THE BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING FRIDAY EVENING.

Vote! Election "Capsule Factory"—
Two Generous Propositions—Another
Unitarian-Knight-Ilionil the City for $5,000.

The annual meeting of the Business Men's association was held in the council chamber last Friday evening, with President H. S. Dean in the chair. More enthusiasm was exhibited than at any previous meeting and every one present seemed to be imbued with the one idea—that to make Ann Arbor grow, inducements must be offered to manufacturers to locate here. If the citizens will take the same interest in the growth and prosperity of the city as those present at the meeting did, a new epoch will soon be chronicled in the history of Ann Arbor. But a few men cannot do it. Everybody must put their shoulder to the wheel and give it a push.

In calling the meeting to order, president Dean stated the objects of the meeting and complimented the association for their zeal and energy, saying the outlook for increasing the manufacturing enterprises was very flattering, and that constant work on the part of the members of the association and the citizens generally, would soon result in large returns for their labor. Secretary Allmendinger then read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved as read.

Among those present we noticed the Messrs. Dean, G. F. Allmendinger, Eli Moore, Drs. Kapp and Breakey, Mayor Smith, Capt. Schub, J. S. Henderson, J. Q. A. Sessions, C. Mack, W. S. Douglas, G. Schneider, T. F. Hutzel, F. Schmid, E. K. Frueauff, T. J. Keech, A. L. Noble, C. E. Hiscock, H. J. Brown, E. B. Abel, G. Bliss, W. V. Whedon and many others.

H. J. Brown, chairman of the committee on capsule factory, reported they had not yet raised the required amount of stock to erect a building, and that one hundred and fifty shares were needed, of which only one hundred and sixteen had been taken. The committee were given further time to complete their labors. Eli Moore offered to donate land in the rear of the agricultural works, in the Fifth ward, on which to locate the building, for a period of five years, at a consideration of $1 per year. This generous offer was referred to the committee.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.
The election of officers resulted in the selection of the following gentlemen:

President.....N. J. Kyer.
Vice President.....T. J. Keech.
Recording Secretary.....C. K. Hiscock.
Recording Secretary.....Eugene K. Frueauff.
Treasurer.....H. J. Brown.
Directors.....F. Schmid and M. Seabolt.

ANN ARBOR ILLUSTRATED.

Aid. Allmendinger, of the committee on printing the "booming pamphlet," reported that the book was now ready for distribution at four cents per copy, and wanted the citizens to take them at once, as the printer wanted his pay. But notwithstanding this earnest appeal, those present were backward about taking them. Capt. Schuh thought that a committee ought to be appointed to see that they were circulated where they would do the most good.

TREASURER'S REPORT.
Treasurer Mack submitted his annual report which showed $83 60 in the treasury. The following gentlemen have paid their membership fees:

H. T. Morton, T. J. Keech, C. H. St. Clair, G. Schneider, Patrick O'Hearn, H. J. Brown, A. Peterson, A. W. Hamilton, N. J. Kyer, Mr. Philipp, O. Grettton, K. Kirtredge, W. S. Hicks, A. L. Noble, H. S. Dean, Fred Scholter, C. Mack, F. Schmid, E. K. Frueauff, T. G. Allmendinger, C. E. Hiscock, Win. Arnold, Moses Seabolt, David Rinsey, S. Dean, A. J. Seyler, E. Eberach, Hutzel A. Co., J. J. Gruner, Edward Duffy, J. A. Pellemus, John Finnegan, St. M. Seabolt, J. W. Robison, John Goetz, St. J. John Goetz, Jr., Brush & Co., O. M. Martin, Mann Bros., Wm. W. Douglass, Geo. Haller, Bliz & Langgard, J. M. Stafford, Wm. Wagner, Dr. Kapp, W. B. Smith, Dr. Breakey, P. S. Key.

CANT BOOM ON WIND.

G. E. Hiscock: Mr. President, we have now closed our first year's work, and have, in a measure, reason to be proud of our efforts. While we have not made much showing, yet we have got into working order and understand how to work. We have done all we could with the means we have had. But you can't boom a town successfully on wind. Wind is all right as it goes, but it don't talk. In order to do any good we have got to have money. I am willing to donate my share, but I don't think it is right to ask it of individuals. What the city ought to do is to raise $50,000 by taxation to offer manufacturers to locate here, and to give to every company that would locate here a sum according to the number of men they would employ. During the last ten years Battle Creek has given away $150,000 in this way, and been repaid four fold. Other towns around us are doing the same thing. A few of us should not be compelled to donate everything. I am in favor of raising one per cent, of the city's assessed valuation, which would give us $50,000, and if rightly expended it would give us a population in five years of twenty thousand people.

G. Bliss stated that a town in Kansas was doing just what Mr. Hiscock advocated, and as a result was filling their town with manufacturing establishments.

The corresponding secretary was instructed to communicate with the firm on what conditions they would locate here.

A GENEROUS OFFER.
The following letter was read which explains itself:

ANN ARBOR, July 22, 1887.
GENTLEMEN:—Having noticed what this week's papers have to say about a manufacturing establishment in Search of grounds on which to locate their plant in this city, I will say that to encourage such enterprise, I will donate to such association ten 4x8 rod lots on south side of Wel's-st., beginning at the intersection of Baldwin avenue. Provided said association will forthwith establish their manufactory on one of them and build nine comfortable dwellings on the other lots during the ensuing year. Said houses to cost one thousand dollars each or more. If money shall be needed in the erection of said houses I will advance on mortgage $300 each at simple interest. Respectfully,

ISRAEL HALL,
To the Business Men's Association, Ann Arbor, Mich.

On motion of E. K. Frueauff, the thanks of the association were given Mr. Hall.

On motion of Dr. Breakey, the available cash in the treasurer's hands was applied on printing the pamphlet. Also that Messrs. Allmendinger and Hamilton be authorized to visit the citizens to dispose of the pamphlets.

C. E. Hiscock offered the following resolution, which was unanimously carried:

Resolved, That this Association request the common council of this city to submit to the voters a proposition to raise $1000 to advertise the city and induce manufacturers to locate here.

H. J. Brown moved that the thanks of the association be given Dr. Breakey for his untiring energy in procuring cuts of prominent buildings for the pamphlet, which was unanimously carried. Messrs. Allmendinger and Hamilton were afterwards included.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday evening, August 2d.

A Wisconsin Cranberry Farm.

