The Psi U. German.

What was probably the leading society event of the season took place on last Friday evening, in the form of the German given at the Psi Upsilon chapter house. Seventeen couples were present, the music being furnished by the Chequamegon, and the German being led by Miss Angell and Mr. Thomas. The broad veranda was solidly enclosed by bunting of garnet and old gold, forming a fine room, furnished with tables and chairs and lighted by numerous Chinese lanterns. The veranda thus formed a beautiful and brilliant little place in which supper was served about eleven o'clock. In seating, there was upon each chair, a little satin envelope addressed to the person who was to occupy it, and with the post mark and stamp of some distant country. The post mark gave the exact date and hour at which dancing commenced. Twelve figures of the German were danced. All but one of these were favor figures, the favors being decidedly unique and beautiful. Most of the figures were original, one having an air of mystery that is said to have been quite taking. Those present from a distance were Miss Johnson, of New York city, who was the guest of Miss Angell; Miss Isham, of Detroit, who was visiting Miss Condon; and Mr. Bowen Shoemaker, of Jackson, and Mr. John Morris, Jr., of Fort Wayne, Ind., who were the guests of the Psi U. fraternity.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Mrs. Lucy W. Morgan, who had been in poor health for some time, passed away last Thursday evening, in the midst of numerous friends and relatives, at the age of 91 years.

Mrs. Morgan was born in Middletown, Conn., and for a number of years was a successful school teacher. In 1830 she moved to this city, when there were but three houses in the hamlet. Being a woman of more than ordinary ability, in the way of business, she had amassed a fortune amounting to about $250,000. Much of her wealth was invested in real estate in this city and Jackson. In an early day she purchased a large tract of land where the city of Jackson now stands. Latter on she deeded a portion of it to the city for a park; but the city did not use it for this purpose and deeded it to the M. C. R. Co., to build their shops upon.

Mrs. Morgan seeing that the property was not used for the purpose she had intended, brought action in the courts and recovered $40,000. By such business tact she had accumulated her fortune, and in saving it she was as equally successful.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the residence, corner of Huron and Fifth-sts.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is said to be regaining his eyesight, and the cataract has stopped its progress.

OUR LANSING LETTER.

Somehow the August-like torridity of the past week has not acted upon the members of the legislature as upon Mother Nature's inanimate productions. Indeed, the effect have been diametrically opposite. Under old Sol's genial diffusion of those life-giving qualities of light and heat the handsome shade trees that adorn the streets and the grass upon the lawns, especially that envying the capitol, have experienced a luxuriant growth, and the flowers, the "garden truck" and all else have fairly leaped into verdant beauty. But the members, despite frequent repetitions of the irrigating process to which the average legislator is wont to resort as well during the hyperborean period as the incinerating dog days, have gone on with lethargic step, and have really during the past fortnight accomplished very little work.

A good deal of time was spent over the memorial of the "Non-Partisan State Amendment Committee," making charges of intimidation and fraud in the conduct of the election in Wayne county. The memorial was supported by several affidavits reciting the experience of the affiliates at the polls, wherein is recapitulated the language addressed to them as workers in the prohibitory vineyard, together with graphic accounts of sundry affrays and jostling matches, the snatching of bundles of amendment ballots from ticket peddlers and coonate performances, together with allegations that inspectors of the election substituted ballots, opened ballots, destroyed ballots, kept ballot boxes out of sight and perpetrated other frauds "too numerous to mention." A motion to incorporate the memorial in the printed proceedings brought on a long discussion in which it seemed as though about every member present took a hand. The motion was finally adopted.

Another measure of legislation which has consumed no small amount of time was the liquor tax bill, now familiarly known as the Bates-Dickens bill, the provisions of which I have already given you. It was taken up in the house in the order of third reading, and the deluge of amendments offered, debated and voted down could scarcely be enumerated, were the whole of this episode devoted to that purpose alone. Notwithstanding these it passed its third reading by a vote of 51 yeas to 35 nays without modification or change.

Although the actual vote on the liquor bill was as given above the Legislative Journal shows a yeas vote of 53, two absentees having voted by proxy. These were Mr. Bartwell, of Genesee, and Mr. Williams, of Eaton. Speaker Markey believed such practice to be authorized by precedent. Against his decision, however, is house rule 23, which says: "The vote of no member shall be recorded by the clerk unless such member shall be in his seat when he gives his vote." It has frequently been held by legislative bodies that the only remedy for a member who was absent or unrecorded on the journal as voting, was in a "question of privilege," by which his choice could be shown in the journal of a subsequent day. This is the regular custom in congress.

The bill to abolish the state board of corrections and charities will no doubt meet with much opposition in the house today, where it comes up on special order. Several members of the board and the secretary have been diligent throughout the entire session in showing the immense value of the commission to the state. No test vote has ever been had on the bill and no one knows how the members will vote.

In the house the ways and means committee reported the general appropriation bill for the University with a great, gaping cut of $20,000 from the total amount of $207,000 as it passed the senate. The cut is made up of numerous items, the main ones being $5,000 for a dental extension, $2,000 for plans for an art museum, and about $7,000 on contingent expenses and repairs. The entire appropriation is now about $187,000. It is understood that a big fight was had in the committee over the item of $75,000 for the construction of a building for scientific laboratories and their equipment, and that the committee passed this item by a majority of a single vote. This is likely to bring on a fight against the bill when it comes up on its final passage.

Representative Lincoln's bill relating to the care of ballot boxes has passed the house. It provides that a seal having the name of the township or ward thereon shall be provided, which shall be used to hold in place a piece of leather or canvas so placed as to extend from the corner of the box entirely covering the key hole. The box shall be delivered to them sealed before the election and shall be again sealed, with the ballots therein, before it is returned to the clerk. A fine is provided for the punishment of any one using or having such seal in his possession.

