"No, it is not well," she said, in low, distinct tones, more to herself than to him. "It is infamous, I know it! But that is an affair between heaven and myself. Let me save the man I love first! I will account later with God!"

Scarpia paused, irresolute.
"Give your orders," she continued. 'I wish to hear them myself and know that you do not betray me."

As the baron finished he arose and faced her. Instinctively she recoiled and her hand came into contact with some sharp, cold surf ce. Her heart gave a great throb; hardly conscious of what she did, she grasped the han-dle of the knife and, letting her hand fall to her side, held it concealed in the folds of her dress.

The baron approached holding the papers in his hand.
"Here is an order which will admit you to the prisoner," he said; "and here a passport for two, which will Fragrant Balm for chapped hands and enable you to leave the city.'

He placed the papers on the table. She watched his every movement with a haunted look in her eyes like that of a young tigress driven to bay. Mario had known De la Tremouille when he was a student in David's atelier at Paris, and now, as fellow prisoners, the two young men had renewed their acquaintance De la Tremou lle had done all he could to raise his companion's spirits, and had bribed the guard to allow him to remain with his friend until the end, despite Mario's remonstrances that he might injure his own cause by thus exhibiting his sympathy for a man condemned to die.
"Bah!" said De la Tremouille. "They are too wise to harm me. Alive, I am worth 100,000 crowns, my ransom. Baron Scarpia will never throw away so large a sum, which he is sure of in the near future." After Mario's interview with Scarpia, they both recognized that there was no longer any hope. For some time they had been sitting silent, each absorbed in his own melancholy thoughts. Suddenly Mario spoke. "Marquis," he said, "the time is rapidly approaching when I must say good-bye to life. It must be nearly morning. We do not know each other wel, if we count intimacy by time, but a few hours in the crisis of a man's life are somet mes more than years of ordinary intercourse. Just after the light went out he heard a click, and knew that someone had cocked a revolver.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Harrison must hire more rooms at St. Louis for headquarters if he wants to beat McKinley for the nomination. He has only thirty rooms while Mc-Kinley has seventy.

A new thirty-thousand-spindle cotton mill is about to open in Georgia. This is a result of an increasing demand for American cottons both at home and abroad. Heretofore the mills in the cotton cloths of only the inferior grades, but the demand for this class of goods has steadily increased, and the manufacturers can count on a market which has but little fluctuation. This is but another of the illustrations which come every day of the value of an open

President Cleveland Wednesday night announced the appointment of the Venezuelan boundary commission as follows: David J. Brewer, of Kansas, justice of the United States Supreme Court. Richard H. Alvey, of Mary land, chief justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Andrew D. White, of New York. Frederick R. Coudert, of New York. Daniel C. Gilman, of Maryland. Perhaps no beeter selection of commissioners could be made. All of them are men whose prominence and standing, gives them the full confidence of the American people.

The decision of the Supreme Court last Tuesday affecting the homeo pathic college case caused considerable stir in Ann Arbor. The university authorities seemed unwilling to submit to the decision if their position could be upheld in the courts, and now the decision of the Supreme Court in regard to the Detroit street opening case has encouraged the homeopathic physicians in the state. They consider that this decision is exactly analogous as regards the law points at issue, to the one concerning the homeopathic school. The university regents, through their attorney, Benton Hanchett, of Saginaw, and Judge Gray, of connsel, will probably not rest their case on the time question, merely, but will claim that the regents are a constitutional body with supreme control of university management. Should they be able to prove this point, they will come outof the fight with flying colors.

As was predicted by those in a position to judge, the Republicans in Congress have started on their program of tariff tinkering. Their tariff legislation is partisan to the last degree, and without regard to the wishes of thinking people in both parties, who desire that the tariff be left alone, they recklessly risk the plunging of our country into a panic of many days' duration. America's business interests have been constantly bettering until congress assembled and has thrown the capitalists into a flurry of excitement by the reckless tariff tinkering which has been done in the last few days. The main feature of the proposed tariff changes are new and needless taxes on the clothing of the people, no currency reform and 3 per cent coin bonds, authorized for treesury relief. Speaker Reed's ambition for the presidency will doubtless be dampened considerably if he attempts to carry out the program which has been outlined by himself and his Republican associates in the House.

