become a law because it did not pass both houses of the legislature. The bill for the appropriation of $200,000 for the two current years was passed by the house on the 28th inst.

The senate has passed Mr. Palmer's marriage license bill. A bill which was much discussed in the house in relation to child labor proposed to re-enact the section of the act of 1885 which prohibits the employment of any child under 10 years of age in any factory, workshop, or to forbid the employment of any child under 12 years of age in any mine, and to prohibit the employment of any child under 14 years of age in any mill, and to prohibit the employment of any child under 16 years of age in any other occupation.

The night before congress adjourned was a busy one at the legislative mansion. The president had notified the president of the senate that he would be in the city on the 11th inst. and that he would be in the city on the 11th inst. and that he would be in the city on the 11th inst.

Despite the fact that a very great deal of time has been wasted in useless debates by this congress, much has been accomplished in the way of enacting laws. Never were there so many bills introduced, and more were reported from the various committees than in any previous congress.

The following are the acts of the last session of this congress which have a general interest: The act of 1886, relating to the navy of the United States; for the relief of certain soldiers of the Michigan army; for the relief of certain soldiers of the Michigan army; for the relief of certain soldiers of the Michigan army.

The retaliation bill has received the President's signature, and is now a law. The bill provides in substance that when the President is convinced that any fishery or other industry of a foreign country is being over-exploited or otherwise injured by the citizens of the United States, he may by proclamation suspend the trade between the United States and that country.

The joint resolution asking congress to give to the state of Michigan, in trust for the university of Michigan, the government lands within the state, together with the proceeds of the sale of the same, and making laws relative to the same, was passed by the senate on the 28th inst.

There is no one subject of more interest to the laborer than that of convict labor, and we append a synopsis of the report of the Michigan State Board of Prisoners, in relation to the same. The report shows that the Michigan State Prison is now a self-supporting institution, and that the cost of maintaining the same is less than the amount received from the sale of the products of the same.

Connection With China. The arrangements for the Canadian Pacific railway company for through connection with China have been completed, and the first train will start from Vancouver early in April. The railway authorities here apparently do not anticipate any interference with the international service as the result of the passage of a retaliatory measure by the United States congress.

Buried in Snow. A snow slide in the Selkirk range of the Rocky mountains struck a snow plow train, carrying it down an immense gorge and completely burying it. When dug out seven hours after, Supt. Green and six men all employees, were found smothered to death. Two of the men were named Ryan and Sparks.

The president and fellows of Harvard college have recently come into possession of a bequest of $230,000, which is applicable only for purposes of special astronomical investigations. It is quite likely that a station, somewhere in the southern hemisphere, will be selected as being more advantageous for observing the southern stars, which have been far less observed than the northern stars.

The students' co-operative association, after three years of existence, has disbanded. The students, who have benefited thereby by this society, did not support it, but patronized local dealers. There has been considerable feeling among the bookkeepers, the merchants, and the "co-ops," as the society did not confine itself to dealing in books, and with the disbanding of the association will be halted in the bookkeeping business.

Last Saturday the ball club met at the rink for their first practice, and judgment from the work done we may look for a more successful team than we had last year. There is a great deal of good material in the freshman class, which will be very useful. Counting men that can both pitch and catch we have four batteries, who ought to be able to fill the points in good style. The team will practice in the gymnasium on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturday mornings until the weather permits of outside playing.

A dispatch to the Free Press says: Dr. V. V. Vaughan is still recovering from typhoid with good results. He found poison resembling it in the bulk origins eaten at the Markesville donation. He is not understanding the origin of the poison, and has reduced it to one of three germs. He is enabled to manufacture it artificially from aniline, and has discovered that it has strong explosive properties. This discovery came near costing the doctor his eyes.

He was evaporating a quantity of it by heating, sending it over to water, it came out in the form of a white powder. It exploded when he was talking to his visitor, the heat reached the typhoid, which exploded with terrific force, breaking the vessel in which it was contained into fragments. Its explosive force is greater than that of gun powder, and the doctor came near scorching the white out of his forehead this afternoon by exploding some for him. It explodes by applying heat to it. Typhoid very quickly decomposes upon exposure to the air. The poison obtained from the aniline was more deadly than the aniline itself. The doctor's experiments give promise of valuable results.

