Mr. Hobson, the University taxidermist, has invented and patented a very ingenious perch for mounted birds. It allows for the perching without obstructing the view, and utilizes space to much greater advantage than the old method of mounting. Some years ago he invented and patented a bird's egg protector, which is a marvel for simplicity and safety. He is an enthusiast in his work and puts up his specimens with great skill, and moth

H. H. Ragan will lecture on "Paris, the Magnificent," with illustrations, at University hall tomorrow evening, it being the fifth lecture of the S. L. A. course, and will no doubt be one of the finest in the course. The illuminated views, especially those of the famous palaces and castles in and about Paris, will be exceedingly interesting to all students. Besides the views of the palaces, there are views of cathedrals, villas, the opening scenes of the revolution, the massacre of St. Bartholomew, and galleries of art and famous sculptures. Mr. Ragan has studied the history of these views on the spot, and the accompanying lecture is highly instructive.

"A Great Favorite."

Miss Corselius, our longtime fourth ward teacher, is becoming famous a long way from home. In the Berkeley Advocate, a handsome California paper, we find the following notice of her children's book: One of the handsomest little story books for children that we have seen is that entitled "Financie" and Stories from real Life" by Cornelia E. Corselius of Ann Arbor. The stories are simply and graphically told. It is a great tavorite among children at home and is gotten up in such a handsome style as to make it an acceptable present at any time. It is printed by THE REGISTER Publishing Co., Ann Arbor Michigan. Olney Hall at Ann Arbor.

I see by the Christian Herald, of Detroit, that there is a move to establish "An Olney professorship at Kalamazoo." This may be the best move that can be made as a memorial for our beloved brother. But why not establish an "Olney Hall" at Ann Arbor. This is the place where his great work was done. Surely no people can love his memory as greatly as do the citizens of Ann Arbor, and especially the members of his own church. The Baptist students cherish his memory most tenderly. I am sure the entire alumni of the University would feel an interest in the consummation of such a project. In the University there are about one hundred and fifty Baptist students,-more than double the number of Kalamazoo college-the University is in its infancy as yet, so that in all probability the future will show many more than the present number. Yet with all this showing, the Baptist denomination of the state seem to manifest no special interest in "christian education" among its mem-

"An Olney Hall" with sufficient endowment to maintain a first class teacher of the bible would solve the problem of christian education among Baptist students at the University. At the same time such a teacher could act as assistant pastor for the church. It will make great difference to the cause of Christ whether these studentswho are to make doctors and lawyers-are thoroughly drilled in christian work, or are left to drift into indifference, and in many cases infidelity. Why not establish an Olney Hall and endow the same?

Yours truly,
Ann Arbor, Feb. 15, 1887. BAPTIST.

OUR LANSING LETTER.

To the Editor:

The long recess is over and the legislators are gathering for the resumption of hostilities. Lensing people are intensely gratified; hotel and boarding house keepers especially so. I suppose about the first business will be the reception of the reports of the several committees on public institutions. Barring that of the committees on the soldiers' home, upon whom devolved the investigation of the charges made against the management of that institution, nothing of a very alarming character is expected to develop itself, and even this, if all that is said be true, will be tame enough to catch without salt.

Not being satisfied that the law protecting game really protects, the Michigan sportsmen were instrumental in having a bill introduced for the appointment of a state game and fish warden. Lansing sportsmen labored so heroically for the measure that it passed the house before the recess, and they will keep up energetic efforts till their work is fully accomplished. The bill is sweeping in its character. It authorizes the appointment of a warden at a salary of $1,200 a year with three deputies in each county, and equips them with the most arbitrary powers. They are empowered to arrest violators of the game and fish laws without a warrant, and in addition to the authority of sheriffs, are also armed with the power of prose-cuting attorneys. The Nimrod who, with his gun on his shoulder, goes forth in quest of sport on the Sabbath day, and the unhallowed disciple of Izaak Walton who, without rule or compunction, desecrates Sunday by luring the finny tribe from their native element, can be promptly jailed and arrraigned before the nearest justice of the peace on the day following.

It is asserted that several Michigan cities will appeal to the legislature for such amendments to their charters as will permit contracts for electric or gas lighting to be made to cover a period of several years. In some respects such an amendment is necessary. More than one of the larger Michigan cities have found a difficulty in inducing a new electric light company to come in and compete for only one year's contract, the expense of starting a plant being too large to be undertaken for a certainty of only one year. Consequently the first one in possession obtains a monopoly. The same rule operates in lighting with gas, and may in other matters. It is, moreover, regarded as a business rule that short contracts tend to higher prices, while longer contracts bring lower bids. On the other hand, it is argued as wise on the part of cities to guard against too long contracts, from five to seven years being deemed quite long enough. So it would seem the best possible thing would be a well-guarded general law applicable to all the cities of the state.

Another educational bill is likely to make its appearance before long, providing for the ownership of all school books by the several school boards, who are to loan them out to pupils. The idea is not a new one, having been repeatedly broached in this and other states, and it is doubtful if it will obtain a very strong support. Few people seem to believe in the practicability of the plan, and still fewer believe it desirable even if practicable. The majority of those who have given the matter thought incline strongly to the opinion that the constant necessity for parents and guardians providing books for their children is "the tie that binds" them to an interest in school matters, to do away with which would so lessen their responsibility for the economic and satisfactory working of the school machinery that they would soon come to have little care whether "school kept or not." Doubt-less this is true to a sufficient extent to knock the bill out in the first round if it comes before the legislature.

This is a degenerate age, and no mis-take. So accustomed have all classes become to gambling operations of one kind and another that they hardly realize how far the energies of the American people are devoted to "speculative" schemes. This struck me forcibly when I read in a religious paper the other day a facecious reference to certain parties who had gone "long" and "short" on religion—terms used frequently in the secular press, This denotes a familiarity with gambling terms that augurs no good for the future, and I heartily appreciate the effort being made by Senator Holbrook to curtail this species operations. He has under way a bill to prevent gambling in stocks, bonds, petroleum, cotton, grain, provisions and other products. It is the direct intent of the bill to suppress the bucket shops which have fleeced so many Michigan people. I do not know that any of Michigan's truly good legislators have ever been "steered against" this "racket" though it is a fact that no sooner had the legislative session commenced than a new bucket shop began operations in the city and has since carefully circulated its daily printed bulletin among the members, as though some business was expected from that quarter.

One of the first things that will receive the attention of the senate is the bill abolishing the superior court of Detroit. Before adjournment the house passed it through neatly and expeditiously, and an attempt was made to rush it through the senate, whereat Senator O'Rielly rose up and "kicked" so vigorously the effort was abandoned and the bill laid away till after Canadian Fisheries-Coast Defenses-Reception-Pension Veto-Etc. Etc.

MR. EDITOR: The pending legislation upon the subject of the Canadian fisheries continues to excite a great deal of interest among the politicians, both within and outside of congressional circles. The state department is strongly in favor of the bill reported from the house committee on foreign affairs, as it is thought that the senate bill is so obscure in its meaning as to require future legislation in order to interpret some of its provisions. The house bill is both clear and concise, and under its provisions the executive branch would not have to hesitate before taking steps to carry out its intent,

The senate bill, which appropriates $21,000,000 for use in the coast defenses, was passed by the senate on Monday, and has been referred to the house committee on appropriations. It is believed that the bill will meet with a vigorous opposition at the hands of the committee, but in view of the public interest that has been manifested, some action, either favorable or adverse, may be expected upon the

The President gave the last official reception of the season on Thursday evening in honor of the army and navy. As is usual all entertainments where the brilliantly uniformed detenders of the country are the principal guests, the attendance was large. The crowd was equally as great, and it is said to have been even more select than the first entertainment of the season, which was given in honor of the diplomatic corps. Unusual individual interest was given to the occasion by the hostess of last season, Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, to the scene of her many pleasant social triumphs, and for the first time since Mrs. Cleveland has been mistress of the White House she shared popular at tention with another. The entertainment was a veritable full-dress parade. The glitter and show of many uniforms, combined with the rich dresses of the ladies, and elaborate floral decorations, made a scene that for variety in color is seldom equaled. Miss Cleveland held her reception back of the line in the blue room.

