"How could I tell? I thought that while her caprice lasted you would do something great, inspired, fevered by her laudation. Unhappily you have owned her caprice, and have done nothing."

"You do not know! She may treat me coldly at times; she may be careless, reckless, but she is unconscious of the pain she inflicts. It is not caprice, it is—"

"What?" asked De Carnelles, as Karl paused. "Love," he cried. "Yes, she loves me! Ah! as if ashamed of the love!"

"Why do you force me to betray myself to betray her?" "De Carnelles smiled, a sardonic smile, unmingled with pity."

"My poor boy," he said, "do you really believe this?" "If I did not believe it I should go mad."

"Then I am unpeppery sorry for what I have done. Believe me, Karl, Lady Hamilton is incapable of feeling love for you or any one else."

"Stop, Chevalier!" he cried. "You have said enough. I will not allow you to slander Lady Hamilton in my presence."

Before De Carnelles could collect his thoughts to reply to this mad imputation her ladyship herself entered the room leaning on the arm of Prince Kalisch. As she saw the two occupants of the apartment, a gleam of malice twinkled in her eye.

"My dear Chevalier," she said, "are you really returned from the wilds of Spain? And what have you been doing there?"

"Scaling balconies, your ladyship!" he replied enthusiastically. "This last battle of Marengo gives me a right to be here, and I am forced to leave our land, and Austrian supremacy is assured."

"Yes," she replied, a little absently. "Why she knew not, but this man affected to know, as with a presentiment of evil."

"Let us but once absolutely win over the English admiral and we have no further cause of alarm," he cried. "By the way, how radiant Lady Hamilton is to-night!"

As La Tosca turned her eyes to where Lady Hamilton stood, a cold shiver ran down her spine. She felt as if she were being watched, and she felt that she was in the presence of a power she could not understand.

"You are a royalist, I believe, signora?" "Au bout des ongles, Monsieur," she replied enthusiastically.

had decorated them. The Marchesa had been to see his pictures, and she did know her, after all. "I think the crest is that of the Marchesa Attavanti," went on this modern lady. "But I did not see her to-night."

No! she was not here, and why had she one of the beauties of the court, absent herself from this fete? Perhaps at the very moment she was in Cavardossi. The very thought was agony. How anxious Mario had been to be alone that morning. Perhaps her first suspicion was true! Perhaps the Marchesa was there, she concealed at the very moment she, La Tosca, was talking with her lover.

All these thoughts flashed through Florio's brain, causing her a world of pain. She must know the truth! Oh! to leave this hateful fete, fly to Mario, and set her mind at rest. But it was impossible; she must remain at the fete, and she must do so with a miserable suspicion and suspense.

With a quick movement she rose and gathered her draperies about her, still unconsciously her hand resting on the instrument of all her misery. "It is suffocating here," she said, hurriedly. "I am going out on the balcony. No! do not follow me, I prefer to be alone."

As she stepped away Scarpia followed her with an expression full of triumph. "A handsome woman," he thought, "and a woman of brain, but mad—mad as all women are when in love. She will not resist my slightest touch. Oh! to leave this hateful fete, fly to Mario, and set her mind at rest. But it was impossible; she must remain at the fete, and she must do so with a miserable suspicion and suspense."

"Yes, it is true! did that. It was a miserable mistake." "Then what is your complaint against me? That I am a coquette? Granted. It is my pleasure to deceive men. They would find an equal pleasure in deceiving me if they could. You have known me a long time. If my influence has been unfortunate for you, this young genius, you should have foreseen it."

"I did not think he would be so weak or you so heartless." "Bah! a truce to platitudes! Ah! The music has begun. I would not miss La Tosca's song for the world. A river d'acqua mio. Oh! one word, Chevalier; it is dangerous to fight with me with the foils off!" and with a mocking bow, she swept from the room with the dignity of a princess.

"Canaglia!" hissed the Chevalier between his teeth, as he prepared to follow her. As he entered the grand saloon, the whole vast throng, guests and courtiers, were hushed.

With a quick movement she rose and gathered her draperies about her, still unconsciously her hand resting on the instrument of all her misery. "It is suffocating here," she said, hurriedly. "I am going out on the balcony. No! do not follow me, I prefer to be alone."

