WHAT A RAMBLE AROUND TOWN DISCLOSED.

nearly 8250,000 Spent for Improvements this Season->"<"> Buildings All over the City-Something of a Boom.

Noticing in his rambles about the city many improvements going on in the way of new buildings, and that nearly every vacant lot near the business portion of the city was being occupied with new houses, it occurred to the reporter that it would be an item of interest to the many readers of THE REGISTER to know the extent of these improvements and number of new buildings in progress of construction. It was a pleasure and surprise to learn that there have already been erected and are now beiDg completed at least sixty new buildings, many of which are fine specimens of architectural work, adding greatly to the beauty of the city. There are of course a great many changes in residences, yards, store building?, etc., that it is unnecessary to note, but which represent thousands of dollars to the owners, and brighten up and beautify the general effect very much. From a careful personal investigation, and aided by several of the gentlemanly and accommodating builders, masons and architects, who were generally very ready to give the desired information, it is quite a low estimate to place the cost of residences at $111,200, business blocks, manufactories, etc., at $50,000, improvements to stores and residences, $15,000; work on the University campu3, $60,000, making a total of about $236,000. The work done on the new Central depot and grounds and not entirely completed, is not reckoned in this estimate, and there are probably many items overlooked. But the showing is very creditable to the city. New Residences.

By far the handsomest and most expensive residence which has been or will be erected in Ann Arbor this year is the one being built by Hon. Reuben Eempf, corner of Ingalls and Catherine-sts. It is two stories high and an attic, with a tower 55 feet high from the ground. In its iasign it is a combination of the Queen Anne and Gothic. The foundation is laid with the common field stone, battered in from the grade to the base of the window sill, and from thence to the base of the roof the walls are veneered brick. The outside stone trimmings are Berea sand stone and Lake Superior brown stone. The roof is slate and the cornices galvanized iron. The interior of the house will be handsomely finished in red oak, maple and cherry. The walls and ceilings will be painted and decorated. It will be heat-ed with a furnace and all other modern improvements will be put in. Mr. Kempf is hiring most of the work done by the day, with A. R. Hammond as superintend-When completed it will cost him

THE CITT WILL BOOM. The Tote last Friday to Raise $5,000 for this Purpose was Carried by a Majority of 133.

The tax-payers of Ann Arbor said by their votes, last Friday, that they wanted the city boomed, and carried the proposition to raise the $5,000, asked for by the Business Men's Association, for that purpose, by 152 majority. The vote, however, was an exceedingly small one, only three hundred and eight ballots being cast 230 of which were for it and 78 against it. Had the proposition been to raise a sum two or three times that amount, the vote would have been much larger, and the majority for it correspondingly as large. Several of Ann Arbor's heavy tax-payers did not vote, because they considered the sum ir sufficient for the purpose; however, it is enough to GIVE THE CITY A NEW START. The men who voted for the proposition were made up of all classes, but by far the larger number of them were those who constitute our laboring class, who have accumulated a small property and are desirous of seeing the city's and their own interests advanced. The merchants and manufacturers nearly all voted "aye." Some of those who voted "For the tax of $5,000 for advancing and encouraging the business and manufacturing interest of Ann Arbor, No," did so because they believed it illegal, and some because they did not approve of the plan to expend the sum to be raised. But by far the larger number of them did so to save what little world be added to their toward while these would be added to their taxes, while those whose names are earolled on the roster of opposed to everything that looks like business, voted solidly against the proposition. The "constitutional editor" oil the Argus was not present at all, as expected by many he would be, to work

The money raised will be placed at the disposal of the Business Men's Association and to be used by them as they see fit, subject to the approval of the common council. No one believes but that the association will expend every dollar of it judiciously and for the best interests of the city, whether it be in advertising, giving of a bonus or loan.

Married.

ZIMMER-EBERBACH.—In this city, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. H. Eberbach, Wednesday evening, Aug. SI. 1887, by Eev. R. H. Steele, Mr. Will A. Simmer, of Maniatee, and Miss Flora M. Eberbach.

The pleasant residence at No. 1 Packard-st was well filled with a happy company of friends at 6:30 o'clock last evening, and a few minutes later, under a beautifully arranged bower of green leaveR and bright flowers, the marriage ceremony was performed, the Episcopal ritual being used. After an evening of pleasant sociability and a rich collation, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer started on their way to Manistee, followed by the conventional old shoes, handfuls of rice and hearty good wishes of all present. The gifts were numerous and valuable, including a beautiful gold watch from the groom. Mr. Zimmer graduated last year from the pharmacy department of the University, and is now engaged in the drug business in the wide-awake city which has been his home for most, if not all of his life.

What Plays All the Mischief.

The grocers have raised the price of their tea,
On account of the Inter-State law;
And doctors, they say, have doubled their fee,
And the air of heaven very soon won't be free,
On account of the Inter-State law;
How convenient it is, when you raise on your price To bamboozle your patrons with such a device!

The tailor puts up the price of your coat, On account of the Inter-State law; And the interest is raised two per cent on your note,

And the heeler has raised the price of his rote,
On account of the Inter State law;
But what is this law that our income all melts?
We don't know what it is. Nor does any one else
—FINANCIAL RECORD.

The railroads have all raised the rate of their freight,
On account of the Inter-State law;
So it costs more to carry the usual weight,
And the grocery staples are higher at date,
On account of the Inter-State law;
How transparent for railroads to raise on the price. And try to bamboozle with such a device!

Small shippers have always been left in the rear, So we needed the Inter-State law; But the railroads say to the favorites, "Here, We'll fix the thing up in the tariff, don't fear, In spite of the Inter-State law."

