CHOICE OF A CALLING.

GOOD ADVICE FOR YOUNG MEN TO FOLLOW.

An Able Discourse by Rev. Dr. Eddy at the Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening.

Rev. Dr. Eddy, of Detroit, who is temporarily supplying the Presbyterian pulpit in this city, last Sunday evening preached an excellent discourse to young men upon the subject of choosing a calling for life. His address was so sensible and practical, it is with pleasure THE REGISTER presents some of its leading thoughts:

In India the son follows the calling of his father; and that is true, to a large extent, in many European countries, but in this country every young man is left free, not only by law but by circumstances, to follow his own bent. Thousands of lawyers, physicians, editors, teachers, clergymen, are the sons of farmers and artisans. Every boy educated in our public schools is at liberty to enter one of the learned professions. This large liberty of choice is felt by many to carry with it a painful sense of responsibility. A mistake made at the threshold of active life is often fatal to subsequent usefulness and peace of mind. After some further introductory remarks Dr. Eddy presented the following suggestions for the careful consideration of his young hearers:

First—Consider it as settled that you are really

TO DO SOMETHING ON EARTH, and this world is not a play ground; this is not a holiday; you are sent into the world not to sport in the sunshine, not to flit from flower to flower like butterflies, but to do business in great waters, to build up as it were with toil and agony and bloody sweat, stone upon stone, your moral character, your immortality; to fight against falsehood and disorder, and sin and the devil; to serve your generation and to labor for the well-being of mankind in all the ages to come.

Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way; but to act, that each to-morrow Find us further than to-day.

I counsel you, then, first of all, to resolve on a life of toil. Find out what your work is, whether that of the hand or the brain, then work on like a hero till your rest stops beating. The man who is not a worker in such an age, in such a country, in such a world as ours, is equally contemptible and unhappy. He is not a substance but a shadow. You can pass your hand through him and find no obstruction. If he is in your path you do not regard him any more than you would a spider's web. And he himself knows that he is a cipher. He is without self-respect, shrinking into conscious littleness in mere self-contempt. The manly worker, on the other hand, makes himself felt as a reality. He may be sometimes mistaken, perverse, wrong-headed, but he leaves the mark of a brawny hand on his generation. You cannot, when he dies, shovel him into his grave with indifference. Young man,

BE A WORKER, not a dreamer, an idler, a dude, a fashionable do-nothing, but a worker. Choose the calling which will make the largest draft upon your energy, which will bring the sweat from your muscles or your brain all the days of your life.

I say not that you ought to prefer a life of manual labor; but I do say that you ought not to shrink from it, much less despise it. If there is any prejudice in your mind against labor as ignoble and degrading, dismiss it, I beseech you, as foolish and wicked. It is a prejudice equally opposed to the spirit of the age, to the spirit of American institutions and to the spirit of Christianity. Old feudalism and modern slavery conspired to bring labor into contempt; but both have passed away and we have fairly entered upon the Industrial Era, which asserts, or ought to assert, the nobleness of work, and provides, or ought to provide, for all true work a just remuneration.

Second—It is important, however, that your work should be well directed, that you should work for high and worthy ends. * * * Now I am not about to preach that poverty is on the whole to be preferred to wealth. I leave that to Count Tolstoi and his disciples. I would not be understood as saying that young men ought not to secure an honest independence; but I protest against letting the love of money have the least influence in determining their choice of a calling. For a youth to sit down and coolly calculate whether he can put the most money into his purse by becoming a lawyer, or a physician, or a clergyman (though that is too absurd to be often considered), or a banker, or a merchant, betrays a precocious worldliness which excites other emotions in the thoughtful on-looker than admiration. It gives promise of anything but a noble and useful life. The beardless miser may succeed in his schemes. He may grow rich as he grows old; he may even become a Vanderbilt or a Gould, but he will not gain the hearty love of a single human being; he will lose his own self-respect and forfeit the favor of God. As age comes on no generous emotions, no gush of affectionate and refreshing memories will warm his icy heart and light up his cold eyes with a genial gleam. My youthful friends,

DARE TO BE POOR.

Many of whom the world was not worthy and who are now enthroned by history among demi-gods, chose poverty rather than riches as their lot in this world.

Dr. Eddy then cited as examples the glorious achievements of Luther and Milton.

I would also warn you against allowing the desire of worldly distinction to determine your choice of a calling. As the world goes, selfish ambition is even more corrupting than avarice, though, to tell the truth, both passions are often united. That is especially true of the paltry ambition of modern politicians, who seek for place and power as the means of filling their empty coffers. * * * There is indeed a noble ambition like that of Washington, Lincoln and Garfield, but that is another name for patriotism; of that ambition you cannot have too much; of selfish ambition the least is more than enough. Let me counsel you, then, not only dare to be poor, but

DARE TO BE OBSCURE.

Be content to live and toil and die unknown. If your name should never be heard of beyond your own native village, your own street, think it no misfortune, no failure; your life may be all the nobler, all the happier, all the more fruitful. The names of mankind's greatest benefactors have perished on earth, but they are well-known in heaven and they shall shine as stars in the firmament forever and ever.

