All the anger died away from Sertorius' face, and with a sigh of relief and satisfaction, he said: 'Well! well! I am delighted to see you, my boy. It was this paper, this fool of a paper that announced your opera for this evening.'

'What, it was right?' 'What you acknowledge it! Then I think I had some right to expect a message from you to-day, and seeing night approach I had begun to despair.'

'Perhaps, dear master,' returned Karl, affectionately, 'I should have sent you your box this morning, but I wanted to bring it to you myself, and at the first leisure moment I had, I took a short cut across the meadows, and here I am.'

Sertorius clasped his hands with delight, his face absolutely beaming with pleasure and excitement. 'But do you know this is a very serious affair, young man? And, upon my word, I believe you are laughing. He is laughing, Marta! These young men the last night at the cannon's mouth!'

'Father, dear,' said Marta, quietly, 'the night air is chill, and I must dress at once, if we are not to miss the overture.'

'What time does it commence, Karl?'

'Eight o'clock. You have an hour and a half yet. I have ordered a conveyance for you, so that you may be comfortable, and I have made you a little extra, eh?'

'I am in a singular state,' replied Karl, 'I seem to walk and talk as if in a dream. Although I have passed the last three nights in my room, copying the parts and making coffee for me, calling me now his life and his soul, and then miserable some-thing else, he is a terrible patron, but he has been very kind to me. I can't forget that if it were not for him I should still be a goatherd in the mountains of Dalmatia.'

'It is true. You owe him much. He understands music, and he makes a noble use of his fortune. Why must he unite to the virtues of a Mæcenas the manners of a harlequin? And now, my boy, continued the old maestro, smiling slightly, and becoming suddenly very grave, 'I have something serious to say to you. When a pupil goes forth from my hands, I consider it my duty to give him some last words of advice, which I adapt, as well as I can, to his character, his talents, and his probable future. This last lesson is, in my eyes, the essential finishing touch to my work, but I impose it on no one! I ask you then, Karl, if you are willing to hear me and to recognize in me for a few minutes the authority of a master, an old man and a friend.'

'The authority of a father,' exclaimed Karl warmly, reaching out and grasping Sertorius' hand, 'of a dear and respected father, Master Sertorius, and not for a few minutes, but for my whole life.'

'Thank you, my boy,' said the maestro, deeply affected by the evident sincerity of the young man's words and manner, 'but without meaning to offend you, that is more than I allow, to have a harsh experience has taught me to expect. Karl Roswein, from the different ramifications of the divine art which he has the object of your studies for the last several years, to have chosen the dramatic branch. I do not blame you. But, if you succeed, as your rare talents give me every reason to hope, in making the public recognize you in this popular form, it is less for me to think that you will take advantage of your fame to give to the world, first of all, oratorio, the epic of harmony; then sonatas and chamber music, noble recitatives, and grand stanzas. Refrain from a crime, from trivialities. Do not flatter the taste of the multitude. Try to attract the public to the sanctuary, but never depart from it. Write upon the grandest of subjects two great words, or rather those two great principles which are at once the ridicule and terror of ignorance—contempt and fugue. And listen, Karl, any man who pretends to be a musician and who departs from those two great foundations of art, say to him from me, say to him from Sertorius, that he is only a street soldier, he is a base, vulgar, and unworthy bastard, for he knows neither father nor mother; he is a priest who denies the bible and the holy evangelists. I end here, my friend,' he continued, more calmly, 'the professional part of my advice. It is in the same spirit which has ruled all my tutorage. Have you any objection to make to what I have said, my child?'

'None, master,' responded Karl, who had listened with the utmost respect and attention to the words spoken by his companion. 'I promise you to remain faithful, as far as my strength will allow, to the dignity of my art, and to the pure traditions which you have transmitted to me.'

'It is well,' said the old man, with a sigh of satisfaction. And now, my friend, the master has spoken. It is the turn of the old man and the friend. Karl Roswein, heaven has endowed you with a wonderful munificence; it has given you the lyre and the harp; it has placed a double crown upon your brow. There is only one way to acquire yourself before God; He has given you genius, be honest and virtuous. And be so, Karl, even so the cost of your future and your glory. Do not think, young man, to find real and lasting inspiration in the turmoil of the senses or in passionate excitement. Delirium is not strength to be reckoned with. Remember that the ancients, our masters, called by the same name, virtue and force, order and beauty. Remember that, in their wonderful allegories, they made vestals, guardians of the sacred fire—the Muses—chaste—and Venus, an idiot. I am not ignorant of the dangers that assail the feverish path of an artist, but I say to you, Karl, rule your life and your heart. And, my voice breaking a little, 'If I may speak of myself in arm is powerless; they call for help; I try to speak, my tongue is paralyzed, my knees tremble, like Lot's wife. The curtain is rung down, and I fall senseless. There, my boy, that's what can be called a failure, and yet I am not dead, at least not yet.'

'Still here, father?' she exclaimed, 'and it is past 7 o'clock.'

Sertorius went toward her and taking the candle held it where the light fell full upon her. 'Now, don't scold me. I have only to change my coat. Look here, Signor Maestro,' gaily to Karl, 'I have a new dress, and believe me, it is a masterpiece.'