FASHION'S FANCIES. Capes of cloth, velvet, or fur, are made very short and full. They are usually pointed in front, though the French capes have long mantilla fronts. Large sailor collars are shown on the latest school-dresses, and berthas also are still in vogue.

Wide-spread collars are seen on the many of the autumn gowns, and the bigger they are, and the odder their cut, the more popular they seem to be. Both soutache braid and gimp are used as trimmings on children's frocks, and on many of the more elaborate dresses are seen plaited frills of heavy satin ribbon.

The leg-of-mutton sleeve is not used as much this fall as the huge puff, which reaches to the elbow, and is there joined by a deep, tight-fitting cuff. Accordion plaiting is to be freely used in trimmings and accessories, and in whole gowns as well. When contrived tastefully, these dresses make an excellent appearance, though there are many dangers of going wrong in planning them, which only makes success the greater when it is achieved.

Where a little maid's frock is made of rough novelty goods in brown and dull red the full silk waist will show chamelon tints of brown, dark, light, red, and, perhaps, a vivid green. The plaid dresses are generally made very plain, and are not often combined with silk, while all the little dresses, of course, fasten at the back.

Severely plain linen collars, starched stiff and displaying a nun-like expanse of spotless white, will be worn with buckraming, flaring cuffs to match; while for those who cannot plait the starched linen collars and cuffs of a fine pique, stiff, but rather more ivory in tone, is substituted, a still more favorable adaptation of the style being collar and cuffs of white silk.

In regard to stationary, all formal invitations are engraved upon fine white paper of satiny texture. Visiting cards should be almost square, moderate in size, and exquisite in quality. It is customary for widows to retain their husbands' names for social purposes. The address should be placed in the lower right-hand corner, with the "at home" day in the lower left-hand corner. The engraving should be in fine, simple script.

Mohammedans as well as Jews are being turned out of Russia's possessions. The number of eggs annually imported into Great Britain exceeds 500,000,000. In Switzerland a society has long been formed for the preservation of wild flowers.

Over 7,000 varieties of microscopic sea shells have been enumerated by naturalists. The largest clock is said to be in Buffalo, N. Y. Its dial plate is twenty-five feet in diameter.

During the last six years the debt of the dominion has been increased by the Ottawa administration $11,318,422. The people of the United States use on an average 12,000,000 postage stamps of all kinds each day of the year, or a total of 4,380,000,000 per annum.

Professor J. J. Kimball, who for the past twenty-five years has been instructor of music in the public schools of Manchester, N. H., was recently rendering his services on the violin with exceptional feeling and power, but when he reached the last chord he made a discord and fell forward dead.

The year of the French revolutionary calendar began Sept. 22, 1792. It had twelve months of thirty days each and five days at the end, called the "Sans-culottides." The months were divided into three equal decades. There was a four-year period called a "Francade" with a six days' feast at the end.

GASTRONOMICAL HINTS. In the early autumn the bon vivants' fancies lightly turn to thoughts of game. A Welsh rabbit will assist one in keeping awake who has to sit up with a sick friend.

The abundance of peaches this year would be more appreciated if they were of a better, firmer quality. Good oranges are scarce and expensive, and lemons, as to price, may be said to have gone up in a balloon.

The Chinese have more ways of cooking a chicken than we, with all our culinary philosophy, ever dreamed of. Good celery salad is contingent upon the quality of the oil used. Avoid the kind used to lubricate machinery.

There is a popular impression that a French cook could make a delicious soup out of an ordinary billiard ball. Those to whom pearls are a fatal fruit come to increase. Therefore, look not upon the Bartlett when it is granite.

Young turkey is seasonable and palatable, although farmers say they would be all the better "hardened up" with cooler weather.

THE RESCUE.

How a Baltimore Oriole Saved His Mate from Death. Three pairs of Baltimore Orioles built their nests in the boughs of the elms shading a large garden. Though on separate trees, they were all close together and the birds were all on very good terms.

The cause of the trouble was soon discovered. One of the demure orioles wives had caught her head in the sharp angled fork of a tree limb and there she hung, fluttering and unable to help herself. The bird community had assembled in force and had they been endowed with ordinary human reason, they could not have been more excited, more free with their advice or less capable of offering any real assistance.