"What then," you ask, "ought to be the controlling motive in choosing a calling?" I ask in reply, why has God sent you into this world? What purpose is to be answered by your existence here? Very differently is the question answered by the Christian and the unbelieving materialist. The cold creed of the latter that man is the offspring, puppet of blind destiny soon to be engulfed in everlasting nothingness, you reject with horror. Well, standing on the Christian revelation of life and immortality—or rather, let me say, on the great hope of universal humanity—that the present life is the first preparatory stage of an endless career, you can not but regard its design as largely educational. This world is evidently intended as a training school for the next. Whatever calling therefore will contribute most largely to the formation and growth and manly Christian character, ought to be preferred. Your life-work ought to further the great end of man. It ought to be not only a hindrance to intellectual and moral culture, but a positive help. You, I am sure, feel no attraction toward a life especially dishonest and mean. But it would give me less pain to have a son of mine called a gambler than a rumseller. The former only takes his neighbor's money; the latter takes his money, his health, his reason, his life, his domestic happiness, his all, for time and eternity.

The principles laid down forbid you to engage in any calling simply to amuse. Whether a life of manual labor is on its own account to be preferred, is a question which every man must decide for himself. It seems to me there is something ennobling in those employments which bring one continually into the presence of nature. The farmer is your true king, as he drives his plow afield. Far from the pestilential atmosphere of cities, far from the whirl of social and commercial excitements, from the intrigues of ambitions, the fascinations of fashion, and the haunts of dissipation, he gets moral as well as physical health from the sunlight that browns his cheek, from the free winds that blow upon him, from the bright summer showers that fructify his furrows. Do you call this sentimentalism? So be it; I cherish it notwithstanding.

Dr. Eddy then spoke highly of mechanical arts, mentioning as noble examples such men as Franklin, the printer, Roger Sherman, the shoemaker, Burritt and Elliott, the blacksmiths, and others. The professions, with one or two exceptions, are overcrowded. Probably not one lawyer in four acquires a moderate competence by strictly professional labor. I presume the same is true of the medical profession. There are two professions, however, which though not lucrative and essentially unworthy in their nature, offer great attractions to all generous and noble minds. I mean teaching and the sacred ministry.

The speaker then devoted the remainder of his discourse to the especial calling of the ministry, and the "exquisite satisfaction of imparting sacred and saving truth to other minds. Besides, the pastor gathers around him troops of large-hearted friends—such friends as, I believe, no other professional man can have. To him the rich and the poor, the young and the aged, the learned and the ignorant, look for the bread of life; and for him their prayers ascend to God. Oh, it is without any exaggeration the most blessed work."

My young friends, I have thus redeemed my promise and given you my views on the great subject of choosing a calling for life. That choice, by all of you, unless you are speedily cut down by death, will speedily be made. It would be interesting to look forward and trace the path of each of you through life. Some of you will be farmers, some mechanics, some merchants, some physicians, some lawyers and some I feel persuaded will preach the gospel, perhaps in distant lands. But oh, when you shall have grown old and feeble, gray and wrinkled, with what feelings will you look back on that life to which you now look forward with such high and eager hope! I feel almost gifted with second sight. Some of you I see lying on your deathbeds, with hands folded in prayer, and the glory on your pallid brows. Hark! I hear you faintly say, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day." And now I see many mourners gather around your lifeless remains, which they commit to the grave with many tears, saying the while, "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

There are others whom I seem to see, though indistinctly, on their dying beds. But the vision is sad and painful; and I turn from it, though an awful voice rings in my ears, which I trust will not fall on yours—"Thou wicked and slothful servant."

"An ingenious Florida editor is utilizing the barbed-wire fences in his vicinity as special telegraph lines," says a floating item. Well, they are better adapted for telegraph lines than for use as pew cushions, aren't they?

A Course of Lectures.

The ladies of the Foreign and Home Missionary Society of the Congregational Church have arranged for a course of lectures to be given for the benefit of the societies by the following gentlemen: Dr. Angell, Professors D'Ooge, Elisha Jones, Gayley and Dewey, Judge Cheever and Mr. William Walker. The first lecture will be given by Professor D'Ooge, in the Sunday school room, on Thursday evening, November 3rd, at 7:30 o'clock. Subject: "Life in Athens." The second will be by Professor Jones, on December 1st. Subject: "A Winter in Rome."

On the evening of December 22nd, Judge Cheever will speak upon "The Mines of the Northern Peninsula," and Mr. Walker will tell of the missionary interests of that region.

The dates and subjects of the other lectures will be announced later. Good music will be provided each evening. These gentlemen have traveled "with their eyes open" and we are sure that many citizens and students will be glad to hear what they have to say.

Admission to each lecture, 20 cents.

A Colored Orator.

The Students' Lecture Association have an excellent list of lecturers for their course this winter. The first lecture will be delivered in University Hall, on Saturday evening of this week, by Hon. B. K. Bruce, the colored ex-senator, from Mississippi, on the "Race Problem."