Karl laughed lightly, and bending forward, blew out the candle.

'Marta! Marta!' exclaimed the old man with mock reproach, 'if there is any reason why you should humiliate this young man by showing him that you don't think his opinion is worth having? I have noticed for some time that you have treated him barbarously. Well, that is your affair. Don't quarrel till I return.'

After her father's departure, Marta sat down upon the window seat and idly gazed out upon the deepening shadow of the garden. Karl walked nervously up and down the little apartment, glancing now and then at the girl's profile, which was clearly defined against the pale light of the sky.

Suddenly he stopped his pacing and stood before her. 'Marta,' he said abruptly, 'your father was right. You have treated me, barbarously lately. What have I done?'

'You are mistaken, Karl,' replied the young girl, quietly. 'I have certainly not intentionally treated you otherwise than you usually do. And believe me,' she added, 'there is no one who wishes you greater success to-night than I do.'

'Why do you speak to me so coldly? You must know, you must see that—'

'Well, young people,' interrupted a cheery voice, and Sertorius appeared, followed by a maid servant bearing lights; 'I am ready, and Gertrude tells me the carriage is here! Successful old boy, and am ready.'

'Oh! that Lady Hamilton!' said Marta, hurriedly. 'There is something about her which fascinates me as—'

In response to regulations from both Michigan and the Federal Government, and Sheriff Johnson, of Ishpeming, Gov. Rich ordered the companies of the Fifth regiment, Michigan National Guard, located at Houghton, Calumet, and Ishpeming, to report to the Col. Lyon of the Fifth at Ishpeming at once.

Assistant Quartermaster-General Avery left immediately with necessary camp equipment and 1,000 rounds of ammunition for the Fifth and the divisions of the Michigan National Guard, located at Detroit, were also ordered to be in readiness, with their Gatling and rapid fire guns, to proceed to the scene of the strike at once.

The cause of all of this military gathering was for the purpose of protecting the men and property at the mines at Ishpeming, it having been decided to start the strike at that place.

The cause of all of this military gathering was for the purpose of protecting the men and property at the mines at Ishpeming, it having been decided to start the strike at that place.

Thus it was that within 36 hours almost 300 troops were at 'Camp Ishpeming' ready for duty. The blanketed companies which reported first: Co. H, of Ironwood, commanded by Capt. Winslow, 63 men; Co. D, of Calumet, Capt. Grierson, 70 men; Co. F, of Ishpeming, Capt. Miller, 57 men; Co. G, of Houghton, Capt. McArthur, 52 men. Total 287 men. Col. Lyons is the officer in charge.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the steam shovels started to cut a hole in the geline. Lake Superior and Salsbury mines. The presence of the troops seemed to have a quieting effect upon the strikers for although they assembled on the surrounding hills in great numbers they did not venture dangerously near the picket lines. The women were out in force and were more demonstrative than the men. They gathered in groups and crowded towards the rock piles where the men are employed, and keep up a continuous cry of 'black leg' and 'scab.'

Their conversation was of the most inflammable nature. The parade of the strikers in Union park was very largely attended by strikers from both Ishpeming and Negaunee. President Coak, of the miners' union resigned, and John Roberts was chosen his successor.

Desperate Murder and Suicide. Mrs. John Wilson, wife of a hack driver at Battle Creek, left her husband in the morning and returned to her home in Battle Creek, Mich. She was very much distressed, and finally she went to the home of Lee Prime, where she had rented rooms, and tried to shoot her husband with a revolver, but his wife grabbed the weapon and threw it through a window. The enraged man then caught her by the hair and dragged her down the stairs and into the yard where he fired at her with a revolver. The woman broke away, but as she ran Wilson fired and the shot struck her behind the left ear and came out of her eye. He then pursued her to his temple and fired, killing himself instantly. Mrs. Wilson was taken to the hospital, but she cannot recover.

the mist of the glory which awaits you without doubt, think sometimes of your old master in his obscurity. We are about to part, my boy; we are about to break the chain of our common studies, of our mutual enthusiasm, of our hard, but never have I sown in so fertile a soil; never has so rich a harvest repaid my humble labors. I thank you, Karl, for the happiness you have given me, and I pray God and the saints to reward you.

'The maestro rose tremblingly from his chair, and stretching out his arms, murmured: 'And now—now farewell, my boy, farewell, my beloved disciple!'

With a burst of feeling, Karl threw himself upon the breast of the good old man, and sobbed: 'Yes, yes, you are good, I know it, cried the latter, 'but you are weak, too! Beware of that.'

At this moment the door opened and Marta came in, holding a candle in her hand. She was dressed in a plain white frock, with the high puffed sleeves and open corsage of the time, no ornaments, no flowers to mar her face's simplicity. 'Still here, father?' she exclaimed, 'and it is past 7 o'clock.'

Sertorius went toward her and taking the candle held it where the light fell full upon her. 'Now, don't scold me. I have only to change my coat. Look here, Signor Maestro,' gaily to Karl, 'I have a new dress, and believe me, it is a masterpiece.'

During the ent-acts the Chevalier de Carnelles sought the box where were Sertorius, his daughter, and Mario Cavaradosi. De Carnelles was excited to the highest point.