Mrs. Logso, her son and a party of twenty-five personal friends occupied seats in the ladies' private gallery of the Senate chamber during the occasion of the delivery of eulogistic addresses upon the late Senator on Wednesday. The galleries were crowded and long before the hour set for the opening of the session every seat had been taken. The proceedings were both interesting and impressive. Each senator present availed himself of the opportunity afforded him of paying his last sad tribute to the memory of the illustrious statesman.

But sixteen working days remain to the present congress, and thirteen of the fourteen annual appropriation bills are as yet not ready to be transmitted to the President. Ten of these await the action of the Senate; nine require the action of senate committees; five have not yet passed the house, and two have not been reported from the house committees.

The President's veto of the dependent pension bill on Friday last has since been the principal topic discussed in political circles. Opinions differ widely upon the question as to the probable political effect of the President's action. The republicans generally claim that it will afford them an opportunity for the manufacture of political capital, while the democrats claim that public sentiment will approve of the course taken by the President H. UTILIZING NIAGARA FALLS

A British Commentary on American Enterprise.

The London Graphic thus speaks of what it terms the desecration of Niagara Falls: "Nothing is sacred to the practical man of the "Nothing is sacred to the practical man of the present age, especially when he happens to dwell across the Atlantic. There he uses the wonders of nature as advertising boards for puffing quack medicines or patent stoves, and the picturesque and grandiose are only appreciated by him in proportion to their utilitarian value. For many years past, however, he has had a standing grievance. In the falls of Niagara he has seen a force of 7,000,000 horse power running to waste and his 000 horse power running to waste, and his regrets that no effort has been made to utilize so stupendous a force have found vent in every newspaper in the Union.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF FALLS, SHOWING TUNNEL "His mind is being now set at rest. Some years since the first considerable use of water power at Niagara was made by the running of a hydraulic canal about a mile in length from Port Day to a point below the falls. This has been so successful that a far more ambitious enterprise is now being undertaken by a 'Niagara Tunnel and Power Company.' Briefly outlined, the scheme is to construct a subterranean tunnel from the water line below the falls (marked X in the illustration), standing the scheme is to construct a subterranean tunnel from the water line below the falls (marked X in the illustration), extending through the solid rock to the upper Niagara river, at a point about one mile above the falls, where a head of 120 feet is above the falls, where a head of 120 feet is obtained. It is stated that the magnitude of the power thus available will exceed the combined power in use at Holyoke, Lowell, Minneapolis, Cohoes, Lewiston and Lawrence. The mill sites are to be provided with railway sidings and tracks leading to all important northern railways, while the Erie canal, seven miles distant, is connected with the river and is thus available for the dispatch of goods.

"The cost of this scheme is estimated at $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, and the work is to be executed by an army of 10,000 Italian

It is said that a "mule can not bray if a brick be tied to his tail." Yes, but what becomes of the man who engineers the "DON'T YOU WORRY."

How Shrewd Business Men Have Solved a Great Problem.

"Is there a fatality among our prom-inent men" is a question that we often ask. It is a question that perplexes our leading medical men, and they are at a loss to know how to answer it.

We sometimes think that if the physicians would give part of the energy to the consideration of this quesergy to the consideration of this question that they give to combating other schools of practice, it might be satisfactorily answered.

The fights of "isms" reminds us often of the quarrels of old Indian tribes, that were only happy when they were annihilating each other.

If Allopathy makes a discovery that promises good to the race, Homospathy derides it and breaks down its influence. If Homopathy makes a discovery that promises to be a boon to the race. Allopathy attacks it.

It is absurd that these schools should fancy that all of good is in their methods and none in any other.

Fortunately for the people, the merit which these "isms" will not recognize, is recognized by the public, and this public recognition, taking the form of demand upon the medical profession.

eventually compels it to recognize it.

Is it possible that the question has been answered by shrewd business men? A prominent man once said to an in-quirer who asked him how he got rich, "I got rich because I did things while other people were thinking about doing them." It seems to us that the public have recognized what this fatality is, and how it can be met, while the medical profession have been wrangling

By a careful examination of insurance reports we find that there has been a sharp reform with reference to examinations, (and that no man can now get any amount of insur-ance who has the least development of kdney disorder,) because they find that sixty out of every hundred in this country do, either directly or indirectly, suffer from kidney disease. Hence, no reliable company will insure a man except after a rigid urinary examina-

This reminds us of a little instance which occurred a short time ago. A fellow editor was an applicant for a respectable amount of insurance. He was rejected on examination, because, un-known to himself, his kidneys were diseased. The shrewd agent, however, did not give up the case. He had an eye to business and to his commission, and said: "Don't you worry: you get a half a dozen bottles of Warner's safe cure, take it according to directions and in about a month come around, and we will have another examination. know you will find youself all right and will get your policy."

The editor expressed surprise at the agent's faith, but the latter replied:
"This point is a valuable one. Very many insurance agents all over the country, when they find a customer rejected for this cause, give similar advice, and eventually he gets the in-

What are we to infer from such circumstances? Have shrewd insurance men, as well as other shrewd business men, found the secret answer to the inquiry? Is it possible that our columns have been proclaiming, in the form of advertisements, what has proved a blessing in disguise to millions, and yet by many ignored as an advertisement?

In our files we find thousands of strong testimonials for Warner's safe cure, no two alike, which could not exist except upon a basis of truth : indeed, they are published under a guarantee of $5,000 to any one who will disprove their correctness, and this offer has been standing, we are told, for more than four years.

Undoubtedly this article, which is simply dealing out justice, will be considered as an advertisement and be rejected by many as such.

We have not space nor time to discuss the proposition that a poor thing could not succeed to the extent that this great remedy has succeeded, could not become so popular without merit even if pushed by a Vanderbilt or an Astor.

Hence we take the liberty of telling our friends that it is a duty that they owe to themselves to investigate the matter and reflect carefully, for the statements published are subject to the refutation of the entire world. None have refuted them; on the contrary hundreds of thousands have believed them and prove them true, and in believinghave found the highest measure of satisfaction, that which money cannot buy, and money cannot take away.

Mrs. Betsey B. Heep,

Wife of Mr. Alvah Keep, of Salem, Mich., who died December 12, 1886, after an illness of a few days, was well known and greatly beloved in the vicinity in which she lived. She was born in Madison, N. Y., April 3rd, 1816, and moved in early life to Homer, N. Y. After her marriage she came to Salem, Mich., afterward settled in Calhoun county, Mich., and some years later returned to Salem, where she died. She leaves a husband and three brothers, all living in Michigan, Mr. William Berry of Salem, Dr. Berry, of Bellevue, and Mr. George Berry who now lives with Dr. Berry. Her death has made a vacant place in the hearts of many, and her loss will long be deeply feit by the community. Her bereaved friends loved and prized her many loving words expressed in poetry, and in the church of which she was always a consistent and faithful member. To her family the loss is irreparable. Her life during the long years of her feebleness, was a beautiful example of Christian resignation, patience and unselfishness. Every attention shown her was recognized by her in terms of affection and touching tenderness. Her husband and family have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in their great sorrow, but they have comfort in the knowledge that she was resigned to her Father's will, and that hers was a happy release from years of suffering. The memory of her beautiful life tor memory of her beautiful life for which the world is the better, will ever linger in the minds of all who knew and

Twenty Years Record.