THE VENEZUELA INVESTIGATION

While war talk is not so frequently heard now as a week ago, still the spirit of the country is not alsleep, but is simply sensibly waiting for the result of investigation. In the meanwhile, encouraging messages are received from many parts of the civilized world, endorsing President Cleveland's

In the first place, Venezuela is naturally happy over the expression of the United States for her rights. The enthusiastic support of President Cleveland's stand by nearly all of the people of this country has been so often and so openly expressed that little doubt is left concerning it. An attempt made in New York to hold a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to censure the President for upholding the Monroe doctrine has ignominiously failed Mexico and the South American states stand as a unit in favor of the United States. Brazil has sent the following message to the Senate as showing her

"The Federal Senate of the United States of Brazil sends its greeting to the Senate of the United States upon the worthy message of President Cleveland, who so strenuously guards the dignity, the sovereignty, and the freedom of the American nations."

Russia and France and doubtless other nations would help this country in tha event of war, should their ser vices be needed. It would be a good thing for John Bull to think twice be fore arousing Uncle Sam's anger to a fighting point. However there will certainly be no war if the commission finds by thorough investigation that England has infringed no rights of Venezuela, or if she retracts her claims if she is proved to be in the wrong. It would, indeed, be a most horrible thing should the two great English-speaking nations come to blows. Such a calamity would be both terrible in its re- 4 the boys."

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

White Ribbon Echoes.

As the New Year has stolen swiftly mon us and our faithful friend, Ninetyfive is gone, as we say in that strange phraseology which speaks of Time as a past and a future, "our hearts are takng account of the deeds done in the

What a commentary upon the family of human resolve is this annual bookkeeping. We begin our year with a good stock in trade of possibilities. How many of us at its close can do more than shed a tear over the queer pages, some fair, some blurred, some blotted, many hard to decipher because we 'made mistakes," and our efforts to correct them only rendered results more problematic. Sadder than mistakes, worse than tear-stains or evidences of hurried carelessness, would be blank pages on which no effort had been recorded. Heaven forgives mis-

Rather indignantly, "No, I Band of Hope boy." He was engaged and gave so much Y. M. C. A. Work and Needs.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association the work of the association for the coming year was mapped out, and the needs talked over.

The report of the finance committee showed a balance now on hand, with an expenditure in all departments of work of $1,462.79 for the year past. The estimates for the year to come call upon the directors to raise about $1,100 above the estimated receipts. This will be done as formerly, by subscription. One very commendable thing about the management is their re.usal to run into debt. They cut their garments according to their cloth, and refuse to do anything until they have the money or know

A committee was authorized to look after and secure entertainments or the lyceum course for the coming A committee was also appointed to investigate the cost and desirability of putting in a gymnas ium and baths. Whether this will be done or not depends largely upon the manner in which the proposition is accepted by the young men who ire members of the association.

He Sees About Everything and Talks About Everything He Sees.

Our Man is glad to see that the court house clock dials are again lighted at night and that this time the authorities have furnished the tower with Welsbach lights of such capacity that the time can be read far enough away to make the clock of some use.

The discussion between Sheriff Judson and Marshal Peterson as to whether the county jail shall be used as a city lockup, is but a renewal of that conducted a year ago when Paris Banfield wore the marshal's badge. It is safe to say that this matter will bob up serenely to bother us until we erect a suitable city lockup to take the place of the temporary one built some

One of the motormen on our street ears told Our Man of an amusing incident which happened the other day, on his car. A man boarded the car and rode for some distance without dropping either a nickel or a ticket in the box. Finally he rang the bell to stop the car. At this, the motorman opened the door and demanded his fare. To his astonishment the passenger replied indignantly, "Fare! Why I paid you rode down town." This is a good deal like the old story of the boy who refused to water his horse, because "he tried to water him last week, and he

The true spirit of Christmas time was shown last Wednesday when a number of poor people in Ann Arbor and Washtenaw county were made happy by interests of those who are banded to- Messrs. Jacobs and Allmand, who sent gether for God and Home and Native out $165.00 worth of receipted bills which were still due on their books, to be too poor to pay them. The quiet, mostentatious way in which this good deed was done, makes it all the more commendable. Perhaps no better way could be devised to gladden the hear;s ef the poor in holiday time. No honorable person can feel peace at his heart, when he knows that he has outstanding obligations which he cannot meet. In removing so many burdens from poor people's shoulders, this firm has set a worthy example for others to

The Y. M. C. A. members are thinkng of adding baths and a gymnasium to the equipment of their rooms. The board has appointed a committee to estimate the cost, and the expense to each member. This amount would probably be a small amount for each member to pay, considering the great advantage that a gymnafium would be. There will be a Lyceum lecture course given next year, similar to the one this year. Besides the membership dues it is thought that $1,100 will be required to meet the association's expenses during the coming year. This will mainly be raised from the entertainments, and Our Man hopes that our citizens will patronize these liberally, and thus not only help to maintain this excellent organization, but at the same time, enjoy their full money worth of instruction and amusement from the entertainments.