'What, Master Sertorius, do you mean? "What do you think of it? Will he do us credit?"'

'It is beautiful,' the old man replied, with tears in his eyes. 'He has remained true to his teaching. He is like living my own youth over again, and being a success instead of a failure. Ah! it is sad to grow old!'

'Yes, it is sad to grow old,' answered the Chevalier, merrily, 'but it is the best method that has as yet been discovered to live a long time.'

'You know I am almost a stranger in Rome, Chevalier,' remarked Cavaradosi, 'and I am one of the most notable of the city.'

'To begin with the notable of notable; the queen, of course, you know by sight. I have a certain admiration for that woman. Mate to a clown, whose inferiority in brains and breeding she can not help recognizing, she has made herself a power and practically a queen of the city. And believe me, Maria Theresa, who said to the Hungarians: 'I am the king, Maria Theresa! she has metaphorically said to the Neapolitans: 'I am the king, Maria Carolina!'

'God grant that, in these troublous times, she do not meet the fate of her unfortunate sister, Marie Antoinette,' said Sertorius.

'With her majesty,' continued the Chevalier, 'are the Duchess of San Luca, the Marchesa Cinesca, the Marchesa della Croce, the Countess Marina, and the others. Don't know, but I would wage a round sum that their names begin with an R.'

'Why?' asked Mario, curiously.

'Because, as Mary Stuart would have only Mary for maids of honor, so Mario Carolina, in something the same way, will have none whose Christian name does not begin with R. An odd conceit! I believe she attaches some attention to it. I don't know what the lady's blue eyes and white hair, the Marquis di Savigny, is the Marchesa Avanti. It is a strange thing, but I am here to-night. He remains at the Angelotti, the Cav. Dotti, the other night. By the way, I never found out who that—'

'She has a sweet face,' said Marta, 'and she is very kind. There was something about Angelotti's face that I liked also.'

'These are desperate times we live in,' sighed old Sertorius. 'To look upon the suffering faces, who would imagine war and miseries were in our very midst?'

'Just opposite to us,' went on De Carnelles, 'is the famous Lady Hamilton, the wife of the British ambassador to Naples, and favorite of the Queen.'

'Oh! that Lady Hamilton!' said Marta, hurriedly. 'There is something about her which fascinates me as—'

IN TWO PENINSULAS.

NEWS OF THE HAPPENINGS IN MICHIGAN.

Two Inoffensive Men Maltreated by the Striking Miners at Negaunee—Detroit District M. E. Conference at Ann Arbor—Drunken Murder at Grand Ledge.

Detroit District M. E. Conference. The annual session of the Detroit M. E. conference and the quadrennial conference of laymen were held at Ann Arbor. Bishop Hurst, founder of the American university at Washington, D. C., presided over the admission conference with Rev. J. E. Jaclin, of Detroit, as secretary and F. L. Osborne, of An Sable, treasurer. The presiding elders reports showed general prosperity in the churches. The admission conference with Rev. J. E. Jaclin, of Detroit, as secretary and F. L. Osborne, of An Sable, treasurer. The presiding elders reports showed general prosperity in the churches. The admission conference with Rev. J. E. Jaclin, of Detroit, as secretary and F. L. Osborne, of An Sable, treasurer. The presiding elders reports showed general prosperity in the churches.

Hon. B. W. Huston, of Vassar, presided over the lay conference and J. L. Starkweather, of Romeo, acted as secretary. The question of the admission of women delegates was settled by instructing delegates to the general conference to vote in favor of the admission of women. The delegates chosen were O. Robinson, of Detroit, and Dr. L. P. Copeland, of Bay City.

The Woman's Home Missionary society anniversary was held at the same time and officers were elected: President, Mrs. Bishop Miner, of Detroit; honorary president, Mrs. Edward Smith; vice-president, Mrs. Geo. O. Robinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hattie E. Johnson, of Adrian; recording secretary, Mrs. H. Scripps, of Detroit; treasurer, Mrs. Charles H. Morgan, of Howell.

Extraordinary Workings of the Elements. A tidal wave was one of the season's curiosities at Harbor Springs. The water in the lake went down over five feet, leaving boats tied at the wharves lying on the bottom of the lake. Usually the water comes back with such force that it carries umbrellas and small craft high and dry, but this wave, though it receded farther than ever before, came back slowly, and did not go much higher than the usual water level, then it again receded and the water now remains a foot or more lower than it was before. It is believed that a huge water-spout out on the lake caused the strange occurrence. The same evening Petoche was visited by a wind which almost became a hurricane and which escorted a water-spout. Floods poured into cellars of business houses, burst through the roofs, and cut huge gutters in the principal streets. Two miles out on the C. & W. M. railroad, an acre of land at one point, with trees and shrubs, was leveled, and the tracks and little further on, more than a mile of road bed was swept into Lake Michigan. Immense damage was done to crops and farm buildings.

