TWO THOUSAND PEOPLE COME TO ENJOY ITS PLEASURES.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK IN THE "ATHENS OF THE WEST" AGAIN A SUCCESS.

Class of '88 the Largest ever Known Here.—President Angell's Baccalaureate.—Class-Day Exercises.—Senior Reception.—Concert.

During the past four days, Ann Arbor, the gem city of the state, and the "Athens of the West," has been the theater of many varied, interesting and pleasant scenes. Commencement week always means a "feast of reason and a flow of soul," and this week has been no exception to the general rule. Comedy and Drama, Poetry and Song, impromptu by their devotees, have lavishly contributed their gifts to the end that the Commencement of '88 might go down to history and posterity as the most intellectual, the most perfect, and the most enjoyable ever held in the shadow of our noble halls of learning. That it has proved such is the unanimous verdict of all alumni. Those who have attended the exercises express unbounded delight at the eloquent orations, classical lyrics, ever interesting class histories, and sagely told prophecies that peer so unerringly into the "dim and distant future." Class-mates of decades past have met and revived friendships that have laid dormant through all the intervening years.

Alumni meetings, class receptions, and class exercises have been the order of the week, and today in the Annual Commencement, occurs the last act of the perennial drama written for her children, by that most prolific of all play-wrights—"Our Alma Mater."

Sunday night nearly 3000 persons assembled in University hall to hear President Angell's address to the graduates. The University colors over the stage and around the gallery were the only decorations in the hall. The exercises were opened by the Choral Union singing "The Kyrie," by Gounod. Prof. D'Ooge then read from the Scriptures. "Come Unto Me," a solo, was sung in a beautiful voice by Mrs. Sylvester, a daughter of Prof. Winchell. Prayer was then offered by Prof. D'Ooge. After singing by the choir of four male voices, and Miss Ida Winchell, soprano, Dr. Angell delivered his discourse on the "Propulsive Forces in Christian Life."

PRESIDENT ANGELL'S ADDRESS.

My friends of the graduating classes: At the stage which you have now reached in your careers, there is one question which every one of you would do well to consider. It is this: "What are to be the great propulsive forces in my life? What motives, what ideas, what purposes are to incite me to activity, and to hold me up to the plane of my best endeavor? You have already advanced far enough in life to see that unless under the stress and impulse of some dominating propulsive force, men do not long push forward with great vigor. You have yourself found that at times you have grown weary in your work of preparation for actual life and have crowded on merely under the spur of some high motive or strong ambition. It is a sad fact, that in almost every graduating class, of every college or university, there are some who on the day of their graduation, reach their culmination, and never again hold relatively to their fellows so conspicuous a place.

Among the incentives which seem to be stirring most men to active life are these: The necessity of gaining a livelihood, the desire to accumulate wealth, and ambition for professional eminence, and the love of the reputation of the social consideration or of the political distinction to which wealth or professional eminence often leads. A smaller number are impelled to stringent and earnest studies through life by a genuine love of self-culture, or by passion for scientific investigation, and the discovery of truth. Now any or all of these incentives may under proper conditions furnish worthy and effective stimulus to us in life. But the incentives that furnish the highest aspirations of life, are set forth in the exemplification of the life of Jesus Christ. It has indeed been asserted by some that Christianity cultivates only the passive virtues, and so that while it is fitted to meet the wants of those in distress, or of recluses, or of women in the quiet of domestic life, or of the aged bowed under the burden of years, it does not especially minister to the courage, the enthusiasm, the tireless enterprise, which alone can succeed in the sharp rivalries and hard contests of busy and conspicuous lives. This accusation against Christianity has been due in large part to an inadequate conception of its principles, and the inadequate conception has been due in part to one-sided representations of it by its friends. Even good men, weary and worn by the trials of life, have dwelt so much upon the consolation and repose which Christianity brings to troubled hearts in this world and upon the rest which it promises in the world to come, that they have failed to appreciate and describe its inspiring and impulsive powers. Hence in the presentation of it they have often failed to touch the heart of youth.

But I wish to direct your attention to the act that our Lord has brought to us no gospel of quiescence and inaction, but pre-eminently a gospel of life. He came not to extinguish or weaken the propulsive forces implanted in us by our Creator, but to direct them to worthy ends and then to strengthen and stimulate them by setting before us the highest motive to activity.

First—He who has the spirit of the Master works under the strongest pressure of the sense of duty. As he sought supremely and constantly to do the will of the father, so his disciple is impelled to his most strenuous endeavor by his sense of duty to God and to his fellow men. In all ages it has been the men who have felt most keenly the promptings of this high motive who have led the most efficient and heroic lives. The man who with reverent spirit surrenders himself to that great imperative "ought" never settles into lethargy, and never finds his work completed.

Secondly—The Christian spirit cherishes in the heart of man as one of its dominant and impelling forces, a profound desire to do good to man. It was for this that our Lord and Master toiled and died. It is not difficult for those as young as young as you, to cherish this high purpose of benefactors of the race. When the true spirit of consecration of the life to the noble end for blessing our fellows has taken possession of the heart, it has begotten that which no floods of adversity can quench, but a propulsive force which even the strong arm of persecution could not stay.

Thirdly—The follower of Christ finds a constant and most powerful stimulus in the consciousness that he is a co-worker with the divine laws and divine plans. He sees that God lays upon every true disciple the high honor of laboring with Him for sharing in the triumph of His kingdom. Now one who with due humility, with a proper appreciation of his own weakness and infirmities, still so strives to conform his life to the divine will that he may reasonably believe himself a co-worker with God, finds in his high vocation the noblest inspiration to the most strenuous efforts.

Fourthly—The spirit of Christian faith is a tremendous propulsive power. Down through all history it has been the force which believes something that has achieved something. The Mephistophelian spirit of negation is paralyzing and destructive, never impelling and constructive. The man who lay hold of God's laws and God's plans and God's promises with a firm grasp of faith have "the evidence of things not seen," gain something of the power of prophetic prevision, and press on with the inspiration of those who see with more or less distinctness the results from afar. Just as faith in the infirmity of physical laws underlies all our modern physical conquests over time and space, just as faith in men is absolutely essential to the maintenance of the vast world, so faith in the constancy, justice and perfection, of God's moral and spiritual laws, is the great factor in the moral and spiritual force of men. Christianity teaches the human spirit at so many points and in so many ways that I do not attempt to give an exhaustive light of the propulsive powers which it furnishes to its disciples. But I am sure all must concede that by placing us under a controlling sense of duty, by filling us with a passion for doing good to men, by lifting us to the consciousness of being co-workers with God, and by invigorating our hearts with robust faith, it affords the brightest and noblest stimulus which we are capable of receiving. My scholarly young friend, do not then repress your passion for the culture of your mind. Court earnestly the best gifts. Let your scholarly impulses lend their full propulsive power to your life. The cause of truth needs all the help the highest culture can bring to its service.

