

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

He Sees About Everything and Prints About Everything He Sees.

The latest scheme talked of is a boulevard on Twelfth street, connecting with the river road. It would certainly make a delightful drive.

If we are to have that park why is not something being done towards it. The old cemetery will make a delightful one, as it has so many natural advantages.

It seems to me that the sidewalk committee is dreadfully slow in condemning many of the sidewalks. In some places it is really dangerous to walk upon them so many loose boards and holes for the unwary to be tripped up in.

I have been informed by those competent to know, that the saloons were closed all day Sunday. It is evident that the city authorities are determined the laws shall be strictly enforced. In this they will be backed by all ordering people.

I confess I was disgusted at the review of several persons who attended the entertainment in the opera house Monday evening, on the occasion of the presentation of the "Farmer's Daughter." Such disrespect shown an audience and company is rarely witnessed elsewhere. This city, and for the good name of the place it should never be tolerated at another entertainment.

The Manchester common council has passed a resolution that all dogs running at large within the corporate limits of that village, within a certain time, shall be properly muzzled, and every dog running at large is ordered killed. This is another ordinance which our city fathers should consider. The hundreds of worthless, useless curs upon our streets are nuisances and should be gotten rid of.

As I was passing down Detroit street to the depot the other day man's inhumanity to dumb animals might have been seen. Attached to a baggage wagon was a horse and mule and the team was being most shamefully abused by the driver who whipped them every jump they made, over the head and ears, over their backs, and on their flanks, and I said to myself, give us a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

With our system of water-works which cannot a company be formed for the building of sewers, if the city cannot afford it. They are certainly becoming indispensable with our improvements made and are really needed. This is something to be thought of, and seriously, not only for the beauty of the city but for the health of it. Many unpleasant nuisances could be done away with, by a perfect system of sewerage.

In looking over some exchanges I see the Ludington officials have ordered all small boys to be off from the streets by eight p. m. It would be a good idea if our officers would pass a like ordinance in our city as our streets are overrun by the small boys at night who ought to be at home and many of them in their teens. It is a bad plan to allow boys away from home at night, and why parents will allow it, I cannot understand.

I am pleased to know that the board of health are doing good work in compelling people to clean up around their places, out buildings, etc. I was informed Monday by a member of the board of a citizen who made complaint against a neighbor of a nuisance on his place, when a greater one was found on the informer's premises. And they were served alike, complaints being made against both of them by the board of health man, and the papers were served on them the same day.

The new depot which is to be erected by the T. A. & N. M. R. R., is an assured thing. It certainly is greatly needed as the old one is a disgrace to the company. The plans for the new structure have been submitted and approved, the building to be of stone and 28 by 70 feet. This will be an ornament, and there will be no city on the line of the Michigan Central or Toledo roads which can boast of finer accommodations for traveling business. We are indeed fast becoming a metropolitan city.

It is a pity that we cannot have our officers scattered about the city during the night, as they might quiet the disturbances which are often made by boys and girls. I think if people are on the streets during the late hours of night they might have the decency to go quietly about their own business and not scream, laugh or knock tin cans around and disturb those who are sleeping or trying to sleep. They certainly ought to have some consideration and respect for others, if they have none for themselves.

In walking about the city my attention has been called in a number of instances to the damage being done by the small boy and his sling shot. Here and there could be seen windows that have been broken in warehouses, and other buildings, and in the fourth ward the owner of the old dry house at the foot of State street has been compelled to put shutters up at the windows to prevent more panes of glass being broken. Why does not the council pass an ordinance against the use of the sling shot and thus abate an intolerable nuisance.

Ann Arbor looks perfectly charming in its fresh spring suit, and where we find a pleasant place to dwell in particularly during the summer months, than our own beautiful city. Now with the railroad connection with Whitmore Lake where we can so readily go and come; with the rapid Huron, where we can spend a day, rowing or fishing; the beautiful woods to roam in; the fine roads to drive upon; the scenery over the hills to enjoy; only an hour and a half's ride to two large cities, Detroit and Toledo, and the many advantages we have in other ways makes Ann Arbor a very desirable place.

I understand there has been talk kicking on the part of a number of wealthy citizens, on account of the action of the board of review wherein the assessments against them have been raised corresponding to their means. No doubt it will be the duty of the board of review to pass a resolution instructing the register of deeds to draw up a list of those persons who have mortgages on file in his office. I have always been of the opinion that the taxes fall mostly on the former class, while the rich men escape. Poor men have rights which the rich should be made to respect, and I am pleased to know that the board of review which has not completed their labors have performed their work faithfully and well.

Forepaugh and the Wild West. The Whole Amusement World Captured by Three Times the Greatest Show on Earth. Adam's Chief Press Agent Interviewed.

A representative of THE DEMOCRAT met the chief press agent of Adam Forepaugh at the Cook house last Saturday. From him we gathered many interesting facts which the DEMOCRAT readers will no doubt appreciate.