Strikers Resort to Violence. Two strangers who were passing through Negaunee on their way to the mines were set upon by the strikers and most cruelly beaten. One of the men was quite old and he clung to the fence and begged for mercy, but was given a blow in the mouth which almost knocked him senseless. The officers could not cope with the gang and it was not until Mayor Foley appeared that the mob desisted and their victims escaped. They were afterward found lying several miles away, completely exhausted and terribly injured. Mayor Foley gave the strikers such a severe lecture that many of them became ashamed and threw away the stones they had been hurling during the strike. Gov. Rich heard of the disgraceful affair and telegraphed Mayor Foley to know about it. The latter replied that he had sworn in 50 extra police and would prevent any more outbreaks.

A Bold Postoffice Robbery. The postoffice at Penton was broken into by burglars who cut a hole in the door to reach the lock. The money and stamps were locked in a 900 pound safe and the robbers were evidently afraid to tackle it there, so they lifted themselves to D. G. H. & M. truck, loaded the safe on it and hauled it through town at 2 a. m. to the outskirts, where with chisels and hammers the safe was stripped of its outer casing and an entrance effected at the back. The inner steel chest was removed and literally smashed to pieces. C. C. Topping, the postmaster, says that they got $100 in money and a large number of stamps. The blank money orders and other valuable papers were unharmed. Many people heard the sounds of the hammer and noise made by the burglars, but none dared to interfere.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

The Anti Tramp society will hold a public meeting in the council room of the court house at eight o'clock to-night. The meeting will doubtless prove very interesting and should be well attended by all our citizens.

Those members of the Republican party who would have us believe that this country is on the verge of ruin as a result of disastrous Democratic legislation would do well to read these words of that prominent Republican, Andrew Carnegie:—"The country at large does not realize the boom which has started in the industrial world. Iron and steel mills all over the country have contracted their full capacity for several months ahead, and many are actually unable to take additional orders. Since the bulk of their contracts were booked there has been an advance of 50 cents in pig iron. This fall consumers will find that they cannot place orders. The country is on the eve of the biggest revolution in business it has ever experienced and it is not a long way off."

The Woman's Gymnasium.

Next Tuesday a meeting of the various committees on work for the Woman's Gymnasium will be held at Mrs. Carhart's residence on Monroe st. for the discussion of plans submitted by the regents. The plan is for a commodious building providing not only a gymnasium with the necessary bath, and dressing rooms, but parlors, committee rooms and a resting room for the use of the college women. The intention is to begin the building at once and complete it as far as the fund may permit. It is hoped that the people of Michigan will be wise and generous enough to see that there is no delay for lack of funds. A Michigan woman has recently given fifteen thousand dollars to buy a campus for the accommodation of the thirty-five women students at Heloit. Is there not some one ready to give twelve thousand dollars toward a gymnasium for the six hundred women in the University of Michigan? Many of the women students have been soliciting subscriptions during this summer. As few have yet returned, little is known of their success—only $374.80 has come into the hands of Major Soule during the vacation.

Contributions to the Woman's Gymnasium received by Treasurer Soule since July 1895:— Mary K. Buck, Traverse City $1.00 Ethelyn Wing, Ann Arbor 1.00 Florence Whitcomb, Battle Creek 5.0 Mrs. G. W. Public Meeting of the Anti-Tramp Society.

All citizens interested in the tramp question are invited to attend a public meeting to be held in the council room of the court house at eight p. m. Friday Sept. 27th. At this meeting the officers of the society will make their annual reports of the work and new officers will be elected. It is hoped that the matter will be fully discussed and that new members will join the society.

Those who have taken part in this work are convinced that the tramp nuisance can be abated with benefit to all concerned, including the tramp. They are desirous of securing the active co-operation of citizens to this end.

An Expression of Thanks. In addition to the resolution adopted by the conference I desire in my own name and the name of the church to express cordial appreciation for all the hospitality shown us in our attempt to entertain our visitors during the past week. We shall never forget the kindness of those who opened their homes or gave of their substance to "entertain strangers." We assigned over 60 visitors to places of entertainment—more, we think, than has ever before been cared for at an annual conference—yet we still had room for a dozen or twenty more.

We also wish to thank Mr. Keech for the loan of a telephone and the Ann Arbor Organ Co. for the loan of an organ during conference week. CAMDEN M. COBURN, Pastor M. E. Church

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN

He Sees About Everything and Talks About Everything He Sees.

Three men held up Mr. Jacobus, of the third ward, last Saturday night, when he was returning from his work. The attack was made near D. Hancock's coal yards on the T. A. A. & N. M. tracks. Mr. Jacobus proved to be a match for all three of the gang, and went on his way rejoicing after leaving all of his enemies flat on their backs. Now Our Man is glad that Mr. Jacobus was so strong and ready for his assailants, but he can't help thinking what would have been the result with a more helpless person. These desperate characters are getting too numerous around Ann Arbor and this is not the first time that a robbery has been attempted near these coal-yards. The city marshal should attempt to ferret out all these gangs and lock them up.

Now that the fall season is at hand, and Ann Arbor's shade trees will soon drop thousands of dead leaves on our sidewalks, roads and lawns, Our Man thinks it only proper to call attention to the bonfire nuisance and to ask our citizens to refrain from filling the air with smoke and the streets with ashes. It was formerly the custom here for everybody to build bonfires in October, and the air was so filled with smoke as to be very disagreeable. Our citizens have in late years awakened to the fact that leaves are good fertilizers for flowers, trees and grass, and are raking them up for that purpose. If one does not care to keep them himself, he can have them carted away and buried outside of the city limits, or give them to someone who does want them for fertilizers. Our Man hopes that our beautiful city will not be disgraced this fall by smoky air and dirty ashes in the streets.