Mr. Bruce was born a slave in 1841 in the state of Virginia; at an early age he moved to Missouri and thence to Mississippi; his education in boyhood was limited, but a course at Oberlin College, supplemented subsequently by the services of private tutors and a habit of persistent study, has made him a scholarly and thoroughly posted man. By his shrewd business tact he has amassed an ample competency to keep him in his old age. Early in life he displayed a taste for politics, and at the age of thirty-one he was elected a member of the U. S. Senate to succeed Jefferson Davis; at the expiration of his term he was appointed by President Garfield Register of U. S. Treasury, which office, for more than four years, he administered with the greatest fidelity and ability. The career of this gentleman presents some remarkable features, and consists of a series of honorable successes which read like a romance.

Fishing at Whitmore Lake.

There seems to be misapprehension of the new fish law as it applies to Whitmore Lake. For the benefit of our Nimrods, we herewith give it:

SECTION 1. The People of the State of Michigan enact, that it shall not be lawful to catch, kill or destroy fish with seines, or with any species of continuous nets, or with any form of spears, or with any description of fire arms, in the island lakes known as Devil's lake, and Round lake, in Lenawee county, Whitmore lake, Washenaw county, and Braze lake, Calhoun county.

SECTION 2. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons between the first day of December in each year, and the first day of April next succeeding, to fish with hook and line, or in any other manner, in the lakes known as Devil's lake and Round lake, in Lenawee county, Whitmore lake, Washenaw county, and Braze lake, Calhoun county.

SECTION 3. Any person offending against any provisions of this act shall, upon conviction thereof before a court of competent jurisdiction, be liable to a fine of not over one hundred dollars, or to imprisonment in the county jail not over sixty days.

Roland Reed.

That popular actor and gentleman, Roland Reed, will be seen in "Humbug" at the opera house, Monday evening, October 31st.

Roland Reed has tickled the town with "Humbug," and if the clerk of the weather would give him a fair chance there is no doubt that the performance would be continued for a considerable period. But the Bijou opera house is a very arid spot in midsummer, and it will be difficult even with so funny a piece as Mr. Marsden's to draw the people into it. The plot of the comedy has frequently been described in these columns in connection with its presentation elsewhere. There is no necessity for going into the details. Some of the situations are exceedingly comic—especially those of the last act—the dialogue is lively and amusing, and there is some attempt at varied characterization.

In Jack Luster, the pushing, voluble, deceptive schemer who marries a woman that is also an adventuress, under a mutual misunderstanding, Mr. Reed has a role that suits him thoroughly. Of course, Mr. Reed simply repeats himself. He is always the same on account of his marked peculiarities of voice, manner and appearance, but that is something in which Mr. Reed resembles many of the most successful, or, rather, most popular comedians of the day. In representing the cheeky, smooth-tongued young American of the bound to succeed order he is sui generis. As Jack he tells lies with delicious audacity and readiness, sings the popular songs of the day in that peculiar voice which outrages every tenet of vocalism and yet makes the people roar with laughter, plays the piano, imitates ye barnyard fowl, gives a condensed version of "The Mikado" and wears some of the most astonishing tailors' products that eye of mortal has ever rested upon. He is decidedly a favorite with our public and his humor is heartily appreciated.

Mr. Reed's company contains several clever people.—New York Mirror.

port that after a careful and thorough examination of all of the departments and the farm, we found each department in excellent condition and the farm well cared for showing skill and good management throughout. Therefore, in view of the same, I would in behalf of the committee move that the thanks of this Board be tendered to Mr. and Mrs. McDowell for the very able manner in which they have discharged the duties intrusted to them. We also made a thorough and complete examination of the work done in the way of steam heating and ventilation; and although it is not quite completed, we feel satisfied that the work has been well done in a substantial and workmanlike manner, and that the ventilation, which was much needed, will without a doubt prove a grand success. And although the cost may seem extravagant, we feel confident that it will be a saving to the County in the end, and that now the people of Washtenaw County may well feel proud of their County Poor House. Therefore, we deem it our duty to thank the members of the committee on Public Buildings and Prof. M. E. Cooley, under whose supervision the work was carried on.

On motion of Mr. Gilbert, the report was adopted.

At a meeting of the Lutheran society of Manchester, last week, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, John Schlicht; secretary, Lewis Ernst; treasurer, F. K. Steinkol; director, John Heimendörfer; Elder, Fred. K. Kurfess; trustee, Gerhard Kuhl.

Fire was discovered in the oil room of L. W. Richards & Co.'s store in Pinckney at daylight Saturday morning, which totally destroyed the building and most of its contents. The adjoining buildings, occupied by the Pinckney Dispatch office and George W. Syke's residence and Richard's blacksmith shop, were also consumed. Loss, $4,000; insurance, $2,500.