But the people are earnestly crying out "Stop! Give us fair play for all or you'll hear something drop."

-AMERICAN GEOCER

THE damage to crops by the drouth this year is placed by R. Q. Dun & Co's Weekly Trade Review, at $300,000,000. This great loss must cause, not only a stringency with many and the necessity of practicing economy, but real suffering in many localities. The Review says: Short crops in 1881 proved the turning point of business for seven years, and the drouth this year, though resulting in less injury to crops, comes at a time when real estate values at the west have been unusually inflated. Heavy rains have broken the long drouth during the past week, but only after an official bureau report had shown how serious was the injury sustained, and the relief came too late to do good in ex tensive districts of the north-west. The bureau reports losses which cannot be repaired to a considerable part of the hay crop, and to oats, tobaoco, potatoes and fruit, little injury to cotton and wheat, and a decline of 17 per cent, in the condition of corn. The work of destruction continued 10 days after the bureau reports were made, before rain came, and the aggregate loss of ths firmers must exceed $300,000,-000. This difference is inevitable in purchases of manufactured and imported goods by the north-west. If prices had not been inflated by real estate booms and if new indebtedness of enormous volume had not been created, the loss of even the tenth of an area of the value of farm products would make little difference. But mild speculation in lands and town lots, the expenditure of many hundred millions in new buildings, and the permanent investment of large sums in new railroads and manufacturing work?, render a partial loss of the crops more important

THE political situation in Europe is a matter of great interest to all the world. Great and stirrinofevents may soon be expected from that part of the globe. President George Washburn, D. D., of Robert college, Constantinople, who has just returned to his home after a few weeks visit to America, gives a clear statement of the condition of the country whose history mu3t soon reach a page as exciting and eventful as any in her existence: "As to the general condition of Europe, all the Frenchmen and all the Germans whom I have met predict a war next year, although, curiously enough, the Germans are sure that it will be commenced by France and the Frenchmen that it will be declared by Germany. France is doing her best to secure a Russian alliance at the expense of Bulgaria, and Germany has already secured the alliance of Austria and Italy in case she is attacked. If England is drawn into the war it will be on the same side, but she will try to keep out of it. The question of Holland is a serious one, but it is not likely to come up until other questions have been settled. There are some who think that the financial difficulty of the European powers will prevent the outbreak of war; but there is another side to this question. Europe is now an armed camp, and financial ruin is staring governments and people in the face. Nothing but war or a general disarmament can put an end to this state of thing?, and as there is no hope of the latter in the present state of the world war cannot be long postponed. Already the wealth of Europe is being transferred to America (not so much to our spiritual as to our material advantage), a result due chiefly to the enormous expenditures of the European States for armaments. It will end in universal bankruptcy even if there is i o actual war. So this golden age of material progress is likely to end as miserably as the last century in spite of its discoveries, its inventions, its constitutions, and its praise of liberty, equality and fraternity.'

Michigan Hortienltnral Foolely at Hie State Fair.

The Michigan State Horticultural Society will make its usual exhibit at the State Fair, in Jackson, September 19-24, 18S7. Arrangements are about completed for displays of fruits from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska and California. One special feature will be a display of one hundred and fifty varieties of tomatoes from the horticultural department of the State Agricultural College. The florists of Jackson are to have charge of the display of plants and flowers, and the arrangement of the hall will be especially suited to a complete exhibition of horticultural products. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings of the Fair there will be meetings of the Society > probably at the circuit court room, for discussion; and at these sessions it is especially desirable that new and promising fruits be brought out for testing and recommendation. It is hoped that the horticulturists of the State will take advantage of the greatly reduced rail-road rates and attend these meetings. There will be no long papers, but the time will be taken up entirely with the free discussion of the following topics and such others as may be suggested by those in attendance. those in attendance.

State Conventions I-Ield in Iowa and Maryland.

Sovernor Lnntilu>? R«no»taatad in Iowa ainl Walter B. Brooks Nominated for Governor in Maryland—Th« Platforms-Other Political Xotes.

IOWA BEPUBUCAKS.

DES MOIXES, !»., Aujr. L'(i.—The Republican State convention, which was held in this city Wednesday, was largely attended. The ticket nominated was as follows:

Governor, William L:irrubt>e; Lieutenant-Governor, J. A. T. Hull: Supreme Judge, G. S. Robinson; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Henry Sabin.

The platform, which was adopted unanimously, strongly indorses prohibition; favors a protective tariff; opposes criminal and pauper immigration; approves of Civil-Service reform; arraigns the Cleveland Administration lor its treatment of Union soldiers and the constant preference it has shown to the men who fought te destroy the Union, its attempt to re-verse the verdict of the war by a surrender of the rebel battle-flags, its failure to reduce the surplus or decrtame uxution, and for Its broken promises Co fcha people and its in efficient discharge of the public services: demands anti-monopoly legislation in the State; favors a liberal pension policy; extends sympathy to Gladstone and Parnell in their struggle for Ireland's freedom, and commends Governor Larrabee's administra-

The striking features of the convention and the day were the enthusiasm and unanimity in favor of Senator Allison. He was cheered every time his name was mentioned with a heartiness of complete accord that left no doubt of the enthusiastic desire of his State to present his name for the Presidency at the proper time. But for his own advice, and active efforts of his nearest friends in support of it, that all personal ambitions should wait on party interest, and that the party should wait till next year, and get the latest judgment of the people, the convention would have declared for him.

