

THE ANN ARBOR REGISTER.

VOL. XVI. NO. 5.

ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1890.

WHOLE NO. 788.

They Start off Well.—The Peninsular Soap Company.

Ann Arbor's industries are increasing slowly but surely. The latest that has been added to the list is the Peninsular Soap Company, which is now in running shape with very flattering prospects for the future. Steps towards the organization of this company were taken last fall, but the articles of association were filed with the Secretary of State only last week. The capital stock is $10,000, of which $9,000 is paid in. The stockholders are C. G. Liddell, W. J. Booth and B. G. Crookston.

As soon as the organization was an assured fact, land was purchased and a building erected at the junction of Madison-st and the T. & A. R. R. The building is 72 by 60 feet, two stories high, with a basement, and is equipped throughout with the latest and best machinery for manufacturing soap.

The first floor is occupied by the pressing, drying, finishing and shipping rooms, and the office. The second floor is used for manufacturing purposes entirely. A large kettle which will hold 25,000 pounds of soap, stands in the middle of the room, and extends down to the first floor. Several smaller kettles are placed on one side, used for the first processes of making laundry soap, and for making toilet soaps. A crutching machine, a great labor-saving invention, is one of the finest machines on this floor. A small engine is attached to it which runs this machine, and will furnish power for operating other machinery. Steam connections are made with all the kettles and machines. The basement is occupied as a store room. An elevator runs from the basement to the second story.

The works were started Dec. 16, and the company has made about 40,000 lbs. of soap since that time. The total capacity of the works is about 3,500 pounds a day. The business will prove a benefit to Ann Arbor in more ways than one. The company has purchased about 1,200 worth of refined tallow from our local butchers in the short time that the works have been in operation.

The company makes four grades of laundry soap, Gold Block, Silver Block, Happy Family, and Old German. Besides these, thirteen kinds of toilet soaps are made, all of them equal to the best. These soaps have not been on the market yet, except in this vicinity, but agents are to be sent out soon to cover the country.

Five hands are now employed, besides the three stockholders, all of whom take an active part in the work. Mr. Booth attends to the business part, Mr. Crookston to the finishing and packing, and Mr. Liddell to the manufacturing. Mr. Liddell is an old hand at the business, having learned his trade in New York 22 years ago. Besides this, he comes naturally by it, his father and grandfather having both been in the same business. This industry promises as well as the others in this city, and will soon prove a money-making one.

Common Council Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the common council was held Monday evening. President Belser, Alds. Martin, Spokes, Snow, Miller, O'Mara, Spafford and A. F. Martin were present at the opening. Ald. Allmendinger and Herz, arriving later.

The Board of Public Works recommended that the council pass the ordinance relative to the use of streets, alleys, and public places. They also sent in the estimates made for the extension of the sewer on the west side of Fountain-st, costing the expense at $300. The Board so recommended that sidewalks be ordered built on the west side of Second-st, in front of the lots owned by the Michigan Furniture Co., and on Fuller-st from State to Detroit sts.

The building inspectors reported that they had examined the building on Fourth-st owned by Patrick Brennan, and regarded it unsafe and liable to fall at any time.

A lengthy petition was received asking that an electric light be placed at the intersection of Fuller and Thirteenth-sts. Referred to the lighting committee.

On motion of Ald. Miller, the city treasurer was granted until March 1st to collect the taxes. That official was also requested to pay $5,000 of the taxes collected to the school treasurer.

The ordinance committee reported an ordinance relative to the use of streets, alleys and public places, which prohibits any possible misuse of these places under penalty of not more than $100 fine or imprisonment not exceeding six months.

The fire committee reported against allowing H. Kittredge permission to erect a wooden shed on his property on Anns-st, and the council adopted the report.

The special committee on sewers reported progress, and asked further time which was granted.

Patrick Brennan was ordered to tear down the unsafe building owned by him, within ten days. Failing to do so, the building inspectors were authorized to raze the building.

The council then adjourned.

A Lively Snake.

The Free Press furnishes the following snake story, and is a specimen of what that paper can do:

"There is a snake now in the Public Library of Detroit, stuffed and harmless that one time gave some young students in Ann Arbor great fright. At the time this snake was roaming the fields and woods in the neighborhood of Ann Arbor, a prominent lawyer of Detroit was then a student in the university there, and one Saturday while perambulating the woods, having a great interest in botany and biology and different otheralogies, this student came across the snake which is now in the Public Library. He discussed science with it for a few moments by means of a stick, and the snake was laid out on the ground. He had been careful during the discussion not to bruise it to any great extent, and he thought now that the snake was dead he would keep it as a specimen. He tied it up in his handkerchief and brought it to his room in Ann Arbor and placed the bundle on the window sill by an open window. When he came back to his room after supper he found the bundle gone and a search for it was unavailing. He thought that the whole affair had dropped out of the window and that somebody had kicked the repulsive object out of sight. During Sunday, the day being warm, the two students who occupied the room saw nothing of the snake and yet it was in the room all the time. On Monday, when the students came from the college at noon and entered their room, the bright sun was shining through the window on the floor. Curled up in this bit of sunshine they were horror-stricken to see the big snake, who was sunning himself there quite contentedly. There was no doubt about his death after the second attack. But for many nights afterwards the boys were haunted with strange nightmares as they thought of the way they had paddled around that room in the dark in their bare feet on the nights of Saturday and Sunday.

Words of Praise.

Speaking of those in attendance at the meeting of the Michigan Engineering Society at Detroit, last week, the Free Press pays the following compliments to the representatives of the engineering department of the University, although the article insists upon crediting Prof. Cooley as a naval officer still:

"Directors M. E. Cooley and C. E. Greene need no introduction to the general public. Both have for a long time been identified with the engineering department of Michigan University, and have exerted no small influence to bring their favorite department up to its present high standard among the learned institutions of the country. Prof. Cooley is at Ann Arbor on a Government commission, having been transferred from active naval duty to head matters at Ann Arbor. Both these gentlemen are men of wide learning, accepted authorities in engineering, and have thousands of friends over the whole country.

Prof. J. B. Davis of the Michigan University, is one of the leading spirits at the sessions of the engineers. He is considered one of the best highway bridge designers and constructors in the west. His reputation for good work in the school room is among the best in the country."

The Farmers' Institute.

The Saline Farmers' Club has made arrangements to hold a farmers' institute at Saline on Feb. 4 and 5. The committees have been busily at work and everything is now in readiness. A general invitation is extended to the public to be present and take part in the discussions. The following is the program that will be carried out:

MORNING SESSION.—Paper: The Financial Outlook for the farmers of Michigan with some of its causes and suggestions as to the future. Hon. Wm. Ball, Hamburg; Discussion; Paper: Will it pay farmers to dispose of their native and grade cattle and invest in unfashionable or plain-bred registered cattle for beef and dairy purposes. T. Josephans; Discussion; Music.

AFTERNOON SESSION.—Music, male quartette; Prayer; Paper: How to make farmers' sons and daughters the highest type of the race. "Bestrix;" Paper: What benefits are to be derived from farmers' alliances. H. D. Platt; Discussion; Music; Paper: The farmer of the future. R. Gibbons; Prizes; Discussion; Question Box; Music.

EVENING SESSION.—Music, male quartette; prayer; music, male quartette; Address of welcome, by the President; Paper: The relations of the educated farmer to the community and the State. Prof. Samuel Johnson, Lansing; Discussion; Music; Recitation: The high tide on the coast of Lincolnshire. Miss Cynthia Hurd; Paper: How shall we improve our roads? B. N. Smith; Discussion; Music, male quartette.

MORNING SESSION.—Music, male quartette; prayer; Paper: Value of Pedigree. Geo. W. Stewart; Grand Banquet; Discussion; Poem, The farmer's vision. Miss Mary Moore; music.

ON THE CAMPUS.

Only two weeks more before the junior hop.

The Glee and Banjo clubs were photographed last week.

The dramatic club held a meeting at Prof. dePont's last evening.

Prof. Steere conducted the meeting of the S. C. A., Sunday morning.

The judges have not yet decided upon the winners of the Castalian prizes.

The class of '90 will make another attempt to hold a meeting, Saturday morning.

The semester is drawing to a close and the examinations are keeping the students busy.

E. C. Mason, A. B., has returned from Boulder, Col., to graduate next June.—Argonaut.

The Glee Club is practicing nearly every evening, getting in shape for the spring concert tour.

The large lathe for the mechanical laboratory has arrived and is now in position. It is a monster.

The Wisconsin University Guitar and Banjo Club will give an entertainment here next month.

The election of Argonaut editors for the second semester, will be held in room A, Saturday morning.

Kirk Eddy, '90, of East Saginaw, was the guest of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity several days last week.

About a dozen of the engineering students attended the meeting of the state society at Detroit last week.

The great question with the co-eds now, is whether they will receive an invitation to the junior hop or not.

The outside of the addition to the chemical laboratory is nearly finished, and work on the interior is progressing.

Dr. Carrow and a dozen medical students went to the Wayne county house, Saturday, to operate on several of the inmates.

The Palladium committee have closed the contest, and will now have a job reading the many contributions that have been sent in.

"Too much la grippe," caused the postponement of the meeting of the Republican Club, from last Friday evening until to-morrow evening.

The parties which were to have been given at the Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Kappa Psi houses last week, were postponed. Too much grip.

Prof. Knowlton, of the law department, has withdrawn from the firm of Sawyer & Knowlton, his duties in the department demanding his entire attention.

The Phi Upsilon chapter has adopted appropriate resolutions on the death of A. L. Murray, one of their members, whose death was announced last week.

T. Mogt, law '90, is about to publish his thesis on "Capital Punishment," in pamphlet form. These will be sold to assist him in paying his college expenses.

The Castalian judges have decided upon the winners in the prize contest and their decision will be made known Saturday. The contributions are above the average.

Three senior laws were nearly asphyxiated last week by gas. Strange that they should come so nearly being killed, by medicine, which is the great specialty of a lawyer.

The Banjo Club will be comprised of the following pieces: Leader, H. Haug; banjos, Ballard, Gray, Sutton, Booth and Haug; guitars, O. C. Smith, J. B. Miller and Ferris.

No programme will be given at the Alpha Nu meeting Friday evening but a business meeting will be held. The officers will read their reports. An election of officers will be held.

The Technic, the annual of the Engineering Society, will be published this year by the following board: E. M. Coolidge, chairman; Freitag, Sabin, and Walker, '90, and Lamont, '91.

Dr. Gibbs has recovered from the grip itself, but his throat is so badly affected by the disease that he is still unable to lecture. He went to a Detroit specialist Saturday, for treatment.

The entertainment given by Prof. Trueblood, under the auspices of the Y. P. A., at the M. E. church, last Friday evening, is pronounced one of the best of the course by those who attended.—Saline Observer.

