ANN ARBOR'S INDUSTRIES

WHAT THEY ARE LIKE AND WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

A Brief Review of the Manufacturing Industries of this City.

THE REGISTER takes pleasure in laying before its readers today a brief description of the manufacturing industries of Ann Arbor.

Although the showing is not as large as in many cities of this size that depend more exclusively upon manufacturing, and have not the great educational institutions that are a source of considerable income and furnish a living to many shopkeepers, boarding house keepers and people of that class, yet it is very creditable, and a fair start for the better advantages in this line that the city will soon have if the business boom that is now started continues to grow as it should.

One of the noticeable features of the manufactures is that they are all in a healthy and growing condition. With the showing made below, and the very flattering prospect for the future, Ann Arbor will soon be the leading manufacturing city in southeastern Michigan. The natural facilities which the city offers to those seeking locations are attracting a large number of people here, and it can be fairly said that Ann Arbor is entering a new epoch in her history. One of the largest institutions in the city, and which our people justly take pride in showing to their friends, is the

MICHIGAN FURNITURE COMPANY.

This company occupies four large buildings on the south-east corner of Williams and West Fourth-st. The business was started several years ago by John Keck, which he ran until about seven years ago, when a stock company was formed and the Keck Manufacturing Company succeeded him. The business was continued under this name until a year ago, when the name was changed to the Michigan Furniture Company. Their works consist of four large buildings, one 40x80, three stories high, which is used as a store room, and for packing and finishing. Another one, also a three-story building, is 40x70, which is used for manufacturing the furniture. Two other buildings, 30x40 each, two stories high, are used for store rooms. All of the modern improvements for manufacturing furniture are used by this company. They confine themselves to making bedroom suits, nothing but the very best material is used and they are finished in the latest style. They employ 75 men, and their pay roll amounts to $800 per week. Three men are kept on the road, selling goods, and occasional trips are also made by "the superintendent", Paul Snaube and Melvin Bliss. Their business last year amounted to over $54,000, and they expect to exceed this amount the present year.

ANN ARBOR AGRICULTURAL WORKS

Is another institution which is numbered among the prosperous ones in the city. The company dates its origin from 1860, when Lewis Moore & Son commenced the manufacture of wheat drills, plows, etc. The business continued this way until eight years ago, when a stock company was formed, the capital stock being fixed at $5,000. The works were enlarged, new machinery put in, etc., and mowing machines, hay tedders, straw-cutters, etc., were added to the list of implements manufactured. The company occupy four large buildings, and employ 50 men, which requires about $300 every Saturday to pay them off. The wood work and painting is done in a three-story building 40x100 feet; the plow department occupies a building 40x80 feet; for the machine shop a three-story building 30x113 feet is required; for the foundry a building 55x103 feet is used. Besides the four large buildings there are two large sheds used for storing lumber, a store room and an office. They ship their goods to all parts of the United States, the state of Missouri being their best market. A. S. Smith in Philadelphia, however, is their best customer, their accounts, in the course of the year amounting to about $20,000. Their business is constantly increasing, which is due in a large measure to the enterprise of the superintendent, Eli Moore. Last year a dividend of eight per cent was declared, which shows it to be a growing condition.

Another institution which the people of Ann Arbor point to with considerable pride is the

FERGUSON SPEEDING CART MANUFACTORY.

Which is of a recent date in Ann Arbor, is Ferguson is the patentee of the cart, which he manufactures in the two buildings formerly occupied by B. F. Arksey, in Detroit-st, and is today one of the leading carts on the market. He began to manufacture them in September last, in a factory, but his business room outgrew the facilities, and in March of this year he moved to this city, where he has met with excellent success. At present he employs 27 men, who draw $175 every Saturday, 9 of whom are in the blacksmith shop, 8 in the paint shop, 1 each in the wood work and trimming departments. From 12 to 15 carts are turned out per week, and Mr. Ferguson expects to make, during the present year, at least 3,000. At least twice this number could be sold if he had the room and facilities for manufacturing them. Today he is 150 orders ahead, besides a large number which he received early in the spring which he does not expect to fill. The carts are shipped to all parts of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the lakes to the Gulf.

THE ANN ARBOR TANNING COMPANY

Is a company composed of energetic men, which is making rapid strides towards the front rank in its line of goods. They are constantly increasing their business and adding new machinery, which shows that they are pushing ahead. They are not running their full capacity, at present, which is 3,000 hides per year, but expect to in a very short time. At present they are turning out 100 sides per week (50 hide?), for which they find a ready sale at the highest market price, owing to the superior quality of their leather. Ten men are employed in the departments and the treasurer has to come down every Saturday night with $100 to pay them off, in order to keep harmony in the camp.

KUEBLER & GRUNER

is another firm who commenced the manufacture of bed room sets in this city about four years ago. They occupy a two-story building, 40x80 feet, at the corner of Madison and Fourth sta. They are well provided with all the modern machinery, which requires the services of a 40-horse power engine. They employ nine men, besides two men on the road, to whom they pay $100 every week. Their business has steadily increased from the start. They are going on the "slow but sure" policy, and every dollar they make they add to the business.

THOMAS RAUSCHENBERGER & CO.

is the name of a firm that manufactures furniture on Wines-st, in the Second ward. The business was numbered among the early manufactures, of Ann Arbor, but it has been conducted by the above named firm since 1878. They confine themselves mostly to making furniture to order. Their specialty, however is book cases and side boards. They occupy two large buildings and employ eight men at an expense of $80 per week.

ANN ARBOR ORGAN WORKS.

If there is any one particular business in Ann Arbor which needs the attention and encouragement of our citizens, it is the above works. The proprietor, D. F. Allmendinger, is an industrious and hard working man. He first commenced to manufacture organs in this city in 1872, and since then been constantly but slowly increasing it, until now he employs ten men, at a weekly cost of $100. Mr. Allmendinger expects to manufacture at least 100 organs the present year. He is constantly behind on his order, which fact, itself, speaks volumes for the superior tone and quality of his organ. We know of no better method to further increase the manufacturing industries of Ann Arbor, than for capitalists to form a stock company and push this business for all there is in it. Mr. Allmendinger has recently made a few pianos which have been highly spoken of by musicians as having a very fine tone.

WALKER BROTHERS.

is the name of a firm which commenced to make carriages in this city, about twenty years ago. Today they are one of the manufacturing firms of the city. In 1871 they erected a large three-story brick building on West Liberty-st, where they are now located and doing a fine business. They are supplied with all the latest improvements for manufacturing carriages, and all the material used in them is of A. No. 1 quality. A water motor is used to run their machinery, with which they do all their polishing and filing. Their business has steadily increased for the past few years, which is a testimonial that the carriages they manufacture are of a superior grade, and today they are 50 orders behind. They employ 19 men, seven in the blacksmith shop, three at wood work, four trimmers, and five painters. From 15 to 20 carriages are manufactured each week, and the firm expect to largely increase their business for next season's trade.

Z. WAGNER & BROTHERS.

This enterprising firm began the manufacture of carriages, in this city, in 1873. Their present location is a two-story brick building at No. 37 and 39 Second-st. Besides turning out a large number of carriages each year, they do a large amount of custom work. They are continually behind with their orders, and the probabilities are that next summer an addition will be built to their works which will enable them to employ more help, and thus largely increase their business. At present they have 10 men in their employment, at an expense of $150 per week.

FLOURING MILLS.

Few cities in the state have finer or larger flouring mills than has Ann Arbor. Not a car load of wheat is shipped out of this city in the course of the year, but instead several thousand bushels are shipped here from points on the Michigan Central, and Toledo & Ann Arbor railroads, to be ground into flour. Ann Arbor flour is becoming quite famous as an A. No. 1 quality, and it is now shipped to nearly every eastern and southern state.

Swathel, Kyer & Peterson are the largest millers. Their average is about 1,300 barrels per week. Their business is steadily increasing and this year it will be over $400,000. It takes 13 men to carry on their work in the mill, which makes a pay roll amounting to $130. They also have a cooper shop in connection with their mill, in which they employ eight men at an expense of $80 per week. Allmendinger and Schneider manufacture about 900 barrels of flour per week, besides a large amount of mill feed. They run their mill to its fullest capacity, and had they the room their business would far exceed what it is at present, as their flour finds a ready sale in any market where it has ever been used. They employ 13 men in the mill and nine in the cooper shop, to whom they pay $200 of their profits every week.

J. M. Swift & Co., proprietors of the Sinclair Mills furnish about 1,000 barrels of flour consumed in the United States every week. Like the other mills they find a ready sale for all of their flour, and the want of room is all that keeps them from increasing their business. They have 20 men in their employ to whom they pay about $200 per week.

SAFETY DOORS AND BLINDS.

There are three planing mills in Ann Arbor, all of which manufacture sash, doors, blinds and other material used in building houses. There are none of them very large nor employ a great many men. The latest and most improved machinery has been placed in all of them which has reduced the manual labor so much that a few men are able to turn out a large amount of work.

Luick Bros., on Fifth st, have been in the business for a number of years and by their courteous manner and fair dealing have won the confidence of those who do business with them. They employ eight men, at an expense of $75 per week.

Herman Krapf has been running the Detroit st planing mill for about eight years, and probably will for many years to come. He employs only four men and his pay roll amounts to only $40 per week.

John Armstrong, with the aid of six men, does his share of the work. He purchased the planing mill on Depot-st about three years ago, and since that time his business has steadily increased. His pay roll amounts to about $60 per week.

Besides the forgoing industries, there are the pulp mill, the capsule factory, two cigar factories, two breweries, and several smaller concerns which employ numerous hands.

A Worthy Project.

