

THE ANN ARBOR REGISTER.

VOL. XIV. NO. 50.

ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1888.

WHOLE NO. 729.

Precise Information.

Stranger Wheelman—Can I strike an asphalt pavement in this direction?
Small Boy—Yessir! Go up two blocks and take a header.—Buffalo Express.

ON THE CAMPUS.

Dr. Alex. Braden, of Munising, and Dr. Edith E. Taylor, were married in Au Train, Alger county, Mich., Nov. 13. Both were medics '88.

A meeting was called for last evening of those having "comedy, vocal, instrumental, song and dance and black face talent." This looks like another minstrel show.

Dr. George A. Hendricks, until recently instructor in anatomy in U. of M., has accepted the chair of anatomy in University of Minnesota, and began lecturing Monday.

Dr. J. N. Martin was on the witness stand yesterday, called by the defense to give expert testimony in the case of Sarah A. Cole vs Lake Shore R. R. company, which has been in the circuit court for a week.

Judge T. M. Cooley will lecture before the Political Science Association to-night, Thursday, Dec 13, at 7:30 p. m., in the Law lecture room. The subject of the address is "Prescriptive and Written Constitutions."

The freshman lit election, Saturday, resulted as follows: President, Fred E. Wood, Oak Park, Ill.; vice-president, Miss Kate Cramer, Ann Arbor; secretary, Mr. Doughty; treasurer, Geo. B. Hardy; toastmaster, John B. Miller; prophetess, Miss Ada Zerbe; historian, A. H. Veysey; orator, Samuel D. Grubbs; poetess, Miss Less; marshal, E. M. Smith.

The eastern press has published very favorable notices on Prof. Hennequin's articles on dramatic construction, written for the Free Press, and, believing Prof. Hennequin is still connected with the University, congratulates the University of Michigan on the fact that it is the only institution of learning in this country where dramatic art is taught.

Fully 1800 people crowded into University hall, Sunday evening, and waited 15 or 20 minutes because the large choir was late. It was the occasion of the annual address before the Students' Christian association, delivered by Rev. T. Harwood Pattison, of the Rochester theological seminary. His thoughts were sugared by the story of Caleb, who was sent with Joshua to spy out Canaan.

Dr. Heneage Gibbs, the professor of pathology, has a communication in a sporting journal, the "American Field," of recent date, as follows: "I have been for some years engaged in an investigation into the causation of cancer. I am anxious to obtain a dog suffering from this disease, from which I could inoculate other dogs, and so ascertain the starting point. I shall be extremely obliged if any one can put me in the way of obtaining such an animal. The disease is not uncommon in dogs, especially in the mammary glands of old bitches."

Miss Almada E. Hitchcock, daughter of Hon. D. H. Hitchcock, of Hilo, was on Oct. 29th admitted to practice in the court of this kingdom. She submitted to the judges of the supreme court her diploma as bachelor of laws from Ann Arbor University, Michigan, also her license to practice law in circuit and supreme courts of that State. Words denoting the masculine gender, in the blank forms of the court for admission, had for the first time to be altered with the pen in order to suit the case of this, the pioneer lady lawyer of the kingdom. Miss Hitchcock will be installed in her father's office at Hilo.—Hawaiian Gazette.

WANTS TO MAKE IT 20,000.

Here This. By Spending $5,000 in Advertising the U. of M. Ann Arbor's Population can be Doubled.

To the Editor of THE REGISTER:

Sir:—As one of the results of advertising we have 1,809 students in the University. Does not this pay? We can make the number next year 2,000. We have 10,000 population. This can be doubled in five years. Ann Arbor has something which thousands of families in our great country want, and as we can furnish it cheaper than it can be obtained elsewhere, they will move here and get it if we but let them know the facts. The successful merchant advertises his great bargains and fills his store with customers. Ann Arbor should spend $5,000 in advertising. Will not some one suggest a plan for raising the money? It can be done. We have water-works, gas, electricity, and all the advantages, and our taxes are lower this year than usual. Let us advertise more, get more people here, increase our valuation, and still further reduce the rate. Help on the good work, Mr. Editor.

Yours for booming,
TAXPAYER.

THE CARPENTERS' UNION.

Able Speech by Their Secretary, P. J. McGuire.—The Labor Question.

The meeting of the Carpenters Union, at Firemen's hall, on Saturday evening, was well attended. The speaker, P. J. McGuire, delivered a good address on the subject of the right of the laboring classes to organize and protect their business as to wages and hours of labor. His address was candid and conservative, and there was very little, if anything, said that an impartial listener would object to. So long as combinations exist among other classes and kinds of business it must be admitted the skilled laboring men, either separately or unitedly, have a similar privilege of organizing for mutual protection. Mr. McGuire showed that the labor question is being settled as fast as could be expected. In over 100 cities the hours of labor have been reduced from ten to nine per day, and in several they have been reduced to eight hours. In many localities wages have been increased through the efforts of the labor organizations.

One of the encouraging signs of the times is the fact that these labor associations now favor the passing of the bill introduced in Congress restricting emigration, and forbidding labor contracts made with foreigners, with more stringent provisions than the law now in force contains. It is claimed that every member of Congress from Michigan elected at the recent election is pledged to vote for this bill. Agitation and free and candid discussion have ever been the harbingers of reform and the lifting up to a higher plane of the human race.

WHO OWNS THE EARTH?

The Henry George Question Thoroughly and Ably Debated in the Unitarian Church.

The debate in the Unitarian church Monday evening, on the Henry George scheme of taxation of rent, between A. Arnold Clark, of Lansing, and Giles B. Stebbins, of Detroit, called out a fine audience. Mr. Clark is an enthusiastic supporter of Henry George's views, and advocated them with great spirit and with many witty and brilliant sayings that were hugely enjoyed by the audience. He explained the difference between land and other forms of property, and why the monopolization of land was so fatal to the prosperity of the people. Starting out with the premises that God designed this earth for the use of all his children, and that the Malthusian doctrine could not be true, it followed, he said, as a matter of course, that all had an equal right to those natural opportunities for labor which were necessary for man's subsistence. He showed how, under our present system, the tendency of civilization as seen in labor-saving inventions was not to shorten hours of labor or to raise wages, but to raise the value of land. Although the laboring man could now with machinery produce vastly more wealth than formerly, his wages were not relatively higher, and the army of unemployed was great, while starvation in the midst of plenty was frequent, and a large number of the people live worse than chattel slaves.

Mr. Stebbins relied mainly upon showing by savings banks deposits and by the opinions of eminent writers that there has been a general upliftment of the human race. He thought that where land was highest in value the wages were highest, and he quoted statistics to show it. He thought the value of land was due to man's exertions, and that if a man hadn't the right to own land, he hadn't the right to own anything taken from land. As the audience passed out there were many expressions of great interest in the subject, and two Henry George propagandists distributed "single tax" literature.

A Warning.

The state board of health has issued a circular to health officers having the following:

"Small pox is present in Buffalo, N. Y.; in Ontario, from whence many lumbermen go into the pine woods of Michigan; one case has occurred at Port Huron, Michigan; one in East Saginaw; one in Lansing; one in New Haven, Shiawassee county; one in Detroit; and three cases in Howell.

"It is respectfully suggested that unusual watchfulness should be maintained, and suspicious cases carefully isolated, that all persons exposed directly or indirectly be promptly vaccinated, and all infected material destroyed or disinfected."

To Rhea.

Bright star that shineth far above,
Transfused with thy warm light we feel,
Even in sinful, lost Camille,
The holy power of purest love.

Long may thy light upon us shine,
And bring down to us in the dark
A glowing, warming, sacred spark
From that true woman's heart of thine!
F. N. H.

The committee of the common council on revision of the charter have prepared what is practically a "clean sweep." The old charter would hardly be recognized in it. Plenty of good, hard work has been done. Friday evening, in the common council room the Business men's association will meet to consider the proposed new document. If the common council and Business men's association decide that a new charter is necessary, and agree upon one, the rest of Ann Arbor would probably acquiesce in asking it of the legislature.

N'EST-CE-PAS?

"My lady Clara sits alone,
A frown upon her fair young"—bah!
"Her fair young brow"; 'tis ever so
In novels and romance, n'est-ce-pas?
"Her tiny foot, with slipper neat,"
'Tis so the story runs—ha, ha!
We common mortals own two feet
And slippers likewise, n'est-ce-pas?
"Her fairy hand," alas, cannot
Be made of flesh, but formed a la
Queen Beth,—such hands could ne'er be used—
Like yours,—for kneading bread, n'est-ce-pas?
L'ENVOI.
In short, this fancied creature rare
With charms abundant, many,—ah,
Could ne'er displace you, my sweet-heart.
My future little wife,—n'est-ce-pas?
Alice S. Caldwell, Saline Mich.

THE BOARD OF REGENTS.

