By order of the committee,

W. L. WATKINS, Chm.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET. The ticket placed before the voters of Washtenaw county, Tuesday, by the Democratic county convention is worthy the support of every lover of good government. The nominees are all men of high personal char-

Democratic ticket this fall. John Gillen, the candidate for unanimously Republican.

THE DEMOCRAT sheriff has been a resident of Saline years. He is honest, fearless and undersheriff. capable.

Jacob F. Schuh, the candidate for clerk, needs no introduction to the readers of THE DEMOCRAT. He has filled the position for the past two years with eminent satisfaction to the patrons of the office and his administration of the funds under his charge has been the most careful and economical. He is entitled to a re-election and he will receive it.

For register of deeds, Cifford R. Huston, of Ypsilanti, will bust the implement and produce firm of the Republican party. Huston & Dawson and he is a hust ler. He has the distinction of being the first Democratic alderman electward went Republican in 1896 by achievements in this direction. 180. Huston carried it in 1897 by 64 He is not only popular, pleasant and capable but he is eminently qualified for the duties of that office.

Geo. J. Mann, the candidate for treasurer, is a substantial farmer of Lodi. He made the race two years ago under adverse conditions. He made a vigorous canvass then which will help him to win the election this time. He will devote his own time to the duties of the office and it will not take him 30 minutes to cil can expend and it should be en- the polls, by coercion or fraud, or when give his $200,000 bond.

Major Kirk is star who is to out Ping, Ping. now with his regiment at Knoxville, but as soon as the expected solution of the peace negotiations are assured he will resign and return to his duties in Washtenaw county.

The candidates for coroner, B. F. Watts, of Ann Arbor, and Dr. Kapp, of Manchester, are capable and deserving men. If they are elected there will be no unnecessary expense attached to the investigations conducted by the coroners.

The candidates for circuit court commissioners are young lawyers of good standing. Wm. H. Murray from the first district is now at Knoxville with Co. A, 31st Michigan. He will not be forgotten on election day. Tracy L. Towner, the candidate of the second district, is too well known to need other than a mere announcement of the fact that he is on the ticket.

-Ypsilanti Charles L. Woodward, of Ypsilanti, candidate for surveyor, has probably had more experience in that line than any other man in the county and possesses every qualification necessary to perform the duties of that important office.

> The ticket is good from top to bottom and every Democrat should vote it straight.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND SILVER.

The Republican party is thoroughcommitted to the gold standard. But it was not always thus. In 1884 the Republican state platform took this position:

"We recognize the so-called silver question one of the paramount political issues of the day, and believe that the Republican party, the party of ability and progress (which way?) is the only party that can give a wise and adequate solution of this prob-

"We therefore pledge the Republican party of Michigan to use every effort in its power to restore silver to its historic position in the United States (not Europe or the world, remember) as a money metal; (why?)

"We pledge this in the belief that permanent (not Leiter) prosperity will not be assured until silver takes its time-honored place side by side with gold as one of the two great money metals of the world."

But all this happened before the money bags dictated the St. Louis that he (Keech) did not know any be the one great office for which the platform and put the direction of thing Tom said, in a matter of fact hardest grabbing was being made. The

THE WINNERS.

A Large and Enthusiastic Democratic County Convention Names a Ticket Which All Can Support-The Party United And Success Assured.

The convention was called to order by Chairman Cavanaugh at 11:15. Said he: "The Democrats are assembled here today to nominate the winning ticket. (Applause.) I hope that the nominations made will have such a distribution that nobody will complain." This looked to the friends of the Ann Arbor candidates for sheriff as if the chairman thought that Gillen or Lighthall were the most available pebbles upon the beach. He called Thomas D. Kearney as temporary chairman, Sald Mr. Kearney: "I am very grateful to the executive committee for the continue to vote the Republican honor in asking me to preside temporsupport and which will be a winner. The committee on resolutions reported the following:

Resolved, By the Democrats of Washtenaw county in convention assembled, that we renew our allegiance to the principles of Democracy as expressed in the state and national platforms; that we condemn the criminal incompetency in the conduct of the war department which has resulted in unnecessary sickness, suffering and death among the brave soldiers who fought the battles of the war and the equally brave vol-unteers who were in camp awaiting their country's call; that we charge the Republican party with having filled the state capitol at Lansing with an army of useless clerks whose salaries go to swell the corruption fund of that party. and with an extravagance of jobbery in every department of the state government which has doubled state taxation in a few years.

And be it further resolved, that we pledge the support of the Democrats of Washtenaw to that honest, clean and capable business man, Justin R. Whiting who is our candidate for governor, in the firm belief that if he receives the united support of the Democratic party. united support of the Democratic party he will be elected, and that his election will inaugurate an era of real reform in the government of Michigan.

And be it also resolved, That we commend to the people of Washtenaw county the county ticket which we place in nomination here today, and pledge for the nominees a careful and economical administration of their several offices.