Following is the programme for the meeting of the Engineering Society, Friday evening: "Timber Testing," R. Khuen, jr.; "Cement Testing," D. C. Morgan; "Preliminary Work on Street Pavement," W. H. Code.

The ground plans for the new hospital have arrived, and show the plan as it is expected it will be in the course of a century or two. To build it complete as designed would cost several times the amount of the appropriation.

Interest in football in the U. of M. is increasing yearly. A meeting was held last week and it was decided to play a game in the spring, before the base ball season opens. The election of directors has been postponed until spring.

The members of the Psi Upsilon fraternity were to have celebrated the 25th anniversary of the organization of the chapter in this city, last Saturday evening, but the event was postponed on account of the recent death of one of the members.

The Argonaut says that Nellie Bly passed through here Friday night. This would have been a good item if the lady had carried out her original programme. But she didn't. She took another route and spoiled the truth of the Argonaut item.

George Kennan will lecture at University hall, Saturday evening. His name is enough to draw a large crowd, even if his story of his Russian experiences was not told as he only can tell it. This is the fourth entertainment in the S. L. A. course.

Following is the program of the Jeffersonian Society for Friday evening: Impromptu, W. H. Churchill; oration, L. S. Baldwin; reading, J. T. Hammerle; essay, D. A. Pray; declamation, G. T. Ralle. Question for discussion to be announced.

The Philological Society will meet in room A this evening, and papers will be read by Prof. Kelsey on, "The Oldest Latin Inscription," and by Prof. Hemple on "The English Word 'Yet.'" A general discussion of the word and concept of "Philology" will follow.

The indoor meeting of the Detroit Athletic Club has been postponed, from Feb. 15 to March 7. This was done because it is expected that a number of entries will be made from the University, and it was feared that the boys would not be in very good shape on the day after the junior hop.

The Glee Club as now organized, consists of the following members: First tenors, Willhart, Cheney, Harrison and Peters; second tenors, J. Ball, Jameson, W. B. Rogers and H. V. Richardson; first bass, J. B. Miller, C. T. Alexander, Herr and O. C. Smith; second bass, Ballard, Joy and Martzloff.

Warren F. Mills, who is studying for a master's degree in the law department, received the announcement of his father's death in California, Thursday. He left for the west that night, and it is doubtful if he will be able to return again, as he has a large estate on his hands which will demand his attention.

Justin Winsor, librarian of Harvard and editor of the Narrative and Political History of the United States, delivered a lecture before the Political Science Association, Tuesday evening, on "Historical Writings." The lecture was delivered in the law lecture room, which was well filled.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

Brighton has a "Dutch Grocery." The Chelsea Arbeiter Verien has 73 members.

The children's carnival was given at South Lyon last week.

The Methodists of Novi are holding a series of revival meetings.

The time for paying taxes in Scio has been extended until February 22.

The postoffice returns of Manchester show that village to be steadily gaining.

The warehouses which were recently burned at Chelsea are all to be rebuilt.

The house of John G. Schaible in Bridgewater was burned last week Wednesday.

Forty new books have been added to the South Lyon Presbyterian Sunday school library.

Tecumseh now has another industry to increase business—the Tecumseh Celery Company.

A Chelsea merchant offers to throw in a year's subscription to the Herald with every $5 purchase.

The annual meeting of the Livingston County Agricultural Society is to be held at Howell, to-day.

Mrs. Frederica Gosmer of Bridgewater had a leg broken, while trying to stop a runaway team recently.

The installation of officers of Lafayette Grange will be held at H. Stumpfenhusen's in Lima, to-morrow.

Howell township has hit upon the sweetest kind of a church entertainment—a biscuit and honey social.

The new Livingston county court house at Howell is enclosed and will be ready for use in the near future.

The annual meeting of the Chelsea Recreative Park Association, will be held in the Town hall, Saturday, Feb. 8.

Rev. F. E. Arnold, the pastor of the Baptist church at Chelsea, is to be given a donation on Tuesday evening, February 4.

A Teachers' Association for the townships of Brighton, Hamburg, Green Oak and Genoa, was organized at Brighton Saturday.

The Belleville band boys want new uniforms, and will give a dance to-morrow evening, the proceeds to be used for this purpose.

Two assemblies of Patrons of Industry have been organized in Pittsfield, and they are fighting already to determine which one shall live.

The marshal of Grass Lake gets ten cents for each tramp that he arrests, and it is safe to say that this gentry give him a wide berth.

A stranger from Kansas City stopped at a Dexter hotel one day recently. He left the next morning and considerable money went with him.

South Lyon will not tolerate houses of ill fame, and Mrs. Fred Gates is now in jail for attempting to oppose public opinion in this matter.

Dexter always did have a spite against Chelsea, and now the Dexter dramatic club proposes to produce a play there. Poor Chelsea.

Thirty people were all that attended a recent show at Brighton, and each one of the thirty will swear that it was the poorest show in existence.

Finckney barbers have decided that they need rest one day in the week as well as other people, and will hereafter do no more Sunday shaving.

When the German Workingmen's Society of Chelsea is in session, Christian Klein will wield the gavel, having recently been elected president.

The people of St. Luke's parish, Ypsilanti, gave Bishops Davies of Michigan, and Walker of North Dakota, a reception on Tuesday evening of last week.

The Dundee paper mill is well provided with power. When the engine broke down last week, water power was used and it was not necessary to stop work.

H. Burnham of Milan has sued the Wabash railway for $10,000 damages for injuries received while alighting from a train. If he gets half the amount he will not grumble.

The senior class of the Chelsea high school has elected Henry Herzer, president, Mamie Gilber, secretary, and Amelia Neuberger, treasurer. The girls seem to have the best of the offices.

Mrs. Fannie Drake, a South Lyon teacher, will be relieved from the cares and worry of the school room. She has just received a back pension amounting to $4,309.77, and will draw $17 a month besides.

South Lyon has not been troubled with tramps lately, but the marshal did manage to catch one last week. The tramp is now boarding at the county jail and will be there until his sixty days' sentence expires.

The Patrons of Industry have one law which commands itself to the business men. It requires the members to pay cash for all they purchase, a good thing for the seller but often a hard matter for the farmer.

Hillsdale county has the poorest kind of a court house—about a hundred years behind the age, but the supervisors think it good enough and have just voted down a proposition, to allow the people to decide at the next election.

A committee has been appointed to select permanent officers, and make arrangements to form a new society to succeed the Eastern Michigan Fair Association. A report will be made at a meeting to be held at the Hawkins' House, Ypsilanti, Feb. 6.

The Dexter Sportsmen's Association is to hold a rabbit hunt soon, and the trappers in that vicinity are fearful of the result. One dealer has agreed to deliver several dozen rabbits at a hut in the woods so that the sportsmen will be sure to bring back game with them.

Blissfield Advocate: It took twenty-two ballots to elect a night watch of the court house by the supervisors last week. There were twelve republicans who voted for colored man and twelve votes were cast for a democrat soldier, with two votes scattering. The republican finally took up another man, Warren Emmons, and elected him.

A paper to be read at the Oakland County Farmers' Institute next month will be entitled "Hindrances to Success." If any man can enumerate the hindrances to a farmer's success, and suggest a practical remedy for the same, he will confer an everlasting blessing upon the tillers of the soil.

The following officers of the Saline Farmers' club have been elected: President, H. W. Basset; vice president, G. L. Hoyt; lady vice president, Mrs. S. R. Crittenden; secretary, Mr. A. A. While John O'Connors of Salem was returning from Ann Arbor last Saturday evening, the tongue of the wagon dropped down, tipping him over and fastening him under the box. He remained in this position from ten o'clock until six the next morning, when he was discovered and released. Dr. Walker was summoned, and upon examination found his ribs fractured and some internal injuries. He entertains hopes for his recovery.—South Lyon Picket.

The Patrons of Industry have left Washtenaw county alone until recently, but now agents are attempting to organize a number of assemblies. In Sharon a failure was made, a prominent farmer there expressing himself as follows: "This scheme of organizing P. of I. lodges seems to beat the Bohemian oat business all hollow, if I am any judge; and I have noticed one thing, that where we have good, active farmers' clubs, as we have in this vicinity, and we meet to discuss all questions that pertain to farmers' advancement and prosperity, that these lodges do not seem to flourish. I believe in farmers organizing for laudable objects, but not to crush our home trade, the best trade we have. The farmers of this community do not propose to let the grass grow in the streets of Grass Lake."

LITERARY NOTES.

February Harper's Magazine.

General Viscount Wolesley contributes to the February number of Harper's Magazine an article on "The Standing army of Great Britain," which has been elaborately illustrated by R. Caton Woodville. Hjalmar H. Boyesen has written "A Platonic Affair," the story of a college-bred man whom the world did not feel bound to put into a niche. The second and concluding part of "Youma," the new story by Lafcadio Hearn, appears. Brander Matthews contributes a short story entitled, "The Twenty-ninth of February." Mark Twain's "Majestic Literary Fossil" which he describes, is "A Dictionary of Medicine, by Dr. James of London, assisted by Mr. Boswell's Doctor, Samuel Johnson . . . published at the time of the rebellion of '45." The illustrations of Benvenuto Collini's work, which accompany Mrs. Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer's account of his life are said to be the most complete ever published in a magazine in this country. James Hogg contributes his personal reminiscences of De Quincy. Charles Dudley Warner considers "a prospective social revolution." Talks with Edison, by G. P. Lathrop, is said to afford for the first time a vivid perception of "how an inventor invents." William Dean Howells will have a word to say upon the form and binding of "the ideal book." The recent discovery of twenty skeletons of Lake Dwellers in tombs at Auvieron on the Lake of Neuchâtel, will lend interest to S. H. M. Byer's illustrated article on "The Lake Dwellers." New York's street-cleaning, the electric light problem, and intercollegiate athletics, are among the subjects which George Wm. Curtis reviews. In the course of the second of his picturesque papers on "Jamaica, New and Old," which Howard Pyle has written and illustrated, he tells the remarkable story of the once famous city of Port Royal. A. Lampan, the Canadian poet, contributes a poem. "The New York Banks" is the title of an article by Richard Wheatley, with elaborate illustrations of the subject.

February Atlantic.

Mrs. DeLand's serial, "Sidney," steadily develops in interest, and the strong scene with which this installment closes is in the author's best manner. Dr. Holmes contributes the third of his paper "Over the Teacups." The Behring Sea Question is discussed by Charles Elliot, and M. K. Kane, the head of the Japanese commission which has been visiting various countries to compare their legislative assemblies, has a paper on "An Outline of the Japanese Constitution." The article which will arouse the most discussion is by Gen. Francis Walker, about Mr. Bellamy and the new Nationalist Party. There are four articles devoted to recent books on political and historical subjects.