If you want to teach a dog arithmetic, tie up one of his paws, and he will put down three and carry one every time.

LONDON NOMINATED.

The democratic judicial convention, for the counties of Washtenaw and Monroe, was held in Dundee Wednesday, on the 20th ballot, Geo. M. Landon, of Monroe, received the nomination. Mr. L. is the present judge of probate of Monroe county. He was formerly an Episcopalian clergyman.

Gen. J. J. FINLEY of Ocala, Fla., has been appointed to succeed the Hon. Charles W. Jones in the United States senate, whose term expired March 4. Ex-Senator Jones says his successor is a good man. It is not known whether Jones will return to his home in Florida or will remain in Detroit, which city he seems to have a decided preference for.

New Divorce Law.

Representative Harrington is receiving credit on all sides for introducing a bill that will doubtless become a law and a work much needed reform in the divorce business. The bill provides the first requisite for being legally put asunder shall be a residence of two years in Michigan, unless the parties were married in this state; also the parties shall not have cohabited for a period of one year before bringing the action. This is an extremely important provision, inasmuch as it gives plenty of time for consideration before actual divorce is granted. As the law now stands, persons can go into court within twenty-four hours from the time they first divorce. The bill has a strong clause against collusion, and in case testimony is taken before a commissioner or notary public the question shall be asked each witness if he has knowledge of any fact which would tend to weaken the case of the claimant. In case there are children under 14 years, it shall be the duty of solicitor for complainant to give notice to prosecuting attorney of all proceedings in order that he may protect the interests of children.—Bill Foster.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless Childbirth, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in childbirth but the results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that a woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness, swollen limbs, and other attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out; it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two cent stamp for descriptive circulars, testimonials and confidential letter sent in sealed envelope. Address Frank Thomas & Co. Publishers, Baltimore Maryland.

Modjeska.

The play of Adrienne Lecouvreur has a peculiar history. It was written for the great Rachel by Scribe and Legouve, and was once acted by her, she having formed a prejudice against it, but Legouve was not to be overcome by trifles. He insisted permission to read the piece in Paris, and before a few her most intimate friends. This request was granted, and the outcome is told in Legouve's own words:

"On the second act, Adrienne makes her first appearance, and in her hand the part of Bagdet, which she is studying. The Prince de Bouillon approaches her and observes, saying: 'You still play the part of Rachel, don't you?' 'Oh,' said I to myself, 'she must be my friend, for surely the words do not merit a bravo.' Rachel, too, was a little startled, and gave Jannin a look that seemed to say: 'What a traitor! Her opinion so completely a traitor's opinion soon became everybody else's opinion. Rachel, surprised and very much embarrassed at not finding herself with her hand on the chain, made but a feeble resistance against the general impression, and at the end of the second act even chimed in with the general sentiment by saying, 'Well, I always thought there was something in that second act. This was her last semblance of defence. From the very beginning of the third act she ridiculed herself of her former prejudices as completely as politicians do of unpopular opinions. She applauded, she laughed, she shed tears, every now and then exclaiming: 'What a silly simpleton I have been!' At the end of the fifth act she actually threw herself on my neck, exclaiming with streaming eyes: 'How have you kept yourself off the stage?'"

"The reader had saved author." Modjeska at the Grand Tuesday evening March 15.

COUNTY CRUMBS.

An exchange says: To keep sloppish, whether painted or not, from rusting, keep in them a small piece of sheet zinc about two inches square, either loose or soldered fast. One who has tried this for a long time vouches for the truth.

Mrs. Joseph Howard, of this village says she has baked since Jan. 1, 1886, to Jan. 1, 1937, for an average family of six the following: Cookies 70; pies 100; doughnuts; 1668 cakes 70; bread 344 loaves; biscuits 142; pancakes 234.

She says she has mixed dough until she can taste it. Manchester Entomologist Geo. Phelps, of Webster, met with a painful and very serious accident last Thursday. While catching chickens for the reunion, he jumped from a small scaffold on to a wooden platform, and fell a piece of an old rusty hinge, which entered a considerable distance into the foot. For some time it was feared that lockjaw would set in, but at last accounts Mr. W. was on a fair way to recovery.—Dexter Leader.