Rev. J. W. Macomber, Mahopac, Putnam Co., N. In a short time I found myself completely cured. Since that time I have used it with universal success in my family.'

All hope of a cure was abandoned, and he was given over as incurable Eight treatments by the hands of Mrs. N. H. Pierce brought him out on crutches, and he was soon able to lay them aside, and has returned to his place of business in Minnesota. No medicine was given. This case alone ought to establish her reputation as a wonderful healer. She is doing great work wherever she goes. We need more of that class of doctors. GROVER SAYS "NO!"

His Signature Withheld from the Dependent Pension Bill.

Too Many Opportunities Offered for Fraud -Opposed to Appropriating Mill-ions While the People Are Yet Paying War Taxes.

ANOTHER VETO.

Washington, Feb. 12 -- President Cleve land on Friday sent a message to the House of Representatives, returning without his approval the Dependent Pension bill. The President says that the almost constant pension legislation since the close of the war has placed upon the pension rolls 365, 763 pensioners of all classes, for whom $75,000,000 has been appropriated for the current year, and for whom $808,624,811 has been expended from 1861 to 1836. It is now proposed to award service pensions to soldiers of all wars at the rate of twelve dollars per month. It exacts only service for three months, without requiring engagement in battle or subjection to any actual dangers of war. The pension is allowed to men who have suffered no injury, loss or damage of any kind due to military service, and includes those who never reached the front at all. The section of the bill allowing this pension is in language so uncertain as to be subject to private and mistain as to be subject to unjust and mis-chlevous application. The person seeking the pension must be suffering mental or physical disability such as incapacitates him from the performance of labor in such a degree as to render him unable to earn a support, and must be dependent on daily labor for support. Passing on to a consid-eration of their condition the President

"It will be observed that there is no limits tion or definition of the incapacitating injury or aliment itself. It need only be such a degree of disability from any cause as renders the claimant unable to earn a support by labor. It claimant unable to earn a support by labor. It seems to me that the 'support' here mentioned as one which can not be earned is a complete and entire support, with no diminution on account of the least impairment or physical or mental condition. If it had been intended to embrace only those who by disease or injury were totally unable to labor it would have been very easy to express that idea, instead of recognizing, as is done, a degree of such inability. What is a support? Who is to determine whether a man earns it, or has it or has it not? Is the Government to enter the has it not? Is the Government to enter the homes of claimants for pensions, and, after an examination of their surroundings and circumstances, settle those ques-tions? Shall the Government say to one man that his manner of subsistence by his carnings is a support, and to mother that the things his earnings furnish are not a support? Any at-tempt, however honest, to administer this law in such a manner would necessarily produce more unfairness and unjust discrimination, and give more scope for partisan partiality, and would result in more perversion of the Goy-ernment's benevolent intentions than the exe-cution of any statute ought to permit."

The President then at some length de-scribes the difficulties which would arise in administering the law without unjust dis-crimination. In no case is there any grad-ing of this pension. The only difference between the proposed legislation and pre-vious bills passed for the benefit of the sur-viving soldiers of the civil war is the incur-rence in one case of disabilities in military service, and in the other disabilities exist-ing, but in no way connected with or re-sulting from such service. Under the pro-viso of the proposed bill permitting per-sons now receiving pensions to be admit-ted to the benefits of the act, it is difficult to see how those now on the pension roll for disabilities incurred in the service, and which diminish their earning capacity, can be denied the pension provided in this bill.

Another condition required by claimants under this act is that they shall be "dependent upon their daily labor for support." It is not required that he should be without property, but only that labor should be necessary in some degree; nor is it required that he should be new receiving support from others. Continuing the President says:

"There can be no doubt that the race after pensions offered by the bill would not only stimulate weakness and pretended incapacity for labor, but put a further premium on dishonesty and mendacity. Experience has demonstrated and mendacity. Experience has demonstrated that all estimates concerning the probable future cost of a pension list are uncertain and unreliable, and always fall below actual realization. The Chairman of the House Committee on Pensions calculates that the number of pensioners under the bill would be 33,105, and the increased cost $4,767,120; this is upon the theory that only those who are entirely unable to work would be beneficiaries. [The President gives a number of filustrations, taken from the records of the Pension Office, tending to show that estimates can not be relied upon in such cases.] If none should be pensioned under this bill except those utterly unable to work, I am satisfied that the cost stated in the estimate referred to would be many times multiam satisfied that the cost stated in the esti-mate referred to would be many times multi-plied and with a constant increase from year to year. If those partially unable to earn their support should be admitted to the privileges of this bill the probable increase of expense would this bill the probable increase of expense would be almost appalling.

"I can not believe that the vast, peaceful army of Union soldiers, who, having contentedly resumed their places in the ordinary avocations of life, cherish as sacred the memory of patriotic service, or who, having been disabled by the casualties of war, justly regard the present pension roll, on which appear their names, as a roll of honor, desire at this time and in the present exigency to be confounded with those who, through such a bill as this, are willing to be objects of simple charity, and to gain a place upon the pension charity, and to gain a place upon the pension roll through alleged dependence."
"I think it may be said that at the close of the war of the rebellion every Northern State, and a great majority of Northern counties and cities, were burdened with taxation on account of the large bounties paid our soldiers, and the of the large bounties paid our soldiers, and the bonded debt thereby created still constitutes a large item in the account of the tax-gatherer against the people. Federal taxation, no less borne by the people than that levie directly upon their property, is still maintained at the rate made necessary by the exigencies of war. If this bill should become a law, with its tremendous addition to our pension obligation, I am thoroughly convinced that further efforts to reduce the Federal revenue and restore some part of it to our our pension obligation. I am thoroughly convinced that further efforts to reduce the Federal revenue and restore some part of it to our people will, and perhaps should, be seriously quessioned. It has constantly been a cause of pride and congrisulation to the American citizen that his country is not put to the charge of maintaining a large standing army in time of peace. Yet we are now living under a war tax which has been tolerated in peaceful times to meet the obligations incurred in war. But for years past, in all parts of the country, the demand for the reduction of the burdens of taxation upon our labor and production has increased in volume and urgency.

"I am not willing to approve a measure presenting the objections to which this bill is subject, and which, moreover, will have the effect of disappointing the expectation of the people and their desire and along for relief from war taxation in time of peace."

The President closes by saying:

"The evil threatened by this bill is, in my opinion, such that, charged with a great responsibility in behalf of the people, I can not do otherwise than to bring to the consideration of this measure my best efforts of thought and judgment, and perform my constitutional duty in reliation thereto, regardless of all consequences, except such as appear to me to be related to the best and highest interests of the country."

The president has received upwards of 300 applications for appointments on the inter state commerce bill. No appointments will be made until after congress adjourns.

THE Lansing Republican pertinently suggests that perhaps the reason the democratic state central committee selected March as the date for holding their state convention is because it is naturally a windy month.

ONE of the most interesting events of the early months of eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, will be the banquet of the Michigan Republican Club, in Detroit, on next week Tuesday, the 22nd, Washington's Birthday. Distinguished republican leaders, orators and statesmen from all over the union, among them those most prominently mentioned for the next presidential nomination-Blaine, Sherman and other prominent men-will be present and fire the hearts of the assembled masses with enthusiasm as they set forth in glowing terms the grand achievements of the greatest party the world ever saw, and tell of the brilliant future that awaits it if it adheres to the cause and principles that have won for it so much honor in the

PRACTICAL HYGIENE.

