I know.

Now it swiftly flows along, And its waters quiver, As it makes a sudden turn, And joins the solemn river. Broad and deep its waters are; Its current is swift and stronger, As steady on its way it flows; For it's a brook no longer.

> DOT'S EXPERIMENT. 'Mamma, I 'tan dwess myself; Let me twy, please do,'' Pleaded thus my little elf, Tugging at her tiny shoe.

"Ou do on an' tomb 'our hair, And det ready, too; I'll be dwessed by time 'ou are; See, I've put on my sou.

Laughingly, I turned away,
"Let her try," I thought.
"She will gain in just such play;
Knowledge cheaply bought."

"Dare mamma, dey's all on now; Sous and stockins, too; Buttoned just as nice, I'll low, As ever ou tould do." Turning round again to know If she had done it right; Little feet held up to view Were a funny sight.

"Right" on left foot, "left" on riga Stockings wrong side out: Truly 'twas a funny sight, Without any doubt.

'Very nicely done, my dear; Mamma's little help-meet, But your buttoned shoes, I fear, Are surely on the wrong feet.'

Dropped the eyes of violet blue. Tears came quick and hot. "Wat, mamma, sall I ever do? Dey's all de feet I've dot."