Ann Arbor Citizens Appeared About the Hospital.—Regents Will Ask for $50,000 for a Hospital.

Regents Field, Draper, Whitman, Clark, Willet and Butterfield were present at the special meeting yesterday.

E. B. Pond, A. W. Hamilton and Ottmar Eberbach, of Ann Arbor, appeared before the board and asked that the legislature be memorialized to appropriate $50,000 for the purpose of erecting a new hospital, on condition that Ann Arbor would give $25,000. They said that leading citizens of Ann Arbor would ask the legislature for authority to bond the city for such a purpose.

Dr. Vaughan, in behalf of the medical faculty, asked that $60,000 be requested of the legislature for a hospital.

The regents in executive session decided to ask for a little over $200,000 for 1889-90,—$50,000 of which is for a hospital.

The board sustained the action of the university authorities in a case of disputed residence. O. M. Hammond, a law student, came to Ann Arbor from Canada, Sept. 15, 1887. In October he declared his intentions of becoming a citizen. On this he thought he should pay only resident students' fees, but Secretary Wade decided otherwise.

The following appointments were made in the medical department: James G. Lynds, M. D., assistant to the chair of obstetrics and diseases of women and children, salary $1,000; B. B. Rowe, M. D., wardman, salary $300 and board; Miss J. Fleming, M. D., nurse, salary $300 and board; Mrs. Wilson, night nurse, salary $200 and board; John Akin, night nurse, salary $175 and board; Miss B. Vantvase, assistant to the demonstrator of anatomy, salary $100.

Alonzo B. Stevens, Ph. C., was made permanent instructor in pharmacy. F. C. Hicks was appointed assistant in political economy, without pay, for 1888-9. Dr. J. N. Martin was reappointed professor of obstetrics for the remainder of the year. The degree of D. D. S. was conferred upon Dr. James E. Harris.

Thanks were extended to J. C. Mahan for a gift of 355 volumes, and to Walker manufacturing company, of Cleveland, for a gift of machinery.

The following appointments were made of assistants to members of homeopathic faculty: Mary E. Thompson, assistant to chair of obstetrics and diseases of women and children, salary $100, vice Harriet M. Allen, resigned; Duncan J. Sinclair, assistant to chair of surgery and clinical surgery and to the chair of theory and practice of medicine, salary $100, vice George D. Arndt, resigned.

The executive committee reported the appointment of Dr. John Abbott as assistant to the chair of surgery, at a salary of $100 per annum, and David M. Lichty assistant in qualitative analysis at a salary of $17 per month. The appointments were confirmed by the board.

Prof. Carhart reported that the physical and hygienic laboratory was completed and fairly furnished, and $76 of the appropriation left.

Prof. Tait wanted a large addition to the dental department; and Prof. Prescott wants more room for the pharmacy department.

ATTENTION FARMERS

The Ann Arbor Agricultural Co. would respectfully call the attention of the farming community to the New Corn-Feeder Grinding Attachment for their Feed Cutters. It is some thing entirely new, and bids fair to revolutionize the Feed-Cutter business. It is designed to crush corn-fodder after it is cut, so that it will be entirely consumed by stock, and experiments have proved that it is a great success. It is a benefit to Cattle, a saving of 50 per cent in feed, and a saving of labor. Come and see it, and (also) the Improved Feed-Cutter and Horse powers) get the testimonials of those who are using it. It can be attached to any power Cutters ever manufactured by the Co.

differs, indigestion, inflammation of the eyes, headache, lassitude, inability to perform mental work and indisposition for bodily labor, and annoy and disgust your friends and a quaintance with your nasal efforts and offensive breath and constant toiling to clean your nose and throat, when Dr. Sage's "Catarrh Remedy" will promptly relieve you of discomfort and suffering, and your friends of the disgusting and needless inflictions of your loathsome disease?

The latest fashion is embroidery on trousers for evening wear. The wild Western cult seems to be spreading. The next thing will be fringed trousers, a la Buffalo Bill.

Mortgage Sale.

Whereas, William A. Mason and Elizabeth Mason, his wife, of Northfield, in Washtenaw County, Michigan, executed a mortgage to Edward Broadwell and Noah W. Cheever, executors of the will of Hiram Arnold, deceased, to secure the payment of certain principal and interest therein mentioned, which mortgage bears date January 25th, 1888, and was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, on the 25th day of January, 1888, at 3 o'clock, p. m., in Liber 69 of Mortgage, on page 74, and whereas said mortgage is now due and unpaid, and the principal sum unpaid on said mortgage is twenty-one hundred and ten dollars with all the arrearage of interest thereon, at the option of said mortgagees became due and payable immediately thereafter and the power of sale contained in said mortgage became operative, and the said mortgagees do hereby declare their option on it do hereby elect to have the principal sum of said mortgage and all interest on the become now due and payable. And whereas there is now claimed to be due and payable as aforesaid upon said mortgage and the note secured by the sale of the mortgage the sum of two thousand four hundred and fifty-five dollars ($2,455.00) in addition to all other legal costs, and no suit or proceeding in law or equity having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, Notice is therefore hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described or some part thereof, to wit: All of the following described land situated in the township of N. ribfield, in Washtenaw County, Michigan, viz: The N. rib East quarter of the South-West quarter of Section No. Thirty one (31) in township No. One south, in Range No. Six, East; also the South seventeen (17) acre of the West half of the North-East quarter of said Section No. Thirty one, being divisions No. one, two, three, four, and one acre of the south side of Federal No. Five in the partition of the estate of P. Patrick McMahon, deceased, as appears by the report of the commissioners on file in the Probate Office for Washtenaw County, all in township one south, in range six east, containing in all sixty-eight acres of land, more or less, at public vendue on the twenty third day of February, 1888, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Huron street entrance to the Court House, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, that will be the place of holding the Cancellation of the mortgage.

Dated, November 25th, 1888. EDWARD TREADWELL and NOAH W. CHEEVER, Executors of the will of Hiram Arnold, deceased.

SOME DOCTORS honestly admit that they can't cure Rheumatism and Neuralgia. Others say they can but—don't. Athlophoros says nothing but—cures. That's the secret of its success. Years of trial have proved it to be a quick, safe, sure cure. Concord, N. H., Sept. 3, 1887. In my own family Athlophoros was used a last resort, but it cured me of rheumatism for years and having been treated for the disease by different physicians in this State and Massachusetts without even temporary relief. Upon my recommendation scores of people have used this remedy with the same results claimed for it. C. H. Wilson, Dubuque, Iowa, Jan. 3, 1888. Athlophoros has completely cured me of nervous headache, and I feel thankful for all the good it has done me. Mrs. Louise Cheney. Send 6 cents for the beautiful colored picture, "Moorish Maiden." FATE OF RIOTERS.

Terrible Result of an Attempted Lynching in Alabama.

A Mob Storms the Jail at Birmingham, and the Sheriff and His Officials Kill Nine Men and Many Others Are Wounded.

RIOTERS MEET DEATH. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 11.—An attempt at midnight Saturday night to lynch Richard Hayes, in jail on a charge of murdering his wife and daughter, resulted in a terrible tragedy. The alleged murderer is unharmed but a score of citizens of Birmingham are killed and wounded. At 12 o'clock the mob made an attack upon the jail. Sheriff Smith twice warned them back. "Get back, men," he cried, "I am going to do my duty and protect these prisoners." The mob howled in derision, and above the din could be heard: "We don't want to hurt you, Smith, but we must have that murderer." Then there was a great rush and Sheriff Smith ordered the men handling the Gatling gun to fire. There was a terrific series of reports, the mob staggered and men began to fall on all sides. They hesitated, and as the deadly bullets continued to rain upon them, with oaths and curses they fell back in disorder.

As a result of the murderous fire of the Gatling gun nine lives were lost and many persons were wounded. The names of the dead are as follows:

M. B. Throckmorton, the postmaster; J. R. McCoy, fell at the first volley; A. B. Tarrant, was shot in the back; J. D. Bryant, was shot through the heart; Colbert Smith, died Sunday morning; Charles Jenkins, aged 20, of Smithfield, shot through the head, died Sunday morning; B. Anden, died Sunday morning; Frank Childer. An unknown negro, shot through the lungs, died Sunday morning. The wounded are as follows: C. C. Tate, a painter of East Lake, aged 45, shot through the hip, thigh and loin, is dying; Lawrence Fitzhugh, a civil engineer, aged 30, shoulder badly wounded; A. J. Schiede, a mechanic formerly of Kalamazoo, Mich., shot in the left side and it is thought he will die; J. T. Berkeley, left leg slightly wounded; Mr. Berkeley shot through both legs below the knee; C. Bailey, of Boston, a Louisville & New Albany brakeman, shot in the right side, wound may prove serious; John H. Merritt, shot through calf of left leg; Matt Kennedy, aged 30, shot through both legs, right leg shattered; J. W. Owen, a carpenter, aged 50, shot through right thigh; J. W. Gilmore, of Green Springs, aged 36, thought to be fatally wounded; Albert Smith (colored) seriously wounded in the back; W. A. Lyrd, aged 30, shot in right shoulder, the ball emerging near the spinal cord.