The bill appropriating $5,000 for the purchase of 26 acres of land adjoining the state public school grounds had rough sailing when it came up the other day. Henry Watson said he was informed by a member of the ways and means committee that there was a job concealed in the bill, and the price which it was proposed to pay for the land—$192 an acre—was denounced as excessive. Sentiment against the appropriation was so decided the bill was finally passed informally to await the return of the chairman of the ways and means committee, who had recommended it.

Mr. Harrington's bill in relation to damages for injuries received by an employee, through the negligence of a fellow employee, was agreed to in house committee of the whole, but no vote was taken that would indicate what its strength will be on the third reading.

During the consideration of the bill to organize an independent forestry commission some interesting statements were made by Mr. Beecher concerning the recuperating powers of forest soils from which the woods have once been cut. He stated that most kinds of forest trees, including even white pine, would soon grow up again unless the ground was burned over. In the latter case the second growth was slower and much more uncertain. He also argued that by keeping out fires many of the denuded and waste portions of the state might become fertile. He referred to several cases within his knowledge as proof of what he said. The bill requires the state board of agriculture to inquire into the extent to which the forests of Michigan are being destroyed by fire and wasteful cutting, the effect of the diminution of the wooded surface of the land upon ponds and rivers, and also as to the protection of denuded regions, stump and swamp lands.

The discussion of the Cross bill has not so far excited much interest, and it is not possible at this stage of the proceedings to say just what is going to become of it, as the question did not come to a vote before the committee arose. Several of the older members objected to the section limiting the insurable age to 65 years.

The two-cent fare bill is not making very rapid progress, the matter having been put over till the last of this week. It looks now as though the substitute of W. A. Baker, of Berrien, was likely to be adopted. This makes the fare two and one-half cents per mile and three cents per mile in the Upper Peninsula, and places the price of 500 mile tickets, good for twelve months, at $10. The mileage tickets are to be good only in Michigan.

Only a Farmer's Daughter.

"Only a Farmer's Daughter" has a pronounced melo-dramatic tone; it is highly emotional, and it might be said, sensationally, and having a strong plot, and being very skilfully constructed, it follows that there are many strong situations and plenty of life and acting all through—in short, that it is a very effective acting play. In addition to this, it should be said that the dialogue is as good as the plot and the process of the development, that the parts are nearly all effective, and that the denouement is novel, ingenious, and highly impressive.—N. Y. World.

The play is entirely original, embodies many commendable features, and is free from the sickly sentimentalities and trashy Frenchisms that even some authors of acknowledged ability deem essential in catering to certain depraved tastes. It possesses a wholesome, refreshing moral tone, and we commend the bold stand of Mr. Barnes in his effort to raise the wavering standard of the American drama. The plot, though at times intricate, holds its interest from the beginning to the close, and is sufficiently versatile to awaken frequent enthusiastic outbursts. The audience was well nigh unbounded in its manifestation of approval of the conception and rendition of the leading roles, and even the minor readings elicited appreciative applause.—Home Journal.

That is the Number of the Ticket That Caught on to $150,000.

One Tenth of the Amount Comes to a Cheboygan Lady.

At the last drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery Company, ticket No. 67,600 drew the capital prize of $150,000, and as most of our readers are aware a one-tenth part of this ticket was owned by Mrs. M. R. Newberry, of this city, who is now rejoicing in the receipt of her $15,000, which arrived here the first of the week, the amount having been collected by the First National Bank of Cheboygan. There is rejoicing over their good fortune in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newberry, and all of our people are glad to see them catch on, this being the first lottery ticket ever bought by Mrs. Newberry. We are sorry to learn that they will in a few days remove to Grand Rapids and there purchase a home and settle down and enjoy the benefit of their good luck. The balance of the money left after getting a home will be put out at interest, or placed in some safe place. The lottery company came to the front promptly and paid the amount of money due on presentation of the ticket without any quibbling.—Cheboygan (Mich.) Democrat, April 28.

The violet was the chosen flower of the Bonaparte family, as the scarlet carnation was the floral emblem of the English Stuarts.

LITERARY NOTES.

Prof. Francis L. Patton, of Princeton, will contribute to the Forum for June an article under the significant title, "The Andover Romanizing?"

The Forum for June will contain an exceptionally interesting contribution to its series on "Books That Have Helped Me," by Andrew Lang—the one English writer, perhaps, who can invest a causerie on that subject with such charms of style and erudition as will please every reader.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps will have a story in the June Century, illustrated by Mary Halleck Foote and I. R. Wiles. The scene is laid at "Fair Harbor," and the story touches the temperance question. It is said to be of unusual pathos and strength.

Two papers on "College Boat-Racing," particularly timely in view of the New London races, will appear in the June Century. One, with illustrations, is by Julian Hawthorne, famous on the Harvard crew of his day. The other is by a Yale man.

Here we have The Quiver for June and the frost barely out of the ground. How closely summer follows up the tardy spring. It is a good number and has for its opening article a paper by Lady John Manners giving instances she has known of long and honorable domestic service. She quotes the household of the Duke of Rutland, where the coachman just dead at ninety odd, lived for eighty-two years, and other servants from periods ranging between twenty and sixty five years. English servants take pride in their faithfulness and their employers appreciate their devotion. The Quiver has instituted an "Order of Honorable Service" whose members are awarded Bibles or medals according to the years of their faithfulness to one family. Perhaps if such an order was instituted in this country it might be an inducement for the flighty servant girl to stay more than three months in one place.—Class II & Co., fifteen cents a number, $1.50 a year in advance.