The American Magazine thus describes the cranberry farm of G. B. Sackett, of Berlin, Wis., a son of Mrs. H. Louisa Sackett, of this city: The farm is situated four miles north of that village, and comprises 1,000 acres, nearly all of which is a veritable bog, and is covered with a natural and luxuriant growth of cranberry vines. A canal has been cut from the Fox river to the southern limit of the marsh, a distance of 4,400 feet. It is forty-five feet wide, and the water stands in it a depth of nine feet, sufficient to float fair-sized steamboats. At the intersection of the canal with the marsh, steam water works have been erected, with flood-gates and dams by means of which the entire marsh may be flooded to a depth of a foot or more when desired. There are two engines of 150-horse power each, and two pumps that are capable of raising 80,000 gallons per minute. When, in early autumn, the meteorological conditions indicate the approach or frost, the pumps may be put to work in the afternoon and the berries be effectually covered by water and thus protected before nightfall. At sunrise the gates are opened and the water allowed to run off again, so that the pickers may proceed with their work. The marsh is flooded to a depth of about two feet at the beginning of each winter and allowed to remain so until spring, the upheaval that would result from freezing and thawing, a natural process, which, if permitted, works injury to the vines.

There is a three-story warehouse on the marsh, with a capacity of 20,000 barrels of berries, and four large two-story houses capable of furnishing shelter for 1,500 pickers. The superintendent's residence is a comfortable cottage house, surrounded by giant oaks and elms, and stands near the warehouse on an "island," or small tract of high, dry land near the center of the great marsh. The pickers' quarters stand on another island about 200 yards away.

A plank roadway, built on piles, about two feet above the level of the ground, leads from the mainland to the warehouse and other buildings, a distance of more than half a mile. Several wooden rail-ways diverge from the marsh to all parts of the warehouse, and on them flat cars propelled by hand, are sent out at intervals during the picking season to bring in the berries from the hands of the pickers. Each picker is provided with a crate holding just one bushel, which is kept close at hand. The berries are first picked into tin pans and pails, and from these emptied into the crates, in which they are carried to the warehouse, where an empty crate is given the picker in exchange for a full one. Thus equipped and improved, the Sackett marsh is valued at $150,000. Thirteen thousand barrels have been harvested from this farm in a single season. The selling price in the market varies, in different seasons, from $8 to $16 per barrel.

Cranberries sent to the Southern markets are put up in water-tight packages, and the cases are then filled with water, this being the only means by which they can be kept in hot weather. Even in this condition they can only be kept a few days after reaching hot climates.

The programme for the fourth annual encampment of the G. A. R. Association of Southeastern Michigan, to be held at Adrian, August 30th and 31st, Sept. 1st and 2nd, is out and can be had by applying to Sec. Gus F. Smith, of Jonesville. The list of prizes is about the same as last year with the addition of one for the best drum corps. Gen. Phil Sheridan has promised to be present, as have also the following gentlemen: Gov. Luce and Staff, Ex-Governor Blair, Senators Palmer, Stockbridge, Ex-Governor Alger, Col. N. B. Eldridge, Hon. James O'Donnell, E. P. Allen, Lieut. L. H. Salsbury, Col. L. G. Rutherford, Department Commander, A. P. Morse and others. The programme is a very attractive one and a highly successful encampment is assured. Posts intending to be present should make early applications for tents, which will be furnished free, supplied with straw, to all G. A. R. Posts, veterans and militia.

"Mr. and Mrs. Bullion called this afternoon, sor." "Too bad; and we were out Did they leave any message?" "Yes, sor; he said, 'Good, good; tell him I'm so sorry he were not at home.'"

THE FUEL GAS COMPANY.

To the Property Holders of Ann Arbor.

The Washtenaw Fuel Gas Company, composed mainly of our own citizens, has completed its organization, and as the people of Ann Arbor will be asked to aid in the enterprise, it is due to them that a frank and plain statement of the plans and purposes of the company be made by its directors.

The nominal capital of the company is $300,000, divided into 300 shares of $50 each. It has been voted by the directors to place one-half of this stock on the market at ten dollars a share, or so much thereof as will produce a sum sufficient to sink a test well. Subscribers to this stock will, of course, become members of the company and have an interest in that portion of this $150,000 of stock which remains unsold. No certificates of stock will be issued to any person, including officers, or promoters of the company, unless they subscribe and pay for it on equal terms. The proceeds of the sale of this stock will be placed in the hands of Mr. Gruner, the treasurer of the company, and not a dollar of it will be expended for any other purpose than to sink a test well, and unless at least $3,000 is secured the money will be refunded upon a return of the stock. The directors realize that the great interest of the general public is in sinking a test well, for should gas in paying quantity be found, not only will the stock subscribed for be worth many times its cost, but all the real estate of Ann Arbor and for miles around will enormously increase in value; at least, such has been the case wherever fuel gas in paying quantities has been found. Citizens of other towns in Michigan, as well as in Ohio and Indiana, have subscribed and made liberal donations and gifts to outside parties to induce them to sink test wells? But we ask for no gifts. We ask the citizens of Ann Arbor and vicinity to take the stock of the company for their subscriptions and share in the profits of the company should it prove a success.

This stock will be non-assessable and no stockholders' liability can possibly be incurred, as by a by-law of the company the directors can create no indebtedness until there is money in the treasury to meet it. If gas or oil is not discovered in sinking this test well, we are morally certain of finding mineral water of the same quality and character as that, the discovery and utilization of which has given such an impulse to the prosperity of Ypsilanti.

No certificates of stock will be issued for the remaining $150,000 of capital, but the amount will be kept in the control of the directors of the company; and if the test well proves a success this stock will also be placed upon the market to raise funds to develop the well, provide a plant and distribute the gas through the town for fuel and manufacturing purposes, and our citizens will have an opportunity to purchase this stock of the directors upon equal terms.

The promoters of the company have already been to considerable expense—raised by subscription among themselves—and they have secured leases of nearly 5,000 acres of land in the vicinity of the city. They have secured also a franchise from the common council to lay pipes in the streets for fuel and manufacturing purposes, and have met all the expenses of incorporation, and they now ask the citizens of Ann Arbor to subscribe, as they feel able, for this stock, which is being sold to sink a test well, with the right to share in the profits of the enterprise should it prove successful.

Subscriptions will be received by any of the directors, and the stock secured at the store of Mr. Gruner. Several persons have already subscribed $50 each. In this matter loyal citizens of Ann Arbor can have no divided interest. If we pull together and each one pulls a little, we shall soon raise a sum sufficient to sink this test well; and it goes without saying that if the enterprise proves a success, as we have reason to believe it will, and natural gas be coupled with the other advantages of our beautiful city, our deserted streets will soon be filled with strangers seeking investments, and the market value of our real estate will double in a single day.

Thus can each citizen contribute his mite, with a fair chance of profit, towards that booming of the city for which the Business Men's association is so worthily striving.

LITERARY NOTES.

In the August Century General Joseph E. Johnston gives an inside view of his campaign in "Opposing Sherman's Advance to Atlanta;" Colonel Henry Stone describes "Hood's Invasion of Tennessee," after Johnston had been relieved and Atlanta had fallen. Colonel Stone's paper includes a description of the battles of Franklin and Nashville. Among the several interesting contributions to the "Memoranda on the Civil War" is a letter from General Grant, hitherto unpublished, in which he gives his reasons for according liberal terms to the Vicksburg garrison.

