A Quiet Time. The first reunion of the alumni of the Michigan institution for the education of the deaf and dumb was held in Flint a few days ago. About 150 former pupils of the institution were in attendance from this and other states, and the gathering was an assured success. At a meeting held in the chapel of the main building a prayer was offered up by the Rev. A. W. Mann, deaf-mute missionary; an address of welcome was delivered by Supt. M. T. Michigan Law-Makers Will Rest for Two Years.

Both houses met at 8 o'clock on the morning of June 25, and a joint committee was appointed to wait upon the governor and inform him that the legislature was ready to adjourn. The committee reporter its read ness to close business, and precisely at 8:50 the legislature for 1886 7 adjourned. A number of important measures, some of them bad and uncalled for measures, iied in the senate. Among them were the oill to restrict the number of convicts that bill to restrict the number of convicts that may be employed on any particular work, the limit being 1:0. This was intended as a blow at the Detroit house of correction. The bill to appropriate $20,000 for machinery to start work in Jackson prison on state account was not reached. The bill to regulate fishing in the waters of the great lakes failed. The Detroit assessors bill was rejected. The bill to require corporations to sell lands held by them for ten years failed also. The inter state commerce act had twenty of its twenty-three sections eliminated, and thus was made comparatively reasonable. When it was returned to the house Mr. Rogers feit disgusted and himself moved to have the bill laid on the table. The two and a half cents a mile railroad bill, though it passed the house, was not reached in the senate, the senate railroad committee being much opposed to the idea of lower fares. The Oscoda and Au Sable consolidation bill died on the table.

The new liquor tax bill has an amendment which provides for the summary closing of saloons and wholesale liquor establishments which have not paid the tax.

The police of Detroit are given full jurisdiction to enforce the regulations of the new liquor law in the town-hips of Springwells, Greenfield, Hamtramck and Grosse Pointe. A number of mounted police will be equipped to patrol the highways and by-ways of those townships and hold saloon-keepers to a strict observance of the law

The house passed a concurrent resolution authorizing the state military board if in accord with their judgement, to send to Philadelphia next September to participate in the grand parade of the military and naval forces of the United States, and of the various states and territories, such companies, regiments or parts of regiments as might be deemed proper. The expense of the contemplated exhibition was to be taken from the military fund and that there might be a sufficient amount available, the legislature authorized the state military board to change the arrangements for the annual encampment or to entirely suspend it for the present year. The resolution failed in the senate, and so the Michigan soldiers will have no opportunity to compete with The house passed a concurrent resolu-

The senate committe on appropriations and finance has made a report on the house bill to equalize bounties to volunteers in the late war of the rebellion. They examine the laws and reports upon the subject and reach the conclusion that the state does not owe the increa ed bounties subject and reach the conclusion that the state does not owe the increa ed bounties proposed as a matter of equity or justice. They examine the question whether the state owes the bounties inferentially and morally, and answer it in the negative. Then they come to the third and last question. Ought the state to generously and philanthropically give this money? Their answer to this is in part as follows: Evidently the legislatures of all these twenty years have believed that they must be just before they could be generous. But in a question of generosity the first point to ascertain is the amount asked. Gen. Robertson's answer to this que tion says: "To equalize bounties on the basis of $100 to each man, as near as can now be estimated, would require the sum of $6,783,650 and to make the basis $150 to each man, 50 per cent more, or $10,175,475." Now the chief argument in favor of additional bounties at all is that the sum paid should be equalized, and whatever this proves is in favor of the larger sum, costing more than $10,000,000. In fact, if we are not to equalize there is no argument in favor of anything. So we are confronted with

This deducted from the aggregate would show that the amount reported as paid by the localities was $7,980,155. This enormous sum does not show lack of liberality. But this is not all. When the soldier was enlisted, liberality had only just begun. Recall the law which provided by counties for the families of soldiers during their absence. There are no doubt many men in this senate who were supervisors during the rate of these sums has never been, never and to these sums has never been, never can be computed. The committee refer further to the amounts paid to the soldiers by the general government and to the amount expended for the soldiers by the general government and to the amount expended for the soldiers home, and close with recommending that the bill do not pass.

Can generosity be asked now on the ground that the state or its citizens have not been libaral hefore? Recall to mind the large local bounties paid by cities villages, towns and individuals for volunteers. The provost marshal general's report says: Michigan paid $9,664,855, and that officer states in his report that this sum does not include nearly all counties paid, for he was unable to obtain full reports, and from many localities no reports. The state itself paid in bounties $1,684,70.

The little girls and boys have taken up the old-fashioned game of "mumbledy Detroit Tribune. peg" which we used to play long years ago. I have not yet noticed whether the boys make the girls pull the peg with their teeth, as they used to when I played the game.

I met six grown girls on the street Saturday, walking abreast, which was nothing strange, but these six girls were not opening their mouths for conversation, but for chewing gum, and the way they chewed was a caution, opening and shutting their mouths with astonishing rapidity. I wondered if it were a gum chewing contest.

I think many of our citizens make a mistake in so thoroughly drenching their grounds at night. Ann Arbor has so many trees and consequently so much shade that it makes everything very damp to have the streets and grounds so water soaked. If they would only get up in the morning and throw water, the bright sun would soon dispel the damp-ness, and it would make it more comfortable in many localities.