THE LAWS HOLD SOFTLY

The law class of 1888 held their class exercises in University hall, Monday afternoon. To the right of the speaker's stand, on a table stood a standard supporting a pair of scales, of the pattern generally in the grasp of the blind goddess, though these were made of the most beautiful flowers, red and white roses. After the overture, "Iolanthe," President M. S. Frost of Ann Arbor came forward and in an easy, clean-cut, manner delivered the address to the class. He said: "We have doubtless thought that we could leave these halls, where we have so long dwelt, without regrets, but I have learned to doubt it. There have happened some things that we will be glad to forget, but a great many things have happened that we will all be glad to remember. Though we met as strangers, yet to-day we part friends, brothers, bound by ties that can never be broken."

Chas. Ailing, of Madison, Indiana, then recited the class poem. His style was dramatic and his words eloquent. It was a brilliant effort and reflected much credit upon its author.

D. Marion DeVries, of Woodbridge, Cal., delivered the oration: "Government by Law." The orator is possessed of a fine voice, and speaking slowly and distinctly made a good impression on those present. He referred to the various kinds of laws and governments, defining each, and claimed that true government was based on equal rights to all. Without this there can be no government by law. Law being the true exponent of the feelings and ideas of the people, must be acquiesced in or it ceases to be the expression of the will of the people. And good laws depend on the education of the masses, which then is the foundation of all good government.

The class history was read by Perley T. Gossby, of San Jose, Cal. It was written in an extremely happy vein, and was received with frequent applause and laughter. References to Profs. Hutchins and Walker, former lecturers in the law department, were heartily applauded. 128 graduates. There are 56 republicans, 56 democrats, 6 mugwumps, 7 prohibitionists. 117 are married, 11 single. 108 of them have spent $43,900 in the two years they have been here, the lowest spending $200, the highest $700.

Miss Altneda Hitchcock, of Hilo, Hawaiian Islands, read the class prophecy. She did not individualize, but treated the class in a general way, her essay being fraught with good thoughts and sentiments.

The consolation, by L. F. Crofoot, Pontiac, closed the exercises. The first part of this address bristled with humorous points, which were much enjoyed by the class. But towards the close the speaker dwelt feelingly on the parting soon to come, and the uncertain future before all.

Each of the speakers received a beautiful basket of flowers at the conclusion of their address. The cornet solo by Meade Vestal, of the Chequamegon orchestra, was repeatedly applauded.

MEDICAL CLASS CLASS-DAY.

Class-day exercises for the department of medicine and surgery, were held in University hall Monday afternoon.

After music by the orchestra, Dr. Francis W. Brewer addressed a few words to the class as follows:

"Sanitation and Hygiene are necessary the world over, the presence of physicians is needed everywhere. I need not tell you as you go out into the world to be gentlemen and gentlemen, do this and you will never be false to any one. The minister, the lawyer, the teacher and physician should form one grand quadrangle for the elevation and raising up of mankind. The physician attends the first and last events of life, and it should be your aim and endeavor, as you mingle with human life of all kinds and phases, to eradicate and root out as much as possible the evils of the mind and body. All may not bring in fees; but it has been my experience that those physicians who are philanthropic, and strive for the advancement of mankind whenever opportunity offers, generally have the largest practice and stand higher in the regard of the people. Practice philanthropy with your medicine." The doctor then offered prayer.

George H. Conklin then read the class poem, which was a fine production, though of extreme length.

The class history by Miss Christine Anderson, was written in an interesting and humorous manner, some of her personal references causing much merriment. She began with the class when they were innocent "freshies," and submitted to everything under the sun, at the hands of the other classes, until graduated grave and dignified seniors. The class began with 138 members, nearly every state being represented, as well as England, Canada and South America. As juniors they numbered 108, and soon informed the doughty seniors that they could no longer occupy junior seats in the lecture room. Rushes were plenty and became so frequent that Dr. Frothingham threatened to call out the militia. They leave our Alma Mater 65 strong.

The oration, by Will L. Griffin, showed in its composition much care and thought. He spoke of the continual research of man after hidden secrets, delving into mines, climbing mountain sides, exploring the mysteries of the sky. But the greatest secret and the one most desired was to know man. What a strange make-up; what a wonderful machine. The anatomist, the psychologist, and the physiologist tell us of the mind, the brain, the tissues, the delicate nerve centres, the working of that most wonderful pump in the world, the heart, and we stand awed when we comprehend the organization of the animal, man. Hygiene, that relic of barbarism, has been resurrected, and is going forth among mankind an angel of mercy. Among the homes of the rich and poor, it is doing great good. Prevention of disease is its office, and should be our aim as much as the curing thereof.

The class prophecy, written by Horace Wilcox, who could not be present was read.

The address by the president of the class, Henry Hulst, A. M., was scholarly and eloquent. He referred to the fact that on the boundless ocean ships meet and speak, though perhaps miles apart. So we who go out into the world, separated by hundreds of miles perhaps, will speak to each other, by our good words and deeds said and done in behalf of mankind.

LIT. CLASS EXERCISES.

The lits held part of their class-day exercises in University hall Tuesday morning, and the balance under Tappan oak in the afternoon. The exercises in the morning began with music, followed by prayer by Rev. Dr. Ramsay. Moritz Rosenthal, of Dixon, Ill., then delivered the class oration, "The College man in the World." In beginning the discussion of a subject, we should fix upon a certain line of thought and pursue it as closely as practicable. Our investigations and lives should be as continuous and as connected as possible. Though history is made up of fragments, yet it is a unity. The scholar has an important duty to perform. He has no right to stand by and see great questions come and go and take no part in their discussion. His should be a continuous effort to grasp and understand these great questions of church and state that are daily being brought to our notice. Communism, nihilism, socialism, the railroad question, the labor question, must be grappled with, and you are the ones that must do it. It is our duty as college men.

The afternoon exercises of the literary class were held on the campus under Tappan oak at 2 p. m. James N. MeBride, of Burton, Mich., read the class history. As usual with class histories, it created much good feeling among the class. The statistical history of the class is as follows: The freshman class numbered 165; sophomore, 152; senior, 124. Michigan furnishes 50; Ill., 21; Ohio, 7; New York, 7; Iowa, 5; Hawaiian Islands, 1; Netherlands, 1; rest scattering. Depew is the youngest, being 20 years of age; Kirby, the oldest, at 30 years; average age, 23 years, 7 months; average age of ladies, 23 years 5 months. Millman is 6 feet 2 inches tall. Miss Chapin, 4 feet 8 inches. Average height, 5 feet 8 inches. Average weight, 146 pounds.

Of the class, 40 have blue eyes, 26 black, 15 gray, 13 brown. Of the state papers the following are the choice in the order named: Detroit Free Press, Tribune, Journal, News, the latter having but one regular reader in the class.

In religion, 20 are Congregationalists, 10 Methodists, 11 Baptist, 11 Presbyterian, 7 Unitarian, 5 Kpiscopalian. In politics, 50 are Republican, 13 Democratic, 13 Prohibitionists and 2 or 3 mugwumps. The most extravagant spent on an average $850 per year; the most economical $200; average expenses, $393.44. Eleven per cent, of this amount was of the student's own earnings.

