HISTORIC BOSTON.

ANOTHER BOSTON LETTER.

Harvard Square—The Old Elm—Old Cambridge—Rev. J. T. Allen—The Markets—Boston Beer, Etc.

DEAR REGISTER:—To-day, with a lady friend, I took a car at Bodowin Square for Cambridge, across the river Charles. After a pleasant ride of several miles (these square, flat horse cars are a great institution) we arrived at Harvard Square, and rested in the shadow of a splendid white marble pile, erected to the memory of the Cambridge soldiers who perished in the war of the rebellion. The "Square" is a beautiful large green shaded park, free to all, the only flowers being in an inclosure about the base of the monument, and these are luxuriant and delightful. After a little rest and a lunch we found our way to the famous old Elm, known as the "Washington Tree," under whose spreading branches the great General and hero of the revolutionary war took command of the troops on the eve of war in 1772.

THE OLD ELM

has been carefully preserved by a grateful people, as wires, bands of iron and sheets of zinc have been employed to brace, support and keep some parts of it from falling asunder. But the newer limbs and branches above are covered with luxuriant foliage, which throws a broad shadow upon the sward beneath. Few people visiting Boston neglect to visit this object of historic interest. I visited the home of the renowned poet, Longfellow, but the house was closed on account of repairs, and had to be content with walking about the beautiful grounds. Several people, some from Europe, came while we were there, but were obliged to go away without gaining a peep at the library and home of the illustrious and much beloved poet of all nations.

"OLD CAMBRIDGE."

as it is called, is very different in general appearance from Boston in its architecture. Instead of being built almost entirely of solid brick and stone, there are beautiful frame and other kinds of dwelling, with large yards filled with flowers. There seems to be more elbow room, more air and more freedom. Many of the homes of the cultured and refined and noted people are closed, their owners or occupants being still absent on vacation trips to summer resorts. No matter how lovely one's own home, restless humanity still craves change.

REV. J. T. ALLEN.

the pastor of the Cambridge Unitarian church and a distinguished author of books, many of which grace the shelves of my library, is absent; his house is closed. I had hoped to meet him, having been a personal acquaintance during his pastorate in the Unitarian church in Ann Arbor, after the retirement of Charles H. Brigham. I had a little conversation with his gardener, of whom I gained some information concerning the place and people. The houses are splendid, but the curious, quaint and queer devices carried out by their "cultured" owners is quite a study. You hear the word "culture" in the mouth of every Bostonian when proudly boasting of the advantages of their beloved Boston. But as in other places the culture, that is, its extraordinary manifestation in learning and authorship, is only evinced by the few, while the masses are not more intelligent and refined than people everywhere to be met with.

THE MARKETS.

One naturally wonders where the thousands upon thousands of people who are constantly thronging the streets and avenues of the city get their three square meals a day. Well, I resolved to find out what I could, and early one morning I found my way to Fanueil Hall markets. To offer an attempt at description would give but a faint idea of the reality. I was simply astonished at the endless display of dressed meats, poultry, eggs, vegetables, fish and fruits, the whole length of the square on all sides. Barrels of lobsters, red and smoking from the cauldron, or green and squirming in direful anticipation of the fate so soon to follow, (for they boil them alive), so it seemed to me, were here by the hundreds, and salt-water fish of every kind and color. This is a wholesale market, and from it are supplied the groceries and meat-markets throughout the city. Dressed meats, thousands of tons brought on the cars in refrigerators, for there are no slaughter houses in Boston, and "a better way is to slaughter the animals in the far west, as live transportation tends to injure the quality," which is now universally adopted. There are two markets, Fanueil Hall and Quincy. I felt repaid by my visit, as it settled the matter in my mind that there was food enough in Boston to supply the state, if "a" people could only get it.

BOSTON BEER.

There seems to be a great demand for beer, if one can judge by the great beer Wagons everywhere seen, and the liquor houses with their "40 rod," "Hellgate" and other brands flauntingly displayed to the public by the venders, who seem proud of their calling, are never kept in the shade by screens, but every whisky palace open to public inspection, while the drinkers and tippers stand unblushingly at the bars end drink as long as they can hold. Men and women are often seen feeling along the walks trying to find their way out of the throng in too dazed a condition to know their own friends, and the Police never molest these persons so long as they behave quietly. And yet, there is a temperance people and temperance societies held by the friends of humanity who can but bewail this state of affairs through this terribly evil practice of licening liquor selling, and these take courage in hoping for the time to come when there will be an end to the curse of dram-drinking, as thirteen cities and two hundred and seventy five towns and villages are under prohibition this year in Massachusetts.

A murder was committed in South Boston yesterday. Two employees at the depot, "Old Colony," got into a general row about the upsetting of a wheelbarrow load of coal; high words were followed by blows and ended in one man being stabbed to death. The "oh, be joyful" was at the bottom of it, though neither of the men was considered drunk. I do not hear of much of this sort of crime; indeed, that is the first reported in my hearing, which (peaks well for this great city.

People are beginning to return from their summer vacations, and a "revival of business" is anticipated, though a promenade on Washington and some other of the business streets, which are thronged constantly by dense crowds, while the stores and shops are filled with purchasers, would cause you to wonder where there could be room for more. Fruits of all sorts are here in great abundance, but very dear. One man held some mammoth yellow peaches at $1.25 per dozen. It is not unusual to see them at 75 and 50 cents per dozen, and other things in proportion. There has not been any drouth to complain of in this state.

MRS. N. H. PIERCE.

THE SIEW S. C. A. BUILDING.

Excellent Prospects for a Handsome Building and an Ample Endowment—$15,750 Already Secured.

Mr. A. E. Jennings, who is spending his vacation, in the interest of the Students' Christian Association, in securing contributions for the proposed association building, is stopping in the city a few days. He reports excellent success in his work. He has visited a number of the leading city of the state, and also went into the Upper Peninsula, where he was cordially welcomed by Mr. Charles Hebard, the new regent. Mr. Hebard has never seen the University, but is nevertheless a great friend to it, as well as to the cause of education and Christianity, and unsolicited drew his note for $250 towards the new building.

The sum of $15,750 has been pledged thus far, and Mr. Jennings is almost certain of an endowment fund of $20,000 for running expenses after the building is completed. He has made it his aim to secure $40,000 for the building fund before next January, and it seems very probable that the generous-hearted people of the state will not permit him to be disappointed. Everywhere he is received with great cordiality, and he is surprised at the interest and good will the people feel in their great University. There is no cause that appeals with better reason to the friends of religion, morality and good government than this, and none where the money expended will exert a wider influence for good.

Mr. Jennings was in the office of the Detroit Evening Journal a few days ago, and Mr. Brearley, the generous and enterprising publisher of that wide-awake newspaper, gave him assurance of his earnest support. An interview the Journal had with Mr. Jennings, given below, will be of general interest:

"For several years the Students' Christian Association at the University has been struggling to accommodate itself to quarters far too small for its numbers. The first college society was started in 1850, as an undenominational organization, to promote the cause of Christianity among the members of the university. When the doors of the university were thrown open to women, they were also admitted to the society, and have ever since been among its most earnest workers.