The Magazine of Art for June has for its frontispiece a photograph after Mr. Frank Dicksee's "The Symbol," a graceful and picturesque composition. The opening article is on Mr. Dicksee, who is one of the most popular as well as the youngest member of the Royal Academy. An interesting article following on "Pictures in Enamel," giving illustrations of course of the more famous ones. The lively article of the number is in the series called "Glimpses of Artist Life." This gives us the Royal Academy Banquet. Curiously enough, only one newspaper representative is admitted, and he is The Times man. Other papers resent this, and some of them refuse to mention the banquet at all. A paper on Russian Bronzes gives some fine specimens of spirited work. This is followed by an explanatory account, it can hardly be called a review, of Lafenestre's "Titan," recently published by Quantin, of Paris. There is an attractive description with pencil of that fine old English place, Hardwick Hall, with its picture gallery filled with portraits by Holbein, Van Dyck, Sir Joshua and others.—Caswell & Company, thirty-five cents a copy, $3.50 a year, in advance.

The Ladies' Favorite.

The newest fashion in ladies' hats will doubtless cause a flutter of pleasurable excitement among the fair sex. Ladies are always susceptible to the changes of a fashion plate; and the more startling the departure, the more earnest the gossip over the new mode. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for the ills which afflict females and make their lives miserable. This sovereign panacea can be relied on in cases of displacements and all functional derangements. It builds up the poor, haggard and worn-out victim, and gives her renewed hope and a fresh lease of life. It is the only medicine for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Read printed guarantee on bottle wrapper.

Settled Consumption Cured.

"Several years ago a severe cold settled on my lungs. The most popular physician that ever practiced here attended me for a long time but to no avail. It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Frank Vizetelly, the artist, was supposed to have perished in the ill-fated expedition of Hicks Pasha. A Syrian Greek who has arrived at Cairo, says that among the European prisoners at Khartoum is a "short, stout man, with a full beard, wearing glasses." THE GARFIELD STATUE.

Unveiling of the Memorial Shaft in Washington.

The Ceremony Witnessed by Thousands—General Sheridan Presents the Statue to President Cleveland—His Speech of Acceptance.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—At the business meeting yesterday morning of the Army of the Cumberland Colonel Henry Stone, of Boston, was chosen as the orator for the next reunion, and Colonel McMichael, of New York, as alternate. Chicago was selected as the place for the next reunion, and Chickamauga week, in September, 1888, as the time. The present officers were unanimously re-elected: President, General J. H. Sheridan; Treasurer, General J. S. Fullerton; Corresponding Secretary, General Henry M. Cist; Recording Secretary, General John W. Steele.

The remainder of the day was devoted to the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Garfield statue.

At twelve o'clock sharp the entrances to the grand stand were thrown open, and the invited guests were quickly assigned seats. Among the first to arrive were the sons of General Garfield. Secretary Bayard and Attorney-General Garland were the first members of the Cabinet to arrive. They were followed by Chief Justice

THE GARFIELD STATUE.

Waite and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court. At one o'clock the President, accompanied by General Sheridan, arrived. Simultaneously the van-guard of the procession appeared in quick march from Pennsylvania avenue. Colonel Wilson then announced that the proceedings would be opened with prayer by Rev. S. H. Giesey, D. D. After Mr. Giesey had concluded his prayer, "The Star Spangled Banner" was very effectively rendered by the full marine band. As the last note died away, at twenty minutes past one o'clock, the American flag which had covered the statue was quickly dragged away. The salute from the south front of the capitol was then fired.

General Sheridan then introduced the orator of the day, General J. Warren Keifer, who, on the part of the Monument Committee, delivered an address transferring the statue to General Sheridan. At its conclusion General Sheridan, in behalf of the society, transferred the statue to the President in the following words:

"MR. PRESIDENT: This statue which has been unveiled in your presence to-day was created by the comrades of General Garfield belonging to the Army of the Cumberland. They recognized his merit as a soldier, and they wished to pay some testimony to that merit and to his worth as a man. I have the honor, sir, on behalf of the society of the Army of the Cumberland, to ask you, as the representative of the American people, to accept the statue from their hands as it was given to me." [Applause.]

In accepting the statue President Cleveland spoke as follows:

"FELLOW-CITIZENS: In performance of the duty assigned to me on this occasion, I hereby accept on behalf of the people of the United States this beautiful and completed statue.
Amid the interchange of fraternal greetings between the survivors of the Army of the Cumberland and their former foes upon the battlefield, and, while the Union General and the people's President awaited burial, the common grief of these magnificent soldiers and mourning citizens found expression in the determination to erect this tribute to American greatness; and thus to-day in its symmetry and beauty, it presents a sign of amicosities forgotten, an emblem of brotherhood redeemed, and a token of a nation restored. Monuments and statues multiply throughout the land, fittingly illustrative of the love and affection of our grateful people, and commemorating brave and patriotic sacrifices in war, fame in peaceful pursuits, or honor in public station. But from this day forth there shall stand at our seat of government this statue of a distinguished citizen, who in his life and services combined all these things and more, which challenge admiration in American character—loving tenderness in every domestic relation, bravery on the field of battle, fame and distinction in the halls of legislation, and the highest honor and dignity in the Chief Magistracy of the nation. This statue which shall not fail to teach every beholder that the source of American greatness is confined to no condition, nor dependent alone for its growth and development upon favorable surroundings.
The genius of our National life beckons to usefulness and honor those in every sphere, and offers the highest preferment to many ambition and sturdy, honest effort chastened and consecrated by patriotic hopes and aspirations. As long as this statue stands let it be proudly remembered that to every American citizen the way is open to fame and station until he,

"Moving up from high to higher, Becomes on fortune's crowning slope
The pillar of a people's hope,
The center of a world's desire."