There is some talk now of utilizing the fine spring on Dr. Harper's lot for furnishing water in case of a fire, and for family purposes, the water to be carried into cisterns and houses by means of a hydraulic ram. This scheme is no new one to Dr. Harper, who has long contemplated furnishing his estate with water by this means.—Up to date 201 signatures have been obtained to the petition for a separate polling precinct in York township. If successful the new precinct will comprise the east half of the town. We speak for the success of the petition, and hope the board will grant it.—Milan Leader.

W. R. Coates, hydraulic and sanitary engineer, of Kalamazoo, who has been prospecting for water supply sufficient to supply Ipsilanti has struck a vein of excellent water on Base No. 2, near the Ipsilanti paper co's lower dam, which he guarantees will supply Ipsilanti with all the water she will want for years to come. The water was found at a depth of 24 feet in a stratum of gravel beneath a clay bed which protects it from all surface water contamination. Mr. Coates is the gentleman who struck the celebrated Jackson and Kalamazoo wells. In a conversation with a reporter of the Commercial he said that $75,000 would construct water works for Ipsilanti on the most approved plan, pump hydrants and water mains to the city, the running expenses, interest and all extras for one year, and until the works would be on a solid paying basis.—Commercial.

FARM FOR SALE.

The Albert Case Farm of 140 acres, adjoining the village of Manchester, will be sold at a bargain. Long time given. Easy payments. The place is well watered and has good buildings. For full particulars inquire of Mrs. Ralph Whitbig, Ann Arbor, Mich.

All Goods warranted to give fair wear and satisfaction, at Doty & Finer's Boot and Shoe House.

Ask your grocer for the Roller King or Roller Queen Flour, Swathel, Kyer & Peterson, manufacturers.

Roller King and Roller Queen. These are crack brands of flour manufactured by Swathel, Kyer and Peterson, and a barrel of each or both, would be an acceptable present.

CLAUVOINT PHYSICIAN. Dr. L. D. White is still in the Duffy block, opposite the postoffice, where he has an extensive business. He can be found in his office at all hours.

When in the city next week don't forget to call on Doty & Finer, who have just received one of the largest and most complete stocks of Boots and Shoes for spring trade ever brought to Ann Arbor. Sell cheap and the people will buy.

Buy your Beer at the Central Bottling Works, corner Detroit and Catherine streets. There is no disputing the fact that the "Roller Queen" and "Roller King" flour manufactured by Swathel, Kyer & Peterson, is a little ahead of any flour now in the market. Try them brand after brand, you will use no other. Great is "Roller Queen" and "Roller King."

LOANING.—Money to loan on first-class Real Estate Mortgage at Current rates of Interest. Satisfactory arrangements made with capitalists desiring such investments. Every conveyance and transaction in abstracts of titles carefully examined as to legal effect.

Z. P. KING, Ann Arbor.

Several times during the winter strange noises have been heard by the janitor in the court house, and from one to three o'clock in the morning.
Sometimes he would bear indistinct and muffled voices, as if half a dozen men were engaged in angry debate and like old men sitting at a table, talking at once, and sometimes he would hear noises like wheels slowly rolling back and forth on the brick pavement of the basement halls.

There seems to be a well-founded report that the recent fire at the laboratory was the work of an incendiary.
And why I am led to make this assertion is from the fact that, previous to the fire, chemicals and microscopes suddenly disappeared from the building, and it is thought by some that it was started to cover up the surreptitious disappearance of those articles.

As I was passing the Cook house, last Monday, I saw a group of three—shall I say men—who stood there, looting being their occupation.
A party of ladies were going by, when one of these creatures deliberately expectorated almost in the face of one of the ladies. I looked about for a policeman to complain of the wretch. It would be well for our officers of the law to have their eyes upon these creatures.

I was considerably indignant on learning the facts regarding the furnishing of Hobart guild.
After a certain well-known home in this city that the church committee washed figures on furniture, and they were given them; he agreed to call the second time, but did not, and the next thing learned was the presence of this M. D. in Detroit, and for some reason the contract was given to a prominent establishment there.