From the beginning to the present the association has met in college rooms, and now it is occupying a room 22x44 feet in the south wing of the main building. This room has been used for prayer meetings, for the library and for all other purposes of the association.

The need of an association building has long been apparent, and for some time work in this direction has been in progress. The university is perhaps the most effective field for missionary effort that can be found. Here gather students from all over the world, and on their return to their homes they carry the impress of university life, not alone in their mental training, but on their moral nature as well. Christianity being presented to young men and women at a time when they are forming their characters, the good effects are life-long.

Such being the reasoning of the friends of the association, a lot now worth $3,000 was bought and paid for. It is situated on State-st., opposite the main building, and is in every way well adapted as a site for the proposed building. Four years ago the plan was for a building to cost, when furnished, $15,000. The unexpectedly rapid growth of the association, however, makes it necessary to enlarge this plan so as to provide for a structure to cost, when completed, about $35,000.

Toward this fund a generous friend of the university, whose name is to be withheld for the present, has promised to give $15,000. With this very liberal subscription as a beginning, work has begun to secure the other $20,000 needed. The project is to secure a building which shall contain an assembly hall to seat 500 persons. Opening from this are to be three rooms to be used by the several departments for their prayer-meetings; a library and such office rooms as may be necessary.

The project has the hearty co-operation and approval of President Angell and the university faculty. The pastors of the Ann Arbor and Detroit churches have unqualifiedly endorsed the work, and Mr. A. E. Jennings, a student at the university, has taken the matter in hand.

The Journal, anxious to encourage a work at once so beneficent in its nature and so wide-reaching in its influence, will receive, acknowledge and turn over to the authorized persons, all subscriptions that may be sent in.

Every graduate of the university is interested in this work. Every friend of sound morals, as well as sound learning, should contribute to so good a cause. It is not so much a question of the size of the subscriptions. In these days, when so many can give a little, large sums can be raised easily, provided those who can give will give.

All remittances should be marked "For the Students' Christian Association Building," and be sent to the Evening Journal. They will be promptly acknowledged from time to time. The sum needed is $20,000.

Jacob's Ladder.

To the Editor:

Our "Angels," of course, are skilful climbers. The higher we make them go the nearer heaven they will get and the sweeter they will be. They are not made of gross material that can sicken and weary like other mortals; they need little sleep or rest or fresh air, or physical relaxation. They can recite five hours a day, study twelve hours, sleep four, and climb the rest of the time. The old-fashioned angels had wings to help them climb; we deny ours such appendage; they might be too healthy and live too long, and so wrong the doctors, the preachers and the undertakers. A healthy woman would be a coarse reflection on the refinements of modern times; better that she be an intellectual ephemera. Teachers and school officers understand this, and keep adding improvements in that direction. Girls just entering their teens must take four to seven solid studies, climb three or four flights of stairs several times a day with a mule load of books, be bright, quick and correct on every question, at the peril of being called "fools" or listening to equivalent polite, stimulating remarks. So many new things crowd themselves into our curriculum there is no room for the old maxim: "A sound mind in a sound body." That is too low and groveling. Up! up! up! is the order. The trustees better make a sky-light in the top of the high school building and keep it open so that the girls can go right on up by a "mysterious providence" and save the expense of funerals. Perhaps, however, they will compromise with those parents who would keep the dear creatures out of heaven a little longer, and make the new building ten stories high and give the girls the top. Certainly air is cheaper than earth, and health and life than money; so build up and not spread out on the ground.

Of course, it would be impertinent to make suggestions to or criticize men so wise. We have, however, heard about "going fast slowly" and about the quality of thought and right habits of thinking and study being better than piles of knowledge. A mechanic would not break down a half finished machine for the vanity of making it run at its highest possible speed. Its trials would be studies for its perfection in view of its best and longest future usefulness. The father of every girl should read the book in the high school library on "Sex in Education." Some parents, while believing the capacity for education to be essentially the same in the sexes, nevertheless feel solicitous about the strain put upon girls by school demands, and by those murderous stairs, and think the matter requires careful attention.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT.

As Furnished by the Secretary of State for the Month of September.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 9.—The September crop report of the secretary of state shows that he has received 695 returnR from 552 townships. Four hundred and ninety of these returns are from 358 townships in the southern four tiers of counties. The total yield of wheat is placed at 22,062,649 bushels. This total is found by multiplying the acreage in each county as returned in May by the supervisors by the average per acre as shown by the thrashers' records. The number of acres reported thrashed in the southern counties is 214,217, and in the state 230,628. Independent of the record kept by thrashers, correspondents have made a canvass and report from the southern counties 1,616,908 bushels thrashed from 126,192 acres. Computing by county, as before, the probable product obtained for the state is 22,100,217 bushels, or 37,568 bushels more than found by using the averages obtained from the thrashers' records. The quantity of wheat reported marketed in August is 752,741 bushels of the 188G wheat crop, and 13,800,700 bushels have been reported marketed to date.

The totals taken from thrashers' records indicate that the average yield per acre of oats in the southern counties 19 28-100 bushels, and of barley 19 47-100 bushels.

Potatoes are estimated to yield 29 per cent. of the average crop in southern counties, 42 per cent. in central counties, and 45 per cent. in the northern. The average for the state, 33 per cent. Of winter apples there will be about one-half, and of late peaches three-fourths of an average crop.

People Demand Protection.—Patent Medicines.

What are they? As a general thing they are prescriptions having been used with great success by old and well-read Physicians. Thousands of it valids have been unexpectedly cured by their use, and they are the wonder and dread of Physicians and Medical Colleges in the U. S., so much so, that Physicians guarding at Medical Colleges are required to discontinue Proprietary Medicines, as through them the country doctor loses his most profitable practice. As a manufacturer of Proprietary Medicines, Dr. G. Green, of Woodbury, N. Y., advocates most cordially,—in order to prevent the risk that the sick and afflicted are liable to almost daily by the use of Patent Medicines put out by inexperienced persons for aggrandizement only, and the employing of inexperienced and incompetent doctors by which almost every village and town is cursed; and men claiming to be doctors who had better be undertakers, experimenting with their patients and robbing them of their money and health,—for the good of the afflicted that our government protect its people by making laws to regulate the practice of medicine by better experienced and more thoroughly educated Physicians, and thereby keep up the honor and credit of the profession, also form laws for the recording of recipes of Proprietary Medicines, under examination and decision of experienced Chemists and Physicians appointed for that purpose by the Government, before they are licensed for general use. He would most freely place the recipe of Boschee's German Syrup and Green's August Flower under such laws, had he the proper protection, and thereby save the prejudice of the people, and avoid the competition and imitation of worthless medicines.—Copied from the Chicago Mail, Aug. 3, '87.

HALL'S 4100 KEWARD, 9100.

The readers of THE REGISTER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprietors have 80 much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,

Life in the North.

Sportsmen who want to fill game-bags with the least possible expenditure of powder, will be interested in Charles Ledyard Norton's illustrated description of "A Pot-Hunter's Paradise," to appear in The American Magazine for October.

