THE MILITARY BALL

Pingree's Absence.

(From Tuesday's Times.) Last night's long-looked-for military ball went off in a most satisfactory manner, although Gov. Pingree and his military staff were conspicuously absent. Railroad Commissioner Wessellus and Deputy Railroad Commissioner Wedemeyer, together with the governor's shrewd Washtenaw county lieutenant, Sheriff Judson, represented His Excellency at the head of the line at. the reception. With them stood the following military officers, many of them accompanied by their ladies: Capt. Ross Granger of Ann Arbor, Capt. Cornelius Gardener of Detroit, Col. N. M. Richardson of Lansing, Col. lard Bush of Lansing, Major E. J. Rogers of Port Huron, Major W. Watts of, Jackson, and Capt. John Kirk of Ypsilanti.

At the close of the thorough inspection Captain Gardner, of the U. S. A., who acted as inspecting officer, briefly made to the house probably within two Many Michigan Students Took Part addressed the men, saying: I find the company in fine conditon and Captain Granger, as well as the men are to be congratulated on maintaining the best of discipline. If affairs do not soon change, I believe some or all of us will be obliged to take the field."

Then followed dancing until 2:30, the famous Chequamegons furnishing their choicest music. One hundred and thirty couples were counted on the floor, and the gay colored dresses, shining floor, perfect music and brilliant hued, tasteful decorations made the scene one not easily forgotten. The decorations were the most elaborate and beautiful ever attempted at the armory and were remarked upon in highest praise by every one. The gigantic electric light monogram above the orchestra was at once novel and startling. Everything possible was done for the convenience and pleasure of the guests and Captain Granger and the men of Company A deserve great praise for an evening of rare enjoyment. The patronesses as aiready announced in these columns occupied a dainty booth in the northeast corner of the hall while the spacious parlors of Berryman's photograph gallery, which stands conveniently near, made a delightful dining room. Hangsterfer catered in his own popular and complete way, to the perfect satisfaction of all.

Caledonian Entertainment.

Last Saturday night the Caledonian Society gave an entertainment for the benefit of the S. C. A. in University Hall. The program consisted of Scottish music and dances and three addresses. Prof. Stanley was announced for a Scottish medley on the organ but was unable to attend.

The president of the Caledonian Society, Capt. Robt. Campbell, gave a brief sketch of the work of the student companies in the Civil war. He bies had reminded him of the old days of student patriotism. A company was raised from the University and Normal and signally distinguished itself. He said, if any feat of danger is to be undertaken, and veterans falter, give me a company of intelligent students to accomplish it. Dr. R. M. Wenley gave a short paper on "Scottish Humor." He said national characteristics are often strongly portrayed by proverbs. Scotland has contributed about 10 per cent of all current proverbs. As a proverb is the wisdom of many painted by the wit of one, Scotland must have the many wise and a goodly number of wits to express this wisdom. The doctor is a good story teller, and his proverbs and stories illustrating Scottish humor were keenly enjoyed. Dr. Craig discussed two characteristics of the Scotch pertinacity and audacity. He gave a number of happy illustrations of both qualities, dwelling especially on the heroism and audacity of the recent famous charge of the Gordon Highlanders in the Khyber Pass. The dancing by Miss Aggie Rankin and the singing by Harold Jarvis were particularly enjoyed.

All day long the two committees struggled in executive session to arrive at an understanding. Tonight, the foreign relations committee, after hearing Consul-General Lee, decided to report the following resolutions: "1. That the people of the island of

in the Civil War.

The University of Michigan was well represented in the army during the civil war. The larger proportion of the classes '61, '62 and '63 enlisted immediately after graduation, and a large number from all the classes between '53 and '60;

For a number of years before the outbreak of the war the University had a regularly organized and drilled military company. Prof. Trowbridge, a West Point graduate with first honors, had resigned his commission and accepted a position to teach mathematics in the University. He organized a com-party and drilled it for a number of years until he left in 1860.