Said a lady to Our Man the other day, "Why will bicycle riders persist in passing directly in front of horses? I was driving on one of our streets this morning when a wheelman turned directly in front of my horse. It was only by pulling the reins so as to drag back the horse almost upon his haunches that I avoided a collision." It is much easier for the bicycle riders to regulate the speed of their machines than for drivers to govern their horses and Our Man thinks that the lady had just cause for complaint. If an accident had occurred, and the bicycle rider had been injured, the lady would not be hers but the bicyclist's. If the horse had run away and the lady had been hurt, the careless wheelman would have a good deal to answer for. Bicycles are noiseless steeds and in broad daylight they can be easily guided out of the way of horses or pedestrians.

The residents of South University avenue and that vicinity have hardly pardoned the city fathers for the bungling mistake of grading their street in such a careless fashion before another just cause of complaint arises. The great lot of loose sand which was heaped on the road has been partially removed and piled about the row of trees in the center of the street. This has been left to the mercy of the winds for several days and the dust there is something awful. The South University ave. people want the grass plot with the row of trees parked and coped, but they want good dirt put there and good soil. They want the work to be done in a proper way, and to be finished within a reasonable time. It has been an exceedingly disagreeable thing to walk down South University avenue this week, as one is obliged to breathe the suffocating dust and his clothes are covered with dirt. Our Man would suppose that the annoyance which the S. University folks have borne from the grading mistake would be enough for most mortals, without this dust nuisance. Let the city sprinkler visit that place and wet down the sand heap as much as possible, and let the board of public works complete the grading, parking and coping without further delay.

Our Man thinks that our business streets would be greatly improved in appearance if certain storekeepers would remove the unsightly rubbish before their doors. The road signs on Main st. and the other business streets present a disgusting sight with the dirty papers, orange and banana peels, decayed fruit and vegetables, sticks and stones which are too often seen. Our Man has often seen store clerks empty pails of dirty water in the surface gutters and dump waste paper, packing straw, excelsior, old boxes etc. It is bad enough to allow the unpacking of boxes and barrels on the sidewalk, to the great annoyance of pedestrians. But when store clerks presume upon the public's good nature so far as to leave the empty boxes standing for days before their stores and blocking the way, they should be forced to remove such obstructions. Our Man is forced to think that the store keepers who are guilty of this offence are either too lazy to cart away the boxes, or that they think the public will be impressed with the volume of their business when they see the large boxes. Our Man for one would think far less of such a store keeper for this foolish policy, and he thinks that other sensible folks would think the same. Remove those boxes ye storekeepers of Ann Arbor, and stop throwing rubbish into the streets, and our buying public will appreciate your efforts to keep clean sidewalks and clean streets.

The Board of Public Works. Office of the Board of Public Works, Ann Arbor, September 18th, 1895. Regular session. Called to order by President Clark. Present, Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross. The minutes of the last regular session and all succeeding specials were read and approved. Mr. Bullis moved that the resolution of the Board passed on Sept. 7 instructing Sewer Inspector Ward to cause to be dug up and relaid where necessary, the house branches in the Liberty street sewer, is hereby ratified and passed.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None.

Mr. Bullis moved that the private sewer that connects with the property of A. J. Sawyer, et al., be allowed to connect with the Packard portion of Hill street sewer at the manhole under the supervision of the plumbing inspector.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Mr. Ross moved that the Clerk be authorized to advertise for bids for parking that portion of the park on South University as directed by the Council.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Mr. Bullis moved that the President of this Board confer with the members of the Council upon the advisability of a passage through the park in the center of S. University avenue at the crossing of South Ingalls street, and that the same be recommended to the Council.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Mr. Bullis moved that the Street Commissioner remove the surplus soil on S. University avenue to the park as directed by the Council.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Mr. Bullis moved that the President of the Board grant Mrs. Kittredge the privilege of removing a tree in the street in front of 25 S. Division if he deem the same advisable.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Mr. Bullis moved that the Board concur in the recommendation of the Council for extension of time for building certain sidewalks providing they agree to build the same next year.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None. Pres. Clark moved that the contract for building the walk along the side of 73 E. Ann street be withdrawn and that the contractor be notified of such action.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None.

Mr. Ross moved that the President of the board take proper steps to secure a competent man to lay the brick crossings.

Yeas—Pres. Clark, Bullis, Ross—3. Nays—None.

On motion the Board adjourned. GLEN V. MILLS, Clerk

THE COUNTY FAIR.

Thousands Attend—School and Woman's Days both Great Successes—Ann Arbor Day Today.

Never before has Washtenaw county held a better fair than now. The management offers clean attractions, and many of them, and the people show their appreciation by attending the fair in thousands.

