The students' christian association have compiled an interesting table, in the March number of the Bulletin, giving the religious census of the University students. It shows that of the 1,563 students in the University, reports were received from 1306. Of these 805 say that they are professing christians; 639 are members of churches, of whom 567 are members of evangelical churches; 996 are attendants upon the services of evangelical churches; of the 688 students in the literary depart ment alone, 604 reported, of whom 309 are professing christians, and 291 are members of evangelical churches. Of the 92 persons comprising the faculties, 59 are members of evangelical churches, and at least 19 more are regular attendants and supporters of evangelical churches.

ANN ARBOR'S NEW DEPOT

THE FINEST BETWEEN BUFFALO AND CHICAGO.

A Description of It-A Diagram of the Interior-A Magnificent Struc-ture-Cost $30,000.

The new Michigan Central railroad passenger depot, now ready to be thrown open to the public, is unquestionably the finest one on the line between Buffalo and Chicago. In architectural design and general appearance, it is not surpassed by any like building in the country. Its walls are constructed entirely of stone, which gives a very handsome and antique appearance, while the gable ends are finished with terra cotta. The roof is slate, excepting the towers, which are covered with tile. The lawn around the magnificent building has been handsomely laid out with the exception of one side, and that will be early in the spring. The interior appearance of the building has more the resemblance of a palace than a passenger depot. Every part of the wood work is red-oak finished in the natural wood. For convenience it is a perfect model, everything being arranged for the comfort of both passengers and employes. The following diagram of the interior of the depot will give the reader a correct idea of it, the scale being 32 feet to one was made by Spiers & Rehns, of Detroit. The dimensions of the main building are 48x100 feet. The material used in the walls is the common "nigger head" stone, rock face, with bush-hammered trimmings. The main tower is 60 feet high. The general style is Gothic. The numerous angles, bays, peaks, points and gables relieve any tendency to stiffness of design, making the structure altogether a graceful one.

for this magnificent structure was com-menced in the latter part of May, by Z. Sweet & Co. Only a small basement was made under the east end which is used for a furnace and coal room.

THE STONE WORK.

In July the contractors, J. Gerring & Sons, of Detroit, commenced work. The walls are built entirely of stone, the common "nigger heads" being used for the most part; Ionia stone was used around arch ways and for window caps; Lake Superior stone was used in making the corpice of the main tower; for trimming, Ohio blue stone were used; those used for door sills and door steps were brought from Medina, N. Y; the foundation of the building is laid with Jolliet stone. For the laying of all this stone-work nothing but the best German-Portland cement was used. About 24,000 cubic feet of stone

The interior arrangement is remarkably graceful, pleasing and convenient. The above diagram fully illustrates every room. As you walk down State st, you face the main entrance to the building. Passing through the lobby into the waiting rooms sign, finished off with red-oak in the natural color, and then varnished, which gives it a glossy appearance, making it both pleasing and handsome in appearance. The casings, window frames, doors, etc., are also of red-oak, but have not been varnished. The glass used in the windows is of a quality known as "leaded glass," excepting over the doors where colored glass is used.

THE TICKET OFFICE,

As will be seen in the above diagram, is conveniently located. The design and finish of this little palace would be hard to describe, so elaborate is the carving, and other things which add so much to its

Drowned His Sorrows.

The body of Francis M. Baker, of Sharon, aged about 55 years, was found in the river Raisen, near the bridge at Sharon Hollow, last Saturday.

Mr. Baker mysteriously disappeared from his home the Saturday night before, and no trace of him could be found, though dilligent search had been made for him for miles around and the river dragged for a considerable distance, but no trace of him could be discovered until his body was found as above stated.

Mrs. Baker, his wife, thinks she heard him moving around the room about two o'clock Sunday morning, but thought nothing of it. At three she arose, built a fire, and he not putting in an appearance, began a search. Not finding him on the premises, the neighbors were notified of his disappearance and a thorough search was instituted

Two reasons are assigned for the causes leading to his taking his life. One is that he had been in poor health for some time and at times appeared to be somewhat unbalanced, mentally, and that it was during one of these spells that he jumped into the river. Another is that owing to his continued poor health he took his life to relieve his sufferings.

Mr. Baker had been a resident of Shaprinter by trade, having worked in the Manchester Enterprise office for a number of years. He lived on a small farm, on which he raised mostly small fruits, and was in moderate financial circumstances. He was much respected by all who knew him, and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his untimely death, besides a lov-ing wife, and a small family of children, all of whom have grown to manhood, and

The funeral was held Sunday, a large number of friends following the remains to their last resting place.

For the Amendment.

The University town is waking up on the amendment. The meeting of faculty and students in University hall, Professor Dickie's lecture Friday night and citizen's conference Friday afternoon, the numerous appeals through the papers, have crystalized, and bids fair to disprove, on the 4th of April, that Washtenaw county will give 1500 majority against the amendmen'.

Prof. Dickie's lecture was well attended, and a large number who doubted the wisdom of prohibition, went away wedded to the total abstainance cause. At the close of the lecture, the professor gave a bird's eye view of the campaign; the vast number of volunteer speakers, the noble work of neighboring states, the pressing needs for funds, etc. At the citizens' conference Friday afternoon, Dr. Palmer presided, Dr. D. A. Post, of Ypsilanti gave a brief discription of the work being done in Ypsilanti and vicinity. He urged the importance of the work. The defeat of the amendment meant the triumphant jubilee of the liquor interests. The following committee was appointed: J. Q. A. Sessions, B. Brown, R. Campbell, Prof. W. W. Beman, Prof. J. B. Steere. The committee has called a mass meeting at Fireman's hall, Thursday evening at 7:30, for organization. Ar-rangements have been made by which the Hon. J. B. Finch and Col. Geo. W. Bain are to speak under the auspices of the

Seeking Information.

Will some advocate of the proposed amendment to the state constitution answer the following questions:

1. Will not our present constitution support as strict a prohibitory statute as could be based upon the amended constitution? 2. If the present legislature will not pass a prohibitory statute now, what reason is there to suppose they will after April 4th, if the amendment carries? 3. If we cannot elect a legislature committed to such a statute now, why can we hope to elect such a legislature after adopting the amendment? 4. If we adopt the amendment, and thus annul all our present restrictive laws, and thus annul all our present restrictive laws, and the "legislature fails to give as a workable prohibitory statute, will we not be worse off than we are now?

5. Is it wise or right for the temperance men of the state so to bind themselves that they want to the them."

that they must submit to " free rum " until they can secure and enforce absolute prohibition?

A clear and candid answer to these questions may help some temperance men, who believe in all the prohibition we can enforce, to know how to vote upon this important question.

High School Notes.

The monthly meeting of the teachers was held on Monday.

Those taking part in junior exhibition, were requested to meet Mrs. Garrigues Wednesday, for the purpose of arranging for rehearsals.

The subject for debate tomorrow evening is "Resolved, that Mary, Queen of Scots, was not guilty of conspiracy against Queen Elizabeth, of England."

The throwing of chalk and paper has become such a nuisance in the halls, that the school has been obliged to lay down some pretty severe rules. The first and most important is-that the first student caught in the act of throwing anything will be made to take care of the halls, and keep them clean; not until he gets tired, but until the school sees fit to let him off. Here is a chance for someone to learn the art of being a janitor.

The literary society, formerly known by the name of "Chi Tau," and now by Delta Epsilon, had a very interesting program last Friday evening, as was indicated by the number of visitors present. The Huff orchestra, of the University, favored them with music. The debate, "Resolved, that church property should not be taxed,' was decided in favor of the affirmative.

The Queen of the Birds.

Friday evening, March 11th, a concert, under the management of Mrs. Flora A. Hall, will be given at the M. E. church, which promises to be even better than the Mother Goose of last year. It is called "The Queen of the Birds." The program is here given:

INFUSORIAL EARTH.

