PRES. ANGELL'S ADDRESS

AT HOBART GUILD HALL.

The Christian and Other Religions as Judged by their Fruits.

The following address by President Angell, on the above subject, was delivered under the auspices of Hobart Guild, Thursday evening, May 19:

According to the teachings of the gospel of Christ, men, governments, religions, all institutions are like trees to be known by their fruits. We all agree that this is a just principle of judgment. Christianity does not shrink from the test which it has furnished. If it does not bear good fruits, then no matter what authority is claimed for it, no matter how hoary with age are its institutions, no matter with what learning and eloquence it is defended, no matter how many millions of adherents it can boast, it must be and will be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

This standard, by which Christianity consents to be judged, it also applies in judging every other system of religion. There are not a few persons, who, observing how different religions have sprung up in different countries, have called attention to some useful features of each and have attempted to persuade us that each is specially adapted to meet the wants of some nation, and is better suited to their needs than any other religion, than even Christianity itself. Of course, it follows as a consequence, if their main position is right, that it is obtrusive, impertinent and even harmful for the disciples of Christ to go everywhere preaching the gospel, and offering a lesser for a greater good. But Christianity claims to be a religion for all men, the best religion for all nations, better for the Arabs and the Turks than Mohammedanism, better for the Hindoo than Brahmanism or Buddhism, better for the Chinese than Confucianism or Tanism, better for the Japanese than Shintoism, better for all men than any other or all other faiths, because it reveals to us more clearly than any other the will of God concerning man, and so makes better men and better institutions. It does not ignore whatever is good or true in them. It furnishes that and something more and so by a natural process supersedes them. As the morning sun with its flood of light drowns and quenches not only the misleading will-o'-the-wisps but also the very stars of night, so Christianity if once received, supplants all other faiths, and they vanish from our sight.

In spite of the intimations or statements of some modern writers that after all there is not so much to choose between the chief religions of the world, since each has certain merits and meets some deep wants of believers in it, I do not see how an impartial man can observe the fruits borne by non-Christian systems and those borne by Christianity without recognizing the immense superiority of Christianity as an actual working force among men.

Having been compelled to see the operation of certain non-Christian systems, I have often been constrained to ask myself, "what fruits are lacking to them which Christianity yields?" Let me mention some of the answers which plain facts seem to suggest.

Now partly because some objectors to the superiority of Christianity set little or no store by what we may call the distinctly spiritual results of Christianity, and partly to leave the case as strong as justice requires for the non-Christian religions, I will omit the consideration of what we may call the spiritual results of Christian faith and contemplate only some of those ethical, social and intellectual results of Christianity which mark its superiority to all other faiths. These are the kinds of results whose value none can question:

1. In the first place I think Christianity has succeeded in strengthening beyond all other religions the fundamental virtue of truthfulness. No doubt the ethics of the Asiatic religions are higher than those of any other non-Christian systems. But it is the universal testimony of travellers that veracity is appreciated nowhere in Asia as it is in northern Europe and in this country. Other virtues are set above it, as for instance in India, kindness to animals, and in China filial respect. Lying is there a venial sin. To resort to it to escape from slight embarrassment surprises nobody.

Now with us, while there are unhappy too many men who do not always tell the truth, yet I think all regard truthfulness as the key-stone of character. In the absence of this virtue we do not confidently look for any other. Experienced teachers will tell you that they cherish hopes of saving a wayward youth, provided that he does not lie. But if he is a liar, there is nothing to build character on. The scripture thunders out its most terrible denunciations against lying and liars. It withers and scorches the liar to crisp in the blazing fires of its rebuke. Public opinion here brands a liar with unspeakable scorn and ineffable contempt. No man can retain the respect of decent men if his word is not good. Wherever Christianity is the purest and has the strongest hold on men, there the standard of truthfulness is highest and most rigorous.

UNIVERSITY MATTERS.

A party of juniors went out to Whitmore Lake, Saturday.

C. C. Yerkes, law '85, is practicing law at Sault Ste. Marie.

Prof. Dewey inspected the Owosso high school for the University grade.

Prof. Stowell gave the freshmen their final examination in Histology, Thursday.

Fifteen couples of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity picniced at Whitmore Lake, last Saturday.

Prof. Davis gave the last class of this year in Qualitative Chemistry their final examination, Monday afternoon.

The sophomores will hold a social at the residence of Mrs. H. E. Neal, No. 44 S. Thayer-st, Friday evening, May 27.

The freshmen, social Friday, night at the Phi Kappa Psi house, was a great success. The large number present filled the house to overflowing.

The county officials offer a special gold medal to the member of the law department winning the most prizes at the Field Day contests, May 28.

There is a move on foot among the laws to establish a permanent class organization, and issue annual catalogues so that each one may know the whereabouts of his classmates.

The class of '90 will hold a class meeting in Room A, next Saturday forenoon. The Oracle board is to be elected and a number of very important questions will be brought up, so that a general attendance is hoped for.

The prospectus of "The Ohio Archaeological and Historical Quarterly," an historical magazine, soon to be issued at Columbus, Ohio, gives the name of Prof. George W. Knight, as chairman of the printing committee.

Miss Mary L. Childs, of the class of '89, has accepted a good position as instructor in English history and Latin in the Mt. Holyoke seminary at Oxford, Ohio. She expects to return and finish her course here after a year or two.

The Adelphi will offer the following as its closing programme for the year on Saturday, May 28, at 7:30 p. m.: Music; oration, "Reopening of a Chestnut Burr," Miss Willoughby; essay, "American Causus system," Harold Remington; music; paper on John Woolman, Dr. S. A. Jones; recitation, Miss Scraftford; music.

Extensive preparations are being made for field day, on the fair grounds, Saturday afternoon. The number of entries in the several contests are very large and the weather permitting, some records will be broken. The programme is as follows:

100 yards dash; 220 yards dash; 440 yards dash; 120 yards hurdle race; standing broad jump, with weights; standing hop, step and jump; heavy and light weight boxing; wrestling, catch-as-catch-can; running high jump; putting shot; throwing hammer; 1 mile bicycle race; fancy bicycle riding; three legged race 100 yards; and fat man's race, over 200 lbs., 100 yards.

Graduates of the School of Pharmacy of the U. of M., now hold professorships in five other colleges of pharmacy in this country, as follows: C. W. Parsons, '81, professor of Analytical Chemistry in the New York city college of pharmacy; C. P. Pengra, '83, professor of Materia Medica, in the Massachusetts college of pharmacy, Boston; A. L. Green, '82, professor of pharmacy in Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.; J. W. Baird, '83, professor of Analytical chemistry in the Massachusetts college of pharmacy; W. K. Higley, '78, professor of Botany in the Illinois college of pharmacy, Chicago. The five men above named all entered the University as residents of Michigan.

The Students Christian Association held their annual meeting Wednesday evening, May 18, elected officers and transacted other business of importance. The following officers were elected: President, John E. Hodge; 1st vice president, G. Brown; 2nd vice president, Miss E. R. Clark. The following vice presidents were elected from the different departments: Medical, E. S. Blair and Miss Francis Peale; law, W. S. Frost; dental, W. E. Riser; homoeopathic, W. F. Brooks; pharmaceutical, F. A. Green; corresponding secretary, Miss Lillie Rosewarne; recording secretary, H. M. Frost; assistant, W. F. Hubbard; treasurer, E. M. Coolidge; librarian, L. D. Milliman; chorister, R. S. Smith; editors of the Bulletin, Miss L. M. Andrews, B. C. Loveland, Jas. N. McBride. Treasurers' report showed total receipts for the year, $327.32; expenses, $130.11; amount on hand $197.21.

A new card case has been put in the librarian's room where it awaits the completion of the new catalogue. It is quite an improvement over the old one, containing eighty drawers, while the old one only forty-two. The drawers cannot be removed from the case and an iron rod running through the cards will prevent any possible misplacement. It will occupy the same place as the old one and will be in position some time during the summer vacation. At that time the "authors" cards will all be placed in the new case, the "subjects" cards remaining in the old one, which will be placed conveniently near until the new "subject" cards are completed. The catalogue of the "authors" has been completed as far as U and will be finished by June. The extent of the work of making the catalogue can be appreciated when it is considered that there are 100,000 cards and the title and self-number of each book has to be verified.

The following from the Kansas City Journal of the 21 inst, may give a hint as to the number of alumni visitors the University may expect next month. It will be safe to make preparations for a large number: "About twenty alumni of Michigan University met last evening at the Kansas City club rooms, to make preparations for attending the semi-centennial celebration and jubilee of the foundation of Michigan University. Among those present were Major William Warner,

O. H. Dean, Frank J. Baird, H. P. Churchill, Colonel D. S. Twitchell, H. C. Flower, S. B. Ladd, Willis Abbott, D. J. Haff and others. O. P. Dickinson was chosen president of the meeting and D. J. Haff secretary. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Dickinson it was decided to attend the commencement exercises, charter a special Pullman car, which would be retained during the jubilee week and to return to Kansas City. The following committee was appointed to investigate and find out how many Ann Arbor men would attend the semi-centennial celebration: O. P. Dickinson, D. J. Haff and H. C. Flower. The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the president. The jubilee week begins June 26 and lasts till July 1.

UHLAND PICNIC.

By Anglo-Americans and Germans.

The "Deutsche Gesellschaft," founded 18 years ago, by Mrs. A. B. Palmer and Miss Von Hafften, was invited by Mr. and Mrs. Baur, last Saturday, to an Uhlund picnic at their home on West Huron-st.

The Germans of Ann Arbor had already an Uhlund-Feier, on the 26th of April, on which date Uhlund was born, one hundred years ago. The Beethoven Gesangverein and the Ann Arbor lodge, No. 27, took the matter in hand and made a splendid success of the Fest. The majority of the Ann Arbor Germans are from Swabia, the country which has given us Schiller, Uhland, Schwab, Holderlin, Kerner, Kurtz and other poets. If the Germans celebrate the remembrance of one of their best men, their most genial poets and most noble and heroic patriots, they simply honor themselves.

Uhlund was the head of the Swabian school of poets. But also the Hungarian poet Lenu was so attracted by his Swabian brethren that he wanted to be one of them by adoption. His published letters to Carl Meyer the jurist and poet, are a true interpreter of this cordial devotion.