Our Man approves of both of the vetoes which Mayor Walker has sent to the council, relative to that body's action in voting to purchase flush tanks for contractor Collins, in order that he might complete the sewer, and also the city pay for something for which the contrator was responsible. When Mr. Collins took the contract to lay the sewers he should have foreseen such needs and figured accordingly. As to Does not this conclusively prove, if you engineers being allowed to blow their whistles inside the city limits, this is medicine for you to take? something which should be entirely unnecessary when trains are run at the proper rate of speed and the warning gongs and signs are properly placed at crossings and kept in good order. It is not a pleasant thing to bear the prolonged schreeches of an engine all through the night when one is trying to snatch a few hours of sleep. If this nuisance were necessary, one could stand it, but such is not the case.

Our Man is glad to see that Marshal Peterson has ferreted out the guilty party who took $40.60 from the pocket of the cloak of one of the lady teachers in the high school, a week ago. The theft was traced to a certain young fellow in the city, and he was notified that he would be made to suffer if the money were not returned inside of forty-eight nours. Last Friday the money was found in the high school letter box. This is not the first instance of the kind. Valuables have been missed by the scholars of the high school in other years and the thieves have usually been forced to make good the loss. Our Man would like to see an example made of these people, however, as it would serve as a wholesome lesson for future wrong doers in our schools. Several years ago a young man of this city, who moved in respectable society, was found to have stolen a number of books and articles of wearing apparel from the recitation rooms and halls of the high school. As the fellow had stood well among his teachers and classmates, he was only ounished by being made to pay those who had suffered from his thefts. He was a candidate for the presidency of his class, but enough of his classmates had heard of his conduct, to prevent his election. That such a person should be allowed to go free without his true character being disclosed seems to Our Man to be a mistake. One desirable effect of enforcing the law, is to be a warning to evil-doers.

The prediction that capitalists had in mind the buying of the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti motor line was verified las Thursday afternoon, whenthree Detroit capitalists, Messrs. H. B. Joy, T. H. Newberry and W. S. Huyette came to Ypsilanti to consider the matter. These gentlemen represent the Wabash company, and if they conclude that the road would be useful to them for future business they are in the market to purchase it. Mr. McDonald's option on the road expired Tuesday night, Dec. 31, and he has tried to interest these gentlemen in the road, to run it as a trolly line to Detroit, or Belleville. It is said that an agreement was reached, satisfactory to both parties, which will be made public in the near future. Our Man would like to see any deal effected which will help Ann Arbor. It has been said that the proposed extension of the line to Detroit would so force competition with the Michigan Central road, that fares to and from Detroi will be materially reduced, and num bers of Detroit business men would purchase Ann Arbor real estate and build homes for their families here, my fare yesterday afternoon when I while they could go back and forth to Detroit to transact business. Our Man here from Detroit to educate theu children, and still be in close touch with their Detroit interests, but it is doubtless an open question as to whether many Detroit business mer who are obliged to be at their desks for the business day would care to waste the time required in riding back and orth 38 miles each way, every day. The question of competition with Detroit merchants, which Ann Arbor those customers whom they knew to trades-people might have to consider is not a very great one, in Our Man's o oinion. We can buy most kinds of goods here as cheap, if not cheaper than in Detroit, and certainly more conveniently, as the time and money equired in riding to and from Detroit s certainly to be considered. Our Man thinks that the road could do Ann Aronsiderable good.

The homeopathic college case is not vet settled. A similar case was decided last Tuesday against the regents' policy, and in favor of the homeopathic physicians in the state who were causing the disturbance some weeks ago. The legislature passed an act to remove the homeopathic school to Detroit, but the regents claim that they are not subject to control of either the governor or the legislature in this matter, and that they are a co-ordinate part of the government of the state, with the legislature. The case must be argued before the Supreme Court before it can be settled.

FIRST-RATE TACT.

Just as Effective as a Gun and Didn't Hurt Anybody.