The March meeting of the soc ety, J. D Baldwin presiding, discussed infusorial earth. The corresponding secretary read a letter from J. Fraser Torrance, of Montreal. Mr. Torrance reports that his later experiments in packing various fruits in this earth did not fully realize his confident expectations. The only decided success he met with was the packing of some pears. This material ripened them in a remarkable manner. Color, flesh and flavor were unusually fine. The only success obtained in fruit storing was by the employment of cold storage. But it is open to experiment whether cold storage alone, without infusorial earth, would not have done nearly as well and saved the expense. The thanks of the society were tendered Mr. Torrance for his information. His experiments have cost him both time and money.

MOODY'S PATENT GEARING.

The corresponding secretary also reported on Moody's patent gearing for spraying orchard trees. The gearing is attached to a wagon wheel, its purpose being to spray large orchards by the revolution of the wheel, without labor. Moody & Sons, of Lockport, N. Y., report the success of this gearing. Evart H. Scott reported that at the winter meeting of the state society, the spraying of fruit trees with liquid poisons was discussed by Prof. Cook. One fourth Parris green or London purple to forty gallons of water is sufficient to destroy, not only the codling moth, but also all other injurious insects. Many people fail because they do not attend to it in time. The spraying must be done after the falling of the blossoms.

J. D. Baldwin spoke of the frequent oiling of the force pump during the operation, at least eight times a day is not too often.

FRUIT PRESERVING FACTORY.

J. H. Clough, chairman of the committee on fruit preserving factory, reported $500 subscribed. The prospects for the fund are good, if our business men take a hand J. Almand, one of the collectors reported that there were quite a good many fruit growers who had not more than a bundred dollars worth of berries, or so many bushel to sell, during the season, and they had a hard time to make ends meet. It was generally conceded that the business men are considerably benefitted by this industry of fruit growing. The following business men were ed to the committee: Christian Mack, J. T. Jacobs, H. S. Dean, T. J. Keech, A. L. Noble, J. E. Beal, A. W. Hamilton. Messrs, J. H. Clough and E. H. Scott were requested to see these gentlemen.

MISCELLANEOUS TOPICS.

Palmer & Son, of Dexter, showed their quart berry baskets, an improvement on last year's basket.

Secretary Ganzhorn reported on the fruit exhibit. E. Baur showed pear and respherry syrups and shrub, and D' Aremberg pears in very good condition. These pears belong to the latest and best keepers, are now ripening.

The meeting abjourned to one week from next Saturday, the 19th of March, at 2 P. M., when a final report of the committee on fruit preserving factory will be heard. The following topics will be dis-cussed: "Which is the most profitable, strawberry, raspberry or blackberry for shipment and home use?" "Small fruit in general;" "what are the fruit prospects for the coming season?" "appointment of standing committee;" "fruit and flower exhibit;" "discussion on roses." All are most cordially invited.

EMIL BAUR, Cor. Sec.

OUR LANSING LETTER.

In view of the large amount of work ahead of the legislature it was somewhat of a surprise to most people to have the house decide to follow the example of the senate and hold only afternoon sessions. Representative Bates, of Allegan, made a plea to the house that in consequence of being overworked the committees could not do justice to the business demanding their attention, and moved that hereafter the sessions of the house begin at 2 P. M. There was not a vote against the motion. It has been the old custom to hold sessions beginning at nine o'clock in the morning and also to hold sessions in the evening. Therefore this action of the present house is an entirely new departure. Just now it looks as though the cold weather would go and come again, and the people of Michigan would become heartily tired of hearing about the doings of their representatives, before the business of the present session is completed.

Representative Rumsey's Bohemian oat. bill, the idol of his heart, which has been urged early and late by him with unabated enthusiasm, has passed both houses, and will become a law as soon as engrossed. and approved by the governor. Then anyone who sells grain, seeds or cereals at a fictitious value, or more than double the market value, or takes or has notes, checks, bonds or other security for payment of grain, etc., sold at a fictitious value, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not more than three years or less than one year, or fined not more than $500 or less than $100, or both, at the discretion of the This will surely cause the Bohemian oat agents in Michigan to pursue their labors under difficulties. But to many poor farmers it will be a simple locking of the stable door after the caping the stable door after the equine has ing that a light be placed at either the The Michigan Press Association met in east end of Fuller-st, or the east end of this city last week, and while here, were the guests of Thorp & Godfrey, of the State Republican. The chief business of the association was a consultation in regard to interests of vital importance to publishers. What they mostly want is legislation directing that a certain class of legal printing, such as chattel mortgages and drain notices, shall be published in the county papers instead of being posted on dead walls as is required at present

But if the legislators continue to have as much trouble in the future with the newspapers as in the past it may be diffi cult to get them into the proper temper to do anything for the benefit of the press. Just think of it. First there were the remarks of the Pontiac Bill Poster about the election of Senator Stockbridge, to which Representative Rumsey took decided objection. Then the committees on the soldiers' home were deeply incensed at the Evening News, which published a sensational account of their investigations. and went into camp on the trail of Charley Thompson, the reporter of that paper. Afterwards Senator Perry Mayo, of Battle Creek, was charged by the Grand Rapids Telegram-Herald, with being the sieve through which the information aforesaid found its way to the public, and he laid awake nights till his doorstep was scrub-ed. And now comes Senator Post at the heels of the St. Louis Leader man with a sharp stick. He desires to, and will, be investigated regarding the charges made by that paper that there is a sus-picion of "boodle" having some connection with his action in the matter of transferring two sections of Pine River township to Arcadia township in Gratiot county. If the "press gang" want the legislators to do the square thing in this legal advertising business they will have to push easy themselves. Even great men are sensitive on some things.

What the St. Louis Leader is walking nto the effections of Mr. Post about is the bill to set A. W. Wright, the Alma millionaire, into a township which he can control. The measure is being fought for all it is worth. St. Louis has a delegation here against the bill working like fury, while Mr. Wright's friends are too num erous to mention, and bob up serenely everywhere and all the time. There is blood on the moon, and civil war is immi nent. We expect every day to hear the indignant St. Louies have "climbed the heights of Alma" and put the inhabitants to the sword. The bill is made the special order in the house tomorrow.

When, presently, "two souls with but a single thought" conclude to form a hymeneal co-partnership and trudge over ife's corduroy hand in hand, the expectant bridegroom will probably have to lighten his exchequer by half a dollar more than he calculates tendering the preacher, and the already well paid county clerk will be that much better off. Senator Palmer's bill to establish a system of marriage licenses passed the senate last Friday and its prospects for becoming a law are good.

The ladies of the Woman's Suffrage Association and the senate judiciary committee held a seance last Saturday, when the former endeavored to impress upon the minds of the "most protent, grave and reverend seignors" the advisability of passing the bill according women the right of municipal suffrage. Addresses more or less forcible and argumentative were made by Miss Frances E. Willard, of Chicago; Mrs. Mary L. Doe and Mrs. Nash, of Bay City; Mrs. M. Adele Hazlett, of Hillsdale; Mrs. Helen N. Jenkins, of Detroit; Mrs. R. N. Kellogg and Mrs. Wilson, of Ionia, and Mrs. Emily Ketchum, of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Nash scored Senator Hubbell for his vote against the prohibitory amendment and lauded Senator Palmer for his efforts in the other digentleman blushed like a school girl at a Clio performance. What impression the ladies made upon the committee deponent saith not.

There is a strong public sentiment in favor of abolishing the state board of corrections and charities and board of health, which, it is claimed, while costing $20,000 annually to maintain, confer little or no benefit on the people in return. Last Friday the senate had up a bill, the provisions of which require all places where prisoners are confined to be first approved by the state board of corrections and charities. It was regarded as somewhat of a test of approval or disapproval of the work of that board, and a straw showing the feeling regarding its abolishment. The vote stood 19 to 10 in tavor of the

Senator Grinnell's bill to prevent the employment by corporations of aliens who shall not have declared their intention to become citizens was, after being pretty thoroughly discussed in the house, referred back to the committees on judiciary and labor interests jointly. terms of the bill levy fines of $50 to $500 on corporations who employ aliens, and similar fines on superintendents, managers or other officers, together with im-prisonment at the discretion of the court not exceeding thirty days in the county

There are only 110 bills before the leg-islature to legalize the issuing of bonds and the borrowing of money by townships and municipalities for public improve-ments of various kinds. As I intimated before, the salient features of these bills will probably be incorporated in one general law covering the matters involved

Attention was called to the sidewalk in front of the Episcopal church, which was in a dilapidated condition. Referred to sidewalk committee. A resolution was passed instructing Representative Manly to push the passage of the bill providing for only two justices in Ann Arbor. The marshal's report was read, which only showed three arrests during the month of February. The treasurer's report showed the following condition of the city's finances: Cash on hand last report $2,109.25; cash received, $18,445; cash disbursed $4,112.-59; cash on hand, 16,441.66. The street lighting committee to whom was referred the petitions for additional electric lights asked for further time. Granted.