One of the most important matters that will come before our state legislature at this session, which greatly concerns the people of this state in many respects, and to which our legislators ought to give the most careful consideration, is the project of establishing a hygienic laboratory at the University. At the October meeting of the State Board of Health, the following resolution was adopted.

Resolved, That the Regents of the University be respectfully requested to consider the advisability of establishing a lab oratory of hygiene, in which original investigations—chemical, microscopical and biological, shall be carried on, and attention shall be given to the subjects of the analysis of water, the adulteration of food, and the practical investigations of other questions in sanitary science; regular re-ports of important results of laboratory work to be made to the State Board of Health.

At a meeting of the Board of Regents, December 7th, Drs. Lyster, Baker and Vaughan, of the State Board of Health, appeared before the regents to speak in favor of the above resolution. The arguments presented by the board are very interesting and convincing, and all who peruse them will acknowledge their practibility. They claim that it is high time tific men of America be furnished with facilities for original research, and that they should no longer be compelled to wait for all such work to be done in Germany and France. The resourses of our country are great, and it presents many peculiar sanitary problems which demand solution. In nearly every department of science and art, the University of Michigan has taken the lead among the educational institutions west of the Alleghanies; now let it inaugurate a department of hygiene; certainly nothing could be of more importance to the people than a study of the laws of health. Drainage, sewerage, water supply, the adulterations of food and the study of methods for restricting contagious diseases are questions in which every community is more or less interested.

Nearly every civilized country is now manifesting great interest in the protection of the health and prolongation of the lives of its citizens. Germany has established a number of hygienic institutions, in connection with its universities, and all students are instructed in sanitary science. The already famous Imperial Laboratory of Hygiene, at Berlin, under the charge of Prof. Koch, has accomplished a great

Here the contagious nature of consumption (the most dreaded of all disease in this latitude) has been demonstrated, and the public is now being instructed in the methods of procedure necessary to limit its spread, and the probabilities are that by intelligent care in this direction the death rate from this desease will be great-

France has given much aid to practical hygiene, and the labors of Pasteur on anthrax and hydrophobia are known and appreciated everywhere.

The municipal laboratory of Paris is maintained by the city, and for a small fee any one may have any sample of food or drink tested for adulterations. In this way the people of Paris have become quite thoroughly posted concerning adul-terations, and from this knowledge the wisest and most satisfactory enactments against food adulterations have been made, and are enforced.

Ergland, through its local government board, has carried on many important hygienic investigations, among which may have demonstrated the fact that scariet fever may be transferred from cows to children through milk. In the United States much money has been spent in health work. Several states have salaried analysis, milk inspectors, etc.

The legislature of Louisiana, two years appropriated $16,000 to enable Dr. Holt, of the State Board of Health, to make some experiments in the disinfection of ships, and as a result of these experiments, which were successful, yellow fever has been practically kept out of the state. The same state maintains the disinfection of ships at the mouth of the Mississippi, and thus protects not only itself, but the whole of the Mississippi Valley. The state of Mississippi appropriates $45,000 annually for health work.

The policy of Michigan, in health work as in other departments of state legislation, has been to educate the people. The Michigan State Board of Health is not an executive body; its powers are wholly advisory, and it has accomplished the great work for which it is universally given credit, by educational means; these it hopes to strengthen and widen by the laboratory of practical hygiene, which the regents have been asked to establish.

There is needed some place where every health officer of town, village or city can have samples of drinking water, or articles of food tested for impurities and adulterations. This could not be done for nothing, but at a minimum fee, and the money obtained for work of this kind could be turned into the laboratory fund; this would give every locality in the state a direct interest in the University, and all could see the practical benefit to be derived from this department. Reflexly this would aid the University and lead to its more hearty support by the people.

There should also be carried on in such a laboratory original investigations con-cerning the causation, nature, and prevention of disease. There can be no question as to the duty of the state in protecting the lives of its citizens, and no one can deny the fact that education in sanitary matters is one of the most powerful pro-tective aids that can be furnished any people. Again, the instruction offered by such a laboratory to its students will make them fit advisers in all sanitary matters to the various communities in which they

How Shall We Vote?

EDITOR REGISTER: Shall we vote for the prohibitory amendment? This will be the great question until after election in April next. Many will vote for it as a choice between the present tax and police laws, and total prohibition. It is no secret that many who favored the tax law have been sorely disappointed at the results, and the cowardice and hypocracy of officials in collecting the tax and enforcing the police regulations.

On general principles it may with truth be said that any law that permits one thousand saloons to flourish in Detroit, and forty in each of such small cities as Ann Arbor, is a flat failure. The number of saloons that have been able to pay the tax of $200 and $300, and continue in business are much greater than the friends of the law believed. The legislature of 1882 and 1884 are responsible for the present hostility to the tax law, and growth of the prohibition party. They refused to increase the tax or give the people a local option law. Michigan is behind all the western states, except Ohio, in the amount of tax required of liquor dealers and Ohio has a local option clause in its tax law.

We are behind the times on this temperance question. Both parties have been on their knees before the state liquor association, asking "What shall we do, (or not do) to be saved?" This policy has caused the dry rot in the republican party of Michigan, but the republicans in the present legislature seem inclined to seek a remedy and save the flock.

Many good people, but large tax payers, will vote against the amendment because its adoption will deprive us of this tax the saloons now pay. The result is therefore in the hands of the farmers, who receive no benefit from this tax. They have the power now to declare the liquor business outlawed, except to be sold under stringent regulations for medical, mechanical, chemical or scientific purposes. Will they do it? It is a grand opportunity. The amendment will be snowed under in all the large cities.

By the present tax law the people of our cities and villages are made co-partners in the saloon business, the keeper of the saloon acting as both partner and overseer and agent to sell the drinks. Once a year they divide the profits and the people's share goes into the public treasury of the cities and villages. A very weak spot in this co-partnership is found in the fact that the keepers of aloons claim that since they divide the profits with the official authorities they should be permitted to sell all they can to every one, young or old, drunk or sober, and on all days, and at all hours, to enable them to make a living and pay over every year $300 of the profits by way of a tax. The authorities feel the force of this appeal and begin to wilt, and feel weak in the spinal column. They see that if the police regulations are enforced it might prove to be a blunder and a calamity, for the dealer might have to close his saloon, which would be an annual loss of $300 to the treasury. The more saloons the more ducats in the treasury. It is a gay and festive business. But if it is true, as claimed, that the human race is growing better and nobler it would seem about time that we began to be ashamed of this partnership and serve notice of its dissolution. It has had its day as a tem-perance measure. Regulation don't seem to regulate.

Thousands will yote against the amendment because it prohibits the keeping of lager beer saloons where anyone can get beer who has five cents to pay for it. The belief entertained by many that American lager beer is a healthy drink is one of the meet mischlesvore and determine the most mischievous and destructive delusions of our age. A large majority of our best physicians now declare it is one of the most injurious drinks now in use. The physicians of Toledo have had abundant opportunities to observe its effect on the vital organs and arrive at correct conclusions on this subject. All the oldest and best physicians of that city have given written testimony that its use as a beverage is a prolific cause of fatal diseases. Dr Gillette, medical director of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., says: "At every age the total abstainer has a very great advan-tage over the man who drinks even moderately. This rule applies to the use of malt liquors as well as to spirituous liquors."

J. W. Alexander, vice president of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., says: "We believe that the recuperative power is very much reduced among the habitual con-sumers of alcholic drinks, and we believe that much beer effects especially this recuperative power." President Green, of the Connecticut Mutual Life, says "that beer drinking is deceptive at the first; it is thoroughly destructive at the last."