How Owosso Booms.

There is no denying the fact that Owosso is the liveliest and most enterprising little city in the state of Michigan. Five years ago less than 100 men were employed in manufactories. To-day there is over 1,100. During that time its population has more than doubled. Its valuation has increased accordingly. A village lot which was worth $150 five years ago is now worth nearly double that amount. Its increase, which has been almost phenomenal, has been the result of booming, not by a few merchants, but by the entire city. Whenever they saw a chance to secure a manufactory, the council appropriated money out of the city treasury for that purpose.

Judge Walker, of that place, now U. S. consul to Canada, was in the city last Friday, and in conversation with a REGISTER reporter gave the above facts. Speaking further on the subject the Judge said: "I consider that it is a wise movement; a few merchants should be called upon to furnish the capital for such a purpose; the taxpayers generally should contribute their share, because everyone has benefited accordingly. A large number of those employed in the various shops and factories are steady, sober men, save their earnings, and the most of them purchase a home of their own; so you see they soon become permanent fixtures, as it were. When we hear of a firm that wants to change its location, we write and make them an offer, and if they will come for a reasonable sum the council appropriates it out of the contingent fund. I doubt the legality of their having the authority to vote money for such a purpose, but where is the man that has got the nerve to get an injunction restraining them from doing so? Owosso is certainly taking the proper course, and Ann Arbor, or any other city that wants to grow, has got to do the same thing."

Hailed with Delight.

To the Editor:
The article in your issue of last week touching the "Washtenaw Fuel Gas Co.," their effort and intention to supply our city with fuel gas, was hailed with delight by our citizens. Anything that can be introduced, that will lessen the cost of living, either in fuel or labor, deserves practical and substantial encouragement. Therefore let the effort that is being made by the company in obtaining subscriptions for the stock (not contributions) be promptly and liberally responded to.

M'GARIGLE ESCAPES.

The Ex-Warden Gives Sheriff Matson the Slip.

He Is Allowed to Visit His Home, Is Permitted to Take a Bath, and Has Not Been Seen Since—A Vigorous Search Being Made.

WHERE IS M'GARIGLE? One who has escaped from the custody of Sheriff Matson Saturday night, and though a vigorous search is being made for him, in which the entire police and detective force has joined, he has not been found and no trace of him has been discovered.

He hastened to the Webster avenue police station and notified Sergeant Quirk of the misfortune that had befallen him.

State's Attorney Grinnell found time Sunday to explain his relations to McGarigle and the causes that led to the conviction of the man to see that his case was happily terminated.

Mr. Grinnell, in answer to a question, said he believed that the State could hold the bondsman on all the cases against McGarigle, and was sure that the bondsmen could not proceed against the sheriff.

The question of whether McGarigle, if he has succeeded in escaping to Canada, can be brought back to Chicago is susceptible of a great deal of doubt.

Commissioner Philip A. Hoyné was asked whether McGarigle could be brought back from British soil under the existing extradition treaty.

"Most certainly not," he said. "Does the fact that he has been actually convicted of the felony charged against him cut any figure?"

"Not at all; there are about five or six crimes for which he could be brought back. These include murder, arson, piracy, highway robbery, forgery and assault and battery. He has been convicted of neither of these, and therefore, in my opinion, his stay in Canada, if he is there, is likely to be unlimited."

The Experience of Mrs. Peters.

Mrs. Peters had ill, Mrs. Peters had chills, Mrs. Peters was sure she was going to die; They doted her with pills, With powders and squills, With remedies, and with remedies dry, Many medicines lured her, But none of them cured her, Their names and their number could tell; And she soon might have died, But some "Pellets" were tried, That acted like magic, and then she got well.

"There is a use for cats," says the Toronto Globe, "and a necessity for does; circumstances justify babies and throw a halo of extenuation about the milkman and the fishmonger, the scissor grinder and the meader of old umbrellas; but he that keepeth a peacock or a shrieking parrot within city limits is utterly without excuse."

A COSTLY STRIKE.

Figuring Up the Losses Caused by Weeks of Idleness. L. Bad Showing for Both Sides in the Pennsylvania Coke Regions—The Total Loss Placed at $2,000,000—Work Belms Resumed.

THE COST OF IDLENESS. PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 34.—The coke strike just ended was one of the most stubbornly contested battles ever fought between capital and labor. For eleven weeks and four days the fight went on, and now that it is over the feeling between the men and the operators is, if any thing, more cordial than it ever was before. The amount of money lost by the long idleness can not be accurately calculated, but it runs up into the millions. For six weeks the remaining 8,000 men in the region had money of their own, but very few of them have enough money now to take them out of the district if they wanted to leave.

For the first six weeks all of the 11,000 were striking. The average wages paid, including mine boys at 75 cents a day and coal-miners at from $2.50 to $5 a day, is $2.05. Counting at that rate, the good men lost during the first five weeks $553,600 in wages. Then A. Carnegie gave the advance, and 3,000 went to work. For six weeks the remaining 8,000 have been carrying on the strike, and have lost $443,800, making a total loss in wages of $997,400. If a sliding scale equal to 12% per cent advance is arranged for them it will take a year and nine months' steady work to make up for the time they have lost.

The operators have also been heavy losers. The pumps have been kept running at all the pits, yard and pit bosses, superintendents and clerks have been drawing salaries, and mules and horses have been getting fat on oats and hay that they did not earn. At West Leisenring, where the Pinkerton men have been stationed, the expense has been over $1,000 a day since the strike began. Besides this, the ovens have become cold and badly out of repair. Fully a third of them all over the region will have to be overhauled before coal can be put into them. Then, too, the coke trade has fallen off and it will take time and money to build it up again. It is estimated that the actual expense to the operators has been from $7,000 to $10,000 a day, while their loss entire will foot up to over $1,000,000.

Dispatches from the coke regions report that a large number of strikers have resumed work. At many of the works the strikers reported for duty, but would not go to work unless the non-union workmen were discharged. The operators refused to concede this and the men returned to their homes.

Silver Bullion Certificate. NEW YORK, July 23.—The new silver bullion certificates, each representing 1,000 ounces, issued by the Western National Bank were on Thursday placed on the regular list of the New York Stock Exchange, and are classed under "mining shares." A bid of 96 1/2 (96 1/2 cents per ounce) was made, and then a bid of 96 1/4. None was offered, however, except at 96 1/4, and at that price two sales of 1,000 ounces were made.

Failure of Chicago Printer. CHICAGO, July 24.—Friday afternoon one of the oldest printing houses in Chicago, the P. L. Hanscom Printing Company, 186 Monroe street, assigned for the benefit of its creditors to Benjamin F. Pfeiffer, the Hanscom Company is wide, long known in the United States and in foreign countries as manufacturers of druggists' gummed labels. The liabilities are estimated at about $35,000.

