VOL. XIII. NO. 4.

ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JANUARY 27, 1887.

WHOLE NO. 631.

THE REGENTS REQUESTS.

WHAT THEY NEED FOR 1887-88.

Synopsis of the Memorial of the Board of Regents of the University to the Legislature.

From the memorial of the Board of Regents to the Legislature, we take the following items which are of great interest to every intelligent Michigan reader. Not one of all these requests will seem to be unreasonable to any one who gives the matter careful consideration. No other great University is carried on at so small an expense in proportion to its number of students and to the work it accomplishes. Cornell University, with about half as many students, expends annually about $246,000. Yale College, with 500 less students, expends about $225,000; and Harvard, with about a hundred more, spends $500,000; while Michigan University, with an attendance ranging from 1,400 to 1,550, expends about $172,000.

Needed renewals of certain appropriations are as follows:

	1887.	1888.
Dental College, current expenses.....	$8,000	$8,000
University Hospital, current expenses.....	5,000	5,000
Homoeopathic College and Hospital.....	6,250	6,250

(The Homoeopathic Medical College also receives $6,000 a year in accordance with the act of 1875.) The sums above named were appropriated in 1885.

The sum of $5,000 is needed for repairs of buildings. There are twelve large buildings, most of them very large, to care for. Their appraised value is $428,500. The timely appropriation of $22,000 made by the last legislature, has enabled the board to do very much to rescue them from the dilapidated condition into which in the strained condition of the treasury they had been suffered to fall. Five thousand dollars a year are needed to keep them in good repairs.

The appropriation of $5,000 a year made by the last legislature for contingent expenses, afforded most welcome help, and it is asked that the appropriation be renewed.

The board says: "We are absolutely dependent on your appropriations for any regular increase to our libraries. We have no library fund whatever. We have no means of buying a volume for the general library, the law library, the medical library, the chemical library, or the astronomical library, unless you grant us aid. We believe statistics show that no other library in the country is so much used as our general library. We think that it is a moderate request which we make for the growth of our libraries, when we ask for an appropriation of $7,500 a year. The number of departments of thought to be supplied is so great that with this sum any one of them, as for example, natural history or geology or history can have hardly more than a hundred dollars set apart to it. The library must always be the source of intellectual light in the University. Now the whole state is interested in building up one large library within its borders, where special investigators can find the works they need to consult.

Two years ago Randolph Rogers, the eminent sculptor from Michigan, announced his intention of sending to the University the original casts of his works. About half of them, numbering fifty-three statues and groups, have been received and placed in our sculpture gallery. With these additions, our gallery has a larger and finer collection of sculpture than that of any other university, and one-half of the Rogers collection is still to come. When the last legislature was in session, we were unable to make any accurate calculation of what the cost of packing and transportation of the Rogers casts would be. The sum of $2,500 was appropriated for meeting the expense. It proves that the cost of packing so frail articles as plaster casts, and of transporting them, and of repairing the damage unavoidable on the long journey by sea and land, exceeded our expectation. The University has paid, in addition to the $2,500 appropriated, the sum of $1,973.01, as appears by proper vouchers. The estimated value in Rome of the entire Rogers collection was about $200,000.

Soon after the gift of the Rogers collection was announced, the Chinese government generously presented the University with the Chinese exhibit, which they had sent to New Orleans exposition. The exhibit, which attracted much attention at New Orleans, was prepared especially to show Chinese methods of manufacturing cotton, but contains in addition to manufactured products of cotton, fabrics of silk, embroideries, porcelains, and a great variety of articles of clothing, and is of unique value, as illustrating Chinese industries and life. We have deemed it proper and necessary to set apart a special room for it in our museum, and to prepare suitable cases for it. It fills the whole of a very large room. The cost of transporting the collection from New Orleans and of making the cases has been $1,792.92, which has been paid out of the general fund. We trust that you will be willing to make good to us these drafts on our treasury, which the generosity of our benefactors has made necessary, namely, to meet the expense of transporting and placing the Chinese exhibit, $1,792.93.

A small subterranean vault for the storage of dangerously combustible and explosive chemicals should be attached to the chemical laboratory. One can be constructed for $400.

We desire to ask for an appropriation of $2,000 a year for the purchase of apparatus to illustrate the teaching in physics or natural philosophy.

The dental college has outgrown its accommodations, and some enlargement of its building is absolutely necessary, unless the faculty are to refuse admission to students. They have aimed to keep down the number by raising the standard of admission and by lengthening the course. But the reputation of the school has become so high—its diplomas with those of only one other American dental school being recognized in England—that the number of students is now nearly 100, and will soon be more than 100. We need not say how great is the advantage to the public of having thoroughly trained dentists to serve them. We estimate that the sum of $5,000 is needed for the enlargement of the dental college and the equipment.

The last legislature gave us the means for erecting an engineering laboratory, containing workshops for mechanical processes, but provided an inadequate sum for its proper equipment. The building was immediately on its completion filled with students, chiefly those training themselves to become mechanical engineers. We now need a small addition for a forge shop and a foundry, a new steam engine to drive the machinery and a considerable addition to our equipment, especially for iron-work and for testing boilers, engines, and machines of various kinds. Our students who, as mechanical, civil, or mining engineers, are to take charge of mechanics, find this training in the shops of great service to them. To furnish the needed accommodations for them we think we ought to ask for a small building for forge and foundry rooms, $3,500; for equipment of the same $750, and for machinery (including a steam engine) $6,750, making a total sum of $11,000.

We need certain scientific laboratories. More and more science is taught by laboratory methods, in which the student himself experiments and manipulates, instead of merely listening to lectures. These methods, which have long been employed in teaching chemistry, are just as helpful in other sciences.

They also state that they need larger rooms for microscopical and histological laboratory; suitable rooms for the physiological laboratory, and a laboratory for teaching physics or natural philosophy.

The regents say further: "Prominent citizens of the state and the state board of health have requested us to establish a hygienic laboratory, in which investigations can be made, which will conduce to the preservation of public health. European cities and states have found it wise economy to sustain such laboratories, in which adulterations of articles of food, impurities of water and soil, etc., can be ascertained at small cost. The scientific study of the best sanitary conditions can be there pursued and the results can be made public. The state board of health in a memorial set forth the advantages which would accrue to the state from the organization and maintenance of such a laboratory. Should you decide to charge us with the conduct of a hygienic laboratory, we would faithfully use the means you might provide so as to secure the largest benefits to the public.

We think that these four laboratories might be placed under one roof, and that the plan of providing for them in one building would insure economy in construction and in administration. We believe that a suitable "Science Hall" for the four with necessary equipment for the present can be secured for about $75,000. We therefore venture to suggest that sum, to be appropriated as follows, $40,000 in 1887 and $35,000 in 1888. Should this joint laboratory be erected, a new boiler house with a stock of say four boilers will be necessary to furnish power and heat, to that and the other contiguous buildings."

* * * We estimate the cost of a boiler house, chimney, boilers and steam heating connections at $15,000.

Owing to the increase in our number of students and to the probability, amounting to a certainty, of a still larger attendance next year, an increase in our teaching force will be imperatively necessary. If these enlarged laboratories are established, especially the hygienic laboratory, some considerable additional assistance will be required. It is now urgently required in our engineering laboratory, in teaching modern languages, in mathematics and in elocution. We should be gratified and should feel that we were in a condition to do better justice to our crowded classes, if you could grant us $5,000 a year for additional teaching force and salaries.

Since the announcement of the gift of the Rogers collection of statuary and of the bequest of the Lewis collection of pictures (more than 700 in number) there have been frequent recognitions in the public press of the obvious necessity of a building for an art museum. Doubtless one will be required for the proper placing, display and preservation of our growing art collections. The plans for such a structure should be carefully considered. We have deemed it judicious to ask you to appropriate the sum of $2,000 to enable us to procure plans, estimates and specifications for an art museum to be erected at some future time.

To provide for the class of permanent needs of the University, needs which successive legislatures have recognized as practically permanent by supplying them through biennial appropriations, the regents suggest increasing the one-twentieth of a mill tax to a tax of one-tenth of a mill rather than by specific biennial appropriation.

They say, "the state of Wisconsin levies for the support of its university, a tax of one-eighth mill, a rate twice and a half as great as ours. If there is any fear that the University, thus aided, will become independent of the legislature which has helped it, we reply, first, that the statute is subject to repeal at any time; secondly, with the present prospective growth of the University it seems certain that it will have always to ask for some assistance at the hands of the legislature; and, thirdly, as every dollar of our expenditures is accounted for to the Auditor General, our financial management is always under the close inspection of the state, by whatever method the state raises our funds.

The increase of the tax from one-twentieth to one-tenth of a mill would yield us an additional income of $47,200. The amount now regularly appropriated to the homoeopathic college and hospital (by the act of 1875 and by special appropriations) to the dental college, and to the University hospital, added to what we are now asking for repairs, contingent expenses, books and additional teaching force and salaries, is $47,700. Our suggestion is that you give us the proceeds of the one-tenth mill tax, increasing our income from that source by $47,200, and drop these items altogether from the specific appropriations for 1888 and thereafter, and repeal the homoeopathic act of 1875. It would be necessary to provide for the above by specific appropriations for 1887, as the increase of the tax would not be available until 1888."