A review of Mr. Lowell on Isaac Walton, a notice of Browning, and poems by Woodberry and others, close the magazine as befits the high standard which it sets itself.

[Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.]

Memorial Volume.

Messrs. Cassell & Company announce that they have secured the publication of the memorial volume of the late Henry W. Grady, whose untimely death is mourned alike in the South and at the North. The book, which will be ready for publication within a few weeks, has been compiled by his co-workers on the Atlantic Constitution, and edited by Joel Chandler Harris. It will contain a complete life of Mr. Grady, and such of his writings and speeches as best represent his remarkable gift as writer and orator. Among the latter will be the speech that he delivered two years ago before the New England Society in New York, and which at a bound made his name famous in every State in the Union, also the last of his public utterances, the equally memorable speech delivered only a few short weeks ago, before the Boston Merchants' Association.

[Cassell & Co., New York.]

Popular Science Monthly.

The most notable features of the February "Popular Science Monthly" is the article on "Comparative Mythology" in Dr. Andrew D. White's series of "New Chapters in the Warfare of Science." "The Localization of Industries" is treated by J. J. Menzies, who tells what lessons science draws from the course of industrial evolution, in regard to encouraging the establishment of industries. A searching examination of the single tax doctrine, under the title "Agriculture and the Single Tax," is contributed by Horace White. There is a second installment of "Letters on the Land Question," by Huxley, Spencer, and others, including an especially able review of the subject by Auberon Herbert. Prof. Charles D. Jameson contributes a copiously illustrated sketch of the "Evolution of the Modern Railway Bridge." A curious article is the one on "Chinese Silk-Lore," by General Teheng-Ki-Tong, illustrated by native pictures. In "Exercises for Chest Development," Fernand Lagrange, M. D., tells how more room may be gained for the lungs. Prof. J. T. Donald, of Montreal, contributes an account of "Canadian Asbestos: its Occurrence and Uses." There is an article on "Chrysanthemums," by Jean Doboski, illustrated with Japanese pictures. Stuart O. Henry writes about "Rainfall on the Plains." M. Charles Richey describes the experiences of persons deprived of food, under the title "Long Fastings and Starvation." There is a "Sketch" with portrait, of James Glaisher, F. R. S., whose career is remarkable for his many balloon ascents for the study of Meteorology. In the "Correspondence" several writers pithily criticize or supplement articles in previous numbers.

Century Magazine.

In the forthcoming Midwinter (February) Century, the fortieth and final installment of "The Life of Lincoln" will appear. It is by mere accident that this installment and the supplementary papers deal not only with the "End of the Rebellion" and "Lincoln's Fame," but with the "Capture of Jefferson Davis." Some of the newly discovered Greek terra-cottas will be illustrated, in an article on that subject by Charles de Kay, in the forthcoming Midwinter (February) Century.

As an introduction to the more extended volumes of Parkman the "Stories of New France," prepared by Miss A. M. Machter and Thomas M. Marquis, will come as a really necessary volume. It gives the real romance of Canadian history, including the true story of that brave Frenchman whom Mrs. Chatterwood has glorified in her "Romance of Dollard."

DR. HARTMAN'S LECTURE

On Rheumatism—Valuable Information for the Suffering Thousands.

Reported Especially for the Public Press.

Varieties—Muscular and Articular.

Muscular rheumatism produces pains in the muscles (due to inflammation of their fibrous sheaths), increased by motion. Lumbago, stiff neck, stiches and pain about the ribs, (pleurodynia), are the three principal forms of muscular rheumatism.

Lumbago affects the muscles of the loins, and small of the back. The pain is severe, and generally of very sudden beginning. Stiff neck is rheumatism of the large muscles of the neck, and commonly follows exposures to currents of air on the neck. Sometimes the head is drawn to one side; again it is perfectly straight, but always the neck is stiffened, and the least movement produces pain. The muscles of the chest may also be the seat of rheumatism, and produce pain in either or both sides of the chest, which is often mistaken for pleurisy or neuralgia.

Articular rheumatism is confined to the joints of the body. In the acute stages it produces great tenderness, swelling and heat. It is a most distressing disease, sometimes for months and even years confining the patient to the bed, unable to move without help. After the acute attack is relieved, and the joints are often left with a chronic rheumatism, which soon leads to deformity. Valvular diseases of the heart are very often caused by acute rheumatism unless carefully treated.

TREATMENT.

While rheumatism is yet in the first or acute stage Pe-ru-na is a never-failing remedy. It has been tested in all forms of rheumatism, and it is no exaggeration to say that Pe-ru-na is a specific for it. It neutralizes the acidity of the blood and lessens the fever and thirst. Pe-ru-na applied hot to the painful joints soothes the pain and reduces the swelling. It hastens the elimination of the poisonous matter from the blood, which accumulates rapidly during the acute stage.

In cases where the rheumatism comes on slowly, causing a great deal of suffering, but not actually confining one to the bed, or when the acute variety is allowed to become chronic, Pe-ru-na will fail to cure, and La-cu-pi-a must be used. In old rheumatic subjects of long standing, lumbago and sciatic rheumatism, La-cu-pi-a is the best remedy I have ever found. It has been used again and again in old cases that had been doctored many years in vain and a perfect cure was the result. Here is one, which I will put into my own language, but the facts are exactly as recorded in the hand writing of the patient:

Over ten years ago, Mr. William Curtis, of Pittsburg, Pa., was taken suddenly with articular rheumatism. A violent pain in the shoulder joint began in the evening, which by the following morning had greatly increased, with the shoulder swollen, very sensitive and hot. In quick succession other joints of the body was attacked. Until elbows, knees, wrists and ankles were highly inflamed. From the first, physicians were employed who tried in vain to check the spread of the disease. The attending physicians, who had faithfully attended him and had done the best they could to relieve him, after many months unsuccessful treatment of him reluctantly gave him up as incurable, and informed his family of their decision.

It was well known that it was next to impossible for me to leave my office practice to visit patients at their homes, but the friends decided that an attempt should be made to get me to visit him at least once. It took only a glance to reveal to me the dreadful history that had brought him so low. No examination was necessary to show that the case was a desperate one; yet, as they wished me to, I carefully inspected each bulging joint and distorted finger. The left arm had become entirely paralyzed. I knew I should not be believed should express any hope of his recovery. So I quietly prescribed La-cu-pi-a, and went away. After two weeks' use of it there was a noticeable improvement in his symptoms; so much so that they decided to continue it. Nothing besides La-cu-pi-a was used in the treatment of the case except a few directions as to diet and hygienic regulations. With the continued use of La-cu-pi-a the case slowly but steadily improved until a complete and permanent recovery was made. The man returned to his work, where he has ever since been, at the H. K. Porter & Co., Locomotive Works of Pittsburg.

I really do not know why thousands of others who are suffering from chronic rheumatism could not get La-cu-pi-a and use it without any other instruction that is to be found on the printed label on the bottle.

The First Railroad in New York.

The Albany & Schenectady R. R. chartered in 1816, the Mohawk & Hudson, and opened September 12, 1831, and was the first railroad built in the State of New York. In 1847 the name was changed to the Albany & Schenectady.

In 1853, this road was consolidated with nine other small lines, forming the New York Central; and in 1869 this company was consolidated with the Hudson River Railroad.

In 1831, the Mohawk & Hudson carried but a few hundred passengers; last year, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad carried over eighteen millions.

Complimentary and Deserved.

We begin with this issue the publication of the advertisements of the "F. E. C. Remedy," of Rochester, N. Y. This medicine has been in the market a number of years, its merits giving it a solid popularity wherever introduced, and we commend it and its claims to the attention and patronage of our readers. It is manufactured by responsible people, who authorize the trade to guarantee satisfaction with every bottle, thus demonstrating their own confidence in its merits—a confidence that ought, under the circumstances, to be infectious.

HURLED TO DEATH.

A Train on the "Monon" Route Falls Into a Creek.

The Cars Take Fire and Seven Persons Are Pinioned in the Debris and Slowly Roasted—Twenty-Eight Badly Hurt.

A DEATH-PLUNGE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 28.—The wreck on the Monon at Carmel, sixteen miles north of this city, yesterday morning is one of the worst disasters that ever occurred in Indiana. It grows more harrowing in character as the details become known. The list of the dead numbers seven and twenty-seven or twenty-eight persons are injured, some of them fatally. It is believed that the deaths will finally number not less than twelve.

The wreck occurred at a point on the road where there is a sharp curve and a trestle 100 feet long and twenty feet high. The Chicago train was behind time, and was making unusual speed when it approached the dangerous stretch of track. Just as the trestle was approached the hind wheels of the tender jumped the track. The engine, baggage-car and smoker passed over the trestle in safety. When the ladies' day-coach reached the center of the bridge it fell through with a crash. The wreck took fire from the stove and that car was entirely consumed. It was in this coach that all the casualties occurred. Three were burned to death; the others were killed by the fall or crushed in the wreck. The sleeper (hind car) also fell from the bridge into the creek, but fortunately did not take fire. After the engine and first two cars had passed over these cars left the track and rolled down the twenty-foot embankment. The engine staid on the rails and its front wheels alone, of the whole train, remained on the track. The injury to the express and baggage trainmen occurred on the far side of the death chasm.

The deaths up to the present time number seven and the wounded about thirty. The dead are:

Mrs. Nellie Kubank, of Broadridge, burned to death, 38 years old; C. O. Deming, of Frankfort City, skull crushed, 35 years old, died after rescue; Hattie Oldham, 6 years old, burned to death; Carrie Oldham, 8 years old, also burned; Miss Mary Hoover, of Horton, Ind., 24 years old, crushed to death; Miss Hattie Hensley, of Indianapolis, burned to death; Henry Munson, of Nora, crushed to death.

BANKER DITMAN FOUND.

His Dead Body Fished Out of the Schuylkill River in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—The mystery of the disappearance of Joseph D. Ditman, the ex-president of the Quaker City National Bank, who was last seen driving in the park the evening of December 11, was partially cleared up Sunday by the discovery of his body floating in the Schuylkill river. The body was thoroughly identified by relatives of the dead man, and the only element of obscurity still remaining in the tragedy is the manner in which Mr. Ditman came to his death. There was nothing about the bedraggled corpse to throw any light upon this point. A diamond pin and watch and chain were found on the body.

NATURAL GAS.

An Explosion at Columbus, O., Kills Six Persons.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—Six people were killed and thirty more or less injured by a terrific explosion of natural gas in Noble alley last evening. The names of the identified dead are: Charles Bech, a barber; Frank Seymour, a colored boy; Mrs. P. Merrotte, her body was taken from the cellar; — Berry, an infant. Two others are dead, but have not yet been identified. The explosion, as near as can be ascertained, resulted from an accumulation of natural gas in the cellar of the house occupied by Michael Bowers and Peter Merrotte. Two buildings were blown to atoms.