Wall Street Disturbed. NEW YORK, July 23.—H. Dun & Co.'s weekly trade review states that, with business progressing well throughout the country, crop prospects excellent, the iron production larger than at any previous period, and money in abundant supply, Wall street is disturbed because of the failure of the Ives syndicate to buy the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Pig-Iron Output. NEW YORK, July 24.—The total production of pig-iron in the United States during the past six months of the present year was 3,052,699 gross tons of 2,240 pounds, against 3,045,643 tons for the same time last year. The total production of steel rails for the year is estimated at 2,100,000 gross tons, against 1,574,703 gross tons in 1886.

A Train Fired Into. TERRY HAUTE, Ind., July 23.—Four tough-looking men put off the Vandalia train near Long Point, a few miles west of this city, opened on it with revolvers and sent a score of bullets whizzing through the coaches. No one was hurt, but all were badly frightened.

Declines to Run. DES MOINES, Ia., July 24.—Prof. S. N. Fellows declines the nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction given him by the Iowa Prohibitionists, intimating that there is no need for a third party, the Republicans having given the State an excellent law.

Charged with Drunkenness. ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 23.—At the inquest here yesterday touching the recent disaster to an excursion train, by which twelve persons were killed and 153 wounded, witnesses swore that the engineer was intoxicated and unfit to control his engine.

Iowa's Paupers. DES MOINES, Ia., July 22.—Returns made to the Governor show that the total number of paupers in the county poor-houses in this State is 1,271—an average of 17% to each county, or one in each thousand of the population. There are 64 veteran soldiers in poor-houses.

Entitled to Free Entry. WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Treasury Department has decided that animals of high grade and value, imported from Scotland or other distant countries for breeding purposes, are entitled to free entry under the tariff law, notwithstanding the fact that they may be intended for sale.

Anarchists Still Rampant. Chic'oo, July 26.—A detective named Nordrum obtained membership in a secret "group" of Anarchists and says secret meetings are being constantly held, and the reds are as violent and bloodthirsty as ever.

Killed by Sweetheart's Father. ZANESVILLE, O., July 22.—William George, a farm hand, living near here, killed James Scott, an old farmer, with an axe on Tuesday; because Scott had forbidden him to address his attentions to his daughter.

Eleren Italian Killed. HOBOKEN, N. J., July 22.—The Chicago express on the Erie railroad ran into a gang of Italian laborers yesterday between Allendale and Hohokus, killing eleven and mangling many others.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

Three Deaths Near Galena, Ill. Two in Ohio and One in Iowa. GALENA, Ill., July 26.—John H. Thomas, Clinton Thomas and Walter Hoobler, all of Hazel Green, Wis., members of a party of campers who passed through here yesterday morning for Crooked slough, near the mouth of the Galena river, were drowned at four p. m. at Smith's ferry on the Mississippi while bathing. The three unfortunates were drawn into an eddy. Search is being made for the bodies.

CLEVELAND, O., July 26.—Oliver and Elmer Brumbaugh, cousins, aged twenty and twenty-two years, sons of wealthy farmers living near Congress lake, were drowned Sunday afternoon while bathing in the lake. Neither could swim, and the jumped from a boat into ten feet of water. A companion tried, but failed, to save them.

CLINTON, Ia., July 26.—A boy named James Harrison was drowned in the Mississippi river here Sunday while bathing. He is the sixth victim this summer.

Sir., a Log Wag Very Seriously Injured. BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 26.—A message to Commander Sweetzer, of the Department of Illinois G. A. R., received yesterday from Dr. Roberts, of Carbondale, Ill., Mrs. General Logan's physician, says:

"Mrs. Logan's injuries are very serious. Today, for the first time since the injury, she was turned upon her right side with soft pads under her injured left arm. Her left shoulder was crushed by the wheel of the buggy running over it. The whole arm to the elbow is blackened from bruises, and the forearm to the wrist is slightly injured. Her head was stepped upon on its top and left side, the horse's shoe tearing the scalp loose in a concentric shape, making a wound three and one-half inches in length to the wheel. The skull is unharmed. She has suffered exceeding pain at the shoulder and along the course of the arm. We rejoice to say she is improving in every respect."

Cracked a Safe and Got $4,000. BESSEMER, Mich., July 26.—The Colby mines' safe was robbed of $4,000 Saturday night. Saturday was pay-day and over $30,000 had been distributed. There is generally about $10,000 in the safe after pay-day, as some men do not get their wages until Monday. There is no clew to the robbers.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY XI. KITTBIDGE. ANN ARBOR, MICH. TUES, MS: One Dollar per year in Advance; $1.30 if not paid hereafter after six months.

SLTHURSDAY, JULY 28, 1887.

THE republican state convention of Ohio met yesterday and completed its organization. Governor Foraker will undoubtedly be renominated by acclamation, and an excellent ticket throughout is assured.

LAHSING REPUBLICAN: The cost of strikes to the workington alone of the United States this year, so far is estimated at $10,000,000. This proves that the workington of the United States have more money to spare than those of any other country, or they couldn't afford to waste such a vast sum in six months for 8 single luxury.

JAMES WINNIE, a prominent greenbacker in central Michigan, thus expresses himself in regard to fusion, in his organ, the Grand Ledge VideUe: "Mr. Weston, the democratic state chairman, informs a Detroit reporter that there will be fusion between democrats and greenbackers in the next state contest. We beg leave to inform Mr. Weston that there will be no such a thing. The greenbackers are done with the democracy, once for all. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Dickinson may buy a few scalwags, but all self-respecting greenbackers say, most emphatically, no, and will stick to it."

THE Ohio democratic state convention held at Cleveland, Thursday, resulted in the nomination of Congressman Thomas E. Powell for Governor. D. Coolman, of Portage county was nominated for Lieutenent-Crovernor. The ticket was completed by the following nominations: For justice of the supreme court, long term, L. R. Critchfield, of Holmes county; for judge of the supreme court, short term, Virgil P. Kline, of Cleveland; for auditor of state, Etil Kiesewetter, of Franklin county; treasurer of state, George W. Harper, of Green county; attorney-general, Waa. H. Leet, of Ottawa county; member of board of public works, Peter J. Murphy, of Butler county.

IN spite of the intense heat, the base ball fever appears to rage with unabated force, and people rush to read the last ball reports with as much eagerness as if the fate of the nation depended upon the success of the club in which they are interested. The threatened European war is nothing in comparison. What makes it more interesting is that within the last week, Chicago has risen from fourth to second place in the league, and as matters now stand will make a hard fight with the Wolverines for the pennant—the pennant which Detroit came so near getting last year and failed. On the other hand, Detroit has been playing in hard luck lately: Twitchell's arm troubles him so that it is almost useless, Bennett's muscular rheumatism still has possession of him, and to cap this catalogue of misfortunes, Dunlop is on crutches.

