LUCE spoke to an audience of seventy-five in this city. Yaple addressed an audience of two thousand.

TALK about three hundred majority for Salsbury in Washtenaw county. This is silly talk, and those who repeat it show they are "off" as to the politics of Washtenaw. He will have as large, if not a larger majority than Eldredge received two years ago.

THE selection of Abram S. Hewitt as candidate for mayor of New York by the Tammany and county democracy, injures his election beyond a doubt. Mr. Hewitt is one of the best as well as ablest of democrats, a large property holder and employer of labor to the extent of thousands of men. His election will help to purify the tainted atmosphere of Manhattan Island politics.

Less than two weeks remain for active work prior to election, and it behooves every democrat to do his duty towards the election of the ticket. By getting out a united support, their election is certain, and no democrat should be remiss in doing his utmost to secure victory. There can be no pretext advanced why the candidates should not receive support, as they are all competent, honest and deserving, and we believe will be accorded a full democratic vote.

In speaking of the nomination of Jas. S. Gorman for state senator the Monroe Democrat says: "The democracy of Monroe county has no reproaches to make, and Washtenaw county need have no misgivings as to its attitude on the senatorial question. The price of its loyalty is not the nomination of a Monroe county man, and it will give with democracy of Washtenaw in its devotion to and support of their favored son, who is now our candidate as well as theirs.

A LANSING correspondent of the Chicago Times (independent) predicts the election of Yaple and the whole fusion state ticket. He also prophesies that next to Yaple, Col. Farrar of Mt. Clemens, candidate for auditor general, will lead the ticket. These predictions, emanating from an independent source and the state capital, from whence a careful survey of the political situation can be made, is decidedly encouraging to democrats. No relaxation of effort, however, should be made until the victory is won.

THE Courier, the Argus, the Register, and the Ypsilanti, have each published a false and libelous biographical notice of the venerable editor of the Ypsilanti Sentinel, taken from the Detroit Journal. They must have known, and did know, that Mr. Woodruff was not born in the Bermuda islands; that he did not murder Indians in the Toledo war; that he was not baldheaded; and that he has not published the Sentinel for the past eighty years. Mr. Woodruff has printed a pathetic, eloquent and modest answer to this libelous article, but neither of the above papers had the courage or decency to publish that answer. This conduct on the part of our esteemed contemporaries does Mr. Woodruff great injustice and is a discredit to independent and honest journalism. We give notice now that when THE DEMOCRAT publishes an unjust and false article reflecting on an editorial brother, we will have the fairness and generosity to print his reply.

As a chronic beggar for office Mr. Luce the republican candidate for governor, is without a peer in Michigan. For three decades he has wanted something, anything from pathmaster to the executive chair, he would be glad to take. For the past ten years he has bent every energy to reach the state house at Lansing. He has used the grange organization—the head of which he has reached through intrigue—to further and accomplish his ambition.

The Grange Visitor, published under the auspices of Luce, cries out to the farmers, "Support Luce, one of your own number." The Visitor did not have a word to say in behalf of farmers Chamberlain and Holloway when nominated for governor. Why? Because they were on the democratic ticket. It makes a great difference who is a granger, in the columns of the Visitor. There are all shades and degrees of office beggars, but Luce long ago took first premium in this state. If the voters of Michigan, and Branch county especially, do not emphasize a rebuke, Nov. 23, to the persistent applications for place by farmer (or rather banker) Luce, put us down as a false prophet.

This story is being circulated that a number of prominent and influential democrats will hold the nominee for representative in the second district. We have talked with several of the gentlemen mentioned and they pronounce the story utterly false. It is safe to say that Mr. Harper will poll his full party vote.

We have received a lengthy report from the executive committee of the "citizens' league" for publication. As there are other matters of far more importance to the average reader, we do not care to lumber up our columns, particularly with a tirade against the city, when the truth is we have one of the best governed municipalities in Michigan. If the instigators of the citizens' league movement are not satisfied with Ann Arbor, the best thing for them to do is to pack their dunder and give this place a wide berth. Their loss will be the city's gain.

It is conceded on all sides that James S. Gorman will be elected to the state senate, and no democrat in Washtenaw county should fail to give him an emphatic endorsement. He is one of the brainiest young men in the county, of broad intellectual ability; a lover of honesty and hater of hypocrisy; of unswerving integrity and an unceasing servant to duty. Mr. Gorman will be a gentleman in the senate—one that Washenaw and Monroe will be proud of. If our people need to be heard they will have a senator there that will not be afraid to speak for them. The Detroit Free Press, in summing up the work of the legislators in 1891, said: "Mr. Jas. S. Gorman's speech on the Kockville bill, which he championed so successfully, was the best speech of the session."