With the outbreak of the war came

President Tappan immediately turned to the congregation and said that the flag of the Union had been insulted and so there would be no services, but there would be a meeting on the campus in the atternoon. That afternoon a great demonstration was held on the campus, President Tappan and a number of citizens making stirring speeches. From this time on Tappan talked war in public and private, and interest was kept at a white heat at the University. Large numbers of the students enlisted at once, and thereafter at every call they responded in greater or fewer numbers. A number of companies formed at once, and began drilling daily after 4 o'clock. They had no arms nor uniforms, but went through the manual and became quite proficient in drill. Students constantly left to join the army, and nearly all who did so were thoroughly drilled on the ground For a time no organized effort was made to organize an exclusive University company, but individuals went out with nearly every Michigan regiment. In '62 active steps were taken for the formation of a University of Michigan company, when President Lincoln issued a call for "six hundred thousand more," the Thirty-Seventh Michigan was one of the first regiments to be formed, and the largest company of this regiment, Company E, numbering 134 men, was composed of students of the University and the Normal. Principal Welch, of the Normal, afterwards U. S. senator, was very active in enlisting students. Prof. Gabriel Campbell, '65, now professor of mental and moral philosophy at Dartmouth University, was elected captain of Company E. On the 27th of August, 1862, the Seventeenth Michigan, one of "The 300 Famous Regiments," was mustered in. No sooner had the regiment arrived at Washington than the new recruits were put in action. Lee was advancing upon Washington, and the University company was detailed to guard Navy Yard bridge. When Washington was out of danger General McClellan pursued Lee across Maryland into South Mountain. From this point the enemy could not be dislodged, and soon the army became dejected. The student company came up singing and giving the college yell and soon the whole corps livened up. All attempts to dislodge the enemy have failed and the Army of the Potomac is held at bay. The commander asked for a regiment to volunteer to lead the charge. The veterans knew what it meant and kept silent. It was suggested, in a bantering way, to try the new noisy regiment from Michigan with their new uniforms. The captair with their new uniforms. The captain of the student company was questioned and asked his men if they would under take the task. Every man responded. The order is given, "Charge, Seven-teenth Michigan." The students led the order is given, "Charge, Seven-teenth Michigan." The students led with the U. of M. yell and stormed up the gap, raked by deadly musketry. Washington, April 12 .- The Republican members of the ways and means committee have agreed upon a plan for raising revenue in case of need to carry on war with Spain. The plan will raise more than $100,000,000 additional revenue annually and is thus distributed:

An additional tax on beer of $1 per barrel, estimated to yield $35,000,000; a bank stamp tax, on the lines of the law of 1866, estimated to yield $30,000,-000; a duty of 3 cents per pound on $3 80 coffee and 10 cents per pound on tea, and a like amount of internal tax on stocks of coffee and tea on hand in the United States, estimated to yield 52 00 $28,000,000; additional tax on tobacco, expected to yield $15,000,000.

> The committee also agreed to authorize the issuing of $500,000,000 bonds. These bonds are to be offered for sale at all postoffices in the United States in amounts of $50 each, making a great popular loan to be absorbed by the people.

> To tide over the emergencies the secretary of the treasury will be authorized to issue treasury certificates. These certificates or debentures are to be used to pay running expenses when the revenues do not meet the expenditures. These preparations are distinctly war measure and would be put in operation only should war occur.

Apportionment to Be Based on Constitutional Authority and Not on the Strength of Organizations Already in Existence-Senator Mason's Speech.

Washington, April 13 .- In anticipation of the possibility of a call on the National guard of the states and the territories to assist in the national defense in the case of war with Spain Adjt.-Gen. Corbin of the army has compiled a mass of interesting information in connection with the strength of the National guard and the quota each state and territory would be expected to furnish under calls for from 50,000 to 200,000 men, according, first, to the strength of the National guard, and second, according to the population of the different states and territories.

These tables are complete and show precisely the number of men each state and territory would be expected to furnish under the constitution, regardless of the strength of the National guard organizations in each state and territory.

ILLINOIS TO LEAD THE VAN.

The Prairie State Will Be the First Called On for Aid.

Springfield, Ill., April 13.-Gov. Tanner held a prolonged conversation with President McKinley and his secretary last night over the long-distance telephone.

The governor desired inside information regarding the war aspect, and incidentally personally tendered the Illinois national guard to the country, and wanted the president to allow Illinois to be the first state to be called upon for troops in case war is deciared. He also expressed a determination to lead the Illinois column, and for that purpose would not refuse a commission from the president.

Gov. Tanner was given to understand the gratitude in which the president held his offer and was promised that his request would not be forgotten when the time came to ask for assist-

While no intimation was given as to the result of the conference the governor was quite plain in his belief that war would ensue, but probably not this week and maybe not next.

The statement has reached here from Washington that when troops are called for but two regiments will be taken from Illinois on the first call; the others to be drawn on from time to time as the occasion may demand. It is semi-officially state at headquarters that if this order is to prevail the 1st sent to the front on the first call. Key West, Fla., April 11.-Americans who arrived on the Mangrove from Havana Friday report the situation in the Cuban capital as most critical, and say that threats were made openly that if the Mangrove returned she would suffer a fate similar to that of the Maine. John F. Fielding of Brooklyn said that he heard Spanish officers boasting the day he left Havana that the Spanish flag would be floating on the capitol in Washington within a month.