At the recent semi-centennial jubilee of the University the society of alumni unanimously decided to raise a fund for the establishment of one or more fellowships at the University. In the hurry and confusion of reunions it was possible to read, but a small number of the alumni present, and the following persons were appointed a committee to take the matter in charge, and carry it forward: Thomas W. Palmer, '49; Volney M. Spaulding, '73; Lucy M. Salmon, '76; George W. Knight, '78; C. J. Scroggs, '84. The committee have just issued the following circular, setting forth their reasons why such fellowships should be established:

1. The existence of such fellowships at other universities has enabled students, who as undergraduates have shown marked proficiency in special lines of study and research, to continue those studies for a longer period to great advantage. Of such fellowships, for example, Harvard has 13, Johns Hopkins 20, Cornell 8, Bryn Mawr 6. Michigan University has none.

2. The need of such fellowships at Ann Arbor is evident from the fact that several of our alumni have been awarded fellowships at other universities, from which they have stepped into positions reflecting credit upon them and us. Among the fellowships thus held at various times by Michigan alumni are seven at Johns Hopkins, seven at Bryn Mawr, one at Cornell and one at Harvard.

3. As our Alma Mater thus labors under a disadvantage as compared with other institutions, no more fitting tribute can be offered by the alumni in this jubilee year than a fund for the establishment of such fellowships.

4. It is proposed to raise funds for one or more fellowships of eight thousand dollars each, the income of which ($400) shall be awarded to a post-graduate student to encourage him to pursue at the University advanced work in his chosen field; the award of the fellowship to be made each year by the Faculty in accordance with conditions determined by the alumni.

The Capsule Factory.

The effort which has been made by several of our enterprising citizens for the past few weeks, to form a stock company to erect a building for the capsule factory, has finally come to a successful termination. The articles of incorporation have been filed, and the officers elected, and all that now remains to be done is to select a site, and put up a building. By the articles of incorporation, the following gentlemen are named as directors for the ensuing year: H. S. Dean, Frederick Schmid, Thos. J. Keech, H. J. Brown and C. B. Hiscock. At a meeting of the directors this morning the following officers were elected: President, H. S. Dean; vice-president, Thos. J. Keech; secretary and treasurer, Chas. E. Hiscock. Literary Notes.

The Art Interchange, of July 16, gives us its extra supplement a bold and brilliant study of oranges, both fruit and blossom. This is an admirable example of the modern method of water color painting and is inculcated of benefit to the student. It is published as a companion to a study of apples issued earlier in the year. Another extra supplement in black and white, entitled "The Watering Trough," is a very charming composition, showing the courtyard of an inn. The principal figure is that of a lady alighting from a white horse. Serving maids in picturesque costumes, horses, dogs and attendants, make up a very pretty picture. The other illustrations consist of a vase decoration, a charming floral design for wharf scene, sweet pea design for plate (one of the series), a bold design showing lions rampant, suitable for wood carving; a dainty little figure sketch in Continental costume, for decorating menu cards; outline design showing child's head, very suitable for general decorative work; floral landscape designs, suitable for screens, tea service, plaques, vases and panels.

The notable features of the August Wide Awake are the first of a series of sketches of Old Concord and a paper on Summer Sports, both illustrated.

The village where the first battle of the Revolution was fought has been written and pictured and guide-booked until the subject is hackneyed; but nothing is fresher than unexpected news of a sleepy old relic, Margaret Sidney, the writer, lives in "Wayside," the home of Nathaniel Hawthorne, next door to the Alcotts, a mile from Concord bridge, towards Lexington. What an inspiration! But she slights the expectation of patriotic eloquence, drives about in her easy phaeton, taking a friend along to hear the gossip of those who live in the air of a hundred years ago. And you who read are the friend in the phaeton.

Summer Sports is by Elbridge S. Brooks (late of the St. Nicholas staff), who shines in vacation as well as in his more accustomed work. He gets into half-a-dozen pages practical clues to croquet, bowls, hare and hounds, canoeing, tennis, badminton, quoits, ball-in-the-hole, with bare mention of boating, fishing, swimming, camping, tramping, bicycling, photography.

Charles Egbert Craddock goes on a conch and trees a panther in the "Story of Keodon Bluffs"—her second young folks' story [both of them written for Wide Awake]. There are lone; stories by Catherine Wood, Davi*, Champ Hart; poems: short ones by Mitchell, Harty; poems, sketches, skits, biographies, peeps at the Zoo.

The moral courage that will face obloquy in a good cause is a much rarer gift than the bodily valor that will confront death in a bad one.—Chatfield.

It is said on the authority of the druggists that Moxie Nerve Food is taking the place of fancy liquors and wines, and it has the happy faculty of being a better drink, stopping the appetite for liquor, having no morbid appetite and is harmless as gruel. What is worse all the clergy use and endorse it with the same down. There is good reason to believe that it stops the nervous, tired habit in women and gives almost double power of endurance; as they so state it themselves. It will save the medical drugging to build up. Contains no opium, alcohol or poison.

There is no passion that steals into the heart more perceptibly and covers itself under more disguises than pride.—Addison.

ALL FOUND GUILTY.

Verdict of the Jury in the Chicago "Boodler" Oases.

Wren, Van reit, Varneli, Ochs, Washerman, McClaujehrey and Leyden Get Two Years Each—The Others Are Fined $1,000 Each.

THE END REACHED.
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The trial of the Cook County boodlers closed last evening with a verdict of guilty against all of the defendants. At three o'clock in the afternoon the jury retired to make up its verdict, returning at 8:50 o'clock with a verdict of guilty, fixing the punishment of Leyden, Ochs, Van Pelt, Wasserman, Varneli, Wren and McClaujehrey at two years imprisonment each, and imposing a fine of $1,000 each upon Casselman, Geils, McCarthy and Oliver. The defendants sentenced to imprisonment were to be jailed removed from the court-room to the jail.

The verdict gives universal satisfaction excepting in the cases of McCarthy and McClaujehrey. It was generally supposed that the latter would be let off lightly, while the former would be among those heavily sentenced. The public would have been better pleased had these two exchanged places.

There are sixty-eight boodler indictments as yet untried, and in all of them at least one of the men recently tried is defendant. Most of them are, however, for conspiracy, and in these, if the State's Attorney elects to go on with their trial, the plea will be set up that the defendants can not twice be put in jeopardy for the same offense. But there is a class of indictments, wherein the plea would be of no avail, Leyden, Wasserman, McCarthy, Ochs, Wren, Van Pelt, Hannigan, McClaujehrey and Lynn are all indicted jointly with Michael Costelloe in what are known as the coal cases. Here the charge is not conspiracy, but bribery, and that being a distinct offense no plea of previous conviction can be set up.

There are also a number of indicted people whose cases have not been either brought to trial or a nolle prosequere entered. These are Richard O. Driscoll and James Connolly, employees at the hospital; E. A. Robinson, the grocer; Napoleon Barsaloux, the furniture-dealer; Edward Phillips, the court-house custodian; William Harley, the contractor; H. L. Holland and L. P. Crane, paint case; Hyly Kelly, the sewer contractor; Gustave A. Busse, the hardware dealer; C. A. Hendricks, J. Buckley and P. Mahoney, the court-house carpenter work job; M. Costelloe, the coal contractor; John G. Lobsenz, contractor; W. H. Gray, the artisan-well job; Chris Kelting, James Murray and Michael Hennessey, the insane asylum kitchen work; Thomas Middleton, a carpet-cleaner; Levi Windmuller, a grocer; G. M. Gunderson, contractor for janitor work; Frank Murphy, employee at the asylum; Charles C. Warren, electric-light deal; Rush K. Warner, roofer; A. J. Walker, F. R. Murphy and J. J. Hayes.

Powderly on Unrestricted Immigration.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—In the Journal of United Labor, Mr. Powderly, speaking of indiscriminate immigration, says that it is one of the most serious dangers to the Republic, and one of the knottiest problems for our statesmen to solve. The working people already here are elbowing each other in an uncomfortable manner. If the foreign contract labor could be stopped, and only those who intended to assume the responsibilities of citizenship admitted, the outlook would not be so dark, for the rawest material may become refined in time.

The Labor Vote in Ohio.
CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—The Enquirer recently sent out a circular to all its correspondents in Ohio instructing them to ascertain the probable strength of the Union Labor party at the coming election. Judging from the counties reported the labor men will poll from 40,000 to 50,000 votes in the State. The indications are that seventy-five per cent of the vote will come from the Democrats and twenty-five from the Republicans.

Prohibition in Texas.
GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 8.—The complete returns received from 451 voting precincts in the State, including all the large cities and places convenient to telegraphic transmission, place the total majority for State prohibition at 50,504, and the total majority against State prohibition at 60,805. This indicates that the amendment has been defeated in the whole State by over 100,000 votes.

To Operate Minnesota Gas Wells.
ALBERT LEA, Minn., Aug. 9.—Natural gas has for some years been known to exist in many localities around here. Several small wells have been struck, which were regarded as curiosities and never turned to any account. Now a company has been formed to operate gas wells on 10,000 acres of land, and it proposes to light and heat Albert Lea and neighboring cities.

Died in Poverty.
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Viscount Forth, heir presumptive to the Earldom of Perth, peacemaker of Scotland, died in a public hospital here on Saturday. He ran away from home with a nurse girl in 1871, whom he subsequently married. Appeals for help to his home were in vain, and his health breaking down he died in poverty.

Fatal Fire in London.
LONDON, Aug. 8.—Whitley's dry-goods house in this city was burned Saturday evening. An accident occurred at the fire by which five persons were instantly killed and several fatally injured. The financial loss by the fire is $1,250,000. This is the third time the establishment has burned in as many years.

