Proceedings of the Conventions. The democratic convention was called to order in the Detroit Opera House by chairman Weston about 11 o'clock on Friday evening, July 27th.

Chairman Weston then announced that the resolutions adopted by the convention were as follows: "Resolved, That we, the delegates and members of the democratic party, do hereby endorse the platform of the democratic party, as adopted by the national convention at St. Louis, and we approve of our democratic nominees for president and vice president, and we pledge our support to the national democratic convention at St. Louis."

After a few happy opening remarks, chairman Weston said: "The first election of Grover Cleveland, cheer put an end to republican domination in this country. The second election of Grover Cleveland preserved the inviolable democracy of Michigan that won our party. The young men and the old men assembled here together constitute the inviolable democracy of Michigan. We are cheered by the knowledge that the federal offices are held by democrats, and that we should govern the people and the surplus in the treasury. A MAN died in Chicago Sunday who had not spoken to his wife in 12 years, although living in the same house and sitting at the same table with her every day.

BARTLEY BREEN says he cannot spare the time to run for auditor-general but says he will do all he can for Burt's election.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN. He Sees About Everything and Talks About Everything He Sees.

In alluding to the republican meeting of last Saturday, one man said, "Well they have a crowd of perhaps 200 or more mostly women, who can't vote, but they help to swell the crowd."

I think we had better take up a contribution and have the streets in front of the post office sprinkled, if the government won't give the little money which is necessary to lay the dust.

I was amused last Saturday evening at the republican meeting, when one of the speakers asked for those from a certain ward who were to vote for Harrison to come up and sign their names, to see two lone men go forward.

I heard a good many of the bicyclers had considerable to say about the fifth ward ditch, and one young man in riding through it was thrown from his bicycle. I do not wonder the people are indignant over such a gutter.

I think it would be well putting gravel upon the streets to pick out the small boulders. In driving over some of our newly graveled roads you are liable to get a good many bumps unless you are on the look out for stones.

I should think there might be stone walks laid from the street to the four doors of the court house. The old walks are in a dreadfully dilapidated condition and at the same time I think it would be well to fix the stone steps on the south and west sides.

Those men who have been helping themselves after dark to lumber, lath, etc., from a certain house, building in the eastern part of the city, better be pretty careful as somebody has his weather eye on them and if caught it might go rather hard with them.

I was told a pretty good thing the other day. It seems that one of our brewers dropped his order book and it was picked up by a man who in trying to find out the owner read the following: "Please leave at my house, street, a keg of beer, but be sure and come after dark."

Let the council make a small appropriation for the wetting down of the street croakers. The idea of sprinkling the streets and skipping the crossings. It looks very small I think not to have it done. I am sure it is as necessary to have the crossings sprinkled as it is to have the streets.

I heard some one say the other day that he wished Ann Arbor could have a milk inspector. Upon inquiring I was told that he was positive that there was chalk in the milk left at his house that morning. If such is the case truly a milk inspector is sadly needed in our city and I would suggest we have a vinegar inspector also.

saturned and had to hire a farmer to bring them back. They presented rather a drooping appearance as they drove in to town, and I understand they tried to reach their homes by the back streets.

I was told the other day that one of our prosperous merchants had occasion to send a man for rather a good-sized bill, when the man dunned went to the store of that gentleman with hood in his eye, and proceeded to give him a lecture for daring to send him a bill. Our merchant, so I am told, promptly ordered the delinquent debtor from his store and he went too, but threatened vengeance.

I think it would be well if the council at their next meeting would appoint some one to investigate the cause of so many of our trees dying. I notice on Fourth street several fine large trees which will soon be dead, also one on East Ann street near Division. A tree is of such slow growth that it will take years to replace the lost ones and it seems to me that something might be done to save the others.

I wonder if the university authorities have ever thought how much prettier the campus would look if the unsightly fence which surrounds it were taken down. It would be a vast improvement and I cannot see the necessity of keeping it up, and if the fence must remain standing I think it would be a good idea to build a decent one. This old one might be whitewashed to bring out its latent beauty.