Superior cor. Commercial: Christopher Dures and Lee Wilbur, residents of our township, who have always been considered very peaceable citizens, erred upon the premises of William H. Crupper on Wednesday last, and without the slightest provocation commenced a savage assault upon his residence, knocking out the gable end of the south wing, tore out a number of partitions, ripped up the floor in a number of places, and completely demolished the pantry, besides other riotous demonstrations too numerous to mention. William, hearing the racket, seized the old family musket and rushed to the scene of the disturbance, and had he not been restrained by his wife, would have blown the intruders to atoms. Later.—The above affair has been settled without litigation, and the two aforesaid fellows have not only repaired the damages, but added to the general appearance of the dwelling, at least fifty per cent.

The official vote on prohibition at the late election in Tennessee was: For, 117,504; against, 145,197. It was the heaviest vote ever cast in that state.

The knights of labor show good sense in the manner in which they treat the liquor question. By a vote of 104 to 49 the general assembly, at Minneapolis last week, sustained the rule prohibiting the sale of liquor at picnics.

The Manistee Democrat has been purchased by Henry G. Wanty, the late city editor of the Grand Rapids Democrat. It seems this paper has not been a financial success lately, but there is little doubt that under the able management of its new proprietor it will be a paying concern, for he has proven himself to be a first-class newspaper man. Mr. Wanty formerly lived in this city.

The Michigan branch of the woman's auxiliary of the board of Episcopal Missions held a well attended meeting last week, at Bay City. This branch was started eight years ago and has grown very rapidly in numbers, labor performed and amounts contributed. During these eight years $4,199 have been raised. The general auxiliary which was established in 1871 raised last year $23,726 in cash, for the good cause of humanity and religion. The next meeting of the state auxiliary will be held in January, 1888, at Flint. The officers are: Miss Adams, of Detroit, president; Mrs. Wm. J. Chittenden, Detroit, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. James T. Stirling, chairwoman of the auxiliary surplus society.

EXAGGERATED reports of the prevalence of diphtheria are afloat in the city, and calculated to do more harm than good. There are only two houses in the city today in which there is sickness of diphtheric type, and only two deaths have occurred of that disease as yet. There is no probability of any further spread of the disease if people will be careful to adopt proper sanitary precautions. Dr. Breakey, chairman of the Board of Health, assures us that they are watching the interests of the city, and will do their duty. They request every citizen to look closely to his premises and see that there is nothing left about the homes to decay and form poisonous gases, and that cess-pools and privy vaults are carefully looked after. Following such an exceedingly hot and dry summer as the past, more sickness than usual may be expected, and the suggestions of the Board should be carefully adopted, and then no alarm need be felt.

Professor Tyler's New Book.

To anything from the pen of Moses Coit Tyler his fellow-townsmen are sure to accord the same cordial and affectionate welcome, which they always have ready for himself whenever he returns among them. His new work, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., in their series of monographs upon "American Statesmen," on the great Virginia orator and statesman of the Revolutionary period, Patrick Henry, conspicuously merits such a welcome.

In the preparation of his biography of Patrick Henry, Professor Tyler's industrious search has been rewarded by the discovery of materials of information hitherto unemployed. By the use of these materials he has been enabled to place before the world a view of his subject which is not only more complete, but more correct, than any hitherto published. And what is specially fortunate is that Patrick Henry, seen in the light of this new, more perfect, and more authentic account, decidedly gains, rather than loses, in our esteem and admiration. Attacks of envy, directed against the character and actions of Patrick Henry, are in the work before us now first and finally disproved; and the man himself, uniting in him those qualities which peculiarly distinguish the best American citizenship, is permitted to appear before us. In the congress at Philadelphia in 1774, Patrick Henry declared of himself, "I am not a Virginian, but an American." Professor Tyler's work enables us with full right to class Henry among those typical Americans (such as Lincoln in our own times) who are incarnate definitions of what is best and most worthily distinctive in American character.

Professor Tyler's style appears in the present volume at its best. In treating of the earlier and very unpromising years of Patrick Henry's life, he has a happy occasion, which he improves, for indulging in the delightful vein of merry drollery so peculiar to himself. In the more serious and inspiring tale of Henry's long continued successes,—of his wonderful eloquence, of his statesmanship, of the initiative he took in proclaiming the elementary principles of American liberty, of the great part he had in securing their recognition, of his deeply ethical patriotism, and of his Christian character and conviction,—the Tyleresque, as we may call it, in our author's style disappears, and the latter becomes simply schematic; then it is not the writer, but the theme, that speaks. We scarcely need bespeak—as we do—for Professor Tyler's book the attention it deserves.

ON THE CAMPUS.

THE SOPHOMORE JUBILANT.

The Foot-Ball Rush Between '90 and '91—Medic Rush—General News.

Professor Taylor returned from Chicago Saturday. The Engineering Society has thirty-four new members. The Alpha Delta Phi house is being decorated in the interior.

The freshmen have adopted as their class yell "Tum-ta, Ra-Rum, '91."

The Mathematical Society will meet in Room I, Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

John O. Reed, one of '85's most popular members, visited in the city over Sunday.

Joe H. Drake, lit '84, now principal of the Battle Creek schools, was in the city Saturday.

Professor H. C. Adams' new course in Finance is very popular, nearly all the seats being taken.

It is estimated that four thousand doctors are graduated annually from the medical schools of America.