If the one twentieth mill tax is increased to one-tenth mill the regents request would be as follows:

1. Amendment to the act of 1875 by substituting one-tenth mill for one-twentieth.

2. Repeal of the act of 1875, which grants $6,000 a year to the homoeopathic medical college.

3. Appropriations as follows:

FOR 1887.
Repairs.....	$ 5,000.00
Contingent Expenses.....	5,000.00
Books for Libraries.....	7,500.00
Homoeopathic College.....	10,250.00
Homoeopathic Hospital.....	2,000.00
University Hospital.....	5,000.00
Dental College.....	8,000.00
Transportation and placing Rogers Collection.....	1,973.01
Transportation and placing Chinese Exhibit.....	1,792.93
Vault for Chemicals and Apparatus.....	2,000.00
Apparatus—Natural Philosophy.....	2,000.00
Enlargement of Dental College and Equipment.....	5,000.00
Forge and Foundry rooms and Equipment.....	4,250.00
Machinery for Engineering Laboratory.....	6,750.00
Scientific Laboratories and Equipment.....	40,000.00
Boiler House and Steam Heating Connections.....	15,000.00
Additional Salaries and teaching force.....	5,000.00
Plans for Art Museum.....	2,000.00
	$126,865.94

FOR 1888.
For Apparatus in Natural Philosophy.....	$ 2,000.00
For Scientific Laboratories and Equipment.....	35,000.00
	$ 37,000.00

Total for two years.....$163,865.94

If the tax is not increased and the homoeopathic act above named remains in force, the sums asked are: Appropriations for 1887 $120,865.94; for 1888, $78,700. Total $199,565.94. Add the permanent homoeopathic appropriation $6,000 a year, $12,000, and it leaves the sum total $211,565.94. In the first case, on receiving $47,200 from the increased tax, they drop off requests for $47,700 of specific appropriations and surrender the general homoeopathic appropriation of $6,000 a year.

UNIVERSITY ITEMS.

R. E. Evans, '86, will take unto himself a wife, at Pittsburg today.

Nobycski H. Shrifji, medic '87, is completing his medical studies at Edinburgh University.

D. B. Gahn has been elected business manager of the Oracle, vice W. R. Antisdell, resigned.

Students living around the campus complain that the one solitary mail box is entirely too small.

The regular election of editors of the Argonaut will be held Saturday, in Room A, at nine o'clock.

Mr. Hazeltine, superintendent T. H. Co., addressed the engineering society, Saturday evening, on electricity.

After a long and remarkable struggle, the senior laws have finally elected a class orator, in the person of W. W. Davis.

Prof. C. N. Jones and Prof. W. W. Beman have taken the advance classes in mathematics, and Prof. John Schaberle the lower grade.

Prof. Winchell will read a paper before the Philosophical society, in room 24, this evening, on the "Speculative Consequences of Evolution."

Those interested in the formation of a society of natural history are requested to meet in room 17, at seven o'clock, standard time, Friday evening.

The Argonaut, in its last issue, suggests that the class of '87, present the University with either a picture or a monument of the late Professor Olney.

O. W. Aldrich, recently a professor of law in the Wesleyan University, and who is now chairman of the examining committee at Columbus, Ohio, was a visitor of the law department during Prof. Hutchins' lecture last week.

"Kirmess" will be presented at the opera house, under the auspices of the Ladies' Library Association, and under the directorship of Prof. de Pont, during the last week in April. The "Kirmess" is a series of dances, representing the "flings" of all nations.

Professor Rogers is whetting the intellects of the senior laws with quizzes on "Wills and the administration of estates" and honing them to a keen edge with quizzes on "Indermaur's leading cases." Professor Griffin is making them dance lively to the tune of evidence.

Students of the State University were more numerous represented than any other class of citizens on the legislative petitions asking that the age of consent be raised to eighteen years. When it comes to little dangers of that kind, the average college student can see just as far and just hard as anybody.—Lansing Republican.

The first catalogue of Yale University, formerly quite well known as Yale College, has just been issued, which gives the number of the faculty and instructors at 120, and the students in all departments, 1,134. Of the latter 56 are graduate students; 570 are in Yale college; 270 in Sheffield scientific school; 44 in the art school; 108 in the divinity school; 27 in the medical school, and 79 in the law school. The catalogue contains in all 213 well printed pages.

Programme at Adelphi hall, Friday evening, January 29: Declamation, Miss G. Scrafford; oration, G. S. Williams; essay, Mrs. M. McDonald; violin solo, Mrs. Brigham; debate, Resolved, that private property in land be abolished, H. Remington, affirmative and L. S. Young, negative; half hour's talk by Prof. Dewey; piano solo, Miss Falconer.

Prof. John Dewey's new book on psychology received a very flattering notice in the last issue of Harper's monthly. The article says: "His definitions and mode of treatment are clear and forcible, his conclusions are philosophical and logical, and his work cannot fail to be of great assistance to all students of the phenomena of mind."

It has already been intimated that the Hon. W. W. Murphy, formerly U. S. consul at Frankfurt on the Main, at his death last summer, bequeathed a number of old and valuable books to the library. These have been delivered to the University authorities by Mrs. Murphy and are now in the library. There are in all 154 volumes, and a few unbound pamphlets. To describe the collection properly will require no little examination of bibliographical aids. A casual inspection, however, shows that it is of great interest and value. There are original editions of a few famous old works; a number of fine specimens of early printing, and half a dozen, or more volumes of early maps. As soon as possible the whole will be catalogued, with such bibliographical aid as may seem to be of importance.

For Sale.—Drug store and fine residence; store, 20x60; cost $1600; residence, Gothic, cost $3,300; lot, barn fence etc., cost $1,500; total, $6,400. Good trade; health failing; must go south. Will sell the whole for $3,500, $2,000 cash, balance at 7 per cent. Will sell stock and fixtures to same party at 10 per cent. less cost. Will not sell stock unless real estate is sold. Only drug store in town. Population 1000. Best chance in the state.

Now is the Time to see the Niagara in all the beauty of its winter garb, environed by marvelous and fantastic forms of ice and snow.

Gigantic icicles from on the overhanging rocks and reach from summit to base of the tall precipices. The ice-bridge generally extends from the Horse shoe Fall to a point near the railroad bridge, lasts generally from two to three months, and is crossed by hundreds of foot passengers during the winter. The ice forming the bridge is ordinarily from one hundred to one hundred and fifty feet thick—rising from fifty to sixty feet above the natural surface of the river. The tinge of the waters from the dark green of summer is sometimes changed to yellow; the trees on Goat Island and Prospect Park, sheathed in a glittering mail of ice, formed and added to by the incessantly rising spray, seem partially buried; a mass of quaint and curious crystalline forms stand in lieu of the bushes; the buildings seem to sink under ponderous coverings of snow and ice; the tops of the trees and points of rock, on which the dazzling white frost does not lie, stand out in bold contrast, forming the deep shadows of the entrancing picture. The whole presents a wild, savage aspect, grand and imposing beyond adequate description.

If one can see Niagara but once, it had better be in winter than in summer. The scene is one of peerless grandeur, worth going hundreds of miles to see, and daily excites the enthusiastic delight of the MICHIGAN CENTRAL passengers, who gaze enraptured upon it from the magnificent standpoint of Falls View, above and almost on the brink of the Horse Shoe Falls.

From this point, says Peck's Sun, editorially, "the MICHIGAN CENTRAL gives its passengers the most beautiful view to be seen on this earth. There may be more beautiful views on some other earth, but no railroad runs there yet."

OUR LANSING LETTER.

To the Editor:

The two houses resumed business Monday evening, the senate at 9 and the house at 9:15, after enjoying what has become the regulation Saturday and Monday recess.

Among the more important business of the senate during the past week was the introduction of a bill by Mr. Barton to appropriate money for the support and improvement of the state public school at Coldwater.

In the house, Representative Dillon introduced a bill to stamp all prison made goods. Mr. Grinnell gave notice of a bill to amend the law relating to the inspection of illuminating oils.

The question of raising the age of consent of females has engaged considerable attention since the commencement of the session. Prominent ladies of the state, working through the W. C. T. U., have had petitions in circulation for some time asking that the age be raised to 18 years.

It is likely that Representative Hosford's bill providing that railroad corporations shall restore to the public domain all unsold lands granted them by the government, after ten years, will create something of a stir.

It is expected that Gov. Luce will send a special message to the house recommending that an appropriation be made to enable the state to take her proper place in the centennial celebration of the signing of the ordinance of 1787.

Wednesday afternoon, the 19th, in the house the report of the special committee upon the death of Hon. Ovid N. Case, of Wayne, became the special order.

Oleomargarine is liable to become law. It provides that not only signs bearing the words, "Oleomargarine Sold Here," or "Butterine Sold Here," as the case may be, shall be placed conspicuously over the doorway and in the centre of rooms where these articles are sold, but also provides that similar signs bearing the words, "Oleomargarine Used Here," "Butterine Used Here," etc., shall be hung in the centre of dining rooms of hotels and boarding houses where these "counterfeit presentments" are supplied.

At a meeting of the prohibition state central committee in this city last week the proposed constitutional amendment was thoroughly discussed, and decision reached by that they would accept the situation, and in the event of the passage of the resolution do all in their power to insure the success of the amendment at the polls.

The bill noticed in the house by Representative Ogg to abolish prison contracts is the natural outcome of the constant agitation which that matter has been receiving for the past few years.

LABOR COMMISSIONER POND, who is interested in the success of the bill, will do all he can to secure its passage and the signature of the governor.

Representative Manly's School Bill.

To regulate the uniformity of text books in public schools throughout the state and the distribution of the same, and to repeal all statutes and acts contravening the provisions of this act.

Section 1. The People of the State of Michigan enact, That the state board of education shall specify the studies to be pursued in the public schools of the state. Provisions shall be made for instructing all pupils in every school in physiology and hygiene with special reference to the effect of alcoholic drinks, stimulants and narcotics generally upon the human system.

Section 2. In the adoption of text books the state board of education shall be governed by the following rules: First. No change shall be made at any other time than in the months of May and June of the year 1888, or during the months of May or June at the expiration of each and every five years thereafter.