That a woman's tact in time of need may serve her as effectively as a Gatling gun is set forth in the Philadelphia Times in the case of Mr. Jordan, a Jersey fruit farmer, who was in Trenton the other day disposing of a load of some than brook trout. produce. About three hours before his regular leaving time he received a bogus telegram summoning him home at once. Thinking something serious had happened to his family, Mr. Jordan turned the larger portion of his money ever to his wife, who was with him, and telling her to start home with the horse and wagon early in the evening, hastened home by train. Mrs. Jordan is a spirited and plucky woman, and attempted to dispose of all the truck before starting for home, and when she did start it was dark. A few miles below the city is a dreary place known as Dark Hollow. When Mrs. Jordan was about half way up Dark Hollow mountain a masked man suddenly appeared in the road and seized the horse by the head. Then a second man, also masked, attempted to climb into the wagon. Mrs. Jordan, with wonderful nerve, picked up from under the seat what the highwaymen supposed was a revolver, but which was nothing more than an oldfashioned candlestick she had taken to Trenton for repair. Pointing it at the ing of the hammer of a revolver. At your lives!" Both men did go, and quickly at that. Mrs. Jordan whipped up the horse and was soon out of sight of the highwaymen and arrived safely at home.

When Man Deserts Her.

It has always been man's prerogative, says the Philadelphia Times, to depart from the scene of action that is offensive to him. In the event of a domestic diatribe he reaches for his hat, if he chooses to do so, slams the door, if he chooses to do so, hails the passing street car and departs. He returns when he gets ready. With a due sense of appreciation of his responsibilities he rarely avails himself of his privileges. I may even not refrain from saying that the amazing thing about it all is that he does not go oftwinks the other eye, and the deserted thing she can get to support the children. HAUNTS OF THE WHITE BASS. In the North Central States Where Black Bass Are Scarce. In the north central states, where the black bass is scarce and in some regions unknown, a very worthy substitute for this grand game fish is found in the white bass. It cannot, indeed, be said that the latter species possesses all of the fine qualities of the former, but in and cuttingly observed; habits haunts and food it much resembles the black variety. Its shape is quite different, the body being more oval and not so thick through, and the head being shorter. The mouth is rather smaller than that of the smallmouthed blass bass. In color it is in marked contrast to its black brother, being of a clear silvery white, barred with black horizontal lines, six or seven in number, which run from gills to tail. The streams and ponds of the whole Mississippi valley abound in these sprightly fish, and the Chicago sportsmen mostly frequent the Illinois river which offers the best white bass angling of all the waters in the state. The white bass are gregarious, and swim in big shoals along the steep shores of the lakes or in the deeper stretches of the streams, feeding on the young fry of the gudgeons and dace. Owing to this flocking habit, the veterans all fish with two hooks on a spreader, and when a troop passes by they land two at a time, until the last survivors have fled. They bite savagely, quickly, and either hook themselves or get away before the angler can raise his rod. A long, light, stiff rod is used, a very fine silk line, and the lightest of single strand lead-"Going away?" asked a stranger in ers. The hooks of necessity must be small, on account of the tiny mouths of the bass. In bait fishing it is customary to use a float and lead, arranged to keep bait about four or five feet below the surface. Casting from the shore or a boat, skittering and trolling are all successfully employed, and in September the trolling is most fetching. Either a dead dace, about three inches long, wired to a Sproat No. 5 hoop, or a small nickel or brass spoon, with single, not treble, hook, makes a killing lure. Once hooked, these pretty fellows make a brisk but brief fight for freedom. They possess neither the endurance nor the strategic resources of the black bass. and depend on their first rush or two to tear loose the hook, which frequently happens, their mouths being so tender. They are a delicious pan fish, and, to the minds of many, are more tooth-

PRACTICAL ANARCHISM.

Michael Braun Destroys Property to Spite the Rich.

Practical anarchism could be seen at work in the house of Mrs. Mary M. Bryson of New York recently. Mrs. Bryson engaged a man named Michael Braun to varnish the furniture, and she agreed to pay him $4 a day. According to the story which Mrs. Bryson told the magistrate of the Yorkville police court Braun destroyed property in her house to the value of over $1,000 and he had no other apparent motive but his hatred of the rich and his principles of anarchism. He is charged with mutilating a valuable oil painting entitled "The Holy Fami-It is alleged that he cut off the arm of the Virgin, represented in the painting, and slashed the figure of the child Christ in a way that suggested his desire to show his hatred of things religious. What provoked the departure was the fact that she discovered the king and duchess whiling away a June afternoon in one of the kiosks of the gardens of the palace of La Granja. The duke of Sesto, the diminutive and squeakyvoiced stepfather of the present Duc de Morny, was on guard at the entrance and attempted to bar her progress. Her Hapsburg blood, however, would brook no such interference, and, inflicting a stinging slap on the cheek of the jilted fiance of Eugenie de Montijo (subsequently empress of the French), she

It needed all the persuasive powers of Emperor Francis Joseph, her cousin, and of the Archduchess Elizabeth, her mother, to induce her to return to Madrid, and this was not achieved until three months had elapsed and the duchess of Ossuna had been banished not kingdom.

