OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Monday night Mayor Walker presented the name of Hon. Thomas D. Kearney to the council, for city attorney, and the nomination was unanimously approved. Mr. Kearney has already made an enviable record as city attorney and prosecuting attorney, and his appointment has met with general approval.

City Marshal M. C. Peterson and Justice A. E. Gibson, the two officials whose books were examined by a council investigation committee, have both been exonerated from all suspicion of misappropriating the city's funds. We are glad that all suspicion is removed from these names and regret that they have had the mortification of an investigation. They stand, however, doubly high in the estimation of our citizens, now that they have successfully proved their honesty, as it is always better for both the men themselves and the public, that if anyone has the slightest suspicion of an official's honesty the matter be investigated and settled.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

White Ribbon Echoes.

Edited by W. C. T. U. Press Supt.

The next regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday, May 23, at three o'clock, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, over the post office.

There will be no meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion next Saturday on account of the Choral Union concert. One week from Saturday an important business meeting will be held in the hall, at three o'clock.

At the last meeting of the local union arrangements were made for delegates to attend the state convention which will be held in Marquette, June 12-17.

Twenty-five temple wheels have been sent for to finish paying the one hundred dollars pledged by the Ann Arbor union several years ago toward the Temperance Temple fund, Chicago. These little wheels have places for twelve ten cent pieces, and hundreds of dollars have been raised for this noble purpose during the last year through the small gifts placed in the wheels.

The local W. C. T. U. voted at the last meeting to send money toward the support of the missionary in the lumber district in the northern part of the state, and two dollars in response to an appeal from the National W. C. T. U. to aid in raising a fund to extend organization.

Miss Willard made a stirring appeal for Armenia in the Union Signal of May 7. She supplements this appeal in the Signal of May 14, and asks that as the Armenian Relief Association has a wider aim than simply material aid, the white-ribboners should cooperate with this society. It seems desirable that all the gifts should flow through our treasury, and organized and planned for active work as we are. Our society can become a great system of "ways and means" for the salvation and freedom of Armenia. Miss Willard closes her appeal with these words:

"The needs of Armenia require no emphasis. They cry to God day and night, and we verily have no right to call ourselves God's children if we do not hear and heed. This is a signal opportunity to prove that the white ribbon is for all lands, and means the universal reign of peace and fraternity."

Mr. J. W. Leeds has this to say in the Union Signal about the teaching of war in history text-books:

A sufficiently frank admission was lately made by an apologist for the Boys' Brigade scheme, that "all healthy boys have a love of soldiery born in them," leaving as a not unfair inference the corollary that the youth who did not resent an attack upon his rights or strike back when assaulted must be weak and unhealthy. It is a lamentable but natural sequence of this emulation of the false heroic models found so largely in pagan classics, as contra-distinguished from those molded upon the pure Christian type, which herefore have been kept too much in the background, that the school history text-books of our day are so largely what they are, a compend of the battles of one's country with a very pronounced bias under the label of patriotism for "my country, right or wrong." That was, therefore, a much needed testimony penned by Rector Alex. Mackay-Smith in responding to an invitation to be present at the conference on international arbitration in Independence Hall on last Washington's birthday, in which he said, "Our children are nurtured on stories of British cruelty in the Revolutionary war; the devil, to them, has a red coat, and carries a Queen Anne musket. My great grandfather was an officer in that war, but I wish we could forget the whole conflict. My own children are growing up to dislike England because of that old war as told in their school books. It is time to stop it. Patriotism is the noblest virtue, but it must not be nourished in hate."

A little common sense as well as Christian charity on both sides is needed."

We have lately had some very recent exemplifications of this teaching of international antagonism, on the part of the lads and young men in some of the public schools, colleges and universities of Spain and the United States respectively. The Philadelphia Record tells of a small boy who made a quantity of crayon-colored paper flags of Spain, which, in an explosion of patriotism he threw one by one into the kitchen fire, and then "solemnly loaded his Fourth of July pistol with caps and fired a salute in honor of the event."