In 1829, Uhlund, although a jurist, who in 1810 had received the degree of doctor of laws at the University of Tuebingen, his native town, accepted a call to the professorship of German language and literature at the above named university. No one was better fitted for this position than Uhlund, who by choice had early been drawn into the study of the language, religion and customs, the national poetry and literature of his people. But when the people re-elected him as their representative in the Wuertemberger Stennde Kammer, he resigned his professorship in order to serve the people. After a fearless and faithful representation of their interests he lived as a private citizen at Tuebingen, cultivating his vineyard, which rose in the rear of his house, and writing his poetry, which was after the heart and manner of the German people, whose great composers of that time vied with each other to compose the lyric and epic songs of Uhlund, which soon resounded in all the school-rooms, universities, garrisons and popular assemblies throughout the fatherland.

The storm of 1848 tore him away from his repose. Elected by the people to the Frankfurter Parliament he drew up with Gagner, Gervinus and others the outlines of a German constitution, and held out to the last moment, clinging to the idea of a constitutional government of a United Germany.

The realization of the national idea of unity and the resurrection of the German Empire in 1870, Uhlund was not permitted to witness. He died Nov. 13, 1862, at Tuebingen. But with immortality his work is crowned and wherever the love for the good, the true and the sublime in prose and verse is cultivated, this plain citizen, who bowed not before princes, who returned their orders, who feared not their anger will be loved and honored.

Although the members of the "Deutsche Gesellschaft" are mostly Anglo-Americans, their picnic in honor of Uhlund was not any less enthusiastic, than if they all had been native Germans.

The presence of a near and dear friend of the poet, the daughter of the above named poet, Meyer, added much to the solemnity of the fest. Mrs. Carl Rominger of this place showed us some very interesting Uhlund relics. The poet being her godfather we had the pleasure of seeing and reading the autograph poem inscribed in Mrs. Rominger's album. The photograph of Mrs. Uhlund showed a highly intelligent face full of goodness of heart. The ladies were especially pleased to hang over their shoulders Uhlund's shawl, which the poet had bestowed upon Mrs. Rominger's sister who was with the poet in his last sickness. And this lady gave it to her nephew, Louis Rominger, the only son of Dr. and Mrs. Rominger. It was well preserved, of the finest merino, and is just such a shawl as gentlemen wore in this country years ago. Mrs. R. had also an Uhlund Denkmuenze just received from Germany, coined in remembrance of Uhlund's centennial birthday.

The exercises on the occasion were strictly confined to Uhlund poetry. Mrs. Ohlenger opened with a charming solo, "Die linden Luefte sind erwacht," one of the finest spring songs in all German literature. Mrs. Palmer read an interesting sketch of the poet's life. Miss Julia Rominger sang "Das Schifflein," music by Mendelsohn. The harmony of music which this sweet little poem brings out was so beautifully given that all agreed that this was the crown of the day. Prof. Hudson recited "Als Kaiser Rothbart lobesam." It was to us, as if the Kaiser had been there in person, and also "der wackere Schwabe." Mrs. Root sang "des Schaefer's Sonntagslied" only as a deep religious soul can give it, and as she had sung it in her childhood in Berlin. This poem is a testimony of the devotion of the poet to sacred things. When Prof. Sewall started, "Es zogen drei Bursche wohl über den Rhein," all followed him over the Rhine with song and love. The professor is certainly a good leader.

Miss Clara Wheeler recited "Das Schloss am Meere." All the members showed the deep impression this tragic poem made. Mrs. Rominger narrated a very interesting episode she witnessed in taking a walk with the poet. As we were all gathered under an apple tree, Mrs. Rominger also recited: "Bei einem Wirte wundermild," without doubt the finest praise of an apple tree in the literature of all peoples. Prof. Thomas concluded with: "Es stand in alten Zeiten." We had heard this masterpiece of poetry several times recited in this city, but we liked it this time better on account of the plainness it was given in, so much like the author himself. Mrs. Baur tried to play the part of Frau Uhlund. After she had performed her part of the programme her guests gathered at the desk of the house and with the charming panorama of Ann Arbor and surroundings before them, the society struck up: "Ich hatt einen Kameraden," E. Baur, Jr. leading with his cornet. Uhlund's portrait was entwined by a wreath of evergreens. In the absence of a nightingale, Willie's two evening grosbeaks beautifully mounted looked up in the wreath with reverence to the singer von "Lenz und Liebe."

E. BAUR.

Ann Arbor Co-operative Building and Loan Association.

To the Editor:

Many inquiries are made as to the purpose and practical working of the newly organized Savings Association and I wish to occupy space in your paper to answer such.

The purpose of the organization is to furnish a medium by which men and women of limited income can make small weekly savings and in time become owners of homes.

Its practical working is the payment into the association of 25 cents per week, per share, and the money so paid in now amounting to over $100 per week, is loaned to members of the association at 5 per cent per annum or as much more as the member sees fit to bid; the security taken is first mortgage on real estate.

Take an example: A mechanic is paying $2.00 per week rent, by taking eight shares in this association and paying in dues $2.00 per week he may borrow $800, build a house and stop his rent. Another example: A man or woman has a small home partly paid for, by taking as much stock as the mortgage on the home amounts to, the party may, by making small weekly payments, cancel the mortgage, and own their home. It is exactly the thing needed by the laboring class, and after full investigation I cordially recommend it to my friends.

High School Notes.

Review began in Algebra yesterday.

There will be no school Decoration Day.

Second year essays are due on Monday.

There will be a senior class social given at the home of Miss Curtis, on Washington-st, tomorrow evening.

Several of the teachers dismissed their early recitations, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Dr. Haskell, on Wednesday morning.

At the senior class meeting on Tuesday, committees were appointed to determine whether the alumni shall go to the lake or not.

Students are to take notice that the front steps are not used for play and laughter, as it disturbs the classes on that side of the building.

Jenkins-Payne.

Dr. Ormund C. Jenkins and Miss Eva Payne were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Payne, Wednesday evening, by the Rev. Dr. Steele, of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of a goodly company of interested witnesses. The bride was handsomely dressed in a cream surah silk, tastefully trimmed, and wore beautiful flowers. The groom was also well dressed, and both parties bore the ordeal well and received the numerous congratulations with due decorum. The presents were quite numerous and valuable. Choice refreshments were served. The happy couple left late in the evening for a trip on the lakes to Mackinac and perhaps still farther north.

The presence of a near and dear friend of the poet, the daughter of the above named poet, Meyer, added much to the solemnity of the fest. PRES. ANGELL'S ADDRESS.

ously respected. We so instinctively regard truthfulness as an essential of Christian character that we immediately pronounce any man or any nation that lacks this virtue, as unchristian. To have emphasized, developed and strengthened the virtue of veracity, this fundamental virtue, is not the least of the achievements of Christianity.

2. Again the attention of the traveler is strikingly arrested by the surprising contrast in the position accorded to women in Christian and in non-Christian countries. Often as I contemplated the wretched lot of women in Asia, did the pathetic words in which Goethe makes Iphigenia pour forth her pathetic plaint, spring to my lips.

"Der Frauen Zustand ist belägenwerth." "The condition of women is lamentable."

Those words might be chiselled as an appropriate inscription on the gates of the cities and on the door posts of the houses. So indeed it is in all the eastern world at present. Woman is doomed to ignorance. Her life has no width of horizon. She is the slave and the drudge of man. Her mind is not deemed worthy of cultivation.

I know of nothing in all the east so painful to the view of men from a Christian land as the condition of woman.

It is only where the gospel has shed its light, that woman is recognized as the companion of man, with faculties susceptible and deserving of as careful training as his, with a soul touched to finer issues than his, with duties, if in some respects different, yet every whit as important and as responsible as his, because her primal duty and responsibility to God are the same as his. From the time when our Lord showed such delicate and beautiful courtesies to the sisters in Bethany, down through the days of Christian knightdom, and all quite to our own era, there has been in all Christendom, a certain chivalric respect for woman which has never been witnessed anywhere outside of Christendom, and which has brought the highest blessings on men as well as on women, and has advanced and enriched and exalted all our civilization. This is distinctly a fruitage of Christian growth.

3. The traveler in non-Christian lands is struck with the lack of those great organized charities, whether private or public, which are found so abundantly in all Christian lands. These are wanting, not because there is no need of them. The poor and the suffering are everywhere. Beggers line the streets, crowd the gates of temples and cities, swarm upon your path. The blind, the deaf, the insane, the deceased are unhappily to be found in all lands. Nor are kind hearts wanting altogether in any land. But nowhere else has the duty of making large and careful provision for the needy been so clearly recognized as in the countries where the parable of the good Samaritan has been preached. Homes for orphans, asylums for the blind, for deaf mutes, for the insane, thoroughly appointed hospitals for the sick, nay, even humanely conducted prisons for the criminals, these are the fruits of an abomination. The prisons of Asia are an abomination, and the dungeons of the East, with their fearful scenes hardly surpassed in horror some of these horrors upon earth. It is only where Christianity has taken root that proper ideas of the punishment of the guilty are combined with a proper regard for the humanity which is found even in the most hardened criminals.

And surely it is Christianity alone which has led large hearted and skillful physicians to go to heathen lands to establish hospitals for the gratuitous aid of the needy. When did Brahmanism or Buddhism or Confucianism set on foot such an undertaking? So strange is the idea to the Asiatic nations that they cannot comprehend the thought that good men and women have come to help them out of utterly unselfish and humane motives. Such is the distance between Christianity and the eastern systems of religion.

4. The most superficial observer must be struck with the fact that in non-Christian states government, as a rule, takes on the type of absolutism. The State or the Emperor is everything, the individual nothing. Even in the ancient Greek and Roman Republics this was largely true. The theory underlying them was that the individual existed for the state, not the state for the individual. The majority or the dominant faction spoke for the state, and the minority had few rights clearly recognized. Consequently the very best men were often ostracized or slain. There can hardly be said to be any individualism in Asiatic life. In certain cases there are strata of society. But in each stratum men rarely emerge above the dead level. Absolutism sits on its throne, the people are at its feet. Hence judicial procedure is cruel, tyrannical and often unjust. It is so arbitrary that no western nation consents to submit its citizens to the oriental courts. We have by treaty secured the right to establish our courts for trying our own citizens in all these lands.