The resolutions were read in so low a tone that Col. Fenn jumped up from the rear of the hall and asked that they be read over again by the secretary and in a loud voice. Mr. Joslyn complied. C. H. Manly wanted Candidate Pierce's name mentioned in the resolutions, but Chairman Kearney ruled that as Mr. Pierce was running on the national and state platforms, and as the resolutions substantiated these, that the convention was indorsing the candidacy of Mr. Pierce when it adopted the resolutions. The resolutions were adopted without a bit of applause.

Chairman Kearney appointed Arthur Brown, of Ann Arbor; Sid W. Millard, of Ann Arbor; Martin Dawson, of Ypsilanti, and Ed Steffen, of Sylvan, as tel-

My right side became sore so that when I coughed it seemed as though my side would burst. The physician said I had pleurisy. I took his medicine for some time and got no better. All through the spring and summer I used mustard plasters and fly blisters on my side and over lungs. Finally I began to ache so badly between my shoulders that I could hardly endure it and at times almost amothered. My breath was so short that I could scarcely talk. Several of my near relatives had died of consumption. I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took two bottles of it, and two of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and am a new person. Camp Poland, Sept. 15, 1898. around, and the boys are beginning to resign themselves to a siege of expectant waiting. The opinion is generally gaining ground that we shall remain in service until after the treaty of peace is signed, or, perhaps, until Spring, and the desire to be mustered out-though pretty general-is certainly losing support, The U. of M. students in Company A feel that even were they set at liberty now, they would scarcely care to enter college in October, for many of them wish to spend a few weeks at home before settling down to the arduous duties of college life. Governor Pingree in personal letters has promised to aid several of the college boys to secure discharges. Few, if any, however, have taken advantage of his offer, as all desire to return with their companies.

A football team has been organized and funds are being raised to defray necessary expenses. Major Harrah is treasurer, Lieut. Green, Company G, manager, and Corporal Charles F. Juttner, Company A, the 'Varsity's famous half-back of last season, is captain. It is proposed to engage in games with all the near-by regiments. Forty applicants have reported, and the prospects for a good team are excellent. The old U. of M. players in the regiment are sure of places, and Company A will certainly furnish its share of good ma-

Army life, with its hardships, has not weakened these sterling athletes of the gridiron, and the martial spirit of the past few months has only tended to fan on their love for Rugby.

Gov. Pingree's hospital train carried away eighty of the sick men of the regiment yesterday, among whom were Corporals Walz and Burkhardt, and Privates Johnson, Nichols, Hurrey, Kimmel, Sherman, Bross and Kennedy, of Company A. The boys are all on 30 days' sick leave, and it is sincerely hoped that by the expiration of that time they will all be sound and vigorous men again. This relieves the congestion in the regimental hospital, and those who remain will receive the best of care. There are still nearly 100 sick men in the regiment, mostly cases of malarial fever. Chief Surgeon Owen, who has worked so hard for the past few days to get the sick boys off, is now himself sick with what promises to be acute malarial or typhoid fever.

There is no doubt that Dr. Owen is a skillful surgeon, and that he has done all in his power for the sick of the regiment, and a great deal of the averse criticism showered upon him is unwarranted. With an entirely inadequate number of assistants he and Steward McLean took care of the large number of sick men at Chickamauga, and it is not strange that the fever should have made him its victim. Steward McLean is at present sick at his home in De-

Captain Granger is still on the general court martial, and Lieut, Belser is commanding the company.

By the way, 'tis said that the officers of Company A have the neatest tent in the Officers' Row. It is floored and furnished with a table and chairs and curtained shelves. The discharge of Sergeant Seabolt and Corporal Watson has left an even lundren men in Company A out of a maximum of 107. Four have been transferred, of whom one, Private Fred von Walthausen, died, and three discharged. Sixteen men are at present absent on furloughs.

The work in camp is practically now limited to guard and provost duty. The men available for duty get on one or the other about every third day.

A grand review of the division was held today by Major-General Breckenridge, at which we made the usual credtable showing.

Very little complaint is now being made against army rations, because most of the boys practically live in Knoxville or upon the eatables peddled throughout camp. As long as their money lasts the boys will make little complaint, but as a matter of fact the "mess" is the same as ever.

The only feature of the occasion was Ald. Brown's exhibition with his little hammer, and he proceeded to knock the mayor upon every opportunity offered. Not content with passing the mayor's veto over his resigned. head by a solid vote of the aldermen, he gave the chief executive of the municipality some extra raps,

> The first things that came up were Mayor Hiscock's two vetoes upon certain improvements in streets and sidewalks. Ald. Hamilton made the explanation for the council's subsequent action. He said he wanted to be as economical as the mayor in everything that is consistent with the interests of careful in the matter of eight crosswalks recommended, in fact they had been unusually careful in respect to these. He moved that the work be ordered done, the mayor's veto notwitnstanding, and everybody said "aye." The matter of paving the gutter on Mutual. Moseley st. and grading Geddes ave. met the same support. Ald. Hamilton said that the people on Geddes ave. had been promised that the work would be done, and he was in favor of making the improvement even if the city had to borrow money to do it.