MABYXAND EEPUBLICAXS

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 20.—The State Republican convention, which met here Wed nesday, was the largest and most enthusi astic gathering of Republicans held here for many years. Hon. Lewis C. McComas pre-sided, and the following ticket was nom-inated: For Governor, Walter B. Brooks, of Baltimore; for Comptroller, R. B. Dixon, of Talbot County; for Attorney-General, Francis Miller, of Montgomery County.

The platform adopted affirms the principles promulgated by the last Republican National convention, and declares:

The President's professions of civil-service reform are by his actions proven to be hol-low and delusive, and his failure to call the Federal office-holders to account for their open and shameless disregard of his own declarations that they should not engage in efforts to control the political action of their own party is a confession of the insincerity of his party, or a proof that his will is con-trolled by the stronger will of the senior Senator from Maryland.

The remaining sections call on Congress to pass the Blair Educational bill; suggests the passage of laws against discrimination against colored children In public schools; for adjusting differences between capital and labor, and for restricting pauper and criminal immigration. After the business of the convention was concluded a sensation was caused by the appearance on the floor of John K. CoK-en, a prominent lawyer and leader of the reform movement in the Democratic party. was introduced, and in one of the strongest speeches ever listened to in this city pledged to the Republican ticket the full support of the independent Democrats.

SAN FBANCIKCO, Aug. :!()._In the applica-tion of the Pacific Railroad Commission to compel Senator Stanford and other officers of the Central Pacific railroad to answer certain questions in regard to the expenditure of funds for the purpose of In-fluencing legislation, Justice Field, of the United States Supreme Court, yesterday de-livered an opinion to the effect that % he act of Congress creating the commission improperly invites the co-operation of the courts in an Inquiry that is not judicial. The citizens of Milan are rejoicing over the discovery of natural gas at a depth of only a little over 100 feet. The Leader, of last week, says: "About the middle of July Messrs. A. D. Jackson and A. B. Smith, of Firstst, commenced sinking a partnership well on the line between their ie«pective lota, employing Messrs. Hallock & Keoh to do the work. After passing ihrough the first bed of quicksand, which in this vicinity is from eight to ten feet below the surface, they struck a layer of cUy which continued to the depth of 01 feet, when another bed of quicksand was struck; this quicksand bed proved to be 53 feet thick, and last Friday afternoon the tools went into a bed of gravel at a depth cf 114 feet; at this point water rose within 17 or 18 leet of the surface. Evidences of gas also made its appearance with the water. The tube, a 4 inch gas pipe, was kept pumped cut, and the more was pumped the more gas came, which, when a lighted match was thrown into the pump, would give a loud puff. Saturday night the gas was Sighted in a 4-inch pipe and blazed up several feet, and would burn from a few minutes to over an hour. Cons dering that the gas comes up through nearly a hundred feet of water it is supposed that considerable of it is stowed away under the village of Milan, and now that the excite ment is again aroused it has been proposed to raise a fund for experimental purpose?, and 6ee what can be done to utilize this hidden treasure. The gas continues to come forth, and hundreds of people have visited it; to see Milan, or any portion of it, lighted by gas is indeed quite a curiosity.

Every one knows that cocoa is an excellent tonic. Taken in the morning, at breakfast, it has no equal for nutrition and strengthening qualities; but it can be taken with advantage at any time. It is especially recommended for nursing mothers, to whom its benefits are invaluable. Unfortunately cocoa is sometimes mixed with starch, arrowroot or sugar, and thus loses a great part of its special properties; hence, great care should be taken to procure the best in the market. Governor Adams Calls for United States Troops to Suppress the Disturbance -A Bloody ISattle Iteportud Near Mo«ker.

THE TIE ri'ItlSIXG.

DENVER, Col., Aupr. 2°'>—Governor Adams has called upon the Government to send United States troops to drive Colorow and his band of renejriule (Jtea back to their reservation and keep them there. He re-fers to the alarm of the settlers, and states they will be afraid to return to theix homes until the Indians are removed, and that the State troops are now bein<t used to protect the women mid children.

DENVEU, Col., Aug. 2H.—A dispatch from Glenwood Springs, received at midnight, Friday says: A courier just in from Meeker and the White river reports an engagement between Sheriff Kendall's posse of fifty-five men, supported by 100 cavalry, on one side, and a band of 100 Utes under Colorava on the other. Nine Indiana are one side, and a band of 100 Utes under Colorow on the other. Nine Indians are estimated to have been carried from the field dead. Deputy Sheriff Ward, of the sheriff's posse, was killed, and several others of his men and thie troops seriously wounded. The fight commenced vesterday morning upon the arrival Office and residence over postoffice, first menced yesterday morning upon the arrival of Sheriff Kendall's force to the support of the troops. The scene of the battle is at Wolf creek, thirty-five miles down the White river from Meeker. The engagement was conducted in Indian fashion from behind all the protection rocks, gullies and trees would give, and lasted vfatll after dark. Another engagement is expected.

> DENVER, Col., Aug. 20—Later advices and official reports from Sheriff Kendall and Major Leslie indicate that the battle was a drawn one in its results, and it has only Berved to rouse the Utes to frenzy. General Eeardon has given the following orders to Major Leslie:

"You are hereby ordered to fight to the State line. Be discreet, but capture Colorow if possi-ble. If you have to kill him to make the arrest do so and bring in his body. You are authorized to carry hostilities to the bitter end. Show this order to Kendall, Hooper, Dendy, and all concerned.