CRAWFORD AND THE DEVILS!
A Strange Phenomenon at the Court House Witnessed by the Janitor.
Spooks, Hobgoblins, Ghosts or Devils—Which?
IS THE BUILDING HAUNTED.

Some years ago, on two different occasions, THE DEMOCRAT published an account of singular and mysterious circumstances occurring in the dead of night at the court house—once while Jeff Davis was in the court, and again when Tunis Harton was janitor,—and now it seems that the present janitor, Mr. Crawford, has had experiences almost, or quite as strange as his predecessors. Each of these persons, for some reason, have a strange dread of the subj at and refuse to talk about it, or if pressed will deny it, and the present one, especially, will put you off with a shake of the head and a curious twinkle of the eye.

Through the glass in the upper panels of the door of his sleeping room. Without awakening his wife or child, Mr. Crawford quietly slipped out of bed and, going to the south door of his apartments, opposite the boiler room, soiled his eyes and looked into the hall. At first he heard no sound except the moaning of the wind as it swept through the naked branches of the trees on the northwest side of the court house square. But as he listened he thought

THEY LOOKED thin and unsubstantial; there was no blood in their faces and their eyes were staring. He began to feel weak in the knees and, although it was a frosty night, and he was but partially dressed, the cold sweat rolled off from his forehead as he stood in a daze. As he approached nearer and nearer to the door, he began to breathe shorter and shorter. He felt a terrible, SMOTHERING SENSATION, precisely as one feels just before succumbing to the influence of chloroform.

As I was passing the Cook house, last Monday, I saw a group of three—shall I say men—who stood there, looting being their occupation.
A party of ladies were going by, when one of these creatures deliberately expectorated almost in the face of one of the ladies. I looked about for a policeman to complain of the wretch. It would be well for our officers of the law to have their eyes upon these creatures.

Among the students who travel our streets, from two to two hundred in a body, it is remarkable how little disturbance is heard of. A woman is as safe on the streets after dark as day would be in the broad light of day. This speaks well for the order maintained in our city.

SACRAMENTO.

It was an odd name for a girl—Sacramento. So the girl herself thought as she stooped down beside a spring at the foot of a cotton-wood tree and lazily dropped her hair into the water. "It ought to have been given to a boy if it was a fit name to give anybody," she said quite aloud. "But I'm more boy than girl, anyway."

her voice quite full of what she felt. He looked up at her in wonder, but as his eyes met hers she understood her. "I didn't do it. Upon my honor I didn't," he said. "It was that man Dennis."

Sacramento breathed a great sigh of relief. Horse-stealing was held in that section to be a crime worse than murder, and she was by no means free from the popular estimate of her own nature. "Oh, I'm glad of that!" cried she. "But—she hesitated, and then went on doubtfully. "But, then, how was it? Why did you run away?"

"It was Dennis' dog, seeing his laying out to me. He did that clear high. And after that you know as well as I do that there would have been no use in trying to prove myself innocent. They always hang a horse first and then come for the man afterwards. I had to run to save my life."

"Do you know that the Regulators are after me, answered the young fellow, suddenly. "They catch me near catching me now, too, this one. I just escaped them and came down the canon by the mountain trail. I have had a hard run for it, and what with no sleep for 24 hours, and not much food, I feel as though I could not go another day without a good meal. You—have you been very good to me. You—have you been very good to me. I shall never forget."

"What are you going to do now?" interrupted Sacramento. "You are not safe here."

"I know it. But I threw them off the track this noon, and I do not think they are within five miles of me. Now, I have something to eat, and I will take to the woods again. I hope I may get clear away. If I don't my voice trembled and tears came into his eyes. "If I don't I shall get a hanging, suppose. Oh, what a fool I was, either to go to Sacramento, or to go to Sacramento. And yet, I wouldn't care much, either, if it wasn't for my father and mother. And there poor fellow fairly broke down."

"What?" Sacramento exclaimed. She had been crying, too; she could not help it. They both listened. In a moment they heard plainly the sound of horses coming down the trail. The girl turned with a gasp to Sacramento. "Go in there! Quick! Quick! There is not a moment to lose! Here take your hat!"