Dr. Burgan, of Toledo, has practiced thirty years in that city. He says: "I think beer kills quicker than any other kind of liquor." Dr. Thorn who has practiced there twenty years and speaking of the causes of the death of patients, sometimes discussed by physicians, says: "To say they were habitual beer drinkers is a sufficient explanation to any physician. We never ask anything further as to causes. Dr. S. S. Sungren, one of the leading Homocopathic physicians and surgeons of the country, has practiced in Toledo twenty-five years. He says, "It is difficult to find any part of a confirmed beerdrinker's machinery that is doing its work as it should. This is the reason why their lite-cords snap off like glass rods when disease or accident gives them a little blow. Beer drinking shortens life. This is not a mere opinion however. It is a well settled, recognized fact. Physicians and insurance companies accept this as unquestionably as they do any other undisputed fact of science." There were similar statements from a dozen of the best physicians of Toledo published in Yours truly,

The third meeting of the Michigan schoolmasters' club, will be held in room 24, north hall of the main University building, next Saturday. Chute, of this city, and discussions thereon.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight appeared at the Fourteenth street theatre, last evening, in the absurdity called "Over the Garden Wall," and, as usual, amused their audience. Mr. Knight acted cleverly as a drunken German, Mr. James Quinn was comical as a stupid servant girl, and Mr. Edward Foy made a hit as a burlesque ballet girl. The St. Felix sisters were seen in some new dances.—Evening Post.

The young people's society of the Bap-tist church will give a novel entertainment in their parlors, Saturday evening, Feb. 19th, called "the spinning wheel days." The good New England dame, with her spinning wheel, will teach us to spin, and her youthful sons and daughters, in the dress of "ye olden time" will dispense dress of "ye olden time" will dispense New England hospitality. Do not fail to catch a glimpse of your grandmother's time and taste again good old New Eng-land cheer. Admission 10 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight opened in their reconstructed musical comedy, "Over the Garden Wall," last evening at the Fourteenth street theatre, to a good business. As claimed upon the bills, the piece was gotten up "for laughing pur-poses only," and it more than fills its mission. It is immensely funny, Mr. Knight as J. Julius Snitz being in splendid form and keeping the audience yelling with laughter at his comical acting. His songs were exceeding well received. Mrs. Knight repeated her charming hit as Nellie Wrangle, and sang and danced to the delight of all present. Our Bridget was no small factor in the fun making.— N. Y. Daily News.

Considerable new business has been added to Mr. and Mrs. George S. Knight's absurdity, "Over the Garden Wal," which was seen the first time this season at the Fourteenth street theatre last evening. Of course Mr. Knight and his clever wife were the principal fun makers, but in Messrs. Edward Foy and James Quinn they had talented assistants. Mr. Foy's imitations of prominent actors, and Mr.

Having purchased the stock of Sheet Music, Music Books and Musical Merchandise formally owned by Mr. A. Wilsey it gives me pleasure to state that I am prepared to furnish the public with anything in the music line as low and in many cases lower than can be obtained elsewhere, NOT excepting our large cities. Having had an experience of six years in attending to the wants of the musical people of Chicago and being a practical musician I feel confident that I shall be able to please and meet the demands of all who favor me with their patronage.

I shall do my utmost to serve my patrons, and would be happy to have any who desire call and I will gladly show goods and furnish prices whether they wish to purchase or not.

It will be my aim to show in Ann Arbor an assortment of all musical goods from which the most fastidious can make a satisfactory selection.

There can always be found in stock a fine line of the CELEBRATED HAINES BROS., BOARDMAN & GRAY and other PIANOS, and the ESTEY and STORY & CLARK ORGANS in many different styles, and at prices which defy competition. I desire to make my store musical headquarters for our city and wish all to consider it as such.

THOSE HOSPITAL CHARGES.

The Executive Committee of the Regents say they are Groundless.

For some time a rumor has been affoat to the effect that those in charge of the University hospital were guilty of ill treating those confined there. These rumors were finally brought to the notice of President Angell, who immediately summoned Regents Grovesnor and Blair of the country committee who came Tues. the executive committee, who came Tuesday and fully investigated the matter. Their investigation was conducted openly, that anyone who had charges to prefer might do so, but none of those, who were so willing to circulate the rumors, put in an appearance. The committee, after thoroughly convincing themselves of the groundlessness of the charges, ordered the following spread upon the mirutes of the meeting:

"Certain complaints concerning the management of the University hospital having been brought to the attention of the executive committee, they assembled at the hospital, and listened to statements by Drs. Palmer and Frothingham, of the hospital committee of the faculty, Dr. Chadbourne, house surgeon, Dr. Patterson, ward master, Mrs. Brigham, M. D., ward mistress, Mrs. Roseburgh, matron, Miss. Stoddard, M. D., nurse, and Miss Cutler, nurse; also to statements by Rev. Dr. Haskell, Miss Brown, Miss Sutherland and Mrs. Jaycox, residents of Ann Arbor; and also to numerous letters and communications from present and past patients presented through the above named persons or otherwise.

"After carefully considering the statements, the committee have come to the conclusion that while there have been some cases of neglect in the preparation and in the serving of food, there has been no such neglect or mismanagement as calls for the action of the board of regents, but whatever improvements are needed can, they believe, be secured by the exercise of proper supervision on the part of the hospital committee of the faculty, and they commend the matter to the careful and continued attention of that commit-

Lyons, Mich., in Great Danger of Being Swept Away-Torrents and Land-Slides in Pennsylvania-Wind-Storms in Ohlo and Elsewhere.

TOWNS UNDER WATER. Lyons, Mich., Feb. 12.—The flood here is simply terrible. A panic has seized some of the people, and it is impossible to get estimates of losses. The water in some places is four feet deep in many residences, and the same state of affairs previous terrible in vails in store-rooms. Every body is moving or preparing to move.

Three buildings have been washed away and demolished, and many others badly damaged. Alex McFarlane's family are sick and cut off from assistance. At Muir the same serious conditions prevail, and merchants have abandoned their stores. Specials from other points are to the same effect, but Lyons seems to be the worst

The people are worn out working night and day to save their property. The Maple and Grand rivers unite here, and both are raging. Should the Lansing ice reach here before the gorge gives way all the business places on the north side of Main street will be washed away. A rough estimate of the damage makes the aggregate between $75,000 and $100,000.

Lyons, Mich., Feb. 15 .- The whole country from Lyons to Muir presents an arctic panorama of desolation. Many merchants have been unable to visit their stores since Thursday morning, and several who at-tempted it were swept down by the current and narrowly escaped death. All the mer-chants here lose heavily, all manufacturing establishments are crippled and many buildings are ruined. The ice-gorge shows no sign of breaking, extending as a solid glacier five miles long and fifteen or twenty feet thick. The loss of property is enormous and will doubtless reach $150,000. The Holly water-works building stands in the midst of the flood and has been literally ground to pieces.

The river is still flowing through Main street, and merchants are building trestle-works to their stores, only to find their goods frozen in icc. The cold weather has settled the water nearly a foot, but made work almost impossible. The men working in the water are costed with ice. The first mail since last Wednesday arrived yester day, being carried across the gorge below. Families who were driven from their homes without a change of clothing are returning in boats through the windows, to find every thing covered with ice.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 12.—A heavy rain fell over the entire State Thursday night swelling the rivers, and high water con tinues at the points heretofore reported Thornapple river rose at Vermontville last night, carrying away two railroad bridges and flooding the town. A young man named Winters, at Charlotte, attempted to cross the river with a team of mules, and Winters was drowned. Three Rivers is surrounded by water. All the shops have been closed at that point.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 14.—The town of Lyons, Mich., was swept Saturday by a tor-rent that wrecked and carried away many buildings and caused great suffering to the inhabitants, many of whom barely escaped with their lives. Floods were prevalent throughout Michigan all along the course of the Grand river.