"What is more surprising than a snow-storm in July?" asks a writer. Did you ever step into a closet in a new house and find yourself in a pickle jar down cellar?

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Free from Lime and Absolutely Pure.

The Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar specially refined and prepared for its use by patent processes, by which the Tartrate of Lime is totally eliminated.

This highly important result has been attained only with great care, labor and expense. In money alone a quarter of a million dollars has been invested in patents, machinery and appliances by which the crude Cream of Tartar, being procured direct from the wine districts of Europe, and subjected in this country to these exclusive processes, is rendered entirely free, not only from the objectionable Tartrate of Lime, but from other foreign substances.

This adds greatly to the cost of manufacturing Royal Baking Powder; but, as all its other ingredients are selected and prepared with the same precise care and regardless of labor or expense, an article is produced that is entirely free from any extraneous substance and chemically pure in all respects.

No lime, earth, alum or impurity of any kind can, by inadvertence or by the use of adulterated articles or otherwise, be introduced into the "Royal," and it contains no ingredients except those certified by the most eminent chemists necessary to make a pure, wholesome and perfect baking powder.

It costs more to manufacture the Royal Baking Powder than any other, but it is, as shown by chemical analysis, the only absolutely pure Baking Powder made.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made that is free from both lime and alum.

LITERARY NOTES.

The tendency of New York publishers of books and monthlies to group their offices between Astor Place and Union Square, has its most recent illustration in the removal of The American Magazine from down-town to commodious quarters at 749 Broadway.

Mr. Frank R. Stockton's sequel to "Mrs. Leeks and Mrs. Aleshine" will be called "The Dusantes," and it is authoritatively announced that the new story will thoroughly and satisfactorily dispose of Mrs. Leeks, Mrs. Aleshine, and other old friends, and will, moreover, tell all about the famous, but so far invisible, family whose name it bears. "The Dusantes" will begin in the December Century, and will be concluded in three numbers.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett will contribute a short serial to the coming volume of St. Nicholas, which is said to be a worthy successor of that author's famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which appeared in St. Nicholas a year ago. Joel Chandler Harris, John Burroughs, Frank E. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, J. T. Trowbridge, Col. Richard M. Johnston, and Louisa M. Alcott are among the many distinguished writers who will contribute serial and short stories to St. Nicholas for 1888.

We have received from the publishers "Sailing," composed by Will N. Gates, dedicated to the Western Canoe Association—a Waltz Song—very light, airy and graceful in style and pleasing in melody—with male or mixed chorus, ad lib; for a boating party this song would truly make merry the most sedate; has a very handsome title page.

Every lover of music should have a copy of this popular Waltz Song. Mailed on receipt of price—60 cents—by S. Brainard's Sons, Cleveland or Chicago.

Early in October Messrs. S. C. Griggs & Co. will publish the sixth volume in their series of "German Philosophical Classics," edited by Professor Geo. S. Morris, Ph. D., of this city. This volume, prepared by the editor, and bearing the title, "Hegel's Philosophy of the State and of History," will contain an expository resume of two of Hegel's most popular and important master-pieces. To the great number of those interested in the thoughtful discussion of questions relating to the foundations, the nature, and the law of all social relations—domestic, civil, political, and religious—the appearance of this work must be peculiarly timely and welcome. It will attract and repay the attention of the teacher and the student, of statesman and citizen, of lawyer and preacher, for whose benefit the author has sought to present in a small compass, attractively and intelligibly, the essential thought of Hegel on the topics mentioned.

The Centennial of the Constitution of the United States.

A hundred years ago, September 17, the Constitution was adopted by the Convention sitting in Carpenters' Hall, Philadelphia.

The September Wide Awake celebrates the event with a paper by Annie Sawyer Downs setting forth in brief the situation out of which the Constitution came; with engravings and portraits.

This paper is so important as a very short and easy statement of one of the greatest achievements in history that we should be glad to print it entire.

For contrast, skipping some bits of poetry, Lucy's High Tea, by Sophie May, comes next—a little story for very little girls, which every reader of whatever age will find more than delight in.

There are the usual eighty pages: Charles Egbert Craddock's story, and a great deal more.

The publishers offer to send a specimen copy (back number, of course) for five cents. D. Lothrop Company, Boston.

His Hat Full of Eggs. "Have you heard of the latest novelty in hats?" inquired a man of his companion, as they were each quaffing a mug of brown stout.

"No, what is it?" was the response.

"Well, it is a hat worn by a man who serves morning papers on a suburban route. A number of his customers, nearly all of whom keep chickens, have noticed for several weeks past that their eggs had acquired a habit of disappearing each morning, after the paper was deposited on the sill of the kitchen window. Suspicion fell upon the dispenser of the products of the press, and a watch was set, although no one could imagine where he could stow the eggs. The denouement was startling in its novelty.

"On one side of his hat, which was a stiff one, he had a panel that worked by a spring. He would pull the latter, the panel would slide back, in would drop the egg or eggs, and back would spring the panel. By this method he managed to carry home every day a dozen or more eggs. At last fashion and utility have joined hands."—Philadelphia Call.

Is This What Alls You?

Do you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, pusulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery, and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

THE great inland city of America, Chicago, now comes to the front with its Fifteenth Consecutive Annual later-State Exhibition of the products of Science, Industry and Art, opening Wednesday, Sept. 7, and closing Saturday, Oct. 22.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week there will be a most notable gathering in the city of Philadelphia, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States.

During the Assembly period, life and enthusiasm reach their highest mark. Old resorters, long in advance, plan to be here then if at no other time.

If any event is worthy of special and enthusiastic commemoration, it is the one now in progress in the city of "brotherly love."

dred years ago on Saturday next, after a long and stormy debate which had been conducted through the three preceding months, the constitution was ratified and signed, and sent down to the states for their approval.

Mr. Gladstone, as a representative Englishman, was especially invited to be present on this commemorative occasion, and in his letter of regret that he was not able to undertake the journey and be with them, he takes occasion to land our great constitution in most exalted terms.

services, brilliant receptions, music and mirth have enriched these delightful Assembly days, and every night when I retired it was with a happy sense that a day of rich privileges had been spent.

A separate letter could be given to the Assembly schools in recounting their excellence. Their timeliness and the fame of the instructors drew together throngs of student, teachers and Christian workers, who were disciplined and instructed for better work for home and church and state.

The length of this letter admonishes me that I must not even attempt to describe the beautiful Chautauqua Cottage, Recognition Day and many other things dear and pleasant to me.

Do You Know!

That of all the pianos in the market, only those made by less than a dozen manufacturers have ever been considered, by competent judges, first-class, reliable instruments.

As several scores of firms represent themselves as manufacturers of the best (?) instruments, who in reality do nothing more or less than get the different parts of a piano from as many different makers and put these parts together, hit or miss, it is worth your while to find out before buying whether or not the piano you may have been shown or urged to buy is a first-class, desirable instrument.

IT IS NO LESS A FACT, that more money is made on poor pianos than on good ones; and therefore an agent who cares not to earn a reputation for himself or instrument, will use every effort to sell the cheapest piano he can buy.