A committee of three was appointed, consisting of the city attorney, mayor and recorder, to investigate the feasibility of of removing the bodies now deposited in the old cemetery and transforming it into a park.

Alds. Steere, Martin and Ware were appointed a committee to ascertain the expense of erecting a drinking fountain, at some suitable place around the court house square.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the recorder be instructed to notify the postmaster general that it was the unamimous sense of the council that the people of Ann Arbor wanted free mail delivery.

Ald, Martin and the recorder were appointed a committee to ascertain the cost of getting of the reports of the council printed in pamphlet form. The following places were selected for the meeting of the board of registration and voting places: First ward A. V. Robison's livery stable office; second ward, Herz's paint snop; third ward, base nen of court house; tourth ward. Firemen' hall; fifth ward, engine house; sixth ward, engine house.

The recorder was instructed to have the proper notices published and posted relatives to the coming election. Adjourned.

What Baking Powder Shall We Use?

This plain question comes home to every house keeper. We all desire pure and wholesome food, and this cannot be had with the use of impure or poisonous bak-ing powder. There can be no longer a question that all the che-per, I wer grades of baking powders contain either slum, lime or phosphatic acid. As loth as we may be to admit so much against what may have been some of our household gods, there can be no gain aying the unanimous testimony of the official chemists. Indeed, analysts seem to find no baking powder entirely free from some one of these objectionable ingredients except the Royal, and that they report as chemically pure. We find some of the Baking Powders advertised as pure, to contain, under the tests of Profs. Chandler, Habirshaw and others, nearly twelve per cent, of lime, while others are made from alum with no cream of tartar. This, we presume accounts for their lack of leavening powder as sometimes complained of by the cook, and for the bitter taste found in the b scuits so frequently complained of by ourselves. But aside from the inferiority of the work done by these powders, the physiologists assure us that I me and alum taken into the system in such quantities as this are injurious. They are not decom posed by heat nor dissolved in mixing or baking. They go with the bread, therefore, into the stomach, where their physiological effects are indigestion, dyspepsia, or worse evils.

The question naturally arises, why do these cheap baking powder makers use these things? Alum is three cents a pound, lime still cheaper, while cream of tartar costs thirty-five or forty. The reasons tor the chemical purity of the R yal Baking Powder were recently given in the New York Times in an interesting description of a new method for refining argels, or crude cream of tartar. It seems that it is only under this process that cream of tartar can be freed from the lime natural to it and rendered chemically pure; that the patents and plant for this cost the Royal Baking Powder Company about half a million dollars, and that they maintain exclusive control of the rights.

Prof. McMurtie, late chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., in the interests of commerce. made an examination of this process, and reported upon the results attained in the refined cream of tartar. The following extract from his report would seem to answer the question repeated at the head of this article, and which is so trequently propounded by the housekeeper: "I have examined the cream of tartar used by the Royal Baking Powder Com pany in the manutacture of their baking powder, and find it to be perfectly pure, and free from lime in any form. chemical tests to which I have submitted the Royal Baking Powder prove it perfectly healthful, and free from any deleterious substance."

THE SHADOW OF DEATH. A TRAIN IN A TORRENT.

It Hovers Over the Home of Henry Ward Beecher.

The Great Divine Stricken with Apoplexy and Lying in an Unconscious State— All Hope of His Recovery

AT DEATH'S DOOR. NEW YORK, March 7.—Henry Ward Beecher, the great preacher, is seriously ill at his home in Brooklyn, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy, and it is thought that even if he dees not die he will never re-cover in full his mental and physical faculties. Mr. Beecher was taken sick Thursday night, experiencing a violent headache. His malady was at first attributed to biliousness, to which Mr. Beecher has long been subject, and as it was relieved by nausea on Friday morning his wife felt no alarm. Soon after

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

When at noon he had not awakened the family was alarmed and sent for Dr. Searle, the family physician, who aroused the patient at 2:30 p.m. On awaking Mr. Beecher was jovial and told the doctor about a dream he had had. The physician prescribed for the case and departed. Returning at ten p.m. he found Mr. Beecher's speech thick and indistinct and the patient complaining that his brain felt sore and that he felt a boring pain in the right side of his head. Mrs. Beecher, who still looked upon the case as a mere bilious attack, quieted the doctor's suspicions by saying that her husband when bilious usually spoke with indistinct-

Dr. Searle was not again summoned un til eight a. m. Saturday. He then found Mr. Beecher's left side partially paralyzed. He could still move his left arm and leg, but with difficulty. He was very drowsy, his speech was thicker, and he protruded his tongue with evident effort. He com-plained of headache, and at times his face would flush and he would raise his right hand tremulously and mechanically to his head. Dr. Searle considered Mr. Beecher's condition so serious that he asked the family to call Dr. William A. Hammond. Dr. Hammond came at two o'clock.

Both attending physicians agreed that Mr. Beecher had been attacked by apoplexy; that an effusion of blood had taken place from the right cerebrum of the brain, and that recovery was improbable, but still not entirely impossible. Their opinion was founded upon the fact that the paralysis had gradually increased. Dr. Hammond also said that even if Mr. Beecher should recover he would never regain either his mental or physical powers to the full extent.

As soon as the news of Mr. Beecher's condition became generally known crowds of anxious people gathered at the house, and to relieve their suspense bulletins were issued by Dr. Searle and affixed to the door of the house.

Sunday was communion day in Plymouth Church, and a large congrega-tion attended the services. Rev. Mr. Hal-liday conducted the morning services, opening with a prayer beseeching the Almighty to strengthen the pastor, Mr. Beecher, in his serious illness. Communion followed, during which messages concerning Mr. Beecher's condition were read and caused tears to flow in abundance among the congregation. Prayers were offered

The scene at Dr. Talmage's church was almost as affecting. Dr. Talmage made a very tender appeal to Heaven on behalf of Mr. Beecher. He prayed fervently for the Divine blessing on the afflicted preacher, and alluded to Mr. Beecher as the friend of the millionaire, the friend of the working-man, the friend of the friendless, and all men, whether rich or poor.

BROOKLYN, March 8.—At midnight Mr. Beecher's condition was extremely critical, and dissolution was looked for. His physicians expressed the opinion that he might die at any moment or might linger for some days, but his recovery was im-

A meeting of the parishioners of Plymouth Church was held in the lecture-reat eight o'clock p. m. The room was crowded with members of the congrega-tion and not a few friends from other churches, and there was scarcely a dry eye to be seen from beginning to end of the proceedings. Mr. Tilney presided.

Heartfelt remarks were there made and the following letter from Mrs. Beecher was

TO THE BELOVED MEMBERS OF PLYMOUTE "To the Beloved Members of Plymoute' Church: I can not speak my thanks to each and every one of you for the sympathy and the love and the devotion manifested in these last dark, sad days for your pastor. He can no longer speak to you for himself. Then permit me to do it for him, for myself, for my family. Each word of love from the people so dear to your pastor's heart has been a comfort and baim to a heart wrung almost to bursting. How he loved his church you will only learn in its fullness when you stand with him in Heaven. To each and every one of you my earnest thanks and most earness blessing. Pray for his wife and children, soon to lose the truest companion and teaderest to lose the truest companion and tenderest father; and if we must relinquish all possible hope of his full recovery, oh, beloved, possible hope of his full recovery, oh, beloved, pray that his departure may be speedy, that we may not long be agonized by this struggle between life and death. Pray, if he must leave us, that before anotherday dawnshe may receive his crown and be forever with his Lord.