Wednesday was devoted to the children. Every schoolhouse in Washtenaw county was closed and the happy children came to the fair grounds in crowds. There were 30 farmers' wagons each containing the scholars of a district school, which were driven to the grounds, gaily trimmed with flags and foliage. A gang of 300 school children, led by Miss Lucy K. Cole, was a feature of the program, and the Detroit Newsboys' Band also furnished music. County School Commissioner W. W. Wedemeyer presided and addressed the children. Supt. Whitney, of Ypsilanti, State Supt. H. R. Patterson, and Mr. M. J. Cavanaugh, of this city, also made suitable remarks.

Woman's Day, yesterday, was enjoyed by thousands of people from all parts of the county. Miss Emma E. Bower, president of the day, introduced Mrs. Mary Mayo, of Battle Creek, who spoke at 10:30 a. m., on "The Needs of the Hour." Mrs. Mayo's address was very well received by the large audience present. In the afternoon, at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Mary Stocking Knaggs, of Bay City, state president of the Equal Suffrage Society, spoke on "The Coming Voter." Mrs. Knaggs is thoroughly conversant with the problems of America's politics and few who heard her could fail to be convinced of the benefits which equal suffrage would bring to this country. Mrs. Lillian M. Hollister, of Detroit, also delivered an extremely instructive and interesting address on "Woman's Work."

The Allmendinger sisters of Ann Arbor and the Misses Pease Ladies' Quartette of Ypsilanti added greatly to the enjoyment of the program by their excellent music. Today is "Ann Arbor Day" and the business houses of the city will close this afternoon so that their employees can attend the fair. The program will include bicycle races as a special feature and the Kemp Sisters' combination will also prove an attraction. The exhibits are so numerous that tents have to be erected for the overflow. The fruits and vegetables, live stock and business men's exhibits are all unusually fine.

"Coin" at the Charlotte Fair. The Eaton county fair, will be held at Charlotte, on the first four days of October. This year the prizes offered will surpass those of any former year. An educational exhibit, woman's council public wedding each day, two novelty team races—one driven by ladies, dog, goat, and bicycle races besides three 2000 horse races each day, are among the numerous features of the fair. But the great event, one which has secured for the fair very low special rates on the railroad, is a money for the people, Hon. W. H. Harvey of Chicago, a thor of the world renowned "Coin's Financial School." Mr. Harvey will positively be present, and, as this is the only engagement he will make in Michigan this fall, we advise our friends to remember the date, October 4, and hear him. The manager of the Charlotte fair have scored a great point in securing an address by the man whose little book on finance has turned the eyes of the whole world toward him.

DEATHS. Wm. Babble died last Sunday of consumption. Deceased was 37 years. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Second Baptist church and the burial was in the city lot of the northside.

There Are so Many good qualities about the Clifford Piano we are at loss to know which one to mention. Perhaps the most remarkable is its beautiful tone. Mr. Clifford C. Chickering, superintendent, is an acknowledged expert in this direction. His twelve years of thorough training in that famous Boston factory of like name makes him preeminently qualified to make an artistic piano. THE Clifford Piano We invite you to examine it. Stylish costumes are of mohair and alpaca with jaunty blazers and cameloid silk blouse fronts with skirt six yards wide and ornamented with stitched bands. The new sleeves are all tight on the fore-arm and above are one or two immense puffs. Combinations in color will be used to great extent for evening toilettes. Frolicsome or rasperberryed, pruned purple and scabiose together with Dahlia and Periwinkle shades, Prella and Mordor brown are the leading novelties. Tea earliest autumn hats are of the fancy dark straws, trimmed with rosettes and bows of velvet and fanciful birds. In the new Fashion Magazines published by A. McDowell & Co. one sees a large variety of the latest styles which are introduced for the coming season. In looking over such a collection of beautiful models comes a desire to be able to cut and make them. The McDowell schools for dress cutting are the largest and most practical in the country. "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashions" cost $3.50 per year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. The "French Dressmaker" is $3.00 per annum or 31 cents a copy; and "La Mode" $1.50 a year or 15 cents a copy. Messrs. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th Street, New York.

Ladies of Ann Arbor who help with serving or housework, who need a stewardess or table waiter, whose children wish private tutoring, or who desire help of any kind which could be given by women in the University, will find it desirable to send their names to the Students' Christian association. It has been customary to pay for these services by room or board or both. Miss Fisher will be at Newberry Hall from 4 to 4:30 o'clock this week to meet University women and Ann Arbor ladies who desire to make this exchange. Both parties may also call at the general secretary's office and state their needs and requirements.

The Y. M. C. A. offer tickets for one of the best courses of entertainments ever given here. Every number is first class, and the price for the course is only $1. If enough tickets are sold, six entertainments will be given, at less than 17 cents each. There is no place where these can be heard at less than 25 cents each, and in most instances the price ranges from 50 cents to $1 for each entertainment. The Y. M. C. A. hope in this way to furnish themselves and friends with a course of entertainments that will be pleasing and to sell enough tickets to help on the excellent work. If you buy a ticket you will help the Y. M. C. A. and enjoy the course also.

Herbert Randall and Miss Flora Charlotte Finley, of this city, are contributors to the American Youth this week, as is also Mrs. Clara Doty Bates, the famous writer of juvenile literature. Mrs. Bates is a former Ann Arbor resident, and has several relatives in this city. Mr. Randall publishes four poems, "Sleepy Land," "Dill-doll," "Good-night," and "Purple Lilacs," all of which are exquisite in conception and development. Miss Finley edits a department called "Songs and Stories in Many Moods," and contributes several very interesting articles, including a plan of an elocutionary entertainment.

