It is high time that Pinkerton's thugs, who shoot down inoffensive persons, were hanged.

The New York Sun comes out squarred for William T. Coleman of California, for president in 1888.

And still the monkeying continues in Indiana and New Jersey, where the legislatures of those two states are trying to elect United States senators, and they are no nearer accomplishing their object than when balloting first commenced.

The board of education of Detroit does not like representation of Manly's book regarding a uniformity of text-books, and they are doing some talk kicking. We are not surprised at this. Mr. Manly expected to meet with opposition from such quarters; but the people are with him in his effort to reform.

The question now uppermost in the minds of our citizens is, shall we have a free delivery? Under the law Ann Arbor is entitled to one. Some opposition is met with from several of our business men, who think that a free delivery will keep many at home who now come down after their mail, and that they will lose trade in consequence. We do not believe anything of the kind. People will purchase what they need, delivery or delivery. For one we are in favor of a free delivery, and whence established it will give satisfaction to nine-tenths of our citizens.

The official returns of the elections held in twenty states, last fall, are just in, and they tell a remarkable story. It was supposed, as the democratic majority in the next congress was reduced, that there was a large falling off of the democratic and a corresponding increase of the republican vote. Just the reverse is the fact. The figures show that the democrats gain 19,000 on the popular vote of 1884 and that the republican loss since then on the popular vote is 132,000. At this rate the popular vote will be nowhere in 1888. Another thing not very consoling to the republicans, is the fact that the prohibition gain over their vote of 1884 is over 160 per cent, about evenly divided in those twenty states. There is but one hope for the republicans, and that is to remove bodily into the prohibition party.

There is a manufacturing industry now being carried on in this city which at present employs fifteen or twenty persons, and is likely soon to employ one hundred, which seriously thinks of removing to Battle Creek. The proprietor of this establishment is not a member of our "booming association." He probably could not get the two-thirds vote necessary to join, but perhaps there is nothing in the "constitution" of the association which would prevent it from making an effort to keep this enterprise in Ann Arbor. What this city wants are more manufacturing enterprises. When our citizens put their money into such industries they should be given the aid and encouragement which they receive in other cities. We know how elaborate the Ann Arbor, no matter how elaborate the "constitution" under which it is put in motion. With our present railroad facilities this city is one of the best places in the state for manufacturing enterprises. Would that we had more of them.

A Tilt in the State Senate.

The concurrent resolution, which passed the house Monday, requesting the president to appoint Senator Conger a commissioner of inter-state traffic, was transmitted to the senate and came up for discussion in the afternoon. Senator Gorman proposed amendments, to both the preamble and the body of the bill, and inserting his name as an alternative to that of Conger for the president's selection.

Senator Hubbell, in a speech of much vigor, denounced the attempt to qualify the name of Mr. Conger, by offering the name of a person not a candidate for the office of commissioner, as contemptible. It was an insult to the senate, the members of which knew very well the eminent services of Mr. Conger, and that no question of partisanship ever entered his mind during his public career, when the object sought was the welfare of the state or its citizens. If the fusion members wished to ask of the legislature an endorsement for George L. Yapie, let them do it in a manly way. He hoped the amendment would be rejected and thought sorry that the issue had been placed in regard to the duty of republicans to meet it squarely and by a solid vote to resent the insult which had been put upon them.

Senator Gorman replied in good temper, and a warm rejoinder was made to that of Hubbell himself. He disclaimed any intent to insult anybody by offering the amendments, and wondered how the placing of the name of George L. Yapie as an alternative before the president could be construed as an insult. Mr. Gorman then chastised the republicans and more particularly Mr. Hubbell for their lack of appreciation of Conger and devotion to him as a faithful and meritorious public servant at a time when such good and backward would have sent him back again for six years to the United States senate. Conscious that they were vulnerable on this point, Mr. Gorman's sarcasm was perhaps the most withering ever given utterance in the senate chamber, not being inferior indeed to the celebrated duel between James F. Joy and John Atkinson, wherein the rapier like attacks of the latter were bested by the bludgeon like blows of Joy and the assailant utterly disarmed. Gorman in like manner beat down any possible rejoinder and ended the debate in triumph. The vote on the amendment was rejected—yeas 5, nays 18—and the original resolution in favor of Conger passed by the same vote. There was a count so serious on this amendment, that the opportunity to show pitiful inconsistency between friends—who who sacrificed him for Stock bridge—was tempting and Gorman did it in excellent temper and taste.—Free Press.