MESSRS. HAIXES BROS., OF NEW YORK, have for years been known as manufacturers of the first rank; and the upright pianos, which they are manufacturing exclusively, are recommended by all artists as the finest upright piano in the world.

I challenge any agent or dealer in the United States to dispute these facts. I ask but one favor of all who contemplate purchasing a piano: Call and examine these instruments, at my store. They speak for themselves. And I will prove every statement I make regarding them. Call and see them. The "Square Music Dealer."

Ypsilanti.

Norvel Hawkins, of East Saginaw, is visiting relatives here.

E. P. Goodrich fills the Presbyterian pulpit at Milford during the absence of the regular occupant.

Mrs. Geo. Alexander is rustivating for the present at the home of her sister, Mrs. John McDowell.

Durand Springer is filling the position of principal of the commercial department at Albion College.

Mrs. M. W. Morton, of Wahjameya, is here to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Lambie.

Mrs. Bennett and daughter, of Elgin, Ill., were guests of Mrs. Bennett's brother, Rev. Mr. Cheney, last week.

Eli Perkins will paralyze Ypsilanti with his fun, at the opera house, Oct. 4. He comes under the auspices of the Young Men's Athletic Club.

Over two hundred new applicants for admission to the Normal, Tuesday. About the same number of old students filed in yesterday and today.

Mr. J. L. Francis, of this city, who has until very recently been in the employ of Chas. Wright, of Detroit, has started in business for himself in Chicago. His family is still here.

Life seems worth living since the Normal, the public schools, the business college and St. Mary's school have begun booming again.

Rev. Mr. Springer has finished his three years' pastorate with the M. E. church in this city. His labors have been very successful and his departure will be sincerely regretted.

Daniel Pierce, a farmer south of the city, had a horse stolen early Tuesday morning. The same thief also borrowed a baggy from a neighbor of Mr. Pierce, and made off leaving no clew to the direction taken.

Most of our dry goods stores began the week by closing at six o'clock. This is good for clerks, exasperating to working people who are not released from duty till six o'clock, and very exasperating to farmers who don't like the way city affairs run any way.

The prospects are flattering for a rousing big fair in our city, September 27, 28, 29, 30. Farmers and merchants are getting ready for startling displays of produce and merchandise, while our ever newsy newspapers will bob up triumphantly with sparkling every-day editions, and everybody will be happy and prosperous who takes in this big show.

Chelsea.

A number of our citizens went to Detroit, Wednesday.

Rev. B. I. Ives, D. D., is the guest of his brother, Hon. S. G. Ives.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron McAlister, of Detroit, were here on Wednesday.

Nature has commenced putting on her gaudy autumnal attire. Autumn is here.

Mrs. Dr. Robertson, of Battle Creek is here to attend the wedding of her brother, Claire Durand.

Robins are gathering in flocks, preparatory to their emigration to more southern climes for the winter.

Rev. Wm. Campbell, late pastor of the M. E. church, at this place, will soon take up his residence in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. A. W. Ames and Miss Helen Ames, of Ann Arbor, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Durand, on Wednesday.

Miss Tillie Mentschell was here several days last week, calling on her old friends. She left Saturday for Ypsilanti and a year's study at the Normal.

Charles E. Stapish, of Lyndon, and Miss Linnie Hollis, of Stockbridge, were married Sept. 14, 1887, at St. Mary's church, Chelsea, by Rev. Wm. P. Considine.

The social event of the week is the marriage of Mr. Claire Durand, of Ann Arbor, and Miss Josie L. Watson, of Chelsea. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Hon. S. G. Ives, grandfather of the bride, on Wednesday, Sept. 14, 1887, by Rev. B. I. Ives, D. D., of Auburn, N. Y. The happy couple took the afternoon train for Ann Arbor, where they found a home already furnished and ready to receive them at the corner of Catherine and Thayer-sts. The best wishes of this entire community go with them.

COUBT W.

The village tax collector is making life a burden to property owners of Milan.

The Saline township board will hold a meeting on Saturday, Sept. 17th, for the purpose of auditing accounts.

The 11th annual fair at Stockbridge takes place October 4, 5, 6, 7. Every effort will be put forth to make it a success.

The clerk of the township of Saline has granted warrants for the payment of the bounty on 153 crows and 619 woodchucks, so far this year. The bounty amounted to $154.40.

The Manchester Enterprise, one of our most valued county exchange, this week enters upon its twenty-first year. It is always newsy and abreast with the times on all matters of public interest.

The quarterly session of Washtenaw district lodge, I. O. G. T., was held at Milan, Wednesday. Also a public meeting in the evening at the rink. Col. Sylvester Lamed, of Detroit, delivered the address.

Manchester Enterprise: We learned the sad news late yesterday afternoon that our worthy townsman and ex-postmaster, Chauncey Walbridge, had a stroke of paralysis on his right side. This morning his condition was no better. He was unable to speak, and as he has no arm on the left side, his condition is truly pitiable.

A sad accident happened to a little son of James Austin, of Salem, one day last week. He climbed to the top of a windmill to fly his kite. While he was enjoying the sport from his elevated position, the wind turned the fan, throwing him to the ground. Both bones of one arm were broken and he sustained other serious injuries.

Dexter Leader: Valentine Brothers, of Webster, are the owners of two Shropshire lambs—one born March 27th, weighed 14 lbs. Sept. 5th; the other born March 23d, weighed 129 lbs. same date. They report the sale of 36 head of their full blood flock up to date. It seems to us that that is the right kind of sheep for profit.

* At the annual school meeting of Milan, Messrs C. H. Wilson and J. W. Blakeslee were re-elected members of the board. The director's report showed a balance in all the funds of $958.59, an excess of $283.51 over the balance on hand at the beginning of the year. The amount to be raised to run the school the ensuing year is $1,340, of which $400 is for teachers' wages, $300 incidental, $00 for library, $530 for paying bonds, and $50 for building purposes.

On the evening of Wednesday, August 31, there was a large social gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shelters, in Lodi, given in honor of their daughter Frances. There were one hundred couples present, representing Lodi, Ann Arbor, Saline, and other localities. Supper was served at midnight, after which dancing was resumed, and was continued far into the morning hours. A most enjoyable time is reported. Mr. Shelters resided in Ann Arbor for many years.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Died, at his home in this city, Wednesday morning, General Edward Clark, after a lingering illness.

Gen. Edward Clark was one of the early pioneers of Washtenaw county. He came here about 1827, and kept a general store on the site of the Wm. Douglass & Co., clothing store. He served a term or two as Register of Deeds of Washtenaw county, before Michigan became a state. He was greatly interested in military affairs, being a Brigadier General, appointed by Governor Mason. He turned out to serve in the celebrated Toledo war, also was called out to suppress some real or fancied Indian outbreak. He was elected numerous times to fill the office of Justice of the Peace, being given large majorities in a republican city. He was a man of irreproachable habits, a thoroughly honest man in word and deed, and a true Christian. He died peacefully after a long and painful illness of almost a year. The relatives, friends and pioneers of Washtenaw county are invited to attend the funeral. The wife and son wish to return their heartfelt thanks to the numerous friends who have been so kind in their attentions to him. He breathed his last, quietly and peacefully about 7:30 a. m., Sept. 14, 1887. He had got in such a condition that he could not swallow. Through all of his long and painful illness we never heard him utter a complaint or an angry word, and we believe that he died a good, God-fearing man. Funeral will take place tomorrow, (Friday) afternoon, at 4 p. a., from St. Andrew's church.