Many new books are coming into the library now-a-days. A number of philosophical works are the latest addition.

Francis A. Adams, now of Detroit, but formerly assistant in medical chemistry at this University, visited old friends in this city over Sunday.

A tennis tournament will be held on the campus Saturday, Oct. 29th. Prizes will be awarded in doubles and in first and second-class singles.

The bust of Aristotle, purchased last June by Professor Morris' philosophy class, has arrived and will soon be placed in position in Room 21.

J. W. Shatwell, who entered with '86, but was obliged to leave college before the completion of his course, is again back, and will graduate with '89.

The meeting of the Schoolmasters' Club, in Room 24, last Saturday, was attended by the usual number. It was a very interesting and instructive meeting.

President Angell left last Tuesday evening for Washington, to begin his work as one of the members of the Fisheries Commission. It is now President Frieze.

A notice is up announcing the senior lit election, to take place in Room A, next Saturday morning. From "the political aspect" we can prophesy a warm time.

The rush between the medics of '89 and '90, Saturday morning, lasted about three hours, neither class winning a goal. Both are confident of victory the next time they meet.

Dr. Vaughan has lately received some improved and beautiful apparatus for use in the study of bacteria, a branch of investigation directly bearing upon the germ theory of disease.

The School of Music announces a special course in calisthenics, to be given under the direction of Miss E. E. Garrigue. The class is designed especially for ladies, and should have a full attendance.

The Chronicle advertises to be of assistance to any one wishing to attend the University but whose means prevent him from doing so unless he could find employment here. A commendable departure.

Under a re organization, the University Chemical Society will hold its first meeting Friday evening, this week. All members of the pharmacy department and everyone interested in chemistry, are invited to be present.

J. D. Hibbard, who has been "laid up" for some time at the "Sig" house, on account of a sprain received while playing foot-ball on the campus, is much improved, and has accepted a position as mechanical engineer in the Davis Steam Heating Co., of Chicago.

It is reported that, contrary to the strict laws laid down on the subject by our last legislature, several of the students have indulged lately in spearing game fish. Should this continue, we are liable to have some lively fishery disputes. Never mind; Fish Commissioner Angell lives here, and he always stood by the students.

Dr. George, who has lately been added to the faculty of the medical department as assistant in Materia Medica, bids fair to eclipse some of the older professors in popularity. So popular have his lectures and quizzes become that many of the upper class men are taking advantage of this opportunity to review the subject.

The homeopaths of '88 have elected the following class officers: E. W. Ruggles, president; Miss M. Cook, vice president; E. A. Darby, treasurer; D. J. Sinclair, secretary; Miss L. Henderschott, historian; Miss M. E. Thompson, prophetess; J. H. Lawrence, orator; Mrs. H. L. Porter, poetess; G. D. Arndt, marshal.

Dr. Lyster, of Detroit, a graduate of both literary and medical departments of this University a score of years ago, was in town Monday and was present at several recitations. The remarks he made to one of the classes showed that he was very proud of his Alma Mater, while his wit succeeded several times in bringing down the house.

Argonaut: The Choral Union will give no series of concerts this year, unless it be the proposed chamber concerts. To insure the success of these and to have the project taken into consideration, a sale or pledge of at least three hundred season tickets, at $2.50 each, must be made. The number is limited to four hundred. Mr. Cady hopes that all who have received invitations will respond promptly.

The seniors are preparing for class election, and the probabilities are that a long and bitter struggle will be engaged in. The fight will be between the fraternities and independents, and which side will win cannot be foretold. Among the fraternity men we hear the names of Miller, Cole, Mann, Hawkes, Mitchell and Lee mentioned as possible candidates, while the independents are talking about the good qualities of Kiskadden, Rosenthal, Boyle and Brown.

Argonaut: Friday evening occurred the annual spread given by the sophomore girls to the freshman and upper class girls of the literary department. Mrs. Stowell, who had kindly opened her tasteful and elegant home for the occasion, was as usual the ideal hostess. Some two hundred young ladies were present, and the variety and beauty of costumes, surmounted by smiling faces, bright eyes, and waving locks, constituted in the words of the poet, "a perfect rose-bud garden of girls."

The laws are enjoying a good laugh at the expense of Prof. Rogers. Last Monday he began quizzing the juniors and as name after name was called no one responded. The professor informed them that if they failed to respond it would count against them. Once in a while when the name Smith or Brown was called a score or more would get up, but when the initials were given all would resume their seat. This little episode was continued for three days, when it was discovered, that the assistant librarian had copied the names of the juniors of '85, '86, '87, '88, as he had been asked to do by Prof. Rogers.

The Chicago Tribune, in speaking of the exhibit sent to the Chicago exposition by the mechanical engineering department of this University, took occasion to make some highly complimentary remarks on the merits of the work of this department, and to pronounce it by far the best of any similar exhibit there. This compliment, in its application, is a substantial tribute to the professors and assistants who have this department in charge. The various pieces of the exhibit will be left in Chicago for a few days and be displayed at the meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and also before the north-western society of American Engineers now holding their meetings in that city.

