THE STATE.

IT'S A FRAUD.

Opinion of the Supreme Court on Bo-In October, 1885, one Ellsworth, of Gratwenty-five bushels of Bohemian oats at $10 per bushel, paying one-half cash, and for the other, a note for the same amount, Gridith agreeing to sell fifty bushels of oats for the defendant at $10 per bushel Charles D before the note came due. Ten days later it was sold to one McNamara, he knowing all the circumstances. Ellsworth refused payment. McNamara sued and got judgment in the circuit court. The case was carried up upon the ground of fraud and that the note was void on grounds of public policy. The verdict of the circuit court was reversed practically on these grounds by the supreme court, the court intimating that the contract with the defendant could not have have been fulfilled without useceiving and victimizing other parties and making a perpetual iraud to fill the contract. It also intimates that hal the note gone into the hands of innocent parties these principles would not apply. Justice Long wrote the opinion, the others concurring.

SHOT BY HIS FRIEND. A Deplorable Tragedy at Battle Creek. Geo. G. McCarthy, a conductor on the C. & G. T., shot and instantly killed Albert J. Carpenter, also a conductor on the same road, in Frank Bros' saloon in Battle Creek the other morning. The two men had been out to a dance all night to gether and were the best of friends, having been around together all the morning. They were fooling with a 32-caliber selfacting revolver and without saying a word McCarty carelessly pointed it at Carpenter's head, when the weapon was instantly discharged. The ball entered Carpenter's right eye and remained in the brain and he quickly sank to the floor dead. McCarty was completely overcome at the result of his carelessness and gave himself to the officers. The affair is undoubtedly the result of criminal carelessness, as the men were warm friends. Carpenter was a single man, aged about 35. McCarty has been married but is not living with his wife. His age is about 38. Both men were very popular about town with their associates and acquaintances. Hon. Witter J. Baxter Dead. Hon. Witter J. Baxter, a very prominent citizen of Joneeville, died suddenly on the 6th inst., of indigestion, aged 71. Hon. Witter J. Baxter was born at Sid-Hon. Witter J. Baxter was born at Sidney Plains, Delaware county, N. Y., June 18. 1816. His great grandiather, Levi Baxter, served in the revolutionary war. In 1831 Mr. Baxter moved with his father to Tecumseh, Alich., remaining until 1836, when they removed to White Pigeon and remained until 1848, and then removed to Jonesville. He received his education in the common schools of Sidney Plains, N. Y., and Tecumseh, Mich., and at the branches of the Michigan university in Tecumseh, White Pigeon and Detroit. In 1831 he began teaching school, In 1841, while teaching school in Detroit, he commenced reading law in the office of Barstow & Lockwood, and continued his legal studies with Zephaniah Platt, then attorney general of the state. being admitted to the bar in 1844, he formed a partnership with Andrew harvie of Detroit, with whom he remained until 1848. He then removed to Jonesville, entering into busiwhom he remained until loss. He then removed to Jonesville, entering into business with William J. Murphy, which was continued until loss, During his residence in Detroit he was an active member of the 1 oung Men's Society, holding the offices of director and president. He has been a member of the banking firm of Grosvener & Co. since its organization. Mr. Baxter has been a member of the school board for twenty-six years; supervisor for two years and president of the board of superxisors for one year. He was appointed a member of the state board of education by Gov. Dingham, and was afterwards re-elected for four and was afterwards re-elected for four successive terms of six years each. During the period of his residence in Jonesville, he has been a member of the state agricultural society, of which he was president one year. He was an active member of the societies of Odd reliows and rree Masons, and held numerous onces in those organi-

Sutton reported that 806 speeches had been made during the year and $5,572 worth of stock placed. in the evening a local option meeting was held at which E. R. Warner and C. L. Toner, both of Jackson, were chosen chairman and secretary respectively. Speeches were made by Mary L. Lathrop, D. P. Sagendroph and Chas. Mosher.