Second. Within ninety days after the passage of this act and each and every five years thereafter, the secretary of the state board of education shall cause a notice to be published for thirty consecutive days in three of the leading daily newspapers of the state that said board are ready to receive sealed bids for any text books or set of school text books.

Third. The time and place specified in said notice the board shall meet and publicly open and read all the bids or proposals which have been received by them and shall make their awards thereon within thirty days thereafter.

Fourth. All bids or proposals must be accompanied by sample copies of the book or books proposed to be furnished, together with a statement of the wholesale price at which the publisher or publishers agree to furnish such book or books to each school district in the state.

Fifth. The publisher or publishers whose proposals shall be accepted shall enter into a written contract with the state board of education and shall give a good and sufficient bond in a reasonable sum to be fixed and approved by the state board of education for the faithful performance thereof.

Sixth. Immediately after the adoption of such text books, the president of said state board of education shall notify the president of each school board of the various school districts in the state by circular, informing them of the studies and text books adopted by said board, when and where said books can be obtained and price to be paid.

Seventh. If no satisfactory bids or proposals are received then the said board shall immediately procure the drafting and compiling of a full and complete set of text books and cause them to be printed and bound as is other state printing, the books to be furnished to the school boards of the cities, villages and townships of the state at net cost under such rules as the state board of education may direct.

A New Serial Novel

By Sidney Luska, entitled "The Yoke of the Thorax," will begin in the Detroit Evening Journal, Jan. 29, and run seven weeks. This is no ordinary love tale of an orthodox Jew and a Christian maiden, but it has all the sweetness and charm, and exquisite beauty of the love stories in Mr. Luska's previous novels.

LITERARY NOTES.

In the Popular Science Monthly for February, Professor William James, of Harvard College, occupies the first place with a most readable paper on "The Laws of Habit." The article gives a clear explanation, on physiological grounds, of the way in which habits come to involve all the functions of the organism, growing with its growth, and hardening into permanency as it matures, and commends itself to the attention of youth and of those who have the care of the young.

The second (February) number of Scribner's Magazine opens with an article of general and scholarly interest, entitled, "The Likeness of Julius Caesar," by Mr. John C. Ropes, the well-known writer of military history, which is superbly illustrated with eighteen portraits, reproductions of photographs from statues.

The second instalment of ex-Minister Washburn's "Reminiscences of the Siege and Commune of Paris," is even more interesting than was the first, inasmuch as it deals with the most exciting incidents of the siege, the illustrations to the article are abundant, spirited, and of high artistic value.

An article which will arouse unusual interest and discussion is that of Prof. J. R. Soley, of the navy, who writes on "Our Naval Policy" in an extremely forcible and interesting manner. In reviewing our national resources it forms an admirable companion to Capt. Greene's article on "Our Defenseless Coasts," in the January number, and is equally certain to attract wide attention.

James Parton is to have an article in the Forum for February, on "Outgrown City Government," showing the inevitable mischief of political methods in municipal affairs, and advocating the necessity of a strong centralized administration, with ample powers and a long term of office.

One of the remarkable things in the February Harper's is the masterly handling of the subject of short stories by the greatest living American novelist, W. D. Howells fills his department, the "Editor's Study," with a consideration of the art of writing short stories, the reasons of its marvellous recent development, and why Americans excel in that branch of literature.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances."

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work.

An Account of Social Stock.

Take a rapid account of social stock in New York city. Blackwell's Island, two miles long, ninety acres in extent, studded from end to end with the epileptic, paralytic, maternity and charity hospitals, the New York penitentiary sprawling from shore to shore; the almshouse, the workhouse, and the women's lunatic asylum, and its growing population of more than 7,000.

A Queer Superstition. Perhaps the strangest fact that any man has in this town is that of a cashier in a downtown bank, who every night at 10 o'clock walks up Fifth avenue to Forty-third street for the purpose of seeing whether or not a certain millionaire's front door has craped this night journey.

An Author's Confession. Julian Hawthorne now confesses: "Almost everything that I have written has been from necessity, and there is very little of it that I shall not be glad to see forgotten."

A Sure Cure. A correspondent wants to know what is the best cure for insomnia. His gentleman tried going for several nights without sleep.

Don't Take His Own Medicine. The man who lectures on the benefits of physical exercise takes the elevator when he might climb a flight of stairs.

The Rev. R. Heber Newton thinks that no preacher ever sounded the depths of humanity as the great poets and dramatists have done.

The man who will break one of God's commandments habitually and continually, if you will turn him loose, will break them all.

The owner of an eye which is off the straight line would rather tell a pleasant untruth than be the bearer of harsh tidings.

Dear Sirs:—I bought a fifty cent bottle of Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer of Dr. Root, and it cured me of a severe cough. It is the best medicine for a cough I ever saw.

Another great discovery of diamonds in Kentucky. A man got five of them on the first deal.

The life of the book-agent is full of wormwood and gall. The wormwood is barely perceptible.

Ich of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. This never fails. Sold by H. J. Brown, druggist, Ann Arbor, Mich; Synck & Co., Manchester, Mich. 656.

"Pa, have you got the hydrophobia?" "No, Bertie, what makes you ask that question?" "Well, I heard ma say today that you got awfully bitten when you thought she had a fortune in her own name."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil.

Where the digestive powers are feeble and the ordinary food does not seem to nourish the child, this acts both as food and medicine, giving strength and flesh at once, and is almost as palatable as milk. Take no other.

"For what is it that my sad soul yearns?" asks a poetess. We don't know, dear, unless it is for the editor to send you a check instead of the little note "Returned with thanks."

An intelligent person when hurt will at once procure a bottle of Salvation Oil. It is the best thing to cure swellings, burns, or wounds. All druggists sell it at twenty-five cents a bottle.

A Massachusetts woman recently lost the use of her jaw and the doctors say that she has worn out the muscle that acts as a hinge. We somehow wonder how this does not occur oftener.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup should be kept in every family. A slight cold, if unchecked, is often the forerunner of consumption. One dose of this wonderful medicine has rescued many from the grave.

"Why do the heathen rage?" asks a religious paper. If they got a larger percentage of the money collected for them perhaps they wouldn't rage so much. We merely offer this as a suggestion.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve. The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillsbains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Eberbach & Son.

"Indeed, it happened in less time than I take to tell it," said the lady who was considered somewhat of a bore. "O, I haven't the least doubt of that," replied her patient and truthful listener.

TO THE LADIES!

If you are afflicted with rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous exhaustion, dyspepsia, or with diseases of the liver, kidneys, headache, cold feet, swollen or weak ankles, or swollen feet, an Abdominal Belt and a pair of Magnetic Foot Batteries have no superior in the relief and cure of all these complaints.

Professor—What do you know about the Appennines? Student—Happy nines? They are in Chicago. They got away with the pennant three successive seasons. You bet they are a happy nine. I'm glad to see you taking such an interest in baseball, professor.

Faith is sometimes repented by the figure of a drenched female clinging to a sea-washed rock; but a better personification would be a bald-headed man buying a bottle of patent hair-restorer.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 27, 1887.

The Detroit Tribune published a valuable and well-compiled article Sunday morning on the manufactures of that city during the year 1886.

DETROIT TRIBUNE, Jan. 24: "Stockbridge, Ingham county, has a remarkable record. It has never had an inmate of the county house."

We would like to have the Tribune preach a sermon from the above text.

SENATOR INGALLS walks around with a chip on his shoulder and steps on the tail of the British lion—all in one act.

The prohibition amendment does not slide through the Senate at Lansing as easily as in the House.

Press reports are to the effect that the state central committee of the prohibition party have decided upon February 24 as the date of the state convention.

That antiquated fossil over on the other side of the court house square, has turned over again and showed a little sign of life.

It hath pleased our Heavenly Father, in His all-wise providence, to call home from the midst of his labors, our friend and teacher, Dr. Edward Olney.

Professor Olney.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Ann Arbor temperance union, at the Sunday afternoon meeting, January 23.

and the number of new subscribers recently received by the young and vigorous REGISTER, with nearly three times the list of the melancholy "old" sheet over the way.

Musical Interests.

The Chronicle in its last issue takes the student community to task for an apparent carelessness in the interests of the musical society and its concerts.

Six or eight years ago the concerts offered by the lecture association were very largely attended, and such an entertainment as given by the Schubert club, was not only loudly applauded, but a subject of much pleasure and conversation for some time after.

What are we going to do! Mr. Cady you have ruined us, we neither like "popular" concerts nor "classical" concerts; we have evidently reached the period commonly known as between hay and grass, and are apparently bound to be dissatisfied.

Expressions of Sympathy.

The members of the students christian association and literary classes of the University met and adopted the following "expressions of sympathy" instead of the resolutions on such occasions, relative to the decease of their loved teacher, Professor Olney:

Our Heavenly Father, in his infinite wisdom, hath called home our brother and counselor, Dr. Edward Olney.

We bow submissive to Divine Will, although we miss the inspiration of his presence, his spirit and influence are ever with us to lead us on to higher faith and action.

To the bereaved family and friends we extend Christian sympathy, and commend the consolation and blessing of the Holy Spirit that was ever the strength and guiding star of him they mourn.

Jan. 21, '87.

LITERARY CLASSES '87, '88, '89, '90.

It hath pleased our Heavenly Father, in His all-wise providence, to call home from the midst of his labors, our friend and teacher, Dr. Edward Olney.

We bow submissive to Divine Will, while we recognize that the University has lost one of its brightest lights and we as students a warm personal friend and noble Christian worker.

We mourn the loss of his helpful counsel and his encouraging presence, yet his example lives in our memory and serves as an inspiration to our loss.

To the bereaved family we extend our sympathy and commend them to the care of Him "whose loving kindness is over all."