The Fashions in Dogs.

I have often wondered whence issue such mysterious mandates as: "Newfoundlands to be called in," "St. Bernards to be all the rage," so that one breed succeeds another in fashion's esteem, and, literally, "every dog has his day." Old style dogs disappear as completely as "the flowers that bloom in the spring." At present you are allowed a huge St. Bernard of the pure Swiss stock to stroll beside baby's cab, and to guard baby while white capped Marie flirts with the policeman in the park. You may be followed by a team—two there must be—of English pugs, harnessed in dark red leather studded with brass. For house protection the black and tan is fashionable, but he must be tiny as a rat and of the costliest breed.

For the house, too, gray poodles are just coming in; but the thing is the Japanese dog, which closely resembles an ape, with white and yellow clinging hair. He is simply sublime in his ugliness. Nowadays a fashionable woman might as well be out of the world as out of a dog, but his style of beauty must be carefully studied in selecting a collar. Much depends on this. In nothing does a parvenu so brand herself parvenu as in this particular, selecting, for instance, the costliest of jeweled gold collars for a Japanese dog whose style of severe simplicity demands only a ribbon. Poodles and other long haired dogs are now dyed to match the favorite costume of their mistress.—Cor. Pioneer Press.

Mrs. Spriggs remarks that she would rather fool with a tee thin be with a fool.

That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peculiar, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling," is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." B. A. SANFOKD, Kent, Ohio.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the propordion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting Cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." L. BABBINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Thief Arrested.
The news was received with the utmost satisfaction by the community that he had terrorized; and the arrest of a disease that is stealing away a loved and valued life, is an achievement that should inspire heart-felt gratitude. Chilliness, cold extremities, depressed spirits, and extremely miserable sensations, with pale, wan features, are the results of disordered kidneys and liver. Arrest the cause at once by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a purely vegetable detective, that will ferret out and capture the most subtle lung or blood disorder. Druggists.

Impatience may dry the blood sooner than age or sorrow, but it won't dry the seat of a man's pants, like the fire will, after he has fastened on a wet pavement.

What A Pity
that so many otherwise attractive, polite, and particular people afflict their friends by the foul and disagreeable odor of their breath; it is mainly caused by disordered digestion, and can be corrected by removing the cause, by using that pure medicine, Sulphur Bitters.—Health Magazine.

The craze assumes a new form.—"Well, I shall call and see you tomorrow, Jessie." "Thanks, I shall be delighted to have you come, Ella." "And I shall bring Fido with me." "O, please do not!" "Rover is not receiving at present. He is mourning for a brother who was run over by a South Boston car. Poor little fellow! It wrings my heart to have him going around with a crape bow around his neck. But the rules of polite society must be observed, my dear."

KASKINB

(THE NEW QUININE.)

Rev. Wm. Lucas, Rector Grace Church, Ravena, O., writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as being just what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine, with none of its bad effects. Mrs. Lucas had a serious form of malaria, and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine had her up and around in a few days, and in a short time cured her."

The Agent of KASKINE has on Public Exhibition a remarkable MANIKIN, or model of the human body, showing the Stomach, Heart, Lungs, Liver, Spleen, Kidneys and the other organs and parts in Health and Disease. By an inspection of the afflicted can see the nature and location of their troubles and learn how KASKINE relieves and cures them.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application. Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sent by mail on receipt of price. KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York.

PLANNING AN ESCAPE.

PLOT OF LIBBY PRISON'S INMATES TO CAPTURE RICHMOND.

Help from a Brave Union Woman—Co-Operation from Washington—The Plans Well Laid—How the Scheme Was Defeated at Last.

We opened correspondence with the notorious Abbey Green, a brave Union woman living in the city, noted for her outspoken patriotism and the bravery with which she approached the columns of Federal prisoners, where, despite the bayonets of the guards, she gave what relief she could, often tossing loaves of bread to them at the peril of life.

The noble woman gave relief and cheering words to thousands, and bravely staid in Richmond, known to and feared by the rebels, whom she defied. If there was a plot to execute, she was the one to co-operate. So we opened correspondence with her through a faithful colored boy on menial duty at the prison. We carefully stated our desires, and in return received a plan of the city and location of the arsenal, a correct statement of the number of troops in the city, the strength of the homo guard and all other information needed.

After the plans were matured all prisoners willing to co-operate were formed into battalions and companies, and drilled as carefully and frequently as possible. Everything that could be converted into a weapon, and several pistols and bowie knives had been received among the contents of the boxes first delivered to us before an examination was required, and these we had kept well concealed, and they would help greatly in our strike for freedom. A few weapons in the hands of desperate leaders would do bloody work.

In order to make our plot a success, it was deemed necessary to inform the government at Washington, and get, if possible, its aid. A fine opportunity of doing this occurred when the surgeons were released. Statements of our plans were written on very fine paper, and this folded up tightly was concealed in the staff buttons of their uniforms, which were constructed so that the heads of the buttons could be removed, showing quite a space capable of holding a large piece of fine paper. The button heads on being replaced gave no evidence of the valuable deposits beneath. Thus we succeeded in informing Mr. Lincoln and the secretary of war of our intentions.

A cabinet meeting decided the plans so submitted perfectly feasible, and preparations were at once made to aid us, and an officer was sent down to the peninsula to draw the Confederate forces all out of the city to repel him in his supposed attempt to enter Richmond. He did so, and we saw from the windows of Libby the Confederates march by to meet him. There were left only about 300 home guards. Our plan was to assemble on a certain evening in the lower middle room, burst open the front doors, seize the guards in front, disarm them, and with the arms so gained intimidate and take prisoners the officials of Libby, then march to the arsenal, fighting the home guard if encountered on the way, and with the arms in the arsenal, we would march to Bello Isle, and, arming the prisoners there, march back, an army of 6,000 strong. We could then easily have taken possession of and held Richmond against any force until Gen. Butler, marching up, would have re-enforced us, and the city would have been ours.

Our plans, as we supposed, were well laid, and everything in regard to their successful completion progressed as favorably as we could desire up to the very evening of the night on which we determined to make our exit. From the windows we observed, about 5 o'clock p. m., a "jackass battery," as it was derisively styled, being located in front of Libby, and a greatly increased guard put on duty, while a company of the home guards stood in front.

Presently Maj. Turner, with a squad, ascended the stairs, and in a loud tone announced the order that all prisoners were to descend to the lower middle room. Not dreaming of the trap about to be sprung on us, and thinking there was to be an inspection of some kind, we obeyed the order without reluctance, there being no necessity for guards to enforce it with the points of their bayonets, as they seemed inclined to do at the least hesitancy to march forward quickly. When all were below guards were stationed at the head of the stairs, and we were told it would be perilous to attempt to come up until ordered to do so.