TEXAS, 1837; CUBA, 1898.

Facts Concerning Recognition of the Former Republic.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.-The Constitution editorially calls attention to the fact that President McKinley stopped short in his quotations from President Jackson at the most interesting point. The Constitution says:

"The congress of 1837 disagreed with the president and recognized Texas anyhow.

"'Regarding these proceedings as a virtual decision of the question submitted by me to congress, I think it my duty to acquiesce therein, and, therefore, I name Alcee La Branch of Louisiana to be charge d'affaires to the republic of Texas.'

"In this paragraph, the last one written and signed with the name of Andrew Jackson, he recognized the independence of Texas. In reaching that recognition upon the basis laid down by congress, the American doctrine of international law supplanted the old, and by that action is Andrew Jackson to be judged, and not by previous argument, which he lived to disavow. It is notorious that the republic of Texas had not won such a victory as President McKinley declares must be won by a revolting people before they are entitled to recognition. Their borders continued to be harassed by Mexican encroachments, until, finally, the republic was merged into the United States, and even then our government had inaugurated a bloody war in order to effectually defeat the persistent Mexican forces. This being the true and established policy of the United States, will the congress of 1897 be as true to its mission as that of 1837, and when that congress shall have spoken will President McKinley be the man to stand in the footsteps of Andrew Jackson and to declare in favor of human liberty as against the combined despotism of the world?"

bearing upon the president's message as already prepared, nor will it be changed in any important particula. save in the unlooked-for event of submission on the part of Spain to the demands of this government. This statement was made by a high official of the government who has full know! edge of the real situation. President McKinley also announced to some of his callers that he regarded his message to congress as a closed document unless there is an unexpected radical change in the existing situation, Representative Grosvenor said that unless there was a revision of the facts, which he did not deem at all probable, there would be no revision of the president's message.

The representatives of the six powers of Europe seeking to avert war be tween Spain and the United State; called on President McKinley at noon today. The governments of Great Brit ain, France, Germany, Austria, Russia and Italy were represented. Sir Jullan Pauncefote, as representative of the powers, presented the following:

"The undersigned, representatives of Germany, Austria-Hungary, France authorized in that behalf, address in the name of their respective governments a pressing appeal to the feelings of humanity and moderation of the president and of the American people in their existing differences with Spain. They earnestly hope that further negotiations will lead to an agree ment which, while securing the maintenance of peace, will afford all necessary guarantees for the re-establish ment of order in Cuba.

"The powers do not doubt that the humanitarian and purely disinterested fully recognized and appreciated by the American nation.'

President McKinley replied as follows:

"The government of the United States recognizes the good will which has prompted the friendly communication of the representatives of Ger many, Austria-Hungary, France, Great Britain, Italy and Russia, as set forth in the address of your excellencies, and shares the hope therein expressed that the outcome of the situation in Cuba may be the maintenance of peace between the United States and Spain by affording the necessary guarantees for the re-establishment of order in the island, so terminating the chronic condition of disturbance there which so It is something else that troubles deeply injures the interests and men-

Before Harold went to Europe he placed some bills in my hands, of which I had made use, such as paying Mrs. Murphy and my personal expenses I had drawn only the single check of $10, 000. He had assured me that just ten times that amount was subject to my call, and that half of it was absolutely mine.

Evidently there was a mistake somewhere, for the whole amount left at my was not the time to inquire into the matter. It could wait.

I drew out every dollar of the balance things.

It would be a fitting climax with which to wind up my loss of strength. I did not know a soul in that financial center, though several persons spoke to me, and I returned their salutations. A Fascinating Island.

Of all fascinating places under the sun, according to a recent traveler, the islands of Tahiti, one of the Society Islands, is the most fascinating. In that country, a little earth lost in a vast ocean, nature has done everything to make indolent souls happy. The climate is temperate, and even all the year round the vegetation is luxuriant, the women beautiful, and the nights, full of perfume and mystical light, stirs the most practical mind to love of meditation and dreaming. The influence of this dreamy, lazy life is very insiduous. It is not necessary to work, as the island furnishes food without the labor of tillage. A large number of Americans and French went there recently on a visit, and have become so enraptured with the languorous existence that, like the visitors to lotus land, they lie down, and forget friends, home, ambition and everything.