Jan. 22, '87. JOINT COMMITTEE

The Alpine Choir.

Mr. Gladstone, the Premier, who is now in excellent health, yesterday afternoon received, at Hawarden, Herr Andre's Alpine Choir, who are fulfilling an engagement at Chester.

Miss Helen Potter.

Welch Post, No. 137, G. A. R., have arranged with Miss Helen Potter, and the University Glee Club, for an entertainment, to be given at the Grand Opera House on the evening of Friday, February 4th, the proceeds of which are to go into the "Relief Fund" of the Post, which stands greatly in need of replenishing.

JOE T. JACOBS, CONRAD NOLL, H. S. DEAN, Relief Committee.

The New Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin Co.

No doubt our readers will hail with delight the announcement of the appearance of the above company, at the opera house next Monday night.

Toledo Evening Bee: "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the many attractive features connected with it as presented at this cozy place of amusement, continue to delight hundreds who crowd to see it.

Syracuse Standard: "Uncle Tom's Cabin" looked something like a new piece in its elaborate dress at Grand opera house last night. The New Ideal combination which appeared in it gave it the benefit of uncommonly good talent and the various features were very acceptable.

Syracuse Courier: "The New Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin company presented the ever popular drama 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' at the Grand last night. We can safely say that the presentation of this sterling drama was the best ever made in this city.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union

The W. C. T. U., of the world, are circulating the following petition, addressed to the honored rulers, representatives and brothers, of the different governments of the world: We, your petitioners, although physically weak, are strong of heart to love our homes, our native land, and the world's family of nations.

Died.

MILLER.—At his late residence, on N. Fourth-st, Saturday, Christian Miller, aged 82 years. The funeral was held at the residence on Tuesday.

High School Notes.

Essays from the second year class are due next Monday.

Half of the term has expired, and all tuition is now due.

Mr. Rhodes will meet his classes in his own room, on the second floor, after this week.

Boys caught smoking on the grounds during session hours are liable to suspension.

A few more hat hooks have been put up in the dressing rooms, but there is still room for more.

The examination in local physical geography, which was to have taken place today, was held on Wednesday.

All are invited to attend the lyceum to-morrow evening, at half past six. The subject for debate, "Resolved, that a woman has the right of suffrage."

Mr. William Alexander has invited a select party from the High School, to be present at a dance at his home, six miles west of the city, tomorrow evening.

One of the teachers went on a sleigh ride, Friday, and did not make an appearance at the first two recitations on Monday morning. A very unfortunate thaw took place on Saturday.

A fashion item says: "Bonnets will not be worn as high this year as last." If this be true, all this talk about "elevating the stage" may as well be dropped. With less lofty bonnets, the stage is high enough.

COUNTY NEWS.

The Pentecost band have commenced a series of meetings at Mooreville.

Wm. T. Ford, editor of Bradstreet's journal, was once a Dundee boy.

Dundee is to have a new homoeopathic physician, A. H. Bruce, of Victory, N. Y.

Prof. Winchell will lecture in Dexter, Feb. 4th, on "The Life Time of a World."

A Sunday school institute was held in the Baptist church, at Manchester last Sunday.

"Out on the Street" will soon be produced in Dexter by members of the high school.

The Lutherans of Manchester are trying to raise $500 to purchase a bell for their church.

The residence of Israel Vogel, of Chelsea, was damaged by fire to the amount of $100 last Saturday evening.

R. H. Scaddin, of Webster, has the chair of penmanship and book-keeping in the college school, at Benzonia, Mich.

Mr. Bayles, proprietor of the Milan stove mill had a rib broken in the derailing of a car, near Pittsfield, Saturday.

A former resident of Manchester, named Leedom, has won quite a reputation in Florida, as a general all-round athlete.

Last Thursday evening the friends of Lewis Frier, of Chelsea, gathered at his residence to celebrate his 68th birthday.

Died, at the residence of her eldest son, in Milan township, Jan. 11, 1887, Lucinda Hall, aged 62 years, 8 months, and 10 days.

A large party of Milan people surprised Rev. Mr. Buxton at his residence two miles north of that village, last Wednesday evening.

Chelsea Herald: The farewell social and donation given to Rev. H. M. Gallup, was a great success socially and fairly liberal as a donation.

The Chelsea cornet band will give a grand masquerade ball, February 18. Music will be furnished by the Chequamegon band of this city.

The debating societies of Chelsea and North Lake discussed the question, "Resolved, that intemperance has caused more misery than war," in the former place, Wednesday evening.

Married, at St. Mary's church, Chelsea, by Rev. Father C. Sinsine, Wednesday, Jan. 12, 1887, Kattie M., daughter of Michael Foster, of Sylvan, to Chauncey Hummel, of Lyndon.

Milam's village marshal tendered his resignation to the council, a short time ago, but that august body refused to accept it. The marshal now threatens to retaliate by waging war on the saloons, which he claims run in violation of the law.

Manchester Enterprise: The case brought by Marshall Besimer against Chas. Youngham for selling liquor to persons already intoxicated, was dismissed by Justice Perkins on Tuesday, as Prosecuting Attorney Norris failed to appear to prosecute it.

Milan Leader: The citizens of Milan are invited to attend a meeting at Marble's hall on Friday evening, Jan. 28, for the purpose of taking action in regard to a new cemetery. The necessity for such action is obvious and we bespeak for that meeting a good attendance.

Manchester Enterprise: One of the saddest cases we have heard of was of a young miss in this village who attempted to lick the frost off the hammer a few days since. It was amusing yet surprising to see the hammer hanging to her tongue, like a needle to a magnet.

Milan Leader: The Milan Charcoal Co., south of the Junction, did a heavy business in 1886. They manufactured and shipped 60 car loads of charcoal, besides shipping 48 car loads of wood. Mr. C. W. Pullen is the manager, and informed us that the company is buying all the wood they can get.

Saline Observer: G. J. Nisley left this morning, for Grand Rapids, with a choice lot of his fine poultry which he will exhibit at the poultry fair, opening there today and continuing the rest of the week. He also took along incubators, brooders, and other poultry supply articles.

Some one has recently mailed the Rev. John A. Kaley, pastor of the Congregational church, at Chelsea, anonymous letters. The church society held a meeting last Monday evening and passed resolutions denouncing the culprit and exonerating the pastor. If the letters are continued the author of the letters will be prosecuted, if he can be apprehended.

Dundee Reporter: Jan. 13, Minnie and Effa Reeves, daughters of Ed. Reeves, while looking over some old clothes found a pair of old linen pants which had belonged to their grandfather, Gabriel Reeves, who died five years ago. In one of the pockets they found over $400 in gold, also a most singular fact was that in the same pocket was a paper in his handwriting willing the money to the same girls.

South Lyon Excelsior: From the present outlook 1887 will bring more valuable improvements to South Lyon than in any previous year. We were shown the plans the other day for a solid block of four large stores on Lake street, between Kellogg, Garland & Co.'s and Hodgeman & Son's stores. There is also talk of replacing the large wooden building of Carpenter & Sayre with a new brick, besides the large list of dwellings anticipated.

The German Working Men's association, of Chelsea, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Chris. Klein; vice president, Jacob Schumacher; recording secretary, Chas. Wunder; corresponding secretary, A. Neuburger; treasurer, Fred Frey; cashier, A. Sterger; trustees, Joseph Schatz, Geo. Mast and Fred Vogel; color bearer, Chas. Kaercher; physician of the society, Dr. Geo. A. Palmer; chairman of trustees, Fred Vogel.

Manchester Enterprise: Ed. Starks received a letter from Denver, Col., on Tuesday, informing him that he was wanted there as a witness by the U. S. authorities, and later in the day he was legally sub-poised by Deputy Sheriff Kelly, for Postmaster Doty. Ed. claims that he was robbed while out west of money and a postal order and the robber forged Ed's name to the postoffice order. They have caught the rascal and Ed. will be the principal witness. It will be a long ride for him.

YPSILANTI BREVITIES.

An Epitome of the Past Week in that Fair City.

Mr. Geo. Harris is east on a business visit.

Mrs. E. L. Jansen is visiting in Chicago and Topeka.

Our city sports eight meat markets and still beef is too dear to be tender.

Rev. MacLean, rector of the Episcopal church, is visiting in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. James McVior, of New York, have taken up Ypsi. as a future abiding place.

The valiant Sons of Temperance gave an entertainment at good templar hall, Wednesday evening.

Miss Ellen Murphy was buried last Saturday from the Catholic church. She was a Normal graduate of the class of '85.

B. M. Damon and P. W. Carpenter represented the Excelsior Chapter at the annual meeting of the Grand Chapter R. A. M., at Detroit, this week.

The Normal societies united in a grand "public" last Friday evening, and gave a very pleasant and entertaining exhibition of their literary attainments and musical skill.

Thursday evening the Pigot Sisters of Detroit, aged nine, eleven and fifteen years, will give one of their delightful entertainments of the Congregational church.

Miss Francis St. John, sister of Prof. St. John of the Normal, died in this city last Wednesday after a long and painful illness. Her remains were taken to Reading for interment.

Ed. Bogardu, who for sometime has been employed in the M. C. freight office, has received a position under his uncle, A. G. Amson, of Chicago, who is one of the division superintendents.

Perry F. Powers, junior editor of the Ypsilantian, has gone west on a visit. Some one says the visit is made with matrimonial intent, and half of the Ypsi. belles are in tears, in consequence of the dreadful report.

Prof. Luderer and Miss Pauline Bengal of Detroit, assisted by Prof. Foote, gave a piano and violin recital at the Union School hall last Thursday evening. Much ability was marked among the young violin students, which was very gratifying to both teachers and patrons.