THE New York correspondent of the Detroit Tribune interviewed Ex-Governor Alger, just before he sailed for England last Friday, on the presidential outlook. The ex-governor said: "Two months ago, while I was prepared for the renomination of Mr. Blaine, I was not prepared to say that I thought he was the strongest man for the party. I do think so now and say it unhesitatingly. He has done himself great credit abroad. I have at no time been opposed to Mr. Blaine's renomination, but I have been carefully studying the drift of things in order to make up my judgment as to what it is best should be done for the party. The people are for Mr. Blaine beyond any doubt. I have been about over the country a great deal, as you know, and I have found the same sentiment for him everywhere among the people. On the train coming to New York I met an old gray-haired and solid business man who told me that in 1884, in sheer disgust at politics, he had refrained from voting, although a lifelong republican. I asked him about the mugwumps. Said he: 'Some of them will stick to Cleveland, but some of them will vote for Blaine. I will work for Mr. Blaine's nomination in order to have an opportunity to vote for him.' The old gentleman told me that he found a general disgust of the administration after Cleveland put ex-rebels into the cabinet. There was not so much objection to his selection of southern men, because that was expected, but it was thought that he might have taken younger men, untainted by treason. With his record on pensions and rebel flags, this feeling has grown intense."

THE NEW MARRIAGE LAW.

The legislature of our state has taken an advance step in relation to the marriage question. Certain laws have been enacted upon this subject which seem to have been eminently needed and, we are asked by our authorities to call the attention of the officials who are qualified by the statutes to perform this service to acquaint themselves with the provisions of the act. There are not many changes from the old law to be noted, but one at least is radical and revolutionary. Under the old law the officiating clergyman or magistrate was held responsible for the entire contract. He was obliged to know that the parties were of the legal age to enter into the partnership, that there was no legal impediment to the union of the parties, that there was no blood relationship existing between them, and that there was no fraud intended or concealment designed. The penalty for the violation was a forfeit not exceeding five hundred dollars. Some of the provisions of this act were quite minute, as for example the specification six of the relationship within which the marriage contract was illegal. On the part of the man there are seventeen instances specified of such limitations, and as many on the part of the woman. Then there were other provisions equally minute and binding. In order to ascertain whether the parties came within the limits of the law, the official who was authorized to perform the ceremony might place them under oath and record their testimony.

That there was much carelessness in this matter is a well known fact. The clergyman or magistrate often took it for granted that the parties who presented themselves for marriage were legally qualified, and often no questions were asked. Sometimes there were difficulties in the way which were not easily removed. To be too minute in the investigation would imply discourtesy. And frequently there has been too much haste in the performance of the ceremony, which has led to subsequent censure.

There is one provision in the new act which goes into effect within a few weeks, which removes the responsibility out of the hands of the person who officiates and places it upon the civil officer. The parties proposing to enter into this contract are required to procure a license from an officer entitled to issue the paper by law. And with this document in hand they go to the clergyman, as before, which is his warrant to perform the ceremony. This is a new feature in our state, but has for some time been the practice in other adjacent states. It makes the whole transaction public from the beginning, and does away with all secrecy. There can be no more "quiet" marriages, and the request often made to the minister—"Please do not mention or publish this"—will be out of the question. It seems a little odd at the start, but will soon get used to it, as have our neighbors in Illinois and Ohio. Persons authorized to contract the marriage should procure a copy of the law at once, so as not to expose themselves to censure from violation.

MICHIGAN PENSIONERS.

The Number by Counties and the Aggregate Sum Paid Yearly.

The Washington correspondent of the Detroit Free Press gleaned the following figures, relating to Michigan pensioners, from the records of the Pension Bureau: During the late war Michigan was credited with having furnished 87,363 men. The total number of the citizens of the state whose names are borne on the pension rolls is 16,046, and they are paid each month $154,452.69, or every year $1,853,432.28. The largest number in any one county is in Wayne, where there are 1,054, and they receive each month $10,674.25, or every year $128,091. The following statement shows the number of pensioners in each county of the state, together with the amount received by them every month:

WALKING FOR PLEASURE.

(That VTeston, the Pedestrian, Says on the Subject—Some Good Hints.

"In the first place let me say that I have never been a trainer at all. My theory is that walking is natural for man, and the more artificial it is made, either by training or methods, the worse. If I had been a short distance walker I might have prepared myself for races in a different way, for in trying to make from one to ten miles in the quickest possible time one must utilize every device consistent with the rules of the sport to develop speed. In long distance walking it is endurance more than speed that is required, and, therefore, it is advisable to hamper nature with as few as possible of unusual conditions. When I have been announced for a long walk, a six days' contest, or a thousand mile walk, or something of that kind, I have for a month or so before it was to begin abstained from all but the simplest, most nutritious food. Never a piece of pie or cake, nothing alcoholic, no tobacco. For these things really add to the work the system has to do. I would advise young men who purpose taking a walking vacation—and there is no better way for city men to employ their brief summer outings—to adopt the same regimen. In fact, I have often thought it would be a capital idea to inaugurate a series of excursions for bank clerks, lawyers and other men of office occupations on the pedestrian plan. Let a score or so go in a party, taking the train to Albany, say, and then walking by easy stages to the Adirondacks and through the mountains. They would return in better health than they ever knew before."

"Did you practice to attain familiarity with a special stride, or would you advise such a party of young men to do so?"

"No, to both. I walked naturally. For the best walking the heel and toe formula is bad. It brings an unnecessary strain upon the tendons of the foot and in other ways is productive of bad results. If a man naturally walks with a short quick stride, let him continue to do so unhesitatingly. Wear light, broad shoes. The foot should lie flat and extended in the shoe with a close fit across the instep. There should be plenty of room for the air to go pumping up between the toes with every step. That is healthful and on a long walk cooling and comfortable. Even on a short walk one should not consent to wear the fashionable shoe that pinches the toes together."

"The care of the feet must be a matter of prime importance to young as well as experienced pedestrians, is it not?"

"Decidedly, and I think I can show that the strain of walking may be endured without annoyance by a natural weariness at the end of a day's journey. In the morning, before beginning the tramp, bathe in salt water. There is no need of expensive salt. Ten cents' worth of ordinary material is good and ample. Wipe dry, and then bathe in whisky or some oilier spirits. Repeat this treatment at the close of the day, and continue it regularly. I don't think there is a better remedy for weariness or a better safeguard against trouble. It is a point that cannot be emphasized too strongly to those who contemplate a long tramp. The strain comes heaviest on the feet, and they should be carefully looked after. But it is simple to do so if the treatment I recommend is faithfully attended to. Sleep is a matter that is likely to give great trouble. Unless a man gets a full and adequate amount of it every night he will break down soon on a walk."—New York Cor. Globe-Democrat.

That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peculiar, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling," is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." K. A. SAJTFOKD, Kent, Ohio.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass. "Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BAKBLINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

(Continued from p. 10.) The sailors on the gun-boats always seemed clean and well dressed, vid the deck and all parts of the vessel in sight appeared neat-and orderly. In more than one instance, too, it was noticed that Jack, having just de-c< his washing, had hung it out to dry upon a line stretched upon the gun-boat deck. Most of the gun-boats were heavily maled with iron, hence were called iron-dads. They were not all built after the same pattern, however.