She is the daughter of a Newcastle hotelkeeper, and commenced playing-in her father's billiard-rooms, of coursesoon after she had attained the mature age of 13. A couple of years later she could play what is known as a "pretty decent game." That is to say, she made breaks of eight, ten, fifteen and even twenty on occasion. Then, one day, along came John Roberts and played an exhibition match. It was a revelation to little Miss Fairweather. The easy style of the players and the regularity of the strokes were revelations to her. Roberts noticed the dilated eyes and surprise of the girl. As a result an invitation to proceed to London and study under the champion's tuition was given and accepted. and in due course Miss Fairweather blossomed forth as the champion woman billiard player of England. She practices between three and four hours a day, plays with a 151% ounce cue and has made a 76 all-round break and an 82 at "nursery" cannons. Not a very remarkable record! Hair Dressing Styles of Ten Years Ago in Modified Form,

The bang in modified form is once more a candidate for fashionable favor. Woman's hair is now to curl in tiny tendrils over the forehead, the arrangement being combined with the prevailing pompadour, and the whole rechristened "la papillon." But for all that it is the bang revived. In England the bang has never gone out of style, owing to the fact that the princess of Wales elects to wear her hair in heavy curly locks over her forehead. So every loyal Englishwoman needs must follow in the fashion set by royalty, and bangs, chignons and the hideous Bath buns are the accepted styles there among fashionable women. In America ten years ago the hair was shorn into short locks about the face, which were tortured into curls by different methods, the frizzled mass being speedlly reduced to a state of limp dejection at the first-hint of the dampness. Then came a revolution and Puritan coiffures conquered the feminine world. Next came a revival of the pompadour, and now la papillion has arrived, and we discover our oldtion. The hair is short around the "love locks," The long hair is then waved all around the head and brushed up closely, leaving the puff effect possible, with the suggestion of a side parting. It is this new position of the part which gives a particularly jaunty appearance. The ends of the hair are then fastened into a fluffy bunch of puffs and tiny curls, a jeweled butterfly with quivering wings is perched airily on one side and milady is ready

Her Two Powerful Fleets Will Soon Be in Readiness.

Washington, April 14 .- Advices re ceived by the navy department indicate that Spain is organizing as rapidly as possible two powerful fleets, which will, it is supposed, be opposed to the two fleets that this country has assembled at Key West and at Hampton Roads. One of her fleets is forming at Puerto Grande, St. Vincent, Cape de Verde islands, and the other is forming at Cadiz, Spain.

Naval experts think that the fleet at Cadiz is intended for the defense of the Spanish coast from any attack by the flying squadron, while the fleet that is assembling at the Cape de Verde islands is intended for retaliatory attacks upon our coasts.

This plan presupposes that the Spanish fleet now rendezvoused in the Cape Verde islands will move to the defense of Havana or seek to draw off the American ships by a foray on our coast. It is evident that Spain expects an attack on Havana, and it was for this reason that she withdrew the Vizcaya and the Almirante Oquendo from that harbor.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Congress Notified of the Conditions in Cuba.

THOROUGH REVIEW OF .FACTS.

Recognition of the Present Government in Cuba Is Opposed-Maine Disaster Shows That Spain Can Not Protect Neutrals in Cuban Waters.

Washington, April 11.-The president today sent a message to the congress of the United States, substantially as follows

"The present revolution is but the suc-cessor of other similar insurrections which have occurred in Cuba against the do-minion of Spain, extending over a period of nearly half a century, each of which, of nearly half a century, each of which, during its progress, has subjected the United States to great effort and expense in enforcing its neutrality laws, caused enormous losses to the American trade and commerce, caused irritation, annoy-ance and disturbance among our citizens. and by the exercise of cruel, barbarous and uncivilized practices of warfare, shocked the sensibilities and offended the

"We have found ourselves constrained, in the observance of that strict neutrality which our laws enjoin and which the law of nations commands, to police our own waters and watch our own seaports own waters and water out own scapers in prevention of any unlawful act in all of the Cubans. Our trade has suffered, the capital invested by our citizens in Cuba has been largely lost, and the tem-per and forbearance of our people have a so sorely tried as to beget a perilous est among our own citizens. unrest

"In April, 18%, the evils from which our country suffered through the Cuban war became so onerous that my predecessor made an effort to bring about a peace through the mediation of this government in any way that might tend to an hon-orable adjustment of the contest be-tween Spain and her revolted colony, on the basis of some affective scheme of self-government for Cuba under the flag and sovereignty of Spain. It failed, through the refusal of the Spanish government then in power to consider any form of then in power to consider any form of mediation, or indeed any plan of settle-ment which did not begin with the actu-al submission of the insurgents to the mother country, and then only on such terms as Spain herself might see fit to grant. The war continued " unabated. The resistance of the insurgents was in no wise, diminished.