Beyond that from place to place and screaming the birds, other than the orioles, did nothing; but the two sisters of the prisoner not only flashed about and screamed, but occasionally one of them would catch the trapped bird by a tail feather and give her a yank. As it happened, this pulling only seemed to wedge the unfortunate bird the tighter in the fork.

To the spectator in the garden the fate of the bird seemed sealed beyond help, and because of this he looked with astonishment on the three male orioles, all of which were seated close together where they could see the hanging bird and not one of which fluttered a feather or made a move.

But just as the gardener was concluding that the female must die, one of the male orioles, presumably the mate of the prisoner, flew to the place, where she was hanging, straddled the fork, grasped her by the back of the neck with his bill, and, bracing himself, gave a mighty tug that pulled her free. Then he dropped her. Instantly recovering herself, she flew to a near-by limb and began arranging her badly rumpled clothes.—New York Sun.

WORKING IN FINLAND. Miss Trygg Has Established a People's Kitchen There. Away off in Finland—how very far away it does seem—a woman is doing her best to elevate her fellow-beings. She is a Miss Allie Trygg, and she lives in the workmen's section of Helsingfors, where she has established a people's kitchen and has invented a new fermented beverage containing a very minute per cent of alcohol, in order to keep them from drinking strong beer and brandy.

Her efforts are not confined to the physical needs of the laborer. She has seen the palaces and buildings erected in England and America for the benefit of the workmen and longed to found a similar institution in Finland. Undaunted by the pecuniary demands of the scheme, she visited the members of the Finnish Senate and induced them to make her a grant of 60,000 marks for her purpose. A year from that time the workmen's home was ready for use. It contains, among other things, a free reading hall, with papers and periodicals, a leading library, a large hall, where the men can meet for Sunday and evening lectures and also can practice their music and gymnastics.

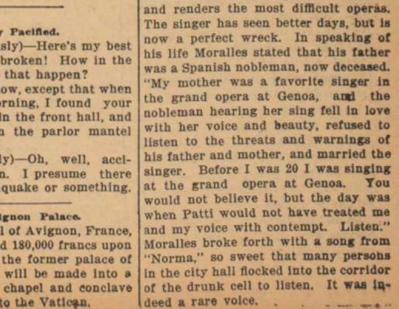

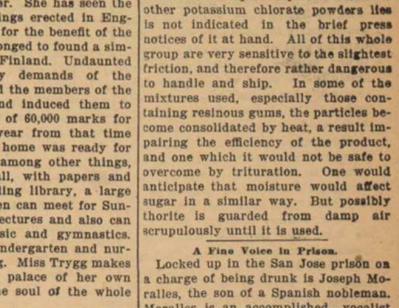

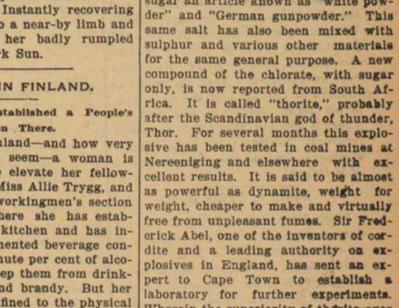

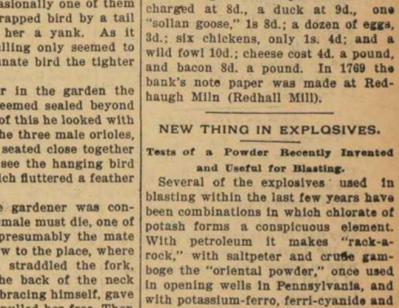

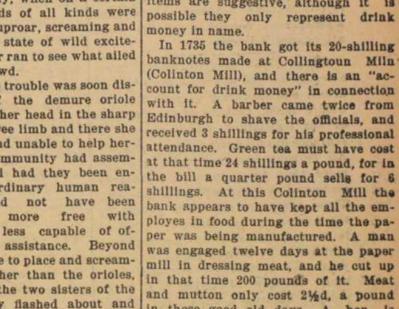

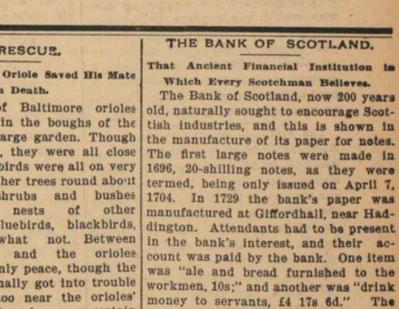

There is also a kindergarten and nursery in the building. Miss Trygg makes her home in this palace of her own creation and is the soul of the whole undertaking.