The following club courts, in addition to the Knowlton club court, have been organized for the ensuing year: Trans-Mississippi club court meets on Monday evenings, at 7 o'clock, in the "quiz room;" M. C. Tift, C. J.; H. H. Harr, clerk. Indiana club court meets on Mondays at 7 p. m., in Room 10; E. G. Hall, C. J.; E. R. Keith, clerk. Illinois club court meets every Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, in Room 10; D. R. Burke, C. J.; H. C. Bieler, clerk. Pacific Coast Code club court meets on Wednesday evening of each week, in Room 10, at 7 o'clock; L. T. Turner, C. J.; S. S. Anderson, clerk. Criminal Law court meets on Saturday evenings at 7 o'clock, in Room 10; D. B. Day, C. J.; L. F. Moore, clerk. The New York and Southern club court will be organized at an early date.

The event of the week was the foot-ball game between '90 and '91, which resulted in a victory for the former class. Notwithstanding '90 numbered only about one hundred men, while the freshmen mustered about one hundred and thirty, the sophomores won two straight goals. Soon after dinner the members of the two classes began to assemble, and by two o'clock the campus was literally black with students and citizens who had assembled to witness the freshmen's defeat, as it was conceded it would be. In the game last year the present sophomore class defeated the then sophomore class, and as the class still contained its best athletes, there was reason for thinking that they would not allow the freshmen to down them. Before the game was called some sophomores started the song "Down with '90 just now," and to offset this bit of sarcasm on their class the freshmen started the song "Hang the sophs on a sour apple tree," which was taken up by all their friends. R. L. Mahon, lit '86, acted as referee, and A. C. Kiskadden acted as umpire for the sophomores, while J. E. Duffy, lit '89, acted in a similar capacity for the freshmen. The ball was kicked off at 2:40 by the sophomores, and in just eight minutes they had won a goal, without any great effort. At 3:20 the ball was kicked off for the second inning by the sophomores, and for an hour and a half the two classes swayed back and forth until '90 finally sent the ball over the line, and by so doing had won the game.

An Ann Arbor Publication.

"The American Meteorological Journal," published in Ann Arbor, Mich., and now in its fourth year, is occupying with marked ability a unique but important field in magazine literature. Although some of its notes, selections and articles are so technical as to be of value only to devotees of meteorology, the greater part of its contents may be read with profit by physicians, navigators, intelligent farmers and many other business classes. Ferrel, Abbe, Waldo, Davis, Harrington, Hazen, Draper and other recognized authorities are among its contributors; and the editor keeps track of foreign as well as American discussions of the problems and phenomena of weather science for the benefit of his readers. New York Daily Tribune, Sept. 4, 1887.

The fellow that cannot see any good in an enterprise that he does not originate or is not consulted about.

LITERARY NOTES.

Short stories will appear in the November Scribner's, by Rebecca Harding Davis and Margaret Crosby. The former writes of life on a Louisiana bayou plantation.

A number of remarkably fine portraits of well-known amateur athletes in motion, will illustrate Dr. Sargent's article in the November Scribner's, on "The Physical Characteristics of Athletes."

General Francis A. Walker's article on "What Shall We Tell the Working Classes," in the November Scribner's, will contain some very vigorous and plain-spoken words on the labor question.

If the citizens of Detroit would display half as much interest in the matter of an exposition as they do over base ball, they would soon have a building completed.

22,815,153 BUSHELS OF WHEAT.

Synopsis of the Michigan Crop Report for October.

The returns this month indicate that the wheat product of Michigan the present year amounts to 22,815,153 bushels. The average yield per acre is 13 and 8-10 bushels. The figures above given are based on the area in wheat as shown in the July crop report, the actual yield of 256,663 acres as shown by records kept by threshers, and the actual yield 163,918 acres grown on 9,159 farms, as shown by a canvass made by correspondents.

The wheat product as above estimated is about 4,708,000 bushels less than the crop of 1886, and more than 5,000,000 bushels less than the average annual product in the eight years, 1878-85.

The canvass made by correspondents in the southern four tiers of counties furnishes data for the following statements:

Three farmers in each hundred raised less than five bushels of wheat per acre, 19 farmers in each hundred raised five to ten bushels per acre, 33 farmers in each hundred raised 10 to 15 bushels per acre, and 29 farmers in each hundred raised 15 to 20 bushels per acre. Footing we find that 84 farmers in each one hundred raised in 1887 less than 20 bushels of wheat per acre.

The average yield per acre of wheat raised on corn stubble is returned at 11 and 34-hundredths bushels; on wheat stubble, at 11 and 29-hundredths bushels, on oat stubble, at 12 and 33-hundredths bushels; and on summer fallow, at 17 and 34-hundredths bushels.

WHEAT MARKETED.