One of our editors came pretty near getting into trouble Tuesday. While visiting the Utah expedition car he broached the subject of mormonism and proceeded to tell what he thought about it, when he noticed the peculiar manner of the gentleman he was conversing with concluded that "discretion was the better part of valor," hurriedly closed his interview and left the car. He says now he will hereafter post himself before he interviews a stranger.

I think the alderman in the fifth ward had better put in one more gutter and then go and seek his head. He has just put one in which is four feet wide and twelve inches deep, which ought to have been at least eight feet wide and not over four inches deep, as it would have carried off the water without the least danger of overflowing on account of the lay of the land, but instead of that is one which, when you ride over you must brace your self, grab hold of the vehicle and cling for dear life or else you will be landed before you are ready. I hear a great deal of fault about this crossing.

A gentleman who believes a woman's place is at home, that it is her business to keep the domestic machinery well lubricated, that a woman has no rights of her own which man is bound to respect and who seldom thinks it necessary for her to go anywhere deliberately put on his hat and Sunday clothes to go to Ypsilanti to see "Barnum's great moral show" coolly handing his everyday trousers, redolent with perspiration and dirt to his wife to put on a patch while he was away enjoying himself. Verily, verily, the selfishness of these "lords of creation" is something wonderful.

Saline wants open air concerts this summer. Ann Arbor wants them too but it seems she has not enterprise enough to have them. All it needs is for a few persons to have a little go-aheadiveness about them and this might be accomplished. At a small expense to our business men we might have delightful open air concerts once a week at least, and which would not only be enjoyed by many but would be the cause of calling many out to enjoy a few hours' relief from their wearied feeling after a season of steady labor, and the good housewife would hail them as a truce to the daily routine drudgery of household cares and anxieties and favor them with an opportunity to have a little breathing spell in the open air, but it would encourage the band boys to renewed energy.

Those of our citizens who failed to visit the exhibition car which was in this city Tuesday missed a rare treat. It was a museum of a good sized scale, and contained an exhibit of the products of that territory which are shown throughout the U. S. for the purpose of attracting immigration to the far west. The exhibit consisted of specimens of raw materials of a mineral character found in Utah, and the industries that can be developed with them, of crude wool with an annual yield of 12,000,000 lbs., sandstone and marble; paint pigments from native ores; potatoes, each one weighing several pounds; canned strawberries, such as large as peaches, and many other kinds of fruit; hand-made lace from native silk; salt evaporated on sage brush taken from Salt Lake, etc., etc., etc. too numerous to mention. The car was in charge of two finely educated and cultured men who have devoted themselves, time and money to the welfare of their loved territory, and who were ready and willing to answer any and all questions. It cost the people of Salt Lake City $15,000 to put this car on the road, and more than 100,000 people have visited it, and over three tons of literature have been given away. A novel way indeed of advertising that great country, which, with its great natural advantages, its wonderful climate and picturesque scenery must in the future become well populated.

At a special meeting of the regents last Friday evening the following work was done: Walter Miller was made acting assistant professor of Latin to fill the place of Dr. Elisha Jones for one year, and J. H. Drake made instructor in Latin for the same period. Lucius L. Van Slyke, lecturer on general chemistry was appointed to take Prof. Langley's place during the latter's absence; L. A. Rhodes was made instructor in German and E. H. Cole, Ph. D., instructor in mathematics. Dr. J. W. Warren, of Boston, was appointed lecturer in physiology to take up Dr. Seelye's work in the medical department. Prof. De Pont was made assistant professor of French and registrar of the literary faculty with a salary of $1,500. Profs. Griffin, Wells and Knowlton, who were appointed by the regents, were made permanent professors. The report of the citizens' committee, offering to raise money to purchase a site for and build a lying-in-hospital, provided the state should take charge of and maintain it, was accepted and the university authorities will take charge. The regents also authorized to construct one for the homopathic department. Dr. Herdman was required to deliver lectures to the freshman medical class during the coming year without additional compensation. Wm. A. Campbell was designated curator of the medical museum until the next meeting of the board. An appropriation of $100 was made for the pathological laboratory. The resignation of Prof. Calvin B. Cady was accepted.