Nor can we forget that it also teaches our people a sad and distressing lesson; and the thoughtful citizen who views its fair proportions can not fail to recall the tragedy of a death which brought grief and mourning to every household in the land. But while American citizenship stands agashed and affrighted that murder and assassination should lurk in the midst of a free people and strike down the head of their government, fearless search and the discovery of the origin, and hiding-place of these hateful and unnatural things, should be followed by a solemn resolve to purge forever from our political methods and from the operation of our Government, the perversions and misconceptions which gave birth to passionate and bloody thoughts. If from this hour our admiration for the bravery and nobility of American manhood, and our faith in the possibilities and opportunities of American citizenship be renewed, if our appreciation of the blessing of a restored Union and love for our Government be strengthened, and if our watchfulness against the dangers of a mad chase after partisan spoils be quickened, the dedication of this statue to the people of the United States will not be in vain.

During the delivery of his address the President was frequently interrupted by outbursts of applause. He spoke fluently in a clear voice, which was audible to most of the vast crowd that filled the circle before the stand. When he had concluded the band played "Hail Columbia," and Rev. F. D. Power, who was the pastor of General Garfield's church in this city pronounced the benediction.

TRADE TOPICS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report a Great Revolution in Business Circles—Reasons Given.

NEW YORK, May 14.—R. G. Dun & Co. in their weekly trade review declare that a great revolution in business is going on, which they attribute partly to the operations of the Inter-State Commerce act and partly to the expansion in the kind of currency. It appears that the smaller towns generally are being benefited by the Inter-State law, while the great centers are suffering. The output of pig-iron is increasing. The exports of breadstuffs have been checked by the recent advance in prices. The business failures during the last seven days in the United States and Canada numbered 107, as against 176 during the corresponding period of last year.

Catholic Knights of America.

CHICAGO, May 15.—The Supreme Council of the Catholic Knights of America concluded its sixth biennial session Friday and adjourned. Business of a general character was transacted, and the following officers were elected to serve for the next two years, commencing on July 1: Supreme President, John David Coleman, New Orleans; Supreme Vice-President, P. F. O'Rourke, Fort Wayne; Supreme Secretary, John Barr, Lebanon, Ky.; Supreme Treasurer, M. J. O'Brien, Chicago; Trustees, John J. Duffy, Memphis; J. M. McInerney, Brooklyn, and John H.
Swartz, St. Louis. The next session will be held at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Two Millionaire Convicts.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 16.—The jury in the case of the State against Hiram B.
Everest and Charles M. Everett, the millionaire members of the Rochester Vacuum Oil Company, charged with conspiracy to destroy the Buffalo Lubricating oil-works and to ruin the business of the company, returned a verdict yesterday morning in the court of oyer and ter-miner. It found the Everests guilty as charged in the indictments. This result was a surprise to the friends of the defendants. A stay of proceedings was granted.

Death of Justice Woods.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Associate Justice William B. Woods, of the United States Supreme Court, died at Washington Saturday. He was a soldier of distinction in the late war, and had been on the Supreme bench since 1880. His death creates a vacancy for President Cleveland will fill. He was born at Newark, O., was a graduate of Yale College, in 1845, and in 1847 began the practice of law. He was a member of the Ohio Legislature several years, and was also State Chancellor.

Trouble Between Ohio Labor Parties.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—The Henry George wing of the Labor party has issued a call for a State conference to be called in this city July 4. The land theorists assert that this movement is not a political one, but it really means war to the knife between the Union Labor and the United Labor parties. The Union Labor State convention will, it is said, be held in Columbus July 4, to nominate a State ticket.

Indictments Quashed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 17.—Indictments returned last fall in the United States Court against Thomas Ritter, Joseph Moore, John McBoesley, Amos and John Stout, Alfred Haldy and Eleazer Pierce, prominent Republicans of this city, for election frauds, were quashed Saturday by Judge Gresham upon the ground that the offenses charged were not in violation of the Federal law.

The Church and the Knights.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 16.—Bishop Ireland, who has just returned from Rome, said in his sermon here yesterday that the church had neither approved nor condemned the Knights of Labor. It recognized the right of every workman to strike, but not to force others to stop work.
The Pope, he said, took a deep interest in American affairs, and considered America the hope of the world.

Destructive Floods Down South.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 14.—Heavy rains have fallen for two days in the vicinity of Weldon, N. C., and also in the counties of Southampton, Isle of Wight and Surry in this State. The high mills have been washed away by floods, and the corn and peanut crops in each of the above counties have been ruined.

Elected New Officers.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The National convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians elected these officers Thursday: National Delegate, Joseph Cahill, of Chicago; National Secretary, William Sheridan, of Jersey City; National Treasurer, Thomas Fitzpatrick, of New York.

Seeding Completed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 13.—Crop reports from 135 counties in Minnesota, Dakota and Iowa show that seeding through the Northwest has been completed. With favorable weather, the crops harvested next fall in Minnesota and Dakota will be unprecedented.

Has Become a Law.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 15.—Governor Beaver has signed the High-License bill.
The act provides for a $500-license for cities of 30,000 population and over, $400 for smaller cities, $300 for boroughs, and $100 for township hotels.

Hail Damages Illinois Crops.

CARTHAGE, Ill., May 16.—A heavy hailstorm visited this section Saturday afternoon. The damage to growing crops will be considerable.

A GREAT GATHERING.

Preparations for the International Sunday-School Convention to Be Held in Chicago—Dates of Transportation.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Extensive preparations are being made for the great international Sunday-School convention which meets in this city on the night of the 31st and continues June 1, 2, 3 and 4.
Battery D has been engaged and will have chairs to accommodate 6,000 persons soon in place. Nearly all of the railroads in the United States have made arrangements to return at one-third fare all who pay full fare to the convention. The Grand Trunk and Intercolonial railroads of Canada will sell a round-trip ticket good until July 15.
Special arrangements have been made for an excursion from New England at the fixed rate of thirty dollars from Boston to Chicago and return starting via the Hoosac Tunnel, and giving the choice to return via the other routes. There will also be an excursion train from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore via the Baltimore & Ohio with a round trip rate of twenty-five cents; all lines within the State of Illinois will return those paying full fare to the convention at one-third rate. In all cases persons wishing to avail themselves of reduced rates must receive from Mr. B. F. Jacobs, chairman of the Executive Committee, No. 99 Washington street, certificates, which will be furnished on application. The full certificates, entitling the holders to hospitality and admission to the delegate seats in the convention are only granted to delegates appointed by the various State, Territorial or Provincial organizations, but all who desire to attend may have the certificates for reduced fare on application.