The Royal Tempiars Flourishing. The executive board of the royal templars of temperauce met in Lansing on the lst inst. Reports given show twenty-one new lodges formed during the year, membership now to be 6,000 in the state, and finances to be in better shape than for the past ten years. Albert Dodge of Fowlerville was delegated to revise the digest within ninety days so as to conform to the uniform constitution adopted at the last meeting of the grand council. The board recommended a system of instruction presented by the right grand lodge. This is similar to the Chautaugua plan of instructions in hygiene, and is available to individual members. The grand chief templar will not visit the district lodges this quarter. The next meeting of the grand council will be held at Lansing July

An Experimental Station. The state board of agriculture has estabshed an experimental station at the agricultural college with President Willitts as director. This is the station provided for under the Hatch bill lately passed by congress. They have not yet decided upon William Hammond, one of the oldest engi- any plan for the disposition of the $15,000 appropriated; but the plan which will doubtless be adopted is to use $1,000 in experiments with the pine lands of the state in an endeavor to render them productive. and to divide the remainder among the at Grayling.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

February 1, Senate.—Mr. Frye of Maine, from the committee on foreign relations, reported back (adversely) the bill to facilitate the settlement and develop the resources of Alaska; and to open an overland route between the United States, Asiatic Russia and Japan, indefinitely postponed. Mr. Cameron of Pennsylvania introduced a bill to place on the pension roll all officers and enlisted men who have served in the army or navy between the 4th of March, 1861, and the 1st of February, 1865, at the rate of one cent per month for each day's service—this is to be "service pension bill" and 'an addition to invalid pensions for disability." Mr. Riddleberger of Virginia made an unsuccessful effort to get action on his resolution to change the rule so as to have the pending treaty with Great Britian considered in open session. He incidentally remarked concerning the Blair educational bill, that if it was taken up now the senate would be appractioned. CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

it was taken up now the senate would be entertained with the views of "schoolma'ams," and he was as much opposed to letting "schoolma'ams," instruct the senate about that bill as he was to letting a British commissioner instruct it about the treaty. The Blair education bill was then taken up and Mr. Pugh of Alabama, spoke in its favor. At the conclusion of his address the senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

A SCIENTIFIC FACT.

"Royal" the only Baking Powder Free from Lime and Absolutely Pure.

Lime is the serious defect found in most of the cream of tartar baking powders. As a matter of fact, chemical analysis has found it in all such powders except the "Royal." Its presence is caused by the use of adulterated cream of tartar in the effort to reduce their cost of production.

Lime adds to the weight, while it detracts from the strength of the baking powder. It also renders the food less wholesome, giving rise to dyspepsia and kindred ailments. Baking powders containing lime produce less leavening gas, and therefore in use are more expensive than a first-class, pure article.

The Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar that is first specially refined and made chemically pure. No tartrate of lime or other impurity can find its way into the "Royal," and to this fact its great superiority in strength, wholesomeness and keeping quality is due.

All this adds greatly to the cost of manufacturing the Royal Baking Powder, but as all its ingredients are selected and prepared with the same precise care and regardless of labor or expense, an article is produced that is free from every extraneous substance—"absolutely pure." Nor does it contain any ingredients except those necessary to make a pure, wholesome and per-

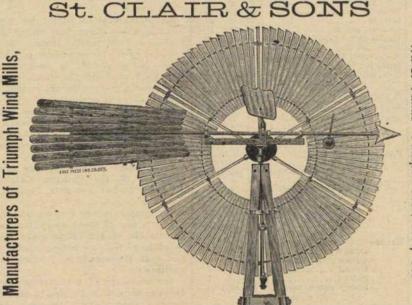

Prof. McMurtrie, late chemist in chief to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, after analyzing the cream of tartar used by the various baking powders of the market, reported as follows:

"I have examined the cream of tartar manufactured for and used by the Royal Baking Powder Company in their baking powder, and find it to be perfectly pure and free from lime in any form."

Prof. Love, who made the analyses of baking powders for the N. Y. State Board of Health, as well as for the Government, certifies to the purity and wholesomeness of the Royal.

Dr. E. H. Bartley, chemist of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Departt of Health, says: "I have recently analyzed samples of the R. val Baking Powder purchased by myself in the stores of this city, and find it free from lime in any form."

Bread, cake, biscuits, etc., prepared with Royal Baking Powder, will be lighter, sweeter and more wholesome than if made with any other baking powder or leavening agent.

Swisshelm and Jane Grev met when the lat- advantage ter was 19 years of age. Prior to that time her whole childhood and young womanhood was spent in an atmosphere of public life, from which she must certainly have caught one glimpse of her own future. Their neighbor was Judge William Wilkins, who was made secretary of war, minister to Russia, secretary of the treasury, and supreme judge. They lived at Wilkinsburg then, but she stood upon the curb-stone at Pittsburgh on the day that Gen. Lafavette visited the city This distinguished hero stepped aside and, approaching her, laid his hand on her head, arned up the face, and spoke to the happy occasion she afterward wrote;