The city is a military encampment. Civil authorities have practically stepped down and out, and Colonel Jones, of Montgomery, with ten military companies, is absolutely in charge of affairs. The jail is guarded by State troops, with picket lines extended several squares in every direction and at each approach there follows a Gatling gun. Mounted scouts are sent out of the city and at regular intervals acquaint Colonel Jones with the condition of the public mind and prospects of an armed rising by the people. Fire bells sound military alarms and soldiers in uniform and armed with Winchester rifles have desolated the principal streets and driven back the thousands who have all day been looking toward the jail. The military were ordered out by Governor Seay from Montgomery, and with the Chief Executive Colonel Jones is in regular telegraphic correspondence. Five more companies of troops are expected here.

About 5 o'clock p. m. Sunday a citizen went before a justice of the peace and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Smith and his deputies on the charge of murder. This was served by the coroner, who found Smith in the jail. The coroner took charge of the jail. Captain Peyton Bibb, in command of the Montgomery Blues, advised that the military take Smith and Hayes out of jail and carry them to Montgomery for safe keeping. This was not acceded to. During the afternoon the rumor became widespread that 1,500 miners from Pratt mines, about five miles from Birmingham, would, after dark, march to the city, armed with guns, pistols and dynamite cartridges and assault the soldiers, and with dynamite blow to atoms the jail. That such an attempt would be made was expected even by the military, though a successful finale was not anticipated. Sheriff Smith said of the tragedy: "We begged and pleaded with the crowd to keep back, and they fired the first shot. Several shots were fired by the crowd before I gave the order to fire. We begged them to halt at the mouth of the alley, and still they kept coming on. We begged them to go back, and time and again warned them that we would shoot, but they would not listen to us. They came half-way up the alley, close to the jail door, and shouted: 'Blow up the jail with dynamite!' After all this and after they opened fire I gave the order to fire. They continued firing after we ceased. I feel that we could not have done any thing else under the circumstances, and I deeply regret the necessity."

Chief-of-Police Cochard, who has also been arrested, corroborated the sheriff's statement. Colonel Jones has received the following letter from Governor Seay: "Note what you hear about the arrest of the sheriff. According to reports which have reached me, the sheriff performed his duty. Advise me of the state of the proceedings against him and ask him to send me any report he may desire to make by wire."

"THOMAS SEAY Governor." One precaution against undue excitement and consequent violence was taken during the morning by the City Council, which in special session ordered that all saloons and drug stores be closed until further notice.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 12.—Governor Seay held an interview with many citizens Tuesday morning on the subject of the tragedy of Saturday night, and afterward one with Sheriff Smith. He said that he indorsed the sheriff and was glad that Jefferson County had a sheriff who could uphold the law and protect the county jail. Hayes has made no confession. He still protests his innocence of the murder of his wife and children. Sheriff Smith was released Tuesday on a bond for $25,000. No sooner was this fact known than people gathered about the streets and gave violent expression to their indignation. It was openly asserted that more violence would surely follow this action, and predictions were made on all sides that Smith would not be alive at midnight. Another war was waged by Smith with the murder of McCoy was sworn out, but at 11 p. m. Smith had not been found. His friends are prepared to bail him again, and if they do another warrant will be issued.

Will Go Back to Their Farms. DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 12.—A meeting of the evicted settlers was held at Lehigh Saturday and the action of Congress approved. It is said that the settlers resolved to go back to the farms from which they had been evicted, which, should it be carried out, would make a second eviction necessary, and bring the guilty parties into the Federal Court to a war for contempt.

SUNDAY A DAY OF REST.

First Annual Convention of the American Sabbath Union at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The first National convention of the American Sabbath Union was held last evening. Colonel Elliot F. Snodgrass presided. The features of the decorations, which were elaborate, was the festoons of petitions to Congress from every part of the country urging the passage of the "Sunday Rest" bill. These petitions were attached to a seemingly endless broad scarlet ribbon which reached several times around and across the great auditorium of the church. They contained approximately six million names. Rev. J. H. Knowles gave a sketch of the origin of the union, and was followed by Mrs. J. Bateman, who reviewed the history of the movement in the Woman's Christan Temperance Union. General A. S. Dixon, ex-director of the Erie railway, argued against Sunday trains. He said that so much freight would be handled in a week, whether trains were run 108 hours or 144 hours. The cost of running them would be materially lessened by observing the Sabbath. He contended that Sunday milk trains could be dispensed with, and declared that Sunday excursion trains were public nuisances. As to trains running long distances or from ocean to ocean, he said that suitable places for spending the Sabbath should be selected and passengers given a day of rest, and that, too, at the expense of the railroad companies. He declared that Sunday trains were in nowise a public requirement and were not necessary to the successful operation of a railroad. Rev. W. F. Crafts, of New York, read extracts from letters from Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, indorsing the movement.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY. William Benson, an Indiana Farm-Hand, Confesses the Murder of His Employer and His Wife.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Dec. 11.—Sunday evening Jacob Motweiler was shot in the back of the head and killed instantly. A few minutes later his wife, Ellen Motweiler, was brained with a hatchet, which resulted in her death yesterday at noon. The murder was committed near Edwardsville, five miles from the city on the Corydon pike. The victims are respected Germans, and ordinarily well-to-do farmers. The murderer, William Benson, a farm-hand, aged 21, was arrested Sunday night and brought to this city and placed in jail, where he made a reluctant confession. He killed Mr. and Mrs. Motweiler because they objected to his paying attention to a comely girl named Sallie Snyder, who lived with the family.

DEATH IN THE FLAMES. A Family of Eight Persons Cremated in Their Texas Home.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Tex., Dec. 12.—News received here from Cookeville says the dwelling of John R. King was burned at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, and King, his wife and six children were burned to death. It is supposed that the victims were murdered and the house set on fire. The fire was not discovered until the house was completely destroyed. The remains of the eight victims were taken from the ruins and buried in one grave. The family came to Texas from Alabama. A son and daughter, both married, are the only members of the family left. There is no clew to the supposed murderers.

OFF FOR HAYTI. Admiral Luce Ordered to Secure the Steamer Haytian Republic.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Full and specific instructions in regard to the management of the Haytian expedition have been given to Rear Admiral Luce, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, and their execution is all that remains to be done. He is to proceed to Port au Prince and request the release of the steamer Haytian Republic, and if the authorities refuse to surrender her he is to seize the vessel by force of arms and take her to some neutral territory, where she can be restored to her owners.

A Big Reward Offered. MARGUERITE, Mich., Dec. 8.—The Calumet & Hecla Mining Company advertises a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest of the incendiary who started the fire in No. 3 shaft of the Calumet branch Thanksgiving night. The fire in the mine has grown worse. Several small slides of ground took place near the burning shaft, but the cavities were filled.

A Long Sentence. TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 12.—Charles F. Henderson, a veterinary surgeon, has been sentenced to twenty-eight years in the penitentiary for torturing forty or fifty horses with sulphuric acid and croton oil, in order that his services would be necessary to cure them.

The Same Old Story. MIDDLETOWN, O., Dec. 12.—Robert Ernest Cook, aged 4 years, of this place, found a rifle belonging to an elder brother yesterday and discharged it at his 3-year-old brother Charley, producing a fatal wound.

TATE SPRINGS, TENN., July 4, 1888. The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.: Gentlemen—Seven years ago I contracted an exceedingly bad case of blood poisoning. I tried a physician, the best at command, but secured no benefit. My throat began to get sore, and my body covered with sores and ulcers. Going from bad to worse, I felt that my grave must be reached in the near future. I gave up the doctors' treatment, and with a despairing hope I commenced taking your medicine. I began to improve from the first bottle, and in a short time the ulcers healed, and my skin cleared off and was entirely well. One year ago a case of catarrh developed in my system. The physician did his best, but could not cure me; but two bottles of Swift's Specific gave me permanent relief. J. H. ROBINSON.

KAUFMAN, TEX., June 23, 1888. The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have been afflicted with a skin disease for about twelve years, and the best medical treatment failed to give me relief. I am now using Swift's Specific, and have received the greatest benefit from its use. Yours truly, WM. JONES. For sale by all druggists. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. THE MARCH OF PROGRESS! OUR LATEST IMPROVEMENTS! "Competition is the life of trade," and if you have not seen our latest improved goods, you cannot imagine how lively trade is, or how our competitors have to work to keep within sight of us. Ask your retailer for the James Means' $3 Shoe, or James Means' $4 Shoe, according to your needs. Positively none genuine unless having our name and price stamped plainly on the sole. Your retailer will supply you with shoes so stamped if you insist upon his doing so; if you do not insist, some retailers will sneak you into buying inferior shoes upon which they make a larger profit.