Justice Craig Denies H.
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The following telegram was received in this city Thursday from Justice Craig, of the Supreme Court: "OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 4.—I have made no statement to any person in regard to the result of the Anarchist case now pending in the Supreme Court. A. M. CHAILO."

Death of a Pioneer.
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Aug. 9.—John Jordan, one of the oldest settlers of this city, died Saturday. He was born in South Carolina in 1794, and when eighteen years old was a member of Daniel Boone's company, organized to protect the early settlers from the Indians.

Killed His Father.
FULTON, MO., Aug. 9.—Mentor Smith, a ten-year-old boy, living near here, has been arrested for shooting his father, Herson Smith. He says that he was persuaded to do it by his sister and a colored boy, and that his father did not treat him well.

The Fire Record.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The fire losses in the United States and Canada during July aggregated $14,076,500, double the average loss for July in the past twelve years. The total loss for the past seven months is $78,928,100, against $63,900,000 for the first seven months of 1886.

WIND AND WATEK.

These Elements Cause Great Destruction of Property.

Various Portions of the Country Feel Their Power—Crops Ruined, Buildings Wrecked and Trees Blown Down—Several Lives Lost.

TOLEDO, AUGS. AND FLOODS.
CHARLESTON, Ill., Aug. 6.—A cyclone visited the western and northern part of this county yesterday afternoon, doing considerable damage to fences, barns, trees, etc. The barn and broom-com sheds of Mr. George Shinn, near Loxa, were lifted from their foundations and carried twenty feet. There was no loss of life.

DELPHI, Ind., Aug. 6.—A terrific wind, rain and hail-storm, sweeping over the southern part of the county yesterday afternoon. Scarcely a stalk of corn was left standing in the track of the storm. Fences were blown down and many barns unroofed. It resembled a cyclone, and covered an area one-half mile wide.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 6.—A terrific wind-storm yesterday did great damage to the outbuildings, shade trees, telephone and telegraph wires and growing crops.

KEWANEE, WIS., Aug. 6.—One of the severest hail-storms ever experienced here passed over this section Thursday evening, continuing about fifteen minutes. The ground was covered with ice pellets, some of which were double the size of marbles. Many windows were broken and an immense amount of damage was done to standing grain.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 8.—A terrible storm, amounting almost to a cyclone, passed over this city Friday night, doing a vast amount of damage. The western part of the city was inundated. A 1500 barrel tank of oil belonging to the Eclipse Oil Company was fired by a Hash of lightning, and for a time threatened the destruction of the entire oil works, the largest in the world. The loss by the fire will reach $20,000. Several persons were hurt.

MADRID, Aug. 8.—Floods are doing great damage in the Province of Orense. The crops have been destroyed, many head of cattle drowned, and hundreds of people made destitute.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Additional advices from the town of Millbrook, Kan., which was struck by a cyclone last Thursday evening, are to the effect that the place was practically demolished. Seventy-nine buildings, including hotels, school-houses, churches, stores and residences were wholly or nearly destroyed. The losses foot up $68,000. The people are in great distress, and a relief committee has been organized to solicit aid for the families whose homes were swept away.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 9.—Southern Manitoba crops have been devastated by a terrific hail-storm. Grain was beaten into the ground, and there was not enough left for seeding purposes.

The Cabinet's Summer Vacation.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—This week will probably see the last Cabinet meeting of the heated season. Mr. Bayard is at Rehoboth Beach; Mr. Garland has gone to Arriansas, to be absent till October; General Vilas is about to depart for a few weeks' visit to his family in Wisconsin; Mr. Whitney will go to Bar Harbor on Wednesday or Thursday for a month; Mr. Endicott will soon begin a vacation of two months in England, and Mr. Lamar will doubtless find some cooler place than Washington to spend the remainder of the hot weather.

Chicago Boodlers.
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The convicted boodlers having resigned from the County Board, Judge Jamieson yesterday continued argument on the motion for a new trial in the cases of Wren, McClaujehrey, Debs, Van Pelt, Wasserman, Varneli and Leyden until the 5th of October. Sentence was passed upon Geils at his own request, and he paid the $1,000 fine imposed by the jury. "Buck" McCarthy, Oliver, Casselman, Klehm and Lynn will be sentenced Thursday morning.

To Raise the Price of Milk.
ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 9.—The dairymen met yesterday, and after perfecting an organization discussed their troubles. After a general statement of the condition of the land and the crops, it was voted to perfect a protective league for the winter. The general expression favored a demand of twenty cents per gallon for milk.

A Useful View.
DUBLIN, Aug. 9.—Archbishop Walsh, in an interview, takes a useful view of the Irish situation. He regards the new Land act as a measure of great value to the tenantry, and does not apprehend a rigid enforcement of the Coercion act. Within a year or two he expects to see an Irish Parliament at Dublin.

Coal-Stealers Shot.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9.—James Murphy (white) was shot at Nicholasville, Ky., last Friday night by Wilson Berry (white) while stealing Berry's corn, and died Sunday night. Will Cox (white) and James Preston (white) who were with Murphy, were also shot by Berry, and it is feared that Preston will die.

Crushed by a Falling Wall.
CINCINNATI, Aug. 9.—A wall on the cathedral property in Central avenue collapsed Monday under pressure of a sand pile, crushing three persons who were passing at the time. Josie Corcoran was fatally hurt, and B. W. Young and Fred Wassell seriously injured.

Gladstone Charged with Treason.
LONDON, Aug. 9.—Prof. Tyndal has writ, another scathing article attacking Mr. Gladstone. He says that all the facts tend to verify the fact that Gladstone is merely a resonant mask through which John Morely blows over the land his fanatical treason.

Travelers Warned.
LONDON, Aug. 9.—The West Clare railway, in Ireland, has been boycotted, and people are warned, by placards, not to travel upon it unless they desire to risk being shot. Dislike of Traffic Manager Sullivan is the cause.

A Strike Ended.
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 9.—Men who held two jobs in iron mills here have, under pressure of the Amalgamated Association, relinquished one of them, and the strike inaugurated over the matter is at an end.

Died at 100 Years.
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Owen Byrne, a native of County Louth, Ireland, died Saturday at the Home of the Aged at the age of 100 years. Mr. Byrne has been a resident of this State forty years.

Panicked Away.
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Aug. 9.—Edwin Drape died yesterday in this city, aged over eighty years. He was a not unimportant man in the South during the war and sacrificed a large fortune to his principles.

Man and Wife Killed by Robbers.
LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Aug. 9.—An old man and his wife named Culby were murdered in their home on the mountains south of this city Sunday night by robbers.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Shed in Milwaukee Collapses, Killing Three Persons and Injuring Others.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 9.—The huge steamer W. H. Wolf was being launched Saturday afternoon at Wolf & Davidson's ship-yard, amid the cheers of 4,000 people, a staging on the docks of the Northwestern Fuel Company collapsed. About eighty spectators, who were clustered as thick as bees upon it, were precipitated to the dock or into the river. The accident occurred at the same instant that the mammoth vessel made her plunge. As the steamer struck the water an immense wave was carried toward the platform across the river. Whether from its momentum or through other causes the supports of the staging gave way, the waves splashed over it, and the people found themselves up to their necks in water, many being swept into the river by the receding water and others being pinned under the broken and fallen timbers. Those who were dumped into the river irrationally clung to pieces of wood, while boats hurried to their rescue. Those who were on the docks lay in heaps, many injured so badly as to require assistance for their removal. It is expected that of the thirty-three people injured thirty will recover. The dead are: Eddie Zerbel, aged seventeen years; Charles Zerbel, aged twenty-two years; Collin Finnister, aged twenty years.

M'GARIGL'S ESCAPE.

The Chicago "Boodler" Believed to Be Secreted in Canada.
ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 4.—McGarigle was reported last night at a farmhouse six miles from this place, in company with a brother of Dr. St. John.

MONTREAL, Can., Aug. 5.—The effort made by Mr. Baxter to secure the arrest of McGarigle has failed, as proved by the fact that the St. Catharines Judge and Ontario Attorney General refused to sign the warrant.

MONTREAL, Can., Aug. 6.—William J. McGarigle, it is said, was seen to leave Quebec on a steamer bound for Gibraltar on Friday. Crown Prosecutor Green-shields, who attempted to arrest him on the Baxter warrant, says he acted in the matter for the Washington authorities.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The two seamen from the schooner E. K. Blake who have been brought to this city to testify against Dr. St. John in the McGarigle matter are said to have made statements directly implicating him in the escape.

HOT WEATHER.

Various Portion* of the County Still Suffering from the Heat.
STRAVERT, Ill., Aug. 4.—The thermometer registered 103 degrees in the shade yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—There is no abatement of the extreme heat which has characterized nearly the whole month past, and fatal cases of sun-stroke occur daily.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Yesterday was the hottest day ever known in this city. In the shade, at one o'clock the thermometer registered 109 degrees.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Extreme heat still prevails* in this city, and the cases of sun-stroke are numerous.

PERU, Ind., Aug. 6.—With the continued warm weather comes an epidemic of sickness throughout this county. Every thing is literally baked, and the state of the health and crops deplorable. Many serious cases of prostration are reported. The mercury registered 104 at noon yesterday.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 6.—Five fatal cases of sun-stroke were reported in this city yesterday, and, with a humid atmosphere, the thermometer registered ninety-two degrees.

Investigating Queer Financial Transactions.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—Late advices from Honolulu state that the Hawaiian Government is investigating the peculiar transactions of the syndicate which placed the recent national loan in England. The contract with the syndicate allowed five per cent, commission and two per cent, for expenses, and it is claimed that the syndicate attempted to squeeze large sums out of the Government for alleged expenses in addition to the amounts to which it was entitled under the contract.