Hour succeeded hour, and darkness set in; still we received no intimation of release, and at last the truth began to dawn upon our bewildered understandings. We were prisoners in a twofold sense in Libby, and under close surveillance, in one of the rooms. What did it mean! Had some one turned traitor and disclosed our plot? If BUQUA one had been known he would have been thrown a corpse from the windows or torn to pieces, but we could not fully realize that such had been the case. Our plan was nipped, but we could try it again. We were kept in the room described several hours and then released and permitted to occupy our accustomed places, but we found our rooms had been thoroughly ransacked and everything in the shape of a weapon taken. Evidently our plot had been disclosed and frustrated. Our privileges were fewer afterwards, and a closer watch was had over our actions. The outside guards were increased, and so much vigilance manifested that we concluded not to make our attempt for a time at least.

The manner in which the prison officials were made cognizant of our plans was for a long time a mystery. The generally accepted solution of the problem was that some one of our number had sold us out. I never knew the true cause until after the war. I met one day in Washington city Capt. Jackson Warner, described before as the quartermaster who furnished us beef and bread. I asked Capt. Warner the question. He said he remembered he occasion well and what excitement it caused. When a spy, who had for a long time been among us, dressed in similar uniform, to report our sayings and doings daily or weekly, as was deemed fit, announced that we had formed a plan to escape, he was instructed to watch closely and report progress, which he could easily do, for we talked and planned without secrecy. Like a cat playing with the mouse, they played with us, and when tired, and just at the proper time, came down in force.—Dr. John Henry, Fifth Ohio Cavalry.

A Rig New York Restaurant.
There is a cheap restaurant in New York that feeds 8,000 people a day! It is never closed, night nor day, and has three different relays of waiters, cooks, cleaners, cashiers and c'her hands. It is not noted in the city, but is famous in all the country towns and villages in this state, New Jersey and Connecticut, which are its chief source of patronage. How many reservoirs of soup and how many tons of beef consumes daily are matters for the consideration of metropolitan correspondents of country newspapers. But the figures are astounding and interesting without sensational elaboration.—Good Housekeeping.

BEFORE DAWN.

On topmost bows of lofty tree*
Birds sing beneath the golden stars,
While pale before the coming dawn;
Nought else he'd save the dull rota
Of ocean on the slye, sounding
The same as erst at Nature's birth,
"When morning stars together sang;"
As if the organist in some
Cathedral vast, with minor keys
And podals soft, filled his space
With melodious monotone,
While some lone nun her matins chants,
In murmurs soft behind the screen.

A GOOD SCHOOL TRADE.

The Kind of Business Done by Candy and Cigarette Shops in New York.
"AAHDT," cigars, stationery and notion store; doing good school trade. —East—st.
"PANDY STORE," opposite big public school; first class trade in confectionery, cigarettes and stationery. Apply at—West—st.
A young man with a few hundred dollars to invest answered several of these advertisements. In each case he found a small dingy shop with great heaps of painted candy, packages of cheap cigarettes and plentiful supplies of blood and thunder literature on the shelves. A few dusty school books completed the stock. In each case, too, the little shop was near a public school. Some nestled close up to the big buildings. Others were across the street or on corners diagonally situated. All were less than a stone's throw distant.

"Our trade comes almost exclusively from the school children," said the proprietor of one of the little shops. "They are lively customers before and after school and at recess. This is the dull season, because vacation has just begun. Trade will pick up again in September. Then it is sure and steady until spring. Last year I made a net profit of no less than $1,200."
"The demand for school books must be pretty heavy."
"Oh, no; we sell very few school books."
"What do you sell that makes your trade so profitable?"
"Candy and cigarettes, principally. You'd be surprised at the quantity of candy those youngsters devour. The little boys and girls run in here with their pennies and buy a stick of painted candy whenever they get the chance. All the larger boys buy a cigarette or two every day. It's only a penny business, of course, with penny profits. But when you take care of the pennies the dollars'll take care of themselves, you know. Why, I made $700 clear profit last year on candies alone. For, to tell the truth, the sweet stuff is the very cheapest sort. But the children like it just as well. I wouldn't sell out at all if it were not that I am going to leave town before fall, when trade will be resumed at its liveliest."

Similar statements were made by all the other candy store advertisers, and strong inducements to purchase were held out to the young man. Being of a nice moral sense, however, he decided not to invest in a business which seemed to him like corrupting the rising generation by supplying them with cheap and perhaps poisonous painted candy and cigarettes. This idea impressed him so strongly that he asked a school principal about it.
"You are right," said he. "This candy shop business is one of the most pernicious features of school life. We call the shops 'candy hells.' The red, green, blue and yellow coloring matter annually used in its manufacture would paint the town in alternate stripes from the Battery to Harlem bridge. Five cents' worth of the stuff would lay a professional athlete on his back for a week, but a forty-pound schoolboy can consume five cents' worth every day for six months and be a sixty-pound schoolboy at the end of that period. The ways of the infantile stomach are inscrutable, and even the candy shop cannot affect it. Still, these 'candy hells' are literally training schools for future generations of dyspeptics and men with handmade sets of teeth. But we are powerless to prevent it."—New York Sun.

Swedish Women at Home.
Swedish women are, in their own country, models of neatness. The private house at which Mr. Lancaster and myself had procured board was presided over by a widow lady named Ritzen, and the scrupulous cleanliness of the apartments we occupied was indeed marvelous. There were no carpets on the floor, but the latter were always kept beautifully clean, being daily and I might add almost hourly scrubbed by our hostess and her natty little maid servant, Frida.
There are many pretty faces to be met with in Sweden, although the beauty of a great many young girls is spoiled by defective teeth. Due, I was informed, to their passion for sweetmeats. I was more than surprised to find among a people so noted for their religious convictions, crimes, that in our country would inevitably send the offender to the penitentiary, were there almost wholly disregarded, and, in fact, looked upon as being nothing uncommon. The clergymen in Sweden appear to exercise wonderful control over their charges. In fact, no Italian priest could be more rigid in his surveillance of the morals of his people, and yet among the peasantry I was assured that not one in ten of the men ever dream of marrying a woman until they have both lived together for a period varying from one month to a year; still the ministers of the gospel strive hard to instruct these people in the evil of their ways, and annually meetings are held for the purpose of examining the peasants in reading and the catechism of their religion.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A Bull Fight in Madrid.
By this time I thought I knew enough about bull fights, and I left the king and queen and their court to behold the other three combats without me, and went away to walk on the Prado and reflect. My sympathies were all with the bulls. They were the only creatures who had no least show of fair play. They alone were doomed with absolute certainty from the start. Even the horses might escape; and at worst their torture was but for a moment. The men were only in just enough danger to make the thing exciting, and there were 99 chances out of 100 that they would escape scathless; but the bull, let him bear himself never so bravely, was to be made an end of.—Louise Chandler Moulton in The Cosmopolitan.