"The p'lley of devastation and concenn, inaugurated by the captain-gen-bando of Oct. 21, 1896, in the province of Pinar del Rio, was afterward ex-tended to embrace all of the island to which the power of the Spanish arms was able to reach by occupation or by mill-tary operations. The peasantry, includ-ing all dwelling in the agricultural ining all dwelling in the agricultural in-terior, were driven into the garrison towns or isolated places held by the troops. The raising and movement of provisions of all kinds were interdicted. The fields were laid waste, dwellings un-roofed and fired, mills destroyed, and, in short, everything that could desolate the land and render it unfit for human hab-itation or support was commanded by one or the other of the contending par-ties, and executed by all the powers at their disposal. Reconcentration, adopted avowedly as a war measure in order to cut off the re-sources of the insurgents, worked its predestined result. As I said in my mes-sage of last December, it was not civil-ized warfare; it was extermination. Weyler have heen recoked, the reconcentrados are, it is said, to be permitted to return to their homes, and alded to resume the self-supporting pursuits of peace; public works have been ordered to give them employment, and a sum of $000,000 has been appropriated for their relief. "The war in Cuba is of such a nature that short of subjugation or extermina-tion, a final military victory for either side seems impræticable. The alternative lies in the physical exhaustion of the one or the other party, or perhaps of both-a condition which in effect ended the ten years' war by the truce of Zanjon. The prospect of such a protraction and con-clusion of the present striff is a con-tingency hardly to be contemplated with equanimity by the civilized world, and least of all by the United States, affected and fnured as we are, deeply and inti-mately, by its very existence. The message concludes:

"The long trial has proved that the object for which Spain has waged the war can not be attained. The firse of insur-rection may flame or may smolder with varying seasons, but it has not been and it is plain that it can not be extinguished by present methods. The only hope of present and repose from a condition which can not longer be endured is the enforced pacification of Cuba. In the name of humanity, in the name of civilization, in behalf of endangered American interests which give us the right and the duty to speak and to act, the war in Cuba must stop.

"In view of these facts and these considerations, I ask the congress to au-thorize and empower the president to of the armistice. From Gen. Woodford's explanatory reports of preliminary discus-sions preceding the final conference it is understood that the Spanish government stands ready to give the insular congress full powers to settle the terms of peace with the insurgents, whether by direct negotiations or indirectly by means of leg-transmit of a stable government capable of maintaining order and observing its in-transmitle to the terms of peace measures to secure a full and speedy termination of hostilities between the gov-terment of Spain and the people of Cuba and to secure in the island the establish-ment of a stable government capable of maintaining order and observing its in-transmitle to the secure of the stable of take measures to secure a full and speedy termination of hostilities between the gov-

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9. - At Thursday's session of the convention the subsidy act are at the disposal of of the bimetallists of the Ohio valley Tomlinson hall was filled twice to hear William J. Bryan talk. The two speeches were along financial lines. His declaration that there must be no hesitation about making silver the issue in the coming state elections and nant citizens, who knew not why it in the next campaign was heartily indorsed by the convention. Bryan, in his afternoon speech, all but declared for Williams for the tail of the ticket. After eulogizing the Boston advocate of bimetallism, he said: "The east and the west will be linked in the contest of 1900."

In his night speech Bryan made reference to the labor situation. He said he had refrained from making any comment on the policy of the administration because he would not wish to say anything that might add to the burden of those intrusted with the administration of government. They no doubt had information in reference to the diplomatic negotiations which others did not possess..

He paid a tribute to Consul General Lee. It could no longer be said, he declared, that any democrat was hostile to the flag. At last the civil war was over; it was demonstrated that whenever it was necessary to fight the American people would fight as one nation

Chairman Towne of the national silver committee, who was among the speakers, said the free-silver forces, united for the contest of 1900, had already nominated Bryan as the candidate

The resolutions were submitted by Samuel E. Morss of this city, ex-consul-general to Paris. They are as follows

"That we regard the financial question as the paramount political issue of the day, and hereby pledge ourselves to continue the battle for bimetallism until the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the present legal ration of 16 to 1 with full legal tender quality is secured, without waiting for the consent or co-operation of any other nation.

"We are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard and the so-called reforms of the Indianapolis monetary convention and all kindred projects.

"We believe that congress alone has power to coin and issue money, and that this power should not be delegated to individuals or corporations; that the power to control and regulate a paper currency is inseparable from the power to coin money, and that all currency intended to circulate as money should be issued and its volume controlled by the general government only.

We invite the co-operation of all

The Common Council Authorizes Is What Alds. Moore and Davis Called Paving on Congress Sreet,

At the special meeting of the common council Monday evening Ald.Gaudy Van Fossen, Lamb, Schaffer, Worden, Davis and Meanwell were present. Two and one-half hours were taken up with revising the old water rules. The most important changes are the more extensive use of meters; and the making it obligatory upon the man who sprinkles his lawn or street to hold the nozzle in his hand unless he wishes to pay an extra dollar a year for the use of a spray thrower.