Shot from Ambush.
AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 9.—Governor Ross yesterday received a telegram announcing the assassination Saturday night of Will Stanley, deputy sheriff of Williamson County, near Florence, fifty miles north of here. He was on his way home late at night, when he was riddled with bullets from ambush, it is supposed by John Barbour and Will Whitney, two desperadoes, now fugitives from justice, and whose arrest Stanley has been trying to effect for weeks.

The Red Cross.

Why Laura Lost Her Beau.

Laura once had an affluent beau. Who called twice a fortnight, or so? Now she sits, Sunday eve, All lonely to grieve.

Oh, why did he leave Laura so? And why did he leave Laura so? Why, he saw that Laura was a languishing, delicate girl, subject to sick headaches, sensitive nerves and uncertain tempers; and knowing what a life long trial is a fretful, sickly wife, he transferred his attentions to her cheerful, healthy cousin, Ellen. The secret is that Laura's health and strength are sapped by chronic weakness, peculiar tshex sex, which Ellen averts and avoids by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is the only remedy, for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case or money will be refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper.

It is said that McGarigle was for two of three years on the detective force of Chicago. He was bounced for his want of acumen, but it now transpires that he was sharper than the whole crowd.

FIRE AND DROUGHT.

Destructive Flames Sweep Over Various Places.

Farmers Fighting to Save Their Homes and Crops—Creeks and Streams All Dried Up—Suffering from the Drought.

FIROTSO RED RUIN. JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 6.—The fires around through the country in this locality have done a vast amount of damage. The country is parched up with the long drought and the pastures, stubble-fields and woods burn easily and the fire spreads rapidly. The country in the vicinity of Dresden Heights caught fire Thursday morning from sparks from a locomotive, and the farmers for miles around turned out to fight it. All the people about Channahon and Minooca helped to fight the fire. They left the fields go and directed their efforts to saving homes and farm buildings. Two hundred cords of wood belonging to T. H. Patterson burned and miles of fences were damaged or destroyed. Near Manhattan the pasture lands were set on fire by the same cause, and hundreds of acres were burned over in meadows and stubble. Serious damage was done to the farm of George Buck, and forty acres of oats belonging to Clark Baker were destroyed.

The various creeks and small streams are all dried up, and most of the wells in the elevated section have gone dry. The farm of H. H. Stevens, near New Lenox, known as "Wood Lawn," was burned over and much damage done.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 6.—Advices from Green Bay state that forest fires have been raging along the line of the Green Bay, Winona & St. Paul road, and have caused considerable damage at various points. The Sherwood forest, a few miles this side of Merrillan Junction, suffered from extensive fires, and thousands of dollars' worth of property in that vicinity was destroyed. A brisk breeze fanned the fire and it swept a pathway clean. At Lynn, Barber's saw-mill was burned to the ground, with considerable stock.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 7.—Reports received from 5,000,000 acres of growing corn along the lines of the Missouri Pacific, Wabash, Burlington & Quincy, Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf, Southern Kansas, Kansas Pacific and Union Pacific railroads in Nebraska, Kansas, Arkansas and Missouri show that material damage has been done to the crops by drought and hot winds in Kansas and southwestern Missouri. In Nebraska, Northern and Central Missouri and Arkansas the acreage is as large as any crop in the last five years.

CHBOTOVA, Mich., Aug. 9.—Forest fires are again raging in this section and are destroying much valuable pine and standing timber in this county and burning fences and barns.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 9.—Heavy forest fires have been raging throughout this section for the past two weeks, doing considerable damage. The fire department was called out to fight fire in an adjoining forest south of the city, back of Lake Forest cemetery. About 1,400 acres burned in that vicinity, and the fire encroached upon the cemetery, where it burned the grass off from about thirty lots, badly bleaching tombstones, etc. The fire is now under control south of here, but it is raging fiercely to the southeast of the city.

MASTO*, Mich., Aug. 9.—Fire in the woods on the Manistee river are destroying fences and valuable timber. Rain is badly needed.

CEDAR SPRINGS, Mich., Aug. 9.—Fires continue to spread, and large parties are out fighting the flames. No rain has fallen since the middle of June. The fires are very bad around Berche's mill.

SPENCER, Wis., Aug. 9.—The people of Romeo are fighting fire, assisted by many citizens of this place. If the dry weather continues much damage will be done to standing timber and to farmers.

DEPERE, Wis., Aug. 9.—Fires are raging in the country hereabouts, and news was received yesterday of the burning of several barns and out-building. Nearly 2,000 cords of wood at Lathamsville, twelve miles south of here, belonging to the National Fur and Game Company of this place, were burned.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 9.—The extended drought has made every thing inflammable, and frequent fires are the result. A large area of whortleberry marsh east of the town has been on fire for several days, doing much damage. All the farmers in the vicinity are fighting the flames to save their houses, wheat stacks, etc.

PALMYRIA, Wis., Aug. 9.—The Whitewater marsh was set on fire yesterday by a passing locomotive. Twenty acres of hay has already been burned and the fire is still spreading.

TUSCOLA, Ill., Aug. 9.—A spark from a locomotive on the Indianapolis, Decatur & Springfield railway Sunday set fire to the fields of H. P. Perkins, living west of this city, and a large area was burned over. A great deal of railroad fencing was destroyed, also.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Aug. 9.—Two meadows northwest of this city, in Le Sauk township, are on fire and being rapidly destroyed. There is also a fine meadow three miles east of this city that has been burning rapidly and all meadows connected with it will be ruined. Nothing but heavy and continuous rains will put out the fires. In these beds of peat. When once burned over these meadows are forever worthless. Every thing is drying up.

WATERLOO, Wis., Aug. 9.—The barn, granary and other outbuildings of a farmer named Duessler, in the town of Portland, Dodge County, were burned to the ground yesterday, with all of his grain, a span of horses and twelve hogs. His second son, aged ten years, was lost in the flames while trying to rescue the horses.

H No More Fleuro In Illinois. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 4.—Governor Oglesby has received a report from the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners stating that not a single case of acute pleuro-pneumonia has been discovered since July 10, and that, as the State is entirely free from the disease, other States should be requested to remove the existing quarantine against Illinois cattle.

Death in an Awful Form. GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 5.—A beer-kettle in Henry Rahr & Son's brewery in this city exploded Wednesday night, scalding seven men, six of whom died of their injuries. The victims were August Delforge and his two sons Frank and Joseph, John B. Haibe, John Biemeret and George Huber. Henry Siefert, though badly scalded, will recover.

Big Saw-Hill Burned. EAST SAONAW, Mich., Aug. 5.—John G. Owens' saw-mill and salt block, with 8,000 barrels of salt, the drill-houses, 3,500,000 feet of lumber, a blacksmith shop and three salt drill-houses were destroyed by fire Wednesday evening, involving a loss of $137,000, with insurance amounting to 168,000.

AN AWFUL SITUATION.

The Sloop Sara Wrecked in a Squall—A Number of Lives Lost—Sailors Jump Overboard and Are Devoured by Sharks.

NOONLES, A. T., Aug. 9.—The Sloop Sara, eighty tons register, owned and commanded by Abraham Bakaram, left Muelico on the morning of July 25 loaded with tan bark, and having on board the captain, his wife, her children and nieces, Mr. Halle, superintendent of the Baltimore copper mines at Santa Rosalia, and a crew of five men. Between San Pedro ana Martinez, in the gulf of California, the vessel was struck by a heavy surf and capsized. All on board perished excepting the captain and four sailors, who saved themselves by climbing on the bottom of the capsized vessel. On the second day after the accident the dead bodies of the captain's wife and children rose to the surface and were eaten by sharks while the husband and father looked on the awful sight in horror. On July 30 two of the sailors became crazy and said they were gazing ashore, and immediately plunged overboard. They no sooner struck water than the sharks devoured them. The captain, one sailor and a small boy remained on the bottom of the vessel for eight days, sustaining life by eating turtles that would come near them and sucking their blood. They were rescued in a most pitiable condition by the fishing sloop Refugio, and afterward transferred to the company's steamer Kerrigan which was sent in search of the Sara and arrived at Guaymas Sunday night. The captain of the Sara is mentally and physically a wreck. Captain Bakaram says there was another small sloop near his vessel in the same gale. It is supposed that she went down with all on board.

That is to say, your lungy. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be gotten rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Bosche's German Syrup which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

THE Ypsilanti Sentinel, this week upon its first page has sixteen items relative to AEn Arbor. We have great pleasure in acknowledging the distinguished regards of our able contemporary.

OUR NEXT PKESIBEST.

We believe the feeling is growing every day that it would not be safe for the republicans to nominate Mr. Blaine for president, and attempt to again elect him.

THE Jackson Citizen, edited by Hon. James O'Donnell, member of congress from the third district, has been comparing the finances of the national government under republican and democratic administrations.

ELSEWHERE it will be seen that the common council has decided to submit to a vote of the tax payers of this city the question of raising the sum of five thousand dollars to be used in increasing the advantages, wealth and importance of the city, principally in the way of manufacturing enterprises.

One of the most important commercial and manufacturing cities of the state, such as our natural advantages entitle us to become?

THE PREVALENCE OF CRIME.

That crime is prevailing in our state to a very alarming extent, is a well-known fact. Murders of a most deliberate and shocking character have become quite frequent.

THE GREAT DROUGHT

We are passing through a season of excessive heat, and a long continued and most disastrous drought. This record we have been called to make for three successive summers, a fact which is unprecedented in the history of our state.