All concerned no doubt means the commandant of the United States forces, and it Is a Wnt to him that he must hold the Inon the reservation or they will be Bhot down like wolves. Reardon does not see peace in the near future unless the Government troops keep the Indians out of DENVER, Col., Aug. SO—A telegram from Meeker says that late information regarding Thursday's battle with Colorow shows that five whites were killed, instead of two, and four wounded, and that seven Indians and two squaws were killed and five wounded. There has been no fighting since Thursday, but over COO Indians are camped within six miles. The Indians are ready to fight at the least) provocation. The loss of nearly 300 ponies and their squaws has made them wild, and they are ready for revenge.

From the scattered information received the Indians number anywhere from 400 to 600. The regular troops number about 250 and the State force nearly if not quite as many. THE Maryland republicans have nominated the following state ticket: For Governor, Walter B. Brooks; for comptroller, R. B. Dix; for attorney general, Francis Miller. At the close of the business of the convention John K. Cowen, a life-long democrat, came before the body and in a strong speech pledged the newly nominated ticket the hearty support of the independent democrats of Maryland.

THE republicans of Iowa met in convention last Wednesday and renjminated Goveaor Lsribee and lieutenant governor Hull. Senator George S. Robinson was nominated for Justice of the Supreme Court, and Henry Sabin, of Clinton, for Superintendent of Public Instruction. The platform declared in favor of a protective tariff and the maintenance of the civil rights of all classes of citizens in all parts of the republic. There was no specific declaration in favor of Senator Allison for president, but every time his name was mentioned it was received with buicts of applause. He is undoubtedly the choice of » majority of the people of Iowa for that office.

THE following story from the Lansing Journal is worthy the attention of every young lady who is affianced to an intemperate young man, and the lady who can follow her example will no doubt save herself a great deal of sorrow in after years: "One wedding ceremony billed to be performed in Lansing to-morrow afternoon has yielded to an adverse fate. The prospective bridegroom appeared at the home of his betrothed last night in an overwhelmingly intoxicated state. The young lady sized up her lover's condition in a moment and pluckily decided upon a course of action in the next. She quietly informed him that their dream of love was o'er, and this morning had the spunk to follow her recently issued married invitations with notes of regret announcing that the wedding has been indefinitely

THE NI: w 1.1<(1 Jok LAW.

The "Bates liquor law' enacted by the last legislature of this state goes into effect September 23d. There are many good features to the new law that if strictly enforced will restrain the traffic considerably, so much so that a drunken man ought very seldom to be seen on our streets. Especially in the provision respecting the sale to students, should the law be obeyed in this city. The tax is fixed as follows: Spirituous or mixed liquors (except patent medicines) and brewed or malt liquors at retail, $500; brewed or malt liquors only, at wholesale and retail or at wholesale or retail, $300; spirituous liquors at wholesale, $500; spirituous liquors at wholesale or retail, $800; manufacturing brewed or malt liquors, $G5; manufacturing spirituous liquors, $800. This tax is divided equally between the county and the city, village or township in which the tax was collected. The bonds of liquor dealerj shall not be less than $3,000 nor more than $6,000, and the council is allowed to refuse a bond, if the principal is known to be a person unfit to conduct the business of liquor selling. It is unlawful to sell liquor to students, as well as to minors, or to allow them to play at cards, dice, billiards or any game of chance in any part of a building where spirituous liquors are sold The saloons must close at nine, although the council may provide that they may remain open until eleven. A person selling to minors shall be liable to not less than $50 damages to the parent or guardian o: the minor to whom he has sold liquor The penalty for violating any provision o the act is a fine of not more than $200 am costs, or by imprisonment not more than ninety days, or both fine and imprison ment. Sec. 31 provides: "During the tim< when by the provisions of this act place •where liquor is sold or kept for sale muss be closed, all curtains, screens, partition and other things that obstruct the view from the sidewalk, street, alley or road in front of or at the side or end of said build ing, of the bar or place in said room whensaid liquors are kept for sale, shall be rea moved. Those who have paid their liquotaxes will not be called upon for monr .taxes until next May."

...ALSK PLEIS FOR CRIMINALS.

That crime is on the increase in our tate, and indeed in the whole country, is well known fact. Honest minded citiens are troubled to know what is to be the result if this state of things is permitted to go on unchecked. One thing is evident, public opinion must be educated up to the point that the safety of the community demands a more rigorous execution' of the laws in the punishment of criminals. That there is need of improvement in this line can hardly be a question. It is humiliating to notice what false pleas are suffered to prevail in our courts of justice, and what unworthy efforts are put brth to shield the offender, and mitigate he severity of the sentence. No matter IOW enormous may be the crime, or clear and convicting the evidence, it is a matter if great uncertainty whether the offender will ever receive his deserved punishment, It is a common ocsurrecce for some judge to be hunted up who will grant a stay of proceedinga, and on the most frivolous rounds, for a higher court to remand back the case for a new trial. There are crimilals whose guilt is clear and undeniable who have been adjudged to state's prison, and are hospitably entertained under a brm&l show of restraint in our county >enitentiaries. After a lingering course f delay these very men will be allowed to escape punishment altogether and go ut into society to perpetrate even more ;laring enormities. This matter of "comounding crimes" also needs to be taken n hand. " It you will pay back a certain mount of the money you have stolen from me, I will not appear against you." This s openly said in almost all communities, and they are blots upon our civilization, and should not be tolerated.