Herbert Humphries, the photographer, was abruptly "set out" of his location on Congress street, by A. M. Noble, who leased the rooms and has set up a picture shop of his own. Herb. has leased some fine rooms on Huron street near the post office, and will open the finest gallery in the city, about the first of April.

L. H. Laffin, the German barley man, who, early in the winter was supposed to have "skipped by the light of the moon" with $40,000 in his vest pocket, has returned, after a suitable sojourn in the foreign country just across the Detroit river, with an injured air and says he didn't take a cent when he went off on that tour. So now the question is, "where's that money?"

Dr. F. M. Oakley and family who are enjoying the balmy breezes of the south seem to have left their house to the tender mercies of inquisitive people, as Constable Palmer found a window of the house open, the other morning, and searching found that curiosity or some thieving propensity had induced some one to thoroughly ransack the whole house. Whether anything of value was taken has not been ascertained as yet.

Mr. Bert Barnes started for the social last Tuesday evening, at Mr. Ellsworth's, in company with three young ladies, but in attempting to explore an unfrequented road encountered an obstinate snow drift which received Mr. Barnes' horse in such a loving embrace that the young folks were obliged to get out and wade through the chilly depths of the beautiful, to a farm house a quarter of a mile away, which they reached in a half frozen and thoroughly frightened condition. It was a dangerous experience for all concerned.

Saline Notes.

Our sleighing is gone.

Coal is scarce in Saline.

General complaint—hard times.

W. P. Carson is working in Detroit.

Arthur Brown spent Sunday at home.

Mrs. Will Isbell, of York, is visiting Miss Ida Shepard.

J. McKinnon has come home from Ann Arbor to court.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard, of Lansing, are visiting at E. R. Aldrich's.

Mr. Frost St. John, who has been sick several weeks, is no better.

Mrs. J. Warner and Maggie Harmon took in Ann Arbor last week.

Mrs. R. Westfall, living four miles south of here, died the 21st, funeral the 25th.

Miss Lizzie Burns, of Bridgewater, visited at Fred Cordin's, jr., the latter part of the week.

Mr. E. W. Ford informs us that his wife, who has been dangerously sick, is some better.

A letter received from Dr. H. A. Nichols, Los Angeles, Cal., says there is no place like home.

The entertainment at Union School hall the 22nd, was of that class that pleases the people of Saline.

Wm. Walker, who is attending the medical department, at Ann Arbor, was in town a few days last week.

G. J. Nisley was awarded several premiums at the poultry show, at Grand Rapids, the first of the week.

NOTICE.

The Ann Arbor Savings Bank, to accommodate the public, will keep the bank open every Saturday from 7 to 8 p. m., to receive savings deposits.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH
is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Mrs. R. F. Rowers, 902 State St., Racine, Wis., says: "I have been troubled with rheumatism for the last three years, not suffering as much pain as some do with the same complaint, my difficulty being stiffness of the joints, it was mostly in my knee joints, so that it was with much difficulty that I could bend them, especially in going up and down stairs. During the time I have been troubled in this way I have tried many different medicines without any good effects. Athlophoros coming to my notice, and being anxious to get some relief, I thought I would try it. After using it for a short time I was able to bend my knees easily, and could go up and down stairs without suffering any inconvenience.

Janesville, Wisconsin.
I was seriously afflicted with rheumatism in my hips and lower limbs, so that it was with great trouble and intense pain that I could move around. I have now used one bottle of your Athlophoros with the most satisfactory results.

E. L. DIMOCK,
Insurance Agent, East Milwaukee St.
Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled.

OKEFENOKEE SWAMP.

OASIS WHERE THE SEMINOLE CHIEF TOOK REFUGE IN 1836.

Account of a Tramp Through the Swamp. A Little Moss-Clad Island in the Marsh—Stuck in a Quagmire—An Exhausted Party.

Okefenokee, the great swamp on the southern border of Georgia, extending across into Florida, has for a century been a mystery. It was the great retreat for the Seminole Indians. In the center of this immense swamp is an oasis, a beautiful spot midway between Billy's island and the Rotterdam settlement. It was in this spot that Billy Bowlegs, the great Seminole, took refuge in 1836 and successfully defied the attempts of the whites to capture him. Strange tales are told in the neighborhood of fugitives finding safety there who subsisted on the abundance of fish and game. The story of an authenticated exploration of this spot is told by Mr. Charles Pendleton, who in company with Ben Varborough, a local scout, and others penetrated the thick jungle which leads to it. His story runs thus:

"Camp Casana," as our party christened it, was a dry knoll covering about an acre in the midst of a marsh extending for miles, apparently north and south, and several miles east and west. It was nearer, as it turned out, to the eastern swampwood than to the western. Its center was perhaps eight feet above the level of the surrounding marsh, and it tapered off to the water's edge. A dwarfed cypress which capped its summit was immediately surrounded by smaller ones, like courtiers around a prince; and next to these, widening the circle, came the smaller casenas, like those of lesser rank. Then the galberry and tyty tapered to the earth, forming the outer guard, armed with bamboo and shielded by creeping vines. The phalanx was so solid, the armament so perfect that no man or beast could penetrate it save by a hidden path which perhaps had been left for an ingress and egress to the fauna of that region; or, more likely, the more powerful bear had broken through to find a lair. The whole from the topmost cypress bush to the least tyty was draped with gray moss mingling with the nut brown leaves of autumn, the myriads of crimson casena berries and the evergreen tyty—presenting a picturesque scene perhaps nowhere else seen. The marsh surrounding this queer spot varies in water depth from three inches to four feet. Underneath the water the mud varies in solubility, some places being extremely soft and dangerous to the pedestrian. But for bonnet roots and the thicker growth of maiden cane no man could cross it. The wonder is that anything but a webfoot ever did.

Our party did not enter the swamp through the bamboo and what not for three days prior to the morning of entering the marsh, and at first it was somewhat of a relief to be able to trudge forward with a long view ahead without having to fight and dodge through the entangled mass of undergrowth. The change brought rested muscles into action, and for a few hours we moved forward with greater rapidity than at any time since entering the swamp. The compass pointed the way, and that brave band of explorers never hesitated when one sank to his armpits and had to be pulled out by his fellows—the civil engineer's chain often serving for that extra use—nor did they turn back when it became necessary to detour around an occasional alligator hole, distinguished by a pair or more of those huge amphibious creatures circling the dark water with their young. But the strain on the muscles of the lower limbs never relaxed. We could not sit down and rest. About noon the men began to show signs of unusual fatigue. The dark swampwood, such as we had been in for three days, could be seen distinctly ahead, but it was quite as far or further than we had tramped that morning, and the outlook was not at all cheering. Some distance short of that now coveted region a gray object loomed up before our vision—right on our line—and we rightly divined that it was a little moss-clad island in the marsh. We must reach it at all hazards before night.

We halted for lunch—hard tack and bacon—but there was no place, as stated above, to sit down and rest the weary feet. One poor fellow found a banner root near the surface of the water, which he sat upon to crush it and sink in the mud and water up to his neck. A young man in the party, whose spirits never flagged, no matter how sore his feet were, sang out: "Push along, boys; keep moving. Let's eat when we reach yonder island." But Dr. Little, the sea geologist, who was with the party, insisted that we should stop, if only for a few minutes, and eat, for we would give us strength for the afternoon's tramp. The wisdom of his suggestion was at once seen by all, and we ate hurriedly from the scanty store in our packs, continually shifting the weight from one foot to the other, and as often moving the released foot to prevent its sinking too deep into the mud. It was not a feast of the gods.

We pressed on with hope and fear. We thought we could reach the little island, as it seemed to us, by nightfall if no lake or impassable water lay on our route; and who could tell what was ahead in that despicable bog? The thought of encountering a deep lake was not at all pleasant. The day quite gone, possibly, and not a dry tussock within eight or ten hours' tramp! No place to sit or lie, much less to sleep, on a chill November night. No torch; no lantern; the compass in our hands would fall to keep us from wandering round and round in the darkness and gloom and mud as most men do, it is said, until daylight. If human endurance could stand the strain until then. It is not pleasant to think about the possible situation afterward.

About 3 in the afternoon a few drifting clouds, apparently thrown together just over in front of us by counter currents of air, brought forth a light shower, and the declivity sun at our backs produced a beautiful rainbow which spanned directly across our route eastward. It was an unusual sight for the time of year. When we at last approached within a hundred yards of the little oasis above described, we encountered the severest quagmire we had yet seen. All along we had been measuring the distance traveled with a chain, that instrument being handled by a couple of negroes. Here there were several applicants anxious to relieve the boys, knowing that it would add to one's safety to have hold of a chain with a man at the other end. Dr. Little was the first victim. He went down to the armpits and struggled desperately to extricate himself, but a comrade near, who stood upon a firmer foundation, pointed the muzzle of his gun to him, which he seized and helped himself out. It was decided then the eight in the party should dispose themselves along the chain, one hand gripped to it, and with a strong negro at each end pulled to the shore. We were about an hour traveling that one hundred yards. Sometimes as many as four of the other four would have to hold the chain against the weight of those struggling to get out, and oftentimes the pressure thus brought upon those who stood upon firmer footing would send them down, who would in turn have to be helped out.

Triumphant Art.
The new trademark adopted by the Armour Ham company is a triumph of the heraldic art upon a field engraved vert, with border purpure, appes a short rampant, with two link sausages issuant and a peccant dexter; underneath is the motto "In Hoc Signo."

When at last we reached the little island we were utterly overcome with exhaustion. There were a few feet of comparative dry ground between the marsh and the dense growth which walled in the island like an orange hedge, and not one of the party crossed it without falling prostrate upon the glorified terra firma. For ten minutes no words were spoken. The men were too exhausted to talk. The writer at length broke the silence, as the sun had hid himself behind the swampwood, and the chill night air was gathering over the wet and prostrate forms. Joe was called up and instructed to enter the island and build a fire with haste.—Cor. New York Sun.