But even with a picture that is go deleful as this, we have some offsets. While it has been very dry here and around us, in other localities there has been rain, in not in abundance, yet sufficient to keep nature alive and in good heart.

OHIO AT THE FRONT.

In its double column leading editorial of last week the New York Independent says: "We most sincerely congratulate the republicans of the State of Ohio. They have done nobly in deciding unanimously to present the name of Senator John Sherman to the National Convention as their choice for our next President.

There is no man in the United States who is better qualified to fill that office than Senator John Sherman. He probably knows more about the wants of the nation, at this critical time, than any other man whose name will be proposed as the presidential candidate of the party.

TO KAISE 5,000 DOLLARS.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. CLEVELAND INVITED.

The Council met Monday Evening and Transacted a Large Amount of Business—Harmony and Good Will Prevailed.

When the Mayor pounded his gavel on the desk last Monday evening, the aldermen immediately settled down to business, and for three hours and a half they distinguished themselves by transacting business pertaining to the interests of the city and not fighting over petty personal matters, as they so often do.

A lengthy communication was received from Dr. Breakey, member of the Board of Health, in relation to the slaughter houses in the Fifth ward, stating that the public health was jeopardized by their presence.

The general fund committee reported that the company refused to raise electric lights in some locations, some were not raised to proper height, and that the company refused to raise them higher.

The committee on fire department reported favorably on the communication of chief Sorg, submitted at the last meeting, to allow the fire department to organize a hook and ladder company, to consist of the following persons: Larry Dunn, John BurnSt, John Campion, John Kinney, Wm. Kennedy, Sam McLaren, J. Hauser, and Fred Stue.

The Toledo and Ann Arbor railroad company presented a request to have Second-st opened to Jefferson-st, to give them an opening to the site where they intend locating their new depot.

William Champion tendered his resignation as patrolman. About six months ago he was asked to resign by the council, which he did, but was reinstated by the present council. The ballot was ordered taken for the election of his successor. Five ballots were taken, and there being no choice the matter was deferred until the next meeting.

City treasurer Sorg made the following report, showing the different amounts paid out from the several funds and the amounts remaining in the several funds:

Table with columns for MONEY DISBURSED and BALANCE ON HAND, listing various funds and their amounts.

General fund is overdrawn to the amount of $1,460.21; general street fund, $1,193.51; fourth ward fund, $838; delinquent tax fund, $1,285.07. Total $2,947.47.

POOR REPORT. Marshal Siple made the following report showing the amount paid out of the several funds for the support of the poor during the month of July:

Table with columns for Second ward, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Total, listing amounts for each ward.

Aids. Swift, Ware and Martin were appointed a committee to wait upon Aid. Seabolt and ask him to withdraw his resignation, which was presented at the last meeting.

Aid. Kearns moved that the name of Bowers-st, in the Fourth ward be changed to that of Lawrence-st, also so much of Catharine-st between N. Main-st and its intersection with Miller avenue, be changed to Miller avenue; also that the name of Cemetery-st be changed to Geddes avenue. Carried.

Aid. Wines offered the following resolution, which was unanimously carried:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed, of which the Mayor shall be chairman, and the city attorney a member, to investigate the water works, and also to determine what additional means of communication by telephone, for fire purposes, is needed; the committee to report at the next regular meeting.

The Mayor appointed as the additional members of the committee Aids. Wines, Ware and Martin.

Aid. Allmendinger offered the following: At a recent meeting of the Business Men's Association of this city a request was unanimously adopted asking the council to submit to the voters of the city a proposition to raise, by taxation, $5,000 to advertise the city and induce manufacturers to locate here.

Resolved, That a special election be held at Firemen's hall, from 12 o'clock noon, of Friday, August 26th, until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at which a proposition to raise $5,000 by taxation shall be submitted to the tax payers of the city, said SUUJ to be used in advertising the city and advancing the manufacturing interests of the city by loan or bonus.

For the tax of $5,000 for advancing the business and manufacturing interests of the city—Yes. And

For the tax of $5,000 for advancing and encouraging the business and manufacturing interests of the city—No.

Aids. Allmendinger and Wines spoke in favor of the resolution. Unanimously carried.

A motion was made and carried instructing the street committee to put up a railing on the Pontiac-st bridge.

Just at the close of the meeting Aid. Allmendinger offered a resolution inviting President and Mrs. Cleveland to visit Ann Arbor, while on their western trip. It was carried amidst much confusion.

From a Property Owner. To the Editor: The common council has submitted to the people the proposition to use $5,000 to advertise the city and push her advantages to the front, and already some croakers begin to say, "Yi u wish to get the city in debt; you want to increase the rate of taxation; what good will it do to have a new depot for the Toledo & Ann Arbor Railroad; or to have manufactories locate here?" AS DeSoto stated, after setting aoww V-siege there were comparatively few wounded.

Back of Swett's garden under some small trees the dead from the Division hospital were buried.

It was not possible to provide coffins and so the dead were wrapped in blankets and covered over with earth—till their shallow graves were filled. As the siege progressed all the wounded and sick who were able to be moved were put in ambulances and conveyed to the boats on the Yazoo river from whence they went North.

When they were abundant all about and by cutting a number of these stocks, tying them together with strings, and putting the two ends on cross-pieces resting upon stakes driven in the ground, quite comfortable and springy cots were improvised for the hospital.

Swett's house had all the time been used as a place for storage of drugs and hospital supplies.

Swett himself was a short, thick-set man with a round stomach. He used to stand around and lean on his cane with much seeming complacency. In his yard were several bunches of fragrant Jasmine in full bloom. This is the most beautiful and deliciously fragrant flower, scenting the air with its delightful odor.

In the timber all about were magnificent specimens of Magnolia having upon their branches, in May and June, long beautiful blossoms.

Figs ripened in Swett's garden during the siege. These, while not liked by some when gathered fresh from the trees, by others were relished exceedingly.

Thus, tree flower and fruit lent something of their charms to assuage the horrors of war.

As soon as General Joseph E. Johnston discovered that Grant had securely invested Vicksburg, he began organizing a force to relieve the garrison. This force sought to attack Grant's rear on the line of the Big Black. Grant, who by this time was receiving reinforcements from the North, was fully on the alert, and confronted Johnston with ample force to keep the latter at a safe distance from the operations against Vicksburg.

Meanwhile all sorts of stories were in circulation—nearly all favorable, however, to the Federals. At one time it was rumored that Port Hudson, some three hundred miles down the river, had capitulated to General Banks; at another, that the Confederates could not hold out longer; again that Richmond was taken and then that Washington had been captured by Lee.

Of nights the mortar boats from the river shelled Vicksburg, and sometimes the writer with one or more comrades would go out upon a high hill in the rear of the camp from whence the bombardment could be seen.

The mortar boats were perhaps eight miles distant, and first a flash would be seen, then discharge of the mortar, then a streak of fire, then burning fuse; this would rise away up in the air and then descend, and just before reaching the ground another flash, the explosion of the shell, broke upon the vision.

Some time elapsed after the flash was seen before the report could be heard. The shells thrown by these mortar boats were of one and two hundred pounds caliber, and all through the siege were thrown at regular intervals during the night-time.

One cannon belonging to the Confederates received the appellation of "Whistling Dick." The ball it threw passed through the air with a peculiar whistling noise that could be heard by all on the southeastern aspect of the works. It was a fine breech-loading rifled cannon of English manufacture.

Toward the latter part of June, rumors of the fall of Vicksburg pervaded the command, and later, as the National adversary drew near, it was said a most determined assault would be made on the 4th of July.

Finally, preparations for this were in progress when on the 3d of July word came that the Confederates had already made propositions looking toward a surrender, and next day, the Fourth of July, Vicksburg, after withstanding a siege of forty-six days, capitulated.

From the sides of these walls of clay, caves were cut in which some of the citizens passed for security much of their time. The writer visited several of these caves and found two or three of them carpeted and neatly furnished. Many places were seen where the immense shells from the mortar fleet struck the earth. When these failed to explode a great round hole was made in the ground, and in case of explosion after striking the ground, excavation was the result.

The great guns along the river front—the Columbiads of 9, 11 and 13-inch caliber—were visited. It was these that blocked the river and made the passing of even heavily-armed vessels hazardous.

Some of the Confederate soldiers belonging to the infantry were about one of these huge guns, and one of them said within ear-shot of the writer: "I'll bet this ere old cannon's killed many a blue-belly."

Passing out toward the outworks a Confederate regiment, containing not many more men than a full company, was seen drawn up in line for inspection and roll-call, preparatory to completion of parole papers.

In conversation with the Confederates some said they had enough of the war and hoped the South would make an end of it; others avowed their faith in ultimate success, the great majority however were non-committal regarding their notions of final success or failure.

The rifle-pits and works of the Confederates that crossed the railway and dirt road nearby, were visited. The neighborhood of the dirt road seemed especially to have been the scene of most obstinate conflict; it ran along on a ridge and the approach was particularly well guarded. The space outside the Confederate works, between these and the Federal rifle-pits, was dotted all over with Union graves, if some dirt thrown over a soldier when he fell could be called a grave.

A day or two after the assault the Union dead were buried under a flag of truce. The weather being very warm, before this was attended to, decomposition had already begun and the consequent stench would soon grow intolerable. Under these circumstances both armies readily agreed to a short armistice for disposition of the dead.

Whenever an elevation intervened between the Federal rifle-pits and Confederate works the tracks of bullets through the grass and weeds were very thick and passed in every direction. At one point it seemed as though every inch of space had been penetrated by a bullet. This was near the dirt-road, where the Confederates had an enfilading fire, and they used it with most deadly effect on the 19th and 22d of May.