In choice of avocations 43 will teach, 20 will study law, 10 will be civil engineers, 8 will study medicine, 4 will preach and 3 will follow journalism.

The class is the largest ever graduated from the literary department. One death has occurred since the freshman year, that of Miss Lizzie Wagner, Ann Arbor.

The class prophecy was quite long, and was well read by Miss Laura Oliver Tupper, of Bay City.

The class poem was read by Miss Elsie Jones, Ann Arbor, and showed much real poetical genius in its composition. It will be found in full in another column.

The address by the class president, John Harvard Powell, Bowen, Ill., was terse and to the point. He hoped that all had profited by their four years' work, and that all would be successful in life. He expressed the hope that in the future a gymnasium would aid future classes to develop body as well as mind, though he did not think any of the class had suffered for want of one, as all were known to be hard workers wherever they were.

HOMOEOPATHIC CLASS DAY.

Owing to the rain the exercises of the Homoeopathic class were held in Adelphi hall. After music by the Chequamegon and prayer by Rev. Mr. Sinclair, J. H. Lawrence, Leslie, delivered the class oration, "Our profession." He considered the duties that would devolve upon the physician as he entered active practice, and urged all to aim high, and work hard.

The class poem was read by Mrs. Porter, Black River Falls, Wis., and the class history by Miss Lizzie Hendershot, Irving.

THE DENTAL CLASS.

The exercises of the Dental Class were held in the Dental building Tuesday morning, consisting of address, poem, history and prophecy. The alumni met at 2 p. m., re-electing the same officers as last year.

THE SENIOR RECEPTION.

Under the beautiful display of more than 200 Japanese lanterns reaching from the front entrance of the campus to the main building, Tuesday evening, walked the proud seniors and their friends to the "pavilion" in the rear of the building where the dancing took place. A large crowd of curious people, many noticeably poor, lined the walk on both sides, eagerly, and some of them enviously, watching the favored ladies who, in fine raiment, were hastening to the scene of enjoyment, from which the spectators were excluded.

Although many "old staggers" grumbled that it was not so large and fine an assembly as had been seen in former years, it was certainly a brilliant scene. The semi-centennial of last year, together with the commencement, brought a large crowd here of course, but this was large enough to satisfy any reasonable senior class. Nearly 1000 persons partook of refreshments.

The "pavilion" under which the dancing took place is a camp-meeting tent from Battle Creek. Following the time-honored custom, the class had ordered a tent from Philadelphia. It was still on the way when the dancing began. The boys were almost frantic about its failure to come, and were talking of giving up the reception, when S. A. Moran, a member of the class, and a "hustler" who never says die, rushed to Battle Creek on Sunday last at 4 p. m., and returned the next morning at 9, having a tent on the way. It is larger than the one ordered from Philadelphia, and was none too large.

The Chequamegons sat in the center, and opened with music for the grand march at 9:30 o'clock, which was led by Miss Ashley, of Toledo, and Louis K. Comstock. The dancing was very generally participated in.

Among those present were ex-Governor Blair, President Angell and wife, Rev. Dr. Sunderland and wife, Judge Cooley and wife, Prof. Hawley, of Orchard Lake, Regents Clark, Whitman, Draper, and Butterfield.

ALUMNI DAT.

Yesterday afternoon, James L. High, L. D., of Chicago, addressed the law alumni in University hall. The speaker was introduced by Judge T. M. Cooley. The address was an able, scholarly dissertation on the law as it is, and as it should be.

The speaker clearly pointed out how the different laws of the different States could be brought to a uniformity by an amendment of the constitution of the United States, which would do away with such a mass of decisions and reports as we now have. This would be a great improvement.

At 4 p. m. Wednesday, Floyd B. Wilson, A. M., of New York, class '71, delivered a fine oration on "A Neglected Science," before the alumni of the literary department. It contained much practical good advice, and the speaker pointed out a great many ways by which the young man just starting in life might avoid making minous mistakes.

THE CONCERT.

The annual Commencement concert given in University hall last night by the Ampion Club, assisted by the University Glee club, was a brilliant success. The singing was of high order, especially the solos of Miss Mary Whedon, Miss Katie Jacobs, of Ann Arbor, and Charles B. Stevens, Detroit. "Spanish Gipsy" (in costume) was handsomely presented. The cantata, "The Passing of Summer," by Miss Elsie Jones, of Ann Arbor, lit '88, music by Ross G. Cole, '88, is a triumph of musical and poetical genius. "Carpe Diem," by Charles M. Gayley, A. B., '78, was finely rendered by the Glee club. Two thousand people were present

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL SENDS OUT 71 GRADUATES TO A CONFIDING WORLD.

Bright Decorations, Speeches and Essays, Hot Day, Enthusiasm, and all the Other Features of Such an Occasion.

Notwithstanding the oppressive heat of last Friday, many hundred friends of our high school and its graduates, gathered in University hall to witness the closing scene of the past year's work of the high school senior class. The stage decorations were very fine,—a fringe of evergreen and flowers extending around the front, while on the wall at the rear, worked on a black background in large white letters, were the words, "Esse quam videri," the class motto. Beneath were the figures, "88." Flowers were abundant, and bright drapery caught up by festoons of roses added color to the bright and cheerful surroundings.

WILLIAM BLAIR.

Chambersburg, Pa. Mr. Blair said that "there never had been a nation in the world's history that had not been the subject of criticism. No nation in the world ever made the progress in the same length of time that this nation has, and yet people are continually finding fault, and crying out 'we are not free; we must change our institutions.' This cry does not come from the bravest American, but from the Anarchist and Communist. They believe in an equal distribution of property, of no restrictive laws, and consequently a government from their ideas, would be impossible. We have the best government, the best laws, the most liberty, of any nation on earth, and if there is freedom anywhere, it is here."

"WE GIRLS," BY HANNAH M. ANDERSON.

Green, Iowa, was a delightful essay. Miss Anderson referred to the time when "we girls" were found nowhere but at home, brewing and baking. They were confined to "woman's sphere." "But now this is all changed. All avocations are open to us, and we are at liberty to choose what we will. But we must at first determine what we are fitted for. We should follow the lead of our natural inclinations, and then work with a will. The best guide is knowledge itself; by its aid let us find our place and in it pat our lives. He succeeds best who learns self, and builds it into individual excellence."

MISS LIZZIE M. BAILEY, OF ANN ARBOR.

discussed "The Law of the Conventional" setting forth its arbitrary characteristics, and showing how man was hemmed in by its insistent dictation.

"Root vs. Blossom," was the subject of a well written essay by

MISS NELLIE CUTLER.

Fisher, Mich. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever. All things in nature are beautiful,—the dew drops, the flowers, and the birds. Flowers are emblems of friendship and unity, and all mankind are better for their presence. But is not mental beauty above all these? Is not the beauty of such grand minds as those of Shakespeare, Milton, Bacon, Longfellow, more beautiful and more lasting than the mere passing beauty of nature. The advancement of the world in the arts and sciences is due to such men as these. Character is the root, and life the blossom. In considering the blossom we are too apt to overlook the root from which it springs. Character is the fountain head, and it, and not the superficial production, should be the object of our admiration or criticism."