THE SCIENCE OF THE PEN.

How to Tell Peculiarities of People by Their Penmanship—Flourishes.

That the handwriting has certain marked characteristics in every individual, and that these characteristics, properly examined and interpreted according to given rules and methods, will tell us more concerning the individual character of the writer, is an established fact, and the tabulation of these rules and of this method is now complete in the works of such acknowledged authorities as Rosa Baughan, L'Abbe Flandrini and Adolphe Henze. Adrien Desbarrolles in his major work has devoted some 200 pages to this branch of the science of the hand, besides being the author of a standard work on the subject, so that graphology, or, as it is sometimes called, "grammatonany," boasts a literature of its own that is not my intention to supplement in this place. "The more I compare different handwritings," says Lavater, "the more I am convinced that handwriting is the expression of the character of him who writes. Each nation has its national character of writing as the physiognomy of each people expresses the most salient points of character in the nation," and I may quote the remark of Rosa Baughan: "That the handwriting really reflects the personality of the writer is evident from the fact that it alters and develops with the intelligence, that it becomes firm when the character strengthens, weak and feeble when the person who writes it is ill or agitated, and erratic when he is under the influence of great joy, grief or any other passion.

Writing which has a tendency to ascend toward the end of the lines denotes always ambition, property and success, while writing which, on the contrary, has a tendency to descend betrays melancholy, ill health and taciturnity. If a writing which descends thus is disjointed and interspersed with meaningless ornament it is a sign of a tendency toward madness. Flourishes are always bad, denoting vanity, conceit and self assertion, while peculiarly formed letters denote invariably—and obviously—eccentricity.

More can be told by the observation of single letters, especially capitals, than anything else. Thus a capital A denotes great sense of beauty, and strong will is shown in the strong barring. When the bar is a loop there is the same sense of beauty but less will. The script capital A shows simplicity and clearness of ideas. A looped A shows tenderness and generosity, while the Greek A or D indicates eccentricity and imagination.

An F with a flying top betrays imagination and indifference, while a curly one shows cultivation and a sensitive mind. A curly H shows poetry and art, and a curly I gives grace and sense of beauty but the straight, like Brother Haire's and Oscar Wilde's, gives a higher and more precise nature to artistic instinct and increases the poetic faculty. These instances are sufficient in this place for others I must refer you to Miss Rosa Baughan's excellent work, quoted above, to which I am indebted for these examples.

Disproportionate loops betray self assertion, look out for them in letters like P and L and Y. Letters stopping short at their finals show economy, long or extended finals with spaces between the words indicate generosity, if not extravagance. Inward curves denote egotism.

Stops are also more distinctive. Heavy and black, they betray sensuality; long, they denote vivacity and originality. An dotted with a flick indicates recklessness. Absence of stops shows want of caution and an unsuspecting nature.

Take care then, O my brethren, of "The Sette of Odd Volumes" lest you recklessly betray your vices in an invitation to dinner, or confess your blackest crimes in the pages of a birthday book, as—an avowal. Yours neocomatically.—Ed. Heron-Allen in New York Mail and Express.

ADVERTISING IN CHINATOWN.

A Pole Which is the Principal Medium of Business Announcements.
The great advertising medium of Chinatown is a tall telegraph pole in front of the Wo Kee store in Mott street, a few doors from Chatham square. The pole is about two feet in diameter, and it is always girdled by a belt of advertisements written in Chinese characters on sheets of yellow, white, or fire cracker red paper. The girls in three or four feet broad, and thus the available advertising space is from eighteen to twenty-four square feet. This does not suffice for the needs of Chinatown, and another telegraph pole on the other side of the street out toward the corner of Park street gets part of the business.

When the Chinese avail themselves of this advertising medium they are reminded of the perversion of this western people in doing almost everything in a way diametrically different from their time honored Oriental method. There is never any doubt as to the circulation of this advertising medium, for nobody claims that it circulates. It stands there year in and year out, and the readers do the circulating. This there is no chance for hoaxes, for it is possible that, with their not very exact ideas as to modern western appliances, they may suspect that there is some beneficial influence in the mysterious buzzing that is heard upon the lofty wires. The prohibition "Post no Bills" does not appear on the pole. If it is there it is covered up by many thicknesses of "dead ads."

On Sundays, when the Chinese from all parts of the city flock to Chinatown to pick up the week's news concerning their race, each visitor steps up to the pole and consults the enormous mass of the common sense. They run largely to for sales, to lets, and wants. When a Chinaman has anything for sale, from a laundry to a pair of chop sticks, he pastes an announcement on the big telegraph pole. Comparatively few of them are able to write the notices themselves, but they know where they can find scribes who will do it for them in good shape for reasonable pay. The notices are almost invariably written with admirable neatness and without display. No cuts are inserted. There seems to be an understanding that no man shall occupy more of the common space than a reasonable reading forth of his announcement requires.—New York Sun.

Bootmaking Extraordinary.
The celebrated Chicago sausage machine has been eclipsed. In this machine the pig, it will be recollected, is said to enter at one end and on the whisk of a handle to emerge in sausage. The Vienna papers are making merry over a bit made a day or two ago by a celebrated shoemaker in that city. He undertook from a given calf to manufacture a pair of boots within twenty-four hours of the animal's death. The conditions were made and a committee was appointed to see that they were duly carried out. Large stakes were put into the hands of an impartial stakeholder. Early in the morning of the appointed day a calf was killed in the presence of numerous witnesses. The skin was at the tannery at noon; it was properly tanned and turned over to one of the most skilled hands of the spirited shoemaker that very evening, and next morning it reappeared in the shape of a pair of boots, which were worn by the man who owned the calf that had carried the skin the day before.—Pall Mall Gazette.

MONEYMANIACS OF NEW YORK.

Peculiar Habits of a Rich Man—Miseries and Deprivations of Misers.
There is a sunken eyed old man whom I meet every night that I stroll up Fifth avenue somewhere between Washington square and Twenty-third street. I must have known this phantom a good fifteen years. He lives in a garret within a stone's throw of the square, and is the owner of much valuable property. In the early days of our acquaintance I used to encounter him strolling in the park munching a French roll, crumb by crumb. This was his breakfast. If he eats another meal it is probably of the same order. His dress is that of a vagrant, but his conversation is that of an educated man. He is especially lumpy in recounting reminiscences of the New York of two generations ago, and has traveled a couple of miles at a time with me to point out vanished landmarks in which I happened to be interested. I won his regard early by giving him car fare after each of these jaunts. He pouched the money and walked back.

This man is a true miser, but not a beggar. A much more complete specimen is another old fellow whom I got to know while making notes in the Astor library. He carried crusts of bread in his pocket and ate them bit by bit as he huddled over his book all day long. His miserable dress, his haggard face and wasted figure inspired me with pity and I opened an acquaintanceship with him. When I worked all day I was in the habit of lunching in a convenient shop of Bohemian renown, and I once invited him to join me. Thereafter he did it daily without invitation. When my work at the library was finished he would be haunting my house. Every evening he would lie in wait for me and levy toll to the sum of a dime for his dinner, as he told. One night a prominent real estate agent came up as I was making this contribution and greeted my pensioner by name. When he had shuffled off the agent laughed at me for my miserly liberality. I learned from him that my haggard friend was a retired real estate speculator and worth at least half a million in property. He lived, and indeed lies still, in a hallway which he has converted into a sort of bedroom in the basement of one of his own houses. The rest of the basement is let out to a rag and paper man, so that the miser is in congenial quarters.

There are two moneymaniacs that I know so well that I have been able to make some curious studies of their characters and habits. I could hardly count those whom I know casually or merely by sight or repute. They come of all grades and walks of life. There are among them men who were originally merchants, lawyers, doctors of medicine and of divinity, mechanics and even common laboring men. The miseries they subject themselves to and the deprivations they endure to save a cent are quite incredible. Each man has his own shifts and devices, and each his pet mania. One gathers pins as if they were gold, and travels with his shabby breast stuck so full of them that it looks like a porcupine. Another collects advertising lodgers with an avidity that would do honor to bank bills. They seem to be under the pressure of an incessant craze to acquire something or nothing, however worthless it may be, and probably experience as acute a pang at the loss of a pin or a hand-bill as they would at that of one of their hoarded dollars.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

Luck of a Musical Genius.
Spencer, the man who wrote the opera "Little Tycoon," is a queer genius. He is a mild sort of religious crank and used to sing in the choir in a country town in New Jersey. He offered his opera to everybody in America who had ever produced comic opera, but they all refused to touch it until he struck George Bartholomew, of the Temple theatre, Philadelphia, who agreed to put it on the stage. It is said that Spencer almost fainted when Bartholomew told him he would do it, and went around among his friends for days afterward telling of his good luck and always shedding tears during the recital.

One day while he was trying to induce a couple of managers in New York to take hold of his opera, he felt so certain that they would do so that he spent all but 50 cents of the last $2 he had in the world for a bottle of wine, in the hope that it would help to mellow their hearts and clinch the bargain. When they had drunk the wine they refused to accept his opera, and Spencer was in despair. He bought a supper and then walked the streets all night because he did not have enough money left to buy a bed. In speaking of the matter afterward he exclaimed pathetically: "Just think of it! I spent nearly the last cent I had on those fellows, and even then they couldn't produce my opera." As it only cost something like $15,000 to produce it the cruelty of the managers is apparent.—Pioneer Press "Listener."