THE Chicago anarchists must hang. Judge Gary has refused their motion for a new trial, and although they have taken an appeal to the supreme court, there is no likelihood that a new trial will be ordered by that tribunal. No governor would dare pardon such criminals as these. Even those who are opposed to capital punishment have but little sympathy for these uneducated foreigners, who for years have urged their ignorant and deluded followers to "burn and kill," and whose direct teachings caused the death last May, of six brave men—American citizens—acting in the discharge of their sworn duty, and the maiming for life of seventy others. These condemned men have wives and children, so did the murdered policemen have wives and children. The execution of these wretches will have an excellent effect, not only in this country but in Europe, and teach the anarchists that they must not come to this country expecting to wage war upon property and society with impunity. In hanging the anarchists we only apply to the guilty the same treatment which the anarchist would apply to the innocent.

If there is any class in this country which receives absolutely no benefit from the protective tariff, it is the farmer. The Evening Post of New York, makes a good point when it says: "The price of wheat in the Chicago market on Monday fell below seventy cents per bushel. This is said to be the lowest quotation that has been seen in a quarter of a century. Can any one doubt that the American farmer has at last secured a 'home market' that he has been so manfully striving for these twenty-five years under the blessings of a protective tariff? He has been told from time to time that there was nothing like a tariff to make a market for his wheat and his corn and his pork; that it was simply ridiculous to send his stuff three thousand miles and pay freight on it when he could have a market at his own doors by keeping out foreign goods. He believed all this because it was so plausible and so easy to understand. He was told to 'grin and bear it' until the manufacturers had time to get started, and then he would see good prices for everything he had to sell. He has been virtually hiring people to eat his products, and the more he has hired the less he has got for what he had to sell. There is nothing very strange about this except that the delusion in the bucolic mind should have lasted so long.

It is now but little more than one week to election. Democrats have a good ticket from the governor down. That ticket should receive the cordial support of the party. For the first time in a quarter of a century the democracy has the presidency and there is no reason why the party should not have the whole earth. It is the party of the people, of equal rights, opposition to monopoly, corporations and fraud. The democratic party has made this country what it is. Every foot of territory which we possess outside of the original thirteen states and their territories, was procured by the far-reaching statesmanship of the democratic party. Florida, Louisiana, Texas, California and Oregon, in short every foot of land west of the Mississippi river, except Alaska, we owe to the democratic party. When the party went out of power our commerce covered the ocean and every national industry was prosperous, the capitalist satisfied and the laborer contented. We have lived for twenty-five years, and are still living under republican legislation. Our magnificent commerce has disappeared from the sea; great corporations and capitalists are grasping the wealth of the nation; labor is unemployed and in revolt, and the farmer gets a less price for his products than ever before. We can not look for better times until the revolution begun two years ago is complete, and every department of the government, state and national, is put into the possession of the democratic party—the party of the people.

Democrats in the sixth district cannot afford to help place the next congress in jeopardy to gratify any personal ambition or political resentments. We hope yet to see in this district a united front presented to the common enemy, instead of the present folly of inviting a defeat. It is far better to be beaten with union than as the result of an ill-advised division.—Jackson Patriot.

"We are on the eve of an important canvass and while I am not generally a sanguine person, in political matters, I have been through Michigan considerably lately and I firmly believe that at the close of the polls on the 23d of November we'll show Geo. L. Yaple that he has been elected governor of Michigan by 40,000 majority, while we of the first district will roll up a majority of 8,000 for J. Logan Chipman.—Moses W. Field.

Yale and the Tariff.

The opera house was crowded at the democratic meeting last Thursday night.

The speech of Yale was a masterpiece, devoted entirely to the discussion of the tariff. He held the close attention of the large audience for an hour and a half, and was frequently greeted with vociferous applause.