Quickly Fetched. Husband (furiously)—How is my best meerschaum pipe broken? How in the name of sense did that happen? Wife—I don't know, except that when I got up this morning, I found your meerschaum pipe in the front hall, and your overshoes on the parlor mantle piece.

Husband (mildly)—Oh, well, accidents will happen, I presume. There has been an earthquake or something. People's Avignon Palace. The town council of Avignon, France, has agreed to spend 180,000 francs upon the restoration of the former palace of the popes. A part will be made into a museum, and the chapel and cloisters will be ceded to the Vatican.

Two Great Crimes. "The crime of '73," began the financial conversationalist, getting himself into a position of ease. "That's nothing to the crime of '95," interrupted a short legged man in sandy whiskers. "The crime of '95" exclaimed the financial conversationalist. "I do not understand what you mean."

"Well, you ought to," said the short legged man with firmness. "Haven't you heard enough the last ten months to teach you that the crime of '95 is the everlasting blowing about the crime of '73?"—New York Sun.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

A heroic treatment like this year's state tax will probably prove the very best to cure those Democrats who voted the Republican ticket last fall, of all affection for the g. o. p.

The princely gift of John D. Rockefeller to the University of Chicago has made many a friend of the University of Michigan long for a similar benefactor for our own institution.

The report which was published in Our Man About Town in THE DEMOCRAT for Oct. 25 was perhaps misleading in some particulars, which we are glad to explain.

The first annual convention of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs was held in All Souls' church, Grand Rapids, last Wednesday.

All Michigan magistrates will hereafter be obliged to keep a record of all drunk and disorderly persons brought before them, because of the new act of our legislature, which provides a sentence of two years for such offenses.

Such a law is far more desirable than one to punish drunkards who are too deeply enslaved to the liquor habit to be reformed.

OUR STATE TAXES.

The state taxes for this year are double those levied during the Democratic administration of Gov. Winans; the amount for this year is more than that for both years of his administration.

Death of Philip Bach.

Philip Bach died at 6:15 o'clock last Saturday morning, of heart disease, at his late residence, 100 S. Main st. His sudden death was a great shock to his many friends in the business and social circles of Ann Arbor and vicinity.

Santaneli, The Hypnotist.

The management announces the engagement for three nights only at the Grand Opera House, Nov. 11, 12 and 13, of Santaneli, the master of hypnotism, of the day. His long successful series of entertainments in Detroit, covering 25 performances, caused the liveliest commotion among men of learning, the newspapers particularly, and the medical profession generally.

The house was open from 10 to 12 o'clock Monday morning, and many of the deceased's friends took the opportunity of viewing the remains.

A CHANGE IN DATE AND PLACE.

The Next Entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Course will be given Nov. 26, at Harris Hall.

Holders of season tickets for the Y. M. C. A. Lyceum course will please note that a change has been made in the arrangements. This has been necessitated by circumstances.

Of Mr. Barkley's second appearance in Flint in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course, the Journal of that city says, among other things: "For nearly two hours the eloquent speaker held the audience in closest attention."

The Cleveland Herald says: "The whole lecture, being from the experience of a man who saw the struggle of the Rebellion from the standpoint of a Confederate soldier, was unique and peculiarly interesting from that cause."

Conroy & Fox Tonight.

The announcement that those clever Irish comedians, Conroy & Fox, are to be seen at the Grand opera house on Friday evening, Nov. 8, will cause a broad smile of anticipation to rest upon the faces of our comedy lovers.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

He Sees About Everything and Talks About Everything He Sees.

Our streets are crowded every Saturday night, and our Man is glad to see it. This is always a sign of business prosperity in any town.

Our Man's attention was attracted the other day by the display of advertised letters in our post office. There were several without postage, several without any town or state direction, and others without either postage or address.