Now the foregoing statement I here submit to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for practical present use, enjoining that it be not laid away in any "bureau" drawer, nor folded up in a napkin. The point is readily to be apprehended, that where as you have a scientific temperance department, which has succeeded in most usefully supplementing the ordinary teaching of physiology and hygiene in the public schools by the requirement that noxious effects of alcohol, narcotics and opiates be likewise fairly presented and studied, so also should the teaching of history in which our children are regularly drilled be of a character commensurate with our profession as a Christian nation. To be steeped beyond all things else in acquaintance with its wars and its battles, and how many of our troops and how many of the "enemy" were killed and wounded in this engagement, and how many in that, is totally unworthy our civilization, and our Christianity. The nations, every one of them, urgently need an international court to adjust all their differences, and the writer of history text-books for the school children should see that it is his place to occupy that viewpoint.

PROF. STANLEY'S SYMPHONY to be rendered this afternoon at the May Festival.

While this symphony is not strictly speaking program music its title "The Awakening of the Soul" suggests that it falls in that general class. It represents the gradual awakening of a soul to a true appreciation of life. It is divided into four movements—the first standing for the Spring-time of life—the second Love-life—the third Joyfulness—the fourth the fully matured character resulting from the experiences of the soul depicted in the preceding movements. The treatment with the exception of parts of the first movement which represent simple relationships, is essentially modern and calls for the resources of the full orchestra, without unusual instruments. The work begins with an Introduction, F. Major (3-4 time) poco adagio in which the wind instruments stand for influences or suggestions from outside acting upon a soul (the strings) which as yet has learned nothing of the true meaning of life, nor awakened to a realization of its own power. This irresolute attitude of the soul is indicated by the abrupt changes of mode key. The soul seems to respond several times, but sinks back again into its former irresolute state, until at the end of this part and leading into the first movement, it arouses and looks questioningly about. The first naive impressions are indicated in the first movement which is in strict (although very simple) Sonata Form. This movement, F. Major (3-4 time), Allegro ma non troppo in the Free Fantasia, exploits in fugato, form question motive which develops in the Introduction as well as the first theme given out by the solo horn at the beginning of the Introduction. This latter theme, as the first suggestion coming to the soul, becomes of more and more importance in the Symphony—and finally appears in the last movement as a dominating principle. A subsidiary theme developed from the first theme is used as material for the working out—and at the end of the first movement leads over in the Adagio which follows the first movement without any break in the continuity. The return to the first subject in the Third Part is by means of the question motive and as experience broadens impressions, the themes are now developed more fully. Thus the subsidiary theme becomes the most important theme in the Conclusion (presto). By a change of tempo to poco adante its character is changed so that it may serve as a connecting link between the two first movements.

The Second Movement B. Flat (4-4 time) Adagio Con Molto espressione represents the soul under the influence of strong emotions—love—grief—despair. The principal subject is given out by the first violins and canonically imitated by the violoncellos in the seventh below. It is strictly developed during the first exposition of the subject and leads through a short connecting passage for the brass (also in imitation) to a short episode in which the imitation is in the second. A short solo for horn accompanied by tremolo in the violin and violin solo, develops into an imitation subject which after several measures leads up to a climax for full orchestra—after which following more elaborate figurations for different instruments, the principal theme is given out by the woodwind accompanied by a characteristic violin figure. The theme now ends in the key. Following this comes an agitated movement which has for its distinctive musical feature imitative effects between the horns and trombones against a surging background of stormy string figures. From this movement by an unexpected transition comes an episode which stands for grief and sorrow. The original theme is now heard in the relative minor given out by the above to which is afterward added the Cor Anglais. The strings have pulsating chords which stand for agitation. The theme changes to major but is at what seems to be a direct leading to major cadence interrupted by the Cor Anglais which leads the melody back to the minor. This is repeated several times until the solo disappears. Now follows an allegro molto e agitato and which shortly in response to the repeated calls of the horns returns to the principal subject as unexpectedly and by the same means as the episode was produced. With violins in the higher octaves and harp arpeggios the principal theme reappears and at the end is given out by all the strings against pulsating chords in the wood wind.

The Scherzo G Minor (3-4 time) allegro molto is in strict form although the principal theme is somewhat irregular in so far as number of measures is concerned. The Trio shows two distinct themes carried out simultaneously, the principal one being assigned the horns and brass.