The prospects are that the attendance will be very large. Seventeen names are already reported from the Province of New Brunswick, and intelligence from the East state that there is considerable enthusiasm over the excursion trains.
Michigan has applied for the full quota of fifty-two delegates and fifty-two alternates; Iowa sends for one hundred; Kansas and Missouri announce that their quota will be full. At the Illinois State Sunday-School convention Friday eighty-eight delegates and eighty-eight alternates were appointed. In order to accommodate those desiring to attend outside of Chicago, reserved seats will be sold to others than regular delegates. Many applications have already been received for these seats.

A Celebrated Case Decided.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 17.—The celebrated Sturr case, which has been pending in the federal courts in various forms for twenty years, has been decided by Judge Gresham in favor of the defendants, Ferdinand Baker & Co., of New York.
The litigation involves about $150,000, and grows out of the purchase by the plaintiff, as agent for the Mexican Government, of arms, one cargo of which was lost in a wreck on the Mexican coast. The value of the cargo he sought to recover from the vendors. The case will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

Trouble with Holders of Life Passes.

WABASH, Ind., May 17.—The Grand Rapids & Indiana railway is experiencing great trouble with holders of life passes who persist in boarding trains and attempting to ride. The Continental Improvement Company, which built the road, issued life passes to a large number of troublesome property owners whose land was condemned. The new management of the road demands the return of the passes, owing to the provisions of the Inter-State Commerce law.

Ingersoll Defends an Ex-Minister.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 17.—One of the most unique trials ever held in this part of New Jersey was opened here yesterday.
It is the case of the People vs. Charles B.
Reynolds, an ex-minister, who was indicated under the old blue laws of this State for uttering blasphemous language at Bloomington. It is also claimed that he published a book containing similar language against the Deity. Colonel "Bob" Ingersoll has undertaken to defend the ex-clergyman.

Plans of the Gladstonians.

LONDON, May 17.—The House will adjourn from May 24 to June 6. It is doubtful whether the first clause of the Coercion bill can be passed before the adjournment.
The Gladstonians will make a test question of an amendment exempting from secret inquiry all proceedings relating to agrarian meetings, including combinations to secure reductions in rent. If it is rejected, they will pursue obstructive tactics to the end.

Germany Watching France.

BERLIN, May 17.—General Boulanger's plan for an experimental mobilization of the French army next October is distrusted here. If France mobilizes, Germany will mobilize also.
Prince Bismarck has given official statutory notice to the house and land owners concerned that the Government contemplates the extension of the fortified area around Strasburg, Metz and Posen.

Kerster & Peters' wholesale paper house, at Denver, was destroyed by fire

THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1887.

An enthusiastic mass convention of those who favor constitutional prohibition was held in Detroit Tuesday and a non-partisan state organization to be known as the "Citizens' Union," was effected, the object of which is to create public sentiment in favor of temperance and adopt a prohibition amendment to the state constitution two years from now if possible.

In speaking of that band-box class of politicians known as the mugwumps, Theodore Roosevelt made a neat hit in a banquet speech a few days ago when he said, "I want to point out to you an involuntary compliment that is paid us by our more recently acquired antagonists. They always claim, when they say that we have gone wrong, that we have failed to live up to the old republican standard. When the democrats do as they think right, as the highest praise they can give them, they say they have gone contrary to all the traditions of their party."

The temperance movement grows daily, and it would seem that the great and most serious evils of the traffic in intoxicating liquors must soon receive a check that will be felt all over the land, and for the good of the nation and the world. It is a joy to recognize the fact that the republican party is awake to the necessities of the case and are taking decisive steps in the right direction. In New York city preparations are being made for a large public meeting May 25, under the direction of the anti-saloon republican national committee. The meeting will be presided over by ex Chief Justice Noah Davis and addressed by Senator Evarts, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, and other prominent republicans. The object of this movement is aimed particularly at the saloon politics. As stated in a New York dispatch: "It is felt that the liquor interest is using the political parties for its own aggrandizement, and that the corrupting and degrading tendencies of the politics of the country are in a great measure due to this cause. The organization of the anti-saloon republicans is destined to counteract these tendencies. The meeting of the 25th is expected to give a powerful impetus to this general movement in the interest of purer and better politics, locally and generally."

MANY of our readers will remember Mr. G. P. Brown, formerly editor of THE REGISTER, who went to Chicago and established "The Sanitary News." He has had excellent success with his paper which has just begun its tenth volume, and has removed his office to the main floor of the elegant Exchange building one block south of the Grand Pacific hotel, where he would undoubtedly be pleased to see any of his old Ann Arbor friends. Of course, by this time, he has become pretty good authority on sanitary matters and the following, with reference to the sanitary uses of trees will be read with interest: "Trees which will attain a large growth should not be set near a house, as in their age and decay they are a constant menace to safety. A rule has been laid down that the root should be as far from the house as the height which the tree may be expected to attain. Thick belts of trees should not surround the house as they interfere with the free circulation of air and tend to keep up a higher temperature. The use of trees to secure a proper amount only of sunshine and shade should be closely studied and the effects prognosticated when trees are replanted.