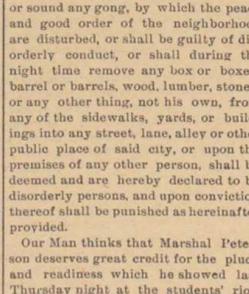

Speaking of the postoffice, reminds our Man of several mistakes which the best of people make occasionally when sending out mail.

Our Man has been forcibly reminded of the truth of the song, "The Cat Came Back." A family of his acquaintance possessed a large marmoset cat which was a great pet for all of the children.

The ordinance which was passed by the council on the 7th of October, and approved by Mayor Walker on the 12th relative to disorderly persons and conduct, is designed to cover such disturbances as occurred here Halloween night.

Some gun caught fire last Monday night on the Ann Arbor road's tracks on Traver st. The fire department was called and extinguished the flames before damage was done.

Mrs. James Cousins, of the S. University ave. greenhouse, pleasantly surprised the ladies of the Y. W. C. A. last Monday evening with the present of several beautiful potted plants for their rooms.

The foot ball team began secret practice last Monday at the athletic field. Nobody but the players and the manager of the team was allowed on the grounds. The team started east last Wednesday.

The annual meeting of the state teachers' association will be held Dec. 23, 27 and 28. At Thursday evening's session, Stanley Hall, president of Clark university will deliver a lecture on "Child Study."

Lycium No. 1, of the Ann Arbor high school, debates the question to-day:—"Resolved, that the execution of Charles I was justifiable." The City society will present a literary program and discuss parliamentary law.

John Springman, of Lodi, who was badly shot at the battle of Gettysburg, has had his pension restored through W. K. Childs's agency. The pension was withdrawn last December through a misunderstanding of his record.

Prof. Albert B. Prescott entertained the graduate club last Saturday evening at his residence, 50 S. Ingalls st. Prof. James A. Craig read an instructive paper on the "History of the translation of the Septuagint version of the Jewish scriptures."

A few drops of rain fell yesterday. This is certainly news, and good news, considering the drought from which we have suffered so long. More rain would have been welcome, however, to settle some of the six inches of dust on our streets.

Prof. G. P. Coler of this city, vice-president of the Michigan State Union of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor, spoke at the meeting of the first district of the society held in Detroit last Tuesday, on the subject, "In Union There is Strength."

The directors of the Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co. will hold a meeting next Monday, to adjust a number of claims. Nearly $4,000 has been lost of members of the society by fire during the last two weeks, and the assessment will unusually large on this account.

The U. of M. football team left last Wednesday afternoon for Harvard to play the green game with that university, which has been the talk in student circles all this fall. They are to enter secret practice this (Friday) afternoon in the suburbs of Boston to be in readiness for the game.

The Ann Arbor Organ Co. has been authorized by its agent in London, eng., to ship three more organs to that city. The company has shipped twice as many organs during September '95, as during September '94. A new elevator has been ordered for the new factory, which is rapidly nearing completion.

The fire department was called out last Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock to 89 E. University ave., the residence of John P. Judson. The alarm proved a false one, however, as some one had noticed the sparks from a steam engine which Mr. Judson was using to saw some wood, and called the fire department without investigating.

The Evening Argus has made a valuable addition to its editorial staff in the person of Eugene K. Frueauff, a law graduate of the University of Michigan. His presence will no doubt prove a valuable adjunct to the editorial ability of our esteemed contemporary. We welcome Mr. Frueauff to the field of Owosso journalism.—Owosso American.

The Y. W. C. A. held a quarterly meeting last Monday evening in their rooms over the postoffice. After reports were read by various committees, which showed the association to be in good condition, the Misses Julia B. Reynolds, Hattie Crippen, Claribel McMonagle and Hattie Warner spoke of the state Y. W. C. A. convention which they attended as delegates.

In Bulletin No. 9, containing the Census of Michigan with regard to manufacturers etc., Washtenaw county is reported to contain 187 manufacturing establishments, with $1,933,880.00 capital, real and personal, invested in the business. The adults employed are 1,157 males and 420 females; children, 54 boys and 5 girls. The average day's wages paid are $1.90 to skilled mechanics and $1.18 to ordinary laborers. $546,713 is the total wages paid during the year while $234 is the average yearly wages earned by each employe, all grades included.

