TIMELY TOPICS.

The Caroline Islands about which Spain is quarrelling with Germany, are one of the most numerous groups in the Indian ocean. They are mostly very small, and the largest is only twenty four miles in circumference. They are fertile and produce great quantities of rice. As a rule, one of them is barely large enough to make a single farm for an American. The climate is mild. The inhabitants are Malays. The group was discovered in 1543 by Lopes de Vallalobos, a Spanish adventurer, and this fact constitutes Spain's sole claim to the islands. From that day to this Spain has never established a colony there, or even set up a trade, but has left the islands wholly to the natives. Some twenty or more years ago, the Germans began to trade with the islands. Since then, German settlers have established themselves on several of the islands. Small German vessels now regularly visit the islands for trading purposes. Some years ago England united with Germany in holding that Spain had no valid title. It is only now, when Germany seeks to take formal possession, in order to legitimize and protect the German settlers and traders, that Spain has suddenly waked up to her ancient claim. As a matter of fact, and also of equity, neither Spain nor Germany has any legitimate title. The Spanish title by right of discovery has long lapsed by disuse. The German claim rests only on the fact that a few German traders with the natives have settled there. It would, however, be better for the world to have the German claim succeed, if either of the two does, because Germany will settle and cultivate the islands, govern them wisely, and make them of use to civilized mankind.

The Commissioners of Emigration at New York have referred a case to the Treasury Department which raises an interesting point in regard to the immigration of paupers. A party of about sixty Arab gypsies recently arrived at New York on the steamship Chateaux Leoville. An examination showed that they were paupers likely to become a public charge within the meaning of the Pauper Immigrant act, and they were put back on the steamship to be returned to the country whence they came. The Commissioners have since been informed that about fifty gypsies, believed to be the same party, have recently crossed the Canadian border line into Vermont and are now making their way south. It is supposed they were landed at Halifax or were transferred at sea to another vessel bound to that port. The facts were reported at the Treasury Department and instructions requested. The officer to whom the case was referred, Mr. Lyman, chief of the Navigation Division—says that nothing can be done in the premises. The Pauper Immigrant act, he explains, prohibits the landing of all pauper immigrants who may be brought to this country in a ship or vessel, but is silent on the subject of such as may enter the country by land. The subject will be reported to congress at its next meeting, with a view of securing legislation, with a view of securing legislation, with a view of securing legislation.

The Brantford Canada Expositor voices the sentiment of the United States when it says, regarding the salvation army scheme of sending fallen women of London out of England: The Canadian authorities ought to let its proponents thoroughly understand that this is no Botany Bay, and that the people decidedly object to Canada being made a dumping place for the flotsam of the world. We doubt not for the faith of the world. We doubt not for the faith of the world. We doubt not for the faith of the world.