DONALD O. DOUGLAS.

Ann Arbor, delivered an excellent oration, entitled "Wanted—Men." Mr. Douglas began by reference to the first chapter of Genesis, where man was made in God's own image. "If all men would walk on the plane of this God-given existence, there would be no call for men. But we need men everywhere. We want men who will not sell their souls, who will not destroy body as well as soul by haunting saloons and beer gardens. We want more solid, honest business men. We want better cashiers and bank directors. Both are becoming scarce in this country, while Canada is in danger of a plethora of them. Wanted men in Congress, who will cast votes for the people and not for party. We want men everywhere, who respect honor and truth, and who love to walk uprightly before God and man.

"Liberty's Gift to the Old World," by

of Ann Arbor, was an admirable production. "Americans have been accused of boasting, and being proud of their country. Well, we have a right to be proud of it. We are proud of our great forests, proud of our great, blue lakes and winding rivers. What do we care if our English cousins do come over here and go home disappointed because we cannot show them castles, battlements and towers. We have demonstrated our natural independence. We have a fame abroad. The poor and oppressed of all climes look to us

THE GIFT OF THE OODS.

LOVE, SLEEP AND DEATH GO TO THE SAME SWEET TUNE. By Miss Elsie Jones, Class of '88; read under the Tappan Oak June 26, 1888.

Full many gifts the gods have in their keeping. Wherefore we mortals sue with prayer and hymn. Piercing the heaven, beyond our vision dim. And be the high gods neither deaf nor sleeping. A little while relenting their stern power. A little while relaxing their fierce sway. They smile on us who weep and rage and cower. And grant the gifts we pray.

The gift of joy, the gift of love's sweet pleasure; The gift of sin unpunished; lust unstained; Shame unabashed; and deadly wrong unpained. The gift of many years; of heavy treasure; Of flame undying; power that doth grow Great as the gods'; the gift of words that burn Durants of daring; near to the transcending show; The gift of one that unto heaven doth yearn;— All these the gods bestow.

All these they grant in pity and devotion— Knowing the worth of that wherefore we pray With greedy cares, grown greedier by delay And the not letting go of things that we have won. All these they grant, and get fit praise thereby; But one great gift they guard with jealous care; Of the hands of gods no mortal may avail. Who heed, perchance, the pleading of despair. But hear no fainter cry.

All pray alike for it; the high and lowly. The young and old, the scholar and the slave; No is so strong this great gift not to crave. None is so joyful, none so happy, so holy. Three are the gods whose power it is to bless. The souls that pray for this with yearning cry. Three gods who share unequal, more and less. In their great guerdon,—Love, and Sleep, and Death.

—The—Forgetfulness. All riches fade before its worth; all treasure That hides within the earth can buy it not. Ambition dies, fame hard-won is forgot. Love's deepest joys are nothing to its pleasure. For these we pray when the stars are strange and fair. But when its meaning grows large to our gaze And we are touched of grief—what piteous prayer. Careless of all we once deemed good, we raise For respite from despair.

Most pitiful is Sleep. When silent sorrow Cometh to hearts unknown of her before. And makes her dwelling there, and they explore Some brief forgetfulness of Sleep to borrow. Of it she is gracious; to her voiceless streams She leadeth them, where fruitless flowers grow; And a hard heart, hard pain forgotten seems, No hunger for lost happiness they know. The dead days live in dreams.

Most pitiful is Sleep; but her sweet power Is least, of the three gods, in the great gift: For she is the piteous one that makes us swift The flight of merciful oblivion's hour. And when the sorrow-stricken wake, and slow Cometh again the bitter, crushing pain, We no longer may avail—then flow From her dim eyes tears thick as summer rain. And from them poppies grow.

The poppy and the vine—Sleep's gifts to mortals, Whereby all wandering griefs she doth reclaim. And maketh day and darkness all the same Upon the throne about her shadowy portals. "Eat of my seed," the flowers smile,—the vine—"Drink and forget your grieving and your pain! No will ye tug your misery from my vine. When the grape tempts its eager juice to drain? Drink! and ye are divine!" And many hearken to the bidding gladly. And yield themselves unto the poppy's balm And their souls in slumber's languorous calm. And know not if the days go bright or sadly. No joy of praise is theirs, no sting of blame. They care no more for good or evil fame, With peace ignoble are they satisfied.— So sleep's gifts work their shame. But somewhat yet her power wanes and falters. For not forever shall the flower and vine Pour from their heart's Forgetfulness divine. For those that lay their souls upon her altar— The dreams will fade, the ahamewill wake and weep. The sin they live in shows a hateful thing; And thrust away the gifts with curses deep. A little while their helpless hands they wring.— Then sink again to sleep. Greater than Sleep is Death. The souls he leadeth Drink of Forgetfulness the deepest draught And are at rest forever. Who hath quaffed That cup Lethean, and of pain yet heedeth I? No morning bringeth waking to their eyes. No dreams of glad or sad may vex their sleep. No slighted duty shame upon them cries. No wrath of Gods shall make the shut eyes weep. The dead sin in no wise. But Death is stern, and sparing of his power. Not easily he yieldeth to our cries. But stands aloof, knowing that in some wise We sinned last the agonizing hour. And conquer strong despair. "Death's gift is great. It must be won by wage of weary years To sorrow's heavy service, and by chilling tears And yearnings passionate. And some there be to whom he comes too slowly. And in the mad impatience of despair And that not till he granteth them their share In his best gift,—but flee by ways unholy To the dim land. O hapless fugitives! How shall we voice your blame! Rather we pray. That as we hoped no memory in you lives, That we mourn not the lives ye did betray. But Death your wrong forgives. Stronger than Death is Love. O God unheeded In the dark hour, how have we wrought thee wrong! Singing thee only in the lighter song! We pray for Sleep and death—what soul hath pleaded With Love, that Love would grant forgetfulness. And soothe away the hurt of himing tears. And still the longing for dead happiness. And bringing peace in place of joy denied, Sweetest grief's bitterness! Who hath prayed this wise? Yea, who hath discovered Any help in him for the pains we bear? We saw his outward fashion passing fair. Perchance, when o'er our hearts his light wings hovered. We knew the subtle sweetness of his breath. We knew his feet with swift desire shod. We knew his eyes, that speak what no voice saith. We knew him an exceeding bitter god. More merciless than Death. Through the dim ages sounds a mighty crying Accusing Love, that that made more tears to flow. Than any God; that lays on us below Infinite pain and agony undying. "Love," wail the voices, "made our brightness fade. Look in my eyes, and see all sorrow there. Love slew us pitilessly, man and maid. Pray not to him! He hears not any prayer. He grants no aid." But let us speak. Lo, how his grave tremble. Is it for pity, or in angry scorn? For that his words, in earnest sweetness borne Unto the throngs that round his feet assemble. "I wot well ye call Love a bitter thing; I wot ye fly from me and pray me not; I wot ye say my honey hides a sting; This but for me all sorrow were forgot; Pain past remembering. "Ye do not well, these living voices believing. Ye do not well, in crying out my blame; Ye never knew Love! What bath borne my name And ye called Love,—what worked to your deceiving. And left you only anguish and despair When broken was the first brief, sweet surcease. These were Love's foes—Desire, Pride, Sell-ward care. A mocker of Love in Love's own guise, Love had therein no share! "Yea, I deny not that with heavy sorrow And tearless pain and speechless agony I try the hearts that I would turn to me. Yet—my beloved—would ye shrink, and borrow Contentment from a life that knew me not? Would ye take any gladness for my grief? No. So, why knowest Love in his true fashion. Through false disguises that about him cling. These know Heaven's selfdon hold no better thing Than Love, the gentle God, whose deep compassion Yea dream not of. Lo! to your yearning breath Shall I not answer when ye call me "Love"? Am I not even as kind as Sleep and Death? Love, Sleep and Death go to the same sweet tune. One subtle singer saith. "O all ye sorrow-laden that are craving Some little respite from the pains ye bear, I will not answer when ye call me "Love". Of the forgetfulness wherewith ye saying! I have no scarlet flame of poppy flowers. There is no dew of Lethe in my cup. No day is not from me and pray me not. Nor unto Death shall ye deliver up. Your souls' God-given powers! "Drink of my cup! I promise you—not vain, ye may well walk close to sorrow's side