I do not see why we cannot have open air concerts in our city. We have excelent bands and the expenses would be light to secure the services of one of them for one evening at least in each week, during the summer. Let our enterprising citizens bestir themselves, engage theband for one week, and see how the experiment works. Let us be citified in all things and have open air concerts. Who will be the first one to set the

I hear it all around, in all places, at all times, by young men and maidens, old men and children, that Ann Arbor is one of the prettiest cities in the country. We have always known it, and when our guests visit us every year at commencement time and tell us this over and over again, it does not make us proud, but we keep right on about our business just the same. We are used to it and know we have one of the prettiest and healthiest cities to be found

I notice that on the south side and whole length of Miller ave., 3d ward, there are no plank or tar walks, and on the north side of said street some of the plank walks are in a dilapidated condition and really endanger the lives of pe-destrians. The walk south of the Boudinot house on E. Ann street is dangerous to walk upon, lalso many in various other parts of the city. The chairman of the sidewalk committee, I understand, is hurrying matters as fast as possible and hopes soon to have the sidewalks all artist.

I amglad to inform my fair readers that croquet is again the fashionable game. It has been decreed that lawn tennis now be relegated to the past, and we all know that it would never do to play croquet when it was outre, but now that fashion says play croquet, croquet is played. It certainly is a much more graceful game than tennis, for in playing that you must run, jump and throw your arms about to be able to strike your ball, which makes some young women look decidedly awkward. The principal thing which is bringing croquet to the front once more, is, that couples are more apt to become engaged, because they have many chance of little side chats and flirtations, which they do not have in tennis, and that of itself speaks volumes for croquet.

Wednesday was a day long to be re membered by the university. The campus and different rooms in the main building were filled at all hours. Little groups were scattered here and there talking over old college days. The alumni of the different departments were holding exercises and receptions in various rooms; the choral union was rehearsing for the concert, and taken all in all it was a busy and a tiresome day to many. Ladies and gentlemen were wandering aimlessly hither and thither, visiting the different buildings, and many seeking a cool and quiet spot to rest for the grand concert which was to take place in the evening. A young lady and escort, lits, were horseback riding one day last week, on the middle Ypsilanti road, and when near Mallet's creek, the horse ridden by the young lady, spied the water and immediately went for it and proceeded to lay down in it, throwing the lady into the creek. Her escort jumped from his horse to escit her when both horses. horse to assist her, when both horses started for Ann Arbor on the double quick. The couple made their way to a quick. The young gent walked back, neither of them being the worse for their little adventure. The horses are mustangs, and owned by J. A. Polhemus.

The torchlight parade Monday night was something new for Ann Arbor. About 800 students were fantastically dressed in various costumes, the white gown chiefly, with grotesque head gear Transparencies were carried by the dif-ferent classes, inscribed with their favorite mottoes. As the procession moved slowly along headed by the city band, from wagons at intervals, sky rockets and Roman candles were let off. With tin horns, cow bells, sleigh bells and other discordant instruments, a perfect pandemonium was raised. A huge bon-fire on the campus finished the evening's performance, when the stu-dents joined hands and danced around

Up- it, and it seemed to be a very violent form. on the clock were seated a shepherd, a negro and a dog. As the hour was struck the shepherd played upon his flute, and the dog played gently at his feet. But when the king reached forth to touch an apple that hung from a tree, under which a shephard rested, the dog flew at him and barked so furiously that a live dog answered him, and the whole party left in hast . Venturing to return, one of the couriers asked the negro in Spanish what time it was. the day. The people here cannot say There was no reply, but when the question was repeated in French an answer was given. This frightened the courier, who rejoined his companions, and all of them voted that the clock was the work of the evil one.

Upon the belfry of the Kauthaus, in Coblentz, there is the head of a giantbearded and helmeted with brass. The gant's head is known as "the man in the custom-house;" and whenever a countryman meets a citizen of Coblentz giant's head is known as "the man in away from that place, instead of saying: "How are all our friends in Coblentz!" he asks: "How is the man in the custom-house?" At every stroke of the bell which sounds the hour upon the clock, the mouth of the giant opens and shuts with great force, as if it were trying to say in the words of Longfellow: "Time was-Time is-Time is past."--Popular Science Monthly.

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. V.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with

A FULL STAFF OF EIGHTEEN PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

And exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases.

This imposing Establishment was designed and erected to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Buffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-ecceptrated institution.

A FAIR AND BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER TO INVALIDS.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases Just as successfully without as with a personal consultation. While we are always glad to see our patients, and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, and familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous, if we view it in the light of the carty ages. Take, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and forefell what the weather will be in Florada or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science, and, scientific system of distance. ## COMMON SENSE AS APPLIED TO MEDICINE.

It is a well-known fact, and one that appeals to the judgment of every thinking person, that the physician who devotes whole time to the study and investigation of a certain class of diseases, must become better qualified to treat such diseases than he who attempts to treat every ill to which flesh is heir, without giving special attention to any class of diseases. Men. in all ages of the world, who have become famous, have devoted their lives to some special branch of science, art, or By thorough organization, and subdividing the practice of medicine and surgery in this institution, every invalid is treated by a specialist—one who devotes his undivided attention to the particular class of diseases to which the case belongs. The advantage of this arrangement must be obvious. Medical science offers a vast field for investigation, and no physician can, within the brief limits of a life-time, achieve the highest degree of success in the treatment of every malady incident to humanity.