The Prevailing Stage Superstitions.
It is well known that in no profession are superstitions more prevalent than in the dramatic. They are not at all admitted as such, but they still exist to greater or less degree. August Daly has recently named his new play "Love in Harness." He tries always to get three names into his titles "for luck," and so his play bills give "A Night Off," "Love on Crutches," "Nancy & Co.," "After Business Hours," etc. Lester Wallack, it is said, has a superstition that death scenes are unlucky, and he will not now permit them on his stage. Gilbert and Sullivan were at one time reported to have a superstition predilection for pieces that began with F, and even at first gave the "Mikado" the name of "Poohlah," so that it might follow the successes of "Pinafore," "Patience," "Pirates of Penzance," "Princess and Peri" ("Iolanthe") and "Princess Ida." The latest instance of superstition is the refusal of a New York manager to open with his new star, Marguerite Fish, on December 13, because 13 is unlucky. As the 13th comes on a Monday, however, a good many plays must open on that day.—Hartford Times.

Government Land in Mexico.
The Frontier of Nogales, A. T., says that it has private information that the German contract of the City of Mexico has purchased from the Mexican government all the vacant government land in the state of Sonora, from the United States line to the Gulf of California, and will settle thereon German miners and agriculturists.

Fred Archer's Superstition.
The late Fred Archer, the jockey, always wore in his necktie a pin composed of a large pearl surrounded by diamonds. He was a bit superstitious and would never ride in a race without it, believing it gave him good luck.—New York Tribune.

Escaped Death.
A German woman and three children who were caught in the storm near Bismarck escaped death by sitting quietly in a depression of the earth and allowing the snow to form a wall of protection about them.—Chicago Herald.

Under Obligation.
Gail Hamilton admits that she dares to name only one of the three living men to whom she is under the deepest intellectual obligation, Herbert Spencer.—Boston Transcript.

THE MUTABILITY OF FORTUNE.

Incidents in the Early Life of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, of The New York World.
Looking out from his editorial eyrie in Park row and enjoying the serene consciousness that his autograph at the bottom of a check will produce greenbacks from the bank up to a figure which we shall not assume to specify, Hon. Joseph Pulitzer must be impressed with the mutability of fortune, since he can gaze upon the spot in the City Hall park where he once enjoyed an unceremonious sleep with a hard bench for his bed, and had his hat stolen into the bargain! He doesn't shrink from telling the story himself, and an excellent raconteur he is too. It happened when he was mustering out of Uncle Sam's service at the close of the war, and when a good many honest fellows found it difficult to secure employment. He encountered his full share of rebuffs, privations and hard knocks, and one day, fatigued and footsore, was glad to stretch himself on a park bench. While he slumbered some mean sneak thief carried off his only hat and he had to apply to the quartermaster in order to procure a substitute to shelter his waving tresses from the amorous breeze.

After he had pushed his way to St. Louis and was pluckily struggling to gain a foothold he had another unpleasant experience with a diner of the light fingered fraternity. By dint of rigorous economy he had obtained a new suit of clothes, which he had worn but a short time when it was bundled up and carried away from the modest room in which he lodged, leaving the future proprietor of The World with a wardrobe that was too scanty and bizarre to permit of his appearance out of doors.

By the way, not everybody is aware that Mr. Pulitzer took a hand in settling the late unpleasantness or that the flashing of cannon was the beacon that attracted him to our shores. Yet, as he himself tells it, his dominant idea in coming hither was inspired by his youthful enthusiasm to aid in liberating 4,000,000 of the colored race from bondage. But what a singular adventure it was that sent him to sleep, like the vagrant prince in the fairy tale, hungry and tired, within bowshot of his future palatial headquarters!—New York Graphic.

Science in Betting.

There is, so says Dave Pulsifer, who ought to know, a scientific way of betting on horse races. Like all other scientific methods, however, it is hard to attain and not easy to keep up. Horses when they start in at the beginning of the season belong, according to their merits, to different classes. There are the 2:30 horses, and the 2:30 and the 2:40 and the 3 minute horses among the trotters, and among the runners there is the same sort of difference. Bookmakers must have their heads filled with horses, with weights, and besides with a great lot of data regarding their performances and their condition. The outsider, because a horse is the winner of one race, usually makes a favorite of him for the next. The bookmaker doesn't always do that. And especially is it true that a horse which wins several races hand running will become a prime favorite with the outsiders, while bookmakers and professionals for this very same reason begin to put their money up against him. As a rule, the winning of one race by a runner makes the winning of a second difficult; and, as races are run, the chances of success next time decrease in a certain proportion. This is because of the addition of weight. The racer finally overweighs himself by his many successes and he then loses.

On the other hand, owners of slower horses trail along from circuit to circuit losing races; their runners having weight taken off each time, until at some course or other the horse runs light, is in first class form, his owner backs him to win and win he does. The public does not keep these things in mind. The pool seller and bookmaker never forgets them. They are his stock in trade. There are of course a great many other influences beside that of weight. Hard running and the winning by close scratches pulls the best racer down.

The condition of the horse must be borne as carefully in mind as the weight.
"If a horseman will familiarize himself with all these things," says Dave Pulsifer, "he can bet on the horse races and win money, but it will take his time. He can't bet on horse races and win money and do much else besides."—Chicago Mail.

Ought to Think of Them.
"It have not come to the conclusion that no man is good enough for even a passably good woman," said the proprietor of the Coon Range all sorts store as he glanced at a lank fellow who had just made a disastrous raid on a box of matches. "Every man has an easier time than his wife."

"I've thought of that a thousand times," replied old man Gatewood, known through the neighborhood as Lazy Sam. "I know that I have an easier time than my wife, but I'm bringing the thing down mighty high again. I don't believe in allowing a woman to mighty nigh kill herself at work, let me tell you, and for some time I have been shaping my points so that she won't have such a hard time."
"Equalizing it, eh?"
"That's exactly what I'm doin', gentlemen. Last year my po' wife had to chop all the wood and fetch all the water."
"And you have relieved her of that, eh?"
"Wall, partly. She only has to chop the wood now. My boy is got to be big enough to tote the water. I tell you what's a fact, a man ought to think up these things."—Arkansas Traveler.

A Curious Circumstance.
A curious event happened during Justice Grantham's last circuit in England. A man was brought up and, having been convicted principally upon the evidence of an old woman, was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. Immediately afterward it was discovered that the old woman not only knew nothing about the case, but was actually a witness in another case at the same assizes and had been called by mistake.—New York Sun.

Landlady (examining a fugitive boarder's trunk)—Why, Bridget, thy trunk is full of bricks! How could they have got there? "Sure, ma'am, he brought one home in his hat every night."
Credit is due the German women and physicians for first using red clover blossoms as a medicine. Best results are obtained when combined with other medicinal roots and herbs, as in Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which is the best known remedy for all blood diseases, stomach and liver troubles, pimples, costiveness, bad breath, piles, ague and malaria diseases, indigestion, loss of appetite, low spirits, headache and all diseases of the kidneys. Price 50 cents, of Eberbach & Son.

"Pa," said Johnny, looking up from his book, "what does it mean to pile Ossa on Pelion?" "There, don't bother me now," replied pa; "ask your ma, she understands all about mythology."

What True Merit will do.
The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles.

A sheet of paper seventeen inches wide and more than seven miles long was recently made at Watertown, N. Y. It is thought possible to print an entire issue of William M. Everts on it if agate type is used.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to, more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action, the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable, used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

BACH & ABEL

Our reduction sale has been entirely satisfactory. How could it well be otherwise? The goods are here, the prices down and a great many of you know it. As it is so early to make big statements, to trifle with the truth a little, we are not surprised that a few doubt that they see in the papers, although we try to tell the exact truth. You are doing precisely what we want you to do, bring our price list clipped from the papers and ask to see the goods. If we can't show you what we've advertised, you ought not to stay a minute.

THE CITY.

The city band has organized an orchestra of ten pieces, and are now ready to sell their services.

The Dexter Leader has entered upon its 19th year. Like many other things it improves with age.

Willie Frank, of the third ward, run a large siver in one of his legs, Wednesday, while sliding on a board.

O. M. Martin has an exhibition at his undertaking rooms, a very fine, black plush, copper lined casket.

A stock company is being formed, by Ann Arbor and Pittsburg capitalists, to bore for natural gas in this city.

Capt. E. P. Allen has been engaged by Welch Post, No. 137, G. A. R., to deliver the address in this city, on Decoration Day.

Joe Williams says he would be very happy to present the party who broke into Brown's store the other night, with his remaining glove.

G. E. Waterman, of Pittsfield, has purchased the old Lewis & Gibson photographic stand, in Ypsilanti and opened for business last Monday.

Wm. Weinman was arrested last Friday, charged with striking his father. He will have a trial before a jury in Justice Frueauf's court tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Isbell, of west Huron-st, had a pleasant surprise visit from about forty of their friends and neighbors, last week Wednesday evening.

Chas. R. Rabacher, publisher of the South Lyon Excelsior, has associated with him W. H. Brown, a gentleman of considerable newspaper ability.

Mayor Robison was fined twelve boxes of cigars, by the council, Tuesday evening, for being late. The Mayor promptly referred it to the cemetery committee.

On our second page to-day will be found a striking and instructive illustration of the comparative worth of the various kinds of baking powders in the market.

Wm. L. Dieterle, late of Manchester, has purchased the undertaking business formerly conducted by John Keck & Co. See his announcement in another column.

A fire in the rear of John Schneider's blacksmith shop, last Thursday evening, called out the fire department. The flames were extinguished before any damage was done.

By an order from the post office department, postal notes are made payable at any money order office in the U. S., and not simply at the office designated as heretofore.

We neglected to call attention last week to the new advertisement of J. T. Jacobs & Co. The price on all winter goods in their store has been reduced. Overcoats one-third off.

The total receipts of the Ann Arbor post office, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1886, were $20,509.65; the total expenses were $7,224.05; net earnings for the government $13,325.60.