Just now we have a new plea interposed or the relief of criminals under sentence after conviction. They are said to be seriously indisposed and actually to be sufferng from some incurable malady. In one of our prominent cities a man of some >rominence was under indictment for bribery which tvas clearly established, but he lecame exceedingly ill, even alarmingly sick, and the physician testified that he was lying at the point of death. The ender-hearted CDurt could not, under the sad circumstances, press the indictment, and he was allowed to return from his emporary restraint to his home to die of consumption. His malady at once assumed a most favorable turn, and the improvement in health was most remarkable. But the indictment has not been called up 'or trial, and if it should be, there would be in the case of this criminal a most sudden and dangerous relapse. It is most disgusting to read in every day's report concerning the health of that notorious rich hug, Jacob Sharp, that he is gradually tgrowing weaker and has one foot already in the grave. It may be true, but we are disposed to doubt the accuracy of the resort. He certainly displayed a short time ago a most astonishing amount of physical mdurance, when he was on the street manipulating corporations to his personal benefit to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars

What we say is this—public opinion should be aroused to the necessity of punishing crime and protecting society.

HOMOEOPATHIC FIRE.

From the Lady who was Bnrned by It.

After reading in your paper what I did in regard to myself, I wish to say a few words. As the Dr. says, I was a charity patient, though I was not aware of its being a charitable institution, and if so, why should my expenses have been so much—from $4 to $10 per week? If that is the way to pay for charity, then why not pay at the same rate for glory? I think after going through with what I did it was enough without being made to suffer any more through carelessness and neglect, which certainly was in my case, and then after being burned, to make my expenses more than if I had not been burned. If those that were to blame had made my expenses any less, then it would look a little more like injustice. But I will say this, after seeing what had been done: I had the best of care, and all was done for me then that could be done, and I feel very grateful to all for their more than ueual kindness and sympathy; but that did not help my suffering, neither did it give me back my limbs or health, and I certainly would rather have died under the knife than to have been left in the shape that I am and suffer what I do.

Furthermore, the doctor said I was an object of disgust to those that came in contact with me. That does not agree with what was told me while at the hospital. Different ones told me it was a pleasure as well as profit to take care of me, and I do not think the doctor would have said what he did if I had held stir, and done nothing. But, doctor,let me ask you one question: had it been your wife or mother in my place, would you hole still and let such a thing pass unnoticed? I cannot believe that any rational person would have done any different, and I fee as though I could not be left a cripple without health, limbs or means to help myself with, for I always had to work for a living, and now I am in shape that I can not work from the effects of the burning (or cooking would be more appropriate) and from the operation. Now I will say to the public, take this home to yourselves then answer this question: would you have done any different?

That of all the pianos in the market, only those made by less than a dozen manufacturers have ever been considered, by competent judges, first-class, reliable instruments.

As several scores of firms represent themselves as manufacturers of the themselves as manufacturers of the best (?) instruments, who in reality do nothing more or less than get the different parts of a piano from as many different makers and put these parts together, hit or miss, it is worth your while to find out before buying whether or not the piano you may have been shown or urged to buy is a first-class, desirable instrument.

IT IS NO LESS A FACT, that more money is made on poor pi-anos than on good ones; and therefore an agent who cares not to earn a repu-tation for himself or instrument, will use every effort to sell the cheapest piano he can buy.

MESSRS. HAINES BROS., OF NEW YORK, have for years been known as manufacturers of the first rank; and the upright pianos, which they are manufact-uring exclusively, are recommended by all artists as the finest upright piano in the

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any ether disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOT, Lowell, Mass. C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for 6even years, spriDg and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sar-saparilla, and now says:" I am entirely well." "My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Hood's Sarsaparilla

THE QUEEN'S TRAIN.

PRECAUTIONS OBSERVED WHEN VICTORIA IS ON THE ROAD.

Regulations for Iler Majesty's Journey Everything Brought to a Standstill. Speeding Across England in Strict Privacy—The Royal Carriages.

The English press, in referring to the eitraordinary precautions observed in connection with the present journey of the czar to the Don Cossack country, comment on the unfortunate state of affairs in Russia which renders the adoption of such measures neces

From this it would appear that they are ignorant of the fact that almost identical regulations are in force whenever Queen Victoria travels through any port of her dominions, no matter whether it be from Osborne to Balmoral or from Windsor to London. deed, the precautions for her safety are very elaborate, and will surprise most people.

The regulations for her majesty's journey fill several foolscap pages, including the time tables, which occupy two pages. The times of departure and arrival having been mentioned, and the metals on which the train will travel specified, the regulations provide:

1. For a pilot engine, accompanied by the locomotive superintendent of the particular district traveled over, and by a guard, with lamps, flags and fog signals. The engine lamps, flags and fog signals. The engine precedes the royal train at a uniform rate of speed, and is always fifteen minutes in advance of it.

2. The drivers and firemen, as well as the engines for the royal train, are specially selected. Telegraph men accompany the train under a superintendent, and brakemen, fitters, lampmen and greasers travel in the train all the way, keeping a constant watch.
At stopping places they must alight and examine the train and grease the axle boxes.

3. A lookout is placed on the tender of the engine, and, seated with his face toward the engine, observes any signal that may be given by the occupants. This position is by no means an enviable one, as may be imagined, particularly at nisht, when more than ordinary vigilance is required.

OTHER PRECAUTIONS.

The above are a few of the precautions which the railroad companies adopt to secure her majesty's safety, and her comfort is no less carefully studied. For thirty minutes previous to the queen's coming, no train, not even a light engine, by which is meant an engine without carriages attached, or any kind of vehicle is permitted to proceed upon or cross the main line, the pilot engine alone excepted. Not only are all these regulations enforced on the down line, but on the up line also it is commanded that drivers must reduce their speed to ten miles an hour and on no account open the whistle when passing her majesty's train. Furthermore, no passenger trains are permitted to arrive or even pass through the stations while the queen's train is stopping at such stations for refreshments, or to change engines. The passengers arriving at Perth after traveling all night are frequently detained for over an hour on a siding outside the depot while the queen is breakfasting, before they are allowed to alight. Not only are these rules expected to be, and are, strictly conformed to, but all goods trains are examined to see if anything is projecting which might strike the royal train. No driver is permitted to allow his engine to blow off steam or to permit any smoke to escape, or to whistle while on a siding near the queen, or while she is passing. The facing and other points are properly secured and bolted before the royal train passes; the gates or level crossings, where there are no gate keepers, are locked an hour before the queen comes; and a long line of plate layers are stationed at stated in-tervals within hail of one another, like a row of sentries, to guard the permanent way.