FORT Madison, Ia., Feb. 15.—The breaking of the levees on the edge of Skunk river, eight miles northeast, on Thursday night, has filled fifteen square miles of low farm land with water averaging five feet in depth. An old negro resident and wife while driving from their home to higher land were drowned. Great damage is done to cribbed corn and hay in stacks. flood is greater than was ever known about Green Bay township.
SANDUSKY, O., Feb. 15.—Reports just received from various portions of this county show that great damage was done by the heavy rain and tornado on Friday. number of buildings were blown down, and the country for miles in extent was flooded to the depth of two or three feet. The damage will reach between $150,000 and Fifty or sixty bridges have been carried away, orchards and forest trees prostrated, fences swept away, and scores small structures damaged or demol-

TORRENTS AND LANDSLIDES. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 12.—Telegrams from points at the head-waters of the Allegheny indicate a serious condition of affairs. At Oil City many houses in the lower part of the city are flooded and the residents are moving to safer quarters. At Frank-lin great damage has been done to the washing away of derricks, tracks, etc. Travel on all the railroads has been impeded by landslides, and the tracks of the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio and the Lake Shore roads are under water. A landslide on the latter road, just above the city, carried the track from the road-bed into French creek for a distance of 200 feet, and the passage of trains will not be possible for two or three days. In this city there have been numer ous landslides along the railroads, which have delayed trains, but so far no accidents have occurred.

THE BLIZZARD'S WRATH.

It Is Vented on Helpless Residents of Montana.

Many Lives Thought to Have Been Lost During the Cold Spell—Snow Reaches a Depth of from Ten to Fifty Feet, and the Mercury Drops to 62 1-2.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

BUTTE, M. T., Feb '14.—Reports received from Fort Benton, Fort Assinaboine and the upper river towns say the loss of life from cold during the recent blizzard will be larger than was anticipated. Ranchmen were unable to go after fuel. Those going from one town to another were lost in the blizzard. A great many cowboys endeavoring to drive cattle were frozen, and some will have to have their legs am-

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The World publishes a long special from Fort Keogh, M. T., on the severity of the present winter. Nothing like it, according to the World's correspondent, has been experienced for many years. The severe weather started in soon after the holidays. From January 6 to 11 the degree of cold was some-thing frightful. Mercury thermometers were often congealed, and spirit thermome-ters were kept busy jumping from 40 to 60 degrees below zero. Half a dozen times has the 60 notch been touched, and once this season 62% degrees below zero has been scored on the Saskatchewan plains. The snow-fall has been unprecedented. In some places it is anywhere from ten to fifty feet deep. On the level throughout the National park and elsewhere it is from eight to tweive feet deep, and on the dead-level prairie from eighteen to forty inches.

Of course, such a heavy fall must bring more or less suffering and death. A number of casualties have already occurred. An Englishman named Elliott left Fort Assinaboine twenty-five days ago for Maple Creek, in Canada. He is an old man and could not face the northern cold, so it is believed he has perished. David J. Walters, a miner, aged sixty, was found dead this week in a snow-bound cabin near Virginia City. Dan Lovey was lost in the Mussel-shell range and wandered for six days with nothing to eat in the worst blizzard ever seen. He went a short distance to blanket a horse and was lost, and could not find his way back. He was picked up by some cowboys a week later, near dead.

Tony Wise and a Swede named Martin were at work on the side of Sheep mountaln early in January. A huge avalanche swept down the mountain side and hurried two men into eternity without a moment's warning, burying them thousands of feet below. In the mining regions west of here terrible freezings have occurred, but fortu-nately with little loss of life.

The Indians seem to have caught it hard-er than any other human creatures in the country. A band of British Cree Indians came across the line last fall, and while the weather was fine camped in the mountains between the forks of the Sun river. An unusual snow came and the creatures became penned in by an icy wall. *From seventy the number was reduced to fiftyone by starvation. when white men hunted them up and brought rehef. During the latter part of January fifty lodges of Crow Indians camped on Clark's fork came near dying. Many did perish, but the majority managed to sustain life by eating the cattle

It is impossible to say what damage has occurred with stock and cattle. As a rule, horses and mules have done well, but cattie and sheep have been more than decimated. Some authorities say the sheep industry is nearly wiped out, except where shelter and food were provided. Some sheepmen in Western Montana have lost entire herds. There is no doubt the cattle industry has received a serious blow. Re-liable men have estimated the loss at fortyfive and fifty per cent. Others, just as re-liable, say twenty per cent. will cover all.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as re-lieving the burden of home manufactures. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boshee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising use it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Mrs. D. C. Pickett, Columbus, Wis., says: "It is a little over a year ago since I was so badly afflicted. The disease was in every nerve and muscle of my body; I was completely prostrated and helpless for four weeks; I could not bear to be touched, as even the weight of a finger would cause the greatest pain, and I was in constant dread of its getting into the heart, in fact it bordered very close to it, and the doctor had very grave doubts as to my getting well. I had taken many different kinds of medicines, but was recommended to try Athlophoros, was positive it would help Oh, how sick it made me, and had it not been for the persistent efforts of my husband I don't think I should have continued taking it; but he insisted so strongly that I kept on with it. In about five days I began to improve, and when I had finished taking the botttle I was well. I only took a small dose as the medicine was so strong.

Madison, Wisconsin. I have used Athlophoros for rheumatism and I can cheerfully say with the most satisfactory results. Geo. W. HUNTLEY, 66 Pinckney Street.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlo-phoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle

A MODERN FORT.

METHOD OF COAST DEFENSE WHICH WILL LIKELY BE ADOPTED.

Gen. Sheridan Favors Sunken Forts with Almost Invisible Steel Turrets-The Experiments with the Gruson Turret at

Gen. Sheridan expresses the opinion that the forts to be constructed for the defense of our cities and harbors should be so built as to afford as small a target for an enemy as possible. He believes they should be under ground, with the exception of the part in which the guns are fired. He would place the guns in turrets or sunken pits and raise the pieces at the moment of firing. It is the pur-pose of this article to describe a lately de-signed fort, which is more or less in use in the defenses of nearly every nation of Eu-

A TURTLE BACK TURRET.

In building one of these sunken forts a number of circular pits are first dug; one to be the fort proper and the others to be used as magazines for the storing of ammunition, provisions, water and other requirements of a long siege. These auxiliary pits are also to be used for the placing of steam engines for developing the power to move the turrets and guns, to furnish the electric light and work the water and air pumps. These subterranean chambers are connected by tunnels, the walls and roof of all being solid masonry and concrete. As the possibility of such a fort being injured by shot decreases precautions must be taken against other modes of attack. Consequently the roofs of these forts are made unusually strong to withstand the charges of dynamite and other high explosives that will be dropped upon them. Then bombs containing burning fluid which will emit deadly fumes to poison the air and smother the men who breatheit, will undoubtedly be used in the next war. A fluid has also been discovered which when thrown in front of a breastwork or fortress will burn for a long time giving forth a dense black smoke. To provide against this, air pumps have be-come a necessity to furnish pure air to the interior of the fort and to blow away the smoke which unless a wind was blowing would shut out the view of the enemy as with an impenetrable wall. This air supply must be drawn through many pipes with secret outlets located at long distances from the fort.

INTERIOR OF A MODERN FORT.