It is too often forgotten that Christianity planted the germ of individual liberty in Europe by showing what is the worth of the human soul and by declaring that it has certain indefeasible rights of which not even the State can deprive it. When Peter and his associates declared to the astonished high priests "we must obey God rather than men," they proclaimed that true higher-law doctrine, which has come sounding down through the centuries, setting bounds to absolutism, and nerveing brave hearts everywhere to the assertion of their fundamental rights and duties. Christianity has come to reverse or at any rate to modify, the old doctrine and to declare in substance that the individual is not made for the State so much as the State for the individual, that men are not made for institutions, but all institutions, ordinances, Sabbaths, churches, governments are here for the protection, elevation and salvation of individual men. When an institution utterly fails in this, be it church or government, it should give place to something better. The New Testament is the great charter of the rights of the human soul. Whatever improper restrictions are put upon human freedom in one or two nominally Christian lands, it is unquestionably true that civil liberty is most secure where the gospel doctrine of human rights is most clearly and fully recognized.

5. The traveler and the scholar have not failed to notice that non-Christian nations, even the most civilized, have never wrought out any well defined system of international law to govern their intercourse with each other. This is not an accident. There was of course, some personal exchange of civilities between sovereigns. But in general a foreigner was an enemy. In the Roman tongue the same word meant foreigner and enemy. In the Greek a foreigner was a barbarian. There was no word in either tongue to express the modern idea of neutrality between belligerents. The fundamental notion of international law, that nations are equal in respect to rights, is a distinctively Christian idea, a corollary from the doctrine of Christian brotherhood proclaimed by St. Paul in his great discourse on Mars Hill, when he announced to the Greeks that God "hath made of one blood all the nations of men," that is, they are children of one common Father, and so brethren. The Asiatic idea has been that nations live in isolation unless one is subject to another. For a long time China was unwilling to negotiate with western powers save as a superior with inferiors. The narrow conceptions of all Asiatic religions failed to grasp the idea of the brotherhood of man and the equal rights of nations, which is the very soul of modern international law. The whole system rests awfully on the just and humane principles of Christian ethics, and it is possible thus far for Oriental nations to be admitted only partially to reciprocity under its code, because they have not fully accepted those ideas of justice, which Christianity has wrought into our system of jurisprudence.

6. The attitude of Christianity toward truth in general is more friendly and just than that of other religions. I do not forget how far short of the true catholicity of pure Christianity many of its profound disciples have come. Christianity itself is hospitable to truth from whatever source. Its supreme aim is truth. One of the chosen titles of its great master, is The Truth. I know full well that many of its disciples have not been quick to give a welcome to new truth. Sometimes they have persecuted the messengers of truth. Sometimes they have been indifferent or hostile to the messages of truth, scientific, political or religious. Often this opposition has been due to the ignorance of men, who sincerely believed they were defending the truth, as Saul thought he was doing God service by hailing Christians to prison. But after making all the concessions which are demanded on this score, it still remains indisputable that whether we consider the doctrines themselves or the believers in them, no religion can be for a moment compared with the Christian faith for its promotion and dissemination of all kinds of truth.

In some lands learning is the exclusive possession of the priests, and by a natural impulse they shut their eyes to all learning which they do not originate or which cannot be made subservient to their special purposes. In others the believers are taught that their religious books contain all that it is needful for man to know, and so all new truth is rejected as superfluous or obstructive.

With the single exception of a few Brahmins, who have made some study of the religion of their English conquerors, it is the Christian disciple alone, who has made a careful, philosophic study of all religions, and sought with impartiality to recognize the good in each. It is from the bosom of Christian civilization with its great schools of learning, that nearly all scientific discovery has come. A very large proportion of the scientific investigators and discoverers, the Keplers and Newtons and Faradays abroad, the Pierces and Danas and Grays at home, have been most devout and reverent Christian men. The services to scholarship, to scientific learning, to the general increase of the treasures of the human mind, which have been rendered by all the civilizations that are dominated by non-Christian religions, fall immeasurably short of the contributions of Christian civilization, although only about one-fourth of the human race are even nominally Christian.

Now I have stated, and have stated, I think, with moderation, some of the advantages which Christianity as a practical, working, religion presents over other religions. I have not spoken at all of its distinctively spiritual superiority, of the high and rational hopes and aspirations, which it kindles in the soul by its revelation of a personal God and of our personal relations to him, by its scheme of redemption from sin through Jesus Christ, by the "power of an endless life" which it sets up in the soul. What zeal for righteousness it has thus kindled in noble hearts, what patience under suffering it has generated in weak souls, whose trials, whose victories, and whose names are unknown to us! What crucifixions for the love of others it has enabled men to endure with songs on their lips, what errands of mercy for mankind has it sent saints upon, how beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of its messengers as they publish their glad tidings today over all the world, what heroism, what self-sacrifice, what unselfish devotion to the right it has stimulated throughout Christendom!

But all these rich spiritual fruits of Christianity I pass by for the present, though I do not see how any but the most determined agnostic, who denies the possibility of knowing anything of God or of the future life, can fail to perceive how far higher are the inspirations of Christian revelation than those of the sensual paradise of Mohammedanism or those of the abstruse metaphysics or crude absurdities of the Hindu faiths. I have confined myself to some of the purely ethical, social, political and intellectual gains which it has brought to the race.

A religion which, beyond all others, fosters the fundamental virtue of truthfulness, which places woman in her true position, which fills the world with the blessed fruits of public and private charities, which has planted the germs of civil liberty by recognizing the worth of the individual and his true relation to the State, which has largely substituted for war the regulating power of Christian ethics in determining the relations of nations, and which recognizing God as the author of all truth and the creator and governor of all things in the universe, stimulates the reverent and ardent search for all truth in the confident faith that there is no breach or schism in the kingdom of truth,—a religion, which in these respects is clearly far superior to any or all others, is certainly not to be classed with them as one of several religions equally good, or as a local or a race religion, but as the religion of the world.

ligion, good for the west, but no better than Buddhism or Confucianism for the east.

Its stamp of superiority is in all its work, in its whole history, in its present triumphs, in its great tendencies, in the prophecies of good to all mankind, with which its life is eloquent. It is in the study of its essential character, in the contemplation of what it has actually done, that we read no less clearly than in the promises of Scripture, the prediction of its ultimate triumph over the whole earth. Its progress may seem to us slow. But all history, sacred and profane, shows us that the human race moves and has always moved forward at a rate which seems to our impatience slow. It is entirely probable that in some respects Christianity will take on a different coloring in different parts of the world. But that in some form, in which its fundamental characteristics are retained, it must at last supersede the inferior religions of the world, no one can doubt who believes that ultimately the highest and best truth, the truth, which is most beneficent to man, will by its inherent force prevail throughout the world. We may well hope that while unchanged in its essential traits, it may, when interpreted by the various temperaments and experiences of oriental and African peoples, take on a richness and depth and beauty and fullness of significance to which we are now strangers. The world will then at once have discovered and demonstrated that Christianity is not merely a religion, but the religion, not a Judaeo or Galilean sect, not merely a western religion, but the one universal religion, including all that is good and rejecting all that is bad in all other religions, the one and only best faith for all kingdoms and states. Then shall be fulfilled the prediction of our Lord, that there shall be one flock made up of many folds, and there shall be one shepherd blessed for ever.

My young friends: It is your high privilege to have been born and reared in the full light of this Christian faith, some of whose beneficent influences we have been considering. On you rests the responsibility of showing that you appreciate the immense help which has thus been furnished you. We are all debtors to those Christian workers and those Christian ages that have gone before us. It is for us to see that the inheritance of Christian institutions, Christian customs, Christian thought, which we have received, is handed on by us to our successors, not only unimpaired but, if possible, enlarged. Surely it is a worthy ambition for any of us to keep flowing full and strong the stream of those great Christian influences we have been contemplating tonight. No ambition less than that can satisfy the scholar whose heart is right towards God. The only way to make our feeble lives potent for good is to work in the line of God's wishes. Thus do we fulfill Mr. Emerson's profoundly wise injunctions to fasten our chariot to a star, which the power of a divine hand is pledged to speed upon its course. To make God's ways our ways is the safe and true philosophy of life.

Remember, too, I beseech you, that the test to which we have this evening been subjecting Christianity is the test to which your lives and all lives must be brought. It is the test of fruit-bearing. Men will judge you by that standard God himself will judge you by that standard. With the beautiful enthusiasm, which belongs to your period in life, and which lends wings to all your endeavors, you do not regard that as a hard test. I shall draw no word from any of the soberer phases of experience to quench or abate that enthusiasm. You can do the things which belong to you to do. Enter bravely, if modestly, upon your work. God has some appropriate task for every toiler in his fields, and those fields are already white for harvest.

The Sweetest Girl in School

"She's the sweetest girl in school!" enthusiastically exclaimed one young miss to another, as they passed down the street together. "Edith is so kind, and gentle, and unselfish, every one likes her. And she has lovely golden hair and pretty eyes. Isn't it a pity her complexion is so bad; it spoils her looks. And then she has such dreadful headaches!" The girls skipped along, but it happened Edith's mother had heard what they said. It set her thinking. What could be done for those headaches and the rough, muddy complexion, that was such a trial to her gentle daughter. She recalled what her head read of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and on the spur of the moment she slipped into a drug store and bought a supply. Edith took it faithfully, with the result that it cleared her disordered blood, relieved the headaches, made her skin soft, fair and rosy, and now she is not only the "sweetest girl in school," but the most beautiful.

HALL'S $100 Reward. $100.

The readers of THE REGISTER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all lung and throat diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist for it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

[WASHINGTON, MAY, 1905.]
 Soldiers, return'd from many a fight, to-day
 I call another year, another May,
 When from your homes at first ye march'd away.

Your country summon'd—what quick answer came Shall never be forgot by human fame;
 The north was red with one electric flame!

The dragon's teeth were sown that started men
 (So may the land be never sown again!)—
 Ye were the crop that sprang in armor then.