Special telegraphic signals are employed.

The public are excluded from the stations, and the servants of the company must perform their duties silently and without noise

TRAVELING IN SILENCE. In this luxurious and eminently peaceful manner, in as strict privacy as if in her own nents, does the quee land by day or night. While she is sleeping or tossing in bed, while the moon shines or the thunder rattles, through a calm or storm, the royal train continues its unerring way in the darkness and almost in silence. A monster engine rushes by-fifteen minutes afterward the lights of the queen's train flash past, and then, after a pause, the hand of discipline is partly relaxed. Locomotives run off on errands to reclaim wandering carriages, goods engines snort and sneeze again, facing points are left as usual, gates are unlocked, the plate layers return to bed, station masters turn in and leave the platform to the porters and the stars, the servants of the railroad company once again revel in banging milk cans and luggage about with their ordinary disregard for other people's property. Brakemen of goods trains get into their vans, and apparently don't care whether anything projects or not; express drivers rush by whistling in their regained freedom. The royal train has passed. The line assumes its normal condition. Just as the arrival of the prince started the sleeping palace into life, so is the departure of the queen the signal for the resump-tion of the bustle and noise and turmoil which her presence or her approach had mesmerized into silence and restfulness.

The queen's saloons are in the center of the train, and these commodious carriages, fitted for day or night traveling, her majesty occupies with Princess Beatrice.

There are two beds in the sleeping apartment which opens from the day saloon. The beds are simple, matching the green and gilt furniture and fittings, and are something like elaborate cots in shape; and generally the interior fittings of the train leave nothing to be desired. The floors are carpeted, the ceilings padded, the wide windows curtained and the amps deeply shaded. Electric bells communicate with the attendants or the officials, and by pressing a button at the end of a long variegated cord or bell pull, the alarm is sounded in the guard's van. A separate electric button is fixed in each side of the sleeping apartment, by which the attendants may be summoned; another button, when pressed, will cause the train to stop as quickly

The usual furniture is comfortable but simple. There are hooks and racks for parcels, wraps, bird cages and small bundles, of which the queen and the princess convey a goodly supply.—Mew York Sun.

Alter a time, while picking some rjernes and moving about in quest of others, the writer became separated from his companions. Meantime the sun became obscured by heavy clouds, it began to thunder and threaten rain, while in almost every direc-tion could be heard the deep bellowing of alligators. They seemed near by, and their unearthly noise was not calculated to add to the cheerfulness of one alone in a heavy, strange forest in an enemy's country and with a terrific storm approaching.

Fortunately, however, the storm passed around and the writer soon found his way out of the timber and in due time reached camp with a good supply of nice berries.

Speaking of alligators, the writer recalls an experience, with what was supposed to be one, in the early spring of 1863, while marching across the peninsula opposite Vicksburg, when upon the campaign against that stronghold.

The command had halted for a day or two at Holmes' plantation, and with a companion the writer set out for a hunt. The whole region nearly was more or less under water, and we were obliged t. make our way for the most part upon a levee that led along the banks of a bayou. Pretty soon we saw what was thought to be an alligator sticking his head out of the water. We both had army muskets that carried a large minnie ball. One of us took aim and fired very deliberately, but made no impression upon the object aimed at, but as alligators are notoriously non-impression-able to bullets, nothing was thought of this, and another shot was fired.

About this time the "alligator" jerked his head under water, but soon put it out again, and this operation he repeated at short intervals. Meantime shot after shot was fired, and at last one knocked ofl a large piece of bark from the end of a gray, weather-beaten log that lay in the stream in such a position Unit while one end was imbedded in the mud the other projected up stream and just came to the surface upon which it rose and fell with the current. This, technically called by boatmen a "sawyer", was what we had taken for an alligator's head and tired at so many times.

One day the writer was sitting upon the fence around the house near which his company was encamped, when all at once a terrific explosion was heard that seemed to be right at hand. The first thought was that the Brigade Battery had, unnoticed,

SCENE AT NASHVILLE IN THE EARLY DAYS OF TUK WAR-SACKED GRAIN PILED ONTHK LEVJSE.—From an Old Photograph, taken position near-by and discharged several pieces simultaneously; but turning his eyes toward Mobile the writer saw rising there that great column of smoke characteristic of an explosion.

The smoke mounted up in a dark, thick mass and then spread out like an immense umbrella or mushroom, and ough it could be seen broken timbers and debris of

Although three miles from Mobile, quite a concussion was felt, and glass was cracked in the windows of the house near camp.

It was supposed a steamer at the wharf had blown up, but later came word that an immense amount of ammunition surrendered by the Conlederates, shipped in by rail aud stored in a large warehouse in Mobile, had exploded. A number were killed, and the shock in the city was almost like an earthquake, breaking windows and tearing doors from their hinges all over the city.

SECTION XXI—A CONFEDERATE MAIL BAG AND A GUHI'BB AV SOME OF ITS CONTENTS.

Just before the cessation of hostilities a Confederate mail-sack heavily laden with letters, papers, etc., was captured north of Mobile. This some time m May was emptied near where the writer's company was encamped.