The city clerk did not have the figures at hand and it was finally decided to pay Mr. Clancy $8,200 and keep back the

My heart goes back again today To where the Lehigh valley lay Girded by mountains strong and high And overhung with sunlit sky In those bright days so long gone by.

Just two and twenty years ago
How swiftly ye rs can come and go.
How we enjoyed those days together
In the pleasant, br ght, September weather
We had gathered and stored the grain away
The barns were stored with new mown hay
And our hearts were light and spirits gay.

Since then, dear friends of mine, the years Have mingled been with smiles and tea's Some days of sunshine, some of rai, some joyful days, some days of pain And now dear friends we meet again.

We meet and clasp each other's hand, For twenty years make lasting bands Around the hearts that grow more dear As we assemble year by year And call the roll, and all are here.

Thanks for the Father's love that still Had led us on through good and ill Has kept us am'd doubts and fears, Has kept us amid smiles and tears, God's love for two and twenty years. Thanks, that the loving Father's hand Hath kept unbroken our little band. The autumn days again we greet. The clouds of memory vibrate sweet. When friends meet friends and true hearts

Thanks, that the battle cry no more Can sex our land from shore to shore. That still the starry liag doth wave Over the land the free and brave Have once more given their lives to save.

Dear friends, we journey still together. In pleasant and in stormy weather, And as we pass but once this way Let's scaeter sunshine as we may. We'll strive to help the great world's need We'll bid each noble cause, God speed, By helpful word and carnest deed,

So now once more we part again, God shield your lives from care and pain, We part and say, good-bye, good-night. Dear, may your health be in His light, Meet me in Heaven's morning light. —KATE M. SMITH.

but the whole nation has also lost one of the greatest and most widely known legal writers and jurists of the age. No man from 1860 to 1895 did more, if as much, by work upon the bench or by his pen as did Judge Cooley to mould legal thought and to direct legal investigation in this country. The nation during that period has been moving forward along both material and intellectual lines with marvelous rapidity, and while it is perhaps true that at no moment has any one man or body of men been far in advance of the surging and shouting mass, there has always been a few in the lead bearing the guidons of progress, and foremost among that few has marched Judge Cooley.

Mayor Mejia, of Yauco, Porto Rico. Writes An Ypstlantian a Patriotic Letter.

Some weeks ago, after George Preston, of Ypsilanti, had read in the press dispatches an account of Mayor Mejia, of Yauco, Porto Rico, issuing a proclamation to the effect that his village was an American town and that he was now a citizen of the United States, he wrote him a congratulatory note, addressing the Spaniard as a "fellow American citizen." A few days ago he got the following letter, accompanied by the proclamation Mayor Mejia issued at the time Gen. Miles' army was making its victorious progress. Both proclamation and letter were in Spanish. The proclamation has been translated by Prof. Levi, of the U. of M., and the letter by Senor M. L. Kaufmann, who gives private lessons in Spanish at 324 S. State st. The following are the translations of the two documents:

Fellow citizens: The people of Porto Rico celebrate today their most beautiful festival. Today the sun of America shines upon our mountains and valleys. THE LAW IS VALID.

U. of M. Legal Corps So Declares the Merriman Act.

Gov. Pingree had a lively altercation the other day in Detroit with Levi L. Barbour, a member of the board of regents of the state university, which brought out the information that the governor some time ago asked the law faculty of the University for an opinion on the legality of the Merriman law, and that the faculty gave him the opinion, but asked that it be kept secret because they and the regents did not think it proper to publish in advance of the decision of the Supreme court, which has the law under advisement. It seems that the opinion of the faculty is that the law is sound and valid, in spite of the contention of some of the railroads that it will not hold water. The governor was evidently anxious to use the opinion in the campaign and was provoked at the regents for wanting to keep it still.

"Just because it's against the railreads you fellows don't seem to dare to give it out," said the governor. "Oh, you are not always right," said

Mr. Barbour. "You are bound to give us opinions because you are the servants of the people," said the governor.

"You are the servant of the people, too, but that is no reason why you should boss all the others," retorted Barbour, and the conversation went merrily on until the governor left the

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Warren B. Stickney, Discouraged and Despondent, Shot Himself at His Home Last Friday.