Lo, every highway made its end in one,
 With stern, advancing dust against the sun!—
 A line of bayonets thrust to Washington!

I heard, I saw!—the street ye trod to-day
 Took echoes that shall never pass away!
 Visions that shall be visible for aye!

Ye came from many a long remembered fight;
 Your days are glittering in the windy light,
 With names that make their tremulous stars more bright.

Banners whose rags are famous, veterans too,
 Pathetic with the storms they flattered through,
 Ye bear in pride and tenderness with you!

Ye come—ye are not all that went away;
 Another myriad as great as yours to-day
 Keep their encampment with the flowers of May.

Ye came from homes that haply echo still
 With your last footsteps on the quiet sill;
 Go back, go back, the empty air to fill!

Ye came from new plowed fields and wheated lands,
 Where the old harvest call'd for willing hands;
 Go back to join the gentle reaper bands!

Ye came—the work is done ye came to do;
 Go back, go back, O servants tried and true—
 Go back to find your land created new!

JOHN JAMES PATT.

THE CAPTAIN'S PENSION.
 A STORY OF DECORATION DAY IN BRACE-VILLE.

Capt. Hutton was the highest authority on war subjects in Braceville. He could tell stories of army life from hour to hour and day to day without repeating himself—stories which made the eyes of his listeners grow as big as saucers. For him the war was never over.
 He continued to march, to pitch his tent and to fight with all the patriotic fervor which distinguished him in the days when the boom of the cannon shook the land. So engrossing an interest did he take in his career as a soldier that he never cut much of a figure in business. His talents in peace were purely of a narrative character, and as exercised in Braceville wholly unprofitable from a financial standpoint.

The captain never troubled himself about this, but his family did, a fact not to be wondered at, since they experienced all the discomfort resulting from it, and the captain none at all. Trouble never adhered to him. He had the beautiful faculty of letting somebody else carry all the difficulties while he went on with his reminiscences.

When his signature was needed his wife or his son brought him the papers and he signed them, but he never read them. The only thing he ever read was war history, and this he found fault with because it wasn't always correct.

His family, unhappily, didn't sympathize with his military tastes. They had strong ambitions in a different direction. They belonged to and fraternized with the present and its material interests. His wife had been obliged to be both financial and domestic manager, and her husband's improvidence often placed her in very awkward predicaments. Their son turned his attention to law and looked forward hopefully to future distinction. He had worked hard to pull himself up to the starting place, too; and the neighbors said he deserved credit. The daughters leaned to music and painting, and dreamed of careers, and vainly wished it were possible to convince their over patriotic father that the war had long since ended.

The captain, though a bodily figure in his household, in spirit dwelt in the past, amid the roar of battle or in the idle days of waiting in camp, and was happy as only one who indulges his pet dreams can be. As his hair whitened and old age began to face him squarely, his war stories were often finished with a sigh, and he spoke more frequently of reunions in that unknown country into which flesh and blood can never enter, and where war and the engines of war are neither known nor needed. And when there were reunions here—when the old veterans met and marched on fields of peace under flags that had been triumphantly borne in war—Capt.
 Hutton's eyes were always dim with tears.
 Once he looked at the shrunken column of veterans and feelingly repeated these lines:

Another mighty host comes marching slow
 From their long bivouacs in the grass and snow.
 By these they fought and suffered long ago.
 Through every street they march with silent tread (Quicken the living, ye the living dead!
 Look, the same tattered flag is overhead.)

His materialistic and unpatriotic friends said that he was getting old and possibly a little feeble minded; but those who are much interested in life never understand the feeling of those who are slipping out of it.

Last year, as Decoration day approached,
 Capt. Hutton's eyes burned with more patriotic fervor than ever. Honors to the dead heroes of the war gave him great joy. His fellow townsmen, knowing the depth and strength of his patriotism, requested him to give a talk on Decoration day, in the cemetery, on the war and its heroic dead.

The day came. The few soldiers' graves in the Braceville cemetery were most prodigally covered with flowers. Prayers were offered, poems read and eulogies pronounced over the brave men who died in their country's service. But there were few to weep over them. Their companions and friends had nearly all vanished from under the sun.

Capt. Hutton's address astonished everybody. It was the outpouring of his heart on a theme dearer to him than all else, and the force and feeling with which he spoke set the hearts of his hearers on fire, and they wept.
 He painted the spirit of the war as it came to and overshadowed the peaceful land; he described the action of battle, the courage of the soldiers, their endurance and patience in the long marches and the tedious camp life.
 He painted, too, the Battle of Shiloh, where he had given the best of his corporal frame —that awful scene, where after the fight one could walk long distances stepping only on dead bodies.

And when he spoke of the dead it was with strong and tender feeling and much simple, moving eloquence. He told how he had seen them lying on the field after the battle, their white or ashen gray faces, with contracted muscles, taking ghastly or distorted shape or again wearing smiles of seraphic sweetness.
 He became a poet in describing the scene.
 His friends and neighbors listened with tearful attention and felt a new and deeper respect for the brave and loyal old soldier.

That evening the Hutton family sat down to supper in unusual spirits. The captain was still under the influence of the day's hallowed glory; and, for the first time in their lives, his wife and children were proud of his abnormal patriotism.

His son brought letters and handed them to his father before they seated themselves at the table. The captain, with his thoughts on fields of battle and dead comrades, handled them idly without looking at them and laid them aside.

The young man seemed to have these letters on his mind. He glanced toward them from time to time as he ate, and when the meal was finished and they still sat about the table chatting pleasantly,
 he said:

"You haven't read your letters, father," and with polite alacrity he got up and handed them to the white haired dreamer.

The captain opened one after another without interest. Suddenly his eyes flashed and he began to tremble. "Here, my children, look here!" he cried excitedly, holding at arm's length an official paper and a letter of imposing appearance. "My grateful government insists that I shall have all this money for the wounds I received at Shiloh—wounds of which I have always been proud and felt it an honor to bear without thought of compensation. I have ever held that the true patriot gives his service and his body freely to his country. I never asked for a pension, though I knew I was entitled to it. No, I did not ask it, but my government has proved itself worthy of loyal service: It offers it to me voluntarily."

Here the captain's son colored and began to cough violently.
 "I rejoiced that I had suffered for my country," continued the captain. "It is a poor order of patriotism that is willing to give nothing. I am grateful for this acknowledgment of my service, because it came unsolicited. Here it is, my darlings, here is the reward of your father's loyalty to the land he loves. Take it, and do what you will with it.
 I don't want it. I want to die knowing that I have given something to my dear country and have taken nothing."

"How much is it father?" asked Lillian,
 the eldest daughter, who had dreams of going abroad to study art.
 "Nearly $7,000," he answered dreamily.
 His mind was again roaming over the field at Shiloh. Both young ladies caught their breath. Their mother looked unutterably astonished at the vastness of the sum which, as it were, had been miraculously thrown into their laps; while the enterprising son tried in vain to appear unconcerned.

"What shall we do with it?" asked Emma,
 the other daughter, who had musical ambitions.
 "Build a really comfortable house, a home," said the sensible mother, whose genius for domestic management had often been put to sore straits in consequence of her husband's indifference to the material things of life.

"Just a slice of it would educate Emma and me in our professions," said Lillian, in a voice of eager interest.
 The son remarked that he knew of an enterprise sure to bring extraordinary results, into which, in his opinion, a large part of the pension money might be put with profit.

"Let us fix up this house, refurbish it, and divide the remainder equally between us," said Lillian.
 "Remember, children, that we need a comfortable home of our own," put in the mother with mild firmness.

"But when we get to earning money at our professions we can soon build you and father a lovely home," said Emma.

The daughters both held warmly to the subject of going abroad, the son to the investment, while the mother heroically stood by the project of the home.

Warmer and warmer grew the discussion. Arguments, appeals, assertions, retorts even, flew around the family board like wicked spirits at war with each other.
 No one counseled patience and deliberation in the matter of deciding what to do with the money. All excitedly insisted on fixing its destiny then and there.

Only one of the circle offered no suggestion, said no word in regard to it, was not appealed to. This was the white haired soldier who had so bravely earned the money. Indeed, he seemed quite unconscious of the wrangle going on about him. He had moved from the table and was sitting in the easy chair near the open door, holding his letters carelessly in his hand and looking dreamily out on the hills fresh and fair in their garments of spring. He was thinking, not of the possible joys of the future, but of the dear anguish of the past. Over his face spread an expression of serene exalted delight. It came from the memory of what he had suffered for the sake of principle. He was a nature that understood the blessedness of giving.

The discussion about the money went on,
 growing in strength and wrath every minute.
 At last, stung to defending his position, the son, forgetting his father's presence, boldly declared that he had some rights in the case, since his energy and perseverance had secured the pension.

This speech made its way straight into the captain's consciousness like a knife, and like a knife was the wound it made. This money, then, this pension, was not as he had proudly believed, the voluntary gift of a grateful government. His son had begged, schemed, planned and struggled to get it, and in the eyes of his country he was no better patriot than the meanest of her servitors.

He turned toward the disturbed group at the table with a look in his eyes the like of which they had never seen, and which they never will be able to forget. It had in it unspeakable astonishment, overwhelming anguish and something else not translatable to the limited spiritual perceptions of those who saw it. That something was not of this world. It was a beam from the unseen sun of infinity shining through the old soldier's surprised eyes. Instantly all were awed into silence. Instinctively they recognized that something mightier than their wills confronted them—something they could not understand.

The old soldier began to rise to his feet. His lips moved but no sound came forth. Slowly he sank back into the chair again. The light faded out of his eyes and his face grew ashen white. The awestruck family looked at him with speechless tongues.
 Before they realized the presence of the strange guest, death, who had come so unexpectedly into their presence, he had departed with the soul of the old patriot.

GERTRUDE GARRISON.

A MEMORY.
 [MAY, 1864.]

The morning stars were growing pale,
 But still we slept, as soldiers sleep
 Who know not fear, deep in the vale
 Between the mountains dark and steep.

A quiet brooded o'er the camp,
 And not a cloud was in the sky,
 With soothing down our brows were damp,
 A sweet breeze fanned us tenderly.