The form of fort adopted in Europe, and which is now considered to be well nigh impregnable, is largely the result of Yankee ingenuity. Away back in 1843 Mr. Timby, of Washington, advocated the use of inclined armor instead of the vertical walls then in armor instead of the vertical walls then in use. Then the conception and application of the turret is of course due to Ericsson. How these suggestions have been applied is well shown in the accompanying sectional view of a modern turtle back sunken fort.

Experiments conducted last summer at Spezia prove that the dome and side armor of such a fort can be made of chilled iron so as to withstand shots from the heaviest guns now made. The occasion for the experiments was this: The Italian government having decided to erect two of these turtle back forts, each to carry two 120-ton guns, invited Gruson, the inventor of a turret, to submit a section of it to the fire of a 100-ton gun at a distance of 438 feet. If the armor would withstand three shots under these cir-cumstances the contract would be given him. The Gruson armor stood the test and the contract was awarded him. It was shown that a turret capable of withstanding the fire of a 100-ton gun, and large enough itself to cover a gun of that size would weigh 1.450 tons and costs about $150 to $200 per ton. To build a plant for constructing just such fortifications is the object of at least one bill now before congress.

Literature the Fashionable Fad.

Literature is the fashionable fad now, just as art used to be. The same women who, a couple of seasons ago, were going mad over plaques and panels are now mooning their afternoons away at literary classes or public readings. The bric-a-brac craze has been supplanted by a craze for books, and no matter whether you have a spoonful of brains or a bushel you must read the poets and dash off little things of your own now and then, even if you have to copy them out of the papers, in order to be in the swim.

A dreadful stir was created in what is known as our literary society last week by the appearance in Town Topics of a sarcastic sketch called "Mrs. Turveydrop's Reading Class." It purported to be a young lady's description of a meeting of a certain literary circle which is just now enjoying great popularity. The subject was freely and caustically handled, and under the names that figured in it the originals were readily identified. The humbug of these flimsy affairs was advoitly and mercilessly stabled by the satir-ist's keen pen, and the paper, which has won a place of polite consideration and dread with society for its merciless mockery of its foibles, experienced an active boom in upper tendom. The result is said to have been the dissolution of several minor reading classes and the sta-tioning of sentries at the door of the one specially singled out for ridicule, in order to make sure that none of the non-elect shall enter.-New York News.

First Instance of Co-education. Cushman K. Davis, the new senator from Minnesota, attended Carroll college, an incipient seat of learning at Waukesha, Wis. Carroll college is now a thing of the past, but it once promised to be a large and famous school. It was the first notable instance of co-education in the United States. The plan worked well there. The girls did the cooking and the boys furnished the meat and gro-ceries, and if the good friends of the institution had been numerous and rich enough to provide salaries for the professors, the exper-iment might by this time have become one of the marvels of western civilization.-Detroit

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE, JR.

How He Has Been Rewarded for His In genuity.

The Westinghouse air brake has carried the name of its inventor to every land in which is found the iron rail, even the cars of the single railroad in Japan use this brake. Mr. Westinghouse has given his attention to other mechanical appliances until a list of his inventions covered by patents now number 1,000. The subject to which he has given his latest attention is the utilization of natural gas, and in this he has so well succeeded that gas is about the only fuel burned in Pittsburg.

It is only fifteen years since Mr. Westinghouse began the manufacture of his own in ventions; to-day his factories are located on two continents, giving employment to be-tween 3,000 and 4,000 men. About 1873 the Westinghouse air brake works were erected at Pittsburg. Two years later branch works were established in England, and since then works have been built at Paris and in Ger-

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE, employed in the different works is about as follows: The air brake company employs about 1,500, the Union Switch company 350 men, the machine company 150 and the electric company 300. The number employed by the natural gas company varies from about 400 in winter to 2,000 in summer or the pipe

Many people have an idea that Mr. Westinghouse struggled from poverty to his present millions. This was not the case. He is the son of a Schenectady, N. Y., manufacturer of agricultural implements. graduated from Cornell in 1861. He enlisted in the civil war first as engineer on the war ship Mustwetah and afterward as a member of a New York cavalry regiment. His experience in repairing railroad wrecks after Confederate raiders suggested to him a device for replacing derailed cars. This was the beginning of his career as an inventor. He settled in Pittsburg and has since lived there.

Mr. Westinghouse's home is situated just outside the Pittsburg city limits. It is mis-named "solitude," for Mrs. Westinghouse is a most charming hostess and their residence is the scene of many and brilliant social gatherings. Receptions are held every Friday and the Westinghouse dinner parties are said to be elegance itself. Mrs. Westinghouse was a Miss Walker of New York. She has but one child, a boy of 3 years.

Lorenzo Dow's Novel Text. Something like sixty years ago there appeared in Boston an eccentric character named Lorenzo Dow. He professed to be a preacher in regular calling, but he was claimed by no denomination, although he rather favored the Methodist persuasion. He was a man of peculiar personal appearance, was a man of pecuniar personal appearance, very rough in speech, yet possessed of much originality. On one occasion he was invited to fill the pulpit of a Methodist church at the North End, when, after surveying his audience quietly for a few moments, he announced as his text the words: "Top Not, Come Down!" His listeners were much astonished at his text, and still more at his sermon, which was a tirade against the prevailing fashion of gathering the hair into a high knot on the top of the head. After the sermon, quite a number of the principal we thought you preached from the Bible, Erected to His Memory in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Phila., By His Widow.

The picture here presented is a good representation of the mausoleum containing the remains of Matthew Simpson, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church. The mauso-leum is in Laurel Hill cemetery, Philadelphia, and was erected by the widow of Bishop Simpson as a monument to his mem-ory. It is of plain and simple appearance, the material used in the construction being white granite. The dimensions of the interior are nineteen by ten feet, affording ample room for the sarcophagus.

BISHOP SIMPSON'S MAUSOLEUM.

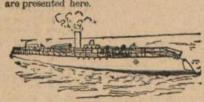

Bishop Simpson was born in Cadiz, Ohio, on June 21, 1811. His student life was passed at Madison (afterward Alleghany) college, at Meadville, Pa., and he received his first appointment from the Pittsburg conference. In 1835 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts. In 1837 he returned to his alma mater as professor of natural sciences, and in 1839 he went to Greencastle, Ind, where he became president of Indiana Asbury University. He was ordained Bishop in 1852. He was one of the most prominent ministers in the Methodist Episcopal church beside being a noted orator and author. His writings include "A Hundred Years of Methodisim," and "Fall Lectures on Preaching." He was also the editor of the "Cyclopædia of Metho-dism." Many will remember Bishop Simpson in connection with the Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia, 1876, as he was chosen to make the opening prayer on that occasion.

Capture of Spies. Alleged Englishmen with an accent re-markably German have been captured at Lyons offering 20,000 francs to a young soldier for the pleasure of examining for a few hours Boulanger's new rifles with their special cartridges. Ten Russian Cossacks with war maps in their pockets were found 120 miles inside the Austrian frontier, and can only explain by saying they were lost.— WAR SHIP OR GUNBOAT.

WHICH SHALL PREDOMINATE IN THE FUTURE NAVIES?