Another fatality has been added to Ann Arbor's long list for this summer, Warren B. Stickney, in a fit of mental depression caused by financial troubles, taking his own life last Friday morn-

Mr. Stickney came here from Chicopee, Mass., about 18 years ago. He was a man of high educational instincts and naturally selected the University City as his home when he decided to locate in Michigan. He had been superintendent of the Chicopee schools, but later he became the traveling representative of an Eastern publishing house. Some few years ago he purchased the property at the corner of Hill and Twelfth ats. and erected thereon a $6,500 residence. On this was a $1,500 mortgage. This debt kept on increasing until the mortgage assumed the proportions of $5,000 instead of the original $1,500 incumbrance. Besides this there was a mortgage of $500 given to secure an indemnity bond held by the C. A. Nichols Publishing Co. of Springfield, Mass., in whose employ Mr. Stickney had been. Being aware that there was little prospects of removing the incumbrances so as to leave the title free, Mr. Stickney and his wife recently sold the property and decided to move into a smaller house near by. All that they realized over and above the incumbrances from the sale of the house and lot was $600 by action of the meeting President A. in cash. Preparations were made to J. Sawyer will present them to the Su- move out. Household belongings were preme court and ask that they be made being packed up. Mr. Stickney had been ill for the past few days and the thoughts of being about to lose the home he had made for himself so worked upon his mind that he became despondent and discouraged. Last night he called his son, Louis, who is but 14 years old, to him and talked to him in a very peculiar manner. "It is a terrible thing to lose a home," said he to the young boy, "and I want you to take care of your mother whatever happens." Mr. Stickney then went up-

> Friday morning Mrs. Stickney was busy downstairs and while Louis was studying his school books, a loud report followed by a heavy fall was heard from above. Louis immediately rushed upstairs and opened the door to the room immediately adjoining his father's bedchamber. There on the floor ho saw his father lying with a revolver at his side, while blood was oozing from an ugly wound directly back of the right ear. Mr. Stickney had apparently just come out of his bedroom, as he was still in his night clothes and it was just a few minutes after 7 o'clock when he committed his rash deed. Tho bullet, which was a 38 calibre, had passed through the brain and lodged in the skull immediately over the left eye. Death, of course, was instantaneous. The shock to Mrs. Stickney when she learned what had happened was terrible, and she was immediately pros-stairs in the garret and looked over his insurance papers and finally went to

Cooley. When he went upon the bench of the Supreme court of Michigan the population of the state was only a little over half a million. In the period of his long and continued service that population nearly quadrupled, and all the great commercial interests of the state, save agriculture, were practically created and developed. A new state constitution had lately been adopted, which made radical changes in the methods of government, and the court of which he was a member was frequently called upon to construe its language and to expound its principles. They performed trated with grief. Louis, the son, was seen by The expound its principles. They performed that work so satisfactorily to the people that the constitution of 1850, modified in unimportant particulars, is our con-Times and asked if his father had ever made any threats of taking his life. "No," said he. "On the other hand he seemed to have a terrible fear of firethe law governing commercial ques-tions and regulating the powers, duties arms. Some time ago I mule a little trade and got the 38 calibre revolver with which father killed himself in exchange. Once a tramp tried to force an entrance into the house and I drove him away by pointing it at him. Mother thought it best to keep it in the house for this kind of protection, and when father returned home from a trip I asked him about it. He said he would let me keep it as long as there were no cartridges for it in the house. I never loaded it and never had any cartridges for it, so that father must have gone tions is the most critical and learned exposition of the fundamental principles of our government that has yet been written. No better evidence of the high character in which his judicial labors and legal writings are held, could be furnished, than the fact that his opinions and views are cited as authority wherever the English language is spoken and the common law is administered. Judge Cooley came to this city in and got them himself." Mr. Stickney was a finely educated man and had written several notable articles for educational magazines. No estimate of Judge Cooley's character would be just if it omitted to emphasize his rugged independence, his exhalted sense of the citizens duty to the commonwealth and the spotless purity of his private life. Ten Divisions March Through the Streets of Boston.

CROWDS VIEW THE PAGEANT.

Leading Thoroughfares of the City Profusely Decorated in Honor of the Visitors - Entertainments by Local Lodges a Feature of the Day.

Boston, Sept. 22.-Ten divisions of subordinate lodges of Odd Fellows, representing all the states of the union and many of the provinces of Canada, together with brilliantly uniformed brigades of the Patriarch Militant, comprised the annual parade which was the feature of the third day of the big gathering of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., and its auxiliaries.

The procession moved at 2 o'clock under the marshalship of Gen. Francis E. Merriman. Commonwealth avenue, Massachusetts avenue, Sumner street and other leading thoroughfares were profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and crowds of spectators viewed the pageant from the sidewalks and windows. Grand Sire Frederick Carleton of Austin, Texas, and the officers of the sovereign grand lodge reviewed the parade from the Hotel Vendome, while Gov. Wolcott, Mayor Quincy and other of the state and city officials occupied a reviewing stand at the Intersection of Beacon and Joy streets. After the parade had disbanded the visiting cantons and encampments were entertained by the local lodges.

DEMAND A TEN-HOUR DAY.

Conductors and Brakemen on Pittsburg Roads May Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Post says that for some time rumors of a proposed big railroad strike have been circulated, but nothing definite could be learned until yesterday, when it developed that the conductors and brakemen of the roads entering Pittsburg want to be placed on an equality with their brethren in other parts of the country.