"He seemed to me as a man whose presence made me feel that I was a very little girl and should have been at home. He was over six feet tall, well formed, strongly built, with black hair and eyes, a long face, and heavy black whiskers. He was handsomely dressed, and his manner was that of a grave and reverend seignor. A Russian count in a New York drawing-room when counts were few could and his manner was that of a grave and reverend seignor. A Russian count in a New York drawing-room, when counts were few, could not have seemed more foreign than this man in that village parlor, less than two miles from the piace of his birth. He was the son of an old Revolutionary soldier with an unapproachable name, who lived over in the beautiful valley. This I knew at first, but I did not realize till some time afterward that he was the individual who rescued me from drowning a few ye.rs ago, when our runaway horses had dragged a wagon in which I was seated into a flooded greek. It seems that from that moment he had elected me as his wife, but I never knew it. I next saw him on horseback, and this man of giant strength in full suit of black riding a large, spirited black horse became my Black Knight."

They were married on Nov. 18, 1836. He owned saw-mills, but was dissatisfied with the location in Swissvale, and wanted to take his young wife to the pine woods up the Allegheny, and this occasioned the first quarrel they had after their marriage. She objected to going. Then he took her to live at his home, but his mother and wife never could live happily together. His wife's love for him, however, continued great for the first two years. After that everything was chaos between them. They differed on everything. She tried to be religious and follow a plous life, while he scorned such a profession and ancered at her. She loyed to write, but her maiden contributions to the press met with violent opposition from her uncourth husband. He wanted to keep her down to the drudgery of household work.

He wanted to keep her down to the drudgery of household work.

Mrs. Swisshelm's first contribution was printed in 1840 by George D. Prentice in The Louisville Journal. Then in 1845 she wrote stories under the nom de plume of "Jenny Deans" for Neal's Saturday Gazette and The Dollar Newspaper, both of Philadelphia. Her fearless writings for an abolition paper soon attracted attention, and after editorial connection with The Pittsburgh Gazette and Commercial Journal she started the publication of The Saturday Visitor in 1848. It was distinctively abolitionist, and in the five years of its career was quoted and read all over the United States.

In a lull of the conversation, and when the interest had somewhat flagged, Aunt Mary said: "That reminds me of some poetry I would like you to hear. I will find the pieces."

She returned at last with them, Miss Dunton inwardly expecting that she would be the one to read them. But Aunt Mary handed them to Iona, saying:

"Here, Iona, give me your opinion on these."

The Cave of Cervantes.

Cervantes, the author Don Quixote, was, during a number of years, a prisoner of the pirates at Algiers, Africa, and after an attempt at escape, sought and found refuge in a cave not far from the city. He has given a description of the cave and it was only a few scription of the cave and it was only a few thousand steps to the south of the city. The Spanish Vice-Consul at Algiers, who has tried for a long time to find the spot, now says that he has succeeded in locating the cave without a possibility of mistake. Nerves.—Everyone of the thread-like nerves has each a latent power to cause excruciat-ing pain, the limit of which is simply the limit of human endurance, and Neuralgia has a few of these fibrous torments all pulsing painfully at once. CHARACTERISTICS.

Subtile Pain.—Nothing is so subtile in its approach; nothing so flagrant, acute and distressing, and certainly nothing yet discovered so completely subdues its ravages and so permanently conquers its pangs as that above mentioned. SYMPTOMS.

Symptoms.—Neuralgia is defined to be a nerve disease, the chief symptom of which is an acute pain, intermitting, which follows the course of the nerve branch affected. TREATMENT. Treatment.—Apply St. Jacobs Oil frequently, gently rubbing the afflicted parts; apply to the whole extent of the nerve soreness; keep up a gentle friction until a burning sensation is produced.

I have used every remedy I could hear of, but found nothing to releve me. Hearing of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. I began using it. Have a ken eighteen bottles. It stopped all pain, my kidney troubles have disappeared, and I feel better than I have for years. Have also used the plasters with great benefit. The Syrup is truly a great blood purifier, and I would say to all who may be suffering with kidney troubles, give it a trial. I am yery truly troubles, give it a trial. I am yery truly Prevention versus Medicines.

Hygienic treatment and care of health has become very onerous among our intelligent people, and now science has come to the rescue in the shape of a lozenge which prevents the bad enects from sudden changes of temperature; and a person going into a cold or damp air in a perspiration, is fully protected by dissolving one on the tongue. Singers lecturers, ciergymen, and especially women, use large quantities. Their use does not increase your liability to take cold after the effects are gone; this is of great value. The druggi ts call them "Moxie Lozenges." Very cheap.