We have heard old residents of both parties say that it was the most polished, eloquent and convincing speech ever delivered in an Arbor. No speaker or orator can do justice to it, but the readers of THE DEMOCRAT who were not fortunate enough to be present may get a drift of the argument from the following report:

The questions foremost in the minds of the American people are taxation and finance. The republican party is pledged to protection and the democratic and greenback parties are opposed to it. It is a tax which this country imposes upon imported goods. For whatever purpose it is imposed, whether for revenue or for protection, it is always a tax. It is imposed to aid individuals in business it is called a protective tariff, and its effect is to permit an increase in the price of corresponding goods of domestic manufacture. I deny the right of this government to tax one man for the benefit of another. I equally deny the right of this government to tax all men for the benefit of a few. The system tends to establish a monopoly, which dictates to you and takes away your God-given right to buy where you will. I am in favor of a tariff which shall be sufficient and not excessive, thus sufficient, for revenue. When the tariff is beyond a sufficient amount for revenue the hand of the tax-gatherer becomes the hand of the robber. Our protective tariff is an infringement on every man's right of exchange. Protection is a blow aimed at commerce. What is commerce but a system of mutual exchange for our farms and our products, for our smith and do nothing but shoe horses, but you set down to your table and partake of the fruits of every clime. No nation has achieved greatness without commerce. The people of this country will not trade with the people of other countries unless they want to. Tear up your rail roads, sink all your ships, kill all your sailors and destroy all means of exchange, and you will have achieved the full idea of a protective tariff. If protection is a good thing, why not build a wall between the mountains of all the rivers? The French and Italians spent millions to pierce the Alps and then placed custom-officers at either end to spoil the effect of the grand work. The Alps are protected by the tunnel, a free trade barrier. Protection is a two-edged sword. It not only prevents imports, but exports also. We cannot buy unless we sell. The home market is too small for our farms and our manufactures. Bringing trade we have only to tear down the wall that shuts out trade. The very law which gives to manufacturers the right to have their market shut out into the home market. We practically manufacture for our home market. We have a capacity for five times our home market. The manufacturers have the advantage, they can close down their plants. Farmers, why don't you do that? Simply because you can't. If you shut down your factories in the spring, they are down for the year. Protection is against the manufacturer in this country. Consider the woolen industry. The tariff on wool enhances the price on material and our factories cannot afford to put in the finest machinery to compete with the foreigner. The counters and shelves of our merchants are filled with woolen goods of English manufacture.

England manufactures $120,000,000 worth of woolen goods. America exports $40,000,000 worth. Protection enhances the price of the pound of wool you sell, but it also enhances the price of the yard of woolen cloth you buy. National banks and monopolies control the market. It is a little tariff on wool. Will the farmers bite? Manufacturers of patented goods are not benefited. I wish to refer to a moment to our patent laws. They need revision to protect innocent purchasers. A patent is monopoly, but infinitely better than a tariff. An inventor gives to the world something new. It is a blessing to all classes alike. A tariff on the other hand does not benefit the whole. A patent expires by limitation; a tariff does not. Yet a farmer is today traveling over this state denouncing our patent laws and defending the tariff. He denounces the tariff on his reaper and defends the tariff on his pound of wool. Some people are protectionists when they have an interest in the tariff. When they want to buy. We are the richest nation under the sun in national resources, and America ought to be the greatest manufacturing nation. When are we? Our ships are rotten. Our factories are many of them idle. The gathering army of tramps omens ill to our republic. We are reaping the benefit of England's old story. When England took away her protection she began to enlarge. Break down our wall of protection, and Yankee ships will carry the goods of England to the West. When England took away her protection she began to enlarge. Break down our wall of protection, and Yankee ships will carry the goods of England to the West. When England took away her protection she began to enlarge. Break down our wall of protection, and Yankee ships will carry the goods of England to the West.

Every knight of labor that votes to send a republican to the legislature, virtually votes for Alger, McMillan or Stockbridge, a millionaire, one of whose gentlemen will be elected United States senator in the next legislature.

Six o'clock Sunday dinner is the new departure at the Cook house. Last Sunday the newspaper men of the city sat down to a bountiful repast, to which they did ample justice. Under the management of Mrs. Hudson the hotel continues to increase in popularity.

Bro. Chamberlain who has been reporter on the Ann Arbor Register since W. H. Hawley left, and who is a natural newspaper man, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Minneapolis Evening Journal, and will leave for his field of labor after the November election.

John Dornan of this city has accepted a Co. of Engineers, from Co. contractors and builders, and left Sunday evening for Atlanta, Ga., where he will remain during the winter. The above firm built the Ann Arbor post-office and put up the walls for the new library building on the campus.

Republicans will try to trade their county ticket for members of the legislature and congressmen. This is the only hope they cling to. Don't be fooled, but vote the straight democratic ticket and every one of the nominees will be elected by handsome majorities, from governor down to coroners.