Reports have been received of the quantity of wheat marketed by farmers during the month of September at 315 elevators and mills. Of these 255 are in the southern four tiers of counties, which is 51 per cent., and 42 are in the fifth and sixth tiers of counties, which is 47 per cent. of the whole number in these sections respectively. The total number of bushels reported marketed is 1,246,951, of which 256,318 bushels were marketed in the first or southern tier of counties; 266,291 bushels in the second tier; 147,692 bushels in the third tier; 399,431 bushels in the fourth; 125,484 bushels in the fifth and sixth tiers; and 24,735 bushels in the northern counties. At 25 elevators and mills, or eight per cent. of the whole number from which reports have been received, there was no wheat marketed during the month.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in August and September is 2,279,439.

OTHER PRODUCTS.

The yield per acre of oats in the southern four tiers of counties is 30 and 36-hundredths bushels; in the central, 29 and five-hundredths bushels; and in the northern counties 23 and 73 hundredths bushels.

Barley averages 21 and 16-hundredths bushels per acre in the State.

Corn is estimated to yield 39 bushels of ears in the southern counties, 54 bushels of ears in the central counties, and 45 bushels of ears in the northern counties. These figures indicate an average for the State of about 20 bushels of shelled corn, or about two-thirds of an average crop.

Potatoes will not yield to exceed one-third of an average crop.

Winter apples will yield about one-half of an average crop.

There is no need of a compass while traveling through the woods, says an old guide, for there are three ways of getting your bearings without one. There-fourths of the moss on trees grows on the north side; the heaviest boughs on spruce trees are always on the south side, and, thirdly, the topmost twig of every uninjured hemlock tips to the east.

COUNTY NEWS.

Ypsilanti.

C. R. Whitman is moving to Ann Arbor this week.

The savings bank building is being hurried along in fine shape.

George Brown has purchased Frank Earle's residence on Congress-st, for $1600.

Progressive euchre parties were given this week by Miss Fannie Grey and Mrs. E. L. Jansen.

Geo. L. Pierson and family, from Tombstone, Arizona, are visiting his parents in this city.

Most of the dry goods stores close at six, and the rest of the business houses will begin next week by closing at 8 o'clock.

Charlie Davis, a young colored boy, has been sent to the reform school at the request of his mother. She couldn't make him mind.

All but about twenty of the citizens' tickets for the lecture course have been sold, and the financial success of the enterprise is assured.

Prof. Cleary is bound to have a new building for his Business College, and will soon begin a building on the corner of Congress and Adams-sts.

R. W. Hemphill is treating his residence on Huron-st, to a Queen Anne or a Swiss or some other kind of a foreign roof, which gives the building quite a stylish effect.

Fred. Brown, a 15 year old lad, was killed last Saturday, while catching on to a freight train. The conductor had warned him off several times, but his persistence cost his life.

A young man named McKinstry, employed in the dress stay factory, nearly lost his eyesight the other day, from having ammonia poured in his face, by a companion, "just for fun."

Capt. Allen visited Monroe last week in company with Senator Palmer and others, to view the harbor works. The question of improvements may be brought up in congress, and these gentlemen will be posted as to the necessity of such improvements.

Chelsea.

C. H. Kempf is in New York state shipping apples.

Temperature, Wednesday morning, 18 degrees above zero.

Some farmers have lost a part of their small crop of apples by recent frost.

Rev. T. Holmes will preach at Dexter next Sabbath at the Congregational church.

Now Truman W. Baldwin has the city fever and is going to move into town. Who comes next?

C. H. Wines has bought lots and is preparing to build a residence in the Southeast quarter of the town.

Rev. J. A. Kaley was absent last Sunday, and Rev. Mr. Holmes occupied his pulpit in the morning and evening.

M. J. Noyes has greatly improved his front yard by removing evergreen trees, trimming maples, sodding, etc. He is tired of living in the woods.

Rev. G. Robertus has concluded to continue his services with the Lutheran churches at this place and Dexter, and has withdrawn his resignation.

The teachers of our Union school visited the Ann Arbor schools last week Thursday. They report a good time and some good points learned about teaching.

Miss Alice Sargent recently made a tour through some of the principal cities of the great Northwest, returning through Indiana and Ohio. She has now returned to her hospital work in Detroit. Alice is a very successful nurse.

Ypsilantian: A versatile community this. We are at present being represented abroad by one congressman, nine opera singers, twenty-eight school teachers, one evangelist, one prize fighter, four actors, twenty-two students, two preachers, three editors, three jockeys, forty traveling men, and in other lines too numerous to mention.

Adrian Press: John N. Bailey, formerly of the Ann Arbor Argus, has at last had greatness thrust upon him. He is now the editor of the Midland Sun, and has been challenged by the editor of the Midland Republican to a debate on tariff. The jaw-fight occurred at the Midland opera house, Monday evening, but beyond a slight shock of the earth, felt in this vicinity when Bailey opened his argument, nothing has been heard hereabouts, concerning the result of the combat. So sure was Mr. Bailey of a government appointment at one period, that his paper (then the Argus) printed an announcement thereof accompanied with a cut of the American Eagle, which through the haste of the office foreman went in up side down, giving the spread eagle the appearance of flopping helplessly about on his back—omen of a bleak and bitter disappointment.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVELL, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well." "My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

"ROYAL" ABSOLUTELY PURE.