Immediately after the fall of Vicksburg an expedition against Johnston was organized under Sherman. The troops marched to Jackson, Miss., under a brooding sun over dusty roads, and besieged that place for the second time, and after two or three days' conflict Johnston once more evacuated it.

Meantime the writer, with the regimental surgeon, was put on duty at the corps hospital.

This was in the vicinity of a farm-house, but the sick and wounded were in tents, and every thing for comfort and convenience was found to be on a more commodious scale than had been the case at the Division hospital.

One peculiarity was noticed here; instead of each medical man prescribing and combining remedies to suit himself, a number of prescriptions or formula; were prepared in large quantities, and each one numbered, so that in prescribing for a patient the surgeon had only to look over the list and see which number came nearest fulfilling the indications. This done, the number was written on a prescription-blank, and shortly afterward the medicine called for being already on hand in quantity, was dispensed and ready for the patient.

The writer during this period occasionally visited Vicksburg, which was now gradually settling down to the new order of things. General Logan was at first given command of the post.

Headquarters were established at the court house. This was on a hill and one of the prominent objects of the city, and from its roof floated the stars and stripes.

Very soon after the occupation of the city by the Federals the steam from its front assumed a busy aspect. Steamboats from the North came down the river with abundant supplies of all kinds for the army. Many Northern visitors also came, some to see friends in the army, some to see the newly acquired stronghold, and some came to look up a new field for trade and speculation.

SECTION XII. RUNNING THE VICKSBURG BATTERIES.

Second in interest only to the operations of the army of the Tennessee in the Vicksburg campaign, was that of the Mississippi flotilla under Commodore Porter, whose achievements were for the most part coincident and co-operative with those of the land force.

Of special interest was the passing of the Confederate batteries at Vicksburg some months prior to the fall of that stronghold. For a year or more preceding the latter event, the terminus of the Vicksburg and Shreveport railway had been in the possession of the Federals; consequently the rich tribute to the Confederacy of corn and cattle from Western Louisiana and Texas came for the most part down the Red river by steamboat, and thence up the Mississippi to Natchez, Grand Gulf and Vicksburg or below to Port Hudson, and from these points was distributed throughout the South.

To destroy the vessels plying in this service became in the early part of 1863 a cherished object with the Federals. With this end in view Colonel Charles R. Ellet was ordered to run the Vicksburg batteries with the ram Queen of the West. This vessel was not built originally for the naval service, but was a strong, fleet freight-boat, and her crew had been strengthened and armed with a strong iron beam, her boilers and machinery were protected with three hundred bales of cotton, and she was armed with heavy and light pieces of artillery, a full complement of rifles, pistols and cutlasses, and beside her crew, had aboard twenty-six soldiers.

But what of the terrible gMn-boat that created so much consternation with the Lying under the Vicksburg batteries was a Confederate transport, "The City of Vicksburg," whose destruction was named as one of Ellet's first errands.

Early in the morning of February 2, 1863, the Queen of the West passed round the bend, and under a full head of steam made for the Confederate vessel tied to the wharf in front of the city, for which she was named.

The strong beak of the Queen struck the "City of Vicksburg" with terrific force, but the great projection of the guards of the latter protected her hull and prevented the infliction of vital injury. Meantime the daring of this adventure excited much interest at the time in General Canby's department.

About the middle of March, 1863, Commodore Farragut succeeded in passing the Port Hudson batteries with two of his vessels and about a week later communicated from just below Vicksburg with Commodore Porter's fleet just above.

Needing some reinforcements in the way of vessels Farragut asked for some from the fleet of Porter. Early on the morning of March 25, Colonel Charles R. Ellet with the Switzerland and Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Ellet with the Lancaster, ran the Vicksburg batteries.

The Switzerland was destroyed but most of her crew escaped on cotton bales. The Lancaster succeeded in passing, but in a much damaged condition.

The passage of the Vicksburg Batteries by a fleet of gunboats and transports the night of April 16 and by another the night of April 23 has been elsewhere referred to in this series. The success of these attempts greatly facilitated the carrying out of Grant's plans in his operations against Vicksburg.

Indeed, in nearly all General Grant's important battles and campaigns in the West he leaned heavily upon the navy, and it ever gave him cheerful and timely support.

SECTION XIII. FROM VICKSBURG TO JEFFERSON.

The campaign of less than three months duration that ended with the fall of Vicksburg, July 4, 1863, was the most brilliant and successful of the war, and in many respects one of the most remarkable achievements in modern military history.

Grant, when he landed at Bruinsburg, Miss., just below Grand Gulf, and some seventy miles below Vicksburg, had but twenty thousand men immediately with him. Yet with this small force he advanced boldly into the heart of the enemy's country, and by so doing put Vicksburg and a hostile army of sixty thousand men between his own little army and the North.

True, Grant received an accession of from ten to twenty thousand men as the campaign progressed, but meantime General Joseph E. Johnston, one of the best of Confederate commanders, had assumed control of the territory threatened, and with headquarters at Jackson, Miss., was harassing the invading army from the east and northeast, while at the same time Pemberton was striving to do likewise from the west and northwest.

A junction of these forces immediately north of Grant would perhaps have been fatal to the campaign, and very lively had seriously compromised the safety of the Federal army.

But this junction Grant prevented by prompt and decisive movements. McPherson, the element in May met and defeated a portion of Johnston's army at Raymond, Miss., eighteen miles east of Jackson, and two or three days later, portions of the Fifteenth and Seventeenth corps defeated Johnston and drove him from his base at Jackson, Miss.

Then facing about to the west Grant met Pemberton with a large Confederate force in a strong position at Champion's Hill, May 16. The position was well chosen, and was about half way between Jackson and Vicksburg, and just south of the railway that connected the two places.

However, the Confederates were overwhelmingly defeated, and the two days following driven within their almost impregnable defenses at Vicksburg, where, forty-five days later, more than thirty thousand surrendered as prisoners of war. Nearly as many more had been lost during the campaign from Pemberton's army in killed, wounded, prisoners and desertions.

Shortly after Vicksburg surrendered the Confederate forces, six or eight thousand in number, at Port Hudson, three hundred miles further south on the Mississippi river, capitulated.

The fall of Vicksburg with the consequent control of the Mississippi river by the Federals, greatly disheartened the Confederate leaders and tended to convince the masses in the South of the hopelessness of their cause.

To use an expression of the time, Grant by taking Vicksburg had "cut the Confederacy in two."

Confederates, causing them to retire their movable vessels up Red river and blow up the superb Indianola?

A few days prior to this action by the Confederates, Commodore Porter had fitted up the hull of an old flat-boat in imitation of a gunboat. Spark-barrels were piled up in the form of smoke-stacks, and through them poured quantities of smoke from mud furnaces beneath. A dark coat of paint and some further imitation work made the resemblance to a gunboat complete, and one dark night this dummy was set adrift in the current of the river just above Vicksburg.

The Confederate batteries fired at her with much vigor, but some way, all missed the mark, and the "gunboat" of such powerful aspect passed by unharmed; and by the Star of the West word was hurriedly sent down the river for the destruction of the Indianola. Two months later the Queen of the West was blown up to obviate falling into Federal hands, and about the time the Confederacy was going to pieces in April, 1865, the Webb loaded with cotton, ran out of Red river, thence down the Mississippi, past several gun-boats and even past New Orleans, but being at last intercepted by the Brooklyn, ran ashore and was set on fire.

thoroughly impressed with the idea that he was the ablest of Union Generals.

Before the latter part of July tip army under Sherman returned from Jackson and the writer's regiment with many other troops went into camp two miles below Vicksburg, immediately on the river.

As a most toilsome, dangerous and important campaign had been entered upon and conducted to an eminently successful issue, it was only meet that all who had engaged in it should have and enjoy a well earned period of rest.

Two miles below Vicksburg the bluffs recede a half mile from the river, and upon the level plane intervening the troops encamped. Meantime their duty was light, a little drill in the morning and dress parade at night.

About this time the enlistment of colored troops began in the Department of the Tennessee, and the negro in the brand new uniform of a Union soldier was looked upon with curious eyes.

A few of the white troops at first found fault with the idea of utilizing the colored man in this way, but after a little all took it as a matter of course.

While passing through Louisiana and Mississippi quite a number of negroes had followed the army. These at first were shy, very respectful, and looked upon every Union soldier as a sort of savior—a being whom the Lord had sent South to liberate the poor down-trodden slave. Following the army, however, and observing the many human traits of "Mr. Linkum's sojers" soon disabused Sambo's mind of any erroneous first impressions.

The writer's tent was but a few feet from the river bank, but though there was overhead a hot July sun there was at nearly all times a delightful breeze.

A little to the north was Vicksburg, to the northwest was the great bend in the river that made the peninsula to the west ward, and across which, twenty miles distant, the now victorious army three months before had trudged through mud and mire.

The writer in his leisure moments prosecuted his medical studies, but sometimes lay idly upon his cot and looked out upon the great river as it swept by "unwept" to thesea.

Often great logs and large trees floated by in the free current, and now and then a dead horse or mule and occasionally the dead body of a man.

But so cheap had human life become as the war progressed, that an unknown body floating by excited but little comment.

So the time went by not unpleasantly, but few were sick and, these were made quite comfortable in the large hospital tent on the river bank.

At the wharf in front of Vicksburg were always a number of steamboats, engaged in receiving and discharging cargoes.

About 10 a. m. one day, a terrific explosion was heard in the direction of Vicksburg, and looking toward the steamboat landing, an immense column of smoke and debris of all kinds was seen rising in the air; in a moment this spread out and looked precisely like a huge mushroom.