We have been hoping to learn of some good to the country that has resulted from the inter-state commerce law, but have failed thus far. Undoubtedly something of the kind was needed badly enough, but it would seem necessary that many modifications of the present law must be made before it can do the country at large any good. In this state it looks as if it was a scheme gotten up by the railroads for their special benefit. They had a lot of dead heads on their list and did not have the courage to offend them by cutting them off, but now they can excuse themselves and lay the blame on the law. If they were fair about this and treated all alike there would be nothing to say; but when they contrive to bribe the members of the legislature with their passes and cancel those that were fairly earned, put up the price of tickets to wholesale customers, and refuse favors to the public and those who are rightfully entitled to such favors, it shows a disposition on the part of the railroads that is not generous and just to say the least. The latest information in regard to the working of the new law is that the high freight rates and the advanced tariff duties which Canada has adopted on account of the law will combine to prove a serious blow to our trade with that country. The United States consuls report manufacturers and dealers going elsewhere for their coal, hardware, groceries, etc. If congress could have been content with establishing and enforcing a few specific, plainly worded regulations for the guidance of the railroads and protecting the interests of the government, and left to the natural demands of trade and traffic, and regulation by competition, much that it attempts to regulate by arbitrary rules that do not fit well in the places for which they are designed, it seems as if it would have been far better for the country.

The Courier makes a very lame attempt to cover up its own misdoing, and to break the force of the charge that by its unfair methods it deceived the Business Men's printing committee, in the matter of awarding the printing of the "booming" pamphlet last week. It says THE REGISTER "charges the printing committee, composed of such men as A. W. Hamilton, G. F. Allmendinger and Dr. Breaker, with collusion in awarding said printing to the Courier, it being the lowest bidder." THE REGISTER has made no such charges, much as the Courier would like to have it appear so. It believes the committee was deceived into awarding a contract to the highest bidder instead of the lowest, and in this it is quite sure Mr. Morton, of the Argus, and the president of the association will concur. The Courier is unfair in bringing Dr. Breaker's name before the public in this connection, for he was not present at the time the bids were opened, only Messrs. Hamilton and Allmendinger of the committee being there. Dr. Breaker, before he left the meeting, suggested that the matter be laid over one day, so that there could be no misunderstanding, and if his suggestion, which was also urged by the president of the association and those who made the bid, had been followed, no trouble would probably have arisen. The Argus and REGISTER stated fairly to the committee as all were requested to do, the size, weight and quality of the paper they bid upon, which was of the proper size to make the pamphlet from. The Courier representative said his bid was upon the same weight of paper, but adroitly kept back the size until after the bids had been awarded, and then stated the size of his paper which was twice that of the others, making the weight per sheet or ream, and the cost likewise, when reduced to that of the others, one-half. Under such circumstances the committee should have thrown out all the bids or required them to be changed so as to agree upon the weight and quality of paper. Reduced to that standard the Courier's bid would have been the highest of all. THE REGISTER was not over-anxious to get the work and would not have hesitated to congratulate the Courier, had it obtained the work fairly, but it does not like such treatment; and it, nor the Courier, nor any other paper of spirit would feel itself rightly denied the privilege of putting the blame where it lies. Messrs. Allmendinger and Hamilton, although misled in this matter, are men of honesty and good judgment and to-day respect the men who resorted to no deception, as will the members of the business men's association and all who know anything about the affair, in spite of the Courier's prediction to the contrary.

Elliott Barnes' play, "Only a Farmer's Daughter," is one of the strongest society dramas that has been presented for a long time, and holds the deepest interest of the audience. The plot is a peculiar one. A handsome, ambitious literary man, with a weakness for flattery, marries a farmer's pretty daughter, and takes her into society. Here a villainous friend and a scheming woman plan their separation, and would have succeeded but for a dream, in which the literary man passed through untold misery. Awakening from his sleep, and finding he has been the victim of a vision, his joy is almost uncontrollable, the schemers are driven out, and peace and happiness reign again in the household.—New York Clipper.

Several of our bicyclists made a run over to "Athens" yesterday morning. It was delightful wheeling after the rain of the previous day. By the way, why can't we b'ys have a wheel tournament. There are enough of us in the two cities to make a fine whirl.

Doctor Hale, recent superintendent of the Ypsilanti Sanitarium, has set forth his alleged wrongs at the hands of George Moorman, in a lengthy circular which has been pretty freely distributed among our citizens. The action was hardly necessary as the majority of the citizens were in sympathy with his cause any way, and scarcely any of the disclosures made were entirely unknown to the people of our city.

Rheumatism

We doubt if there is, or can be, a specific remedy for rheumatism; but thousands who have suffered its pains have been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you have failed to find relief, try this great remedy.

"I was afflicted with rheumatism twenty years. Previous to 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse, and at one time was almost helpless. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley Village, Mass.

"I had rheumatism three years, and got no relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has done great things for me. I recommend it to others." LEWIS DUBBANK, Biddeford, Me.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

One of these, "The Linguistic Families of the Gulf States," defines the localities inhabited by the early Indian tribes in our Southern States. The "Pawnee Map of Old Creek Country" will also be of value and interest to many.

A GREAT MISTAKE has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlaphoras is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlaphoras Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Mrs. D. C. Pickett, Columbus, Wis., says: "It is a little over a year ago since I was so badly afflicted. The disease was in every nerve and muscle of my body; I was completely prostrated and helpless for four weeks; I could not bear to be touched, as even the weight of a finger would cause the greatest pain, and I was in constant dread of its getting into the heart, in fact it bordered very close to it, and the doctor had very grave doubts as to my getting well. I had taken many different kinds of medicines, but was recommended to try Athlaphoras, was positive it would help me. Oh, how sick it made me, and had it not been for the persistent efforts of my husband I don't think I should have continued taking it; but he insisted so strongly that I kept on with it. In about five days I began to improve, and when I had finished taking the bottle I was well. I only took a small dose as the medicine was so strong."