It may have been a mocking bird,
 Low trilling to the dawning day,
 But every veteran dreamed he heard
 His love sing as he sleeping lay.

Some loves were wives and maidens some,
 And some were mothers sweet and fair;
 And some were children left at home
 Without a mother's tender care.

But ah, how mournful was that strain,
 That low, and song in dreaming ear!
 It rose and fell and rose again,
 And died as if in sobs and tears.

Then brayed the trumpet, clashed the drum:
 "Fall in!" Up sprang we all as one;
 Bullets like bees began to hum,
 And warm, red blood like wine to run.

On which side fought we, shall I say?
 (We fought so hard, with hearts so true!)
 We may have worn the stainless gray,
 Or loyally the precious blue.

Some fell, some lived, and all were brave,
 For all had heard love sing that morn';
 Oh, woman, weeping by a grave!
 Oh, golden dream to tatters torn!

What without love is victory worth?
 What is defeat if love be won?
 Hearts of the south, hearts of the north,
 Throb louder than the drum or gun.

THE MEDAL OF HONOR.

A Decoration for the Living Soldiers of the Late War.

Nearly 60,000,000 people of the United States scarcely know that there is a national tribute paid to its brave soldiers. This is the medal of honor given by congress for distinguished conduct in the presence of the enemy only. This medal has been in existence for more than twenty years, and has been conferred upon several hundred heroes, but very few besides the recipients know of its existence. This ignorance is due to the fact that a mistaken simplicity marks the method of its presentation. In other countries, particularly those we imitate in military matters, the decoration is often handed to the soldier by his supervising officer in the presence of the principal officers of state, of large bodies of troops and of thousands of people.

The name of the happy recipient is published in the official gazette and by the press throughout the dominions. In our country this reward from the highest power in the government is sometimes conveyed to the brave winner by the hands of the postman. Rarely, indeed, is the presentation made an occasion of public ceremony. It is received, gazed upon reverently by its possessor, for it is full of significance to him, and then it is put carefully away and is only brought out occasionally for inspection by a comrade, or worn on parade if specially authorized. This medal of honor has been awarded to about 800 officers and men of the volunteer service for individual acts of gallantry during the late war, and to 320 enlisted men in the United States army since, but it seems to have been conferred with a modesty so excessive that it amounted to secrecy, and without any public recognition of the honor it was intended to confer.

That "the hit bird flutters" is again exemplified in the Courier this week, in ever a column of misrepresentations relative to the proprietor of this paper. The simple fact is, and the Courier knows it well, that it deceived the printing committee of the Business Men's Association and secured a bid to which it was not entitled. The REGISTER did not feel compelled to submit weekly to such treatment and say nothing, especially since it was not the first time it had received similar treatment from the same source. The public in general have probably had about all they care for of this dispute between the two offices and as we have heretofore fairly stated the case we will not force it upon readers to their disgust.

New York Sen. O. C. Woolworth, of Albany, head of the concern that makes postal cards for the government, says that at the factory in Castleton, Pa., they manufacture between two and three tons a day the year around. The largest order they ever filled for one city was 4,000,000 cards, or about twelve tons of paper for this city. We use here about 6,000,000 cards a month. Chicago comes next, with about 3,000,000 cards in the same period. There are 450,000,000 postal cards manufactured annually. Two cent postage did not lessen the use of postal cards, but checked the growth of their use for some little time. The check has been overcome, and the public are using more and more postal cards every day.

Rev. Samuel W. Duffield.

The announcement of the death of this most excellent clergyman has been received in this community with the deepest regret. One year ago he met with an injury from too violent exertion, resulting in a valvular disease of the heart, and since that day his naturally strong constitution has been yielding step by step to this fatal malady. He was in the forty-fourth year of his age and had served in the ministry about twenty years. During that period he had been the pastor of five churches, serving in each field of labor with marked zeal. In his last charge at Bloomfield, N. J., he was greatly esteemed and his death in the prime of life is deeply lamented by the people among whom he labored. He was the minister of the Presbyterian church in this city for about three years, and under his administration the church edifice was entirely remodeled and beautified. Mr. Duffield was a man of fine culture and in some departments he was a scholar of recognized ability. He was fond of the pen and was a constant contributor to the prominent magazines and journals of the day. His intellect was keen and bright, and his articles were always received with favor. Some of his friends have thought that in the department of journalism he would especially have excelled. He was a poet of no inconsiderable ability and his fund of knowledge on the subject of hymnology was quite distinguished. Besides his frequent articles upon this subject in the religious press he had compiled a volume entitled, "English Hymns: their Authors and History," which has been received as authority in the field which it covers. He had in preparation another work of a similar character on Latin hymns, which is already in the hands of an editor to whom he had committed the manuscript. Some of his own compositions as well as translations from the Latin have been adopted for use in a recent collection of Dr. Robinson. He had a warm, hearty nature, and made many friends. He was quick and somewhat impulsive, but his intentions were always honest and no one doubted the sincerity of his character. His death, in the vigor of his manhood, is deeply regretted and he will be held by the large circle of his friends in affectionate remembrance.

Death of Mrs. Haskell.

Our community was not prepared to receive the announcement on Sabbath morning last from the several pulpits of the city, of the death of Mrs. Haskell, the devoted wife of the pastor of the Baptist church. Only a few had learned of her sickness and until the day previous no one had supposed that it was of an alarming character. Mrs. Haskell was a native of Suffolk, Conn., where she was united in marriage with Mr. Haskell, then a young licentiate in the ministry, forty years ago the coming August. Their first home was in Detroit, then a city of no very large dimensions, where for a few years they labored together in building up the interests of a congregation which is now one of the most powerful in the state. After a residence of several years in Kalamazoo, they came to this city and for nearly eighteen years they have enjoyed the warmest affection of their own united and hearty congregation as well as the confidence and fellowship of the entire Christian community. Mrs. Haskell was a woman of a quiet and somewhat reserved disposition. She was not known in her real character and solid worth upon a casual acquaintance, but she grew constantly in the esteem of her friends who were brought into intimate relation with her and they knew how to judge her as a model pastor's wife. Her spirit was most charming, always amiable, never disturbed by surrounding circumstances, and constantly exerting the power of a true Christian life around the circle of her influence. Her sympathies were very deep and she will be greatly missed in the homes of the sick and the afflicted where her presence and encouragements were always most welcome. In her church she was a true pastor's wife, eminently loved and respected, and she has left lines of influence for good which are of inestimable value. How much society owes from this quiet, inobtrusive, yet strong and valuable life, is known only by those who have been brought into intimate relations with her, and her memory will be warmly cherished by all those who were about her. We extend to Dr. Haskell and his sons, our warmest sympathies in this great bereavement. We know that her home life has been all that could be desired, and while the public has lost a most valuable member of society an honored friend, the pastor of the Baptist church has been called to part with a companion who has held up his hands and in the full sense of the term has been a true helpmeet to him in the arduous and responsible work of the Christian ministry.

OUR LANSING LETTER.

I don't think it will be a great while before the legislators pull down the blinds, close the session and retire from business. Already in the senate the beginning of the end has been commenced, that body having passed a resolution that all appropriation bills be placed at the head of the order of third reading as soon as reported. This gives them precedence over all others. A rule was also adopted that in committee of the whole no senator should speak more than once or more than five minutes on any one subject or amendment, thus shutting off the long-winded speeches which some senators are disposed to spring upon their colleagues.

While the Manly text-book bill was on its third reading the house indulged in the unusual proceeding of permitting an outsider to appear before the members and discuss the measure, whereat Mr. Manly got as mad as a bear with a sore head, and declared he would tender his resignation. Mr. Babcock, who spoke, is connected with a publishing house, hence his great interest in the measure. It is he who gave the much-talked-of "banquet" to a number of members at a Michigan avenue saloon the other night. Mr. Manly, who, by the way, is one of the strongest and most faithful members of the house, still insists that he will resign, though most of his colleagues think he will reconsider his avowal and remain with them to the end.

The house has occupied considerable time the past week with the bill regulating railroad passenger fares. Mr. Lakey moved to amend the bill which fixed the rate at 2 1/2 cents per mile by making it 3 cents. Mr. Chapman moved an amendment to the amendment by making the rate 2 cents. Mr. Snow, of Saginaw, made a ringing speech in favor of reducing the fare. He said railroads had been baited long enough with land grants, etc., and only paid taxes upon their receipts. How would the farmers' taxes foot up if they were taxed upon their own statements of their net earnings? Everything was cheaper now than when the charters were given, except passenger fares, and it was time to legislate for the people. His remarks were loudly applauded, showing the sentiment of the house. Notwithstanding this Messrs. Lakey and T. H. Williams labored hard and spoke very often to keep the rate at 3 cents, but their efforts were abortive. The amendment putting the rate at 2 cents a mile in the bill prevailed by a vote 45 to 25.

An amendment offered by Mr. Herrington was adopted which allows new roads not under control of any other road to charge 3 cents a mile for the first five years; and the clause compelling roads to sell 500 mile tickets for $10 was stricken out. Upon rising the recommendations of the committee were concurred in by a vote of 45 to 28.

The bill was then put upon its passage, and in spite of a variety of propositions and amendments calculated to impede its progress went through by a vote of 45 to 16.

Several members in explaining their votes in favor of the bill stated that they used passes, but were positive their action during the session had not been influenced by that fact, as was evident in their vote upon the bill.

The much discussed and bitterly fought Cross bill regulating the business of assessment insurance in the state, to which I have had occasion to refer so frequently, passed the house by a majority of 59 to 14. This knocks out graveyard and speculative insurance completely and is a decided victory for Mr. Cross and the friends of the measure.

The bill of Mr. Herrington, of Oakland, amending the divorce laws, has been agreed to by the senate committee of the whole. I have already outlined this bill in previous letters. Mr. Edwards, of Newaygo, offered two or three amendments, which were so forcibly antagonized by Mr. Babcock of Sanilac that the discussion at one time waxed exceedingly warm and personal. Mr. Edwards' amendments were all rejected.

board, and proposed as a substitute the appointment of one state inspector, whose business it should be to examine the state and county institutions once each year.