Another kind of warlike craft were the tin-clods. These were ordinary steam boats protected with thin iron plating that was impervious to musket balls. These were armed with several light pieces of artillery and manned with a number of sharp-shooters. On the trip down the river several boats laden with troops were encountered. Toward noon on the second day Milliken's Bend, twenty miles above Vicksburg, on the Louisiana side, was reached, and here the regiment debarked and went into camp. The place selected was near the levee that all along the low lands next the river had been throwing up to protect the adjacent plantations in time of high water. In many places these had broken, and nearly the whole region was inundated; the bayous and lagoons had meantime grown into inland seas.

April 9, 1863 the division to which the writer's regiment belonged was reviewed by General Grant. The writer had never before seen that officer, and hence as near a view as possible was obtained.

He was on horseback, and attended by a few staff officers. As each regiment passed in his front the officers presented (raised) their swords, the men their pieces, in salutation. Grant, in recognition, quietly raised his hat. During the following three months General Grant became a familiar figure. At this time he was possibly a little heavier for his stature than the average man, yet was not at all overburdened with flesh. He wore short, stubby, slightly reddish-brown whiskers, and seemed to hold his head a little to one side; this gave him a modest appearance.

A large tent had been stretched, and in this upon cots the sick were placed and made as comfortable as possible. One thing they certainly had in abundance was fresh air. The water used came from the river which, at the time, was very high and full of sediment. A bucket of water dipped from it and allowed to stand awhile would have at its bottom more than an inch of settlements.

But Mississippi river water is considered healthy, and is quite pleasant in taste. Pretty soon after the review came an order to move—marching orders. The sick were directed to be all taken to a hospital-boat, by which they would be taken up the river. Accordingly they were put in ambulances and, in charge of the writer, taken to the place designated.

Already the writer has used several times the word ambulance; this, to the reader whose memory does not reach back to war time, may need explanation. An ambulance, then, is simply a light vehicle on springs with a shallow bed and a strong canvas cover over head. The back end-gate worked on hinges at the bottom so it could be instantly let down and the very sick or badly injured slipped out, and not lifted over avoidable obstructions.

As before said, the sick were put into ambulances, such as were being sitting on their blankets rolled up, those very sick lying upon their spread out.

A tram of ambulances loaded with sick made a dreary procession, but at the head of one of these the writer led the way to a hospital boat, named, if the writer's memory serves him well, the "D. A. January." Each sick man when taken aboard had his name checked. The name, rank, company, regiment, brigade, etc., were given carefully to the authorities on the boat.

After the sick were aboard and made comfortable, the writer took occasion to look about the boat and was much pleased. Although he had frequently visited the GENRAL GRANT.—From Photograph Taken During the Vicksburg Campaign. well-kept general hospitals of Memphis, never had he seen all arrangement for the sick so comfortable and convenient. Then the constant moving about, insuring continuous change of air, could not fail to be specially beneficial.

About the middle of April the whole command broke camp and started on the march. The regiment was brigaded with five or six others and had been assigned to General A. J. Smith, division of the Thirtieth Army Corps.

A brigade was made up of from three to six or seven regiments, a division of from two to four or five brigades, and an army corps of from two to five divisions.

Every regiment had two or three ambulances to carry the sick or disabled, several wagons to haul the tents and other camp equipage. As the war progressed, however, and the men gained experience in the field, the amount of baggage was reduced to a minimum and every man found it to his advantage to get along with the least possible in the way of clothing while in the field.

To each brigade was attached a battery. These when complete had six cannons and six caissons—ammunition wagons—to each of which were attached six horses. It will be thus seen that a division with its men marching in not very close ranks, its ambulances, wagons, batteries, etc., necessarily occupied a good deal of space when on the road. But in addition there was always a train of wagons besides, containing provisions, ammunition and necessary extra supplies.

To get this long line of men, wagons, batteries, etc., in proper order and in motion was no little task and often consumed no little time, and necessitated many false starts and sudden halts. To all this, however, the men soon became accustomed, and in a little while made good use of every halt by taking all the rest thus afforded.

Most of the section of country traversed was low, and the roads when not overflowed were either quite muddy or else very rough. In many places roads had to be made and bridges built; frequently, however, the road ran along the top of the levee as before said.

Here a stop of several days was made, and from a letter written from here Sunday, April 19, by the writer, the following extract is made: "There are a great many fine plantations through here; indeed through this part of the country there is nothing else but fine ones. Most of these have from thirty to fifty negro houses (quarters) on them.

"The planter usually lives in a one-story house with porches all around it. The plantations though are mostly deserted, only a few negroes remaining. It has been only three or four weeks since the first Federal troops came in here. One month ago the Secesh thought they were entirely safe here, but they were mistaken.

"Corn (April 19) is six inches high and has been plowed once, the forest is as green as it will be this year; roses and nearly all flowers are in full bloom.

"We are now encamped on a plantation owned by a man named Holmes—now a General in the Secesh army. This place contains nine hundred acres and is the smallest of four belonging to Holmes. He also owns four steamboats on the Mississippi river. On this plantation is a fine mill. Down here they have cotton-gins, trisid and saw-mills all under one roof."

The night of April 16, 1863, the six gun-boats, Benton, Louisville, Lafayette, Mound City and Carondelet, and the three transports, Forest Queen, Silver Wave and Henry Clay, ran the batteries at Vicksburg and Warrenton, a few miles below. All passed safely except the Henry Clay, which was destroyed.

The transports were loaded with army stores; their boilers were protected with cotton bales and bales of hay, and each had in tow one or more barges loaded with coal.

Every vessel was struck a number of times, but none save the Henry Clay received vital injury.

Regarding this occurrence the following extract is taken from a letter of April 19, 1863, written from Holmes' plantation, about twenty miles west of Vicksburg: "We are to march again in a few days; are going to Carthage, which is on the river below Vicksburg. Most of the heavy things, such as large tents, commissary stores, etc., were taken aboard transports to be conveyed down the river. These, of course, had to run the blockade at Vicksburg, and this they did last Thursday night (April 16). There were three (x) gun-boats and four (three) transports. We heard the firing very distinctly. One transport was burned."

The regiment, in common with the division, received marching orders the evening of April 24, and about eight o'clock at night got under way. The roads were rough and the night was dark, consequently one's footing was most uncertain. In the bayous all about the alligators made night hideous with their bellowing. All night the regiment marched, and next morning at six o'clock pulled up at Smith's plantation, two and one-half miles from New Carthage. Here the division went into camp, and, although two or three miles from the river, several steam-boats came in on a bayou and were near camp for a day or so.