Grove made several suggestions as to what the courts wanted in the way of new or different laws-court criers appointed by the bench instead of by the sheriff; amending ex-parte divorce laws to give better protection to minor children; to abolish the difference between law and equity and adopt the code system. Judge Fred H. Aldrich, of Cadillac, read a paper on "The Right of the People in Criminal Cases." Judge Person, of Lansing, thought an ntelligent juror with an opinion or an impression was better than an ignorant man who does not read the papers. Judge Maxwell, of Bay City, held that the present tax system is full of defects and is productive of dishonesty, favoriteism and corruption. He said that the supervisors' system should be abolished and the assessment rolls be made under state direction. Judge S. B. Daboll, of St. Johns, urged a restriction of the number of appeals of minor civil cases. The paper of President Grove on the "Status of the Bench and Bar to Our American Civilization," was philosophical and discussed the prominent part of lawyers in the affairs of the nation from earliest colonial days to the present time. splendid papers were those of Judge Rollin H. party lines with two exceptions. The Republicans all voted for the bill, except Hartman, of Montana, who did not vote, and the Democrats and Populists against it, save Newlands, Pop. Nev., who voted in favor of the measure. A special order under which the bill was brought to a vote after three and a half hours of debate was ironciad in its character and compelled the members to adopt or reject it without opportunity of offering amendments of any kind. The debate itself was participated in by leaders on both sides. The Republicans contended that the first necessity of the treasury was revenue to supply the continued deficiency. Every speaker denied that the proposed measure was a Republican protection bill. It was, they claimed, an emergency revenue bill on protective lines. The Democrats took the position that there was no lack of revenue in the treasury and that the passage of a bill to increase taxation would in no wise help the situation nor furnish the relief destread by the President and the secretary of the treasury. The bill, as passed, repeals the the present tariff law until Aug. 1, 1808. It restores 60 per cent of the McKiniey rates on wool and woolens, lumber and carpets, and makes a horizontal increase of the present rates in all other schedules except sugar, of 15 per cent. When the bill was put upon its passage it was passed, 205 to 81, the vote being taken by ayes and nays. There was no demonstration of any kind at the announcement of the vote. BRIEFS GATHERED FROM THE WIRES.

from Cuba Telling of the Insurgents' Have Outgeneralled the Spaniards.

Recent dispatches from Havana and

l'ampa told of the rapid progress of the Cuban insurgents into the province f Matanzas in spite of all efforts of the Spanish troops. Later advices give the starling news that Gen. Maxmo Gomez, at the head of the insurgent army—about 12,000 men of all arms. fairly supplied with artillery—the window and expostulated, but was ms, fairly supplied with artilleryturned the flank of Capt.-Gen. Marinez de Campos, in command of the panish forces at Colon, attempting to top the advance of the enemy upon Havana, and were well to the westward of Colon, and threatening to pass Matanzas to the southward and strike this startling news has caused the greatest excitement in Havana. After the Cubans defeated the Spaniards at Ignara some three weeks ago they made a wonderful movement through Santa Clara, passing through the flower of the Spanish army, said to number about 5,000 men there. Campos made strenuous efforts to check them, but in spite of slight repulses the insurgents pressed onward and passing Placetas, Santa Clara, San Juan de Lasyeras, Rachuelo and other towns, pushed for the frontier of Matanzas. Then came the news that the insurgents had entered the province of Matanzas at Palma Sala. Gen. Campos had changed his headriedly concentrating his forces there, that place. In a day or so the insur-gents caused a scurry in Colon. Fir-tioned to go no further than to recoging was heard at Ajuica, about 15 miles | nize the exclusion as a usage and not from the place, and reinforcements | as a right. President Pierce, in 1854, and Grosvenor, of Ohio, Republicans; Were sent to the front from Colon, but, ssrs. Turner, of Ohio, and Patterson, of | this turned out to be little more than this turned out to be little more than an outpost affair, and while the tain the freedom of the seas and of the Spanish troops were pushing for that point the main body of the enemy passed southward of Colon.