JAMES MEANS' $3 SHOE UNEXCELLED IN STYLE UNEQUALLED IN DURABILITY. SEAMLESS $3 SHOE.

JAMES MEANS' $4 SHOE CANNOT FAIL TO SATISFY THE MOST FASTIDIOUS. JAMES MEANS' $4 SHOE.

Such has been the recent progress in our branch of industry that we are now able to afford that the James Means' $4 Shoe is every respect equal to the shoes which only a few years ago were regarded as silver ten dollars. If you will try on a pair you will be convinced that we do not exaggerate. Ours are the original $3 and $4 shoes, and those who imitate our system of business are unable to compete with us in quality of factory products. In our lines we are the largest manufacturers in the United States. Shoes from our celebrated factory are sold by wide-spread retailing in all parts of the country. We will place them easily within your reach in any state or territory if you will invest one cent in a postal card and write to us. James Means & Co., 11 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass. J. GOVERNOR LUCE has a chance to do a good thing by the reappointment of Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of the University of Michigan as a member of the State board of health. Dr. Vaughan's term expires soon. It so happens that he is known to be a Democrat. What earthly difference that makes, however, it would be hard to tell. He is known to be a fine chemist, the foremost lecturer in the country on sanitary subjects; he is the director of the hygienic laboratory of the University, and is an original investigator of more than national reputation. It is desirable for many reasons, that the State board of health should have among its members a good chemist. It is desirable for the University that its lecturer on sanitary subjects should be personally connected with practical health work. It is important that the State and local health authorities and the University hygienic laboratory should be in close and cordial relations. As the office has no salary and involves some care, we can well imagine that the subject of remaining on the board of health is personally of small moment to Dr. Vaughan; but it is important to the health interests of the State, and we hope no partisan reasons will deter Gov. Luce from making the appointment.

SOCIAL LIFE ON THE FARM.

At the meeting of the Norvell farmers' club, Dec. 1, there was an exceedingly interesting discussion on the subject of "Social life on the farm," led by C. P. Holmes. We have often mentioned these farmer club meetings as indicating much intellectual activity among the farmers. The farmers of the Norvell club, while alive to the drawbacks of their situation, yet seem to be pretty well contented, and look with a sort of pity upon the degenerate denizens of the cities. One claimed that society in the country is nearly free from the castes or classes that exist in the city, and is purer. Another speaker claimed that there was more equality in the country; that as a rule country youths were superior to village youths. "The city boy," he said, "believes too much in himself, is forward, assuming, often impudent." This last speaker must have visited the corridor of the Ann Arbor postoffice just before making that remark.

It is refreshing and pleasant to see this self-satisfaction and independence on the part of the agriculturists. We suspect that the city boy who has taught a district school and "boarded around" can tell of as wide differences in manners and refinement existing in the country as can be found in Ann Arbor. These views of the speakers here quoted are not in harmony with those expressed by the lamented Bishop Samuel S. Harris, who, in one of his latest sermons, said that the young are exposed to greater danger in the country than in the city. He claimed that "irreligion and worldliness are increasing at an alarming rate in the country."

The New York Mail and Express says: "The growth of our population is intimately related to the question of the right use of our public lands. The curse of Europe is the crowded and congested condition of the populations. The old feudal system put land in the hands of the few. Broken and qualified as that old system is, it is still in force in many of the old European monarchies. The landlords are still a mighty power in Austria-Hungary, in some parts of Germany; and in the British Isles the land is in the hands of only a very few proprietors. The first French Revolution broke down the great land-holding interests of France; and the influence of the Revolution told powerfully and permanently in several of the neighboring countries. The marvelous buoyancy and recuperative power which France has again and again revealed in the present century is the result of a widely diffused peasant proprietorship. The chronic troubles of Ireland, and the growing misfortunes of Scotland and England, are largely due to the fact that the land is in the hands of a very few, and that a very large proportion of it is used for other purposes than for the benefit of the people. In Great Britain and everywhere else the necessity is growing for the breaking up of the landed aristocracy and for the distribution of the people over the soil. If any revolution is certain, it is the revolution which will break up the law of entail and primogeniture, and which shall restore the land to the people of the soil."

The report of the Howard Association for promoting the best methods of treatment of criminals and the prevention of crimes has just been published. It warmly eulogizes Mr. George Kennan for his thorough and conscientious work in investigating the Russian prison system. Mr. Kennan's articles in The Century Magazine, giving the results of his studies in Russia and Siberia, are praised for the faithfulness and impartiality with which the Russian prisons and Russian prison life are depicted. "By this great work," the report declares, "Mr. Kennan has rendered an important service to the cause of humanity."

THE CANVASS of the recent election by the board of State canvassers shows that the pluralities given the respective state officers are as follows: Cyrus G. Luce, governor, 17,130; James H. McDonald, lieutenant governor, 20,693; Gilbert R. Osmon, secretary of state, 22,735; George L. Maltz, state treasurer, 22,334; Henry H. Aplin, auditor general, 23,196; Roscoe D. Dix, commissioner land office, 23,941; Stephen V. R. Trowbridge, attorney-general, 22,485; Joseph Estabrook, superintendent public instruction, 22,325; Perry F. Powers, member board of education, 21,570.

The pluralities received by the congressmen are these: J. Logan Chipman (dem.), 3103; Edward P. Allen (rep.), 1564; James O'Donnell (rep.), 6502; Julius C. Burrows (rep.), 4185; Charles E. Belknap (rep.), 2667; Mark S. Brewer (rep.), 367; Justin R. Whiting (dem.), 406; Aaron T. Bliss (rep.), 2185; Byron M. Cutcheon (rep.), 4374; Frank W. Wheeler (rep.), 115; Samuel M. Stephenson (rep.), 3358.

The vote on the revision of the banking law stood: Yes, 48,531; no, 20,300. The amendment to the constitution relative to circuit courts, was carried by a vote of 21,221 to 19,382. The prohibition vote was 20,352; union labor, 4,388.

IT HAVING been estimated that David Ward, of Detroit, owned 500,000,000 feet of pine in the lower peninsula of Michigan, that gentleman wrote to a friend as follows: "I only gave you what I have on the Manistee river and the west branch of the Au Sable. As you are aware I own a fine tract of cork pine on the middle waters of the main Manistee and on the head waters of the west branch of the Manistee river. There I own some 150,000,000 feet, largely of cork pine, but this pine is some 10 to 23 miles below my railroad and consequently is not tributary to Sagnaw by it. The above and what I wrote you before as tributary to Sagnaw, is about all the pine I own in the lower peninsula. I have sold in the lower peninsula and Wisconsin within the last seven years some 370,000,000 feet of pine, which brought me some $1,950,000, and but very few of my sales got into the newspapers."

ISAIAH V. WILLIAMSON, of Philadelphia, has created a sensation by appointing a commission of seven gentlemen to take charge of $5,000,000 of his money for the purpose of establishing a school in which a boy can learn any trade he desires to learn. He will increase the amount to $12,000,000 if necessary. The old man is said to black his own boots and live in a dingy old nook. His speculations, however, have invariably succeeded, and he is immensely rich.

COUNT TOLSTOI, the Russian author who gives his money to the poor and works at the shoe bench, was asked what he would counsel the czar to do if he were ever sought for advice from that source. He said: "Nationalize the land, declare absolute liberty for conscience, and establish the liberty of the press. If he did these three all the rest would come right."

Thus far four names are mentioned among Republicans for speaker of the next house of representatives: Reed, of Maine, McKinley, of Ohio, Burrows, of Michigan, and Cannon, of Illinois. It would be a very poor Republican that would not be satisfied with either, but state pride naturally enlists Michigan sympathy with Burrows.

Rhea in Ann Arbor.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific the press unite in sounding the praise of one of the greatest favorites that has ever appeared in Ann Arbor. M'le Rhea, whose great histrionic abilities are equaled by but few in all this wide world. It is always pleasant to record the success of so great an actress and so charming a woman, one who never fears to bring to her support as talented a company as America can furnish. M'le Rhea will appear here on Saturday evening next in one of the most delightful of the great Shakespearean comedies, "Much Ado About Nothing," in which she will enact the witty and voluble heroine, Beatrice, and will be supported by sterling artist, Mr. Wm. Harris, as Benedick. To her undoubted talent she brings the added attraction of a most magnificent wardrobe. Her gowns are marvels of the art of the famous Worth of Paris, most of them having been made to her order during her last visit to Europe. The Figaro of San Francisco, one of the most critical of papers, thus eulogizes this charming artist:

"Rachel was intensely tragic and conventionally demonstrative, while the Bernhardt is dramatically sensational—a perfect whirlwind of fiery enthusiasm and sensational effort.
 "On the other hand, M'le Rhea, in all her characters, vividly portrays the natural emotions of a cultivated lady, with no desire to exaggerate nature or outrage the amenities by substituting ingenious dramatic effects to cover the hideousness of a depraved misconception of the character. "It is only too evident that M'le Rhea is a thoroughly refined, well-bred lady, endowed with all the delicate instincts of a sensitive, cultivated woman, who never subverts her identity in order to create sensational dramatic effects. There is something extremely fascinating and graceful in all her movements, and they are evidently those of a woman whose life has been passed in elegant surroundings.