Madison, Wisconsin.
I have used Athlaphoras for rheumatism and I can cheerfully say with the most satisfactory results. GEO. W. HUNTLEY, 66 Pinckney Street.

Every druggist should keep Athlaphoras and Athlaphoras Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlaphoras Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlaphoras and 50c. for Pills.
For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlaphoras Pills are unequalled.

REVEALING THE SPHINX.

THE GREAT STONE IMAGE OF EGYPT UNCOVERED.

What Has Been Found Below the Sand of the Desert—The Signification of this Marvelous Creation of Egyptian Art. Mark Twain's Apostrophe to the Sphinx.

What the ancient Egyptians intended to represent by the sphinx with which they lined the avenues approaching their temples no man hath learned. It is supposed they typified the mysterious nature of the divinity—the silent, enduring force of the mighty spirit which moved all things and knew neither beginning nor end.

The great sphinx of the pyramid has been the problem of the ages as far back as we can penetrate. It is believed to have been sculptured before the days of Cheops, the builder of the first pyramid. It is an inheritance from the buried ages, an undecipherable, mysterious thing at which all look with awe and over which the wisest puzzle in vain.

The sphinx of Greek mythology were combinations of woman and lion, the head and breast of the first and the body of the second, with wings added; but the Egyptian sphinx were always male, always bearded and capped, and the lion's body to which the head was attached is wingless.

The great sphinx of the pyramid originally had a beard, but it disappeared under the continuous mutilation which the face has undergone. Fragments of it have been found below.

The sphinx stands near the eastern edge of the platform on which the pyramids stand, with its face looking toward the Nile. The face is 23 feet 6 inches long, the whole figure 126 feet long, 60 feet high before the present work of uncovering it from the sand was begun. Around the head it measures 102 feet. Mark Twain gives one better idea of its size than we can get from figures, when he says the block from which it was carved must have been as large as the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York city before the usual way (by the necessities of sculpture) of a fourth or a half of the original mass was begun. This species of stone is harder than iron—so hard that figures cut in it remain distinctly defined although exposed to the weather for 2,000 or 3,000 years. A hundred or more years of patient toil was necessary to carve it.

THE SPHINX REVEALED.

This monstrous stone riddle of the ages for centuries has stood with the head, breast and part of the back rising above the sand. Last year Brugsch Bey began to have the sand cleared away from the base of the sphinx, and now the paws, and the chapel which they inclose, the large granite stele and the granite altar are visible.

The hind part of him is still buried, but his true proportions can now be estimated. So thoroughly were the lower parts hidden that the Arabs in the middle ages believed it to be a standing figure buried to the head in sand. He now stands revealed, a form instinct with vitality, "the personification of the greatest physical strength and the highest intellectual force in repose, but alert and vigilant." The lower portion of the shoulders and paws are covered with slabs of stone. Some of these are already displaced, and there is danger that if the paws remain uncovered much damage will be done to them.

Mark Twain, in his "Innocents Abroad," has this poetical apostrophe to this mighty relic of the art of an unknown age:

The great face was so sad, so earnest, so longing, so patient. There was a dignity not of earth in its mien and in its countenance a benignity such as never anything human wore. It was stone, but it seemed sentient. If ever image of stone thought, it was thinking. It was looking toward the verge of the landscape, yet looking at nothing—noting but distance and vacancy. It was looking over and beyond everything of the present and far into the past. It was gazing out over the ocean of time—over lines of century waves which, further and further receding, closed nearer and nearer together and blended at last into one unbroken tide away toward the horizon of remote antiquity. It was thinking of the wars of departed ages; of the empires it had seen created and destroyed; of the nations whose birth it had witnessed, whose progress it had noted; of the joy and sorrow, the life and death, the grandeur and decay, of 5,000 slow, revolving years. It was the type of an attribute of man—of a faculty of his heart and brain. It was Memory, Retrospection—wrought into visible, tangible form. All who know what paths there is in memories of days that are accomplished and faces that have vanished—be it on a trifling score of years gone by—will have some appreciation of the pathos that dwells in these grave eyes that look so steadfastly back upon the things they knew before history was born—before tradition had being—things that were, and forms that moved, in a vague era which even poetry and romance scarcely know of—and passed one by one away and left the stony dreamer solitary in the midst of a strange new age and uncomprehended scenes.

The sphinx is grand in its loneliness; it is imposing in its magnitude; it is impressive in the mystery that hangs over its story. And there is that in the overshadowing majesty of this eternal figure of stone, with its accusing memory of the deeds of all ages, which reveals to one something of what he shall feel when he shall stand at last in the awful presence of God.

Fighting the Grim Destroyer.

Gen. McClernand, of Illinois, is a fighter. Although in the seventies he is still as full of pluck as he was during the stormiest days of the rebellion. A few weeks ago one of the general's old army chums died at his home at Springfield.

A meeting to draft suitable resolutions of respect to his memory was attended by a number of his friends, among them Gen. McClernand. One of the speakers, in eulogizing the deceased, said: "And so when death came to claim him for its victim he met it as peacefully and calmly as the warrior who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

After the meeting adjourned the subject of their conversation was the immutable fate of all men and the calmness with which their deceased friend had met the grim destroyer.

"That's the weak point in his character. That's something I never liked in him," said Gen. McClernand, angrily.

The general's companions with some surprise asked, "Why not, general?"

"Because," said the veteran of a hundred battles, "I don't like this business of meeting death calmly. I have no respect for any man who does that. When death comes to me I'll fight him, sir—I'll fight him to the last. I don't want any lying down to pleasant dreams in mine. Death can't conquer me without a struggle."

The look and tone that accompanied the words satisfied the general's hearers that he would act as he had said.—Washington Cor. Chicago Tribune.

M. ALPHADN'S PROJECT.

The Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris and its Director.