In casting a glance over the country at the different shows which appeal to the public in one form or the other for support, said the agent. I fail to recognize one that does not involve a partnership, outside of Adam Forepaugh. Nor do we recognize the same name, so many changes having been made, as that which appeared before the public twenty-three years ago, except that of old John Robinson, of Cincinnati, who is an octogenarian, and retired from the business. For nearly a quarter of a century the name of Adam Forepaugh has become a household word. He has been prominently placed before the American people, each year his show growing larger and larger. No complex or intricate partnership relations have hampered or impeded his progress to his present exalted position. He now rules independent and alone the supreme magistracy of the spectacular world. Right well he has earned the enviable reputation which he steadfastly maintains. No man shall wrest from him his professional crown.

Having secured control of Madison Square Garden, New York, he was the first to introduce Buffalo Bill's Wild West show in the Metropolitan of the Empire State. When he realized his defects he hesitated not a moment to add to it the famous Custer Battle. To properly illustrate the latter, required an expenditure of sixty thousand dollars. When he had increased the show or enhance its attractions, Adam Forepaugh spends money as freely as water. Having secured the leading characteristic features of the Wild West, reserving the exclusive right of the Custer Battle, after thoroughly remodeling the whole, he has combined all these additional attractions which constitute in fact the only real and original wild west show in America. It is now under his exclusive management and control, and well may it be said therefore that he now owns "three times the greatest show on earth."

How is it said our reporter that other concerns are advertising a Wild West? "It is a delusion and a snare," said the agent, "ventilated to begrudge the money. An attempt to steal Forepaugh's thunder, and make temporary capital out of a very popular addition to his great show. However beautifully others may copy their backs, and on their flanks, and I said to myself, give us a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

ADAM FOREPAUGH

With Three Times the Greatest Show on Earth.

Has actually crossed the Hudson and metaphorically the Rubicon. In the classic language of Julius Caesar, in the briefest military dispatch ever transmitted to Rome, he can truly say: Veni! Vidi! Vici!

A magnificent Arc de Triomphe, spontaneously erected by the consensus of public opinion everywhere, on which the garlands of victory already float high in the air, awaits his triumphant return and entrance into every city and town in America where his old and new friends will be anxious to see the TRIPLE CIRCUS, QUADRUPLE HIPPODROME, DOUBLE MUSEUM AND MENAGERIE, ALL NOW UNITED WITH 4-PAWS REMODELED THEATRE IN THE WORLD, to see and know for themselves just why and HOW THE GREAT CUMULATIVE VICTORY WAS WON! The story is a brief one, and soon told. It finds its solution in these facts: It was

3 TIMES THE Greatest Show on Earth. Ann Arbor, Friday, June 10

IN THE SPRING. Have all the songs been heard? Are all the birds dead? Is all the music fled?

THE SNAKE KING. BY WALLACE P. REED. From the Collection.

It was a sultry August morning, and John Maston was up early.

The Matson plantation stretched for miles along the Alabama river.

Matson and his wife stood on the broad piazza, looking down the sloping lawn to the road.

"What does this mean?" said Maston, as several negroes turned in from the road.

"Oh, John, it is a dead man!" exclaimed little Mrs. Maston.

"What is he doing?" asked Maston.

"He is dead," gasped Mrs. Maston.

"No, but he is unconscious," said her husband.

"But who?" answered Maston.

"Oh, yes," answered Maston, "you know who he is, where he is from, and why he is in this fix."

"But who?" asked Maston.

"Oh, yes," answered Maston, "you know who he is, where he is from, and why he is in this fix."

"But who?" asked Maston.

LIFE IN THE STEERAGE. A Man Who Has Had Experience Says It Is No "Sea Picnic."

The situation began to assume a serious aspect, Mrs. Maston at once laid the doors closed, and proceeded to inspect the surroundings from every window in the house.

What she saw appalled her. The fierce rays of the sun made every object appear to pulse and throb, and half-blinded as she was with the glare, it took some little time for her to satisfy herself that she was not mistaken.

Twisting and twining among the flowers she counted at least a dozen serpents. They dotted the lawn in front of the house and were crawling along the winding walks.

Sitting upright in bed, with an unaccountable chill over his eyes and feeling his odd little head from side to side, was the unknown guest.

"Laden," he said in an unfamiliar brogue, "be not afraid. No harm to these houses. Meson will, I trust, be the alarm de laide. Eets all right."

Mrs. Maston wanted to hear no more; she ran frantically to the parlor and bolted herself in.

It was the voice of the stranger out in the hall. There was a sound as if of somebody struggling, and the mellow voice of Aunt Lucy was uplifted in vain.

"Missus, oh, missus," she cried, "Dis yer Mister Man had done got in his clothes, an' er takin' on pow'ful. He says he bound fer ter go."

"What is he doing?" asked Maston.

"He is dead," gasped Mrs. Maston.

"No, but he is unconscious," said her husband.

"But who?" answered Maston.

"Oh, yes," answered Maston, "you know who he is, where he is from, and why he is in this fix."