Ames, the Paper-Maker, Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 25.—John Ames, one of the original paper-makers of this country, was found dead in bed at his home in this city yesterday morning. He was born September 2, 1800, and was a junior partner in the famous firm of D. & J. Ames, paper manufacturers, who flourished here fifty years ago. The father of these brothers, David Ames, was the first superintendent of the United States armory and was appointed by President Washington. He served nine years and then started a paper-mill which his sons later carried on.

The Dead-Lock Broken.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 28.—The deadlock in the House of Representatives was broken yesterday, a compromise being effected by which Henry S. Wilcox (Rep.) was chosen temporary clerk and L. D. Hotchkiss (Dem.) speaker, the minor offices being equally divided. This does not affect the question of permanent organization.

Death of a Noted Organ Manufacturer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Riley Burdett, manufacturer of the celebrated organ which bears his name, died at his residence in this city Sunday, January 26, aged 71. Mr. Burdett was known in every civilized country and in every town great and small in the United States by his musical instruments.

Heavy Failure in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—J. B. Lalande, a prominent cotton merchant here, has failed and made a cession of his property. His assets are $442,238; liabilities, $596,402. The cause of the failure was slowness in collections.

Skipped to Canada.

ROUNDTON, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Snyder Lockwood, who confessed to a series of forgeries aggregating $30,000 when sick about a week ago, has mysteriously disappeared. He is believed to have gone to Canada.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Emperor William's thirty-second birthday was quietly celebrated yesterday. Owing to the recent death of the Dowager Empress Augusta there were no public festivities.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

A Man Lives for Eighteen Months with a Bullet in His Brain.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 27.—Martin Reistad died here Friday night and an autopsy revealed a 32-caliber bullet in his brain. During the last Presidential campaign Reistad and Charles Adams had a friendly scuffle on a train while returning from a Bloomington rally, and Adams fell from the cars, receiving injuries which nearly proved fatal. The next morning Reistad was found in the lumber-yard region dazed and with a bleeding head. It was said at the time that he had been attacked in his store, but it is now believed that he at that time attempted to kill himself in his fright over the train affair and then shot the bullet into his head. If so, he had lived a year and a half with a piece of lead imbedded in his brain.

The Rose Hill Accident.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The verdict of the coroner's jury that investigated the accident at Rose Hill, on the Northwestern railroad, by which Mr. and Mrs. Fred Payne, Mrs. William Repregal and Simon Anderson were killed, divided the responsibility between the driver of the carriage, the cemetery and the railroad company, and exonerated the engineer, E. J. Mahoney, from all blame.

A Double Tragedy.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—A double tragedy occurred at 219 North Center avenue about noon yesterday. Nicholas Meyer, living at the above number, murdered his pretty young wife and then killed himself. The weapon used was a revolver, and after firing the fatal bullet into his wife's head he sent a bullet into his own brain. It is said that jealousy was the cause of the murder and suicide.

Death of an Old Settler.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 27.—A leading man in the history of the Canadian Northwest died Sunday aged 76. He was Captain William Kennedy, a Hudson Bay Company officer, who was prominently identified forty years ago with the search for Sir John Franklin, leading some three or four overland expeditions, and giving his name to Kennedy island in the polar seas.

Stole Over $40,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Postmaster Van Cott spent almost the entire day conducting his investigation into the accounts of George B. Lounsbury, late cashier of the post-office here, who committed suicide at his home when he was about to be arrested for his defalcation. The amount of his thefts, it is now stated, will come between $40,000 and $45,000.

Hanged.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 25.—Green Braxton (colored) was hanged here Friday for the murder of Lewis Pugh, an aged white farmer, of this county, last May. The drop fell prematurely, and Deputy Sheriff Charles Parker fell with Braxton and was painfully hurt by contact with the iron flooring. Braxton died of strangulation.

Kansas' State Treasurer Resigns.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 25.—James W. Hamilton handed in his resignation as State Treasurer to Governor Humphrey Friday. Hamilton has been appointed general live-stock agent of the Santa Fe.

HOWLING WINDS.

They Whistle Wildly in the Rockies and Vicinity.

Railway Trains Blown from the Track and Passengers Badly Injured—Houses and Trees Blown Down—Great Damage Done.

A FURIOUS GALE. DENVER, Col., Jan. 27.—Travelers in the Rockies have had an experience that will last them a lifetime. For four days a wind-storm of unparalleled violence has swept the mountain sides and howled down the narrow canyons with a force that has denuded the steep hillsides of stately trees that had withstood the storms of centuries. The devastation is incalculable, as the ruin laid bare an area of 200 miles long by 170 wide.

The wind struck Manitou Springs with awful force about noon Saturday and in an instant a large number of buildings were in ruins. Houses were lifted from their foundations like so many straws and dashed to pieces. Scarcely a building of any considerable size in the town escaped some damage. Thousands of shade trees were also broken off, sidewalks caught up and thrown against houses and stores and chimneys toppled over by the hundred.

A Rio Grande passenger train was blown from the track at Monument Station Saturday evening, and two coaches and a sleeper immediately took fire, and for a few minutes it looked as though twenty of the passengers imprisoned would be burned to death. The hurricane fanned the flames to a furnace, but by heroic efforts the trainmen succeeded in extinguishing the fire before any person was burned. Among the passengers injured is Assistant General Freight Agent Zimmerman, of the Rio Grande. Twelve others were also wounded, but it is believed but one of them will die of his injuries.

A freight train on the Colorado Central, when near Berthland, ran into a sand drift which the hurricane had blown into the cut. The engine and four cars were wrecked, Engineer John French and Fireman Richmond fatally injured, two brakemen wounded and a lot of valuable freight destroyed. Fire broke out in the wreck, but was extinguished after a hard fight.

North of Denver reports of the storm show great damage. Louisville, the center of the Northern Colorado coal fields, sustained much damage in the upper works of the mines and many dwellings have been wrecked.

FLOODS IN CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—The warm rains that have fallen in Northern California for the last two days have melted a large amount of snow in the Sierra Nevada and Siskiyou mountains and caused streams and rivers to overflow their banks. At the city of San Jose the water is higher than ever before known. Santa Clara's principal thoroughfare is covered with water for half a mile. The district north and south of San Jose is flooded. At Chico the Sacramento river is over its banks and flooding the entire country. The water stands from five to six feet deep over 2,000 acres of land in Russian river valley. From Geyserville to Heraldburg, a distance of eight miles, is a vast sea of water.

NELLIE BLY WINS.

She Completes the Circuit of the Globe in Seventy-Two Days.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The train with Nellie Bly aboard reached this city at 3:51:28 p. m. Saturday. Cannons were fired in Battery Park and at Fort Green Park in honor of the event. Miss Bly left New York November 14 at 9:40:30 a. m. She made the complete circuit of the globe, therefore, in seventy-two days, six hours, ten minutes and fifty-eight seconds.

Miss Bisland, who attempted to beat Miss Bly and made her tour in precisely the opposite direction, is on board the Bothnia, which is not expected to reach port until Tuesday morning at the earliest, so that Nellie is an easy winner.

Death of William Bros.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Ex-Lieutenant-Governor William Bros, one of the largest stockholders in the Chicago Tribune and president of the company, died at 10:30 o'clock Monday night after an illness of five days. He was 76 years old and had been a sufferer from diabetes during the last ten years. Mr. Bros has long been associated with Joseph Medill on the Chicago Tribune and was one of its chief editorial writers for many years.

Adam Forepaugh Buried.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—The funeral of Adam Forepaugh occurred from his residence, No. 1612 Green street, yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Latimer read the Protestant Episcopal burial service, after which the casket was closed and the funeral proceeded to Laurel Hill. A great throng of friends followed the remains to the cemetery.

Rough Weather Abroad.

VIENNA, Jan. 25.—A terrible snow-storm prevails throughout Middle Austria and Bohemia. Traffic is suspended and much damage being done.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—A hurricane swept over many parts of Germany Friday, destroying houses and doing great damage.

A Substitute for Wool.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 24.—A mill operator of this city has succeeded in cording, spinning and weaving the product of the Chinese rama plant, a feat which has been thought to be impossible by operators who were looking for a substitute for wool.

Five Men Killed.

CAMP HILL, Ala., Jan. 27.—In a railroad collision here on Saturday on the Savannah & Western railway two engineers, one fireman and two train hands were killed and others were wounded. This was the twenty-third wreck on that road in three weeks.

Surfrage in Spain.

MADRID, Jan. 25.—By a vote of 141 to 81 the Chamber of Deputies has passed a bill granting the right of surfrage to all male persons of Spanish birth of and above 25 years.

"Once a knave, always a knave," does not go any more. The revised version is: "Once a knave, now a jack."

Piles! Piles! Piles! JOLIET, Ill.

I purchased a box of your Red Clover Pile Ointment of F. P. Goliday, at this place, after using various other ointments without effect. I used several applications of Red Clover Ointment and have not had any trouble since. I now believe I am permanently cured. My case was not one of the worst, but I suffered with them over a year, and bled so much I became greatly reduced in flesh. Your ointment acted miraculously, and I am only too glad to speak to the many sufferers of this painful disease. If it cures all who use it as quickly as it did me, you will sell a great deal of it. But I am convinced your Pile Ointment was made to cure, and not like many others I have tested, to defraud. It is a pleasure to me to say, the Red Clover Pile Ointment has been a priceless blessing to me and I know it will prove such to others who will try it. Respectfully,

I. V. PARK. To J. M. Loose Red Clover Co., Detroit, Mich. For sale by Eberbach & Son.

It is Foolish To send for the doctor every time you don't feel just right. My doctor's bill for years was over one hundred dollars a year, which made a pretty big hole in my wages. For the past two years, I only spent ten dollars, with which I bought a dozen bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and health has been in my family since using them. Robert Johnson, Machinist.

Blair Says It's All Right. Mr. S. O. Blair, Chicago, says: "We could not keep house without your 'Clarke's Extract of Flax Skin Cure and Cough Cure. We have used both for numerous troubles, especially for our child. We recommend the Cough Cure to every family having children. We used it for Whooping Cough with remarkably quick and satisfactory results, and use it for any and every cough the family may have." Only one size, large bottle. Price $1.00. The Detroit Journal is authority for the statement that many Detroit ladies who are occasionally obliged to be out after dark have taken to carrying concealed deadly weapons, in order to protect themselves from insults on the streets. This is a deplorable state of affairs. It is, however, not especially peculiar to Detroit. Not a few Ann Arbor ladies have adopted the same plan for self protection, so that unless the villains who are in the habit of insulting ladies on the streets do not desist we may expect some of them to be suddenly taken off one of these days.