"EUNICE N. BEECHER."

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Congregational elergymen of this city, at their regular monthly meeting yesterday declined to send resolutions of condolence to the family of Rev. Henry Ward Beecker for fear that they would be considered as an inthat they would be considered as an indorsement of his views on future salvation and punishment. London, March 7 .- Rev. Mr. Parker at his service Sunday evening eulogized Mr. Beecher. He expressed the profoundest sympathy of himself and his hearers with the afflicted pastor. He prayed for Mr. Beecher and for his friends, that they might be comforted by the knowledge that their servant was prepared for Heaven "We mourn," he said, "yet we rejoice it our sadness. Why should we mourn when a traveler completes his journey—when a voyager leaves the sea over which he has wandered and rejoins his kindred at Terrible Accident on the Iron Mountain Road in Missouri.

A Passenger Train Plunged Into a Sweeping Flood by the Breaking of a Trestle -Two Lives Lost-Many Persons Injured-Miraculous Escapes.

A FRIGHTFUL PLUNGE. St. Louis, March 7.—A trestle over Joachim creek, on the Iron Mountain road, at Victoria, thirty miles south of here, gave way under the Texas express, which left here Saturday night. The train consisted of baggage, express and mail cars, a smoker, two passenger coaches and four sleepers, carrying about one hundred and thirty passengers. The engine and the express, baggage and mail cars and the smoker were precipitated into a raging torrent. A full list of the casualties can not now be obtained, but, so far as known, only two lives were lost. Henry Byron, of Jamestown, N. Y., was found drowned in the smoker, and Samuel Meyers, a brake-man residing in St. Louis, is missing and is thought to have been drowned. The injured number about twenty.

Engineer Kelly and Fireman Hach went down with the engine and were submerged in the flood. Kelly, in his struggle to free himself, found that one of his feet was held fast, but at the same instant and just as he realized that he must drown the en-gine turned over, his foot was released, and he came to the surface. Seizing a passing log he clung to it desperately and was swept down the torrent and was lodged against a tree 150 yards below. With scarcely strength enough to move he clasped his legs and arms around a limb of the tree, became unconscious, and was not restored until two or three hours after he had been taken from the tree to a house in Victoria. His face and head were severely cut, two of his toes cut from one of his feet, and he was badly bruised in various parts of the body. He will recover.

Fireman Hach was carried about five hundred yards down-stream, lodged in a mass of brush or drift, and was rescued soon after the flood subsided. He is a good deal bruised but not seriously hurt. The smoker, which is said to have contained some twenty persons, was swept down about three hundred feet below the trestle. All of its occupants, except Henry Byron, of Jamestown, N. Y., who was found in it drowned, succeeded in getting outside of the car and clung to its top until they were

The postal car was swept away some distance, and, as the water rushed through it from end to end, the mail was literally washed out and is now scattered over miles of territory or imbedded in the mud of the creek. It is regarded as an almost total loss, the whole of it being completely soaked and addresses of the letters obliterated. The postal clerks McCullough, Shaffer and Ryan-were badly bruised and almost drowned, and, being stripped for work, they lost all their clothes, their watches and about $250 in money, which were carried away by the

The mail is said to have been the largest ever sent over the road, and losses will fall heavily on this city, where about three-quarters of the matter originated. The registered matter was also very heavy and valuable, consisting largely of remittances from firms here to their correspondents in Texas. An express package without address or any thing on it by which it can be identified, containing $37,000, was found yesterday, and it is not unlikely that others will be discovered in the bed of the creek or in the woods.

A farmer named Andrew White of Bailey's Station did heroic work in saving passengers. He swam several times to the smoker and each time returned with one of the unfortunates who were clinging to the roof of the car. Several of the passengers in the sleepers also aided ma-terially in the work and all of the train crew labored like Trojans in rescuing those on the car.

NEW SENATORS.

A List of Those Who Will Make Up the Higher Branch of the National Legisla-

The election of Rufus Blodgett, in New Jersey, and the appointment of J. J. Finley, in Florida, fill all the chairs in the next United States Senate. As the two parties now stand the Republicans will have in the next Senate thirty-nine votes and the Democrats thirty-seven. Riddleberger, though classed as a Republican, has exhibited independent tendencies and may occasionally vote with the Democrats, thus creating a tie. The list of the new Senators is given below:

For the Regents of the University,

MAYOR HEWITT is a regular hornet among his constituency. His ringing denunciation of the demagogues of his own party who encouraged the recent New York strikes in the hope of getting, at some future day, the votes of the New York strikers, affords them food for serious thought, and if they could be made to profit thereby, it would be a good thing for the country.

"BE sure you are right, then go ahead," was Davy Crocket's famous motto; and it is a good one to apply to this amendment matter as well as to others, and for this reason we hope the doubts implied in the questions of Rev. Dr. Ryder, in another column, may be all satisfactorily cleared up. There is a practical as well as sentitimental side to this great question, and it is to be hoped that no great mistakes will occur now to do the cause of temperance more harm than good.

A GREAT LIFE ENDED.

The announcement of the sudden death of the great pulpit orator, Henry Ward Beecher, on Tuesday morning last, has spread universal sadness over the land. Perhaps the removal of no man in the nation would have awakened so wide-spread attention or whose achievements would have been so highly sulogized by all classes of our citizens. Mr. Beecher has passed through a most eventful career, and his name has long been known all over the English speaking world. In our own country for the long period of forty years he has been a power both in civil and religious life. Few men have ever been so gifted by nature as this distinguished divine, and no one has enjoyed better opportunities to make his influence felt. In every respect he was a most remarkable man, and his career has been a most marvellous one. As a preacher no divine of our day has occupied so prominent a position or commanded so many hearers as this great and good man. His discourses were always original, thoughtful, impressive, and in full sympathy with the heart of humanity. In the city where he lived and exercised the work of a minister, his large edifice was always thronged and often upon special occasions more were turned away from the building than the three thousand or more who had obtained an entrance. That he was the greatest pulpit orator of our generation is the universally received opinion, and in this respect his name will live and godown in all history. His erratic course during the few latter years of his life and his unstable course in regard to his utterances on religious topics will be forgotten while he will be remembered for his better qualities of mind and heart, and the influences for good that it was his aim to promote. As a platform speaker and lecturer he was always sought atter, and his named announced as one of the speakers would always crowd the largest assembly rooms in the principal cities of our land, Those who have heard him within the last twelve or fifteen years of his life know nothing of his power as he was accustomed to wield it in the earlier stages of his career. When he was in his prime no man in the pulpit or on the platform could equal him. Having at that time a splendid physical frame, with an inexhaustible fund of illustrations, and a radiant good humor which made every one in the audience an earnest listener, he would pour forth his sentiments in a rich, well modulated voice which would awaken the very highest enthusiasm, and on controversial

He came into public life at the fitting time to give full play to his wonderful powers of intellect and soul. During the stormy days preceding the war he was one of the greatest leaders of the anti-slavery contest, and his voice rolled like a trumpet over the land denouncing the wrong of a system which from his soul he abhorred and which he arraigned before the bar of the nation as destructive to our highest interests and threatening the judgments of heaven. In burning words he warned the American people of the crime of which they were the participators by the continuation and extension of a system which was so abhorrent and contrary to our professed republican principles. His pleadings in behalf of the slave were often sublime in the highest degree. Vast assemblies were often so moved by his withering invectives and earnest pleadings that they were carried up to a pitch of wild enthusiasm, and every soul would feel that he as called upon to hurl this awful power its usurped throne in the nation.

is upon record that during the great civil war he did as much for our national cause by his voice and pen as any statesman in the land. He was from the first on the side of the Union, and with the confidence of ultimate triumph he put courage in the dark day of defeat into the hearts of the despondent. At a crisis in our affairs he was called by President Lincoln to visit England and plead our cause before a people who were anxious to recognize the fact of our national dismemberment. The part he took in this matter is well known. The cause that he advocated was growing on that side of the water unpopular. The crowds hated the north, and were in sympathy with the south. But Mr. Beecher boldly faced the angry and turbulent assemblies, and by his matchless eloquence and unchallenged facts brought conviction to the minds of the people who broke away from their leaders and confessed that they had been misguided in their counsels, and were altogether wrong in their judgment of the north. No greater triumph has been witnessed in one day than was displayed on this memorable visit to England.