All your lives through, and have no other guide. And ye shall know full measure of all sadness. But drink my cup—and all your pain is blest! Drink! and the solemn joy of Gods divine. Shall still the clamoring self within your breast. And make therein a silent, hallowed shrine Where ye shall find your rest. "Come! ye shall share in all men's tears and laughter. Yet be not shaken in your deep content. "Come! ye shall learn what that high sentence meant. Stronger than Death is Love! Yea, and hereafter. When Sleep and Death have lost their spell, and cease. Ye shall know mine inimitable deathless reign. And share with me in mine own holy peace. Forgetfulness of sleep from your pain. So shall ye have release."

O, ye who linger in youth's sunny places With half-relevant hand on the great gate That bears about it written one word—Fate; Beyond which lies the road that none retraces. It is not much that any one man say. So sure and swift these parting moments fly. Only to bid you Goodspeed on your way. Only to give you greeting and good-bye.— And then—to turn away. Yet, were all golden words to me imparted. And all high thoughts that musically flow. I would not let you go, and ye depart. To wish and pray for you ye are departed. When to you comes your hour of bitterness. And Sleep beguiles you with her deadly wine. And Death seems grateful to your "sharp distress." Pray you,—choose well! and choose the cup divine. Of Love's Forgetfulness.

WHY?

WHY do I have this drowsy, lifeless feeling? WHY do I have Backache? WHY Neuralgia and Rheumatism? WHY does Scrofulous taint and Erysipelas show itself? BECAUSE your blood is filled with Poison, which must be Completely Eradicated before you can regain health. You must go to the root of the matter. Put the Kidneys—the great and only blood purifying organs—in complete order, which is complete health, and with

Warner's Safe Cure and WARNER'S SAFE PILLS your Cure is Certain. WHY do we know this? BECAUSE tens of thousands of grate-ful men and woman in all parts of the world have voluntarily written us to this effect. There is no stand-still in disease. You are either growing Better or Worse. How is it with YOU? WHY not to-day resort to that medicine, which has veritably Cured Millions, and will cure you if you will give it a chance?

All of Warner's preparations are Purely Vegetable. They are made on honor. They are time-tired. They are New Discoveries Untried and Worthless; on the contrary, they have stood the test—they have proved their superiority. They stand alone in pre-eminent merit, and YOU KNOW IT.

What Am I To Do? The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquors but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom, or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower; it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

Button, Lace end Combs Shoes. ASK your friend for the JAMES MEANS $4 SHOE or the JAMES MEANS $3 SHOE, according to circumstances. I've never seen a more genuine unless our stamp appears plainly on the soles. Because it is made for men whose occupations are such as lead them to call for a lighter and more dressy shoe than the JAMES MEANS $3 SHOE. Our $3 Shoe has established for itself a permanent reputation for comfort and durability such as no other shoe has ever known in the history of the trade. Co competitors are able to approach it. The James Means $4 Shoe is light and stylish, and it is as durable as any shoe of its weight ever manufactured. We confidently assert that in every vital respect the James Means $4 Shoe is equal to the $5 shoe. It has a Dongola top and seamless calf vamp, it has a perfectly smooth bottom, and requires no "breaking in," being perfectly ready for use the first time it is worn. The James Means and O's (Boet) were the first in this country to be extensively advertised. If you have been disappointed in other advertised shoes, your experience tends to teach you that it is safer to buy the leader of a system, rather than those made by the followers. These shoes are sold in all the States, and throughout the United States, and we will place them easily within your reach, in any State or Territory, if you will send us a postal card. FROM WASHINGTON.

Daily Record of Proceedings in the Senate and House.

Important Measures Introduced and Passed—The Tariff Bill Discussion Postponed—Appropriation Bills—Other Notes.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Senate yesterday passed ninety-two private pension bills in less than an hour and then adjourned. Senators are too anxious about news from Chicago to have long sessions these days.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Nothing of any importance was done in the Senate yesterday, and after a session of forty minutes an adjournment was taken to the 35th.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Harris occupied the time in a speech on the tariff question.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The House yesterday spent most of the day in discussing General Sparks, ex-Commissioner of the Land Office. He was assailed by Laird, of Nebraska, and defended by Townsend, Weaver and Randall. Randall reflected on the Administration for getting rid of Sparks, and said that since he was turned out the reforms which he had instituted had all taken wing.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—In the House yesterday the time was spent in committee of the whole on the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—In the House yesterday the Naval Appropriation bill was passed and the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was further debated. At the evening session thirty-seven private pension bills were passed.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—In the House yesterday the session was devoted to District of Columbia bills and the general Land Forfeiture bill.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—In the House yesterday consideration of the Public Land bill was resumed, and the amendment was accepted allowing entrymen six instead of three months in which to erect a habitable dwelling.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The President yesterday vetoed five private pension bills.

HARRISON AND MORTON.

Thousands Call Upon the General and Congratulate Him—How Morton Heard the News—Other Notes.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 27.—General Harrison's house was thronged by visitors yesterday and last evening to congratulate him upon his nomination for the Presidency by the Republican convention. In the evening an immense mass-meeting was held at Tomlinson Hall. At 8 o'clock a delegation of old soldiers, members of the Seventieth Indiana Regiment, which belonged to General Harrison's brigade, called in a body and were received by the General. In behalf of the soldiers Major George W. Grubbs, of Martinsville, delivered a brief address, to which General Harrison responded in feeling and appropriate terms. A dozen or more delegates from New York, all of the California delegation, headed by Messrs. Estee and De Young, and a few scattering delegates from other States, who came down from Chicago on a delayed night train, called in a body and were informally received in the parlors of the house by General and Mrs. Harrison.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Herald prints the following dispatch from Rhinebeck, N.Y.: "How do you regard Harrison's nomination?" "I regard General Harrison's nomination as the strongest that could have been made by the Republican national convention. It will place Indiana in the Republican column, and with the Republican party in New York united as it is to-day, I can not for a moment doubt a Republican victory in November."