Next Monday evening, Nov. 11, Ex. Gov. James Ashley will speak on "Abraham Lincoln" in the Unity Club course. No Ann Arborite needs an introduction to Mr. Ashley, as he formerly resided here, and built the Ann Arbor railroad. He is a forcible and interesting speaker, and is well able to speak on Lincoln, because of his personal acquaintance with the president during the war, when a member of the U. S. senate.

The Ann Arbor Workingman's society met in the A. O. U. W. hall Saturday night to celebrate its 29th anniversary of organization. The Phoenix singing society and others furnished music and speeches were made by Louis J. Liesemer and others. John Mayer read a report of the society's history and stated that 53 members had died since the organization, Nov. 2, 1866. Henry Binder was the last member lost to the society by death.

Education Extension, a monthly magazine devoted to the advancement of education in the home, school and business, is published by the Cleary Pub. Co., in Ypsilanti. The magazine was started but a few months ago but has enjoyed a goodly share of subscriptions and advertisements. In the October issue which has just been published, are articles by Prof. F. M. Taylor, Prof. J. C. Knowlton, F. G. N. W. Cheever and Mr. S. W. Beakes, of this city.

C. Angell, $10.00. Last week the Building Committee of the Regents and several architects were in Ann Arbor looking over the ground for the gymnasium.

President Cleveland has appointed President James B. Angell of the university, a member of a committee of inquiry for the deep water canal between the lakes and the Atlantic ocean. The other members of the committee are Lyman Cooley, of Illinois, and John E. Russell, of Massachusetts.

President Angell's well-known ability as a statesman which he gained when U. S. minister to China, doubtless led to this appointment to a committee which is considered the most important made by the present administration.

The apportionment voted by the supervisors before adjournment last Friday, was $20,000 for the county's ordinary expense for the coming year. The total apportionment includes these items:—To the county fund, $8,000; contingent, $9,000; public building, $1,800; jury, $3,500; witness, $1,000; school examiners, $1,000; stenographers, $1,000; salary, $6,500; fuel, $800; Eastern Michigan asylum, $3,000; soldiers' relief fund, $1,000; total, $39,000. The county tax was recommended at $20,000 together with the estimated liquor tax at $19,000; a total income of $39,000 to pay the estimated expenses.

Over 1,500 students gathered at the Michigan Central depot Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, to bid good bye to the U. of M. foot ball team which was starting for Boston to play Harvard. Every foot of the platform was packed with students who filled the air with the U. of M. yell and shouts of praise for the players. Coach MacCauley and Captain Henninger of the team, mounted a ladder over the depot entrance and made a few remarks to the students, in which they promised to uphold their alma mater's reputation in athletics. About fifteen students accompanied the team, besides the coach and trainer. When the train pulled out a rousing yell was given for the team, which should do much to encourage them to victory.

The Salvation Army expects to begin its work as previously announced at No. 90 N. 4th ave. Nov. 15. Some of its friends have been asked to contribute toward buying the chairs for the hall, and about half enough has been raised. We hope that the friends who have not been asked to help will do so at once. Articles of furniture for housekeeping from a clothespin up to stoves, carpets, beds and bedding, are needed to furnish the home for our friends. Look about your homes and see what you can spare for the workers and bring it to the hall on the 15th or any time thereafter. Those having anything too heavy for a postal can get them moved by dropping a postal to C. A. Buehlow, No. 3 Minor st., who is also the proper person to receive all moneys.

There will be a music fund concert, at 8 this evening, by the M. E. church choir, Prof. Albert A. Stanley, Organist assisted by Mrs. Arthur Worden, Contralto, Detroit, and Mr. C. E. The board of supervisors adjourned last Friday afternoon, six o'clock. The matter of vaults for the court house was brought up, but the bid of Koch Bros. which was $1,315 for both vaults, was not accepted and the board adjourned without ordering vaults. The risk is a great one, to leave the records unprotected, as fire could easily destroy them, and the county would be at great expense to replace them.

Miss Emma E. Bower lies very seriously ill at her home, corner of Ingalls and Catherine sts. She suffered Thursday of last week, from an ulcerated tooth, and Dr. Nichols was called to extract it. After this painful operation, she did not regain her health, but grew steadily worse, complaining of severe pain in her head. Dr. S. A. Fitzgerald, who pronounced Miss Bower's ailment to be neuritis. Her condition was so alarming last Wednesday, that her brother, B. Frank Bower, of Cincinnati, O., and her sister, Miss M. V. Bower, who was in the northern part of the state, were wired for. They arrived yesterday and during the day their sister's sickness proved well-nigh fatal. She, however, is much better this morning, and her friends dare to hope for her recovery.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

[OFFICIAL.]