"Her professional style and mannerisms are in keeping with her personal appearance—youthful, beautiful and spirituelle. Her studied avoidance of opportunities to create dramatic effects by unnaturally startling climaxes is in direct opposition to the methods usually followed by the average French and by many American actresses."

The Circuit Court.

On Monday, the case of the People vs. John Forgarty and James O'Brien, charged with breaking into a freight car at Ypsilanti last Friday. They pleaded not guilty.

Wealthy L. Johnson vs. Albert Litchfield; trespass on the case; slander; settled.

Mary Krause vs. Mary E. Corden; slander; cause dismissed, and judgment given defendant against the plaintiff for her costs.

Harrison W. Bassett vs. Augustus Bond; trespass on the case upon premises; judgment for plaintiff.

Jennie M. Carr vs. Augustus W. Button; judgment for plaintiff.

Frederic Day was sentenced to three years in the Ionia house of correction, and Wm. Campion two years.

Chas. Kalmbach vs. John Warner; appeal; judgment for plaintiff.

The case of Sarah A. Cole vs. Lake Shore R. R. company, for injuries received by falling into a hole on the company's grounds in Pittsford, Hillsdale county, in 1885, has been the chief attraction for a week. Mr. Cross, who was with her and fell into the hole at the same time, has already received a judgment for $4,000. They both ask for $10,000. It is an interesting case, and is fought stubbornly by both sides. The lawyers are now making their arguments.

Miss Ida Backus, daughter of Johnson Backus, of Webster township, was married to Austin Smith, of Ann Arbor township, Dec. 5, at the residence of the bride's parents. Rev. J. T. Sunderland performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on the Whitmore Lake road about three miles from Ann Arbor, where Mr. Smith is engaged in farming. They have gone to New York state for a month's wedding trip. It was a very enjoyable affair.

The Southern Washtenaw farmers' club met with J. R. Holmes, of Manchester, Friday, Dec. 7. There was not as large a company as usual, but a very enjoyable time. The topic for discussion was postponed until next meeting. At a previous meeting the secretary was instructed to correspond with the professors of the Agricultural College, to ascertain if they would assist in farmers' institute if one should be held at Manchester the coming winter or spring. The secretary announced that a reply had been received from Prof. Johnson, stating that such help could be furnished. Action upon the subject of an institute will be taken at the next regular meeting, which occurs the first Friday of next month. The secretary, C. M. Fellows, having decided to move to Ypsilanti the following week, resigned his office to his successor, who will be appointed at the next meeting.

Mrs. Geer, living in Barreget, died at the residence of Thos. Beatty Dec. 8th. The funeral was postponed until the arrival of her only son from the east.

The funeral of Mr. Goodrich who died Saturday last, was held Monday. There was an unusually large attendance, as he was so well known. Mr. Goodrich was about a year before his death, proprietor of the Goodrich house at Ann Arbor, and used to keep a hotel of the same name at Saline.

Herbert Lindsley came home from Detroit Thursday morning. It seems he has had rather an unpleasant little experience there. He has been working for the patent car roof company. Last Wednesday evening about 8:30 p. m., while walking up the railroad track from town, a man seized his right arm; Lindsley promptly knocked the fellow down with his left fist, when another man struck him over the head with a sand-bag, smashing his hat and stunning him. He fell, and the men went through his pockets, taking $16 in cash, his watch, book and some letters, the last two being found the next morning in the railroad yard, and the watch—which they had dropped from some cause—being found on the track the same night. Detectives are at work upon the case.

A. Callis has been seen upon our streets in the recent past, fresh from Dakota. He proposes to have Dakota admitted into the union or know why.

The Wabash railroad has settled with Mr. Ross for the injury received by being struck by an engine which was running without warning. The road acted very fairly about it, paying about $185 as damages.

A bad wreck occurred here at about three o'clock Tuesday morning on the Wabash railroad. For some reason two engines with freight trains met on the long bridge just east of the depot, and were badly smashed up. No one was seriously injured. The engineers and firemen escaped by jumping just before their engines struck the bridge. The railroad men are reticent, and as no one was hurt the facts will probably never be known outside of railroad circles. It took several hours to clear the track.

Chelsea.

The home of F. P. Glazier was made happy on Saturday, Dec. 1, by the addition of a 10 lb. girl.

On Wednesday and Thursday of last week the fair dames of the Congregational church held a fair at the Town hall, at which fair articles, useful and ornamental, the workmanship of their own fair hands, were sold at a fair price to fair purchasers, by which fair transaction fair profits were realized, amounting to $102.57.

Died at the residence of her grandson, Arnold Prudden, in the township of Sylvan, Dec. 10, Mrs. Abigail Davis, aged 85 years and 6 months. Mrs. Davis was a native of Shoreham, Vermont, and her maiden name was Lawrence. In 1822 she married Wm. A. Davis, with whom she came to this state in 1832. Her husband died in 1879. The fruit of her marriage was seven children, three of whom—Dr. Wm. Davis, of Grand Ledge, Mrs. Dr. Gates, of Chelsea, and Geo. E. Davis, of Chelsea—are still living. Aunt Abigail as she was familiarly called, was one of the charter members of the Baptist church, a worthy woman in all respects, and highly esteemed by all who knew her.

Died in the town of Lima, Dec. 2, 1888, Chas. S. Stedman, aged 68 years. A native of Manchester, N. Y., he came to Michigan with his parents in 1836, and has resided ever since on or near the farm on which he died. Though he had been twice married, and was the father of three children, his second wife alone survives him. Mr. Stedman was one of that royal type of pioneers, whose sterling virtues were a power for good, and shone with increasing brilliancy as the years went by. He was for forty years a consistent member of the M. E. church, and those that survive him sorrow not as those that have no hope. He rests in peace.

Died at Chelsea, Dec. 10, 1888, Dr. Jas. L. Ackley, aged about 74. Where and exactly when Dr. Ackley was born is not known to his family. His youth was spent in the town of Elba, Genesee county, N. Y.; he took his degree of M. D. from a medical college in Philadelphia, served as demonstrator of anatomy for some years in a medical college at Cleveland, O.; came to this state 45 years ago, and practiced medicine at Stockbridge until 1871, when he came to Chelsea. For much of the time during his residence in Chelsea, Dr. Ackley's health has been very poor; and for the last four months he has been confined to his bed. He leaves a widow to whom he was married at Stockbridge 28 years ago, and one daughter, the wife of M. W. Bush, dentist. His reputation as a physician was above the average, and his brusque manner, quaint remarks and neighborly kindness will be long remembered by those who were best acquainted with him.

ONE SWALLOW DOES NOT MAKE A SUMMER.

Did she give a tender glance
When thy tongue refused to speak?
Let it not my bliss enhance,
Nor for further glances seek;
One such look from maiden's eye
Is no pledge of constancy.

Did she call the fond or dear,
Sitting dreamily alone?
Drive the echo from thy ear,
Be not tickled by one sweet tone;
One such whisper does not prove
That she yields thee all her love.

Did she have a deep drawn sigh
When thou had'st a sad farewell?
Did a tear drop dim her eye?
Yield not to the potent spell,
One such tear or ling'ring sigh
Proves not she will love for aye.

MY GUIDE.

In the summer of 1899 I had occasion to visit the Rushmore Asylum for the Insane. The institution is, I believe, reckoned among the best of its kind in this country. The distinguishing feature in its system of treatment is that of according to patients all reasonable freedom—a system, I am informed, which has been followed with the most encouraging results. So far as practicable, the inmates of the asylum are treated like sane men and women; and, instead of being constantly reminded of their infirmity, they are led to forget it, if the power to forget it remains.

On the day of my visit I had purchased a case of medicines for one of the assistant physicians, who was an intimate friend. This I had done at his request, and it was to deliver these medicines that I made the journey to Rushmore asylum.

Ascending the massive stone steps, I was conducted by one of the attendants into the reception parlor. Here I was left to wait until my presence could be announced to my friend, Dr. Balcom. It so happened that I was the only occupant of the room, and to engage my mind while I waited I picked up a copy of De Quincey's "Confessions" and began to read. While thus occupied, a voice accosted me, saying, "Did you wish to see any one, sir?"