MESSES. George P. Rowell & Co., of New York City, who conduct one of the most judicious advertising agencies in the world, have just sent out "A List of Preferred Newspapers," which are especially recommended by them to advertisers. THE REGISTER is the only Ann Arbor paper on the list. Evidently they have had good returns from the ads which they have placed in this paper. The good words we are continually receiving from our local advertisers confirms the above. This is only another proof that THE REGISTER reaches a large majority of the better class of people of this community, just the people whom enterprising business men wish to reach.

THE Students' Lecture Association is to be congratulated upon its success so far this year. The best entertainment, however, is to come next Saturday night, when Mr. George Kennan will speak upon "An East Siberian Convict Mine." Mr. Kennan's subject, and his way of telling what he knows about it, makes him one of the most interesting speakers before the American public to-day. After hearing his lecture next Saturday night we shall all wonder more than ever that such barbarism can be tolerated by even a so-called uncivilized nation, and will feel more lenient towards the nihilists who would overthrow the tyrants at the head of such a government.

LET any one experience an ordinary attack of the grip, that is prevailing so extensively in Europe and this country, and in one point at least he will ever afterwards be a radical protectionist. He will insist that a tariff without limit as to dimensions be placed on all the grips, Russian influenza and other maladies the people of Europe are accustomed to invent, if that will have any effect in depriving us of their unsought for acquaintance. The anatomical enumeration of the number of bones and muscles and sinews and other parts of the human body, sometimes seems rather large to the wearied student, but when he is having a touch of the grip he is willing to admit that "the half has not been told," and that every one of these bones, muscles, etc., is subject to the "jumping toothache."

WHEN Mr. Ingersoll spoke at Albany a few days ago upon criminal reform, he omitted, as usual, some of the most important features of the subject with which he was dealing. It is his usual way of treating facts which do not harmonize with his preconceived ideas. It is absurd to argue that the method of treating criminals in the United States deficient though it doubtless is in many respects, is wholly responsible for increasing so many times the number of criminals in proportion to the population. If Mr. Ingersoll will look into our immigration statistics and study the class of people who are flocking to our country, and note also that the criminal class in the countries which are sending us the most people is rapidly decreasing, he might be able to appreciate how ridiculous his statements appear to people who understand the subject. He would do his country better service if he would use his influence against allowing the old world to make the United States a dumping ground for its paupers and criminals.

The favorite theory of the free traders, that the protective tariff keeps the American manufacturer out of "the markets of the world," is shown to have no foundation when the facts in the case are produced. During the eleven months prior to December, 1889, our exports of agricultural implements of all kinds amounted in value to $4,018,458, and our exports of iron and steel and their various manufactures amounted to $21,098,055. In the corresponding period for 1888 we exported $2,634,412 worth of agricultural implements, and our total exports of iron, steel, and articles manufactured from iron and steel were $17,850,958 in value. Thus the increase of our exports of goods of this sort amounted in one year to $4,631,143. We exported to England alone in the first eleven months of 1889 $434,982 worth of agricultural implements, $845,145 worth of sewing machines and $1,485,389 worth of steam engines and other machinery. With what fallacious reasoning can the free traders cover up the argument of these facts.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

The Duchess of Rutland is one of the most active women in England.

Lady Margaret Byng has invented a butter tub with a wooden hand for making butter.

Mlle. Popelin, the accomplished young Belgian lawyer, has a sister who is a successful pharmacist.

The Duchess of Rutland is becoming almost as busy an orator and public person as a cabinet minister.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe is now 77 years of age. She was born in Litchfield, Conn., June 14, 1812.

Lady Idine Neville, the bride of the late Lady Brassey's son, is an enthusiastic cricketer, and selected cricket costumes for her bridesmaids.

Mrs. Cleveland's wedding present to Mrs. Bayard was a beautiful Pompeian vase. All the families of the Cleveland cabinet sent gifts to the bride.

Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, the popular story writer of a generation ago, is living in Milton, Mass. She is a daughter of Enoch Train, an old ship owner of Boston.

Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, says his daughter is about as skilled in the law as he is; she acts as his amanuensis and advises with him when doubtful legal points arise.

Mrs. Thomas C. Platt, wife of ex-Senator Platt, is an enthusiastic amateur photographer. She is said to be the best lady artist in the country, and has taken some pictures that would do credit to many professionals.

One of the three American sculptors who received honorable mention at the Paris exposition this year was Miss Theo Alice Ruggles, daughter of Mr. C. W. Ruggles, of Brookline, Mass. She is only 18 years of age.

Ida Stowell is one of the most successful real estate agents in St. Paul, and recently sold one lot for $150,000. She was originally a school teacher, and made her first purchase with what she had saved from her meager salary.

Elizabeth Thompson is perhaps the best known woman philanthropist in America. There is no good work in which she is not interested, and her money and time have always been given for the benefitting of humanity.

Mrs. Harrison keeps three scrap books, in which she pastes all the newspaper references to the Harrison, Scott and McKee families. An entire page is devoted to Baby Benjamin, in which poets, editors, paragraphs and correspondents extol his infantile charms.

Baroness von Glumer, who was in her youth Miss Frances Bartlett, daughter of United States Naval Commander Bartlett, and married a wealthy Cuban planter, who died years ago, now lives with her second husband near the City of Mexico, and writes in one of the leading daily papers in the Mexican capital.

SOME ENGLISHMEN'S COLLARS.

William Harcourt's collars are a mere strip of linen turned down all around, about 1 1/2 inches deep. His size is 19.

The Duke of Portland wears a high, stand up all-round collar 2 1/2 inches high, and he takes 17s.

The Prince of Wales's collars are made specially for him in Paris. He takes a large size in a shirt, a collar of moderate height.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

They Meet at Grand Rapids and Elect Officers for the Year.

The fortieth grand convocation of the Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons of Michigan met at Grand Rapids recently with about 400 delegates present, representing 200 chapters. There are about 10,000 members of the chapter in the State and the treasury contains $8,000 cash. The following officers were elected: M. I. G. M., Travers Phillips, of Hastings; D. I. G. M., Marcus D. Elliott, of Holly; G. P. C. of W., Charles Bagg, of Detroit; Treasurer, H. Shaw Noble, of Monroe; Recorder, Garra B. Noble, of Detroit; Chaplain, Rev. Francis A. Blades, of Detroit; G. C. of G., Henry E. Hatch, of Lapeer; G. C. of C., Frank N. Clark, of Northville; Steward, P. F. Degraff, of Charlotte; Sentinel, Alexander McGregor, of Detroit.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the State Board of Health by fifty-six observers in different parts of the State for the week ended on the 18th indicated that whooping cough, diarrhea, tonsillitis, remittent fever, membranous croup and pneumonia increased, and that scarlet fever, puerperal fever, diphtheria and cerebro-spinal meningitis decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at twenty places, scarlet fever at nineteen, typhoid fever at nineteen and measles at twenty-eight places.

Look Out for Them.

Agents are now traveling through the State selling what they call certificates of membership to the National Union Association, whereby farmers are enabled to purchase wagons, carriages and farm machinery at manufacturers' rates. It is not necessary to say, says the Lansing Republican, that they are rank frauds, and that the quicker the farmers find it out the better off they will be.

The Offices Filled.

The Western Michigan offices were filled the other day by President Harrison. Lewis G. Palmer was made district attorney and James R. Clark marshal. Mr. Palmer is a lawyer living at Big Rapids. He is now serving his second term in the State Senate. Mr. Clark is an active Republican and a leader in the party. Both men were recommended by Senator Stockbridge.

The Best in the World.

J. P. Andrews, of Marquette, is now in Europe in the interests of upper peninsula verde-antique marble. He claims the company that he has compared the Michigan mineral with the best in the old world, and that they had nothing to fear, as theirs is the best in the world, and the largest deposit. He claims they will soon lead the world.

Death of a Noted Lawyer.

Judge S. T. Holmes died at midnight in Bay City recently of general collapse, aged 75 years. He was Congressman from the Twenty-second New York district in 1865, and afterward the partner of Roscoe Conkling. He removed to Bay City in 1873, and while there was one of the foremost lawyers and citizens.

Short but Newsy Items.

Port Huron is organizing a toilet-soap factory which is to have a stock of $50,000.

Stickney & Co.'s drug-store at Garven was robbed the other night of five hundred cigars, ten gallons of rum and five gallons of communion wine.

Stephen Beach, a workman of Port Huron, was struck and killed by a train the other morning near Pine Grove. He leaves a widow and child.

The manager of the Wayland cheese factory, Clyde Williams, has gone on a Western trip, taking over $1,000 of the company's cash with him.

The body of Adrien Monfils, who had been missing from his home in Detroit since last November, was found recently in the river there.

Copemish has been made a post-office and F. W. Clark, a one-legged veteran, the postmaster.

The "Soo" boom is evidently not so dead as some people believe, as over $1,000,000 worth of new buildings is the record for last year.

Jere Laughlin, the Escanaba highwayman, was sentenced the other day by Judge Steere to ten years hard labor in the Marquette prison.

Samuel Markley, a pioneer, hanged himself in a corn-crib near Gobles the other day.

A Capac doctor walks an average of fifteen miles a day, and never complains of the weather.

It will take fifty men about two months to take down the ore dock at St. Ignace and remove it to Marquette.

Three bears were shot near Omer within the last few days. Bears are valuable as these three sold for $25 each.

Samuel Markille, of Almira township, Benzie County, committed suicide the other morning by hanging himself in his barn.

Henry Frens, aged 40 years, a farmer residing near Holland, was fatally injured recently by falling off a load of straw.

Flint Patrons of Industry intend to have a fine store there if every thing goes right.

Manistee harbor has been supplied with a fog-horn.

Two Michigan pioneers died at Rochester the other day, William Fisher, aged 86 years, and Roswell Bromley, aged 79 years.

Morenci school-teachers have to make the fires and sweep the school-room floors.

Jansen & Co.'s furniture store at Bessemer was burned the other morning. Loss, $8,000; partially covered by insurance.

The Central school building at Coldwater was burned the other night. Loss, $40,000.

Governor Luce has appointed Frank Shepherd, of Cheboygan, a member of the board of control of the State house of correction and branch of the State prison in the upper peninsula at Marquette, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Edwin Z. Perkins.

TO CLOSE THEM OUT

We'll Give You the Advantage.

TWO NEW PIANOS AND FOUR ORGANS AT COST.

We have made contracts with certain Piano Manufacturers to sell our Organs, we selling their Pianos. This exchange system enables us to buy lower than we otherwise could do.

We have in stock two Pianos, the manufacturers of which are also makers of, or interested in, the manufacture of Reed Organs. With these firms, therefore, we could not make similar contracts, and shall close out the following Pianos of these manufacturers at any price above actual cost, to enable us to use the money in different directions.

ONE KRANICH & BACH CABINET GRAND PIANO, Style E, 7 1/2 octaves, Ebonized Case; round corners; fancy carved moldings; patent metal action rail; repeating action; new swinging desk; new nickel-plated continuous hinge; height, 4 feet 9 1/2 inches; width, 5 feet 5 inches.