The house has decided to commence its morning sessions at 9 o'clock in the future. Mr. Dickson, in moving this change, "paused to remark" that unless something was done to facilitate the transaction of business the Fourth of July would most certainly be celebrated in Lansing. If they do that it is suggested a suitable celebration would be to put all the bills not yet passed into one of the cannon in front of the state house and fire them all off.

The liquor tax bill which passed the house last week, with which the reader is already familiar, has been reprinted and placed on the files of senators. As the senate is a long way behind with its work it is not likely to come up in the general order for some time.

There is likely to be some fun in the senate when this liquor bill does come up. Ever since its passage the rumor has been rife that Senator Hubbell would give it his most hearty and energetic opposition—a rumor which undoubtedly has its foundation in fact. Now Senator Hubbell believes in the scriptural injunction: "Whatever thy right hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might." He'll do it—sure. And the friends of the bill, knowing his strength and ability, regard the prospect with fear and trembling. They have, therefore, been bestirring themselves to devise some means to circumvent the alert Houghton statesman, and believe they have hit the nail on the head. The scheme proposed is to boycott the senator's mining school appropriation bill. This bill has been favorably reported and is now on the general order, but it is hitting the bill will never be considered or taken up unless the senator keeps his hands off the liquor bill. This is the lever with which it is proposed to remove the main obstruction in the way of the passage of the liquor bill. It will be interesting to watch the success of the plan. This mining school is a pet project of Senator Hubbell's and promises great things for his section of the state. Is Senator Hubbell a man who will be driven from what he conceives to be his duty rather than sacrifice a cherished measure? That's what we all want to know.

The Sharp stenographer bill has passed the senate. It applies to stenographers of circuit courts and regulates their compensation. The bill gives the appointment of a stenographer to the judge of the circuit, the salary, which is to be fixed by the judge, being limited to not less than $1,000 nor more than $1,800. The amount is rated upon the business of the court, but boards of supervisors, or the Wayne county auditors, are privileged to add as much as they choose to the regular salary. Six cent per folio is the legal rate for transcribing.

MAG.

LANSING, Mich., May 24, 1887.

Nodaway, (Mo.) Democrat: The new town on the Platte Valley road, to be located on the farm of Horace Jones in this county, will, it is said, be named Waldron in honor of Henry Waldron, the gentleman who has been taking the right of way for the company. It is claimed that Kansas City will be a point on the new road and as it is distant from Des Moines about 240 miles and Waldron will be nearly a midway point between the two places it is thought that Waldron will be made a division town.

It is noted as a singular philological fact, at London, that some of Buffalo Bill's Indians speak the Cherokee language with a strong Irish accent. One of them came very near giving himself away by smoking his pipe upside down.

THE SIGNAL SERVICE.

The Weekly Bulletin on the Weather and Crops.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Signal Office has issued the following weather-crop report for the week ending May 21, 1887:

During the week ending May 21 the weather has been warmer than usual in all agricultural districts east of the Rocky Mountains except in Florida and Texas, where the deficiency in temperature averages about 35 degrees, a daily average of about 3 degrees below the normal. From the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic coast the excess of temperature for the week was from 25 to 50 degrees, a daily average of about 5 degrees warmer than usual. During the week there has been a deficiency of rainfall in all sections east of the Missouri and Lower Mississippi valleys, while slight excesses are reported in Texas, Northern Arkansas and Central Dakota. The deficiency in rainfall for the season is general, the only sections reporting an excess being Northern New England, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Northwestern Dakota, Oregon and Washington Territory. In the cotton region east of the Mississippi more rain is needed, but the recent showers and warm weather leave the crop in a favorable condition.

A VILLAGE IN ASHES.

Nearly Three Hundred Buildings at Lake Linden, Mich., Swept Away.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 23.—Pulver details have been received of the conflagration at Lake Linden, a town of about 2,500 inhabitants in Houghton County, on Friday. Only one saloon and one meat market remain of the entire business portion. Nearly 300 families lost every thing except what they had on their backs. The fire originated in the second story of Neuman & Telese's general store, and under a stiff wind swept every thing before it. In two hours from the discovery of the fire the whole town was in ruins.

About 270 buildings in all are totally destroyed. The loss will reach $1,500,000 with insurance of $500,000 to $700,000.

PLEASURE-SEEKERS DROWNED.

Five Persons Lose Their Lives by the Capsizing of a Boat on Traverse Bay, in Michigan—A Similar Accident at Philadelphia.

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., May 24.—Captain L. W. Cole took a party of friends composed of D. G. Stark, George Wise, Marion Trip, Clarence Blood and Fred Cole, of Petoskey; George M. Freeman, of Milwaukee, and Henry Blunt, of Chicago, out for a sail on Traverse bay Sunday morning. At 11:30 a. m. the yacht was struck by a squall and capsized, throwing the party into the bay. D. G. Stark, George Wise, Captain Cole, Fred Cole and Marion Trip were drowned. Henry Blunt had sunk for a third time when rescued by Mr. Freeman, of Milwaukee.

A Favorable Trade Review.

NEW YORK, May 21.—R. G. Dun & Co. in their weekly trade review, take a generally favorable view of the situation. The most important effects of the Interstate Commerce act noted are the "decline of trade of larger centers of distribution and manufacture and increase of distribution at smaller towns, with uprisings of new manufacturing works at many localities. The business failures for the week in the United States and Canada numbered 180, against 182 during the corresponding week of last year.

The Precious Metal.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The production of precious metals in the United States during 1886, as shown by the report of the director of the Mint, amounted to $33,000,000 in gold and $51,000,000 in silver. There was an increase in the gold "crop" of $3,200,000 over 1885, and a slight falling off in silver. The total value of gold and silver in the country January 1, 1887, is estimated at $973,200,000.

THE GREAT FOREPAUGH SHOW.

The Climax of Multiplied Attractions.

Adam Forepaugh has fairly outdone himself this season. He always had a large show and a good one. His collection of animals resembles a Provincial Zoological garden. His trained elephants—twenty-eight in number—are the finest in the country. They are taught through Adam Forepaugh, Jr., to do many curious and laughable performances. They constitute a manifold picture that would do credit to the highest ambition of a Rosa Bonheur. The circus department—and who does not like the circus?—like that of his Hippodromatic performances are conducted on a grand and imposing scale, there being three of each crowded into one. Each artist is declared to be a star of the first magnitude.

So thoroughly have the arenic performers been elevated in point of taste and matter of dress as to be the theme of admiration by those even who are not in the habit of visiting the circus. Mr. Forepaugh is paying far more attention than ever before to the morale of his equestrian and gymnastic departments. Since he has added the Wild West and the famous Custer Battle so anxious are every body to see these novel and historical attractions, that many of the first families of every denomination, who were never before known to go to a canvas show, are now found in daily attendance and none seem more pleased than these. It is a step in the right direction. It accounts very largely for the immense crowds who filled his colossal tents in Chicago, last week, as never before. Mr. Forepaugh has well earned the good name his show has attained in the west. He has achieved the full object which has been the ambition of his professional life, viz.: to become the sole owner of the largest and best show in the world.

His conquests at Madison Square Garden, New York, are a marvel. He captured New York city, and created for himself a fame in the chief metropolis of the nation that will be handed down with credit to him and his posterity. Young Forepaugh, the sole heir of this magnificent show property, may well be denominated the "Prince of the house of Adam." He is a very ambitious, industrious and energetic young man. He has immortalized his name as the most successful elephant trainer the world has ever known. The enviable mantle that falls from his father's shoulders will well become him. He has contributed largely to his father's success and is in every way worthy of his good name.

The entire great show will reach Ann Arbor, Friday, June 10, when it will be safe to predict the greatest crowd of people seen here since the war. And well may they come for we have not had a big show here in a long time, besides we are promised three times the great show Forepaugh ever had.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, from which I have suffered two years. I tried many other medicines, but none proved so satisfactory as Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS COOK, Brush Electric Light Co., New York City.

Sick Headache

"For the past two years I have been afflicted with severe headaches and dyspepsia. I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have found great relief. I cheerfully recommend it to all." MRS. E. E. ANNABLE, New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Mary C. Smith, Cambridgeport, Mass., was a sufferer from dyspepsia and sick headache. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla and found it the best remedy she ever used.

AN ORDINANCE

RELATIVE TO SIDEWALKS.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained by the Mayor, Recorder, and Aldermen of the City of Ann Arbor, that it shall be lawful for, and the duty of the City Marshal, to give written notice to all persons to repair defects in the sidewalks adjacent to the property of such persons whenever such defects shall be brought to his notice. Such notice may be served by the Marshal in person or by anyone authorized by him to make such service, and shall specify the character and extent of such repairs.

SEC. 2. Any persons who shall neglect or refuse to repair any defect mentioned in a notice so served upon him, for the period of forty-eight (48) hours after such service, shall be punished by a fine of five dollars and cost of prosecution, for each and every day upon which he shall neglect to make such repairs after the expiration of said forty-eight hours.

SEC. 3. This ordinance shall take effect from and after legal publication.

THE FOREST FIRES.

They Break Out Afresh in Michigan and Elsewhere.

Large Tracts of Timber Land Burned Over—Farmers Fighting the Flames to Save Their Homes—The Losses Way Up in the Millions.

FLAMING FORESTS.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 23.—The fire at Camp 3, on the Summit division of the South Shore road, although it has destroyed a large amount of valuable pine timber, wood and portions of camps, was not accompanied by fatalities. The Italians worked all night and saved most of the camp buildings. Reports from twenty-eight localities show that on the whole the fires are diminishing, though they are still very bad in many places. The fire along the line of the South Shore road is now under control here with one or two exceptions. On the Felch Mountain branch of the Chicago & Northwestern road the small charcoal village of Whitney has been entirely burned, save the supply store.

The principal fires are in Alger, Baraga, Houghton, Keweenaw and Marquette counties, and large tracts of splendid pine and hardwood timber there have been destroyed. On the Peninsula division of the Northwestern road there are many bad fires.

LA CROSSE, Wis., May 23.—Fires are raging on the East Fork of Black River. N. B. Holway had 3,000,000 feet of logs destroyed, and the Messrs. Altes also lost considerable.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., May 22.—Farmers in this country are fighting forest fires to protect their lives and homes from being destroyed.

