ON A PLEASURE TRIP.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland Making the Acquaintance of the People.

Receptions and Hand-shaking the Order.

The southward flight of the presidential party from Chicago to the evening of the 11th inst. En route to that point, Indianapolis, Terra Haute, St. Louis, St. Paul, and other prominent points.

St. Paul had given the distinguished party receptions and banquets fit for royalty. Drives about the cities, speech-making, and in several instances, a few hours' rest.

All along the line of travel the people had turned out to greet the party, and the city of St. Louis, and floral emblems from different organizations made the way from Washington to St. Paul.

The first Sunday of their absence from Washington was spent in St. Louis, and Sunday the second, while leaving Washington, they were the guests of Postmaster General and Mrs. Wood.

The party left Minneapolis at 8:30 on the evening of the 11th. The president was frequently summoned to the platform from the train to receive the country people who seemed to be wide awake all along the route.

St. Cloud was reached about the middle of the afternoon, and a reception committee, as well as bands and people were found in waiting.

The president and Mrs. Cleveland were driven at once to the corn palace, which had been built for the purpose of holding the close of the corn festival in anticipation of the coming of the distinguished guests.

She saw a man in a white shirt and a woman in a blue dress, and she saw a man in a white shirt and a woman in a blue dress, and she saw a man in a white shirt and a woman in a blue dress.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

He Sees About Everything and Prints About Everything He Sees.

"There are a number of genuine cases of diphtheria in the city," said a member of the board of health Monday, and "those houses where such patients are being treated should be placarded."

Several of the streets are again being dug up by the water company, to supply residences and stores with water. Now what the council should do is clearly to be seen, and that is to compel the company to pound the dirt down in the trenches, and thus avoid leveling hummocks for the city to level off next spring.

"It looks a little curious doesn't, Jim, to see so many officers here to-night," said a student to his chum in the opera house Wednesday evening. "And the best thing for us to do is to remain as quiet as possible, or out we will go."

The closing of clothing, hat and cap and merchant tailoring establishments at six o'clock every night, except Saturday's, is a move in the right direction. It will give proprietors and clerks an opportunity of spending more time with their families, and to attend Wednesday and Thursday evening prayer meetings. Several that I might mention are "spiritually" inclined.

My attention has been called to the fact that many street hydrants have not been opened but once since the water works were accepted by the council, and that in consequence of this negligence, they are liable to become stopped up or rusted, and just when they are needed for fire purposes it would be impossible to open them. I think the chief engineer should give this matter his immediate attention.

One great nuisance which calls loudly for reform, is permitted around the post-office while the evening mails are being distributed, and after the office is closed. I refer to the large number of small boys who congregate there, play tag, and otherwise make it uncomfortable for those who may have business at the post-office. One or two arrests would probably put an end to this playing in and about the p. o. building.

I think it would be a good idea if the owner of the land rented to the city for a wood market, would cause the rubbish, stones and gravel to be removed, so that teams would have no difficulty in reaching the market from the alley in the rear of the open market house. And the members of the board of health would take a walk through other alleys in the city, they would probably see the necessity of ordering a general cleaning up.

Since the new stone walk was laid in front of Pantle's store on South Main street, there is a slight jutting off place at either end, and unless the grade is continued, I wouldn't be surprised to hear of some one being injured before the winter is over. If the property owners won't do anything to remedy the city should take the matter in hand. It will be cheaper in the end than being obliged to pay for broken bones.

In my perambulations Sunday, I noticed that the Michigan Central railroad authorities had had the grass cut around the passenger house, and on the east side of the building as far as the old dry house. Of course they had no business to go beyond their boundary line. Now if the owner of the building in question would cause the tall grass weeds to be cut down, it would materially improve the appearance of the property.

I take it for granted that Maclean must feel a little sore at the set back he received at the regents, meeting last week when they unanimously passed a resolution notifying the steward to inform the professors that in the future they would not be permitted to interfere with those matters which should properly come before the regents. It is safe to say there will be less communications in the newspaper from Donald Maclean on the subject of removing the clinical department, etc.

As a gentleman from the country was driving past the hospitals Tuesday, his horse became frightened at some students who were playing football in the street, and came within one of running away. There is an ordinance against playing ball in any of the thoroughfares in the city, and it would be well to have it enforced. It is only a few days ago that ball playing in the road was the cause of Aid. Sutherland's horse running away, and the carriage is now at the shop for repairs.

Imagine my surprise when I heard an old citizen, a gentleman of leisure remark the other day that he had lived in Ann Arbor for nearly fifty years, and had never yet visited the museum or other places of interest on the campus. There are other who have resided here for years who can probably say the same thing, but it strikes me I would take a little time to investigate what is going on, and about the university grounds, so as to be able to speak intelligently when conversing with strangers.

I never did believe in making "fish of one flesh and another," and when I hear a property owner, who is compelled to lay a stone walk at an expense of a hundred or more dollars, complain because his neighbor is granted permission to patch his walk here and there with new plank, I feel that he has a right to use forcible language. It is wrong, all wrong, for the council to be crimi nate in the favor of one property owner against another, no matter what the excuse may be. Everybody should be served alike.