SENATE - Twenty-first day. - The principal event of the day was the reorganization (fine Senate as a Republican body, giving the Republicans control of the committees. This was accomplished by the Populiste-who held was accomplished by the Populiste who held the center, the main body of the inand Suarez, numbering over 2,000 men, another northward under Antonio Maceo, numbering over 3,000 men, and Constantinople: The most obstinate fighting preceded the capture of Zeitoun by the Turks. Semi-official adsurgents, numbering over 6,000 men, killed, and that only 250 Turks were under Gen. Gomez. Ahead of these killed. The narrow pass between the three columns was the vanguard of hills, leading out of Zeitoun. the insurgents, composed of 1,000 men and commanded by Gen. Perez. The Armenians, men, women and chilnsurgents burned the railroad sta- dren, and it is feared they tions, cut off telegraph communication and destroyed the railroads behind them, to prevent the advance of the Spaniards upon their rear. Gen. Campos moved his troops to Cardenas, b-tween Matanzas and Havana, and engaged the insurgents in battle on the Colisco plantation. After some felt that these representations hours of fighting the Cubans retreated and the Spaniards thought they had won a victory, but it soon became apparent that only a wing of the Cuban army had been fighting in order to check Campos until the main army pushed on southward. The loss on ach side was about 100 men killed and many more wounded. The insurgents marched rapidly, destroying plantations, railroads and bridges and in every way obstructing their rear. Campos hurried to Havana, and that city was thrown into great excitement. An effort was ulace, but without success. All the troops which could be spared were sent to the front and all the marines and sailors who could be spared from Havana and the former are now doing duty as artillery men wherever their services are needed. All the volunteers available are under arms and every male inhabitant, capable of active service, has been called upon to bear arms. Whether it is the intensuit our conditions." tion of Gomez to attempt to capture Havana or merely a raid upon the plantations is not known positively, ut sure it is that the insurgents are ontinually overcoming all obstacles nd are gaining in numbers daily. It is said that the Spanish troops are sufferng from climatic illness and poor food and are almost disheartened The authorities at Havana made trong attemps to quiet the residents, vidently fearing an uprising of in-urgent sympathizers within the city. They insisted that the insurgents were etreating into Santa Clara, but cause Campos continued day and ight to fortify the city the report was ot believed, and later news from the ban armies showed the falsity of the tatement. The three forces under mez in the south, Bandera in the orth and Maceo in the center con-nued to harass the Spanish troops nd maintained the strongest strategic positions.

We Should Pronounce It Dangerous. Toledo Blade: It is correct nowadays pronounce any of the afflictions that nd in "itis," such as "appendicitis," with the accent on the penultimate syllable, and as if the "itis" were spelled 'evetis." Eminent surgeons also say intestevnal" for "Intestinal," and Anglicize as much as possible every technical word derived from the Latin. It seems to be a go-as-you-please with the Greek terminalogy as yet.

MOB HORROR IN KENTUCKY. A guilty Couple Burnet to Death in the Woman's Home-

At Lebanon, Ky., W. A. Devers, a widower with two daughters, having had his life threatened by T. J. West Startling Reports Have Been Received on the charge of intimacy with his wife, killed West three weeks ago and exonerated by the court. Devers then went with his daughter Carrie, 10 years old, to the house of Mrs. West and moved all his effects there. This caused excitement, which resulted in a mob of 25 masked men calling at the house at midnight and demanded to see Devers. Mrs. West came to the door and said she was soon to give birth to a child and begged them in the name of humanity to go away. The mob answered with a volley. Then Carrie Devers, came outside, and plead piteously to save her father. A pistol was thrust in her face, and half fright-ened to death, she ran to a Negro cabin half a mile away. The house was then fired and the mob saw through the windows the man and the voman battling the flames and fired at them. At last Devers ran out, his hair and clothing on fire and with his single revolver attacked the mob. He was soon riddled with bullets and left there a corpse. The woman was found in the fireplace, her legs and head al-most burned off.

The Chicago Times-Herald publishes an interview Miss Kate Field had with President Sanford B. Dole, of Hawaii, in which Mr. Dole said that the present administration of Hawaii was vorking for annexation with the United States: "As to the form of annexation that would best meet our requirements, it is difficult to say. A territorial form of government, un-modified from the form obtaining in the United States territories, would surely not be suitable. Probably the best course would be to gradually develop from our present system, the federal authorities, of course, having from the beginning jurisdiction over custom houses, postoffices and federal courts. Our own government should not be limited by the United States laws concerning territories. A new system would have to be invented to