Wm. J. Sheldon, pleaded guilty to stealing from Wm. Demman's house in the 1st ward, and as he is an old offender, Judge Joslyn gave him five years in Jackson state prison. Sheldon is the same fellow who went through J. L. Stone's safe, when he ran the St. James hotel, stealing $70. He had but recently been discharged from Jackson.

The Courier conveys the idea that F. A. Howlett, the democratic nominee for county clerk, is a wealthy farmer. He owns he owns 80 acres of land in the township of Sylvan, and is a hardworking industrial man. His opponent, W. A. Clark, receives a pension of some $24 per month, or $290 per year and owns a house and lot in this city, besides having money at interest.

Robert Shankland, a resident of Washtenaw county for 56 years, died at the residence of his son Thomas, in the town of Salem, last week Thursday. He was born in Otsego county, N. Y., Nov. 1791. He passed his early life on a farm, and received a common school education. In July 1812 he enlisted in the war of that year, in Captain Blakesley's company, and he again re-enlisted in October 1814. He remained at Sacket's Harbor during his last military service and participated in the capture of Henderson's Harbor, under command of Major Appling. In 1830 he came to this county, and located 80 acres on section 35, Ann Arbor township. Politically Mr. Shankland was a democrat. He is about the last of the old 1812 war veterans in this section.

Fall and Winter Season of 1886-1887.

Interest and excitement by consumers of Dry Goods. The late immense spot cash purchases of Mack & Schmid have all arrived.

Our Store is Packed Full!

The stock consists of the most elegant styles in imported and American dress goods, plain and fancy velvets, and plushes in handsome combinations, with a tremendous stock of Trimmings, Buttons, Clasps, Ribbons and Novelties—they must be seen to be appreciated. The sight is worth seeing.

We offer extra bargains in our Cloak Department. The weather has been too warm and our stock of elegant Ladies', Misses' and Children's Garments is too large.

We have also made sweeping reductions in Woollens, Flannels, and Blankets Table Linens, Napkins, Towels, Bed Spreads and Housefurnishing Goods, in fact our whole stock is too large and must be closed out. Remember these are stern facts. Call early and secure bargains at the quick sale and small profit Dry Goods House of

The south had free slave labor; commerce was free between the states. Was the labor of the north afraid of the cheap labor of the south. It was the cheap slave labor that made her dependent upon the north. There is a difference between imported labor and American laborers. Suppose Indiana had low wages and cheap paper labor. Suppose Michigan had a high priced labor. Now suppose we suppose a tariff on the States which would allow the passage of labor but not of laborers. Would Indians continue to send in goods through that wall till Michigan labor came down to their level? Then after a while a time you must suppose Indiana would send goods through that wall for nothing, for the resources of Michigan for payment of the tariff. This would not be true. Not a dollar's worth would go through the wall without payment. Now, suppose that the wall would not permit the passage of labor, but of laborers. What would be the result? Two or three men to every job, laborers would be forced to compete, and then a reduction in price. I may be wrong, but I have sworn an oath to fight that infamous system until American labor has as good a market to buy in as to sell in. The average wages of laborers in the manufacture of Michigan silk, last year was $1.57 per day. Then after a while the production was $1.50; enough difference to be equal if the Canadian laborer had favor for nothing, bonded himself, and had no capital, and no interest. I favor a gradual but certain reduction of tariff to a tariff for revenue only. The real way to build up the laborer is to give him a share in the profits. I favor revenue laws that will give him a chance to compete with capital. A reduction of taxation would hurt no one; it would leave money in every home of toil. I have been accused of attacking every industry of my State. I seek for my progress that prosperity which will bring state to every freeman. I oppose a system that would take from the tax of industry a lot of bread and add to the feast of slavery a pound of flesh. I want no monopolies built up by class legislation. I want no smoke of factories that blackens the air and pollutes the water. I want no millionaires is not the only Michigan interest. The man who represents a wife and little ones is a greater interest in this country than the pocket book of a dozen millionaires. The laborers of protection are only about one seventh of our laborers. The only protection the great mass of other laborers have is the price of their labor. They buy. In Philadelphia and other cities, nurseries have been built by public charities, for the care of children who have no parents. I believe it is a crime against the law of nature, for the employment of married women in our factories I want no women who have been woven upon the looms and spindles of high tariff. I want no women who have been woven upon the looms and spindles of high tariff. I want no women who have been woven upon the looms and spindles of high tariff.