Death Kate Among Children.
The following facts are suggestive: Full one-third of the patients of the general practitioner are children. Of all children born about one in five dies within the first year, and one in three by the end of the fifth year. In New York about one-half die in five years. It is with little children as with extreme old age, they are very liable to be sick, and their sickness to prove fatal. Of those who die within the first year 40 per cent. die of digestive troubles, and about 19 per cent. die of respiratory affections. During this second year this older is reversed, about 39 per cent. dying of respiratory and only 9 per cent. of diseases of the bowels.—Philadelphia Times.

TRIPLE SOMERSAULTS.

THE REASONS WHY SO FEW OF THEM HAVE BEEN TURNED.

Several Attempts Which Resulted in Broken Kecks—A 14-Year-Old Boy's Successful Feat—A Circus Man's Bold Offer—The Requirements.

The first remembered attempt to throw a triple somersault in this country was by a performer in Van Amburgh's circus in Mobile, Ala., in 1842. He fell on his head and broke his neck. Another attempt was made in London, Eng., in 1840. It was made in Astley's amphitheatre, then leased to Howe & Cushing, the American managers. In the company were Mr. I. Lipman, a fine vaulter, now in Cincinnati; the late Levi J. North, a famous equestrian; the late William O. Dale, an acrobat and equestrian, who afterwards lost his sight and died at Cincinnati; and William I. Hobbes, a champion leaper. It was previously announced that Hobbes would attempt a triple, and the house was jammed. He tried it, and was instantly killed.

The next to attempt the dangerous feat was John Amor, who was born in the home of Dan Rice's father, near Girard, Pa. Amor traveled for years in this country with Dan Rice's circus, and in that day was considered the greatest gymnast in America, if not in the world. He was said to be the first performer in America to turn a double somersault over four horse*. In 1829 he went to England and traveled with a circus all through the United Kingdom. In the same year he attempted to turn a triple somersault at the Islo of Wight, but landed on his forehead after he turned twice, and broke his neck. Billy Dutton performed the great feat while a member of Lake's circus, at Elkhorn, Ills., in 1830, at a rehearsal, in the presence of John Lowlow, the famous clown. Dutton was ambitious to have it to say that he did it, but did not make the attempt with the intention of repeating it. He made the leap from a high spring board, and actually turned three times. Dutton was very proud, but sensibly said that he would not try it again, and that his lighting on his feet was an accident, as he could not control his body after turning the second time.

OTHER FATALITIES.
Frank Stark, who was reared by John Robinson, the circus manager, undertook the feat at the fair grounds in Indianapolis in 1870 for a wager of $100. In the first attempt he turned three times, but alighted on his hands. Everybody was satisfied with the result, and the money was tendered him. He proudly refused it, saying that the feat had not been accomplished; that he would repeat it, and alight upon his feet before he felt sufficiently justified in taking the $100. He did repeat it, but struck on his head, dislocating his neck, and his death resulted in a few hours afterward.

Bob Stickney, the Apollo Belvedere of the modern arena, accomplished the great feat at the age of 14 years, while practicing in the Hippo theatre, on Fourteenth street, New York, in 1840. William Stein, at the time an attaché of the circus, and who now, with his wife, gives a "second sight" performance, was one of the persons who held the common woolen blanket upon which Stickney alighted. Sam Bernhardt, of Columbus, O., a retired leaper, while traveling with the Cooper and Bailey circus, in 1840, became dissatisfied with the double somersault feat, in which he was an adept, and burned to perform the triple. At Toledo he announced that he would make the attempt, and he did so, notwithstanding the advice of his friends not to try it. Sam made a splendid high leap, actually turned three times, but landed on his seat instead of his feet.

A BOLD OFFER.
Bob Stickney, who is now traveling with Forepaugh's circus, was interviewed in Detroit last Decoration Day. He said: "I did it once, as related in your article, and although I have confined myself to riding, and have done no leaping for seven years, I can do it again. I get the highest wages in the profession, $250 a week, but if any circus manager will give me $300 a week I will endeavor to attempt a triple at every stand during the totting season. I do not mean to make the attempt more than once a day, and only in the daytime."
"Would you need any improved or original apparatus?" was asked.
"No. I would simply need the usual spring-board at five or six feet from the ground. But I would need a strong net, with fine meshes. Farina introduced the net when he came to this country in 1878, and in Barnum's circus fired a woman out of a cannon into the air. It was really a very strong spring which elevated the performer. The net into which she fell made the feat possible. If ever the triple somersault can be made a daily performance, it will be by means of the net. If I understand it, I would take a straw mattress, ten feet square and one foot thick, placed on the ground about twenty feet from the spring board. On this I would have a feather mattress of the same length and width, but about two feet thick. On the top of the latter, and touching it, I would have a strong net, with meshes not more than one inch apart, and strained perfectly tight. For $300 a week I would make a daily attempt at the afternoon performances to accomplish this feat. But it would seem that leaping was going out of fashion nowadays. Since we had a fatal accident at the opening of this season, Forepaugh has discontinued the leaping act altogether."

That a triple somersault was ever accomplished before a circus audience after due announcement, and under the same conditions as double somersaults are performed, may be seriously doubted.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Tribulations of an Inventor.
The way of inventors without means or supporters is not to be envied. Nothing can be done with an invention in the present day unless the aspiring genius who secures a patent also engages the attention of men with money. Great corporations have to be approached, and as they are not, as a rule, disposed to espouse the cause of every plausible device, the man with a patent must demonstrate to the satisfaction of managers that his ideas will stand the test of actual service after emerging from the experimental stage. The moral of this is that an inventor, to be successful, must have sufficient ability to organize a strong company composed of men whose names are a guarantee, and then one corporation will protect the other. This would have assured the adoption of the Terry cable system in this city. Without a big company behind the patent to take care of it, eastern capitalists who invested in the bonds issued on the new cable system refused to look at it, and simply said: "If you want our money, you must take a system that has been tried to our satisfaction." We want no experiments involving our millions.—Globe Democrat.

A Hygienic Restaurant.

NEW JERSEY SAND.

Its Transmutation into California Gold at the "Long Branch."

After the war of 1801 was over these peaceful villagers, who, having contributed their part toward the war, were settling down again for another fifty years' nap, were awakened again by certain capitalists, who bought up all the cheap land they could find within sight, smell or sound of the ocean, and proceeded to invest money in it. Our old school speakers contained an affecting poem about little Alfred, or Charley, or some similarly named child, who found a shilling coming home from school one day, and exclaimed, "I'll have a fortune, for I'll plant it right away." These capitalists imitated little Alfred or Charley, with much better luck. They planted not a shilling, but thousands of dollars here in the sand; they seeded these acres of the shore with more money than Capt. Kidel has ever been proved to have buried anywhere, and they finally have harvested a large area of golden financial wheat.

One of their first shrewd methods of tillage was to make their new, straggling, one streeted town the summer capital of the United States. They built a miniature White House near the edge of the sea and invited President Grant to live there two months in the year. He came, with that simplicity of greatness which never enjoys pleasure any less because it happens to be a source of profit to others. The "long branch" of Shrewsbury river, which gave name to the whole locality because it had its arm half way round the older town, leaped in one season into world wide fame.