The announcement that Louisa M. Alcott's home at Concord, Mass., is to be sold, leads to suggestion that it be bought by subscription and conveyed into a home for poor children, as a memorial to the author so well beloved by young readers.

The great question at San Quentin, Cal., last 400 inmates, of whom only twenty are women. Yet the California papers continue to talk about the danger there would from the votes of bad women if women had suffrage, as if the vicious and criminal class were larger among women than among men.

Mrs. Leonard M. Barry made a good point in her address at the Fourth of July celebration at Rockford, Ill., when she said she did not believe that a mother would be any the worse mother, or a wife the less a good wife, if she granted the right to vote. Rather she believed she would be a better mother and a wiser wife if she understood the political, economic and social conditions of life, and could transmit her knowledge to her children.

Mrs. Hanna Neilson is the manager of a successful day school in Denmark. She traveled extensively, learning how to make the finest kinds of cheese peculiar to each country. She has hundreds of pupils, including counts and barons from all over Europe. She has taken a number of premiums, and her silver wedding silverware is encircled with diamonds, once the property of the last Queen of France, Marie Antoinette, wife of Louis Philippe, which brought $9,000 francs. A pearl-encrusted black pearl was sold for 32,000 francs.

Mrs. Edouard Audre, the French painter, who lately gave all her jewelry for the foundation of an asylum for the poor in Paris, is generally known by her maiden name of Jacquemart. The jewels were sold last month at auction and brought 400,000 francs. The articles was a necklace of twelve rubies encircled with diamonds, once the property of the last Queen of France, Marie Antoinette, wife of Louis Philippe, which brought $9,000 francs. A pearl-encrusted black pearl was sold for 32,000 francs.

A gentleman who believes a woman's place is at home, that it is her business to keep the domestic machinery well lubricated, that a woman has no rights of her own which man is bound to respect and who seldom thinks it necessary for her to go anywhere deliberately put on his hat and Sunday clothes to go to Ypsilanti to see "Barnum's great moral show" coolly handing his everyday trousers, redolent with perspiration and dirt to his wife to put on a patch while he was away enjoying himself. Verily, verily, the selfishness of these "lords of creation" is something wonderful.

Saline wants open air concerts this summer. Ann Arbor wants them too but it seems she has not enterprise enough to have them. All it needs is for a few persons to have a little go-aheadiveness about them and this might be accomplished. At a small expense to our business men we might have delightful open air concerts once a week at least, and which would not only be enjoyed by many but would be the cause of calling many out to enjoy a few hours' relief from their wearied feeling after a season of steady labor, and the good housewife would hail them as a truce to the daily routine drudgery of household cares and anxieties and favor them with an opportunity to have a little breathing spell in the open air, but it would encourage the band boys to renewed energy.

Y. are in the city looking after their Ann Arbor interests, the opera house and Hill property, through which they have had streets opened and are to sell of the land. The opera house is to be repaired throughout, the seats remodeled and relettered and other improvements made. New scenery and a new piano are among the possibilities.

The annual and monthly meeting of the business men's association has been adjourned to Tuesday July 31, at 8 o'clock p. m., local time, in the council chamber. The question of changing the constitution requiring 30 members to constitute a quorum, together with other important business, will come before the meeting. All members are very urgently requested to be present.

July 1888. H. E. FRANKLIN, Sec.

The following from the Adrian Press shows how the feeling is in that town regarding removing the clinical department to Detroit: "There is a great pressure brought to bear on the regents of the university to remove the medical department to Detroit. We believe in a university in the full sense of the word. The university belongs to the state. It has been located in Ann Arbor, and it should stay there in entirety. Let there be no attempt to weaken the great institution of learning. We say to Detroit doctors, and ambitious or spiteful practitioners, 'hands off.'"