Looking up, I saw the speaker was a small, neatly dressed man, who had evidently addressed me in order to make his presence known.

"I was waiting," I replied, "to see Dr. Balcom."

"The doctor is engaged just at present on a very important case. Would you like to make a tour of the building?" I answered that I should be pleased to do so, and thereupon my friend conducted me out into the hall. I discovered that he was one of the attendants in the asylum, and he also informed me that he studied insanity for a number of years, with a view of fitting himself for a physician.

Under so excellent a guide I was conducted through the building, and shown the numerous points of interest. Those patients whose cases possessed particular interest were also pointed out to me, and their idiosyncrasies fully explained.

"The man whom we just passed," said my companion, referring to a large, fresh faced, mild eyed patient, "is one of the most dangerous patients we ever had."

"Indeed!" I replied, "one would not think so from looking at him."

"No; but the appearance of all insane people is deceptive. There was a woman here some time ago—a pale, sweet faced, delicate creature—whom we all thought a saint, and who acted as one until she succeeded in getting hold of a carving knife, and then she cut the throats of two of her fellow patients."

"Is there not danger," I asked, "in granting so much liberty to the inmates?"

"Well, it is our peculiar system. We find in some instances, of course, that the freedom is abused, but in the majority of cases it works well."

This and much more conversation took place between the attendant and myself as we passed through the halls. I was most favorably impressed with his intelligence and manners, and the thought struck me that he was fitted to fill a higher position than that which he occupied.

"I observe," he said, "that you carry a medicine case, and I infer that you are a physician."

"No," I rejoined; "although I have the equipments of a doctor, I should make but sorry work at using them. They belong to Dr. Balcom, and I called to deliver them." Then, looking at my watch, I added, "I fear that I am keeping the doctor waiting by my long absence."

"I think he is not yet disengaged," returned my companion; "we shall have time to go out on the roof of the building, from which the views are really magnificent."

Accordingly my guide led the way up the spiral staircase, which connected the topmost story with the roof. I following at his heels. As we emerged through the broad skylight the scene which presented itself to the eye was really magnificent. To the right lay the river, winding like a silver thread through the pleasant valley; in front could be seen the distant spires of the city, glistening like the sunlight; and afar off rose the hills, their summits lost in the blue of the heavens. The carefully kept grounds of the asylum, immediately beneath us, looked like a map, gorgeous with its many hues of flowers.

"This is certainly a splendid view," I said.

"It is still better from the opposite side of the building," returned my guide. "Let us go over there."

Accordingly we walked along the flat roof, the attendant taking the precaution to close the skylight behind us, lest any of the patients should be tempted to follow us. The Rushmore asylum is some two hundred and fifty feet in length, and as we emerged from the westerly end of the roof we had this considerable distance to walk.

Suddenly, when we had reached a point midway in the building, my companion stopped, and, turning upon me abruptly, said: "Have you a large brain?"

I looked at him a little wonderingly, and then laughed as I replied: "Well, if I have, the world has not discovered it." "Don't jest, sir," he said, petulantly, and with a seriousness that flashed an unpleasant suspicion across my mind. "I wish to know, distinctly, whether or not you have a large brain."

He was looking me full in the face, with a peculiar expression in his dark eyes which I had not before observed. There was not the slightest betrayal of levity in his manner. He was terribly in earnest. His thin white fingers worked convulsively, and there was a twitching about the muscles of the mouth, such as I have seen in persons suffering intense pain. The horrible truth flashed upon me as I returned his steadfast gaze. This man was a maniac. I am possessed, I fancy, with an average amount of courage, but at that moment I felt it oozing out of the very pores of my skin. I know that I turned deathly pale, and for a moment was utterly unable to think. Then I grew calmer. Doubtless this maniac had brought me on the roof of the building with the idea of pushing me off. As I have already said, he was a small man. Physically I was his superior. But I was without weapon of defense. Suppose that he was armed!

"My good sir," I said, endeavoring to speak in a natural tone, "I can assure you that my brain is not a large one, and as my time is limited, I think we had better go down now."

I made a movement as if to retrace my steps to the skylight. Quick as thought the madman sprang in front of me, and, with his eyes glaring wildly, albeit he spoke in a low, unexcited voice, he said:

"I think your brain is large enough for my purpose, sir. You must understand that I have a great mission in this world to fulfill—a mission which I have not as yet begun. The strain upon my own mental faculties will be too great. I therefore intend to take your brain and insert it in my own head."

Here he drew from the breast pocket of his coat a large sized clasp dagger, which he opened, and began to run the blade up and down the palm of his hand. "I have given years of thought to this subject," he continued, "and I am convinced that I shall succeed. With a double brain power, I shall be enabled to accomplish a double amount of brain work. I have been waiting a long time for a subject, but not until I saw you did I find one suited to my purpose. You are the man—the brain for which I have been watching."

"I fear, sir," I said, "that you are sadly mistaken. Your idea is a grand one—an original one. But I am not fit to aid you in carrying it out. You should select a strong, active, healthy brain. Mine, on the contrary, is weak and diseased. Why, sir, up to the age of 14 I was considered an idiot. Since then my friends do not permit me to have control of my own affairs. I am actually little better than a lunatic. I can neither read nor write, I—"

"Nevertheless," he interrupted, "you will answer my purpose, and I am about to take out your brain with this dagger, and insert it in my own head. I have brought you out here on the roof that you may be free from interruptions. You will oblige me by now lying down."

If my mind had been stunned by the first discovery of the man's madness it was active enough now. A thousand schemes rushed through my mind; I took in the situation fully. I was alone with a maniac armed with an ugly weapon, and he bent upon my destruction. To cry out would be useless. Nobody could hear me. The chances of any aid from those within the asylum were small indeed. I could not run away. If I attempted to gain the skylight I should certainly be killed. The medicine case in my hand suggested the thought which saved my life.

"If you are determined to make use of such an unworthy subject as I," I said, "well and good; I shall offer no further resistance. But I ask that you will grant me five minutes while I address a brief farewell to my friends. I will give it to you to deliver to them."

"Very well," he replied, "if you know how to write, proceed. I will wait five minutes."

He took up his position a foot from me, watching every movement I made with horrible eagerness. I knelt down with my back towards him, took from the medicine case a bottle of chloroform (which I knew it contained) and saturated my handkerchief with the liquid. This I succeeded in doing without his knowledge. Then, rising to my feet, I scribbled some unintelligible words upon the back of an envelope, and said:

"You will do me the honor by reading what I have written here."

He came towards me, and while I held the envelope in my hand he took it by my side and looked at the writing. I had the handkerchief in my right hand and the envelope in the left. As he bent forward to decipher the words I suddenly clutched his hand which held the dagger, and at the same instant clapped the handkerchief over his mouth and face. He struggled fiercely for a moment or two, and then the fumes of the drug began to tell upon him. His efforts to release himself grew weaker, and he finally fell to the floor insensible.

With all haste I made my way to the skylight, down the spiral staircase and into the halls below. There I recounted what had happened, and two of the assistants were sent to bring down the maniac mania. He recovered from the effects of the chloroform, and the last I heard of him he was looking for a subject to furnish him an extra brain.—Philip Hargrave in Boston True Flag.

How Dogs Talk.

A dog's "good morning" is something I could not understand for a long while. It consists of a wriggle from end to end, and an effort to shake hands with both his head and his tail at once. He hardly seems to know just which end to put forward. This is the secret of it; language in lower creatures is not confined to the tongue. Most of the creatures with tails talk with the tail—as much as with the tongue—some more. A horse's tail is frequently quite articulate. A dog's tail holds half his power of expression. As we have lost the caudal appendage, we have grown to be very tonguey—it is a necessity. All our language is from the mouth. But Bosco, you see, talks at both ends about equally well, and when he meets you after an absence he is so delighted that both ends contend in the effort to express joy. Sometimes I pity Bosco, for it seems as if he would twist himself into two dogs. It really must be very embarrassing to have language at both ends, and neither one quite complete. But at last Bosco settles the dispute by sitting down on his tail to keep it still, and the other end comes out ahead. Hurrah for the head! —E. P. P. in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Condensing His Memorial.

Among the many incidents connected with the building of the cathedral of All Saints is one which is indicative of the off-stated ability of the people of this country to extract the kernel of a question upon the shortest notice. One of the stonemasons was busy the other day carving the inscription on the memorial pillar to Governor Dix. After surveying his work and reading it he turned to a bystander and laconically said: "What's the use of all that? Just put on it, 'Shoot him on the spot.'"—Albany Journal.

NAVAL ETIQUETTE.

Pollitense Which Exceeds Any Thing Practiced on Terra Firma.

Most visitors to a man-of-war are struck by the cleanliness, order and compactness of everything on board, where so many men live so close together, and yet perfect discipline is preserved—even greater than among the same number in a regiment on shore.