The Finale F Major (3-4 time) allegro deciso represents the matured character strong, earnest, yet full of tenderness. The first theme stands for the first idea. The subsidiary themes stand for the other characteristics. The first subsidiary is developed from the original horn motive of the Introduction. The second subject is an extension of the theme used as the closing subject at the end of the first part of the first movement. The working out is made from material which has been used in preceding movements and the first part of the Finale after the recapitulation of the subject is led up to a climax. The first theme in the Introduction in the symphony is developed by the trumpets and strings while against it is placed the first theme of first movement in clarinets and horns.

The Time for Building Up the system is at this season. The old weather has made unusual drains upon the vital forces. OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

He Sees About Everything and Talks About Everything He Sees.

Our Man called attention some days ago to the pond of stagnant water on S. State st., just beyond Packard st. His attention has been called to another nuisance of this kind, on S. Main st., in the rear of the table factory. This pond has been there for years, and unlike the one on State st. it is not there in the spring, only, but the whole year round.

Our Man desires to call attention to the way some of our land owners allow noxious weeds to grow unhindered on their premises. There is a law prohibiting property owners to allow these weeds to grow on their land and it should be enforced. There is a luxurious growth of burdock weed on the vacant land on Miller ave., just east of the Ann Arbor Ry. track, and this weed is allowed to flourish in many other parts of the city. Lawns are of very little use unless they are enforced. This law against noxious weeds is a good one, and if it were properly enforced it would be a great benefit to those who like to keep their lawns and flower and vegetable gardens clear of weeds.

Our Man has often been disgusted at the way in which students disregard the rights of our citizens, but he hasn't talked about everything he has seen of this character, for fear of being misunderstood. A great deal of harm can be done to Ann Arbor and to the University by arousing a spirit of antagonism between "town and gown" such as is found in many college towns. Then, too, we have really been very fortunate in enjoying as good order as we do, when we consider the great number of young men who have been confined to their class rooms through the day and are tempted to enjoy themselves at any cost during their hours of leisure. The spirit of most of the students is very commendable but here and there a rowdy has been admitted to the University and proceeds to break as many city ordinances and faculty rules as he can. It is certainly encouraging to read these sensible words of the U. of M. Daily on the disturbance at the freshman banquet:

The "unlawful ordinance" requiring children to be off the streets by 9 p. m. has been adopted in several western towns. It would be a good measure for the Ann Arbor council and the University senate to get together on the extreme childishness so easily displayed at the time of the Freshman banquet developed this year into a spirit of ruffianism by both sophomores and freshmen which cannot be condemned too heartily. A disregard of the right of property owners was shown of which the most lawless railroad striker would be proud. A private dwelling was broken into by smashing a window, and stones were thrown at Granger's Academy on the night of the banquet, several windows being broken. It is claimed by the sophomores that this last was done by town boys, but even if this be proven, it does not materially alter the fact that the disturbance was an immediate result of a college row. If the lower classmen would turn more of their enthusiasm toward cheering the "Varsity at practice and during match games they would not have so much said about them in the papers, perhaps, but they would be doing more for their institution besides displaying some manliness in place of puerile destructiveness.

Darkest America.

The attraction at the Grand Opera House, Thursday evening, May 23, will be Al. G. Field's new venture, "Darkest America," a combination of genuine colored minstrel performers which is made up of popular features that please the masses. Mr. Field, with his usual good judgment, has not only selected first class talent, but has introduced a great variety of material of a novel and original character and arranged the programme in an admirable manner. There is plenty of good dancing, much popular music both vocal and instrumental, and many other features calculated to please. The olio is composed of high class specialties, beautiful marches, etc. The company, numbering one half hundred people, travel in their own train of palace cars. This is positively their only appearance in this city; all lovers of good shows should take advantage of the opportunity and see it.

Sour Stomach

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour Stomach with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." Mrs. PETER BERRY, Leominster, Mass.

Your Physical Condition

Needs attention this time. If you are tired, weak and nervous, it is clear that your blood is impure, and without doubt there has been too much overwork or strain on brain and body. The course of treatment for such a condition is plain and simple. The blood must first be purified so that the nervous system, and in fact all the organs will be fed upon pure blood. Intelligent people without number have testified that the best blood purifier, nerve tonic and strength imparting medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Nervousness, loss of sleep and general debility all vanish when Hood's Sarsaparilla is persistently taken; in a word, health and happiness follow after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.