The contents \vero a confused mass of papers, torn envelopes and open letters, all having been hurriedly examined at division headquarters.

Very many of the letters were so poorly written as to be almost unintelligible; others showed good penmanship and education, refinement and culture in the writers. All were written upon the thin, poor, shoddy paper of Confederate manufacture. Several very crude wood cuts were found that had been forwarded as valentines to certain members of the fair sex by their admirers. One of these, now in the writer's possession, was printed on the shoddiest kind of paper by George Dunn & Company, publishers, Richmond, Va., and just below a rude cut of a female with low-necked dress, short sleeves, flowing skirts, wide flounces and capacious hoop skirt, is a stanza the last words of which are: "Ah let me still survive, and burn in Cupid's flames, but let me burn

QUARLE'S BRIGADE ARMY TENNESSEE.
This letter has now been in the writer's possession almost twenty-one years. He has read it many times, and always with renewed interest, and it has never failed to bring before his mind an all-pervad4ng sense of what "might have been," had it not miscarried and fallen into the hands of a Yankee instead of the fair one intended.

The letter was in a great heap with many others, and like all the rest had been removed from its envelope, so that it was impossible to ascertain the name of the young lady addressed. It was written on blue-tinted paper of unusual good quality for Confederate manufacture, tho handwriting good, and indeed the whole make-up of the letter was just of the kind most likely to impress the mind of a young lady. Had it reached its destination an interesting correspondence would certainly have followed, and very likely a love affair, and perhaps an engagement and marriage. May be, however, McCauly came to Mobile, was there during tha siege, firing at the invaders', and when off duty calling upon his "unknown friend." And may be he fell at Spanish Fort or Blakely in defense of his native Alabama.

Such a letter as h« writes is calculated to set in operation a thousand conjectures. and then it has the ring of the true soldier with—as is usual with brave men—an entire absence of bitter epithets for his enemies. In a different vein is the following, found at the same time and yet in the writer's possession:

"Beckie," most likely, long since mar-ried and is now the mother of a large brood of children that look like our family. Good Mrs. Julia Murphy is probably a nice, fat, old lady, who remembers all about the war and the time of "the surrender."

But Mrs. Victoria Nixon has probably attended two funerals in the past twenty-one years, one not a great while after the war closed, when grandma died and was buried at the old family burying ground, under the great live-oak; and the other a short time ago, when the "dearly beloved mother" was laid beside the husband that JieJ many years before and left tehind a widow and a number of children. Kulistinc.eq nipping,drilling and ctiscipliDing an army is a long, tedious process, as aDv one can readily see. Disbanding ao army, which includes satisfactorily settling with and mustering out each individual compos-, ing it, and properly accounting for all property had from the Governments not so difficult a process, but yet one that takes time and much labor.

Pretty soon after the surrender of the commands of General Lee and Johnston, orders were issued for the mustering out of all whose terms of enlistment expired before a certain date.

In the case of the writer's regiment, a consolidated one embracing two original regi-mental organizations, about one-half had been mustered into service at an earlier date than the other.

To meet this difficulty an order came from General Sheridan—since the latter part of April in command of the department—for mustering out and discharging taose in the regiment whose term of service expired at the earlier date and the organization of the remnant into a battalion with its original designation.

This order necessitated In Its carrying out much extra clerical labor among those whose business it was to do this kino of duty, but finally the rolls were all made out and upon one set were the names of the lucky ones who were soon to go tc their homes and friends in the North, and upon the other thoseof their less fortunate comrades who were to remain in service yet awhile longer. Tha writer wa3 among the latter.

Early one morning in July those to be immediately mustered out were drawn up in line for the march to Mobile, three miles distant, where a steamer awaited them at Strife filled the gap!

Midsummer, 1863, found McClellan beaten, defeated in the Peninsular campaign and his army at bay upon the James river. A little later Pope met overwhelming defeat in Northern Virginia; then, as a little relief came South Mountain and Antietam.

But in early winter followed the disastrous defeat of Fredericksburg that in angurated the dark and dismal winter of 1862-3—the dreariest time of tae war for the Union cause.

But with tha spring of 1863 came a better outlook, and there followed Vicksburg and Gettysburg—when the tide turned and remained steadily against the Confederates till the end two years later—and Chatanooga closed a most successful year for the

The determined advance of the army of the Potomac in the early spring of IS64, through the bloody way of the wilderness, Spottsylvania and Cold Harbor and its persistent stay about Petersburg and Richmond, showed that the great North had at last realized its own tremendous power. In the latter half of the year, Atlanta and the "March to the Sea" and Sheridan's mar-velous successes in the Shenandoah Valley, gave evidence that the Confederacy of the proud-spirited Southerners was already toppling: but if any further manifestation of its speedy downfall was needed this came with the crowning victory of the year at Nashville, under the unequaled Thomas. Prompt and energetic action in February, 1855, gave us Charleston, where was fired the first shot, and in April, Mobile, Petersburg, Richmond and Appomattox!' But April, IS60, the month that witnessed complate Union success and the ending of the war, saw also the whole land overwhelmed with sorrow because the one to whom above all others wa3 due the most for the final fortunate consummation, was slaii by an assassin's bullet.

All these things had transpired since enlistment, three years before. Doubt, disaster, distrust in June, July and August, 1862—then the enrollment of "six hundred thousand more" brave men, among whom was the little band now moving off with cheery hearts and quick, elastic tread—their faces turned home-

The change in organization again brought the writer into the hospital department, and he cheerfully resumed his duties'. But the men had become so inured to camp and field that they suffered little inconvenience from any irregularities encountered; henca there was little sickness.