At 9:30 o'clock p. m. the news of Levi P. Morton's nomination for Vice-President was received here. Almost in an instant the streets were filled with an enthusiastic crowd and the boom of cannon and the rattle of tire-carriers resounded in every direction. The reporter was the first to apprise Mr. Morton of his nomination, and asked if he would accept. "I certainly could not decline the nomination with which I have been honored by the representatives of the Republican party in convention assembled," was Mr. Morton's reply.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 27.—General Harrison has been receiving telegrams and letters from all quarters and from many distinguished persons besides the hundreds which arrived Monday night. In response to a telegram received he sent the following: "HON. LEVI P. MORTON—New York: Thanks for your kind message. Let me assure you that the association of your name with mine is a great satisfaction."

CHICAGO, June 27.—A meeting of the committee of the Republican National convention which is to notify the nominees for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the action of the convention was held here yesterday, and it was decided to notify General Harrison of his nomination at 11 o'clock noon on July 4, and the Bates House at Indianapolis was designated as the place. The time and place for notifying Hon. Levi P. Morton will be designated hereafter.

A Defaulter Captured. PKVOINCE, R. I., June 27.—Charles A. Pitcher, teller of the Union Bank, a Stato institution, left the city recently with a large amount of funds belonging to the bank. Yesterday he was arrested in Montreal, Can., and cash and securities amounting to $700,000 were found on him.

A Boy's filial Deed. NEW YORK, June 27.—In a boarding-house at 125 West Twenty-fourth street yesterday Joseph Seaford, a bell-boy aged 19 years, shot and killed Josie Sheridan, 19 years old, and then blew out his brains. Unrequited love was the cause.

Whipped to Death. WATNEVILLE, MO., June 26.—Charles Bresh, a resident of Pulaski County, was dragged from his bed Saturday night by riders and was whipped to death. He is charged with telling the secrets of an organization known as the "Agricultural Wheel."

Deaths from the Heat. NEW YORK, June 27.—During the twenty-four hours ending at noon yesterday there were 220 deaths, almost all due to the excessive heat. The record is unprecedented.

Safe Blowers at Work in Wisconsin. WACAPCA, Wis., June 26.—J. Iverson's general store at Amherst was broken into Friday night, the safe blown and $3,000 in money, bonds and notes taken.

Poor IHIH Honest.

Charlie Sullivan is a poor but honest Irish lad, who, while walking down Washington street, found a wallet containing checks and money to the value of several hundred dollars. Although almost destitute, he returned it to its owners, Messrs. A. P. Ordway & Co., proprietors of Sulphur Bitter, who gave him a 1 bjar reward, and also gave him six bottles of Sulphur Bitters for his mother, who has been a terrible sufferer with rheumatism, and who returned many blessings after being cured by their use.—Weekly World.

At Port Huron, girls under fourteen years of age are not allowed to walk the streets at night.

DYSPEPSIA or indigestion always yields to the curative properties of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, containing, as it does, nature's specific for the stomach.

July 23 there will be total eclipse of the moon visible throughout North America on the evening of the 22nd, and the morning of the 23rd.

Beware of Imitation.

We find that in various parts of the country unscrupulous druggists for the purpose of making a large profit, are palming off on a too-confiding public a worthless counterfeit of Pomeroy's Petrolin Plasters, under the plea that it is "just as good," and in some cases that it is Pomeroy's Plaster. Trust no druggist who makes any such representations. Beware of all such impostors. Insist upon getting the genuine article, take nothing else and see that the words "Pomeroy's Petrolin Plaster" are upon each envelope. For Sale by H. J. Brown, Dist. Agt. for Ann Arbor.

Opium smuggling has been discovered along the St Clair river and some arrests have been made.

WIFE.—Let's try Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. Everywhere I go I hear it spoken of in great praise as a tonic and appetizer.

HEADACHE can be cured by Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. It removes the cause by regulating the stomach, correcting improper digestion and general flow of the blood.

Rubinstein is again reported engrgrd for a tour of this country for SICOOO.

A Horrible Inheritance.

The transmission of the fearful effects of contagious blood poison is its most horrible inheritance which any man can leave to his innocent posterity; but it can be certainly mitigated and in the majority of cases, prevented by the use of the antidote which Nature furnishes, and which is found in the remedy known all over the world as "Swift's Specific"—commonly called "S. S. S." Mr. J. H. Brown, of Homellsville, N. T., writes: "Three years I suffered with this horrible disease until Swift's Specific cured me completely."

Prof. Edwin Paar, 23rd E. 22d St., N. Y., writes: "Swift's Specific cured me of a fearful case of Blood Poison."

Dr. B. F. Winfield, of the Soldier's Home, Richmond, Va., writes: "Swift's Specific cured me of a severe case of Blood Poison."

D. W. K. Briggs, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I was a perfect wreck from Blood Poison. Swift's Specific restored health and hope, and I am well to-day."

C. W. Langhill, Savannah, Ga., writes: "I suffered long with Blood Poison. I tried Swift's Specific and it cured me well."

A. W. Bnell, of Powers' Hotel, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "It is the best blood remedy on earth. I used myself with it. I recommended it to a friend and made him well."

Mr. F. L. Stanton, of the Smithville, Ga. News, writes that a friend was afflicted with a case of Blood Poison, and two bottles of S. S. S. effected a complete cure.

Choice of the Republicans for Presidential Candidates.

Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, for Prosident, and Levi F. Morton, of New York, for Vice-President—Convention News.

SECOND DAY.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The Republican National convention reassembled at noon yesterday, and after prayer by Rev. S. A. Northrop, of Fort Wayne, Ind., a permanent organization was effected by choosing for chairman Hon. Morris M. Estee, of California. Mr. Estee thanked the convention for the honor conferred, and predicted success for the Republicans next November. He said he could not say precisely what the platform would be, but said the people of the country had chosen the Republican party and the platform of the party would be made in two weeks ago from Oregon.

Mayor Roche then stepped on the platform holding in his hand a beautiful gavel, and said: "I am instructed by my fellow-citizens. In their name and in their behalf, to present to you a convention of the Republican party, to be held here, and to be held on the basis of our sound National currency—the boon given by the Republican party to the people of this country. The material dug from the bowels of the earth and stored with precious stones, wrought with labor, teach a lesson which the Republican party has by its legislation taught—free homes, free schools, and a free ballot—and not only this, but that free labor shall have its just reward, as it is the foundation of all wealth and National prosperity.

Delegate Wirtz, of Illinois, then handed another travel to the chairman, and said: "It is neither silver nor gold, but it is made of wood from a piece of a desk from a tannery in Galena, which desk was left by that superbly magnificent silent soldier of America, Ulysses S. Grant."