It was at once conjectured that a steamboat had blown up, and as a detail of men had been made from the regiment that morning for duty at the wharf, the surgeon at once called for the ambulance, and with the writer, drove rapidly to the scene of the accident.

A steamboat loaded with ammunition had blown up. Part of the ammunition consisted of concussion shell. A case of these it was supposed had fallen through the gangway from the deck of the steamer to the bottom of the hold, when an explosion followed that immediately involved all the ammunition on the boat.

Upon reaching the wharf several dead bodies were seen lying upon the pavement, and all around were pieces of the boat and debris of all kinds that at the moment of explosion had been thrown in every direction. A number were killed outright, some were seriously wounded, others mortally so, and several on the boat were blown into the river and afterwards swam ashore, and thus escaped with their lives.

One man from the regiment was instantly killed, and although some eight or ten from the same organization were assisted in handling the ammunition, all but the one happened at the moment to be on shore, and thus escaped.

Toward the latter part of August came orders for the Thirteenth corps to go to New Orleans. So one day the writer's regiment embarked on an excellent riverboat and made the trip most pleasantly to the place designated.

The regiment went into camp at Carrollton, a suburb of New Orleans.

One day the troops were reviewed by Generals Banks and Grant. Toward evening of this day word was received that General Grant had been thrown from his horse and killed. This news to the Thirteenth corps was especially unpleasant, but fortunately for the country, Grant was not fatally injured.

The monotony of camp life at Carrollton was in part relieved by frequent visits to the city of New Orleans, with which there was convenient railway connection. Those in command were lenient in this direction and hence passes were easily procured.

While here, the writer witnessed a military execution. A colored soldier in an altercation, had killed a comrade, was tried by court-martial and sentenced to be shot.

At the time appointed, in the presence of many troops in line upon an open field, the condemned man, supported by a colored minister on either side, walked with tottering steps to the place of execution; here he was seated and bound in a chair beside which stood an open coffin.

Meantime a file of soldiers with guns lightly charged took their places in his front and at the word of command drew up their pieces, took aim and fired with fatal results to the criminal. This was the only military execution the writer was cognizant of during the more than three years service in the army.

About the middle of September the regimental hospital tents were moved a short distance and put up under some graceful liveoak trees. These have beautiful foliage and frequently, near the ground, divide into several branches that are spreading in character.

The month of September was passed quietly and lazily in camp, rumors however were rife of what was going to be done. Early in October the regiment was ordered to take a boat for Algiers, about ten miles down the river.

This order was obeyed one beautiful Sabbath day, on the calm evening of which the regiment found itself at the wharf of the place designated.

SECTION XIV IN THE TECHE COUNTRY—LOUISIANA.

Before the war, what was known as the New Orleans, Opelousas & Western railroad was completed from Algiers on the Mississippi opposite New Orleans, to Brashear City, eighty miles west of the former place.

The railway was projected further west, however, through a rich and beautiful section lying on Bayou Teche, known as the Teche country.

Here, from all the fertile lands tributary to Bayou Teche, was produced vast quantities of sugar till the breaking out of the war paralyzed this industry.

From the inception of the rebellion till the beginning of 1863, this fertile region was held by the Confederates.

About the middle of January, 1863, General Weitzel led an expedition from Brashear City into the Teche country. He was accompanied by a squadron of gunboats under Commodore Buchanan. Near Puttersville the bayou was obstructed by torpedoes, a sunken steamboat and an earthwork, Fort Bisland; just above was the Confederate gunboat J. A. Cotton.

GENERAL W. H. EMORY.—From Portrait in Harper's War Volumes.

A sharp fight ensued in which Commodore Buchanan lost his life—a ball from a Confederate sharpshooter having passed through his head. But the infantry got in the rear of the Confederate works and these were soon abandoned. The following night the Confederate gunboat Cotton was deserted and set on fire. With this success the expedition of General Weitzel returned to Brashear City.

About April 10, 1863, another expedition was sent up Bayou Teche.

General Richard Taylor (a son of President Zachariah Taylor) was in command of the Confederate forces.

He made a stand at Fort Bisland, but General Emory engaged his attention in front while General Grover was striving to get in his rear.

The Federals failed in capturing the Confederates, but caused them to abandon the Teche country so hastily that they were compelled to set fire to several transports laden with stores at New Iberia on Bayou Teche, also to an unfinished gunboat, April 20, General Banks entered Opelousas and General Taylor retreated beyond Vermillion Bayou. Later General Banks occupied Alexandria and from there advanced to Port Hudson, which place he invested about May 34, 1863, and six weeks afterwards, captured.

The writer's regiment, having reached Algiers opposite New Orleans by steamboat, debarked (October 4, 1863,) and took the cars for Brashear City on the New Orleans, Opelousas & Western railroad.

The train was made up of open flat cars, and when in motion over a rough roadway much care had to be exercised, lest some of the men would fall overboard.

The start was made early in the morning. The country traversed was covered with interminable swamps, bayous, lagoons and sluggish creeks. It was heavily timbered, and for most of the way seemed one vast wilderness. Brashear City was reached at night and next day the command started up Bayou Teche. The country now seen was attractive and many delightful houses were passed. The houses, half hidden in trees, had wide porches and large windows.

At this time oranges were ripening and the many orchards passed were bending under the weight of this delicious fruit.

Nearly all the fences were made of cypress. This wood was split into thin board-like pieces and at convenient distances were posts of the same material with mortices for the reception of the horizontal pieces. In this way a neat fence was made, but it must have taken a great deal of time and involved much labor.

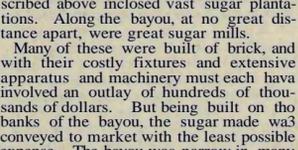

When the dinner was halted at night of for dinner, every man seized one or more pieces of this fence and in a little time it made many fires that heated a multitude of coffee pots and toasted innumerable slices of salt pork.

Nearly every man carried an old tin can, one in which there had been fruit or oysters, and with a piece of wire he had made for it a bail. As soon as a fire was made, this can filled with water was placed upon it. When the water came to a boil, ground coffee, in which form this article was always supplied, was added. Meantime a thin slice of bacon or salt pork was toasted upon the end of a stick and the fat that exuded while cooking was allowed to drip upon the hard cracker—"hard tack"—this served in lieu of gravy or butter. While upon the march coffee, made as described above, seemed delicious, and the fat meat and hard cracker were eaten with a relish that now seem almost inexplicable. Good appetites and sweet sleep, however, are two good angels that never desert a soldier on the march.

The region was very level and the land waterfully fertile, the soil being a deep rich black loam. The cypress fences described above inclosed vast sugar plantations. Along the bayou, at no great distance apart, were great sugar mills.

Many of these were built of brick, and with their costly fixtures and extensive apparatus and machinery must each have involved an outlay of hundreds of thousands of dollars. But being built on the banks of the bayou, the sugar made was conveyed to market with the least possible expense. The bayou was narrow in many places, too narrow for a boat to turn around, and as there were no hills next to it on either side, it seemed much like a great ditch.

At one time, on the inarch, the road led through a light growth of timber and receded quite a distance from Bayou Techa.

and wound about and continued away from it for some hours, so that the direction in which this water-course lay was forgotten.

At once happening to look towards the north through some stunted trees, the writer's eyes fell upon a steamboat moving slowly westward.

It looked for all the world like it was being propelled on land through the timbe-—Indeed for an instant this impression prevailed on the writer's mind.

The water in the bayou was so little below the surface level of the country and the stream being very narrow, all helped to make the boat seem to be moving on dry land instead of on the water.

Here was an instance of a boat seeming so much and the water so little; on the great Mississippi, however, with which the writer's regiment had already had so much to do, the water appeared vast and immense while the boat dwarfed into a mere speck in comparison.

The scene of General Weitzel's and Commodore Buchanan's fight in the January previous and of General Emory's about the middle of April, was passed before reaching Franklin. Here was seen the wreck of the burned Confederate gun-boat Cotton.

By the way, Commodore Buchanan, who lost his life here on board the "Calhoun" and whose first name was McKean, was an officer on board the "Congress," destroyed in Hampton Roads in March, 1862, by the Confederate "Mermaid" commanded by an own brother, Franklin Buchanan, of the Southern navy. Thus in the great civil war was brother pitted against brother in deadly strife.

Franklin, a considerable town on the bayou, was reached, and here the command stopped for a time, but, after a little, several regiments, including the writer's, were pushed on to New Iberia, another important place on the Teche.

Nearly all the inhabitants were French and many of them could not speak English; the latter fact was true of the negroes as well, and it was amusing to hear them talking in a foreign tongue.

A black face had so long been associated with "negro talk" that this departure was curious and interesting.

The well-to-do people lived in quaint, many-gabled, old houses.

Some of them before the war were very wealthy. These French were genuine Creoles. The October days spent at New Iberia were delightful in the extreme—soft hazy weather. The foraging parties brought in plenty of honey, sweet potatoes, chickens, and turkeys, and milk in abundance was procured of the inhabitants. Pecans were found in plenty and oranges delicious in quality were ripening in the orchards.

A printing office was found complete; this was taken possession of by some experts of the writer's regiment, and upon the plain side of sheets of wall paper, a new periodical was started, called the "Unconditional Surrender Grant." Of course, but few numbers were published, but these were of much interest to members of the command.

For a time here the writer assisted in fitting up a church for a hospital. The pews were taken out and cots put in at convenient distances.