By Ald. Gaudy: "That the paving of Congress street is hereby ordered, by virtue of power granted to the common council under Sections 164, 165 and 166 of the city charter. Said paving to commence at the west line of Adams street and extending east to the west and of the bridge over the House river end of the bridge over the Huron river, and the city surveyor is hereby in-structed to cause to be made plans and specifications of such proposed paving and submit the same to the common This was passed unanimous

The question of the kind of paving was not brought up and the city en-gineer will probably furnish plans and specifications for both brick and block specifications for both orick and block paving and let the majority of the frontage owners decide upon the kind to be adopted. Good legal authority says that the city can pave unier the overtage it group and but pairs charter as it now reads, but extensive paving will not be accomplished until we have an amendment similar to the sewer amendment.

INJUNCTION DISCONTINUED.

The D., L. and A. A. Railway Satisfied Disgruntled Farmers.

Belleville, Mich., April 9 .- Special .-Farmers in Van Buren township, on the Chicago road, are red-hot over the manner in which the grading for the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor electric railway is being done. They claim that the company is attempting to lay its track in the center of the highway, in violation of its franchise, which calls for a track at the side of the road. The farmers presented a strong petition to Highway Commissioner Jackson demanding that he take immediate action to compel the railroad to keep within the limits of its franchise, and Mr. Jackson went to Detroit today to an injunction against the road. Canton township has already secured an injunction stopping the road for similar cause, and farmers in Ypsilanti cownship are up in arms.-Detroit Journal.

The railway company has consulted right along with the township boards in order to avoid litigation. The com-pany's franchises call for a track to be laid 20 feet from the center of the highway and the grading has been laid 20 feet from the center of the original highway on which the farmers have been encroaching and not the railway company

Eddie Lespronce visited The Sentinel Saturday to announce the receipt of a letter from the probate court for the county in California where the late Andrew Elv resided, stating that his estate amounted to $600,500, and there being neither will nor direct heirs, the property will go to the next of kin. Andrew Ely, according to Lespronce had two brothers and three sisters, all of whom are deceased. The distribution, as a result, will be in five portions worth $120,000 each. Mrs. Thibedeaux left three children, none of whom are here now. Mrs. Neat left three, George A., of this city, Andrew, and Mrs. Flora Clark, of Bay City. Of these Andrew is dead and his heirs will claim his portion, $40,000. Eddie is the only heir to Mrs. Lespronce's share, and if his castle has a solid foundation, is a wealthy young man. The two brothers, Narcisse and Francis Ely, were inconsiderate enough to raise large families, ten children each, who are scattered about the state, and whose pittance will, if all are alive, be but $12,000 apiece. Of these Miss Lida Ely, a former popular employe at Mrs. Curtis' millinery establishment, now Mrs. Chas. Rose, of Detroit, 1s George A. Dr. Batwell presented a communication asking for an increase of salary to $200 a year as health officer, but as the charter clearly states that the maximum salary for this office shall

TWO SETS OF RESOLUTIONS SHIPS NOT READY FOR SEA.

SENATORS ARE FOR DELAY.

The Minority Is in Favor of Recognizing the Cuban Republic-Wants Time for Debate-Senator Davis Presents the Majority Resolutions.

Washington, April 14.-The senate committee on foreign relations did not begin business until 11 o'clock and was in session forty minutes, when it was announced that two reports would be presented.

When the senate met Senator Davis was immediately recognized to present the majority resolutions, as follows: "Whereas, The abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating, as they have, in the destruction of a United States battleship, with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the president of the United States in his message to congress of of congress was invited; therefore,

"Third, That the president of the United States he and he is hereby directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into actual service of the United States the militia of several states to such an extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.'

The report accompanying the resolutions, which was also presented by Senator Davis, was a very thorough review of the entire situation, and a strong presentation of the facts which great expense. had led the committee to its conclusions.

The reading of the report occupied forty-seven minutes.

Senator Hoar demanded that the resolution lie over under the rules until tomorrow. The vice president reserved his decision upon the point of order and recognized Senator Foraker, who yielded the floor to Senator Turpie. The latter presented the report of the minority of the committee on foreign relations, as follows:

"The undersigned members of the committee on foreign relations cordially concur in the report made upon the Cuban resolutions, but we favor the immediate recognition of the republbic of Cuba, as organized in that island, as a free, independent and sovereign looking squarely at Ald. TORPEDO BOATS HELD BACK.

It Is Thought Admiral Villamil May Be Ordered to Return to Cadiz, Where Spain's War Vessels Are Now Assemb ling-How Lee Will Leave Havana.