The only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely free from lime, and absolutely pure, is the "Royal." This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes of the N. Y. Tartar Co., which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and on account of this greater cost it is used in no baking powder but the "Royal."

Prof. Love, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, and whose intimate knowledge of the ingredients of all those sold in this market enables him to speak authoritatively, says of the purity and wholesomeness of the "Royal":

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or any injurious substances.

Mark Twain.
The American press generally appears to have lost touch of Mark Twain. One reason for this change of feeling may be that Mark has grown rich. It is an unpardonable error for a humorist to be rich. He ought to live in a garret, like James Triplet, be the happy professor of one thread bare coat, and shoes that let the water in. But even under these direful circumstances, 25 cents would purchase him from that most painful of all complaints, Rheumatism. They are advertised everywhere. For Sale by H. J. Brown, Dist. Agt. for Ann Arbor.

Under the new law, regarding the taxation of mortgages, it is doubtful if a purchaser of real estate will get a deed of his property until every cent is paid. It is especially designed to promote the health of ladies of all ages, as well as children, and those interested in the subject of physical development should be present on this occasion.

Ypsilanti expects to have its electric light turned on about the middle of next month, which causes the Ypsilanti to ask the following question: "By the way, what has become of that six hundred dollars said to have been paid or promised to certain members of the city council if the Jenney contract was accepted? Why can't we use the money in having an electric light jubilee, or in buying tickets for the entire town to the next Uncle Tom's Cabin play? We don't object to the six hundred dollars, but it seems no more than fair that we should all enjoy the fruits of the council's thrift and thoughtfulness."

Howard M. Holmes, of Lansing, correspondence clerk of the State Board of Health, was in the city last Friday and Saturday. The action of the board of supervisors in not re-electing D. B. Greene a member of the board of superintendents of the poor, is meeting with considerable criticism outside of Ann Arbor. From the Ypsilanti we take the following: "It may be that the board of supervisors have done a wise thing in electing Elias Loomis to succeed D. B. Greene as superintendent of the poor, but the probability is hardly a reasonable one. We know little of Loomis, and nothing to his discredit as a man and citizen, but of Mr. Greene we do know something, and we know that he has performed his duties as superintendent of the poor honestly and carefully, and no charge to the contrary has ever been brought against him. Mr. Greene was defeated because he was a republican and Mr. Loomis was elected principally because he was a democrat, and this was done in spite of an unwritten law, respected during all the past twenty years, that both parties should be represented on the board. It is said, and the statement is not founded on mere rumor, that Duffy, the Ann Arbor postmaster and a democratic ward leader, was most active in securing Mr. Greene's defeat, his purpose being to secure a board that would consent to place a brother-in-law of Duffy's in charge of the county house, deposing Mr. John S. McDowell and his wife. It remains to be seen whether or not Mr. Duffy can successfully carry out the remaining part of his programme."

The Work of Flames.

The house of Dr. H. C. Allen, on Jefferson st, caught fire about one o'clock Saturday morning and was damaged to the amount of about $500. The damage was mostly done to the roof and the rooms upstairs, but the prompt use of his house hose kept the fire from spreading farther, and had nearly extinguished it before the fire department put in an appearance. The house had been entirely overhauled during the past summer, and was very handsome on the inside. The loss is well covered by insurance.

About eleven o'clock Monday morning the house of John Beahan, in the Third ward, occupied by H. G. Snow, caught fire and was partially destroyed. The building was insured for $1000, which will cover the loss. Mr. Snow lost about $200 in household goods, uninsured.

In both places the fire department showed itself to be in a thoroughly demoralized condition. If there are men in it who are not capable of filling the position they occupy, they should be removed.

Chamber Concerts.

It does not seem to be understood that unless the proposed series of Chamber Concerts is given, we are to have no concerts with programs suited to the present cultivated taste of the community. This would be a great loss, and yet it must surely come to pass unless the subscription tickets sold are sufficient to meet the expenses of the entire series. Those who have not yet subscribed, but who really care to have any concerts, should send in their names this week, as the matter must be decided at once in order to distribute the tickets in time for the first concert, Nov. 4.

He Knew Him.

It is an old but trite saying that "it is a wise boy who knows his own father." But the proof of the assertion was never more fully shown than it was in a well-known clothing house in this city, one day last week, when a couple of young boys entered the store in question to make a small purchase. The proprietor, not knowing the young lads, asked them whose boys they were. Not understanding the name given, they were asked what their father did. The elder of the two replied: "Why he don't do anything; he's prosecuting attorney." At this reply the clerks all smiled, and the proprietor walked away muttering, "Right you are, my boy; right you are."

A certain Port Huron attorney sent circulars to several business houses stating that he would be pleased to collect their bad debts at a small percentage. The head of a north side establishment put $100 worth of bad accounts in his hands for collection. The attorney hastened to his office and took the rubber from the package. There was a $15, a $10 and a $5 account. Then came a $70 account, and it was against himself. The office boy was just in time to catch the attorney as he fell to the floor in a dead faint.—Port Huron Times.