The management of the Grand Opera House is most fortunate in having for its magnet, Saturday evening, Sept. 28, such a side-splitting farce comedy as "Jolly Old Chums." Like all such mirth producers, the company has but a slender thread of plot on which to hitch its many specialties and musical numbers, but plot is scarcely needed, and if the applause and laughter of an audience is any criterion, as it surely is, "Jolly Old Chums" is a pronounced success. The company is made up of very clever people including Miss Carrie Lamont, one of the most charming soubrettes who is most fascinating in her many ways and Miss Lillie Stillman, "the new woman of the period" makes a big hit and upon every appearance is greeted with applause. There are enough pretty girls in the play to almost make one's head whirl, and all are clever.

WM. W. WEDEMEYER, County Commissioner of Schools. That Tired Feeling. Is a common complaint and it is a dangerous symptom. It means that the system is debilitated because of impure blood, and in this condition it is especially liable to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for this condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and efficiently on bowels and liver. 25c. In your blood is the cause of that tired, languid feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes rich, red blood and gives renewed vigor.

AN ORDINANCE.

Relative to Electric Light and Lighting and to Prescribe the Duties and Define the Rights of the Company Entering into the Contract for the Use of the Streets, Alleys and Public Places of the City of Ann Arbor.

The Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor ordain:

SECTION I. The Mayor and the City Clerk are hereby authorized to enter into a contract for the lighting of the streets, alleys and public places of the City of Ann Arbor by electricity for a term of five (5) years from January 1st, 1896, with the Michigan Electric Company, of Detroit, Michigan, its successors and assigns.

SECTION II. Such contract shall be in the words and figures following:

Witnesseth as follows, that the City of Ann Arbor, Michigan, its successors and assigns, in consideration of the agreement herein contained, and on the part of the said City to be done, paid and performed, do hereby promise and agree for itself, its successors and assigns, to and with the said City, to erect, keep and maintain in good running order for the full period of five (5) years from and after the first day of January, A. D. 1896, in the streets and public places of the City of Ann Arbor, not less than ninety-six (96) arc lights taking not less than 9.6 amperes of current and from forty-six (46) City (54) volts between the carbons of each lamp, and so many sixty-five (65) candle power incandescent lamps as the Common Council or its Lighting Committee may order, for at least two hundred and twenty-five (255) nights in the year, lighted from dusk until 12:30 A. M., o'clock, local time, of each of the said nights during the life of this contract, omitting moonlight nights, according to the following standard of lighting, and on such other nights during the term of this contract as the said Electric Company shall or may be required to provide for the lighting of the streets, alleys and public places of the City of Ann Arbor, in such manner, and the lamps at such height above the streets, as the Common Council or its Lighting Committee shall or may order, provided, that after lamps, poles and wires are located, if the Common Council shall order lamps, poles or wires moved to other localities, the same shall be done by the said City, on the part of the Michigan Electric Company, its successors and assigns, to the party of the second part, the City, to pay the actual cost of such change.

The said Electric Company, its successors and assigns agrees to re-locate any of its said lamps or poles or apparatus at the request of the Common Council of the said City as soon thereafter as practicable after notice is given.

The party of the first part, its successors and assigns, agrees to use only the regular standard carbons of the best quality.

It is provided, however, that cored carbons shall not be required.

The party of the first part, its successors and assigns, agrees that in case any of the said lamps erected and maintained under this contract shall go out and not burn on any of the nights stipulated in this contract to be lighted, the same shall constitute a charge against said Company, its successors and assigns, and be deemed as such amount to be paid for lighting at the same rate as hereinafter agreed upon for such lighting.

The party of the first part, its successors and assigns, agrees to put all poles and wires in the ground in accordance with the standard of the Michigan Electric Company at the time of entering into its contract.

It is agreed between the parties, that should the party of the second part, the City, concluded by resolution of the Common Council, to change the time of lighting from dusk to daybreak, the party of the first part, its successors and assigns, agrees to use only the regular standard carbons of the best quality.

It is further understood and agreed that should the party of the second part, the City, concluded by resolution of the Common Council, to change the time of lighting from dusk to daybreak, the party of the first part, its successors and assigns, agrees to use only the regular standard carbons of the best quality.

POFATOES FOR PENWIPERS.

A Milwaukee Hotel-Keeper Uses the Irish Vegetable for Such Purpose.

One of the Milwaukee hotels uses a bushel of potatoes a year, one at a time, for penwipers on the desk in the office.

Every morning a potato as big as an apple is put in a compartment of the pen box, and after twenty-four hours the potato is removed and another is put in says the Sentinel. Pens in penholders are stuck into the potato, a half-dozen at a time, giving it the appearance of a porcupine.

