decided to hold the next fair the week following the state fair, commencing on Tuesday. The treasurer reported a bal-ance on hand of $300; premiums of last year paid in full and the society in good condition.
Warren A. Millard, a highly respected citizen and resident of the fifth ward for more than a quarter of a century, died Friday after a brief illness, of senile paralysis, at the age of 74 years. He was one time he taught writing in the public schools. He was a man of very positive ideas, in politics a republican, and a whole-souled, genial gentleman, who will be missed by a large circle of acquain-tances. His family will have the sym--paties of the public in their bereavement.
Timothy R. Amesen, for many years a respected citizen of Ann Arbor, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon in Horn's proctor, aged 78 years. He had just paid his taxes and was on his way home when he stepped into the store where he soon after expired. He leaves a wife and one son, J. W. Amesen. Mr. Amsen was a thorough-going temperance man, which principles he advocated at all times and under all circumstances.
He could be found on the right side of every good work and deed. The funeral will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement.
Mrs. Maria Trempier, died at her resi-dence in the township of Scio, Wednes-day morning, Dec. 9, aged 83 years 3 months and 9 days. Her maiden name was Ross. She was born in Ulster coun-ty, N. Y., Sept. 1, 182. She married Ja-cob Trempier in March, 1830, came to Michigan in 1832 and settled on the farm where she died; raised seven children, five of whom survive here. She was a very kind mother and benevolent neigh-bor, and highly respected by all who knew her. She had resided here 53 years. Jacob Trempier (who died Sept.
10, 1878, aged 82 years), was born in Rockland county, New Jersey, June 3, 1796—Dexter Leader.
The Detroit Evening Journal has the following relative to an ex-almern—"Anson D. Besmer has a marked indi-viduality. Even the oldest and best in-formed citizen has not the honor of knowing that he ever saw another man like Anson. Irish, Dutch, Welsh, English and Yankee blood commingle in his veins.
The effect of the combination is ap-parent in Mr. Besmer. He has diagnosed his own case and tells how these respec-tive elements have affected the entirety.
Physically and mentally the result seems to have been a happy one. As a talker Anson takes the broad factory and ad-jacent property. No matter what topic he has his peculiar views and can give them in the choicest selection of words from Webster's unabridged. When he warms to his work the stream becomes a torrent and it's a stiff-backed man who doesn't wish some other fellow had his and of the debate. Anson simply over-whelms and deluges a man, leaving him to get out and shake himself the best way he can."

MACK & SCHMID.
One week from to-day is Christmas, and one week later we will celebrate the advent of a new year. Truly may we say that "time and tide wait for no man," and the years whirl by with a quickness which only those in middle life can fully understand. We trust the coming holi-day season may be fraught with abun-dance of good cheer, and that good health and prosperity may attend every one of our readers during the new year upon which we are so soon to enter.

The Death of Dr. Franklin.
The many friends of Dr. E. C. Frank-lin will regret to learn of his death, which occurred suddenly on Monday of last week, at his home in St. Louis, Mo., where he has resided since leaving Ann Arbor. For several years he was professor of surgery and dean of the homoeopathic college. It is perhaps not generally known that Prof. Franklin was formerly an allopathic surgeon, but such is the fact. He graduated from the medi-cal college of the University of the City of New York, where for four years he was the private pupil of the great surgeon, Dr.
Valentine Mutt. At the age of 24 years he carried on a discussion with a noted homoeopathist by the name of Dr. Cox.
Subsequently he went to Panama, where he contracted the Panama fever, and was being cured by a homoeopathic physician, he gave the new school of medicine his attention, and at the age of 32 years an-nounced his resignation of the position of the ranks of the homoeopathists. In 1857 he settled in St. Louis, Mo., in 1859 he came connected with the homoeopathic college of Missouri. In 1861 he entered the army as a surgeon and was with the staffs of Gen. Francis P. Blair and Gen.
Nathaniel P. Lyon, U. S. A., the latter falling at the battle of Wilson's Creek.
Prof. Franklin was the author of several medical treatises. His "Science and Art of Surgery," containing two volumes of 800 pages each, was published in 1867.
He was also the author of a work on "Homoeopathic Treatment of Spinal Curvatures." He was surgeon to several large hospitals in the army and in civil life. Notably of the latter stands the Good Samaritan hospital of St. Louis.
He had held the office of president of the American Institute of Homoeopathy, and founded and organized the Western Academy of Homoeopathy, and in 1873 was elected its president. Dr. Franklin's death was caused by apoplexy.

The Ladies Charitable Union.
We desire to express our thanks for the donation of $99.78, the result of the Thanksgiving collection. This will re-lieve our present necessities and bring many comforts into the homes of the worthy poor. We hope, however, that our friends will not consider their obli-gation ended with the Thanksgiving col-lection. Our needs are constantly being -reported, and some of extreme desiti--tion. One aged couple endured all the -severe cold of last winter with no stove, no fuel, absolutely no heat of any kind except what came from the stove pipe of the family who lived below.
Will not our friends, in their comfort-able homes, clad in warm garments and gathered around bright firesides, remem-ber the sick, the aged, and the help-less children, and place in our hands the means to relieve their destitution?
Donations of money or clothing may be left with the treasurer, Mrs. C. E. A.
Dexter, southeast corner of Liberty and Division streets.

Temperance Echoes.
The temperance question seems to be somewhat on the increase in the city.
Commencing with next Monday evening Mrs. Mary T. Lethrop of Jackson, one of the most eloquent advocates of the temperance rostrum, will hold three meetings in the old Baptist church.
The ladies temperance union will hold a social and watch meeting at the same place, New Cross eve.
The White Cross club has rented the old Baptist church for one year with the privilege of purchasing the same within that time.
Next Sunday afternoon Mrs. R. O. L.
Crozier will address the club at 3 o'clock.
In the evening the Rev. Mr. Adams will hold the fort.
A social will be given by the White Cross organization next Wednesday eve-ning, Dec. 23.
Sam. Jones, the great revivalist, has expressed a desire to hold a series of meetings in this city sometime during the winter, and "who'll it live to the unbelievers. He will be heard from on the temperance question also.
A new Good Templars lodge was or-ganized last week, with 47 charter mem-bers. George Scott was elected worthy chief.
Rev. Dr. Leonard of Ohio, late prohibi-tion candidate for governor, is to speak in this city after the holidays.
"Now, there's no asking any questions. I have told you not to do it, and if I find you have disobeyed me, I'll wash your hands."