To accomplish this object these two branches of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen presented to the officials of all railroads entering this city a scale of wages. An answer is request-

AT THE ATHENS THEATRE.

KELLAR.

The several large illusions which find place in Magician Kellar's program this season are sald to be so far in advance of anything hitherto seen in the line of work usually followed by magicians as to mark a new era in the art. The amount of mental and physical work which must have been required to produce these masterpieces has rarely if ever been given a moment's thought by the thousands of his patrons who marvel at his skill. Kellar is a busy man and a thinking man. He is always striving to secure something new and novel in the field of magic, and this season has brought together the most bewildering collection of deceptions he ever produced. He will appear at the Athens Theatre Saturday

Lincoln J. Carter's new play, "Chattanooga," which will be produced at the Athens Theatre next Tuesday evening. has an effect in it which is novel and startling. By use of a stationary engine and a moving picture thrown on a creen the spectators are made to believe that the engine is flying forward on the track at the rate of 60 miles an hour, while the hero and villain engage in a hand-to-hand combat. Mr. Carter has prepared special scenery for thishis latest big production.

A Phenomenal Success.

Workmen from the mechanical department of the New State Telephone Co. are now engaged in adding two sections to the Ann Arbor switchboard, thus giving this exchange an increased capacity of 200 and a total of 600 phones. As the exchange has now nearly 500 subscribers and is growing rapidly, it is fair to presume that in another year the full capacity will be employed.

It is pleasing to note that this result exceeds by far the predictions made by the company when the exchange was projected.

Mr. Bouton, of the company's executive department, who has been very active in the extension of the New State lines, has always been very conservative in his predictions, and the business cess of his expectations. Since the building of the Ann Arbor exchange many other exchanges have been constructed, and hundreds of miles of long distance lines added to the system.

There has been no blowing of horns or beating of drums. The work has gone steadily on and on, under the skillful guidance of capable officials, until a gigantic organization is now nearing completion. About $100,000 will be expended in construction during the coming fall and winter.

Stockholders are receiving regular quarterly dividends, and the future of the New State Telephone Co. is exceedingly bright.

Mutiny in French Guiana.

London, Sept. 22.—A special dispatch from Paris says the deputy representing French Guiana in the chamber has received a dispatch announcing that a mutiny has taken place among the convicts at Cayenne, the capital of French Guiana. The mutineers, it appears, overpowered and murdered their guards, then stormed the military storehouse and seized the arms and ammunition there. They are now, according to the dispatch, besieging the principal prison, and it is feared they may succeed in freeing the 4,000 convicts confined in the building.

Fortune Lost and Found,

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—Geo. Mulligan, a miner recently returned from the Klondike, lost on a street car several days ago a purse containing $61,000. The purse has been found and returned by John Donahue, a grip-man. With the exception of $40 in currency the money was in checks, one draft for $57,000 issued at Dawson City on the Bank of British Columbia here. Mulligan, who was so lucky as to recover his fortune intact, left $20 at the carhouse for the honest gripman.

Should Make Thirty Knots.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.-The new torpedo boat destroyer Farragut has almost demonstrated that she can make the speed of thirty knots an hour required by the government. She has made a mile in one minute and fiftynine quarter seconds. A slight accident, caused by something getting between her propeller and hull, will necessitate some delay before her official trip is made, but it is believed by her builders that she will easily make the contract speed.

Time Sunday, September 18, 1898, will go down in the history of the Presbyterian church of Ypsilanti'as the day on which final services were held in the structure for so many years a landmark to the city. To the church members who have worshipped in the edifice for the last thirty years thoughts of a change brought a feeling of sadness not to be overcome by the most brilliant prospects for the future. The pastor appreciated the feeling of regret which many experienced, and in his sermon he very happily alluded to the coming changes and their effect upon Individual members and upon the church as a unit. The history of the building about to be remodeled is a very interesting one, as is also the growth of the organization which erected it. The first work done in Ypsilanti under the name of the Charles Cady, of Company G, now at Grace hospital, is reported as being Presbyterian church was in 1827 and 1828, when Rev. Noah M. Wells, of Detroit, held occasional services in the city. A degree of interest was aroused by the efforts of Rev. Wells which resulted in the organization of an Ypsilanti church during the following year. For several years services were held in 'the old red school house" under various clergymen, but it was not until 1834 Mrs. Littlejohn is reported as being quite seriously ill. Mrs. Littlejohn is in the country with her sister, where The formal recognition of Rev. Irah The formal recognition of Rev. Irah Weed as pastor in that year marked the real beginning of the church in this city. After Rev. Weed's resignation in '47 the church was for three years allowed to struggle along its steep and rugged path without any recognized hand as a guide. In 1850, however, Rev. Cheever undertook the work, and from that time there has been nothing but steady progression. During the first few years of the church's existence in Ypsilanti the matter of a place of worsnip could receive very little attention. but as the organization increased in wealth and power in the community steps were taken in that direction which resulted in the erection of the original Presbyterian church building of Ypsilanti. That building now stands neglected and empty on a short street directly back of the Cleary college The year 1857 marks another epoch in Presbyterian history. By this time the need of more elegant and commodious quarters was universally felt, and under the efficient leadership of Rev. Foster the church members caused the erection of the edifice which was used yesterday for the last time. The structure now in the process of building will mark a great improvement over its predecessors. A considerable portion of the original edifice will be left standing, but by the alterations now taking place it will gain all the conveniences and artistic