The instruments of this company are well known, having been manufactured since 1864, and possessing some of the most valuable patents known in Piano manufacture, being thoroughly reliable, of easy touch, and of most excellent wearing qualities, and used by many of the most prominent artists.

We ask your examination of this Piano and an inspection of catalogues, testimonials, etc., as we will make it an object in price to any intending purchaser.

Also ONE KIMBALL, Style 4, (7 1/2 octaves, 3 string and agraffe. Handsome case, with patent rolling fall board and new design trusses). Manufactured by the well known Kimball Piano, Organ and Manufacturing Co., being one of the largest manufacturers of Reed Organs in the world. This Piano has received the endorsements of some of the most prominent artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company, by whom it was used during the engagement of this company in the series of German Operas given in Chicago during the past year.

We will sell, also, TWO 5-OCTAVE ESTEY ORGANS, ONE 6-OCTAVE ESTEY ORGAN and ONE 6-OCTAVE Chicago Cottage Organ, at equally low rates.

This offer is no bluff or loud talk. Our company has the reputation of doing as they agree. We shall drop this line of goods, for the reason mentioned, and if you want a Piano or Organ, you will never have a better chance to buy such standard instruments for so little money. Not one of the instruments has ever been rented, sold or used, and we wish it understood that they are not second hand instruments, (although we have a large number of this class of instruments which we are able to show customers desiring them.)

If you are interested, call early, as the first one paying us enough to enable us to get out whole, will get these instruments.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Mr. ALVIN WILSEY, Dear Sir:

We purchased our Boardman and Gray Upright Piano of you about six years ago. It has never been tuned, never been out of order. No piano could do better.

Yours truly,

Tom. E. Nickels.

Ann Arbor, Aug. 1st, 1889.

From Prof. Francis L. York, of the Ann Arbor School of Music, and Organist at the Church of Our Father, Detroit, Mich.:

ALVIN WILSEY, Esq., Dear Sir:

The Boardman & Gray Upright Piano that I purchased of you five years ago has been in almost constant use, much more so than is usual. It wears like iron, and stands in tune remarkably. The B. and G. is a very reliable piano.

Francis L. York.

Ann Arbor, March 7th, '89.

The Boardman & Gray stands unrivaled in the essentials of a first-class piano.

SQUIRREL.

CONTINUED

He seemed to have got beautiful foothold on a brick or two, when he suddenly slipped. Down went one leg, but not down the chimney, down the other side somehow. Preserving his balance with difficulty, Squirrel rubbed his dusty eyes with his grimy hand and peered about him.

Only faint murky light struggled to his aid, but he could just discern something remarkably odd. An opening there was on the left side of the chimney, not more than two feet square, and the cavity beyond must be of some size, for as the lad inquisitively poked his leg about, it came in contact with no other wall. Whatever could this place be? A bricked up cupboard perhaps; a hiding hole for cavaliers, priests, Jacobites, what not?

Cyril's spirit of adventure rose within him. In for a penny, in for a pound. He'd through that hole and possibly ferret out the secrets of centuries. So through he went, feet foremost this time, and easily enough, for what felt like brick steps assisted his descent into a space which, by faintest light and much patting around, he discovered to be a small chamber matching in size Aunt Pleasance's sanctum the other side of the fireplace.

Here was an exciting find! How pleased old auntie would have been to know it. How Olive would have liked it if they had been stopping at the Grange. As for that surly Mr. Westbrook, though, he should never hear of this romantic den. Cyril only wished it might be full of ghosts that would come out and scare him if ever he lived at the place. But ghosts in it were neither tangible nor visible now. After ever so long of stealthy creeping and feeling throughout its length and breadth, Cyril could find nothing but ancient cobwebs and layers of dust and debris, a wooden something, narrow table or shelf, a lock of fastening, and—

At that point of investigation the boy was startled by sounds that appeared strangely close, being, in fact, as he soon remembered, in the adjacent library. Some one spoke. It was that nice fellow Foster, and his words were:

"Now, Cyril, my lad, if you'll just say to Mr. Westbrook—why, how's this? I can't see him. Cyril! Where's he vanished to?"

"Jumped out of the window. I'll warrant," rasped forth another voice (the enemy's!) "Expected a thrashing if he did not eat humble pie, and, by George, he should have it, too, if I'd my way." (Cyril tingled with wrath to the tips of his toes.)

"I don't see how he could jump out here without hurting himself," was the anxious answer back from the window way. "I do hope the boy is safe. His sister—"

"There, there," snarled the other gentleman. "Don't trouble yourself to make a fuss over the young sneak"—(Cyril clenched his dirty little fist and almost wished he had not started on this chimney expedition)—"the men about the grounds must look out for him, and I'll rate him soundly when we catch him. Now I'm going to look over, h'm—h'm—my farms. I wish you good day, Mr. Foster. If you will make it convenient to be here by 10 to-morrow we'll meet in this room and can begin to wind up matters."

"Then, Miss Ferrers"—

"Appears," with a grunt, "to desire perfect independence, sir. She can have it if she chooses. So much the better for my pocket. She gives her final decision in the morning. Good afternoon."

A heavy step left the library, crossed the hall and slammed the front door. Every sound echoed in Cyril's drum like retreat.

John Foster seemed to be staying behind. Cyril heard him give a sigh that was half a groan. He was a regular good chap. The boy had half a mind to tap on the thin panel which divided them, and tell him so, but another entrance checked him. It was Olive this time.

"Oh, Mr. Foster," she began, "did Cyril—where is he, please? Has Mr. Westbrook let him out?"

"No, he let himself out, I fancy, by the window," was the response. "I'll hunt him up before I leave. We shall find him all right. But, Miss Ferrers—can you? Will you look on me just as your man of business, as if I were my father, in fact? Will you tell me what Mr. Westbrook has offered in lieu of what every one expected you and your brother and sister would have?"

Cyril strained his ears. Olive appeared to hesitate, then broke out passionately: "What he has offered! A pittance, Mr. Foster, that might, I suppose, just keep us from starving, but which I must verily begin to starve before I would accept on his terms! I am to make Cyril beg his pardon, and then, perhaps, only perhaps, he will get him an office boy's place with one of his partners at Bristol. And to Helen and me he offers fifty pounds a year; enough, he says, for us to live on in lodgings, with Cyril's wages to help! Mr. Foster, beggars must not be choosers, but I think I would rather die than touch a penny from Mr. Westbrook."

"But, my dear—dear Miss Ferrers, what is to be done? Whom else, what else have you to turn to?"

"No one, nothing, or next to nothing. But, Mr. Foster, Cyril has something; nearly two hundred pounds, I think, a godmother left him. Now surely I can send him to some school with that, and I know when he's a little older he will work like a man to help me and Helen." ("Won't I too?" murmured the sooty one.) "As for me, I will find some school where they will let me teach and Helen can live there for my pay. It's only for her sake I—feel—it—hard."

Mr. Foster seemed to walk up and down in agitation, then shut the library door and halted.

"Miss Ferrers, your plan, your determination are worthy of you. But one thing fails you. Your brother's money cannot, I know, be touched till he is of age."

"Then—oh what shall we do?"

"This let me advance a couple of hundred, lend it, give it to you. Oh wait a moment! Let me tell you what no one on earth should have known if you'd been rich and prosperous. I have seen you so often, and so much, I could no more help loving you than I could help living! I don't know about family, and ancestors, and so forth; I only know my father's name has been an honored one for fifty years, and, please God, I'll do nothing to sully it, and if you'll share it with me, your brother and your sister shall be mine, and you shall never know a care that I can shield you from! What, what will you say?"

Cyril could hear Olive sobbing. He very nearly committed himself by an audible accompaniment. ("John Foster, you're a Trojan," said he softly. "If Olive will have you, I'll give you Toots for a wedding present; but, now then, hark!")

"I can't, I can't say 'Yes,' Olive flared; "it would be wicked of me."

"I can't, I can't say 'Yes.'"

"Ah, you don't care for me! You think me presumptuous."

"Presumptuous! Mr. Foster, Aunt Pleasance always said you were far too good to be just a lawyer."

"And you, you yourself?"

"I—liked—you always."

"Thought as much," chuckled Squirrel. "She always colored up when that you man came."

"But," rapturously, "can you ever love me?"

"I—think—I—can."

"Olive, my dearest."

(Then ensued some seconds over which Cyril positively blushed. Love ecstasies are utterly preposterous to extreme youth.)

"But now," said Olive presently, in such a changed voice, "you must never feel you took me, took us, out of pity. You must be very certain of your own mind before you tie yourself to us penniless people."

"I can never be more certain than now, my Olive."

"Ah! but you shall have time to think about it. If only you will send Cyril somewhere, that much I will freely take of you. You shall pay yourself by and by. But for one year I mean to work for Helen as I said. Then if you still want me—"

From that part of her project she was immovable. So, with satisfaction enough in his heart to tide him over even a twelvemonth's waiting, the young man parted from his new gained love.

Cyril had to blush again in the dark over the lovers' farewells, and then when his solitude was silent once more, he set about thinking how to get out of confinement.

For reasons of his own a twenty-foot higher climb was not desirable. Therefore with extreme care he regained the aperture by which he had entered, slowly lowered himself to the bars of the grate, squatted there like an imp, taking off his tell tale shoes, listened to find the coast clear, then warily slipped off to his own room, bolted himself in and spent an hour to such purpose that when at last he made his way down stairs no trace of his sweep's exploit was left upon him.

The two girls' anxious questions as to his mode of exit from his prison Cyril contrived to parry. Mr. Westbrook's high and mighty scowls at the dinner table bore with exemplary meekness. When his sisters both implored him to behave discreetly at the next morning's conclave in the library, to which Mr. Westbrook all but ordered the trio, he promised faithfully to keep his temper, come what might, and sedulously patted Toots' sleek head to conceal the twinkle in his eye when Olive added, as herald of great glad tidings:

"For things may, after all, turn out better than they will sound, dear Squirrel."

Ten o'clock the next morning found the Grange party and John Foster assembling in the appointed room, Mr. Westbrook swelling with arrogant importance, which Olive might have found bad to bear, had not a glance between her lawyer and herself given her a delicious sense of happy strength.

"Ah—h'm," rasped out Mr. Westbrook, seating himself in the heavy oak chair that stood at one end of the old turkey hearth rug. "Ah—h'm, I see that boy is not here; but he is of no consequence whatever, so we need not wait. As it is very evident my late respected aunt" (his tone implied capital letters to her honor, now he had come into her money) "has died intestate, I feel the time has come when, as her heir" (honor requested for himself this time) "I take natural possession of her entire property. I feel it is my right, so I shall not make any bones about doing it. As I intend shutting the house up for the summer, the first thing to do is to get rid of the servants. Miss Helen, ring the bell."