There is nothing so small but that we may honor God by using his guidance in the year 365 potatoes, and on leap years 366, are furnished to the public at this hotel as pen-wipers. The potatoes are bought in open market with, due regard for their globular form, the Early Rose and Kidney Flake being the varieties chosen when they can be obtained. It is claimed by those who pretend to know all about potatoes and pens that a potato pen-wiper is the best preservative against rust and mildew that can be secured for the pens, and that the potato used by some hotels and shot used by others are not comparable to potatoes for efficacy. Sponges, it is claimed, rust the pens, and shot does not absorb the ink rapidly enough to prevent it from clotting and spilling the point. A hotelkeeper in speaking of the reason why he did not like shot for an ink-absorber, said: "Shot is all right as far as the pens are concerned, but the reason I object to it is that it is so noisy a companion equal to that who are always ready to take a handful of bird shot for future reference. I used shot on my hotel counter for a few years, but gave it up because twenty pounds of bird shot was used up during one woodcock season. The shooting men came and took the shot before our very eyes, and laughed at us when we asked them to leave the shot in the pen box."

Honest good humor is the oil and salt of a merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather small and the laughter is abundant.—Washington Irving.

"What cares the child when the mother rocks it, though all storms beat without? So, if God doth shield and tend us, shall be heedless of the tempests and blasts of life, blow they ever so rudely."—Henry Ward Beecher.

An employment, the satisfactory pursuit of which requires of a man that he should be endowed with retentive memory, quick at learning, lofty-minded and graceful, is the friend and brother of truth, fortitude and temperance.—Plato.

Every description of thin, gauzy, material is popular for gowns and waists. Red, yellow, blue, mauve, and green organdies, trimmed with cream or black lace, make very stylish-looking gowns.

Black lace and insertion on white costume is one of the newest fancies of the hour.

White enamel buttons, set with a single tiny brilliant, are very beautiful for trimming white and ecru linen gowns.

Dresden ribbon having a white ground, and pink, blue, or rosy violet flower design, is in favor for trimming white dresses.

Coarse black net over silk is used in fashioning the bodices of stylish mid-summer costumes, while the skirt is of the silk, untrimméd.

Colored batiste blouses, with tucked muslin and lace collars and cuffs, and a wide plait down the front, are charming little additions to the wardrobe.

Wide collars of batiste and lace are quite generally used for the decoration of summer gowns.

Spangled trimmings, colored embroideries, and beaded passementeries, are extremely fashionable.

Melton cloth of the finest quality is used by fashionable tailors instead of overt suiting for costumes and jackets for cool days.

A new style of tennis shoe has the advantage of a heel, and also a flat sole, thereby causing no injury to the court, and they are quite an improvement upon the old style of spring-heel slipper.

White tucking, combined with white or colored heading and satin baby ribbon, is very pretty for yokes, gimpes, and plaistons on children's frocks.

Parasols for everyday wear are mostly of shaded silks; lavender and gold gives a charming, shimmering effect, and red ones are always pretty, especially for a pale-faced girl.

Women have colds in the head less frequently than men, because they are accustomed to heavy head coverings.

When an artery has been severed the blood comes in jets, because the heart throws it directly to the point where the artery has been cut.

The most sensitive nerves are in the nose, tongue and eyes, because in these organs greater sensitiveness is needed than in any other part of the body.

Many diseases cause pallor because a wasting disease, the number of red corpuscles in the blood is diminished, and this fact is apparent in the color of the skin.

The cheeks become pale from fear because the mental emotion diminishes the action of the heart and lungs, and so impedes the circulation.

The taste is often the last faculty to be impaired by old age, because it is most necessary for the protection of the individual against the use of unwholesome food.

The term "tick-headed" as applied to stupid people, has its foundation in fact of nature. It often happens that the brain shrinks, and as it does so, the skull sometimes thickens.

IT IS COMMON.

So are the stars and the arching skies, So are the smiles in the children's eyes, Common the life-giving breath of the spring; So are the songs which the wild birds sing. Blessed be God, they are common.

Common the grass in its glowing green, So is the water's glist'ring sheen, Common the springs of love and mirth, So are the holiest gifts of earth.

Common the fragrance of rosy June, So is the generous harvest noon; So are the towering, mighty hills, So are the twittering, trickling rills.

Common the beautiful tints of fall, So is the sun, which is over all; Common the rain, with its pattering feet. Blessed be God, they are common.

So is the sea in its wild unrest, Kissing forever the earth's brown breast; So is the voice of undying prayer, Evermore piercing the ambient air.

So unto all are the "promises" given, So unto all is the hope of heaven; Common the rest from the weary strife, So is the life which is after life—

Blessed be God, they are common.

The very sudden change from torrid summer to almost freezing autumn brought on a series of storms over the lake region which did a great deal of damage on land and lake. Reports of numerous vessels being in trouble have been received and in some cases they were utterly lost and a number of persons killed.

The schooner E. R. Williams, of Toledo, laden from Escanaba to Toledo in tow of the Santa Maria sank in the big gale on Green Bay, with all on board. Only one man, the mate of Capt. Hutton and Maggie Bennett, the stewardess, are known, the crew of five men being strangers. The Williams was owned by L. L. Fay, of Elyria, O.

The schooner J. B. Comstock, in tow of the Viking, foundered off Standard Rock in Lake Superior in 400 feet of water. The crew was picked up in France, and their bodies were buried in the "So-o." Capt. McArter, of the Comstock, had one leg broken and four ribs stove in. The rest of the crew are uninjured.