COUNCIL CHAMBER, Ann Arbor, November 4th, 1895.

Regular session. Called to order by President Hiseock.

Roll called. Quorum present.

Absent: Ald. Altmendinger, Taylor, Butterfield.

The journal of the last regular session was upon motion approved.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE MAYOR. Ann Arbor, Mich., October 28th, '95.

To the Honorable Common Council: Gentlemen:—According to the charter I hereby appoint subject to your approval Joseph Blackburn to the office of Poundmaster in the City of Ann Arbor vice James W. Green resigned.

WARREN E. WALKER, Mayor.

Adopted as follows: Yeas—Ald. Moore, Maynard, Koch, Snyder, Laubengayer, Brown, Ferguson, Shadford, Pres. Hiseock—12.

Nays—None.

Ald. Taylor entered.

MAYOR'S OFFICE. Ann Arbor, Mich., October 28th, 1895.

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor:

Gentlemen:—That portion of the proceedings of the Common Council of October 21st, 1895, relative to the report of the street committee upon the matter of payment to the city of twenty-five ($25,000) dollars for earth belonging to the city and used by George W. Bullis, I desire to disapprove of the same, for the following reasons:

1st. That it does not appear that the amount to be paid was arrived at from any data furnished from disinterested persons.

2nd. As I deem it, sufficient investigation has not been had in justice to the city or to Mr. Bullis.

If your honorable body is of the opinion that it would be better to compromise the matter, and that it be settled as a regular, legal business transaction, then I would suggest that the city engineer be instructed to carefully estimate the amount of earth necessary to make the fill to its present grade and of that portion lying outside of the legal or customary line of street filling and to report to the Common Council the number or cubic yards therein contained, the Council then to base their settlement thereon, allowing no claim of offset for filling said to have been put there by other than at the city's expense, except such as is so conclusively proven. I am sure that there is no desire on the part of the Council that the City profit at Mr. Bullis's expense.

We are all in duty bound, so far as lies in our power, to protect the city's interest, and I would suggest that its officials do their duty.

Prostitution of office should not be tolerated.

Warren E. Walker, Mayor.

The report failed to be passed over the veto of the Mayor as follows:

Yeas—Ald. Moore, Koch, Brown, Ferguson, Taylor, Shadford, Coon, Cady, Pres. Hiseock—9.

Nays—Ald. Maynard, Snyder, Laubengayer, Pretzman—4.

The resolution ordering a crosswalk built on the north side of South University Ave., across Washtenaw Ave., I also disapprove, for the reason that the kind of material to be used in its construction is not specified.

Warren E. Walker, Mayor.

Yeas—Ald. Koch, Coon—2.

Nays—Ald. Moore, Maynard, Snyder, Laubengayer, Brown, Ferguson, Taylor, Pretzman, Cady, Pres. Hiseock—11.

COMMUNICATIONS AND PETITIONS. FROM THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

To the Common Council: Gentlemen:—The Board of Public Works herewith submit the following bids for removing the earth on the north side of Washington street along Felch Park.

Zenus Sweet $135, M. M. Wheelock $60.

The Board recommends that the contract be awarded to M. M. Wheelock he being the lowest bidder for the same.

Board of Public Works, Glen V. Mills, Clerk.

Adopted as follows: Yeas—Ald. Moore, Maynard, Koch, Snyder, Laubengayer, Brown, Ferguson, Shadford, Coon, Cady, Pres. Hiseock—12.

Nays—None.

Ald. Pretzman excused from voting.

To the President and Honorable Common Council: Gentlemen:—The Board of Public Works recommend that the building of a brick crosswalk across Willard east side E. University Ave. owing to the sewer passing underneath, it be deferred until next year.

Board of Public Works, Glen V. Mills, Clerk.

Adopted. Owing to the fact that the report of the street commissioner presented to your honorable body is in some particulars erroneous as to description we therefore submit the herewith attached sheets as a correction thereof.