Chairman Bayne, of Pennsylvania, of the Committee on Rules, was next recognized. He presented and read the report of his committee, which are nearly the same as those of the last Republican convention, and the report was adopted.

The chair called for the report of the Committee on Credentials, but as the report was not ready a recess was taken until 8 o'clock p. m.

At the evening session a resolution was adopted expressing profound regret of the convention at the death, since the last Republican convention, of General Grant, and Logan, President Arthur and the New York statesman, Roscoe Conkling. Also a resolution expressing regret at the loss of the two German Emperors who recently died.

The chairman then called for the report of the Committee on Resolutions, and was informed by Mr. Harris, of North Carolina, that the platform would not be ready for submission to the convention until to-day.

Colonel Hepburn, chairman of the Committee on Credentials, then proceeded to read the report. The two Georgia contesting delegates were allowed to read their report, and then seventeen other candidates, a few of whom of much interest, save that in Virginia, which gives Wise fourteen and Methone eight delegates, the delegation at-large being that headed by Mahone. The report was adopted, and the convention adjourned at 11:27 p. m. to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

THIRD DAY.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Republican National convention was called to order by Chairman Estee at 10 o'clock a. m. yesterday. Rev. T. E. Green pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, in this city, delivered the prayer. Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then stepped on the platform and read the report of the committee's action. The full text of the platform is as follows: "Paying a tribute to Lincoln, the first great leader of the Republican party, deploring the loss of the great statesman, and expressing sympathy with General Sherman, the Republican platform opens with a fraternal greeting to the people of the world, and it is boldly charged that the Democratic Administration and the present Democratic majority in Congress owe their existence to the suppression of fair ballot and the violation of the laws of the United States.

The tariff plank takes direct issue with the platform adopted by the St. Louis convention. It declares for the preservation of the American system of protection, condemns the policy of Cleveland, denounces the Mills bill, and applauds the course of the Republican minority in Congress in opposing that measure. The platform affirms that all needed reduction of the surplus in the Treasury can be made by repealing the internal revenue taxes. While the Democratic policy is to take the tax of the cigar, the cigar kinds of tobacco and retain it on the citizens, the Republican platform declares for the entire repeal of the tax on tobacco and on spirits used in the arts and for mechanical purposes. If such a policy will not sufficiently reduce the surplus, the repeal of all internal revenue taxes—that is, the repeal of all liquor taxes—is demanded. The Democratic platform places upon the free list cotton, wool, and wool growing. A reduction of duties is favored only on articles of foreign production (United States goods) which do not compete with any home industry, and a demand is made that such articles be placed on the free list.

All such with few exceptions are now on the free list. The declaration against Chinese immigration is reiterated, and it is declared that the labor from this country. Trust combinations are denounced, and Congress and the State Legislatures are called upon to respect the prohibitions to prevent the execution of the laws to oppress the people by unjust rates for the transportation of products to market. The land restoration policy begun under President Arthur is commended, and the Cleveland Administration is charged with recklessness and inefficiency in its execution. It is declared that the Democratic party has retrograded a single acre of land to the public domain, and all restorations actually accomplished are attributed to acts of Congress, not to Republican votes.

The exclusion of Dakota from the Union is denounced and the immediate admission of the Territory demanded, and acts to enable the people of Washington, North Dakota, and Montana to form State Governments are advocated. The pledge is made to admit all the territories of the United States as soon as possible, and the others as soon as they become so. Additional legislation to divorce the political from the ecclesiastical power in Utah is favored. The continued coinage and use of both gold and silver are demanded, and the Administration is rebuked for its efforts to demonetize silver. A reduction of letter postage to one cent per ounce is favored. The platform affirms that the free-trade system must be fostered and promoted in every child in the land shall have an opportunity to acquire a good common-school education.

The platform demands measures to rehabilitate the American merchant marine and protests against a free-ship bill for vessels engaged in foreign commerce, as calculated to drive the wages of American workmen in the ship-yards and the various industries that supply raw material for ship-building. Liberal appropriations are urged for building up the navy, for coast defenses, for river and harbor improvements and for pensions. It is declared that the duty of Congress is to make every honorably discharged soldier should ever become the inmate of an almshouse, and that the spirit shown by President Cleveland in his numerous vetoes of measures for pension relief, and the action of the Democratic Representatives in refusing even a consideration of general pension legislation, are denounced.

The Administration is charged with inefficiency and cowardice in its foreign policy, and with a virtual abandonment of the Monroe doctrine while passively permitting the extension of foreign influence and trade in Central and South America. The roll-call of the Administration to encourage any American scheme for the construction of the Nicaragua canal is denounced. The Administration's qualification of the treaty rights to which American fishing vessels are entitled in Canadian ports is stigmatized as weak, unpatriotic and pusillanimous. It is affirmed, that the American should give every citizen ample protection in all his rights at home and abroad. They are charged with deserting not only the cause of honest government, but also the cause of reform in the Civil-Service. The Republican Civil-Service plank of 1884 is reaffirmed with this statement: "To Cleveland and his supporters: 'We will not fall to keep our promise because they have broken theirs or because their candidate has broken his.'"

In support of the principles herewith enunciated the co-operation is invited of patriotic men of all parties, and especially of all working-men, whose prosperity is seriously threatened by the free trade policy of the present Administration.

The roll of States was then called for the presentation of candidates for the office of President of the United States. Mr. Warner, of Connecticut, presented the name of Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut. Hon. Leonard Swett, of Chicago, nominated as a candidate for President the son of Illinois by adoption, Walter G. Gresham. Senator Davis, of Minnesota, and John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, seconded the nomination.

Ex-Governor Albert G. Porter, of Indiana, nominated General Benjamin Harrison, of that State; Mr. Terrill, of Texas, and Mr. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, seconded the nomination.

Hon. W. P. Hepburn nominated William B. Allison, of Iowa, and the nomination was seconded by Benjamin M. Bosworth, of Rhode Island.

Robert E. Frazier nominated ex-Governor Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, and Charles E. Noyes, of Massachusetts, and Patriok Egan, of Nebraska, seconded the nomination.

Senator Hiscock named Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, and the nomination was seconded by Mr. Hartley, of Minnesota.

General Daniel B. Hastings, of Pennsylvania, made the speech placing John Sherman, of Ohio, in nomination. Governor Foraker, of Ohio, seconded the nomination.

Charles Emory Smith, of the Pennsylvania delegation, placed in nomination Mayor Edwin H. Fittler, of Philadelphia.

Senator Spooner presented the name of Governor Rusk, of Wisconsin.

No other names being presented, the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

CHICAGO, June 22.—At five minutes past 11 o'clock yesterday the convention was called to order by Chairman Estee, who had nearly lost his voice, and he called Senator Hiscock, of New York, to the chair to preside over the session, which was formally opened with prayer by Rev. W. Worcester, of Chicago. The convention at once proceeded to the call of States for President, the ballot resulting as follows:

Table showing the results of the first ballot for President. Candidates include Sherman, Gresham, Depew, Harrison, Allison, Blaine, Ingalls, Rusk, Phelps, Fittler, and Hawley. Totals: 544, 118, 59, 100, 4, 5.

