In General Joseph Limber, John T. Raymond gives an exaggerated yet a lifelike portrait of the unprincipled wire-puller. Although he has, of course, the purport of the piece, he plays it with a homely truth and spontaneous unctious which puts him in immediate rapport with every one in the house. He takes the audience so thoroughly into his confidence in five minutes that they follow his every look, word, and action with delighted interest.

Edward A. Shirley, a man 50 years old, was discovered Sunday with a four-year old daughter of Theo. A. Pack in a shed back of the Firemen's hall. Shirley came here three months ago to labor on the water works.

The annual fair of the Washtenaw agricultural and horticultural society began Tuesday with a large number of entries in most of the departments, in spite of the unpropitious weather. The crowds, however, have not been very large up to Thursday night, but the display of cattle and sheep is especially praiseworthy, and the space in Floral Hall is as usual all taken and most of our merchants have rendered their space very attractive. The departments of farm and garden, fruits, poultry, agricultural implements &c., are fairly well filled.

Dudley J. Loomis, Esq., of the fourth ward, has almost completed his new work on "Pedro." An examination of the proof sheets shows it to be an exhaustive treatise on the subject. Much time and labor have been expended in making the first edition full and accurate. The marginal notes are by Charley Clark and throw much light upon some of the obscure portions of the work. Supervisor Butts has already subscribed for the book and will join the class for instruction in the higher branches.

W. H. Powers' "Ivy Leaf" will be given at the opera house to-morrow evening. The Indianapolis Record says: It is by all odds the cleanest and most characteristic Irish play that has been placed upon the boards in this country. It is a noted and laudable departure from the caricatures that are usually presented as Irish to American audiences, and which are a reproach to and a calumny on the Irish name and people. "The Ivy Leaf" is a drama of more than ordinary artistic excellence, whether we look at it from a literary or dramatic standpoint. The scenic and mechanical effects are truly beautiful, together with having the additional merit of originality.

Pittsburg Dispatch: "The Ivy Leaf" made a hit at Library Hall if generous and hearty applause may be taken into account. One thing that goes far toward making this play a success is its freedom from those tedious burlesques on Irish character which are so often seen. The stage effects are taking. Nearly all of the songs were so well rendered that they received encores.

A committee consisting of the mayor, and Alds. Martin and Allmendinger, from the council, and A. L. Noble and T. J. Keech from the business men's association, met in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Tuesday, examining the Jenny electric light, and Wednesday they looked at the Houston & Thompson light, which is now lighting the streets of Kalamazoo. A report will be made to the council at the next regular meeting.

Married, at the residence of the bride's parents, in Ann Arbor town, on Sunday last, Mr. Leonard A. Blake and Miss Mary A. Hudly, Rev. Samuel W. Eary officiating. Both parties have many warm friends in this city, the bride having been a successful teacher, and at present is chairman of our board of school inspectors. They will make their city their future home. The happy couple left on the 3 o'clock train for St. Louis, Mo., in company with the Knights Templars, of which organization Mr. Blake is a member.

The Chicago Herald, in speaking of Raymond's play, For Congress, says: A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Mr. John T. Raymond at Hood's. His play, "For Congress," while called new, is only new because it is so very much newer than "Colonel Sellers" that the public long for any change. The piece which played last year, but which has since been rounded out and perfected, and it must be admitted that now, in the hands of Raymond, it is in two acts at least, the most delicious bit of political satire seen on the stage in many a day. Florence's General Gilroy is not even a suggestion of the possibilities in the burlesquing of political methods. General Limber is a typical political worker of the semi-rural type. He has just enough of the suggestion of hay seed about him to furnish force for the ruralists, but behind that he has the training of a metropolitan fine worker. There can be nothing more laughable than the way Raymond, as General Limber, seizes upon his innocent but wealthy victim and cajoles him into a Congressional candidacy, and then secures his nomination in the convention.

There were scores of politicians present last night and all screamed with laughter at the happy reproduction of well-known preliminaries and scenes. The way the general got his strikers in a private room and instructed them how to bring about the nomination of Mr. Woolcock as the people's friend," in the convention drew howls of laughter from a score of genuine ward workers in the parquette.

Electricity in Franklin's time was a wonder. Now we are using it.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a typical Irish drama. Its story of a betrothal by the edict of a dying father, and well nigh thwarted by the machinations of a jealous and designing villain, who is at last overthrown with the aid of a light-hearted, fun-loving and shrewd Irish lad, is told in chaste language, clearly and well, with considerable attractive embellishment in incident and scenery. The interest never flags but grows gradually and legitimately in intensity to the final denouement in the fifth act, when the opportune arrival of the light-hearted Irish lad puts an end to an execution which has been ordered for the hero and lover, falsely accused by the villain of a crime. The novelty is chief in scenic effects. Architecture and design vary with the generations as they come and go, but these principles of the school-room are unchangeable.

Short-sightedness, the result of improper and insufficient light, is dreadfully on the increase in our school population in the higher grades. And right here in a school of the highest grade, in which every scholar has to spend from four to six years in order to pass, a plan is proposed by which the entire building will lose one-quarter the amount of light which might be obtained by locating the extension in the northeast corner of the grounds, thus giving both buildings the four sides free to light.

In my opinion the light of those forty-two windows of the north front of the old building should not be sacrificed to any architectural whims. That light should be maintained, and the new building should be so located as not to interfere with the light of the old building or its own light.

Our citizens have voted, on the recommendation of the school board, without a dissent, to the sum of $24,000 for a high school extension, and now it is the bounden duty of the board to see that this extension of school room is not made at the expense of light, which is a consideration of equal importance with that of air and warmth in the school room.

Respectfully,
Sept. 20, 1886. C. G. MORON.

More Light.

ED. DEMOCRAT.—I desire to draw the attention of the school board to a very radical defect in the plan of the proposed extension of the high school as outlined in the city papers. As there published the extension is to be made on the north side of the old building. This plan robs the old building of the light of its entire north side—fourteen large double windows—and the extension loses the light of its entire south front, some seventy