To become enrolled one's name must be presented by someone already a member, and then satisfactory proof of eligibility must be furnished. The society numbers 1123 members, of which Detroit furnishes about a dozen and Ypsilanti two, Mrs. F. K. Owen and Miss Margaret Van Cleve. The meeting in Plymouth was a very interesting one. The hall was decorated with golden rod, cut flowers, palms and Indian corn, and presented a very beautiful appearance. The time of meeting was occupied in adopting various sets of resolutions, accepting reports of the different state committees and briefly outlining plans for the coming year. The society caused congratulations and wishes for a prosperous reign to be cabled to Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. Many of these boys long for the home care and love which can only be found in the private family, and are boys of whom no one would be ashamed. The school is besieged with applications for older boys and girls, while these younger boys, who are really the most desirable and, in time, the most appreciative of their homes, are not called for. A few applications for girls would also be acceptable but there are usually plenty of applicants for girls of all ages. All children are placed on trial sixty days, agd it is of especial interest to the school to select the right child or the home in each case.

who "matched." "He's an idea he's one too many in the world, I fancy."

The words were hardly spoken when From the hush greeting his entrance Anne knew it was Donald Sefain. She looked at him attentively.

There were unmistakable marks of vagabondism about him-his dusty clothes, churlish manner, long, untidy hair. He was of moderate height and slender build, he carried his shoulders poorly and his eyes were sunken. But for all this his dark, foreign face, sneering, secretive, defiant, was startlingly handsome as he stood in the red, wash tones of the sunset pouring through the dusty windows.

He looked at Anne with some surprise in his glance, his expression questioning; then he became indifferent, nodded curtly to the men and sat down at a corner desk. From his attitude one would have supposed he was sketching or writing. As she passed him to the door she saw his fingers were motionless, his wide open eyes introspective.

While the room contained a dozen men it was evident Donald Sefain would be left alone with his musings. He had withdrawn from the others as if from habit. Even before she had passed into the hall they seemed to have forgotten his existence.

CHAPTER III.

Three miles lay between the offices of The Citizen and the trio of rooms Anne had rented and furnished during the six weeks of her residence in New York. They were in a low, red brick house divided from the street by a patch of grass and iron palings. The neighborhood had Washington square for its nucleus, the only part of the money making town preserving the mossy tone of Knickerbocker days, where occasional low doorsteps and spindle legged banisters keep the costumes and manners of the century's infancy clear in the memory.

Anne loved the queer street, the venerable church opposite, with its unfashionable parishioners and sweet tongued bell, the amethyst light stealing across the landscape of roofs, the fret of trains flashing past in aerial passage not far off and leaving a plume of vapor behind, the passing of many people along the pavements reaching into smoky per-

These impressions were a ripening contact, helping to wake her to newer perceptions of life, making her realize that she stood unsupported in a crowded, struggling place.

She had the exhilarating sensations plunges into deep water where only his own skill can keep him afloat.

Her eyes were shining, her color high, as she hurried up the narrow stairway and entered the sitting room. An old man was standing by one of the windows and turned expectantly as she came in. It was Dr. Ericsson. He looked at her with cool, friendly scrutiny,

'I've been waiting for you again. There's something witching about you, Anne," he said helplessly. "You've quite spoiled me for solitude. Every dinner I have away from you is like sawdust.

Anne laid her arm lightly around his shoulder. She was a little the taller. There was something charmingly audacious in her young face and protecting attitude contrasted with his gray hair and sixty odd years. She had the inipetuosity and assurance of a fresh runner who fears nothing on the long, mysterious race just begun. He had the half defeated expression of one approaching with lagging steps the end and who thinks little even of the winning of that race which nevertheless must be run in one fashion or another.

"I never knew a man so eager for compliments," she said, her lips curling in playful scorn. "Shall I fib and say every meal is lonely without you? Not a bit of it. I come home so hungry, uncle, dear, and the man at the corner sends in such good chops. I put on a blouse and dream over my coffee, while Nora in the kitchen sings Irish melodies in an adorable voice and with a creamlike brogue.

She laid her finger under his chin and looked into his eyes.

"But when you do come, you dear, cynical creature, I shelve dreams gladly and don't care a pin for Nora's songs. Satisfied?"