Wherein his great power existed it is not difficult to see. He was intensely earnest in whatever cause he undertook, wonderfully aggressive, and positive and persistent in the extreme. His native cast of mind was sympathetic and ardent, and in every instance he placed himself on the side of the people, and was their friend. His heart was large and benevolent, and whatever he could do was gladly undertaken for their benefit. He was simpleminded as a child, and even in advancing years almost as playful. He gave away money without consideration, and has spent a fortune in the idea of benefitting others. With all his faults and his apparent contradictions he was a splendid man, and we confess to an admiration of a character that aimed to be right and has stood for half a century before the American nation as one of our most brilliant lights. Peace to the memory of one of our most gifted fellow citizens and most excellent men, Henry Ward Beecher.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The lapse of another year carries us to our nineteenth annual meeting, with an increased membership and a record of faithfulness and success which should encourage us to persevere in the good work so long ago begun. Our ward committees, through storm and sunshine, in summer's heat and winter's cold, have pursued their self denying labor of love, and despite many discouragements through lack of means, have helped to brighten the many poverty stricken homes. There have been few cases of extreme destitution, except where there has been illness in the family or where intemperance has done its fatal work. Most of the beneficiaries of the society are those who, by a little timely assistance, can tide over the most trying times in their experience and keep their families from becoming a burden upon public charity. The first ward committee reports having assisted but two families. In the second ward the population is nearly all German and they have a charitable society of their own, but one family has been assisted. The third ward committee have assisted sixteen families. The fourth ward nineteen. The fifth ward ten and the sixth ward three. Total, fifty-one families who have received Most of these number from six to ten members, so that the number of persons receiving help has been about four hundred. The assistance rendered has been largely second-hand clothing. The money expended has been to assist in paying rent, in buying proper food for the sick, the purchase of bedding and occassionally meat and groceries.

We are indebted to Wines & Worden,

D. F. Schairer, Blitz & Langsdorf, H. Stofflet, Samuel Krause, H. J. Brown and J. H. Nickels for valuable contributions of

Special contributions in money have been received from Mrs. R. A. Beal, Mrs. Angell, Mrs. Royer, Mrs. Langley, Mrs. Ellicott Evans, Mrs. Blitz, Prof. Dennison

Illustrated Bible Scenes and Studies.

Mrs. L. Moore, of this city, has been engaged by the publishers of this interesting and valuable work to represent them in Ann Arbor. Is is a book that would prove of great advantage to every person who can read. Among other excellent features that we have not space to enumerate, there are thirteen comprehensive maps of Bible geography, covering all the countries of Bible history, so arranged that any place mentioned can be found in an instant; an exceedingly interesting article is the Bible verified by its geography and history; sixty pages on the religions of the world in all ages; nearly seventy pages on the Exodus. Nearly half of the book is devoted to a beautifully written and comprehensive account of the life and labors of Christ, of St. Paul, and ta other apostles. It is a book suitable for every day reading and reference by all members of the family, old and young, and especially by bible students and Sunnay school beautifully bound, and at a very reasonable price can be had in this city only through the authorized agent.

The Kirmes.

There having been some misapprehen-sion concerning the Kirmes, owing to a rumor that it was to be postponed, the earliest opportunity is taken, to state emphatically, that Prof. de Pont expects to produce the "Kirmes," the 27th of April. His classes in the several dances have made great progress-and there is a great deal of interest and enthusiasm manifested in the training and preparation. The professor himself has been indefatigable in his efforts to make the "Kirmes" a success, and besides the hours devoted each week to the instruction of the classes. he has devoted much time to the study of the national dancers, costumes and general arrangements. Under the direc-tion of Prof. de Pont, the "Kirmes" cannot fail to be a brilliant success here, as it has invariable been in other cities.

The word Kirmes is a corruption of the Flemish word kirk, meaning a church, and messe, signifying a mass, a name given in Holland and the Netherlands to parish festivals or annual fairs, which are celebrated with great rejoicing. Originally it was only applied to church festivals proper, but at a later date has been used to designate festivals given under other authorities than the church. In northern France these festivals are largely observed as they have long been in the low countries. The kirk-messes have been observed as popular festiva's in Holland, East Belgium, in Flanders, and in a large number of cities and villages of northern France, such as Lille, Dunkirk and Gumbrai. In these countries they preserve the traces of ancient Flemish manners in all their simplicity, and they appear to the public a queer representation of the costumes that are for the most part forgotten. The long processions are composed of all classes. After the procession those who take part in it and the general public all join in the amusements of the day which are principally dancing, games and a feast. The word kirk-messe has all the significance which is attached to a fair in this country, a day of rejoicing and plea-

A List of the More Important Measurer Enacted Into Laws, and Those Which Failed of Consummation-The Numerous Vetoes.

RECORD OF CONGRESS. WASHINGTON, March 5 .- The XLIXth Congress commenced its session December 4, 1885, adjourned August 5, 1886, reconvened December 6, and adjourned sine die Friday. Of this time the Senate was in session 224 days and the House 251 days There were introduced in the House 11,258 bills and 263 joint resolutions, on which ever 5,000 reports were made, being several thousand more bills and over 1,000 more reports than were made in the XLVIIIth Congress, which had, in its turn, beaten the record. In the Senate there were introduced 3.357 bills and 118 joint resolutions. on which 1,988 written reports were made being upward of 500 more bills and over 400 more reports than in the record-breaking XI.VIIIth Congress.

The total number of laws enacted was, approximately, 1.431, of which 1,093 originated in the House and 328 in the Senate. Two hundred and sixty-four of these be came laws by the expiration of the constifailed to become laws, owing to the adjournment of Congress, nine of them at the close of the first session. There were 132 bills vetoed by the President, or twenty-one more than had been vetoed from the foundation of the Government down to the beginning of this Congress. Of the vetoed bills ninety-four originated in the House and thirty-nine is the Senate. But one private bill, that granting a pension to Joseph Romeiser, and one public bill for the erection of a Government building at Dayton, O., succeeded in passing both houses over President's veto, although several others obtained the requisite two-thirds vote in the Senate only to fail in the House.

The death-roll of this Congress was also an extraordinary one, comprising the un-precedented number of thirteen names in the House and Senate. They are those of Vice-President Hendricks, President of the Senate; Senators Miller, of California; Pike. of New Hampshire; Logan, of Illi-nois; and Representatives Hahn, of Louisiana; Arnott, Beach and Dowdney, of New York; Price, of Wisconsin; Cole, of Maryland; Elwood, of Illinois; Duncan, of Pennsylvania; and Rankin, of Wisconsin. HOUSE MEASURES ENACTED.

Of the 1.053 House bills which became laws 275 were of a more or less public nat-ure. Of the remaining 778 bills (granting pensions or relief to specially designated persons), 156 became laws without the approval of the President. The following is a list of more important House bills which