M. Alphand, director general of the work of the universal exposition to be held in Paris in 1889, is another old young man, like De Lesseps, Gladstone and the late Henry Ward Beecher. He is enjoying a youthful and robust old age which does not in the least show any weakness under the fatigues of his new and gigantic enterprise. To the work of preparing for the exposition he brings, says L'Illustration, "a fecundity of spirit and resources and a truly extraordinary activity."

It may be said that the exposition was his conception. It was, at least, in the important features which will distinguish it, especially inspired by the eminent man who directed for so long the works of the city of Paris.

When he first discussed the project of the exposition with his associates in the work he said, "I should like it to be full of life and cheer." And to his mind nothing was so certain to contribute to cheerfulness and mirth as the proximity of verdure and flowers. M. Alphand will have charge of the construction of the gallery of fine arts; M. Bouvard the arrangement, necessarily ingenious and delicate, of the various industries; M. Dulert the magnificent hall of machinery, while M. Alphand himself will furnish the garden, which will beautify and enhance all the other features.

To M. Alphand is due the credit of the plan for the buildings and grounds, which resemble somewhat the chateau of Versailles, a central building with two wings, surrounded by an immense space to convert into a garden, which shall harmonize with that of Trocadero, situated on the other side of the Seine. The terrace of the park of the city will be removed, permitting the eye of the spectator coming across the river to rest upon the luxuriant perspective of a vast garden, beautified by the play of color given by cascades and lakes of water, and by a multitude of picturesque constructions. To the right and left will be the palace of fine arts and the liberal arts, with their polychromatic domes, which are the dream of M. Forreng. Below, the facade of the sections of industry, divided by a monumental door, which opens into a large hall conducting to the gallery of machinery.

The most conspicuous feature will be the Eiffel tower, which has already been nearly as much talked about as the tower of Babel. It will have a place at the head of the exposition in front of the garden.

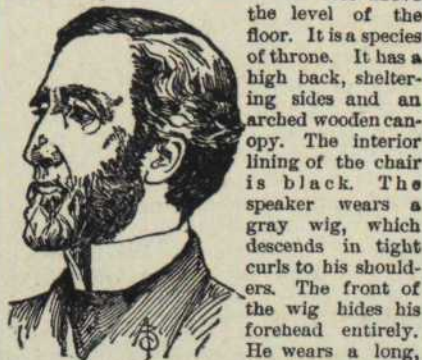

This projected tower has been the object of much wrath and ridicule. Its adversaries have been numerous and powerful. Architects, artists, critics of art and others attacked it. Among other unflattering names it was called "the cloud of the exposition." Still, the ridicule which usually kills both people and projects in Paris with equal ease has not been able to destroy it. The reason given by L'Illustration is that the people are saturated with exhibitions of industrial products, and that it is necessary to find something new to awaken their interest and command their attention. This novelty has been found in the tower of Eiffel, so called because it is the design and work of M. Eiffel.

The many countries which will be represented at the exposition will give to the scene a picturesque and peculiar interest. The Chinese will be there with their pagodas, the Algerian with his mosques, etc. Nor must we omit that M. Alphand, faithful to his idea of making it a place of loveliness and good cheer, has determined to have a theatre under Eiffel's tower.

A PROMINENT ENGLISHMAN.

Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel, Speaker of the Commons.

The recent disturbance in the English house of commons, when Mr. Sexton was suspended for resenting the implication that he was an associate of murderers by the free use of the term, "You're a liar," brings the Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel, speaker of that legislative body, into prominence. J. C. Crawford, correspondent of The New York World, now in England, writes of the speaker: "He has held the office for the last five years. This office does not correspond in political character to the same office in our house. It carries with it no political advantage, and is never made the subject of partisan contest. It is more like a judicial office. He acts merely as the presiding officer of a parliamentary debating society. He must be a member of the house, and must be re-elected every parliament. He sits under the reporters' gallery, facing the two special galleries. His chair places him about four feet above the level of the floor. It is a species of throne. It has a high back, sheltering sides and an arched wooden canopy. The interior lining of the chair is black. The speaker wears a gray wig, which descends in tight curls to his shoulders. The front of the wig hides his forehead entirely. He wears a long, flowing black gown over a full court costume of black. His knee breeches have silver clasps. Silver buckles ornament the front of his patent leather shoes. A small sword just peeps out from the folds of his somber costume. The speaker's face is thin, sallow and angular. The lower part of his face is extended by a sharp pointed brown beard. To the irreverent American visitor the speaker is not an imposing sight. He looks much more like an actor going up for comic opera than the presiding officer of one of the oldest legislative assemblies in the world. He has no table in front of him, but the arms of his chair are so wide that they are ample for the little writing he has to do while presiding. The speaker has a very clear, sharp voice, and a very energetic, nervous manner, not at all English. He points his bony right finger at a member and fires his name at him like a pistol shot on the second of his rising. He passes from side to side with great impartiality. Nearly everything is left to the house itself. When the speaker calls for a viva voce vote he delays the announcement of the result long enough for any one to make an objection and demand a formal count. He says over several times, 'I think it's yes, I think it's yes,' or the reverse, before declaring the result. When a formal vote is taken every member has to leave the house, the yeas going out the front door and the nays going out at the left. The attendants at the doors check them off as they go out."

Beware of Imitation.

We find that in various parts of the country unscrupulous druggists for the purpose of making a large profit, are palming off on a too-confiding public worthless counterfeit of Pomeroy's Petrolin Plaster, under the plea that it is "just as good," and in some cases that it is Pomeroy's Plaster. Trust no druggist who makes any such representations. Beware of all such impositions. Insist upon getting the genuine article, take notice and see that the words "Pomeroy's Petrolin Plaster" are upon each envelope. For sale by H. J. Brown, Dist. Agt. for Ann Arbor.