Bond, appearing in answer, was desired to fetch up all the domestics. Seven filing in, headed by the gray haired housekeeper, every one of them was summarily dismissed with the noble douceur of a month's wages. Bond had been servant of the Westbrooks nigh forty years; the housekeeper but little less; the rest were no strangers in the place.

"Now to proceed," said Westbrook. "The tenants of my farms, Mr. Foster, must have notice to quit at Michaelmas or renew their leases at higher rents."

"But, sir, rents are falling about here; three of your tenants have been on the land, father to son, for generations. They are good farmers and I am afraid they would look on such notices as rather unfair."

"Then let 'em and be hanged to 'em," cried the new landlord. "I daresay you and they find it pleasant to work the property between you. You tickle me, Toby, I'll tickle you," style of thing, eh? But I'm neither a fool nor a woman. I shall put the screw on where I choose; you can be my man if you like, Mr. Foster; if not there are other lawyers in Crouchester, I suppose."

"There are, sir, and you'd better select one," said the young man quietly. "My father and grandfather before him managed this property to the satisfaction of that gentleman"—indicating the blue coated squire left of the fireplace—"and of his daughter for three-quarters of a century, but for myself I now beg to resign the office of your solicitor."

"Well done," cried Mr. Westbrook, sharply. "I don't know which of you young ladies remarked 'Well done,' to this high falutin' speech, but allow me to say, while you are eating the bread of charity under my roof, I consider the words an impertinence."

"I never said 'Well done,'" exclaimed Olive, turning scarlet.

"Nor I," said Helen timidly.

"If I'd time to waste on the matter," said Mr. Westbrook, incredulously, "I should insist on your withdrawing the words; but I've not. I merely beg to inform you now that the fifty pounds a year I offered to you is not to be looked upon in the light of a pension. It is purely a matter of charity, which I continue or suspend as circumstances direct. I must request that you be ready to leave the Grange on Saturday next. As for your brother, on reconsideration, I decline to have anything to do with him. You or"—sneering—"Mr. Foster perhaps must look about and find him a home."

"Much obliged, sir, but he has got one," said a voice that seemed to issue from the back of Mr. Westbrook's chair.

"What the devil is that?" cried the gentleman, starting up, and Toots, who had got in as the servants went out, and had been uneasily smelling about in all directions, now bolted with yelps of joy towards the fireside bookcase.

"It was Squirrel speaking," cried Helen. "But he's not here," exclaimed Olive.

"Yes, he is," returned the semi-ghostly tone, quite cheerfully, and the long piece of oak paneling on which hung old Geoffrey Westbrook's portrait swung slowly forward, disclosing the soot smirched countenance of Master Cyril, holding in his arms a black tin case, marked with Miss Pleasance Westbrook's name in white letters.

"It's her will," he cried exultingly. "I went up the chimney yesterday, to get out of Mr. Westbrook's clutches, and slipped in here and found it all by chance. And I knew Aunt Pleasance could not have got up the chimney, so I came up again today and brought some matches with me, and found this little door out. Auntie knew about it, of course, and hid the old parchment up here I suppose. Take it, please, Mr. Foster. I've read it all through. Mr. Westbrook's got the family plate, because she wished it to go with the name, and we've got all the rest. Thank you, Mr. Westbrook, for locking me up yesterday. I'm very much obliged to you. We should never have found Aunt Plea's will if you hadn't been so savage with me for nothing!"

THE END.

PHOTOGRAPHIC NOTES.

One of the most remarkable feats of photography on record is the photographing the terrible explosion at Antwerp, of, if not the explosion, the immense cloud of smoke produced at the moment.

Pieces of money, medals, cameos and any small objects in relief can best be photographed if they are illuminated by the light of a good lamp or by gas, and the photograph has better plasticity than if done in the glass gallery, where it is difficult to close the light off.

A French paper proposes, in time of war, to make carrier pigeons photograph tracts of country by attaching to them miniature cameras, in which the thin spool of sensitized paper shall unwind and be exposed as they fly over the country. The pictures can afterward be enlarged.

When it is desired to intensify only certain portions of a negative the parts which do not need touching may be painted over with a solution of India rubber and benzine, which renders them impervious to the intensifying solution. When dry the waterproof covering may easily be rubbed off with the fingers.

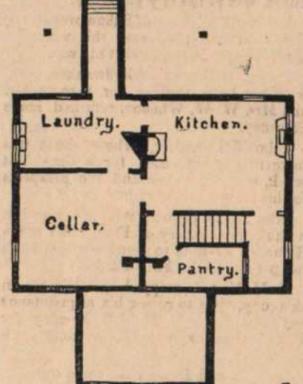

A TAZEVELL, VA., HOME.

Plans and View of a Pretty House Costing About $2,000.

From American Architecture, an excellent book for intending home makers, by Palliser, Palliser & Co., and published by J. S. Ogilvie, New York, are taken the following plans and view of the residence of Mr. R. R. Henry, of Tazewell, Va. The letter press accompanying the plans is as follows:

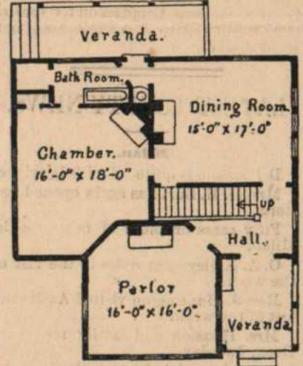

This cottage is of a form that is compact and in every way available; the rooms are large, have high ceilings and at the same time afford every convenience in their arrangement, making them desirable for a family of refined tastes and moderate means. It is built of wood, though in favorable localities it would be better still of stone or brick, and, if suitably surrounded with tasteful landscape embellishments, will make a snug, pretty and attractive home. One can, by the exercise of appropriate taste, produce the right kind of impression in a house of this character. It should become a part of and belong to the acres which surround it; it should be an indispensable accessory to the place itself, and the grounds should be laid out and embellished in such a manner that the whole combination impresses one with harmonious beauty and not, as is too often the case, seek to make up for the deficiencies in the grounds by elaborate expenditure and display about the house.

A true appreciation of a country or suburban home will not tolerate slovenly, ill kept grounds, and no house exhibits its true value unless there is a harmony in its surroundings. If this be attended to, a high degree of effect can be produced in houses of very moderate cost; houses that should be roomy, warm, substantial and in every way agreeable to their occupants.

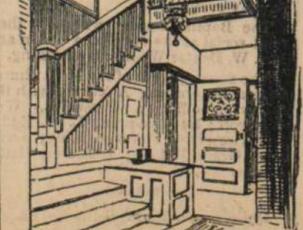

The glass throughout is common sheet without color, but the dividing up of the upper sashes gives character to the whole; the plain treatment of the exterior is more than made up by the beauty of the internal arrangements, which the plans fully explain.

This house is substantially built and contains the modern conveniences; there is no water closet, but an earth closet is provided in connection with bath room, which is preferable. Cost about $1,900.

Simple Yet Elegant.

From Building we take the accompanying view of a simple yet elegant and artistic hall. It is in the residence of Dr. W. M. Fellows,

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's Prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria. "Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. C. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass. "Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves." NATIONAL CONGRESS.

Proceedings in the Senate and House at Washington.

Bills Introduced and Passed and Resolutions Offered and Adopted—A Complete Summary of Daily Transactions.

SENATE. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to discontinue the coinage of the three-dollar and one-dollar gold pieces and three-cent nickel pieces. A number of petitions were presented praying for the passage of the Blair educational bill. Bills were passed to create the offices of Surveyor-General for the States of South Dakota and North Dakota, and granting to California five per cent. of the net proceeds of the cash sales of public lands in the State.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In the Senate yesterday a bill was reported to increase to $2,500 the pension of the widow of General Kilpatrick. A resolution for negotiations with Spain in regard to the establishment of a republic in Cuba was adversely reported. A petition was presented for the repeal of the internal revenue tax, and Senator Blair spoke on his educational bill, the measure being made a special order for February 3.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—In the Senate yesterday the credentials of W. M. Clark and Martin Maginnis as Senators-elect from the State of Montana were presented and referred. Senator Ingalls (Kan.) made a lengthy speech on the bill for providing aid for colored people who desire to emigrate to Africa, in which he argued for justice for the colored man. Adjourned to the 27th.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Hoar (Mass.) presented the resolution adopted at a mass-meeting held recently in Boston on the subject of the cruel deprivation of colored people of the right to take part in elections in some of the Southern States. Senator Cockrell (Mo.) introduced a bill to repeal the silver coinage bill of February 28, 1878, and to require the purchase and coinage of $5,000,000 a month in standard silver dollars. Mr. Walthall (La.) spoke on the race question, and said he agreed with Senator Ingalls (Kan.) that the race question was the most formidable ever presented to the free people for solution. He saw no remedy which Congress could apply that promised any practical result. He believed that arbitrary enactments could but increase the difficulty, and criticised all the proposed remedies for the race trouble (including deportation and disfranchisement) as impracticable and impossible.

HOUSE. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—In the House yesterday a bill was introduced to investigate the causes of the present depressed condition of the agricultural interests. A discussion took place over the rules, and the Oklahoma bill was further considered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In the House yesterday the Oklahoma town-site bill was passed. A bill was introduced making Des Moines, Ia., a port of delivery, and the bill for the erection of Government penitentiaries in various parts of the country was discussed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—In the House yesterday the report unseating Jackson (Dem.) from West Virginia, and declaring Smith (Rep.) entitled to the seat, was submitted. The bill making changes in the laws affecting the collection of customs occupied the remainder of the session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—In the House yesterday the customs administrative bill was further considered. The committee on invalid pensions made favorable reports on a large number of private pension bills.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—In the House Saturday the customs administrative bill was passed. A resolution was offered and referred to the committee on rules increasing the membership of the World's Fair committee from nine to thirteen and providing that that committee shall have jurisdiction over all questions relating to the fair except that as to the location.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the House yesterday the bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the erection of three United States prisons for the imprisonment of United States prisoners was passed. Bills were introduced for the appointment of a Commissioner of Immigration; prohibiting the transportation of intoxicating liquors from one State or Territory to another State or Territory in violation of the laws thereof; to pension the widows and orphans of people killed for political purposes since the close of the late war.

Ex-Warden Howard Must Pay Up. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 25.—The case of the State against Andrew J. Howard, the ex-warden of the Indiana prison south, to recover $3,400 belonging to convicts in the institution which Howard was charged with misappropriating, was decided in the circuit court Friday morning. Judgment was given against Howard and his bondsmen for $2,500.

Business Exchanges. NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The exchanges at the leading clearing-houses in the United States during the week ended on Saturday aggregated $1,101,927,943, against $1,140,890,683 the previous week. As compared with the corresponding week of 1889 the increase amounted to 7.9.