The old war chief of a hemisphere settled down here with as little ostentation as he now rests in Riverside park; but there were plenty, of commonplace people, with commonplace wealth, willing to furnish all the style necessary for such a village, and to see that the new town was well painted with gorgeous colors. Many of the dollars that had been planted in the pulverized gravel of the shore grew into gold bearing roof trees. The cities brought here their hotel luxuries for sale; money drawers were opened wide for summer snow storms of bank notes, and fortunes were made here between spring and autumn. Hundreds of acres of New Jersey sand had been transmuted into California gold!—Will Carlton in New York Star.

The Boston Mending Bureau.
The Boston Mending Bureau and Laundry company is a new thing in our city, though a similar establishment has been in successful operation in New York for some time. Their plan of work and object can be told in a few words, and the whole thing is so extremely sensible and feasible that the only wonder is that it was not thought of years ago. The bureau comprises a laundry, a dye house and a repair shop, in the last of which experienced tailors and skillful needlewomen are constantly employed in putting into order every sort of wearing apparel.

Work is done here for both men and women, though it is especially useful, of course, to bachelors and other lonely men who have no one to keep their clothing in order for them. Wearing apparel when soiled or worn may be taken to the bureau or called for on postal card order, and put into thoroughly good condition again. The linen is washed and done up, missing buttons are replaced, stretched out buttonholes reduced to their proper proportions, worn tapes and strings renewed, gaping holes in the stockings filled up, while the outer clothing is cleaned, dyed, pressed, darned, patched or otherwise attended to as it may need. These things are all done at a very moderate price—a pair of socks darned for five cents, unless too far gone—and other things in proportion, the price being fixed in most instances by the length of time which the task requires.

Frequently also the bureau makes a contract with gentlemen to press, repair and keep in order their clothing by the year or month, the principle being the same as that by which the Chinese pay their physicians to keep them well. The bureau has a dozen agents in the suburbs, and put into portions of the city, so that patrons living at a distance may be easily accommodated. There are numberless busy men and women for whom the bureau will save many dollars in the course of a year. "A stitch in time saves nine," according to the proverb, and mending the ravages of wear and tear upon one's clothing saves a good deal else at the same time.—Boston Globe.

famous Generals as Cadets.
Charles Ward, a backman at West Point, has a fund of information about the military academy and some of the now famous generals who were once cadets. A reporter visited West Point the other day and was driven through the grounds of the college by Ward. He appears to be 51 or 52 years old, is a large, broad shouldered man, with a full beard, streaked with gray, and an honest countenance. He was born in the town and has been there ever since.
"You knew them all, then—Lee, Sheridan and Grant?" asked the reporter.
"I knew the first two—that is, I saw them when a boy and remember how they looked and acted. Gen. Lee was captain of the post here in 1853, and my father used to sell him milk every day. I can remember how Gen. Lee would say, with a smile, to my father: 'Now, I desire you to be careful and not get too much water in your milk. The milk you gave me the other day had a suspicious taste.' He said it, though, in such a kindly, nice way my father never took any offense. Capt. Lee was the roost soldierly looking of any of the cadets. Why, sir, when started to walk on the parade ground or from one quarter to another he went as straight as a bee line, and never looked back, it made no difference how much noise the other cadets made in his rear. He was straight, too, as an arrow, and in every respect. I shall never forget him as he looked in those days."—New York Mail and Express.

Manufacture of Tin Cans.
A striking instance of labor saving machinery is that which makes tin cans. One of the machines used in the process solders the longitudinal seams of the cans at the rate of fifty a minute, the cans rushing along in a continuous stream; of course a drop of tin of the solder is left on the can. The drop on the outside is easily wiped off, but it is not so easy to secure the drop left on the inside. An ingenious workman has patented an arrangement for wiping the inside of the can without stopping the machinery. Result, several thousand dollars in royalties in his own pocket and a saving of 115 worth of solder per day to the firm that uses it. Thirty thousand cans is a day's work for this machine.—Boston Transcript.

A Marketable Husband.
In Siam a man who has sold himself at gambling can compel his wife, if she has the money, to redeem him, but he thereupon becomes her property and chattel. This is a very equitable arrangement. The wife, if she desires, can sell her husband off, as we give his name to a patibulo for a plaster of paris image of Bismarck or a spotted dog. And we are not surprised a woman with such a husband should so desire, as was proved the other day when Ma Samut exchanged her better half for a share in a house near Wat Chang, a cow and twenty ticals in silver.—Bangkok Times.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, colds, croup, coughs, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For a long time I was afflicted with asthma, and was unable to get up in the morning. I used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and was cured in a few minutes. I would walk five miles for this medicine and pay for a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "I cured a ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sut up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. I only used that I use Thomas' Electric Oil. The first teaspoonful relieved me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. There is nothing new in the Sorg matter. The bondsmen, to whom Mr. Sorg assigned his stock of goods and book accounts, are disposing of the stock as fast as they can for the best interest of all concerned, but as the pool which kept the price of wall paper up has collapsed, it greatly depreciated in value, and it is doubtful if enough is realized out of it to cover the shortage. In that case the city will likely be the loser.

Was the Council Right?

A few persons are criticizing the council for not accepting the bond of E. E. Beal, from the fact that they do not know what the statutes provide in such cases.

The laws of 1885 prescribe that any surety or sureties signing a bond shall have first justified their pecuniary responsibility over their signature. Section three reads as follows: "Any person or persons receiving and accepting or approving any such bond without such justification shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall further be liable for all damages that may be sustained or incurred by any person by reason of such defective bond being accepted or approved."

Ann Arbor Steam Laundry.

It is with pleasure that THE REGISTER introduces to its readers this week the above named laundry, which will be ready for business next Monday. We have heretofore made brief mention of the fact that R. E. Costello would soon open a steam laundry, including all the modern improvements, in the Wilsley block, and it is hoped that the work which has heretofore been sent out of the city will be retained at home. Mr. Costello has come here and started the business with his own money, and has not asked for any bonuses, and the people of Ann Arbor should show their appreciation of such enterprise by liberally patronizing him.

Agencies will be established in all the neighboring cities and villages, and in different parts of this city, where washing can be left.

The proprietor desires the citizens of Ann Arbor to call and inspect his machinery, which is as complete as any laundry in the country.

Reduction in the Price of Gas.

From and after October 1st, next, the price of gas charged by the Ann Arbor Gas Light Co. to all consumers who burn 5,000 cubic feet and upwards, will be $2 per 1,000 feet net, or $2.20 if bill is not paid until after the tenth of the month; and to consumers who burn less than 5,000 feet, the price will be $2.25 per 1,000 feet, or $2.50 if bill is not paid until after the tenth of the month. As shown by the official returns of twenty-three companies in the state of Michigan, these prices are as low or lower than any companies in the state, except Detroit and Grand Rapids, where facilities exist for obtaining coal at a greatly reduced price. In case any consumer may have any question as to the accuracy of his metre, the metre will be tested and its accuracy determined by apparatus vouched for by Prof. M. E. Cooley. S. H. DOUGLASS, President.