Having met with such success running the blockade the night of April 16, the Federals resolved to attempt it again, consequently the next week a number of transport were loaded with stores and with their boilers and machinery well protected with baled hay and cotton again ran the blockade, losing only one vessel, the Tigress, if the writer's memory serves him well. The boats that came to Smith's plantation had been struck in a number of places and had portions of their pilot houses shot away. One boat was the Hiawatha and the other the Silver Wave.

While at Smith's plantation quite a little sensation was created from one of the soldiers receiving an accidental shot. Upon examination however it proved to be of little danger though received in the neck; it was from a revolver shot of such small caliber that but little injury was inflicted.

This was Sunday and is remembered as a warm, sultry day, the sun at one time shining bright, at another passing behind clouds. A little while before night, orders came to pack up and go on the march at once. The night was intensely dark and soon a drizzling rain began falling, but the men marched along as merry as could be, singing, whistling and cracking jokes. But after a time the pitchy darkness, wetting rain and rough roads took the merriment out of every one, and the march was continued till about one or two o'clock a. m., when the regiment was halted by the side of a rail fence, and the writer remembers sleeping sweetly on two fence rails for perhaps two hours and a half, when some coffee was hastily made and drank, and the march resumed at daylight.

It still rained and the roads were horrible, but the march was kept up all day, while the weather continued cloudy and rain fell at intervals. The country passed through was uninviting, and the bad roads and unpleasant day make the memory of this time any thing but pleasant. Wagons and artillery stalled and horses and mules mired down, and all had to be pulled and lifted out by hand.

Night at last came and the writer remembers feeling too tired even to sleep. Coffee was made and plenty of this drink, and in a short time renewed strength seemed to come. With the coffee was eaten hard bread and salt pork.

SECTION IX.—FIRST BATTLE BEFORE VICKSBURG.

While the fleet of gun-boats under Commodore Porter at Grand Gulf below Vicksburg engaged the enemy and McClelland's corps was seeking a landing near, upon the same date, April 29, 1863, Sherman debarked the Yazoo river at Haines' Bluff as if to attack the latter place while at the same time it was bombarded by eight gun-boats.

The whole demonstration at Haines' Bluff was only a feint intended to confuse the enemy and divert his attention from the real point of attack at Grand Gulf.

The Thirtieth corps effected a landing at Bruinsburg, Miss., April 30, and early on the morning of May 1 met most of Grand Gulf garrison (Confederate) under General Bowen, seven miles inland from Bruinsburg and within five miles of Port Gibson, the most important town in that vicinity and located on Bayou Pierre. The Federals were upon the southern side of this stream. To reach them the Grand Gulf garrison had to cross the bayou and as it was at the time high, they were obliged to go to the only bridge in the vicinity, the one at Port Gibson, but much of their way.

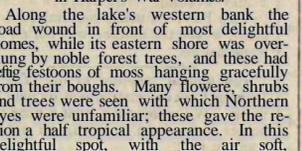

It had been the hope of the Federals to secure possession of this bridge before the arrival of the Confederates; and it was the hope of the latter to meet the invading column at or very near the landing place, Bruinsburg.

ber and woolen blankets were spread, and the sweetest sleep imaginable obtained.

The sun came out bright and warm next day, and for a long distance the road lay along the west bank of Lake St. Joseph, a most beautiful sheet of water, said to have been once the bed of the Mississippi. Upon the borders of this lake were several handsome residences. Two of unusual elegance are in particular called to mind; one belonged to a Dr. Bowie, and was furnished in most elaborate style.

This, as well as the other fine residences, was vacated by the owner.

The Bowie house was burned some weeks later, about the time Sherman's corps came along.

GENERAL JOHN A. LOGAN.—From a Portrait in Harper's War Volumes. Along the lake's western bank the road wound in front of most delightful homes, while its eastern shore was overhung by noble forest trees, and these had left festoons of moss hanging gracefully from their boughs. Many flowers, shrubs and trees were seen with which Northern eyes were unfamiliar; these gave the region a half tropical appearance. In this delightful spot with the air soft, balmy and filled with the fragrance of flowers, birds singing, and so much to please the senses, the writer thought he never had looked upon so much of blooming, sunny, delicious, glorious nature.

It was, indeed, a perfect specimen of the Sunny South.

A real little paradise, and as such was no doubt regarded by its wealthy residents, who only a few weeks before felt as secure from invasion as the residents of the North.

The region being in a great degree isolated, in a low level section of country that had to be protected from overflow by levees was, particularly in a season remarkable for high water, deemed safe from all invasion, if not indeed proof against it.

But the persistent Grant had decreed it otherwise, and now long and formidable columns of energetic and hardy Northerners, were making their way through the very heart of this enchanting country.

So impenetrable was the locality deemed by the Confederates, that Pemberton, it was said, to the last persisted in the belief that the movement was not in force and was only a feint, and intended as a diversion from a serious attack on Vicksburg from some other quarter.

The 29th of April the Mississippi was reached at Hard Times Landing, nearly opposite Grand Gulf. Just below the latter place is De Shroon's plantation, and thither the column marched after a short stop at Hard Times. The line led in sight of Grand Gulf, into which our gunboats were seen throwing shells; the firing was very deliberate, and at the time was not responded to by the Confederates. The navy however failed to reduce the works.

About 10,000 troops belonging to the Thirtieth Corps had gone aboard transports at New Carthage, some twenty or thirty miles above. A landing place for these was sought above Grand Gulf, on the Mississippi side, but none being found they debarked at Hard Times after night fall, and quietly marched across the peninsula, on the Louisiana shore, opposite the rebel stronghold.

Meantime the navy engaged the Confederate batteries, during which the loaded transports ran by. The writer's regiment was encamped a few miles below, and the cannonading made a terrific noise. Whether it came from the heavy caliber of the guns engaged or from the peculiar state of the atmosphere, the writer can not say, but never did the terrific din of cannonading strike his ears with such force. Every shot, too, seemed to have a peculiar ringing sound that was piercing in its effect upon the organs of hearing. As before stated, the writer's regiment encamped the night of the 29th of April at De Shroon's plantation below Grand Gulf on the river.

Very early on the morning of April 30 the gun-boats and transports, both alive with soldiers, were seen on the river.

These moved over towards the Mississippi shore, and the writer remembers almost shuddering with fear lest they would be fired into from the adjoining hills. The boats all moved down the river about six miles and landed at Bruinsburg.

The hospital department did not go aboard a boat till near nightfall, and, having been informed that all would remain on board over night, the writer, feeling much fatigued, with a companion stretched himself upon two cotton bales lying side by side and slept sweetly till early dawn, when it was found that the boat, having dropped down the river during the night, was then tied up at Bruinsburg.

Word was received to join the regiment at once, then in Una upon the shore and ready to march inland, where it was said a battle was already in progress.