EATON, Wis., May 23.—Forest fires are raging on the south fork of the Eau Claire river. Higgins' camp, belonging to the Eau Claire Lumber Company, was swept away Friday. The south fork dam is on fire, and will probably be destroyed, as the river is very low there.

DETROIT, Mich., May 23.—The losses in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and the northern tier of counties of Wisconsin since May 1 are estimated at $5,000,000.

SURETON, Wis., May 24.—Men who arrived here yesterday from Hawthorne, a town of about 300 inhabitants, eighteen miles southeast of this city, report that forest fires have entirely destroyed the village. For several days past fires have swept through the woods in the vicinity of Hawthorne, but no immediate danger was feared. Owing to the extreme dryness of the undergrowth and a high wind, however, the danger became so imminent that the citizens were called out to fight the flames. Having no fire apparatus adequate for the occasion, they were unable to keep the fire in check, and in a short time the entire village was in flames. It is said that not a house is left standing and the citizens are homeless and destitute. No lives are reported lost. An estimate of the loss can not be made at this writing. The fires are still burning, and are sweeping away millions of feet of valuable timber.

DETROIT, Mich., May 24.—Specials from the Upper Peninsula report the forest fires still raging. From all parts of the peninsula come reports of continued drought, and the danger to many towns is as evident as at any previous time.

DESTRUCTIVE TORNADOES.

Buildings Damaged by Storms in Wisconsin and Kansas.

ELKHORN, Wis., May 24.—A tornado in Sugar Creek township Sunday night tore the roofs from several buildings and started many from their foundations. Dwellings were injured and miles of fences were leveled and scattered by the storm.

CLAY CENTER, Kan., May 24.—A tornado struck Idaho, a small town eight miles west of here, Sunday evening. A new school-house was entirely demolished, two churches badly damaged and half a dozen dwelling houses blown down. The people generally took refuge in cellars and only one person was seriously hurt.

Indiana Odd-Fellows.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—The Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows of Indiana adjourned Thursday evening. The session was largely occupied with grievances and appeals. The following nominations were made, to be voted for at the regular annual meeting in November: Grand Master, L. T. Michener, of Shelbyville; Deputy Grand Master, J. E. P. Harper, of Madison; Grand Warden, C. C. Berkley, of Richmond; Grand Secretary, B. F. Foster, of Indianapolis; Grand Treasurer, T. P. Haughey, of Indianapolis; Representative to the Supreme Lodge, A. N. Grant, of Kokomo.

To Logan's Memory. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 20.—At the local last evening a meeting was held of the members of the Thirty-fourth General Assembly who voted for General John A. Logan for United States Senator, at which was adopted a "memorial minute" appropriate to the anniversary of his election, and ordered sent to the family. A committee was appointed to effect a permanent organization of the 103 and to devise some fitting memorial to the greatness of Logan.

An Express Train Robbed. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 20.—An express train on the Missouri Pacific road was stopped on Wednesday by fifteen masked and armed men at McNeill, twelve miles north of Austin, and robbed. The robbers went through the passengers and robbed the express-car, but the amount taken was not over $4,000. Several of the passengers were injured by flying pistol balls. The train was held up for nearly half an hour, after which time it was allowed to proceed.

Five Millions for Education.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 20.—The will of Washington, D. C. De Pauw, the millionaire who died recently, was probated yesterday. It covers thirty-three sheets of closely written legal cap, and bequeaths $3,000,000 to his family, and the residue of his estate, estimated at $5,000,000, is devoted to benevolent and educational purposes, including a bequest of $1,025,000 to De Pauw University.

Tarbell Acknowledges His Guilt.

ELKHORN, Wis., May 20.—John H. Tarbell, who shot his wife near Vienna, was brought before Judge Lyon Wednesday. He admitted his guilt as charged, and was committed in default of $5,000 bail to answer to the circuit court in September.

To Build a New Railroad.

KANKAKEE, Ill., May 20.—Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the circuit clerk's office at Kankakee of the Northern & Eastern Midland railroad, to run from Kankakee to Joliet; capital stock, $1,000,000; principal business office at Chicago.

Spontaneous Combustion.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The rag-warehouse of E. J. Smith & Son, 10 and 12 South Canal street, was burned yesterday morning, the loss being placed at about $50,000. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in a pile of greasy rags.

Sixty Houses Burned.

LONDON, May 24.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that sixty houses were destroyed by fire near that city Sunday.

Yellow Fever.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 23.—Yellow fever has appeared in Key West, a man named Baker being ill with a sporadic form of the disease. The Board of Health has isolated the case and no danger of an epidemic is apprehended.

THE GRAND ARMY.

Commander Fairchild Issues a General Order Concerning Memorial Day and the National Encampment.

MADISON, Wis., May 21.—Thursday Commander-in-Chief Fairchild, of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued general orders in which he cordially indorses the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans as benevolent organizations. He declares that the Grand Army knows no "Decorations" Day, so called, but is full of love for "Memorial" Day, as it should properly be designated; announces that all railroads will give one fare for the round trip to the National Encampment at St. Louis in September. He calls a meeting of the Thirtieth Army Corps at St. Louis September 27 to select a corps badge, and appoints W. G. Veasy, of Rutland, Vt., a member of the Grant Memorial Committee, vice George W. Rooker, of Brattleboro, Vt., resigned. He also appoints seven additional aids on his staff to represent the State of Pennsylvania, and designates the Federal Commissioner of Pensions as the proper person for veterans to consult in searching for addresses of comrades.

THE DRILL BEGINS.

Formal Opening of the National Militia Encampment at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The opening formalities of the National drill took place here yesterday in the Monument lot. The Monument Light Infantry corps, of this District, marched in and formed in hollow square about the camp-ground flag-staff. General Augur and his staff entered the square, the chaplain invoked God's blessing upon the camp, the new flag was drawn to the masthead, the troops presented arms and the National drill was thus formally opened. Aside from this the only military general exercise of the day was a dress parade at five o'clock in the evening. The aggregate of the soldiery listed for the occupation of the tent field is nearly 6,000. Camp George Washington has been chosen for the name of the encampment around the base of the towering monument.

Unveiling a Statue of Colfax.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 19.—The bronze statue erected here to the memory of the late Vice President, Colfax, was unveiled yesterday. The statue, which, with the pedestal, is twenty feet high, is located in University Park. The cost of the monument was over $10,000, all of which was contributed by Odd-Fellows in amounts varying from fifty cents to $100. Mr. Colfax's connection with the order began March 20, 1843, when he applied for admission and was afterward initiated into South Bend (Ind.) Lodge, No. 23. He founded the Degree of Rebekah in 1850, and to-day over 70,000 women have taken the degree, which occupies a position by the side of the others of the order.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

A Strange Family.

In Marquette twenty-one years ago John Flynn, aged thirty-five years, shut himself up at home with a sister, Mrs. Donohue, and was forgotten. Nine years ago Lawrence Donohue, son of Flynn's sister, disappeared. Apparently some mystery was connected with the house, which had been closed and the curtains drawn for years, although occupied by Mrs. Donohue. The other day the city marshal forced entrance and discovered Flynn, who had not been out for years, and learned that Lawrence Donohue was hidden in the same house, although he could not be found. The man refused to divulge his hiding place. The woman claims the old man has been in the house twenty years, and her son Lawrence had not stepped outside the door for nine years. The old man fought desperately, but was taken to the poor-house. He is a pitiable-looking object. Probably it is an insane freak, as no reason is given for the strange action of the two men and the woman.

Nashville, Barry County, will become a United States signal-service station, a fund sufficient to procure pole, flags, etc., having been raised.

Eight saloons have been extinguished in Port Huron for not paying their taxes promptly.

Deputy Game and Fish Warden Oliver England, of Gun Lake, Barry County, was sent to jail a few days ago for illegal fishing, having pleaded guilty.

The Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Michigan closed their thirty-first annual convocation in Grand Rapids recently, with an election of officers as follows: Commander, Thomas H. Williams, Jackson; Deputy, Charles P. Bigelow, Big Rapids; Generalissimo, John A. Gerow, Marshall; Captain General, William G. Doty, Ann Arbor; Prelate, Rev. F. A. Blades, Detroit; Senior Warden, Edward C. Smith, Pontiac; Junior, J. S. Conover, Coldwater; Treasurer, J. Shaw Noble, Monroe; Recorder, William F. Innes, Grand Rapids; Standard Bearer, Henry L. Anthony, Sturgis; Warder, William E. Jewett, Adrian; Sentinel, Alexander McGregor, Detroit. There are about 3,300 members of the order in the State and thirty-seven subordinate commanderies.

At the recent annual convention of Michigan sheriffs at Detroit Sheriff Littlefield, of Wayne, was elected President, and Sheriff Bauman, of Manistee, Secretary and Treasurer.

William Aerkfertz has sued the Wabash Railroad Company in Detroit for $15,000 damages for an engine cutting off one of his feet while he was repairing track.

John Yates, aged fifty-three years, of Reed City, took a dose of strychnine the other morning with fatal result. The authorities were going to send him to the county house that day, which was the supposed cause.

The owner of the Detroit Evening Journal announces that he will hereafter run the paper on the profit-sharing plan.

Clark J. Ryder, of Chicago, a guest of his uncle, Dr. Jacobs, of Ludington, was hunting the other morning. He dropped his gun, the contents were discharged and tore his abdomen open. He would die.

Ex-Governor Alger has bought Muncie's famous picture, "The Last Days of Mozart," paying for it $50,000, and it will be presented to the Detroit Art Museum.

Alonzo Imus, aged eighty-seven years, a wealthy citizen of Galesburg, Kalamazoo County, died the other night from the kick of a horse.

A ten-year-old girl named Beach had a leg cut off by a locomotive in Bay City the other evening.

The fly-wheel of Bellow Bros.' saw-mill in Frankfort, Benzie County, burst a few days ago, injuring two men and smashing the mill badly.

John Young, plumber, of Bay City, was badly burned the other day, by an explosion of a gasoline stove.

A two-year-old child of George Smith, of Williams township, Bay County, died recently after eating canned peaches, with symptoms of poisoning.