But a few moments' consideration, writes Dr. E. Shippen in Golden Days, will show that, in such a confined space and with constant intercourse, great attention to forms and to the exactions of respect must be shown, to prevent such a mass of men, crowded close together, from degenerating into a mob.

So we see, at every moment, salutes by touching and raising the cap, first by the inferior in rank, but at a scrupulously returned by the superior, while all sentries salute passing officers—the juniors by raising the hand to the rifle, while the latter is at "the carry," and senior officers by "presenting" arms. And this is done whenever they pass, if it be ten times in an hour.

This saluting in military services is based upon the theory that small arms are placed at the disposal of the person whom it is desired to honor; while with the great guns it was formerly the habit to fire salutes while shot, and thus leave the pieces harmless, and at the mercy of the party saluted. But this firing of shot guns led to so many accidents to the persons whom it was designed to honor that it gradually fell into disuse and blank cartridges were used instead.

It is quite a feat to fire what is called a "good salute"—when the guns go off quickly, but at perfectly regular intervals—and nothing jars more upon the navel ear than a salute in which guns bang fire, and the interval is not preserved.

In times as late as our war, salutes were commonly fired from the "battery," or broadside guns of any man-of-war. If she was a fifty-gun frigate, but few of her guns were used, and none of those fired requiring reloading, because no salute that could be fired required more than twenty-one guns.

But, in these days of few and heavy guns, salutes are much less frequent, as such vessels are, by common consent, not required to go through the ceremony.

Sometimes brass howitzers, which are carried as boat guns, are used in such vessels for saluting purposes, and it is most astonishing to see how rapidly a well-drilled howitzer-crew can fire.

The number of guns allowed to officials is as low as five—for a Consul, but it is always an uneven number—for, ever since gunpowder was used, an even number of guns was considered unlucky, and the odd number observed.

The writer well remembers the start given by the firing of three guns in a Yamen, or official residence of a high Chinese official, as a party of Americans were making an official visit.

The Chinese salute is three guns—and these three were almost buried in the earth of a court-yard through which the party had to pass, and were fired almost under their feet as they passed, causing a very natural start in persons unused to that way of showing respect.

Salutes with great guns occur much more frequently in foreign ports than in our own, as guns are fired upon the visit of foreign officers to our men-of-war, and also when the visits are returned. Then, on National holidays or anniversaries, foreign men-of-war who happen to be in port with the vessel celebrating are all notified, and requested to join in a salute, and probably in dressing the ships with flags.

For instance, in Rio Janeiro, a great naval stopping-place, there will often be Brazilian, French, Spanish, Portuguese, English, American and other men-of-war. Now, if the Fourth of July is at hand, the American Admiral sends an officer round to each one, with his compliments, and to say that on that day he will dress his ship with flags, and fire a National salute at noon, and each of the foreign Captains sends back his compliments, and will be happy to follow his motions. So, on the Fourth of July, in one dress twenty-one guns.

If a National salute is fired, the flag of the country saluted is hoisted at the fore, and hauled down at the last gun. If it is a personal salute, the job is hoisted with the first gun, and hauled down with the last.

Often with very exalted persons, such as Kings or Emperors, or the President of the United States, the yards are "manned," that is, life-lines are rove from the lifts of the yards to the mast, and the men stand upon the yards close to each other.

Sometimes the crews are ordered into the lower rigging, and three cheers are given, the time being marked by the rolling of drums. This is called "cheering ship," and is often done when another ship of the squadron, which has completed her service, sails "homeward bound."

In ships carrying bands, it is customary for them to play their national air when a foreign man-of-war arrives or departs, and the ensign or national flag is always dipped in response to a similar courtesy from foreign ships or forts, or in answer to the national air, played by a foreign band on each side of the water, salute each other in passing, according to the rank of those in them. They either cease pulling, and lie on their oars, or toss them; or, if under sail, they let fly their sheets, and then gather them to again. At the same time, the midshipman or coxswain of the junior boat rises and touches his cap, as do all the officers in each boat.

When coming on board or leaving the ship, officers are attended by the boatswain or his mate, with side-boys, who are supposed to hand the man-ropes. When there are no man-ropes, the boys stand on each side of the gang-way and raise their caps, while the boatswain pipes a long-drawn, peculiar sound from his pipe. In addition to this, the Admiral or Commodore is received by the marine guard, drawn up on the quarter-deck, and the roll of the drum.

When the colors are hoisted or lowered, every body uncovers, and the music plays; and every one, officer or man, on coming upon the quarter-deck, which is the reserved spot for all ceremony, touches his cap.

At first, people make a great many mistakes and omissions in all this cap-touching; but in a very short time it becomes a second nature, and is done almost mechanically.

Getting Into the Blood.

MM. Grehan and Quinquand, in determining the length of time needed for substances to appear in the blood after they have been taken into the stomach, used solutions of the iodide and salicylate of soda. The conclusions are, from their experiments on dogs, that the presence of salicylate of soda in the blood can be shown within thirty-one minutes after an injection of a six-gramme dose subcutaneously or directly into the stomach. In the case of iodide of sodium a seven-gramme dose was needed to cause its appearance in the blood within the same length of time if it had been given by the stomach; but when given subcutaneously and in about half the foregoing dose it appeared in the blood after a lapse of eight minutes only. The authorities also remark that after the injection of two grammes of iodide of sodium into the stomach no trace of this salt could be detected in the blood.

IS INSANITY CURABLE.

How It Happens That Many Asylums Confine Sane Patients.

A New York correspondent asked a young doctor who has served his time in the Morris Plains Asylum whether sane people were ever kept there when they ought to be at liberty.

"That is a very delicate question," he said, "and very hard to answer. The dividing line between sanity and insanity is very narrow and very faint sometimes, and it is a very delicate matter to say when a person has crossed it. Sometimes a patient will be jolly and apparently sane for months and then suddenly fall back into the depths—perhaps into the dangerous stage—of lunacy. It may be laid down as a safe rule that a man who has been once insane may become so again, especially if worried and fretted, and facts like these must enter into any discussion of the question you have asked."

"Now it frequently happens here, as at all asylums, that a patient reaches the state so close to a cure that it would be hard to say that he was not all right. He begins to fret over his confinement, and if he could be taken out and not worried with the cares which invariably accompany a battle with the world, he would be far better off, perhaps, than under the nagging influence of the bolts and bars which he knows in an asylum stands between him and liberty. To send such a man out into the world and compel him to fight for himself would be cruel. Nine times out of ten he would be back again very soon and much the worse for having left the asylum. I will say this, that if the medical staff of a New Jersey asylum is satisfied that a patient is thoroughly cured—cured so well that he or she can face the strain of a battle with life—no heartless relatives would be able to keep that patient imprisoned."

"But how about inebriate patients?" asked the reporter.

"Well, they are a sort of exception to the rule," said the doctor. "Many a man is kept in an asylum who is perfectly sane, who, if he were allowed the liberty of the outside world, would be sure to drink to excess. The insanity of drink is in him. Such a man, I think, is better behind asylum walls."

POOR FIDO'S COFFIN.

How a Heartless Maid Desecrated It for Filthy Lucrative Sake.

A wealthy Boston woman went abroad, accompanied by her pet dog and a couple of maids, one to attend to him and one to look after the secondary matter of the comfort of the mistress. But alas! exclaims Arlo Bates in the Providence (R. I.) Journal, even pet dogs can not live forever, and the end of this pampered canine's career came in Paris. His mistress was well-nigh heart-broken. It seemed to her particularly cruel that Fido, or whatever his precious name may have been, should have been forced to meet his end far from his native land and the four-legged friends with whom he had always been in snarling discord. She vowed that at least his ashes should rest in his native soil. She had a beautiful casket made, and, cutting short her visit abroad, she started for America with the remains of her favorite, utterly prostrated by the bereavement which had come to her.

All went smoothly until Boston was reached, and then the custom-house officer insisted upon examining the contents of Fido's coffin. It was afterward discovered that the lady's maid had on the voyage quarreled with the other servant, and had given them the hint upon which they acted. The lady protested, implored and threatened, all in vain. The officers were firm, and the dog's attendant was forced to produce the keys of the casket. Amid the lady's indignant protests at this rude violation of her darling's rest, the coffin was opened, and found to be full of lace, gloves and other feminine fripperies. The maid had heartlessly disposed of the sacred remains of Fido and used his casket as a cover for various trifles upon which she had a feminine indisposition to pay duty. The rage of the mistress beggars description, and must be left to the imagination. She wept and stormed, discharging, with much impartiality, both her servants on the spot. But life has its consolations. She is already half-way out of mourning for Fido; she has two new maids and a new dog, the last duly adorned with lavender ribbons in mitigated remembrance of his departed predecessor, the place of whose grave, like that of Moses, no man knoweth to this day.