She hurried away to change her gown, and Dr. Ericsson was left alone in the dusk. He listened in a dreamy way to the maid crossing and recrossing the rug covered floor, his arms hung by his sides, his eyes were fastened on a trail of smoke diminishing in the sunset. Thirty years before, then a young Swede newly arrived in America for a bout with fortune, he had married the sister of Anne's mother. They had settled in New York, and by degrees he became successful and rich. His wife was a beauty, his children's future bright, and life went well. But trouble came. His children, with the exception of Olga, the youngest, died during schooldays, his fortune intrusted to false friends went to help their speculations and was lost. Now, in old age, he was a physician of reputation, but poor, possessing a fashionably inclined wife, whose weekly letters from Paris, where she had elected to live when Olga's schooldays in Switzerland were over, were wearying longings for the Do you know," she said in an awed. vanished wealth. His life was spent in the depleted family mansion on Waverly place with one old servant, amid furniture masked in gray holland and portraits of his lost children blinking through gauze sheetings. Only his patients and friends had prevented him from becoming like the piano in the corner, which had almost forgotten how

> But he knew what a home might be since Anne came to New York. He was deeply fond of her, wholly in sympathy with her. His gaze wandered to a shadowy pastel on the wall before him where her deep eyes were touched by the sunset's fire. It seemed to tell him much. Hers had been a stern, starved girlhood up to the present year. After college days and between the ages of 20 and 23 she had been chained to the bedside of an invalid father, her life a strain when it was not stagnation, unused energy fretting her heart, what should have been the sunniest period of her life drifting by in shadow.

When her father died, she had found herself wholly orphaned and free to plan her future according to her tastes. She had a small income, a thorough education and the talent of being able to write with splendor and force of whatever she felt deeply. The controlled yearnings for freedom had grown into one desire, and she had gratified it. The old home was rented, and like a young David entering the camp of the Philistines she had come to New York. Three things she had determined onto live alone, work, fill her days with any sign of decency and who are many impressions of life, fling away books and study men and women.

When the maid appeared with candles, Anne followed her, a bowl of roses in her hands. The newspaper woman in severe, collared gown was gone, and in her place was an exquisite creature akin to the flowers and the starry lights. Her shoulders and arms gleamed through a gauzy black bodice. A modish knot showed the fine abundance of her hair. One rose was fastened at her bosom, where it flamed in splendid warmth.

Dr. Ericsson looked at her critically. She was more than pretty; she was imperfectly lovely, or, rather, beautiful without fulfilling conventional canons. During quiet moments her face was serene and alluring, the dark hair upon liquid brown eyes poetically thoughtful, the mouth appealing. Softness, strength and color were all there. But gest charm. When the lips smiled, the eyes lightened and the small, delicate hands, as restless as a Frenchwoman's. emphasized her words: Anne was irre-satisfy you. Nora, bring the soup," she added in a purposely practical tone as she seated herself.

They were like children together. Anne listened attentively as she led the old man on to philosophize of life as he saw it. She told him of her newspaper work, its newness, its delight, of novel she had commenced and how sometimes she rose at dead of night to make a note of an idea or a phrase, of all her faiths, dreams and prejudices. To him she was piteously youthful. To her he was old, wise and weary. He buckling on her armor. ADDITIONAL YPSILANTI

FROM DON DAVIS.

A Former Ypsilanti Boy Writes from Puerto Rico.

San German, P. R., Sept. 6, '98. James H. Davis, Ypsilanti, Mich.:

Dear Undeared Auntie: Well, they have moved me again, and this time to an office that is not so good as the one at Las Marias. The people I am now with are Spanish, of course, and are supposed to be of a higher class of people than we generally find in Porto Rico, but are no higher in their mode of living than the lowest negro family in

The children run around naked until about 6 years old, and then only a pair of trousers or a skirt cover them. At table they eat like pigs in a trough, trying to see who can eat the most and finish first. They sound a good deal more like pigs than human beings. A dirty piece of oil cloth on the table is very artistic, and the eatables are dumped on your plate with a big tin dipper, and the boss of the house takes a loaf of bread in his hand, breaks off a chunk and passes it to you or throws it through the air for you to catch.

After eating your meal you have a drink of Puerto Rico coffee, as strong as rum and as black as a stove. After you take a few swallows of the "hot stuff" you light a cigar and puff away on that a little while and then drink the rest of your coffee and then "chew the rag" for the rest of the smoke.

I have been in many houses here and as yet have been unable to find any signs of a carpet or any matting on a floor.

At night the house is shut up like a barn, no glass windows but high wooden shutters that lock with a large iron hook about a foot long. Very few beds are in use as cots take their places. Very few shoes are worn except in very rich families and among the extremely poor, who wear cast-off footgear.

The island is thickly populated and many live on the fruits, although there is very rich soil in the valleys and on the mountain sides. Most of this land is owned by Spanish subjects or Frenchmen, who are the only people who show of them of a very thrifty nature.