The saw and planing-mill of Phillips & Sturgis, at Vassar, Tuscola County, was burned the other morning. Loss, $15,000; no insurance.

A boy aged twelve years, son of Charles R. Saville, was instantly killed by a street car in Detroit a few days ago. In jumping off, while the car was in motion, he fell under the wheels, which crushed his head.

Reports to the State Board of Health by fifty-seven observers in different parts of the State for the week ended on the 14th indicated that dysentery, rheumatism and diarrhea increased, and intermittent fever, inflammation of the bowels and influenza decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at thirteen places, scarlet fever at fourteen, typhoid fever at three, and measles at twenty-three places.

Mrs. Sarah K. Hayes, an old resident of Kalamazoo, dropped dead the other day.

A fire at Detroit and Milwaukee Junction, Wayne County, a few days ago destroyed E. B. Newton's dry-kiln and 700,000 shingles. Loss, $5,000; insurance, $1,000.

V. F. Cologne, of Mt. Pleasant is reported to have recently received a legacy of $250,000 by the death of an uncle.

The jury in the case of Dr. Palmer, at Jackson, brought in a verdict of not guilty the other day, under the instruction of the judge. The doctor was charged with bribery in assisting in procuring a pardon for a convict.

Lyceum Hall at Holland, Ottawa County, was burned a few days ago. Loss, $1,500; partly insured.

John McLean, of St. Ignace, choked to death while eating dinner the other day. He was a single man.

J. E. Denton's stable at Alpena, with his cow, horse, carriage, etc., was burned the other night. Loss, $2,000. This was one of a dozen recent incendiary fires and Mayor Peck had offered a reward for the arrest of the fire-bugs.

John Clay, a farmer aged about thirty-five years, living six miles southwest of Grand Lodge, Eaton County, was shot in the head and seriously wounded by Burdick Chandler, nineteen years old, the other morning. The trouble grew out of a land deal between Clay and Chandler's father.

The funeral of Mrs. John Pergilly took place at Lehigh, Pa., yesterday afternoon. She was living at Tower, Minn., with her husband and was going down a long flight of stairs with an infant daughter in her arms, when the stairs broke and precipitated her to the bottom, and both were instantly killed.

The Jackson rifles will take thirty-four men to the National drill in Washington.

A Strange Freak.
The wife of our esteemed citizen, Mr. John Rowell, while suffering under a severe attack of the blues, tried to commit the crime of infanticide but was prevented by the opportune arrival of a neighbor. Her case has been considered by the best doctors incurable, but her husband was highly pleased, after using a course of Sulphur Bitters, to find that she was entirely cured.—Kingston Herald.

A New York ex-alderman recently dropped dead while carrying $25,000 in his pockets, yet there are many of us who are perfectly willing to take the same risk.

Credit is due the German women and physicians for first using red clover blossoms as a medicine. Best results are obtained when combined with other medicinal roots and herbs, as in Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which is the best known remedy for all blood diseases, stomach and liver troubles, pimples, costiveness, bad breath, piles, ague and malaria diseases, indigestion, loss of appetite, low spirits, headache and all diseases of the kidneys. Price 50 cents, of Eberbach & S. O.

A camel may squeeze through a needle, a rich man may steal into Heaven, but a senator cannot get into the White House.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Don't sneeze, sneeze, hawk, hawk, spit, blow, and disgust everybody with your offensive breath. If you have acrid, watery discharges from the nose and eyes, throat disease, causing choking sensations, coughs, ringing noises in head, splitting headache, and other symptoms of nasal catarrh, remember that the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents.

One source of Secretary Whitney's popularity is that he never keeps a caller waiting. He frequently leaves the dinner table to see men who gain access to his house.

For the Ladies.

There are some complaints to which women are peculiarly liable, and from which they will suffer in silence for years, when they could be easily cured by the use of Pomeroy's Petrolina Plasters. In healing and soothing properties have met, with universal and unqualified commendation from all using them. Ladies who have never used them will find it to their advantage to try them. If they once do so, they will never be without them again. For sale by H. J. Brown, Dist. Agt. for Ann Arbor.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplained reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Mrs. C. W. Brown, No. 143 Sixth St., Milwaukee, Wis., says: "My daughter was first taken with what seemed to be nothing but ordinary stiff neck. I treated her with the usual remedies in such cases, but the disease seemed to spread very quickly over the whole body, giving her the most excruciating pains, which seemed almost beyond endurance even for a short time, causing her to scream violently. I at once sent for a physician, and he pronounced it a very bad form of inflammatory rheumatism; he endeavored to give her relief from this terrible agony but could not. The disease was steadily growing worse, she began to feel it around the heart, this being the vital part, and fearing the child would die before we could get her some relief, I said, doctor, I am not satisfied, this child must have relief at once or she will die, she cannot stand this torture much longer. I at once sent for a bottle of Athlophoros and to my utter surprise after giving her eight teaspoonfuls she had relief, and in two days' time she was up and around and did not suffer a pain. All I used was one bottle. It saved my child's life."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled.

One evening last week while Mr. Jay Pray accompanied by Miss Finton and Master Claude Pray were out fishing on Whitmore Lake, the boat by an accidental movement became filled with water and sank. Assistance came to their rescue and the water being rather shallow no lives were lost, yet they received a thorough ducking.

Saline Observer: The central part of the township was the scene of a lively scrimmage, Monday. There is a pond on the farm of J. Wood, which has been used for washing sheep for about forty years, and on the day named Sheridan Sanford drove a flock of sheep there for that purpose. The Boetger boys, who farm adjoins one side of the pond, refused to allow a continuance of the customary ablutions, and a general melee followed in which fists and hard words were freely used to the detriment of contentances and consciences. It is stated that the Boetgers threatened to shoot their opponents with a revolver. The outcome is not yet, and the probability is that a legal police will be applied to the ruthless causers of the disturbance.

Of obscure the road that leads to health Unmarked by board or sign, Wisdom avails not, powerless is wealth To sooth those aches of thine. But do not despair, with life there's hope, The cloud conceals the sun; With Pierce's Favorite Prescription at hand You life's full course may run.

More truth than poetry in these lines, as thousands of ladies all over the land now blooming with health, testify to the great curative powers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, adapted by much research and careful study to the happy relief of all those weaknesses and ailments peculiar to females. At druggists.

"Mamma," says a little girl who lives in a Harlem flat, "was't Julius Caesar afraid of anything?" "No; according to Shakespeare, he never experienced the feeling of fear." "Then he never lived in a flat," was the little girl's dictum, "because, if he did he would be afraid of the janitor."

Read Carefully!

There was a great rush for Dry Goods last week. There will be more of a rush this week.

It will pay you to read this advertisement carefully.

Simon's Black Gros-Grain Silks, marked down 25% a yard. They are the most durable Black Silks in the World. We guarantee them in the most liberal manner, and this guarantee the maker stands behind us.

Quality A hitherto $1.25 now $1.00
 " B " 1.50 " 1.25
 " C " 1.75 " 1.50
 " D " 2.00 " 1.75
 " E " 2.50 " 2.00
 [Down 50 cents.]

Our Colored Surahs are very cheap at $1.00. We show all the desirable colors in Pink, Light Blue, Cream, White and several shades in Tans and Light Brown.

No better Gros-Grain Colored Silks in the World than ours at $1.00 a yard. All shades of Tans and Browns in stock this week.

Excellent value in Black Watered Silks at $1.50 and $2.00.

Our Light Pink, Light Blue, Nile Green, and Heliotrope Watered Silks at $2.25 are very handsome.

Do you know a bargain when you see it? Among the very goods you would think to be the last to tumble.

Seasonable Goods. When you read the price you will want to see them.

Ten styles or more of Summer Silks at 55c a yard, heretofore 75c, $1.00 and $1.25. They are good value at the old price. They are surprise value now.

Call it Percalé or "Shirting" there's no nonsense about it. Tough and plump 36-inches wide. The weight is from the Cotton in it. Hard-twisted and hard-woven every thread of it.

A stuff for hard wear if you will, very neat and dressy, too, handsomely printed in stripes, plaids and figures on White ground. The price has been 16c. It's been a lively goer at 16c. We make it 12 1/2 cents.

Take a quick glance at our Cotton Dress Stuffs. Counters piled high. It will be a crazy crinkle year. Last year fixed it. Fine, hard-twisted, irregularly woven, crinkley, goods you shouldn't iron, rough dry them in the sun. Cream and White grounds. A dozen styles, four or five times as many colorings. See a bit, $1.25 and 12c.

Batistes seem daintier than ever. All on Cream grounds and plump yard wide. Figured stripes and odd designs. These are the Cottons that drove out the printed Linen Lawns, 12 1/2c. The finest Batiste that is made, 12 1/2c.

Why use your leisure time in buying material and making Underwear this warm weather when we can furnish you with just what you want and for less money. Don't judge our Underwear by what you see in other stores nor by the prices you hear quoted. Judge it by the Underwear itself, and see it here. Examine the sewing, the cutting, the decoration and styles. You Ladies know the good from bad. Not a word about that. We ask your judgment, not your favor.

Trashy Lace Flouncings are common enough in some stores. Easier to make trashy than good. Easier in Lace than most Goods. They say we have the nicest patterns and the best assortments of Black Lace Flouncings that you can find anywhere. Nothing trashy about them, that's certain. 42-inch, $2.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00. Cream and White Flouncing 42-inch 75c, $1.00, $2, $2.25, $2.50 and $5.00.

We are showing this week the finest line of beaded trimmings in the city. If you want cheap trimmings we have them. If you want medium price trimmings we have them. If you want high priced trimmings we have them. Will you examine our Beaded Trimmings at $2.00, $3.00, $4.00, $7.00, $10.00 and $12.00 a yard.

25 dozen Gauze Vests for Ladies at 25 cents. (Don't come expecting to get the 25 dozen for 25c. You will be disappointed if you do.) We mean 25c each. Yes, 25 cents. Perfect, regular goods made to sell for 40c. Also twenty-five dozen Ladies' Gauze Vests at 50c each. We know of no garments at all approaching either of them in quality that were ever before offered at the price.

Unless you know more about Underwear than the Writer of this you will say they are cheap.