There is a feeling among our business men against Ann Arbor having a free mail delivery. A petition has been circulated, which has received a good many signatures, protesting against it.

John Mulaney was arrested last Friday for stealing clothing from the residence of Patrick Martin. He pled guilty before Justice Frueauf, who bound him over to the circuit court for sentence.

J. A. Brown's grocery store, on State-st, was entered by burglars Tuesday night and carried off about $15 worth of goods. Mr. Brown has offered a reward of $25 for the apprehension of the thieves.

A. F. Hanson, law '80, of New York, will erect a residence in this city next spring, on Fourth-st, next to his father-in-law's, Wm. McCreery. He expects to take up his residence in this city.

The Sunday afternoon temperance meetings in Crosey's hall, are growing in popular favor. Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Ryder, of the Congregational church, briefly reviewed the temperance work done in this city during the past ten years.

A fellow about 26 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches high, light complexion, fairly well dressed, is going through the country begging money, claiming that he wants to have his eyes treated at the hospital. He is an impostor and our farmer friends should treat him accordingly.

Besides locating the new school building on the north side of the present one, as we stated last week, the following building committee was appointed: Judge W. D. Harriman, chairman, J. E. Beal, secretary, W. B. Smith, O. Mack and Joe T. Jacobs.

Wm. Copeland applied for a divorce from his wife, in the Washtenaw county circuit court, last December. Single blessedness didn't prove to be what it was in the days of their youth, and they agreed to agree again, and Tuesday he withdrew his application.

A special meeting of the council was held Tuesday evening. The time for paying taxes was extended until March 1st, 1887. The matter of inviting the legislature to this city, to look over the University received considerable discussion. A resolution was passed to the effect that the council join with President Angell in extending to them an invitation.

The building committee of the school board have architects in Detroit and Chicago drawing plans and specifications for the new building. The first floor is to be used for a library room and the grammar school, the second floor for a large hall, with a gallery. We hope they will look to the interests of our children, and if possible avoid having any recitation rooms above the third floor in either building. Would it not be a good suggestion to convert the third story of the present building into a large auditorium, which is used but occasionally, and make the new building entirely recitation rooms, library, etc.

About 500 invitations will be issued this year for Co. A's masquerade. Tickets are on sale by members of the company. As the proceeds will go towards fixing up the armory, the citizens should buy a ticket when the boys come around to see them.

In speaking of the banquet, at the Jackson Grey's reception, Monday evening, the Citizen says of our popular caterer: "These (the tables) were in charge of A. F. Hangsterfer, of Ann Arbor, and a corps of sixteen assistants, who did their work with commendable skill and courtesy. It was a rich and lavish feast, made attractive to the senses with elegant display of silver, glass, cutlery and flowers.

The undertakers closed their session in this city last Thursday evening, as per program published in THE REGISTER. At the close of Dr. Herdman's lecture to them on embalming, he was presented with a fine gold headed cane. The most of them left on the evening trains, and many were the words of praise spoken of O. M. Martin, who furnished the sleighs free of charge, which carried them around to view the city.

At the annual meeting of the Unitarian church last week, Prof. J. W. Lringley and Mr. Joseph Whitlark were re-elected trustees for the term of three years. Reports were read as follows: From the Pastor, Mr. Sunderland; from the trustees, by the chairman, Judge Harriman; from the Treasurer Mr. Whitlark; from the Sunday School, by the assistant Superintendent, Miss Ida A. Morrish; from the Unity Club, by the President Philip R. Whitman; from the Ladies' Union, by Mrs. Prof. Burt; from the Library Committee, by the chairman, Prof. W. H. Pettie; from the Bible class and the Sunday afternoon Religious class, by Mrs. Sunderland. All the various activities of the church are going on excellently. The society was never more prosperous.

Our Japanese Students.

THE REGISTER would like to introduce to its readers this week the young gentlemen who have come all the long way from Japan to Ann Arbor, for the purpose of receiving an education at one of the greatest and most famous of all educational institutions. Each name has a special significance. It will be interesting to study them. Three or four are attending the High School, the others are in the University.

Shigehide Arakawa, Kakutaro Itaya, Yasukuni Matsudaya, Key Mishima, Nagasawa Minoda, Tado Nakamura, Tairo Nakagawa, Minokichi Suzuki, JunKichi Kimura, Faro Miyoshi, Kohichi Takasaki, Masato Kawamura, Kiyotoshi Sugimoto, John Nakai.

An Appeal from the Old Maids.

ANN ARBOR, Jan. 11, 1887.
MR. EDITOR:

An interested old maid writes you in behalf of several old maids, asking you if you would be kind enough to furnish them, (through the columns of your paper) a partial list of the widowers in our vicinity. Those bachelors, which you published last week, are not worth continuing for, with only one exception, J. F. Lawr nec, would be pretty good, but the girls are afraid of him, he wears such a clerical look. Can't say as to his clerical actions. We have formed what is called "The old maids union" and will do all in our power to suppress Widowers and Bachelors, (the latter must be a little inclined to boodler). Hoping to be favorably received and our prayers granted, we subscribe ourselves,
THE OLD MAIDS UNION.
Office—back room, Masonic Block.

The Semi-Centennial Concert.

In the programme of the semi-centennial the Regents have given a conspicuous place to music. The work fixed upon by the choral union is Mendelssohn's great Oratorio of Elijah. Its effective execution demands all the force that can be mustered from the faculties and students of the departments as well as the cooperation of the musical talent of the town. Every one who has the ability to help, and who takes any pride in the success of the University in the celebration of her half-hundredth birthday, should at once join the chorus. The semi-centennial is a grand occasion; few are destined to see a second one; great numbers will be present; its success will be a matter of general report, and also a part of our history. The oratorio is the one thing in the performance of which very many of the officers and students can contribute effectively to that success.

The chorus meets for practice in room 24, north wing, every Tuesday evening at 7 1/2 o'clock, local time. We hope to see at once, what we much need, a large accession of new members.

H. S. FRIEZE, Pres.

The Vicious Dog.

To the Editor:

Please let me say a word for the vicious dog.

Query.—If Mr. C's temper has been roused by four unprovoked attacks in a life of fifty-five years, how much temper will a dog be supposed to retain, who have endured four or more, unprovoked attacks in each day of his life?

What makes a vicious dog is a vicious master. When attacked by a vicious dog let each one congratulate himself that he is reaping the reward he deserves, for either his own or another's indifference to the golden rule, "Do unto others"—not other men—not other women—but all living creatures—"as you would they should do unto you."

If you let others do wrong you must not growl because you are forced to bear a portion of the consequences of that wrong doing, for a dog, man-like, retaliates not upon the injurer, alone, but upon all his race.

We, in the name of justice to the brute creation, as well as to man, think that a society of the prevention of cruelty to animals should be found in this city.

We take this opportunity to call the attention of the people to the abusive treatment of dray and hack horses in this city and suggest that the state law pertaining to cruelty to animals be enforced.

Coming Events.

Rev. E. A. Spence will address the temperance meeting at Crosey's hall Sunday, at 3 P. M.

Dr. Winchell will lecture at the M. E. church, Dexter, Friday evening, February 4. Subject: "The Life time of a World." This lecture is one of a series being given under the auspices of that society. The popularity of this lecture ought to secure a large audience.

The February meeting of the Pomological society, will be held in the court house, Saturday, February 5th, 1887. Committee will report on fruit preserving factory, fruit packages, trespass, new method of destroying our insect enemies, fruit and fruit preserves, exhibits, fruit buds, etc. A full attendance is desired.

The regular meeting of the Unity Club will be held in the Unitarian church, Monday evening, January 31. Capt. Charles Thayer and ex Gov. Alpheus Felch will tell what they know about the early days of Ann Arbor and the University, and Dr. H. S. Frieze will talk about the University during President Tappan's administration.

Justin McCarthy, M. P., the leader of the Irish party in the English house of commons, and champion of the cause of Ireland, and well known both as a lecturer and author, will deliver the fourth lecture of the Student's Lecture Association course, in University hall, Friday evening, January 28, 1887. Mr. McCarthy has been in great demand ever since coming to this country, and it was with considerable difficulty that the association was able to secure him. He should be greeted by a large audience.

In the Presbyterian Church, Sunday next, Rev. G. Howard Duffield, pastor of the Westminster church of Detroit, will deliver two lectures under the auspices of the lecture committee of the Synod of Michigan. The morning topic will be "The Christ Problem," in the evening, his subject will be "John Chrysostom, the golden mouthed preacher." Mr. Howard is a popular clergyman of one of the largest churches in Detroit and will give interesting and instructive discourses. The public are very cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Mr. Sunderland will speak at the Unitarian church next Sunday morning, on "Religion as a Source of Comfort, Hope and strength." The evening service will consist of two parts. I. Mrs. Sunderland will speak (in connection with her Bible class lectures on the history of christianity) on "The Comrades, and their Influence on Religion in Europe." II. Mr. Sunderland will answer the following questions, which he has been asked to answer publicly: Is Jesus a Savior? What is Salvation? Is Unitarianism a "good religion to die by?"

The Ann Arbor Savings Bank.
Among the Savings Banks in our state there is no one outside of Detroit that has taken a more solid and prominent position than the Ann Arbor Savings Bank. Its growth has been steady and of the kind that makes it one of the best banks in the state. The list of depositors embraces our citizens occupying all different positions, but mainly among the farmers, mechanics and laborers, and these are the classes whom they especially seek.
Deposits are received from one dollar up and interest paid.
Nothing as sensible offers itself to fond parents and friends as to deposit a small amount on New Year's time for some child, who will be prouder with a bank account than with any other gift. Saturday, the Bank will be open for savings deposits from 7 to 8 p. m.