While the fleet of gun-boats under Commodore Porter at Grand Gulf below Vicksburg engaged the enemy and McClelland's corps was seeking a landing near, upon the same date, April 29, 1863, Sherman debarked the Yazoo river at Haines' Bluff as if to attack the latter place while at the same time it was bombarded by eight gun-boats.

the Federals in force on high ground. So much for what immediately preceded the battle of Port Gibson. As narrated in the previous number, the night of April 30 the writer had slept beside a companion aboard a river boat upon two bales of cotton, and at early dawn next morning went ashore with his companion and joined the regiment then falling in line two or three hundred yards distant. The writer had just reached the regiment when, putting his hand in his pocket, he found that three or four dollars in money, all he had, was gone. He spoke of his misfortune, and received a lecture from Wigton, his companion of the night previous, and some twenty or thirty voars his senior

The way Summer Silks went out the past ten days is a caution. Pulling, picking, cutting all day long. Some of the patterns are out, but the assortment is still good.

All Summer Silks that were $1 and $1.25, now 55c.

All Summer Silks that were 50c and 60c, now 35c.

12 1-2c Satens. American, of course, but when before could you see such a 12 1-2c worth in Satens? There's witchery in the blended tints, in the odd forms and in the soft, shiny finish. Twenty, maybe fifty patterns, new, neat, varied to suit every taste.

Batistes, dainty as ever, well liked as ever, as fine as were ever made, 12 1-2c; they have been 16c. A dozen Styles: Blocks and dabs and pretty patches of color scattered on white and cream grounds. At the Parasol counter, yesterday, it looked as if the season were just opening. New Parasols at about half price. Don't go a begging.

Ladies' Linen Handkerchiefs, woven colored borders, 10c each. You have paid 20c each for no better.

Ladies' colored Collars and Cuffs at half price.

SEERSUCKERS.

There are dozens of styles in which beauty seems to have been the last thing thought of. You'll think so when you see them in the piece; but who ever saw an ugly Seersucker when made up? The 9 cent Crinkles have been 12c and this week the 2c are 12c and this week the 2c are 12c and this week the 2c are 12c.

CORDED GINGHAMS.

Among the newest, naggiest, neatest of the Cotton novelties. You'll likely think they're from Paris. The idea is; there's French fancy in every pretty thread, but the word is Yankee. Price 12c cents for 20.

PERCALE. The tough, yard wide "shirting" so many ladies are buying. Forty to fifty styles. 12c cents for 16.

The installation will take place at the meeting next Tuesday evening.

This bit of news from the Dexter Leader, will be a surprise to the people of Ann Arbor, the electric light company, and even Mayor Smith himself. "The Mayor of Ann Arbor has vetoed the electric light resolution, adopted by the common council of that city, but his veto will probably be voted down. His veto was sent by mail from the sea shore, where his honor is taking it easy." Guess Bro. Allen got things mixed a little.

Saline Observer: Mrs. Niblack, an old lady of about 70 year?, who lived alone at Pennington's corners, was found dead in her house, Sunday morning. The last time she was seen alive, she was at work in her garden last Friday morning, and the neighbors becoming anxious about her visited her house with the above result. Her body was found lying partly on a bed, and was badly decomposed. Her funeral occurred the same day.

Fish and game warden Imus: "I wish you would say in THE REGISTER that according to the law it is unlawful to kill or destroy in any manner whatever, or attempt to take or destroy any wild turkey, at any time, except in the months of October, November and December of each year, or kill or destroy by any means any woodcock, or any partridge or ruffed grouse, or any wild duck, wild goose, or other wild water-fowl, save only from the first day of September in each year to the first day of January next following."

Last week a party of Clifton and Jackson house guests spent a very pleasant evening at Kearney's, in Webster. They were accompanied by the Spanish Student orchestra, of Ohio, who discoursed merry strains of music for the dancers. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Among those present were the Misses Drake, Wing, Al. C. Sheehan and wife, John Slattery and Mr. Duffy, of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Ross and daughters, of Detroit; Miss Simon, of Cleveland; Mr. Ward and sister, the Misses Smith and Byrne, of Jackson.

By reference to the report of the meeting of the Business Men's Association, held last Friday evening, it will be seen that the council will be asked to submit a proposition to the voters of Ann Arbor to raise $5,000 to aid the association in securing manufacturing facilities. The securing of manufacturing facilities will benefit the laboring man, the real estate owner, the merchant and every one who expects to make this city their home. A few men should not be asked to furnish all the capital. Every taxpayer should contribute his share. The council should submit the proposition, and then it should be carried by a rousing majority.

Under the head of "Michigan Pharmaceutical Association," in the Western Druggist, we find the following item concerning one of our well known druggists: "Though the surface of ex President Brown's head may be a barren waste, the inside contains material which instantly evolved the following: 'These remarks,' said the toastmaster at the banquet, facetiously, as he took his seat, 'are given to Mr. Brown, who will respond as a cue.' 'Thank you, Mr. Toastmaster,' said Mr. Brown as he arose, 'you see from my head that a quee is what I need more than anything else.'"

The lovers of base ball have been actively engaged the past week organizing a base ball club, and so far have succeeded beyond their expectation. If interest enough can be awakened an effort will be made to secure games with clubs in the northern league with a view to entering it next spring. If the games they play this fall are well patronized this will be done, and if they are not no effort whatever will be attempted in the spring to secure admission to the league. A board of directors has been elected consisting of the following gentlemen: Thomas Bonner, president; C. O. B'ush, secretary; Bert Schumaker, treasurer; H. D. Merrithew, corresponding secretary; and Wm. Wanzick.

A young man, giving his name as J. A. Howard, was arrested in this city Saturday night for forging a check for $35.50 at Manchester, in the morning, on J. Ellis & Co., of Toledo, which firm he claimed to represent. J. S. Cole, who is the complaining witness, met the young man in Manchester and after a brief acquaintance identified him at the bank and endorsed the check. They both came to this city on the evening train, but Mr. Cole's suspicion began to rise, and when he reached this city he telegraphed to the Toledo firm, only to find out that they had no knowledge of such a person. Mr. Cole then swore out a warrant and had him arrested. Howard's relatives arrived in the city last night, and the matter will probably be settled, as it is the young man's first offense.

In the present state of the weather, the only thing that offers unmitigated satisfaction is the water works. If there is anything we want in abundance in warm weather, it is water. It is not strange, then, that the water works have so easily found a place in our affections. Now that we have them we do not see how we could even have got along without them. Formerly the man of the house, after he had taken his evening meal, went out on the porch, lighted his cigar and read the evening paper. Now on the contrary, he goes very solemnly out, turns on the water and indulges a half hour in the unexampled pleasure of wetting down his front yard. As the cool stream gushes forth, diffusing everywhere a delicious sense of coolness and refreshment, he is inclined to believe that life is worth living, even at a temperature of ninety degrees in the shade—when he ha9 water works.

Any party having a house to rent of 8 or 10 rooms, within 4 or 6 blocks of the court house, can learn of a good tenant by calling at THE REGISTER office.