SOME RARE BIBLES.

Curious Editions Lately Acquired by the British Museum.

Among the most important acquisitions made by the trustees of the British Museum during the year are the following works: A Bible in the Georgian language, in folio, printed at Moscow in 1743 at the expense of Prince Bakar, the son of King Vachang, who made use of materials collected by his uncle, King Archil. This book is excessively rare, as nearly the whole impression was destroyed in the burning of Moscow in 1812. Only ten copies are known to exist, and no other edition of the entire Bible has ever been printed in the Georgian language. Another rare Bible is the one in Armenian, printed at Amsterdam in 1696, quarto, illustrated with numerous wood-cuts, as also a psalter in Armenian, printed at Venice in 1665, octavo. This book was the first production of the Armenian press, established by Agbar at Venice, and is believed to be the first portion of the Bible printed in Armenian. To these should be added Archbishop Parker's rare work, entitled "De Antiquitate Ecclesie Britannicæ," printed in Lambeth Palace, by John Day, in 1570, folio, and intended for private distribution among the friends of the Archbishop. It is believed that no more than twenty-five copies of this work exist, and no two copies agree entirely in their contents. Four copies are now in the British Museum. Finally, the missal for the use of the Diocese of Seville, printed at Seville by Jacob Cromberger in 1507, folio; a service book of the greatest rarity and printed on vellum. It is a magnificent example of early Spanish typography, and was issued from the press of the first of a family of German printers who worked at Seville until the middle of the sixteenth century. Only one other copy is known to exist and that is in the Casanati Library at Rome.

Good Story of Gladstone.

You may hear all sorts of stories about Mr. Gladstone and his talk; not all of them good-natured, for society does "best to dislike him, and succeeds when he is absent. I will repeat one which gives you another side of him. While Prime Minister he appointed a well-known man to a certain difficult post abroad, requiring a great deal of special knowledge and personal acquaintance with the country and people, all of which this young man had acquired in the course of several laborious years. Mr. Gladstone sent for his commissioner to come and see him before he set out. He came, and next day a friend congratulated him on the impression he had made. "Mr. Gladstone said he never met any one who knew so much about the Caucasus." Lord X. laughed: "I was with him two hours and never opened my mouth."

When children gather in delight,
To fill the air with bubbles bright,
Of this let parents all be sure—
The soap they use is good and pure,
For, common grease in some we find
With evil mixtures well combined
That soon with burning sores will tell
On lips and tongue, and gums as well.

Let Ivory Soap, that's made with care
Of purest oils and essence rare,
Be used by those who bubbles blow
And greatest pleasure will they know,
For, common grease in some we find
Where soap is pure and fresh and clean,
While not a fear need cross the mind
Of had results of any kind.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The Holidays.

And the colder winter weather are now rapidly approaching. The joyful season is eagerly anticipated by young folks in thousands of homes; but in nearly all here are one or more older ones to whom the cold waves and the storms mean renewed suffering from rheumatic back or limbs. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a positive specific for rheumatism; we doubt if there is or can be such a remedy. But the remarkable success Hood's Sarsaparilla has had in curing this affection is sufficient reason for those who are suffering to try this peculiar medicine.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1889 of the sterling Medical Annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one fourth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1889 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

What Am I To Do?

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquors, but none for solids, of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhea or Constipation may be a symptom, or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this, if not effect a cure, try Green's August Flower; it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

Louis Quatorze brooches of white enamel, rimmed with dark gold and bearing portrait heads, are much admired.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is the only sure cure for Blind, Bleeding or Itching Piles ever discovered. It never fails to cure old chronic cases of long standing. Williams' Mfg Co., Cleveland, O.

The Handsomest Lady in Ann Arbor, remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other cough remedies had no effect whatever. So to prove this and convince you of its merit, any druggist will give you a Sample Bottle Free. Large size 50c and $1.

"What a way to spell fish," said Pat, when he saw the name Psycho on a ship. But a more wonderful spell will be exercised over the coughing child of yours that keeps itself and you awake, if you will try Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25 cents.

A spray of grape leaves sown with seed pearls is a dainty pattern in lace pins.

Don't trifle with any Throat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Croup or Whooping Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10c and 50c.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue, tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. SWAYNE & S. N., Philadelphia.

Lace pins of alternate pink pearls and diamonds are much in favor.

Bronson Howard's new play, "Shenandoah," has been presented in Boston with great success. It is a story of the Rebellion, the opening scene is laid in Charleston on the day in which hostilities opened and the first shell fired in the fort. This interrupted the love making of a northern officer to a southern maiden named Ellingham. The scenery is strikingly beautiful, showing Fort Sumter in the distance, and by a curious and entirely successful bit of stage mechanism, a shell is fired and is seen crossing the sky, leaving a bright trail along its path to the fort, when it explodes.

The committee on music of the First Baptist church of this city have at last secured a tenor for their quartette. Since Dr. Blanchard's removal from the city his place has been taken temporarily by members of the chorus, and the church has been quietly on the lookout for his successor. As a result of their work, after a protracted correspondence, W. M. Skinner, of Boston, Mass., has wired Dr. Greene that he will be here in time to rehearse for next Sunday's services. Mr. Skinner is a dramatic tenor whose reputation is general throughout the east, he having been connected with musical societies in all the eastern and middle states either as a soloist or as a conductor. Nor is he a stranger to church work, as he has held church positions during twenty years, in five of which he conducted its choir of St. Stephens, Providence R. I. In addition to the regular church work Mr. Skinner will devote his time to teaching, having pupils in Jackson and Detroit, besides a large class which is awaiting him here.

W. A. Tolchard, of Ann Arbor, and H. M. Woods, of Chelsea, are said to be candidates for the position of state bank commissioner.

The first reception of the Wesleyan Guild of the University of Michigan will be held in the parlors of the M. E. church of this city, Monday, Dec. 17.

Charles King, Dec. 9, sold his gunsmith shop to Geo. Baily and C. L. Dow, who will run it under the firm name of Baily & Spout, and who will put in a new stock of doing goods.

On Friday evening last, the young people of the Baptist church entertained the S. C. A. of the University. A program, consisting of an address by the pastor, a recitation and music by the quartet choir of the church, was given. The music, which was under the direction of A. D. Colgrove, was of a good order and was well rendered.

Ann Arbor lodge No. 27, A. O. U. W., last week elected officers as follows: Past master workman, Christian Roth; master workman, Ernest R-hberg; foreman, Wm. Inge; 2d, Will Tolchard; chorister, Prof. G. W. Renwick; pianist, Miss Jenny M. Davison.

Mrs. Clara H. Clute, whose death was announced in last week's REGISTER, was born in Milton, Vermont, in 1851. Her parents came to Dexter before she was eight years old. She was one of six sisters, of whom another—Mrs. Mary Goodwin—is yet residing in Dexter. The mother of the six girls is now an invalid in the Ypsilanti sanitarium. In 1871 the family removed to Ann Arbor, and in 1874 Mrs. Clute, then Miss Austin, was married. While in Dexter she graduated in the village school.

The Unity Club will produce Longfellow's "Courtship of Miles Standish," dramatized, before the public next Monday evening, in the parlors of the Unitarian church. The characters will be represented in costumes peculiar to the times of the Pilgrim Fathers. Scenes have been designed and executed under the direction of Misses Hunt, Fisher, Harriman and Whitman, and the training has been in charge of Louis Boyle, who so successfully brought out "The Blind Beggar of Bethnal Green" last year.

The game of foot ball in Ann Arbor Saturday, between the Detroit and Ann Arbor high school elevens, resulted in a victory for the Detroit, 8 to 2. It was a hotly contested game, played with the Detroit team until he was hurt. Snow was falling when the game began, but it soon ceased. The boys rolled in the mud and jumped on each other seemingly with the greatest relish. There is some good material among them for the University team when they leave the high schools.

Died, in Ann Arbor, Dec. 8, Mrs. Almira Dunster Wright, aged 76 years. With her husband, Mr. S. Wright, who died in 1875, she came to Ann Arbor in 1855. Her three daughters, one of whom is a well-known teacher in our public schools, and her son, Walter, of Easton Rapids, are bereaved of a mother of most lovely character, the Baptist church of a uniformly consistent member, and all who knew her of a prized friend. She was a native of New Hampshire and a lineal descendant of the first president of Harvard university, Henry Dunster.

Revenge.

Miss Cutting (after a waltz)—Mr. Awkward, will you do me a favor?

Mr. Awkward—With the greatest pleasure.

Miss Cutting—Well, please waltz with that young lady standing between the curtains.

Mr. Awkward—Why, certainly. Is she a particular friend of yours?

Miss Cutting—No, indeed! She is my greatest enemy, and I detest her.—Boston Beacon.