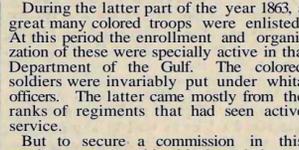

A cavalry brigade had gone further on, to Vermillion Bayou, and here had an engagement with the enemy. There were quite a number wounded, and it was for the reception of these that the church was extemporized into a hospital. In the afternoon when they were expected coffee and tea were made, and soup, beef tea, milk punch, toddies, etc., prepared. The ambulance train, however, did not get in till in the night. The wounded were transferred from the ambulances to cots in the church, nearly all of which were finally filled. Most of the injuries received were from musket balls.

The wounds had, however, been dressed, and well cared for before starting, and any needed amputations made at the time or soon after injury. In a day or two the wounded were all put on a boat, and went in this way to a general hospital.

SKCTION XV.—FROM THE TECHE COUNTRY TO TEXAS.

During the latter part of the year 1863, a great many colored troops were enlisted. At this period the enrollment and organization of these were specially active in the Department of the Gulf. The colored soldiers were invariably put under white officers. The latter came mostly from the ranks of regiments that had seen active service.

But to secure a commission in this service, some considerable knowledge of military tactics was required, and the aspirant had to pass a pretty rigid examination before a board of experts.

GEWSRAL A. J. SMITH.—From Portrait in Harper's.

The fever for shoulder-straps became quite prevalent, and many an ambitious young man who saw no opening for promotion in his own regiment, began to brush up his tactics and then went before the examiners and later secured a commission in the "Corps d'Afrique."

While at New Orleans quite a number, left the writer's regiment in this way, and later at New Iberia in October and November, others went in the same manner.

Thus a number of the best men were lost to the regiment.

Towards the end of October quite an excitement was created by a rumor that the post of New Iberia would be attacked. The Confederates were known to be in force at Vermillion Bayou, some eighteen or twenty miles west, and detachments of cavalry were constantly watching their movements. New Iberia being so near the enemy was in danger, and to strengthen it as much as possible an extended line of rifle pits was made.

The citizens of New Iberia were made to work on them.

Our cavalry surrounded and captured a small body of the enemy's cavalry. The Confederates were brought in one morning, and many of those composing the force at New Iberia went out to the road as they passed.

The prisoners were disarmed and put upon their horses, but the reins of each one of the latter were held by a Union cavalryman well armed and mounted, who rode at the side of the prisoner.

One of the captured cavalymen, as soon as he came in sight, noticing the throng of blue coats that had come out to the road, began yelling at the top of his voice: "Here's your'd—rebels! Here's your'd—rebels! I Never was there a squad of men gotten together, Union or Confederate, but had its loud-mouthed member, some 'smart Alick' whose tongue at all times seemed loose and who never lacked for word nor occasion to speak.

There were but few sick in the hospital, but "sick-call" was, of course, held daily. About nine each morning two musicians with drum and fife came to the surgeon's tent and played a peculiar strain that all soon came to recognize as "sick-call."

Immediately upon hearing this the indisposed from each company came to the surgeon's tent where they were examined, prescribed for and excused from duty, if, in the judgement of the surgeon, their ailments merited it.

In the army men, varied greatly regarding their infirmities. Some were always complaining, always on the sick-list, and yet upon examination but little in the way of ailment could be found.

Others were non committal and went on duty as long as they were able to stand on their feet and stayed away from the hospital and care of the surgeon as long as possible.

Our readers have doubtless o'ten noticed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is well spoken of in the newspapers. The press is quick to recognize merit, and does not hesitate to give praise where it is due. The following is from the Baptist Weekly, a religious paper:

"Advertising may bring an article prominently before the public, but no advertising can long help it if it has no real merit. Hood's Sarsaparilla is well advertised; but the best proof of its value is that so many persons use it on the recommendations of friends who have proved its peculiar virtues."

A Much Harried Woman.

Mrs. Fowler, of this city, was married last January to her sixth husband, and strange as it may seem, five of them died exactly two years after their marriage day. Her present husband has been sick for the last four months with chronic jaundice, and was given up by four of our best physicians; as a last resort he began using Sulphur Bitters, and yesterday told our reporter that they had saved his life, smilingly saying that he guessed Mrs. Fowler would be unable to take a seventh better half for some time to come.—Exchange.

Our Remnant Sale of Dress Goods begins this week. All must go at some price. Come at once as they won't last long.

12 1-2c Sateens. American, of course, but when before could you see such a 12 1-2c worth in Sateens? There's witchery in the blended tints, in the odd forms and in the soft, shiny finish. Twenty, maybe fifty patterns, new, neat, varied to suit every taste.

Batistes, dainty as ever, well liked as ever, as fine as ever made, 12 1-2c; they have been 16c. A dozen Styles: Blocks and dabs and pretty patches of color scattered on white and cream grounds. At the Parasol counter, yesterday, it looked as if the season were just opening. New Parasols at about half price. Don't go a begging.

Ladies' Linen Handkerchiefs, woven colored borders, 10c each. You have paid 20c each for no better.

Ladies' colored Collars and Cuffs at half price.

SEERSUCKERS.

There are dozens of styles in which beauty seems to have been the last thing thought of. You'll think so when you see them in the piece; but who ever saw an ugly Seersucker when made up? The 9 cent Crinkles have been 12 and this week the 12 are 15 cents last week. Plenty of Creams at 5 cents. Plenty more at 6 cents. Battling good quality: either of them, for much more than the price.

CORDED GINGHAMS.

Among the newest, nattiest, neatest of the Cotton novelties. You'll likely think they're from Paris. The idea is; there's French fancy in every pretty thread, but the word is Yankee. Price 124 cents from 20.

PERCALE. The tough, yard wide "shirting" so many ladies are buying. Forty to fifty styles. 12 cents from 16.

BACH & ABEL.

OCR 85 CENT COLIMIX.

When they separated she was given the custody of their child, and she claims he had signed an agreement to pay her this amount towards its support.

Mr. J. Van Slyke has returned from his eastern trip, and will soon start for his far away home in Honolulu. He will leave San Francisco on the 26th inst. The change of government in his island home has occurred since he left, in which he feels much interest. The whites have nearly secured the entire management of the island, and the time will soon come when they will be almost the sole owners of what Mr. Van Slyke says is a delightful country.

Justice Frueauff received a postal card from Dr. John Mueller, a few days ago, who is in Upsala, Sweden. He says he intends to remain there another year to pursue his studies. In speaking of the buildings there he says they are all built on piles which are driven 18 feet into the ground. He says: "The buildings are all nevertheless extraordinarily strong and last for centuries. There are houses in Upsala over 600 years old. There is no night here in summer, only a twilight of three to four hours; one can read the newspapers by sunlight at 11 o'clock p.m.; of course in the winter the days are correspondingly short"

It is wonderful what a famous place Petoskey has become. One of our citizens, who has just returned from there, says it is estimated that at least 3,000 health seekers are now at Petoskey and adjacent resorts. To get out of this parched part of the state, with its intolerable heat, and go where the cool, refreshing breezes are constantly invigorating the system, is a luxury highly appreciated. Bay View, one mile from Petoskey, near the head of Little Traverse Bay, is twelve years old, and now contains some 200 beautiful cottages. The G. R. & I. R. R. donated 360 acres of land and $1,000 in money, provided an association would occupy it and annually hold a camp meeting there for 15 years. An association of Methodists accepted the offer. Each member pays $10 for a lot of his own selection, builds his cottage and pays a tax of five dollars a year. The site is a lovely one, giving a splendid view of the bay and Lake Michigan. R. Waterman, of this city, has a charming double cottage at a point commanding a magnificent view of the bay, and its lovely surroundings. The great pleasure of living there lasts but a few months, then the little villa is all deserted and the bleak winds of a northern winter sweep over it, its sidewalks covered four feet deep with drifting snow, are buried from sight, and all is desolation.

A death occurred in this city last Friday, around which there is considerable mystery. George M&dvig arrived in this city the latter part of last June to be treated at the hospital for a chronic disease, but as they were about to close he sought a boarding house on Jefferson-st. The best of medical aid attended him but to no effect, until last Friday morning, when he breathed his last. Around his life there evidently hangs a mystery. He was non-communicative up to the day before his demise, when he told one of the attendants that if he died to send word to a friend of his, whom he named, at Marquette; and to another he said he had once been employed as a cashier in a bank at Copenhagen, Denmark. Up to a short time before his death he was engaged in writing a history of himself. The manuscript was written in fairly good English, filled with quotations from eminent writers and many Latin phrases. He hadn't completed it, and had evidently not followed his life clear through, but had only written a part of it in broken chapters. It appears from it that for several years past he was a sailor, and had been in many foreign ports. In 1884 he was appointed by the U. S. government, keeper of the lighthouse at Stannard's Rock, in Michigan. After serving here for a time he was transferred to the Manitowish lighthouse. From papers and letters found on his person it appears that he had a devoted wife and two boys living in Copenhagen. In her letters she spoke of her sufferings at being separated from him, and that the boys, both of whom were well advanced in their studies, spoke of him in kind and affectionate words, and all joined in expressing their desire of sometime seeing him back home. In one of her letters she referred to some trouble, but what, it was not stated. When he died he had about $30, an elegant Knights Templar charm and a fine gold watch and chain. His remains were kept until Monday morning, when they were buried in the potter's field without ceremony, and his relatives notified of his demise.

Observe the Rules.

The Ann Arbor Water Co. desire to request that all water takers use the water with strict economy during the continuance of the present month. The Company has already increased its water supply over three hundred thousand gallons per day, and now have a good force of men at work putting down new wells. The limit of our present supply is reached, and we most earnestly request all persons using the water to observe the rules.

A. W. HAMILTON, Superintendent of the A. A. Water Co.