Perished at Sea. LONDON, Jan. 28.—The British ship Loch Moidart went ashore at Callantsog, Holland, and thirty of her crew were washed overboard and drowned. The British ship Janet Cowan lost five sailors in a storm off the Isle of Wight.

Death of an Old Preacher. VALPARAISO, Ind., Jan. 28.—Rev. G. M. Boyd, one of the oldest Methodist ministers of Indiana, died Sunday evening of apoplexy soon after returning from a funeral.

Three Killed by a Snow-Slide. DOWNIEVILLE, Cal., Jan. 28.—A woman, child and Chinaman were killed by a snow-slide near here Sunday.

ALLEGED HUMOR

A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW.

Small Boy—Take keer there, mister; if your gun was to go off now yer might hurt somethin'—Jolly Jumper.

Mr. Blenkins' Retort. Farmer Blenkins, whose wife, Mary Jane, is noted for never being pleased with any thing she sees or hears, seldom has a chance to administer a rebuke of her disagreeably critical habit; but one day his opportunity came, and he did not miss it.

They had been to Boston together, and on their return home one of the neighbors dropped in and began a conversation. "Ben to Boston, hev ye, Blenkins?" "Yes." "Miss' Blenkins go 'long!" "Um—hum." "How'd ye like it, Mis' Blenkins?" "Laws' sake!" snapped out Mrs. Blenkins. "Every thin' I see there was jest frightful."

"I believe ye, Mary Jane," broke in Farmer Blenkins. "Ye wa'n't doin' nothin' the whole day but stoppin' in front of lookin'-glasses!"—Youth's Companion.

Gall Needed. "I a' p'pose man in your business hasts havea gooddeca galk, dantes!" inquired a newly-initiated statesman at Washington, while in conversation with a newspaper correspondent. "Oh, yes," replied the knight of the type writer, "gall is one of the necessities of our profession. Ink would never do for a descriptive article concerning yourself, for example."

Fit for a Poor Man's Wife. Anxious mother—I am greatly surprised, my son, to find that while you were away you became engaged. I hope you have not acted hastily. Has the young lady you have selected the proper qualifications for a poor man's wife?

Adult son—Yes, indeed, mother. She's got $50,000 in her own right.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Charade too Enthusiastic. At a theatre party. "And my whole," concludes the leader of the game, "is the name of a precious stone, the first letter of which is M, and—"

"Emerald, emerald!" shouted Jones, who is present, not giving any one else, in his excitement at the discovery, a chance to speak.—Judge.

Been Waiting for It. Infant Cockroach—Mamma, what is this substance that smells so agreeably? Maternal Cockroach (rolling in it delightedly)—Insect powder, my child. They feed it to us every summer, but they're a little late this season. It came just in time. I was about to move over into the next house.—Chicago Tribune.

The Ups and Downs of Life. Tramp actor (at hotel)—Your charges are ten dollars up! Clerk—Yes, sir. T. A.—Any exceptions? Clerk—Well, in your case we'll make it ten dollars down, or git. And the T. A. got.—Harper's Bazar.

A Convincing Symptom. Millicent—Jamie, papa has given me a new watch, and it is the most bashful little creature in the world. Jamie—Bashful!

Millicent—Yes, Jamie; it holds its hands before its face all the while.—Jewelers' Weekly.

A Feminine Side Thrust. Dashaway—Why, this is indeed a surprise, Miss Summit. It must be five years since I saw you last. Indeed, I almost wonder that you recognize me.

Miss Summit—Ah, Mr. Dashaway, how could one ever forget that coat of yours.—Clothing and Furnisher.

Sure to Do Him Good. Mr. Smart (as the church-goes pass)—I'm surprised that Miss Sweet permits Bodworth to accompany her. He's about the freshest young fellow I know.

Mrs. Smart—Perhaps that's the reason why she lets him carry her psalter.—Boston Times.

A Woman's Cautionness. "Mummies are down to five dollars," Dusenberry said. "I've a notion to order one." "I wouldn't, dear," advised Mrs. Dusenberry. "It might be dead before it reached you."—Detroit Free Press.

High-Priced Servants. "My wife keeps her housekeeping accounts on the double-entry system." "How's that?" "All the money that comes in the front door goes out at the back door."—Harper's Bazar.

Why the Daughter Wondered. Mrs. Jusso—Don't say "pair of scissors," Lulu; say "scissors." Lulu—How much did they cost you, mamma? Mrs. Jusso—Fifty cents a pair, dear.—N. Y. Sun.

The Wind in a New Role. —Mrs. F.—They must have some very heavy winds in Boston. Mr. F.—Indeed they do. Mrs. F.—There is an item in the paper about a safe being blown open there.—Life.

Institute a Slow Retort. Mrs. Soak—Well, my husband is the most indigent husband a woman ever had. Mrs. Croak—Too bad, isn't it? Can't you induce him to ease off his indigent habit by degrees.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

A Mild Punishment. "Officer, what is the charge against this man?" "Yeer honor, I caught him singin' 'In the Gloaming, O my Darlin'.'" "Two years!"—Yenowine's News.

Not Much at Stake. Eastern Woman—You're married, you say? Ab, marriage is a lottery. Western Woman (calmly)—Yes; but I only hold a tenth ticket. You see, my husband's a Mormon elder.—Time.

TEMPERANCE WOMEN.

A Non-Partisan Organization Effected at the Cleveland Convention.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 24.—The non-partisan convention of lady temperance workers in session here yesterday decided that the organization should be known as "The National Crusaders." Mrs. Ellen J. Phinney, of Cleveland, was elected president, and Mrs. T. B. Walker, of Minnesota, vice-president. One section of the constitution adopted declares that no officer shall pledge the support of the organization to any political party or any religious sect. Mrs. Foster, of Iowa, presented the following pledge, which was agreed to: "I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquor, including wine and cider, and to discourage the use of and traffic in the same." An amendment providing that the words "as a beverage" be inserted after the word "cider" was adopted. The headquarters of the organization will be in this city.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 25.—The convention to organize a non-partisan temperance union met again in Music Hall Friday morning. The ladies decided that "National Crusaders" was not a good title and changed the name to "Non-Partisan Women's Christian Temperance Union." President-elect Phinney notified the convention of her acceptance of the office. Further officers were elected as follows: General Secretary, Miss F. Jennie Duty, of Cleveland; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Florence Miller, of Iowa; Financial Secretary, Miss Shortleage, of Pennsylvania; Treasurer, Mrs. C. Cornelia Alford, of Brooklyn. It was decided to pay the president and general secretary salaries of $1,200 each. About $2,500 were raised at Friday afternoon's session to help maintain the expenses of the new organization. The question of the place for holding the next annual meeting was referred to the executive committee. Mrs. M. C. Hickman, of Ohio, Mrs. General Dural, of West Virginia, and Mrs. Anna M. Edwards, of Ohio, were made National organizers. After adopting the report of the committee on resolutions the convention adjourned sine die.

MANY SAILORS DROWNED.

Unprecedented Severity of Hurricanes in Great Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The gales continued with increasing strength and velocity in the southern portion of England and in Wales Sunday. Menal Strait, in Wales, is rendered impassable by the fury of the gale. Many sailors have been swept overboard and drowned. The parade at Sand Gate is partially destroyed. The ship Irex, bound from Greenock for Rio Janeiro, was wrecked off the Needles. Several of the crew were drowned. The survivors clung to the rigging all day Saturday and part of Sunday. It was impossible to send a life-boat to the rescue, as no boat could live in the turbulent sea, but a life-line was finally shot across the vessel by means of a rocket, and in this way the men were safely landed.

The bark Janet Crown has returned to Plymouth. She reports that two of her crew were washed overboard and drowned, and that many were injured. The steamer Yorkshire at Liverpool, from Baltimore, was flooded, and her bridges destroyed and sustained other damages. Three seamen were blown from the rigging and two others were drowned. Damage to property by the storm is general. Numberless houses have been unroofed. The river Shannon in Ireland and a number of rivers in Wales have overflowed their banks, flooding the adjacent country.

QUEENSTOWN, Jan. 27.—The westerly hurricane now prevailing is of unprecedented severity. The sea has caused much damage to the town. A number of small crafts have been swamped. Outward-bound line steamers report fearful weather in the Irish channel. The bark Sidlaw, from Pasa, encountered hurricanes for ten days and lost her first mate by drowning.

A Narrow Escape.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—In St. John's Episcopal church last evening David Alexander, a crazy man, fired a bullet from a pistol at Bishop Whitaker, but the shot did no harm. Alexander is an ardent prohibitionist, and Bishop Whitaker's views on the liquor question having displeased him, he said that he resolved to kill him.

It was not a euchre party that the Geddes Sunday school held last Friday evening, but simply a "muggins" party. The Register doubted the information when it was received, but the informant, who was in a position to know, was positive that it was to be a euchre party. The party was held at the residence of L. P. Joselyn, Friday evening, and an enjoyable time was had playing the old fashioned game with dominoes.

One of the society surprises was the marriage on Tuesday evening last of Miss Minnie Kempf, the oldest daughter of Ex-Senator Kempf, at their residence on N. Ingalls-st. The groom was Harry E. Hosack, of Fredericktown, Ohio, who graduated from the university in '83 and is now in the drug business. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Tetlock, only the immediate family and a few chosen friends being present. The bridal couple left on the 9.41 train for the east.

The records in Justice Butts' court show that Frank R. Gardner, medic '90, and Miss Emma Koeling were married on Dec. 20, '89. Both were formerly nurses at the insane asylum in Kalamazoo. The bride went to Chicago and lived there with her child until this week, when she concluded to visit her husband here. About the time she arrived here, the groom concluded take a vacation, and as there are other interesting facts connected with the case, the developments will probably bring forth a scandal of large proportions.

The wife and daughter of George Moore, of W. Huron-st, narrowly escaped suffocation by coal gas Friday morning. After an early breakfast, Mr. Moore departed for his work at THE REGISTER office, and his wife again laid down to rest. A cap fell from a chimney opening and the house was filled with gas, overcoming the mother and daughter. When discovered Mrs. Moore was in a precarious condition and it was only by urgent measures that her life was saved. She is still suffering from the results but is in no danger. The little girl escaped without serious results.

Prosecuting attorney Lehman had an easy victory in a larceny case before Justice Pond, Friday. George Webber and Charles Rooney were on trial for stealing a watch from Nathan Brundige, the prisoners being defended by attorneys Cramer and Kline. The attorneys both acknowledged the theft and bent their energies to prove that the other prisoner was the thief. They were so successful that the jury brought in a verdict of guilty against both the prisoners. Justice Pond sentenced each to pay $10 fine and costs or go to the house of correction for 65 days. Rooney has filed an appeal, and Webber is serving out his sentence.