Near camp was a family with whom the writer became quite friendly. They were kind enough to loan him bocks to read, and on more than one occasion when they were away he, with a companion, by invitation slept in the house. Some of the friends of

One day in August an order came for the battalion to report at New Orleans, to be mustered out. A boat was taken at Mobile one afternoon and the trip made by way of Mississippi sound, Grant's Pass and Laks Ponchartrain.

Lake Port near New Orleans was reached the middle of the forenoon next day. At the landing a one-legged soldier from Lee'3 army hobbled off the boar with crutch and cane. He had given four years of service for what? And now crippled, penniless and perhaps homeless, he returned to his native city to drag out the remnant of a life ways they wised by a way and a life. life worse than ruined by a war originally brought oa by a few in his native South,

By aDd by, all being in readiness, passage up the river was secured on a most excellent river boat, and upon this the battalion embarked.

The trip was delightful, and many places passed with which the command had every reason to be familiar. Amoug these were Baton Rouge, Morganza Bend, Grarnl Gulf, each of which brought to mind past experience in camp and field.

Vicksburg, Milliken's Bend, Memphis, etc.

Near Memphis, one morning, a man in one of the companies was missing, and no trace of him could be found on tho boat. The vessel had not been near shore since the evening previous, when the missing man's comrade saw him alive and well.

Upon the cabin deck of the boat were cots upon which were several sick men; one of these was delirious with typhoid fever, and one eight when the nurse's back was turned jumped over the railing and was lost in the dark, seething waters of the Mississipppi.

One evening just after nightfall the lights of Cairo came in sight, and produced a strange thrill in the hearts of the little band of Illinoisans aboard, who three years before had come by that city on their way to the enemy's country, but with what fortune they were to return, no one could

Every man was thrilled with delight as he stepped from the boat at Cairo and once more trod upon the soil of his own beloved State that had sent to the front so many of its brave sons and given to the Nation a Lincoln and a Grant. Seldom does it tall to the lot of one Commonwealth to contribute so much to the country's weal.

Next day toward evening a train of stock cars was boarded and the trip to Camp Butler started upon.

Early next morning from every farmhouse and dwelling welcome was extended by those within waving from door or window some article of textile character.

A very few had flags, but the majority had handkerchiefs or towels, and one old Dutch woman from an upper story vviudow flaunted vigorously what seemed to be a red flannel skirt. Camp Butler was reached in the afternoon, and as its gates were entered what memories crowded upon the mind I

Three years before, out of this inclosure, marched an organization more than a thousand strong; to-day it returns a little band of two hundred.

A MORTAR.—From Harper's, the sea in Texas and Alabama. Many more have in the past three years been dis-charged as no longer fit for service and returned to their homes maimed in body and broken down with disease.

Not long after reaching Camp Butler a letter was received from the commandant at Vicksburg, stating that the dead body of a man was rescued from the river there, upon whose person was found letters and papers that identified him as the soldier who disappeared from tha vessel so suddenly one night while coming up the Mississippi. The letter stated further that there was a bullet hole through the man's head. Thus the mystery thickened rather than otherwise, as there was sup posed to be no one on the boat who would commit murder, and, besides, a shot fired would certainly have attracted attention. This was the last death in the command previous to dismemberment.

Some days were occupied at Camp Butler before tha final scene in the last act in the drama of war was enacted.

About the middle of September one afternoon the little battalion was drawn up in line for the last time. Just in front was an open window at which sat a regular army officer. Up to this window each man stepped as his name was called off, and they was bonded him his discharge. and there was handed him his discharge papers and a roll of money representing the amount due from the Government.

But little time was taken in the whole affair, and aoon what had been the —— Regiment of Illinois Volunteers became a thing af tae past.

The officers of the Washtenaw agricultural society are already making arrangements for the fall meeting of the society and express themselves enthusiastically regarding the fair to be held in this city the first week in October. From all parts of the county stock men are asking for the lists and announcing their determination to make exhibits, and the officers predict that the show of stock will exceed anything ever before seen in the county. The in crease in the herds of blooded cattle, flocks of sheep, in horses and swine, etc., in the county, would alone make a large addition to the usual large exhibit. What is true of stock is true of manufactured goods and miscellaneous articles, dairy products and merchandise. The long and continued drought may curtail the show of fruits and vegetables somewhat but it is believed even in these, as well as grains the exhibits will be most creditable. THE REGISTER would suggest to the officers that they offer special attractions on different days. Other societies do this, and find that the attendance is materially increased thereby. A purse should be offered for base ball, and one day set apart for that sport. Another attraction which has proved in other cities to be a good drawing card, is a "children's day," a prize being offered for the largest school in attendance from any place in the county, and a prize for the one coming the longest distance.

Farm For Sale. Having grown fruit for forty years, with much pleasure and a fair margin of profit, I find that increasing years bring decreasing strength, and not being able to be with my men as a person should who conducts a general fruit farm, I propose to sell one or both of my places to some young person who has not been so much worn by the fatigue of labor and business. The other place is in the western part of the city, consisting of 12 acres of very choice land and planted about one half to Snyder blackberries, the other to Gregg raspberries, with 450 peach trees among the blackberries. I offer also my dwelling house, pleasantly located on three lots, planted to pears and plums. The whole premises are in good order and will be kept so while I own them. Many years ago the home farm was laid out in blocks and lots, several of which were sold and built upon, but the sale was stopped when it was eral of which were sold and built upon, but the sale was stopped when it was found that peach-growing could be carried on to profit on this high rolling land. Both these places can be divided so that a person can purchase much less than the whole of either place.