The Knights of Labor are not content with the Knights of Labor believe in protection to lives and property, and not in destruction; they are in favor of law and order, not of anarchy and confusion; they are not in favor of strikes, but of arbitration; they believe in co-operation, and not in dissolution; they believe that the interests of miners, laborers, farmers, mechanics and business men are mutual and dependent upon each other. They make a distinction between the professional tramp and the honest laborer seeking employment. They believe that labor, not idleness, should be rewarded.—Weekly Advertiser.

LEEDOM LEFT. Charley Leedom Accepts His Challenge and Wins the Prize.

The volutes of the "manly art" assembled in large numbers at the Park Opera House to witness Leedom's athletic exhibition. The first part of the night was consumed in ordinary sparring exercises, which the "excelsior" between Leedom and Bruce Thompson was intensely interesting, while Jake Tullyard and Joe Stephens entered considerable merit.

The chief feature of the evening was the contest between Leedom and Master Charles McMahon. The former had challenged any one in America to stand before him except Sullivan and McCreary. This challenge was accepted by Charlie McMahon of Holland and McMahon's circus company. At 11 o'clock Messrs McMahon and Leedom appeared at the arena. The first part of the evening was a display of Leedom's muscular, broad shouldered man, well trained in the business he is making his profession, the latter a comparatively new man, or boy of 18 years. Naturally sympathy ran out from all for young McMahon, and a great many feared to see the contest begin, as they never expected to see him come up hardly the second time before his powerful antagonist. There was some delay caused over a discussion as to the gloves to be used. Leedom wanting to use hard gloves, but after a brief delay the "management" agreed to put up half of the money if Leedom would agree to use the soft gloves. Marshall Tyler was on hand ready to stop any attempt at a hard glove fight.

Captain James Henry, after some delay was appointed referee, when the fight commenced in accordance with the regulations of the Ring. In the first round Leedom made a foul by striking McMahon a heavy blow between the eyes, and McMahon, who was later worn out account of his troubles, which caused him much pain, but after a moment's delay he came to time and ever afterwards met his antagonist blow for blow, until time was called on the last round. During the contest the excitement was intense and the audience climbed upon chairs, up posts and even upon the roof of the arena, and that quiet was restored long enough to permit the referee to announce that the plucky youngster had won the purse of $100. The announcement was received with tumultuous applause, during which an additional purse of $25 was donated by his admirers, and presented through Mayor L. Engle of LaVila.

To the People of An Arbor. Welch Post, No. 137, G. A. R. E., have arranged with Miss Helen Potter, and the University Glee Club, for an entertainment, to be given at the Grand Opera House, the evening of Friday, February 4th, the proceeds of which are to go into the "Relief Fund" of the Post, which stands greatly in need of replenishment. We have many donors to give, and the cardinal principles of our order—fraternity, charity and loyalty—do not permit us to publicly paragon. We therefore cordially appeal to the good people of Ann Arbor, for a house full of overflowing, on the evening of Feb. 4, to the end that means may not be lacking to relieve the necessities of those who from exposure in camp and by advancing years are now unable to labor for their own support. The entertainment will be well worth the price of admission, and to the enjoyment of all who attend will have the additional pleasure of knowing that they are contributing to a most worthy charity.

Male Beauties. Somebody has found out that winemaking is impossible in a man possessed of physical beauty. He may be a handsome fellow, perhaps even a beauty, and yet that fine and suitable charm which attaches itself to female loveliness can never be his. The mere beauty of manliness, of character and brains carries a heavy weight in its power of persuasion, and it is not until a woman knows a man a hundred times quicker than acknowledged man, who after all is a rara avis. Happily for the world at large there are few male beauties. Life would be delectable if loved women were not alone on her pedestal. It is melancholy to acknowledge, but the man who poses for admiration on the ground of looks is a desperate bore.

The G. A. R. of Massachusetts, in a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the Charleston Confederate home, are doing more to promote patriotism and cement the union of hearts once estranged than the meetings of politicians could accomplish in a century. Surely the Puritan and Cavalier have been blended into the American.

A CAPTAIN'S FORTUNE DISCOVERY. Capt. Coleman, scion of Weymouth, Plymouth, a member of the G. A. R., has been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.