I believe in patronizing home institutions. The way to build up a city is for every citizen to buy goods at home, but I am aware that thousands of dollars worth are purchased in Detroit and Toledo every year, and by those who are everlastingly talking about booming the city. There are professors in the university who do all their trading away from home, not because they can get better bargains, but because it sounds better to say I bought this article in Detroit. I have lately been informed that a prominent member of the booming committee never purchases an article in this city if he can possibly avoid it. This is a hard month on the subject of home. Such men are of no earthly benefit to a place, and I opine but few tens would be shed were he to take up his bed and walk.

I understand that the manager of the opera house proposes to maintain order and has secured the services of several officers who will hereafter be present at each entertainment. It is about time that the few rowdies who are in the habit of doing about as they please, were set down upon. Theater goers will be pleased to know that hereafter no monkeying will be permitted, and any one who attempts to create a disturbance will be proceeded against before a justice of the peace.

Just to show what a man of energy and determination can do from a small beginning, I would say that some four years ago S. Hirschowitz sent the store adjoining J. W. Maynard's grocery on Ann street, and opened up a small stock of notions and fancy goods—and by the way this is one of the best business streets in the city—desiring to branch out into another line of trade, Mr. H. concluded some weeks ago to remove to Mt. Pleasant, and when he came to pack up his goods, he was astonished at the amount of stock on hand. Starting in with what could almost be carried on a wheelbarrow, he left here with several dry loads.

During the first three acts at Tuesday night's entertainment in the opera house, pandemonium seemed to reign. There was screeching, howling, and hissing. Two students by the name of Daniels and Harrison were ejected by an officer, and a free fight took place in the corridor leading to the gallery, all colored by the name of Crawford got in his work with a razor, and in turn carved Wm. Campion, Jr., August Pearson and another brother, who were attempting to quell the disturbance. The wounded were taken to a doctor's office where their wounds were dressed. Such conduct is reprehensible, and it occurs as an example to those who behave in an ungentlemanly manner, the better it will be for the fair name of the opera house. In justice to the students I would say that the carver and the carved were all town boys.

The democratic members of the board of supervisors of Washtenaw county have done a deed for which their party will be remembered as long as the present administration, for instance, for its great civil service characteristics. Instead of following the precedents of all former administrations, and allowing a member of the opposite party upon the board of superintendents of the poor, they went to work and elected a democrat to succeed Mr. D. B. Greene of Ypsilanti, one of the best men who ever filled the position, simply and solely only because he was a republican. Not one man who voted to do this can say a syllable off the end of his partisan tongue against Mr. Greene, either as superintendent, or in any other way. He is acknowledged by everybody to have devoted more time and study to the end that the affairs of the county as far as the care of the poor was concerned, might be conducted in a systematic, intelligent, economic manner, than any person ever before occupying the trust, and this in disparagement of some of the most excellent men who have acted as superintendents. We understand that this is only the beginning, and that more is to follow.—Courier. It is a fine thing to talk of partisanship at this time. Has the Courier forgotten what occurred some years ago when the republicans after being in the minority for a long time did when they had a majority on the board of superintendents of the poor? They ousted Mr. VanRiper one of the best keepers that ever had charge of the county house, who had previously notified the superintendent that he would remain another year at the salary of $400. But no he had to go to make room for a republican at a salary of $700 per annum. Mr. VanRiper was ousted simply and solely only because he was a democrat." And now the Courier attempts to make political capital by crying "partisanship." It went go down Bro. Beal.

Analyzing the Baking Powders.

"Royal," only, found free from lime, alum, and phosphatic acid, and absolutely pure.

Under the direction of the New York State Board of Health, eighty-four different kinds of baking powders, embracing all the brands that could be found for sale in the State, were submitted to examination and analysis by Prof. C. F. CHANDLER, a member of the State Board and President of the New York City Board of Health, assisted by Prof. EDWARD G. LOVE, the well-known United States Government chemist.

The official report shows that a large number of the powders examined were found to contain alum or lime; many of them to such an extent as to render them seriously objectionable for use in the preparation of human food.

Alum was found in twenty-nine samples. This drug is employed in baking powders to cheapen their cost. The presence of lime is attributed to the impure cream of tartar of commerce used in their manufacture. Such cream of tartar was also analyzed and found to contain lime and other impurities, in some samples to the extent of 93 per cent of their entire weight.

All the baking powders of the market, with the single exception of "Royal" (not including the alum and phosphate powders, which were long since discarded as unsafe or inefficient by prudent housekeepers), are made from the impure cream of tartar of commerce, and consequently contain lime to a corresponding extent.

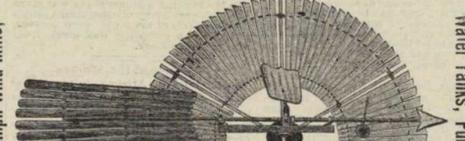

The only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely free from lime and absolutely pure is the "Royal." This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and purified by patent processes, which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder but the "Royal."

Prof. LOVE, who made the analyses of baking powders for the New York State Board of Health, as well as for the Government, says of the purity and wholesomeness of "Royal":

"I have tested a package of 'Royal Baking Powder' which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates or any injurious substances.

"E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."