There are a few short strips of narrow guage railroads owned by different Frenchmen, and between these it is necessary in a great many cases to ride horseback, the roads being too narrow to admit of the passage of carriages .

Last Saturday I rode from Las Marias on horseback with a mule as my pack train, and a very hard ride I had of it. My mule was so stubborn that I could not make him follow my steed, and he would turn every corner or tranch of the passage he came to and I would have to run to get him back on the right road again. When I was about half way to Mayaguey I met a native by the roadside who asked to ride the the pale brow like banded velvet, the pack mule. I let him mount and after that got along without any bother.

The mayor called the common council to order at 8 o'clock Monday. Ald. Huston was the only absent member. The council sanctioned the mayor's appointment of E. L. Erity as deputy marshall and of Samuel Graham as poundmaster for the second district.

A number of property owners in that vicinity petitioned the council to cause a walk to be built on Cross st. from the Normal training school to the terminus of the Normal boundary on the west. The petition was granted and the city clerk was directed to notify the superintendent of buildings and grounds at the Normal in regard to the action of the council.

The board of public works recommended that the large well at the pumping station be cleaned out. The council voted that the recommendation of the board be acted upon.

The D., Y. & A. A. road asked approval of a map showing a proposed 'Y" track at the corner of Congress and Washington sts. and a passing track on Washington st. The matter was referred to the committee on walks to be reported at the next meeting.

The council authorized the payment of the usual bills. It was decided that the city was responsible for tree trimming and not the wards, as had been held. The wards were directed to be reimbursed from the contingent fund for all such outlays.

The committee appointed to look up the matter of water meters recommended that 25 be purchased and put in at the discretion of the board of public works. The council authorized the purchase of the meters recommended by the committee.

The street commisisoner reported that in the First ward there were 29 sidewalks to be repaired and 18 to be built new; in the Fourth 18 to be repaired and 6 to be built new, and in the Fifth ward 34 to be repaired and 21 to be rebuilt. DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM Adopted at the Democratic State Convention Held at Grand Rapids, June 22, 1898.

"The Democracy of Michigan in state convention assembled hereby reaffirms its loyalty and devotion to the platform adopted at Chicago in

THE WAR WITH SPAIN.

"We favor a vigorous prosecution of the war with Spain, which was begun and is being waged in the interests of humanity, and for the extension of political freedom. We urge the most liberal supply of modern arms to our soldiers, and the utmost energy in their equipment. We de clare our conviction that there should be no cessation of effort until every righteous purpose shall have been achieved.

"We congratulate the nation upon the skill and valor of its defenders and the prompt and effective response to the call for troops; especially do we feel just pride in the high character and earnestness of the brave men of Michigan who in the volunteer service have reflected such credit upon our commonwealth.

EQUALITY IN TAXATION.

"We are in favor of equality in taxation. We insist that corporations and accumulated wealth should pay their just share of the burden of taxation. UNEQUALLED RECORD OF ECONOMY AND REFORM.

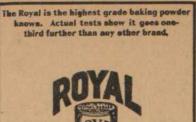

"We call attention to the fact that when the Democratic party came into power in this state in 1891, for the first time in many years, it promptly inaugurated measures looking to the count and just tayation of railroad equal and just taxation of railroad and other corporations. It passed a law compelling railroads to carry passengers at two cents per mile, which has been sustained by the Supreme Court of the state; it established a franchise fee for corporations, which has produced large revenues; it restricted the right of consolidation of competing railroads; it inaugurated the first Australian ballot law ever enact ed in the state, designed to prevent the coercion of the votes of workingmen coercion of the votes of workingmen by corporate agents; it enacted the first practical and effective law for the protection of mechanics' liens; it re-pealed the law which practically ex-empted mining companies from taxa-tion, and compelled them to pay their just share of taxes. It introduced business methods in all branches of the state government by which the people were better served at much less expense than any prior or subsequent expense than any prior or subsequent administration.

TAXATION AND CORPORATIONS.

"We promise a continuance of this work. We believe and confidently as sert that the record of the Republican party in this state precludes its supparty in this state precludes its support of any measures not satisfactory to the combinations of capital which have been the chief development of its policy. We demand the passage of state laws which shall keep the control of corporate action at all times in the hands of the people and place a limit to permissible extortion by fixing a maximum charge for freight and passenger service, and compel recognition of the public rights by the holder of every franchise. We demand a strict supervision of telegraph, telephone, express and other corporations using similar privileges, that their charges for service shall be held within reasonable limits for service shall be held within reasonable limits, and the rights of patrons vigorously protected.

REPUBLICANISM ARRAIGNED.

"We condemn the Republican party of Michigan for its machine methods and its subserviency to corporate wealth, by which, in the last Legisla ture, it controlled the state senate and through which it boasted that in the future all attempts to equalize taxes or impose just burdens upon corpora tions shall be defeated; we appeal to the people of the state to select a Democratic Legislature in both branches and thus guarantee reforms on those important questions.