Before a second ballot, Mr. Smith, of Pennsylvania, who had nominated Edwin H. Fittler, withdrew his name. The second ballot was: Sherman 849, Gresham 116, Depew 108, Harrison 99, Allison 98, Blaine 88, Ingalls 85, Rusk 85, Phelps 85, Fittler 85, Hawley 85.

The convention then took a recess until 7 p. m. Upon reassembling in the evening Chauncey M. Depew stepped to the platform and announced his withdrawal as a candidate, in the interest of harmony.

At the conclusion of Mr. Depew's remarks the convention was in a quiver of excitement. The floor of every citizen to cast one free ballot in public elections and to have that ballot duly counted. The platform of the Republican party is the foundation of the American Government. Additional legislation to punish wrongs against the citizen is demanded. It is boldly charged that the Democratic Administration and the present Democratic majority in Congress owe their existence to the suppression of fair ballot and the violation of the laws of the United States.

The platform affirms that the free-trade system must be fostered and promoted in every child in the land shall have an opportunity to acquire a good common-school education.

The platform demands measures to rehabilitate the American merchant marine and protests against a free-ship bill for vessels engaged in foreign commerce, as calculated to drive the wages of American workmen in the ship-yards and the various industries that supply raw material for ship-building. Liberal appropriations are urged for building up the navy, for coast defenses, for river and harbor improvements and for pensions. It is declared that the duty of Congress is to make every honorably discharged soldier should ever become the inmate of an almshouse, and that the spirit shown by President Cleveland in his numerous vetoes of measures for pension relief, and the action of the Democratic Representatives in refusing even a consideration of general pension legislation, are denounced.

The Administration is charged with inefficiency and cowardice in its foreign policy, and with a virtual abandonment of the Monroe doctrine while passively permitting the extension of foreign influence and trade in Central and South America. The roll-call of the Administration to encourage any American scheme for the construction of the Nicaragua canal is denounced. The Administration's qualification of the treaty rights to which American fishing vessels are entitled in Canadian ports is stigmatized as weak, un-formal announcement, proceeded to honor the event with a befitting demonstration. There was loud and prolonged cheering, the waving of flags, and handkerchiefs. Chairman Estee finally secured attention and stated that, as had been the time-honored practice of the Republican convention, the ballot should be read over for verification. This was done as follows:

Table titled 'THE VOTE BY STATES.' Lists states and their respective votes for candidates: Sherman, Gresham, Depew, Harrison, Allison, Blaine, Ingalls, Rusk, Phelps, Fittler, and Hawley. Totals: 544, 118, 59, 100, 4, 5.

Governor Foraker, of Ohio, then took the chair and announced that the nomination had been unanimous. Mr. Orr, of Michigan; Senator Farwell, of Illinois; Chauncey M. Depew, of New York; General Hastings, of Pennsylvania; Mr. Henderson, of Iowa; Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, and Creed Haymond, of California, seconded the motion, and it was carried with rousing cheers.

General Hastings, then, on the invitation of Mr. Estee, took the chair, and the call of the roll of States began for the nomination of candidates for the Vice-Presidency. A motion to take a recess until 6 o'clock was made and carried.

The evening session was called to order at 6 o'clock, Chairman Estee presiding. The call of States for nominations for the Vice-Presidency then commenced. George Kenny, of Kentucky, nominated W. O. Bradley, of that State; Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, nominated William Walter Phelps, of that State; Warner Miller, of New York, nominated Levi P. Morton, of New York City, and Mr. McAlere, of Tennessee, nominated W. A. Moore. His name was subsequently withdrawn. The ballot resulted upon the call of States as follows: Levi P. Morton, 519; Walter C. Bruce, 11; W. O. Bradley, 103.

Mr. Morton having received a majority of the votes of the delegates to the convention, was declared the nominee for Vice-President, and at once a motion was made to make the nomination unanimous. It was seconded by a large number of States and was carried unanimously.

At this juncture Congressman Boutelle appeared on the stage and moved that the following resolution be added to the platform, and that the motion be carried: Resolved, That the first concern of all good governments is the virtue and sobriety of the people and the purity of the home. The Republican party, and its sympathizers, will do wisely and well-directed efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality.

Senator Hiscock moved that the convention adjourn without day, but gave way to Senator Foraker, who moved the adjournment. The adoption of a resolution of thanks to both the temporary and permanent officers, and all the other officers for the fairness and promptness with which they had performed their duties. This was done, and at precisely seven minutes to 11 o'clock the delegates to the convention adjourned.

The agreement will be circulated during this and next week, and one copy will be found at L. Gruner's shoe store.

The following delegates were present at the state Prohibition Convention this week from Washtenaw county: J. D. Shultz, Wm. S. McFall, J. B. Lorel, Augusta; B. J. Conrad, R. C. McAllister, Wm. Salyer, Ann Arbor; J. H. Kinnif, Frank Stratton, J. E. Pulver, G. L. Foote, Ypsilanti; Jos. Doan, W. B. Thompson, Salem; George Hathaway, Charles Cobb, A. Wardell, York; G. W. Merrill, E. O. Sawyer, Webster; J. R. Lemon, C. M. Fellows, James PerriD, Sharon; R. C. Reeve?, Scio; J. B. Laraway, Northfield; J. J. Baldwin, Lima.

They do say that our worthy townsman, Joe. T. Jacobs, became so excited during one of the ballots at Chicago that he jerked off his seersucker and swung it wildly about his head. In doing so he forgot that the pockets were filled with pedigrees of blooded Holstein stock, hand-bills telling where to buy the cheapest clothing in the United States, letters on how "I might have become a senator," and the like, and that the sight of the documents floating through the air nearly caused a stampede in the convention as they thought at first sight, they were telegrams from Blaine saying he would accept the nomination.

Last Thursday night, about 10 o'clock, the fire bells and a big volume of black smoke attracted a large crowd to the alley in the rear of Robinson's livery stable on Fourth-st. Fire was pouring out of the brick grain and hay barn on the east side of the alley, and the wooden bridge connected the two barns across the alley was a mass of flames. The hose carts were prompt, and in two minutes all visible fire was extinguished, but it was sometime before the smoldering fire in the hay and straw could be subdued. No cause known for the fire. It seems to be pretty well settled that with half a show, our fire boys can paralyze a fire in no time.

Saturday night while everybody was in suspense over the situation at Chicago, a few of our monied men, thinking to break the dead-lock, squandered a quarter on the following telegram to Bob Frazer: "Ann Arbor, June 23d. R. E. Frazer, Republican Convention: The people demand that the Michigan delegation use every means in their power to nominate Joseph T. Jacobs, of this city, for President, (signed) Cramer & Co. In a few moments this answer came: "Michigan casts 20 votes for Alger and G for Jacobs. His chance is good. R. E. Frazer." Wild cheers rent the air, and a ratification meeting was being arranged, when it leaked out that the whole thing was a put up job to head off Blaine, and that Joe was not a candidate.