To forfeit the Atlantic & Pacific railroad land grant; to increase the pension of widows and dependent relatives from eight dollars to twelve dollars per month; the Dingiey Shipping bill; to pension the Mexican war veterans; the Oleomargarine act; to authorize the transfer of Oleomargarine act; to authorize the transfer of Highwood tract, near Chicago, to the United States for military purposes; to protect homestead settlers within railroad limits; to enable National banking associations to increase their capital stock and change their name and location; to forfeit the "Back-Bone" land grant; to reduce the fees on domestic money orders for sums less than five dollars; to extend the immediatedelivery system; to provide for closing up the delivery system; to provide for closing up the business of the Court of Alabama Claims; to establish additional life-saving stations; for the construction of additional lightehouses; extendthe free-delivery system to towns of 0 inhabitants; for the sale of the Chero kee reservation in Arkansas; to amend the statutes so as to require brewers to give bonds for three times their estimated monthly tax: for the issue of postal notes in sums less than five dollars; to provide for the inspection of tobacco, cigars and snuff; to restrict ownership of lands in the Territories to American citizens: to prohibit Government employes from hiring or contracting out the labor of United States prisoners; to amend the act prohibiting the im portation and immigration of foreigners under labor contracts; providing for the location of a branch soldiers' home west of the Rocky Mountains; for the relief of the Jeannetts sufferers; amendatory of the act dividing ellicial districts and providing for th holding of terms of court at Peoria; relative to contested elections; to loan articles in the Government departments to the Minnesota Industrial Exposition; to regulate the juris-diction of United States Circuit Courts; for the adjustment of land grants and the forfeiture of unearned lands; to add a number of cities to the list of Na-tional bank reserve cities and to allow a part of the reserve to be kept in cities other than New York; for the relief of settlers on the public lands in Kansas and Nebraska; to provide or bringing suits against the Government; for the erection of public buildings at Los Angele's Cal., Springfield, Mo., El Paso, Tex., Santa Fe, N. M., and Jefferson, Tex.; to increase the limit of cost of public buildings at Peoria, Ill., Galveston, Tex., Clarksburg, W. Va., Keckuke Ia., Chattanooga, Tenn., Detroit, Mich.; for the completion or improvement of public buildings at Dallas, Tex. Des Moines, Ia., Jackson, Tenn., and Hannibal, Mo.; for the purchase of additional ground for the building at Fort Wayne, Ind.; for the purchase of a site for a Federal building at San Francisco.

Forty House joint resolutions became laws, the principal ones being as follows: Directing the Commissioner of Labor to make an investigation as to convict labor; authoriz-ing the Secretary of the Interior to use certain unexpended balances for the relief of the Northern Cheyennes of Wyoming; to authorize the President to protect American fishing and trading vessels and American fishermen in Canadian waters; authorizing an investigation of the books, methods and accounts of the Pacific

SENATE MEASURES ENACTED. Of the total number of bills which passed the Senate 330 became laws, including 115 of a public and 205 of a strictly private nature. The following is a list of the more important: The Presidential Succession bill: the Inter-State Commerce bill; for the retirement and recoinage of the trade dollar; the Electoral Count bill; for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians; to repeal the Tenure-of-Of-fice act; to increase the annual appropriation fsr the militia; to establish agricultural exfsr the militia; to establish agricultural experiment stations; to legalize the incorporation of trades unions; authorizing the transmissien of weather reports through the mails free of postage; to increase the pension for loss of an arm or leg; to indemnify the Chinese for losses sustained by the Rock Springs (Wy. T.) riot; for the relief of Texas, Colorado, Oregon, Nebraska, California, Kansas, Nevada, Washington Territory and Idaho; for the holding of terms of the United States Courts at Bay City, Mich.; to remove the charge of desertion from United States Courts at Bay City, Mich.; to remove the charge of desertion from the records of soldiers who enlisted without having received discharges on account of first enlistment; to amend the law relating to patents, trade-marks and copyrights; to bridge the Mississippi river at St. Louis; to prohibit the importation of opium; for the erection of public buildings at San Antonio, Tex., Houston, Tex., Oshkosh, Wis., Fort Smith, Ark., Owensborough, Ky., and Milwaukee, Wis.; to increase the limit of cost for public buildings at Oxford, Miss., and cost for public buildings at Oxford, Miss., and Denver, Col.; for the completion of public buildings at Fort Scott and Wichita, Kan.

VETOED BY THE PRESIDENT. The Senate bills vetoed were thirty-nine in number, eleven being of a public and twenty-eight of a private character. The public bills vetoed were as follows: To quiet the titles of settlers on the Des Moines river lands (passed over the veto in the Senate, but failed of the necessary two-thirds in the House); for the erection of public buildings at Zanesville, O., Lafayette, Ind., Sicux City, Ia., Dayton, O. (passed over the veto in both houses), and Lynn, Mass.: to extend the provisions of the immediate transportation act to Omaha, Neb.; to grant railroads right of way through the Indian reservations in Northern

The ninety-three House bills vetoed included eighty-seven private bills and six bills of a public nature. The public bills

For the erection of Federal buildings at Springfield, Mo., Duluth, Minn., Asheville, N. C., and Portsmouth, O.; to distribute $10,000 worth of seeds among the drought-stricken people of Texas; to grant pensions to de-pendent soldiers and dependent relatives of de-

The regular appropriation bills which failed of enactment were the Fortifications bill for both Congresses, the River and Harbor bill of the present session (which was not signed by the President), and the Deficiency bill, on which the conference report was not submitted in time for action. Fifty bills were "pocket vetoed" by the President. The most imortant

To prevent the employment of convict and alien labor on public works; to open to settle-ment the public-land strip south of Kansas; for the construction of Federal buildings at Monroe, La., and Saginaw, Mich.; the O'Neill Labor Arbitration bill; the Morrison surplus resolution; to annex a part of Idaho to Wash-ington Territory; for holding terms of court at Duluth, Minn., and Corinth, Miss.

MEASURES THAT PAILED. The Northern Pacific Forfeiture bill and the Pre-Emption-Repeal bill failed in conference, while the bill to create a Depart-ment of Agriculture and Labor was killed by the inability of its friends to send it to a conference committee. About 150 bills and resolutions which passed the House failed in the Senate, and about 750 measures which passed the Senate were defeated in the House. The most important bills defeated were:

The Blair Educational bill; the Cameron-Hale twin bills for the increase of the navy; the Mc-Adoo Fortifications bill; the Dakota and Washington Territory Admission bills; the Chicago Dearborn Park bill; the Eads bill; the Nicaragua Canal bill; the Morrison and other tariff bills; the Pacific railroad funding bills; to es-tablish a uniform bankruptcy law; the Pacific funding bill; the Hennepin Canal bill; the Okla-homa bill; the Dunn Free-Sh p bill; to repeal the Civil-Service law; to grant woman suffrage the Postal-Telegraph bill, and the International

THE LUMBER TRADE.

Statistics of the Output of the Northwest for 1886.

CHICAGO, March 8 .- The Northwestern Lumberman prints statistics as to the lumber trade of the Northwest for 1886, with comparisons with the product of former years. The grand total of the white pine lumber product of the Northwest for 1886 was 7,425,368,000 feet. This is 370,000,000 feet in excess of the preceding year, and is only slightly short of the total cut for the years 1882, 1883 and 1884. The greatest gains were in the older milling districts. Even more surprising than the heavy increase in the lumber output is the fact that 320,000,000 more pine shingles were cut in 1886 than in 1885. The grand total of the shingle product of the Northwest was 4,577,531,000 shingles, which is a larger showing than in any preceding year. The stock of lumber on hand at the mills at the close of the year is placed at 3,068,093,000 feet, or 170,000,000 feet less than at the close of 1885, and 450,000,000 feet less than 1884. The stocks of shingles were 35,-000,000 more than in 1885 and 200,000,000 less

It is not commonly known that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseated condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these disea

A YOUNG LADY'S EXPERIENCE ON THE MEXICAN FRONTIER.

Life Among the Picturesque Greasers. A Couple of Remarkable Border Towns-The Downtrodden and Contemplative Burro-Dancing at a Fort.

When I first came down here, from long and bitter experience, I flew to shut the accidentally left open door, and somehow the chair nearest the fireplace generally managed to enfold me. But when no unpleasant draught greeted my astonished self, and my face grew uncomfortably warm in my cor ner, it slowly dawned upon me that Texas was not Illinois—a fact I had never wasted much brain power in contemplating before— and when fresh strawberries, pineapples and vegetables appeared on the daintily laid table of my charming bostess, I felt that the world was no longer hollow or my doll stuffed with sawdust.

I expected to find many strange and curious things here, but verily the half had not been told. The streets are full of Mexicans dressed in their own picturesque fashion, with their bright colored serapes flung jauntily over their shoulders and their broad brimmed hats covered with silver tinsel and no end of cord and tassel. But the picturesqueness is confined to the men. For the women wear somber hued shawls drawn over their heads and covering the lower parts of their faces. I do not know why they take such precautions, for, as half of them have had smallpox, their beauty is not of the startling or dazzling order. They generally crouch in doorways or down in the very dust of the street when they are at home in their own town of Paso del Norte, but they bring their primitive manners and customs with them when they cross the river into the United States.