New York, April 9 .- A dispatch tc the World from Cadiz, Spain, says: The report that the squadron of evolution and the second torpedo flotilla are about to sail for Cuba or Puerto Rice is absolutely false.

Positive orders have been sent to the Cape Verde islands for the torpedo squadron to stay there. It was contemplated to send the squadron of Admiral Cervera to join it. Villamil's squadron is now expected to return here. Neither of the squadrons gathering here is anything like ready for sea. Neither is assembled and no orders have been received from the marine minister to move either squadron. The only instruction which has really been given to Admiral Churruca, commanding at Cadiz, is to push preparations as fast as possible. In consequence of the order Cadiz bay, with the neighboring royal arsenal of San Fernando and the yards belonging to April 11, 1898, upon which the action the Transatlantic company, present scenes of much activity.

The recommitting of the military bill is a disapointment, as it puts in the background the three battalion formations. The only difference this makes with the plans of the war department is in the assignment of officers. The quota for the several states has been decided upon. Corgressman Jesse Overstreet of Indiang, in speaking of the calls on the different states to furnish troops, said: "No state will be neglected when the volunteers are called for. The apportionment has been made mainly with regard to the importance of the states as to population. For instance, my own state of Indiana will probably get one regiment of infantry and will also send one battery. Indiana could probably send that many men to the field on one day's notice. "Illinois, on the other hand, would probably have two regiments and a battery. That state might deserve more, but on account of her naval militia the quota for the soldiers for the field would be smaller. The same would be true of Michigan. Possibly a regiment and all of its naval reserves would be called upon. This state might be entitled to more soldiers, but all the reserves will be needed at the first alarm."

Fat vs. Lean Men in War.

It is announced by a correspondent of the Free Press that Gov. Pingree who has given prizes for the best answer to certain questions that he asked the students of the U. of M., now contemplates the giving out of another one. The governor is a large man, probably weighing in the neighborhood of 220 pounds, and his tailor when taking his waist measure takes a section at a time. Now the governor, while a veteran, is an advocate of peace at almost any price, but if war comes he says he will go to the front and will light the enemy with the same vim that he tackles some old corporation, and that no one will ever hear him say "Go on," but it will be "Come on." Now the governor has a friend who is equally as patriotic, but who is slim, weighing about 100 pounds and has a walst that a man with a good pair of hands could span. The question that is annoying the governor and his friend is this: If war is declared and they is annoying the governor and his friend is this: If war is declared and they both go to the front, what is the per-centage in favor of the little man from getting hit with a bullet'. The gov-ernor, being twice as large, would stand about twice the chance of getting struck, so figures the little fellow. From that standpoint he argues that when he applies to some insurance comwhen he applies to some insurance com pany that is foolish enough to give risks on soldiers he should get a dis count of 50 per cent, from that given on the governor. The latter has tried to help his friend out on his figures, but has now given it up and it is said he will offer a prize for the best answer.

Trade With Siberia Increasing.

San Francisco, April 14.-Pacific coast trade with Russian ports is increasing. Last Monday night the bark Edward May sailed and the barkentine Adenna sails in a day or so for Vladivostok with cargoes valued at over $70,000. Of this sum $31,800 is represented by flour and $5,000 by leather, while the Edward May has 1,150 tons of salt aboard. The vessels are bound for the terminus of the trans-Siberian railway, and other snips are shortly to be put on the route to the Amoor river. Nearly all the goods thus sent are used by the Russians along the line of the railroad line at Vladivostok.

DR. BREAKEY'S LECTURE.

Interesting Discourse on the Duties of Surgeon in the Army.

The following report of Dr. Breakey's lecture was unfortunately mislaid last week, but we venture to publish it at this late date because of its interesting relations to contemporaneous events:

Dr. Breakey, of the medical faculty, delivered an interesting lecture on the duties of the surgeon in the army and navy before the medical department a week ago Saturday evening. The lecture was given at the request of the senior class and proved unusually interesting in view of our present relations with Spain. Dr. Breakey spoke from experience, having served as surgeon in the war, being on the hospital staff at Gettysburg, Alexandria and Virginia.

The medical department was well represented in the medical 'corps in the army and navy in the late Civil war, furnishing 86 men.

The military surgeon is generally considered a non-combattant. Still the reords show that there were 409 who lost their lives in the Civil war, due to wounds or the fatal termination of discases incidental to camp life.

The surgeon not only cares for the wounded but must also look after the health of the general army. He must decide as to the fitness of the man for duty. His reports form the basis for determining the actual strength of the forces, as well as furnish valuable records for the government.