The Argument in Favor of Small War Vessels and Torpedo Boats-What Europe Is Doing in the Matter-Recent

According to Admiral Porter, "the grand total appropriated during the year for the increase of the United States navy has been $5,647,617." The result is that the navy has dwindled down to twenty-eight vessels that can be actually used for active service. "Twenty of these," says the admiral, "are only third rates and five of them are about equivalent to tugs." Millions have been wasted on "repairs" though. An effort is being made to remedy this neglect by beginning the construction of a navy at once. The navy department at Washington is besieged by designers of war ships and plans of coast defense. Inventors are giving all their attention just now to the subject of warfare. But the problem before the navy department is, whether we shall have a large fleet of small and swift torpedo or gunboats, with a few cumbersome iron clads, or whether it shall be plenty of large war ships and a few small ones. A point argued in favor of the smaller vessels is that they can be quickly built and the heavier work of protecting the harbors and cities along the coast can be left to the land forts and batteries. At this time it is interesting to note what is being done on the other side of the Atlantic in the matter. The foreign periodicals teem with illustrations and descriptions of war engines of all kinds, but it is noticeable that considerable attention is given in naval experiments to small gun-boats. Two of the latest vessels of this class are presented here.

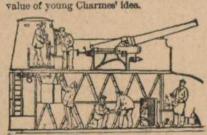

AN ENGLISH TORPEDO BOAT.

The illustration shows a torpedo boat No. 79, just submitted to a trial by the British government. Its number would indicate that there were seventy-eight similar boats to be constructed. On the trial trip the boat was put to the most severe tests to satisfy the admiralty board and the speed realized sur passed anything heretofore found in vessels of similar character. On a continuous run of two hours' duration the boat sailed a dis tance of nearly fifty-two miles. Two miles were made at the rate of twenty-six and a half miles an hour. Then the maneuvering of the boat was tested. When going ahead she turned in fifty-eight seconds in a circle whose diameter was eighty-five yards, when backing she turned in a circle of sixty-five vards diameter in sixty-five seconds. Some of the larger torpedo boats in the British service have been named Rattlesnake, Grass-hopper, Spider. No. 79 should be named the Eel from the way in which she could squirm around among a hostile fleet. She is but 125 feet long, with a beam of thirteen feet. She possesses two steering towers connected to each of which are two torpedo guns. There is also a torpedo gun built into the bow of the boat for direct ahead fire.

THE NEW FRENCH GUNBOAT. This is the latest addition to the French fleet of small and fleet war vessels; it is named the Gabriel Charmes after its designer. Charmes was an enthustast on the subject of revolutionizing the style of war vessels. He held that the unwieldy ironclad floating batteries had served their time, and that the future navy would consist only of single gun boats. His articles on the subject created a sensation, but he died without knowing that his ideas had been approved. The present minister of the French marine, Admiral Aube, ordered the construction of a boat to test the value of young Charmes' idea.

SECTION SHOWING METHOD OF OPERATING

GUN. His boat has just been tried with most satisfactory results. She is 184½ feet long, 12½ feet wide and 8½ feet deep. Her hull weighs 27 tons, her machinery 22 tons and her single gun 111/4 tons. In the sectional view is shown the method of operating the gun. The carriage of this piece is arranged so that the force of the recoil at the moment of firing not only puts it under cover during the reload also brings it into place again when ready for firing. The gun has a caliber of only 514 inches, but owing to very energetic explosives used the destructive results are very great. The gun being placed immediately in front of the pilot house permits of the horizontal aim being given to it by the pilot. The firing of a projectile weighing sixty-six pounds can be per-formed at the rate of one a minute. The method of passing the ammunition up to the gun is shown in the illustration. On the trial trip this vessel showed a speed of twenty-three

In the matter of other small torpedo boats the French have 9 under 70 feet in length 41 under 100 feet; 18 of 108 feet, and 51 of 114 feet; in all 128 of high speed and armed with machine guns only, besides their torpedoes. England has more torpedo boats than France. There are 139 of the following ngths: 84 of less than 114 feet; 53 of 125 feet, and two longer.

Quite an Embarrassing Situation. A rather comical adventure befell two very stylish young American married ladies the other day on the boulevards. They set out to take a stroll and to look at the shops, and while slowly making their way along the crowded thoroughtare they were struck by the amount of attention that they excited. People stopped and gazed at them, and altogether they felt themselves quite the success of the afternoon. Suddenly one of them chanced to look around and realized the sitnation. "Good gracious, Kitty!" she gasped,
"we are walking between two of the sandwich men of the Paris Casino—we are being taken for advertising women!" The sudden way in which my pretty young country-women disappeared down the nearest side street can better be imagined than described.

They Couldn't Help It. Alexander conquered worlds, Napoleon made great nations tremble at his approach, but neither of these illustrious men could eat asparagus without spilling some of the melted butter upon their shirt fronts. WORSE THAN SMALL POX.

A Great Danger Which Menaces at Unsuspicious Public.

The Brompton Hospital for consumtives, in London, reports that over fifty people out every hundred consumptives, are victims of constipated or inactive kidneys.

Consumption is one of our national diseases, and the above report goes to prove what has often been said in our columns during the last eight years, that kidney troubles are not only the cause of more than half of the cases of consumption, but of ninety out of every hundred other common diseases. They who have taken this position made their claims after elaborate in vestigation, and their proof that they have discovered a specific for the terrible and stealthy kidney diseases which have become so prevalent among us, is wise and convincing. We have recently received from them a fresh supply of their wonderful advertising. They have challenged the medical profession and science to in vestigate. They have investigated, and those who are frank have admitted the truth of their statements. They claim that ninety per cent. of diseases come originally from inactive kidneys; that these inactive kidneys allow the blood to become filled with uric acid poison; that this uric acid poison in the blood carries diseases through every organ.

There is enough uric acid developed in the system within twenty-four hours to kill half a dozen men. This being a scientific fact, it requires only ordinary wisdom to see the effect inactive kidneys must have upon the system.

If this poison is not removed, it ruins ever organ. If the bowls, stomach or liver become inactive, we know it at once, but other organs help them If the kidneys become constipated and dormant, the warning comes later on, and often when it is too late, because the effects are remote from the kidneys and those organs are not suspected to be out of order.

Organs that are weak and diseased are unable to resist the attacks of this poison, and the disease often takes the form of and is treated as a local affliction, when in reality the real cause of the trouble was inactive kidneys.

Too many medical men of the present day hold what was a fact twenty years ago, that kidney disease is in curable, according to the medicines authorized by their code. Hence, they ignore the original cause of disease it self, and give their attention to useless treating of local effects.

They dose the patient with quinine, morphine, or with salts and other physics, hoping that thus nature may cure the disease, while the kidneys continue to waste away with inflam-mation, ulceration and decay, and the victim eventually perished.

The same quantity of blood that passes throught the heart, passes through the kidneys. If the kidneys are dis-eased, the blood soaks up this disease and takes it all through the system Hence it is, that the claim is made that Warner's safe cure, the only known specific for kidney diseases, cures 90 per cent. of human ailments, because it, and it alone, is able to maintain the natural activity of the kidneys, and to neutralize and remove the uric acid, or kidney poison, as fast as it is formed.

If this acid is not removed, there is inactivity of the kidneys, and there will be produced in the system paralysis, apoplexy, dyspepsia, consumption, heart disease, head-aches, rheumatism, pneumonia, impotency, and all the nameless diseases of delicate women. If the poisonous matter is separated from the blood, as fast as it is formed, these diseases, in a majority of , would not exist

It only requires a practice of small-pox virus to produce that vile disease, and the poisonous matter from the kidneys, passing all through the system and becoming lodged at different weak points, is equally destructive, although more disguised.

If it were possible for us to see into the kidneys, and how quickly the blood passing through them goes to the heart and lungs and other parts of the system, carrying this deadly virus with it, all would believe without hesitation what has so often been stated in advertisements in these columns, that the kidneys are the most important organs in the body.

They may regard this article as an advertisement and refuse to believe it, but that is a matter over which we have no control. Careful investigation and science itself are proving beyond a doubt that this organ is, in fact, more important than any other in the system as a health regulator, and as such should be closely watched, for the least sign of disordered action.