The bands and feet of even the commonest Mexican are remarkably small, and such marvelously high heels as they wear! It gives them simply no gait at all. A Mexican man cannot walk, anyway. He shuffles his feet along and bends his knee at every step, until if you watch him long, so loosely jointed and limber does he appear, you find yourself wondering if his knees won't bend backward with equal facility, and if his elbow is not a ball and socket joint.

LIFE AMONG THE GREASERS. I was surprised to discover what a low posi-tion the Mexican holds socially. I am told that a negro who marries a Mexican woman immediately loses caste among his fellows, and is henceforth ostracized.

The long bridge across the wandering, capricious and strictly feminine Rio Grande connects two remarkable towns. Once on the other side, you seem to have stepped back into the past a century or two. You find adobe houses, surrounded by mud walls, instead of fences, and these walls surmounted by hundreds of cactus plants in lieu of our more modern if less effective barb wire. is no uncommon sight to see a two wheeled cart with each wheel bewn out of a solid log. Their fuel is chiefly mesquite, the wide spreading roots of a low, stunted tree, and their wells are certainly unique. After they strike water, instead of lowering a bucket for it, they make an inclined plane with steps in it, so that they can walk comfortably down into the well, fill their bucket and climb out again, so it has been wittily said that Mexico is a country where they dig for wood and climb for water.

The natives always use burros for carrying this mesquite, and they trudge behind on foot. There is something very pathetic about the four footed inhabitants of Mexico. The sight of the pleading look in the eyes of a burro nearly makes me weep. He always looks so downtrodden, so meek, so contem plative. Their ponies excite equal sympathy. They wear their heads low-very low-and they always have burrs in their tails. To me there is something appealing about a horse with burrs in his tail, because I cannot imagine a high spirited horse, one who had an atom of family pride or self respect, having

Of course thus far I have only referred to the lower class of Mexicans. The aris are very different. They pay more attention to rank and caste than we do, and have exquisite manners. A man may be a perfect brute at home-he may even beat his wifebut in public his manners with both men and women would put Lord Chesterfield to the

DANCING AT A FORT.

There are Mexican troops stationed across the river in Paso del Norte, and Fort Bliss, about a quarter of a mile from this city, is the headquarters of the Tenth infantry; consequently the officers exchange civilities quite frequently. At the first of a series of hops given at Fort Bliss all the Mexican officers were invited; but no one under the rank of major was allowed to attend. One poor little senorita who was present was very pensive, for a hop room, and when I was asked the cause I was told that she was engaged to the captain on her father's staff and he was not of sufficient rank to come. She did not look over 12 years old, with her frock only reaching to the top of her tiny high-heeled, white satin boots, but any age is considered marriageable in Mexico. I was particularly impressed with the charming manners of the Mexican officers and grandees of Paso del Norte that night. When one of them, a major, was introduced to me he bowed very low and said: "A los pies de V., senorita," which is the usual charming salutation, meaning "At your feet, senorita;" and in duty bound I answered, "Beso a la mano, caballero," which is the regulation retort meaning "I kiss your hand, sir." But I didn't do it; that was only an idle threat. He wished to dance with me, but didn't understand our plan of having hop cards, for at their balls the first one who gets to a girl dances with her.

They have no introductions of any kind. Every man is supposed to be a gentleman and every woman a lady, and you mortally offend a man if you refuse to dance with him. So when it was explained to him that my card was full he meekly asked for the first extra, and with a very flowery compliment, which he did not in the least mean, but which burt neither one of us and was very pretty, he excused himself. As the programme was very long we had no extras, and he came up almost in tears to express his unavailing regret. One would have thought a nation's fate depended on that man's making me dizzy in one of their waltzes, for they never reverse. He was very handsome and used his eyes in a most fetching manner, but I thought in all probability he had a wife and ten children over in his adobe house, and the scene changed. I enjoyed it hugely, but I should think such extravagance of language might become wearing.—El Paso Cor. Chicago News.

London's Migratory People. It is well known that the population of London is a migratory one, but probably few persons were prepared for the fact which has been brought to light by the compilers of that really wonderful work, "Kelly's Postoffice Directory," that the removals in London amount to one in ten annually. Thus the entire population of London changes houses every ten years .- New Orleans Times-DemoSUNRISE.

FASHIONS FOR THE DEAD.

How the Customs of Dressing for the Grave Have Been Changed.

There have been within the last few years many marked changes in the conduct and in the accessories of funerals. The changes have been brought by influences not clearly de finable. One old lady who died not long ago lay in her narrow casket robed in a pilgrim suit of brown broadcloth, the cape covering her shoulders and shrunken form, and a girdle holding the gathers about the waist. A small, close, little felt bonnet was worn and the infusion of some chemical gave the face a most lifelike appearance. A favorite funeral gown is the modified Greek dress, such as Mary Anderson, Miss Eastlake and Ellen Terry have been seen in. These outfits are made without trimming, possibly a girdle or braided cape being used as a finish. The fabric used is some fine flannel or worsted cloth of a yellowish white color.

Not two years ago the wife of a rich young west sider was dressed in a fac-similie cos tume of that worn by Viola Allen in "Virginius." Her sickness had been very brief, and when "the final summons" came the body retained its lovely round contour. In the coffin the arms and neck were bare, the yellow hair was arranged in loose ringlets about the face, and a necklace of pearl beads encircled the throat. The winding sheet has been revived, and if the rumor one gives ear to can be credited some very prominent people will "wrap the drapery of their couch about them" they go hence. The quotation is hardly pertinent, for in place of the cold, white winding sheet of the "sailor boy," a plaid of white billiard cloth, made after the style of Sir John Moore's sable robe, is considered the thing. So far the winding sheet has been used in Chicago at the bier of young men, and then the funeral services have been conducted with great privacy.

Another innovation at funerals is the evening or vesper burial. Services are held at the residence late in the afternoon, the friends retire immediately afterward and at nightfall the coffin is placed in the under taker's carriage and driven to the vault, followed by a single coupe. This programme is becoming very general in west side circles and is preferred to any other arrangement when the remains are taken out of the city for burial.-Inter Ocean.

Marshall P. Wilder's Mimiery.

Mr. Wilder supplemented this scientific exhibition of his supernatural powers with one of his inimitable parlor entertainments, giv-ing imitations of the telephone, including the frying sound while "Central" is making nections, and bits of dialogue, illustrated by his wonderful face in such a way that Wilder completely disappeared and the character he portrayed stood alone. He concluded his en-tertainment by giving an original play in three acts, which merits serious consideration by our managers:

Act I-Young girl, beautiful, blue eyed and strawberry blonde, is seen weeping at the front gate of a palatial mausion in Hoboken. She discloses the sad story of her heart—she had inadvertently eaten onions the day before, and her lover, the hero, has left her more in orrow than in wrath. What is to become of their beautiful ancestral home, built last April? Alas! rent day is at hand, and nothing but one paltry hundred dollar bill liesbetween the family and ruin. What shall she do-what shall she do?

Enter the villain. "Ha, ha! you vas sgorned my prodesdations of luff, und now, py chiminy peesvax, I got der glamps on you, tond it?". She falls to her knees; she begs she entreats. He is unmoved. "Vhere is your fadder?" he thunders. Alas, she knows but cannot tell. Her father cannot return for three hours, for he has gone out to wind up his Waterbury watch. But will he not show mercy? The villain demurs. "Giff me von giss vrom does rupy lips und"- She breaks from him with a maiden's scorn; she flies, he pursues; no help is at hand; at last he overtakes her. and, despite her piteous cries and frenzied entreaties, kisses her squarely on the mouth with a regular, three ply Weehawken tunnel kiss.

"My!" she says, "how you scared me. Scare me again, please."—New York World.

Cat and Canary.