The examinations for appointment in the corps are especially rigid. The successful applicant must not only have a thorough medical education, but is required to pass other examinations which are equivalent to those required for entrance to most colleges and universities. To this fact may be attributed the unusually high standard which is maintained in the medical staffs of is maintained in the medical staffs of both the army and navy. At present there are about thirty va-cancies in the navy while in the army there are but three or four. The rank-ing of the lower grades of medical cf-ficers in the navy, which is lower than in the army, may account for this. In the navy the assistant surgeon corres-ponds in rank to the second lieutenant; in the army his grade is that of a first lieutenant. In general the medical men in the navy have not received the re-cognition due them and are excluded from the social and official associations to which their education and profession entitle them. ntitle them.

The longer lease of life enjoyed in the navy, especially in the force afloat, is due to the stringent sanitary super-vision, in spite of the hardships and ex-posures incident to the seaman's occuposures incident to the seaman's occu-pation, is shown by a comparison of mortalities. In the navy the mortality is five in a thousand, while in the or-dinary community it is over twenty. The salaries in the army and navy are practically the same. The surgeon-general receives $5,000 a year, the sur-geon $3,000, and the assistant surgeon $1,900.

After the lecture Drs. Vaughan, Dock, Nancrede and Carrow made a few remarks.

marks. Dr. Dock called attention to the need of especial consideration of yellow fever and malaria, which would be of espe-cial interest in the event of our forces making a landing in Cuba. Dr. Nancrede referred to the probabil-ity that all the present ideas in regard to gunshot wounds would be changed, should there be an opportunity to learn what the modern missiles can do. There would probably be but few such wounds would probably be but few such wounds Most of them would prove fatal at once.

At the Theatre.

All of the stock farcical situations known to the stage having been put into a theatrical kaleidoscope by Mr. C. T. Dazey, he has given it a turn and lo! there is a new combination called "The Tarrytown Widow." There is scarcely a scene of complication in this farce that has not been used in other plays, and yet it is in the best sense original. At all events it is amusing. Although played in four acts it is a farce pure and simple, but the author has arranged fresh complications for each act so that the interest does not flag even when the denouement is known. The story concerns the scrapes into which Mr. Benjamin Bascom gets in his efforts to renew his youthful flirtations during the absence of his jealous wife at a summer resort. He follows the Tarrytown Widow who eventually marries his son, while he is eventually marries his son, while he is forced into an engagement with an old maid, is discovered by his wife and escapes by turning the maiden lady over to a fortune-hunting French count who has been pursuing the widow. That is enough of the story to indicate the innumerable complications that arise. The company is very clever in their respective parts and play with a dash and finish, so necessary in suc-cessful farce comedy.

Invitations are to be issued in the near future. The performance will be given in the Barbour gymnasium, probably on May 6th. After the pre-sentation a reception and dance will be held from 10 to 12 o'clock. The person-nel of the cast has not yet been an-nounced. nounced.

Wm. Gray, a middle-aged farmer liv-ing about four miles north of Man-chester, set fire to his buildings yes-terday and then attempted suicide by stabbing his breast and cutting his throat with an old jack-knife. He is still alive and will probably recover. The barn with stock burned but neigh-bors saved the house. Mrs. Gray and a son were in this village at the time. It is thought a family jar was the immediate cause. He was angry yes-terday and did not go home last night. terday and did not go home last night

Art Leagu Miss Douglas, on Tuesday evening, to listen to a talk on "The Renaissance, Another Veiw of It" by Mr. Pattison. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon slides selected from the collections of the Art Institute of Chicago. The majority of them had been made for the special purpose of illustrating Mr. Pattison's lectures in Chicago. The talk commenced with the statement that the usual lecturer upon this period presented only the subject from the point of view of painting, but that period presented only the subject from the point of view of painting, but that the painting was not a re-birth, as there was almost no classic painting that could be re-born. It was in sculp-ture and architecture that rebirth was evident. Nor was it a rebirth of Greek art, except as Roman art was an out-growth of that of Greece. What we see born again was Roman sculpture and architecture. The art of the Re-naissance adheres closely and resem-bles strikingly the arts of Rome, but only in a distant way that of Greece. The history of Constantine's removal to Byzantine and a presentation of Byzantine art, was followed by an ac-count of the so-called "dark ages." of the Romanesque, the Gothic and the transition from Gothic to Renaissance. Then the awakening from these ten or eleven centuries of ilitle change to the outburst of revival, the reappearance of the Roman forms and influence and the identity of the new style with Roman gave opportunity for showing views of many beautiful objects, most-ally called architecture, but which take their character and shape from that art and which properly belong to it. There will probably be but one more meeting of the League this spring. The attendance during the winter has been very gratifying and the subjects treated