From a private letter I quote: "I have a handsome black cat and my wife's sister has a canary. Noticing that Mr. Thomas appeared to desire a closer acquaintance with the bird than could be induced by his love of music and fearing that he might get at the bird, I placed an electrical machine on a table under the cage, so arranged that one touching its top would receive a shock. Then I put a chair near the table, and retired to watch the result. Presently Tom slyly advanced to the chair, jumped into it, and thence to the top of the machine, immediately to spring into the air with a terrible cry and rush from the room. After that he gave no attention to the canary. Indeed for weeks, nothing would induce him to enter the room where he was so shocked."—The Cosmopolitan.

Saved the Hole.

When Gen. Wilder in 1862, from the north bank of the river, shelled Chattanooga, his principal target was the Baptist church, which stood in the same spot now occupied by the sanctuary of the First Baptist society Services were being held in it at the time, and the congregation dispersed without waiting for the benediction. The house was directly in range and the first shell struck it, making a hole in the clapboards. In all the years sin the aperture has not been filled or covered. Lately repairs were made on the residence, and the little hole was given to W. A. Woolson, according to an old promise. The re-ceiver cut out three pieces of the siding and put them in their respective places in a frame. -Chattanooga Paper.

A FIRST NIGHT AUDIENCE.

The Crowd at a Parisian Theatre-A Position in Society.

The audience at a first night considers the theatre as the house of a friend by whom they are invited for the evening. They appear in full dress, and as late as possible, so as not to be the first to arrive, exchange salutations with the other visitors, shake hands right and left and spend the evening in trying to cut a good figure and to chat with everybody all round. The professional critic whispers little sarcasms into his neighbor's ear, the friend of the author amuses himself by repeating all the points and bous mots of the piece before they are on the stage, thus spoiling their effect. Gentlemen pay visits to ladies in their boxes, discussing the latest news and epigrams; the gallery—which does not form a part of the "society"—looks down upon the assembly through opera glasses, in order to see all notorious persons as accurately as possible and to observe how they gesticulate, dress, smile, eat sweets, with whom they are acquainted and to whom they are polite or intimate. It is an incessant whisper and murmur and giggle; sometimes a tragic scene is spoiled by a sudden loud and indiscreet laugh, or the most comic scene is lost because a whole row of spectators have suddenly become solemn and serious in consequence of the news of a death or other accident which has just been announced. Every body is busily engaged in taking care of himself and everybody else, in presenting himself in the most favorable light to the curious and the humble, and the curtain falls without any spectator, except the critics, having taken the slightest notice of what was said or done on the stage. It is an important part of the perfect Par-isian's education to know the whole audience barring the galleries, of the first nights by name, rank, character, and possibly also the pecuniary state and politics of each person Thus the social importance of the present. first night is easily explained. To be known is the great object of innumerable individuals of a great town, and to attain this object is the greatest victory which can be gained in the metropolitan fight for existence. And if once a man has succeeded in being among the number of constant visitors on first nights he has emerged from the darkness. * In order to become habitue, rank, money or great influence is necessary. It may be possible to get, without great difficulties, a single seat at a single first night, but this insures by no means the advantages arising from the regular attendance at all first representations. The advantages are only secured after a name has been entered into the feuille du service des premieres at every fashionable theatre, which is the register containing the name of every person entitled to be present at first

The fueille du service is the golden book of Paris society. To be entered into this list is the price which is given for any great success. He who succeeds in making all Paris talk of him for a moment becomes at once the recipient of premiere cards. The member of the institute; the author whose book has made a sensation; the eminent traveler; the lawyer who had been engaged in a great case; the architect who has completed a large edifice; the "grand prix" of the salon; the politician whom events have thrown into the foreground; the officer whose past is marked by a feat of valor; neither of these need apply for tickets, for they will be offered to the But those by whose presence the director of the theatre does not feel specially honored, must be ready to pay heavily for having their name put on the list.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Colorado's Red Headed Statesmen.

"Is there anything in the constitution or bylaws of Colorado," said a statesman today, "that requires the representatives of that state in congress to have red hair? I know that the word Colorado means red, and have often wondered, when I have seen Symes, whether there wasn't some such provision. At least, the precedent is respected if it is not established in law. And there is another curious thing about it. The heads of Colorado congressmen keep getting redder and redder. There was Chaffee. He was a delegate. The hair on his head, before it turned gray and fell out, was sandy, with red lights in it like an opal. Then came the Hon. Thomas Jefferson Patterson, caput was auburn, and following in his footsteps was the lurid Belford, whose head was the tint of a Philadelphia pressed brick. Then, if you will take a glance at Symes, you will notice that a scarlet geranium would look dull beside his scalp. His hair is about the color of a prairie fire. I wonder where they will find a redder headed man to suc ceed him? The people of Colorado will have to keep Symes in or break the record."-Chicago News.

It Pays to Buy Papers. "It really doesn't require the expenditure of a great deal of money for a man to keep himself posted on the news of the day," remarked a business man who is an omniverous newspaper reader. "I buy all the daily newspapers—all those printed in English I mean— published in this city, and I find that the total amount of their cost is twenty cents per day. The morning papers cost nine cents and the afternoon papers eleven cents. Considering the amount of reading furnished for the money I think it a cheap investment. I also buy all the Sunday papers," he continued, "at an expense every Sabbath of thirty-eight cents. I find that there is more good reading in them, to say nothing of the news of the day, than is contained in three magazines at twenty-five cents a number."-Philadelphia

The Force of Habit.

A tall, lank man, with brown hair and a sombrero, shuffled into the Boston Oyster House yesterday afternoon. As he opened the door the head waiter, or floor walker, leveled his finger at the stranger as a sign for him to follow. The latter did not appear to view the outstretched finger as a frendly omen, for he dodged behind a post, yelling as

"Hyar, thar! You've got the drop on me this time. Just lower that for a minute and give a feller a fair shake." An explanation followed, and the ma from the west sat down to a dozen of Blue Points without further incident.-Chicago

Sheehan, or Dr. Sullivan.

The Washtenaw agricultural society held an adjourned meeting in the basement of the court house, last Thursday afternoon, and discussed several matters pertaining to the weltare of the society's existence. The matter of lifting the mortgage was discussed at considerable length but final action was deferred until the meeting to be held April 7th. In the meantime other efforts are to be made with a view of lifting the same. The premium list for the spring fair was partially arranged. It will be about the same as the list for fall fairs, excepting that there will be no premium offered for green fruits, vegetables, or grain. Other premiums, however, will be offerd which will add much interest, such as a premium for sheep shearing, the largest and best quality of fleeces, and several others. The officers are working hard to make this spring meeting a success, and the farmers generally are taking an active interest in the

Adrienne Lecouvreur.

Ann Arbor people will have the pleasure of seeing Mojeska in the above play, next Tuesday evening. Mme. Mojeska's present tour through the west is one continuous ovation. Her support is one of rare attainments.

The play of Adrienne Lecouvreur has a peculiar history. It was written for the great Rachel, by Scribe and Legouve, and was once rejected by her, she having formed a prejudice against it, but Legouve was not to be overcome by trifles. He asked permission to read the piece in Rachel's own parlor, before a few of her most intimate friends. This request was granted, and the outcome is told in Legouve's own words:

"In the second act, Adrienne makes her first appearance holding in her hand the part of Badaget, which she is studying. The Prince de Bouillion approaches her and observes, gaily: 'You still appear to be looking for something; what is it, may I ask?' 'I am looking for the truth,' she replies. 'Bravo! Bravo!' exclaimed Jules Janin, the great critic and her friend, who was present, 'Oh!' said I to myself, 'he must be my friend, for surely the words do not merit a bravo.' Rachel, too, was a little startled, and gave Janin a look that seemed to say: 'What! a traitor here?' Fortunately, the traitor's opinion soon became everybody else's opinion. Rachel, surprised and very much embar-assed at not finding herself filled with her former disdain, made but a feeble resistance against the general impression, and at the end of the second act even chimed in with the general sentiment by saying, Well, I always thought there was something in that second act.' This was her last semblance of defence. From the very beginning of the third act she riddled herself of her former prejudices as completely as politicians do of unpopular opinions. She applauded, she laughed, she shed tears, every now and then muttering, 'What a silly simpleton I have been!' At the end silly simpleton I have been!' of the fith act she actually threw herself on my neck, exclaiming, with streaming eyes:

"'How have you kept yourself off the
