THE CORNWELL-SWIFT DECISION.

Our City Fathers in Council.—G. A. R. Commander—Settlements with the County Treasurer.—Fomological Society.—Organ Recital by Prof. Stanley for the Benefit of Newberry Hall, Etc., Etc.

THE CORNWELL-SWIFT CASE.

No case has ever been tried in the Washtenaw circuit court which has involved more property value than the Cornwell-Swift case, the value of the property on both sides of the case being placed at $175,000. And no case has been harder fought or more stubbornly contested than this one, as it took 21 days to put in the evidence. The attorneys in the case were Messrs. Whitman and Thompson for the complainants, and Sawyer & Knowlton and Lawrence for the defendants. The case was argued on Jan. 27 by the attorneys, and Judge Kinne rendered a partial decision on Saturday. The decision is in favor of Swift, as far as it goes, but is hardly satisfactory to either side and the supreme court will without doubt be asked to pass upon the case.

The history of the case is as follows: In 1886, the Cornwell Manufacturing Co. built a dam across the river, and erected a pulp mill, just above the first railroad bridge, west of the city. The water from the lower dam would back and interfere with the running of the wheel at Cornwell's, and in March, 1887, suit was brought against John M. Swift, Finn E. Loomis, Lucy S. Bourns, John Finnegan and H. Storms, to compel them to lower the flash-boards on their dam to a height of two feet and six inches. The defendants in their answer began a counter-suit, claiming that the Cornwell dam was built on the natural back-water from their dam and that they had the right to carry five feet of flash-boards. They asked that the complainants be compelled to remove their dam and that damages be awarded the defendants.

From Judge Kinne's decision, the following is taken:

"The defendants have rights which they have enjoyed for over half a century, and on which manufacturing plants aggregating $75,000 in value have been built. Among the privileges of the defendants was the right to maintain their dam at a certain height, which caused the waters of the river to set back above said dam for a distance of between one and two miles. Notwithstanding this the complainants erected their dam entirely within the mill pond of the defendants, resulting greatly to the damage of the property of the defendants. It is difficult to understand the temerity with which the complainants have invaded the rights of the defendants. The weight of evidence being to this effect, the relief asked for by the complainants is denied."

In regard to the relief asked for by the defendants in their answer and cross bill, Judge Kinne denied their request to have the Cornwell dam removed and entered the following decree:

"The defendants at no time shall maintain the flashing structure upon the said dam higher than is adequate, necessary and reasonable to the reasonable and proper use of their mill privileges as now constituted and established, and when in low stages of the water an increased height shall at no time exceed the four feet above the apron of their dam, and they shall at all times so manipulate the said mill pond as to cause the least possible inconvenience to the complainants in the way of back-water, consistent with their own necessities."

"The complainants shall have the right to maintain their dam as at present erected and used, and to enjoy and use their machinery as established and used since 1886; they shall manage and manipulate the said mill pond in a fair and reasonable manner, consistent with the rules, needs, and customs of mill owners, with the view to giving the defendants as uniform and steady a supply of water as possible, consistent with their own necessities; they shall not unreasonably or unnecessarily detain the water in their said mill pond, nor discharge the same in unreasonable or unnecessarily large quantities, but their interruption and discharge of the water shall be such as is necessary and unavoidable and requisite to the proper use and enjoyment of their mill privileges as before declared."

From the testimony in relation to the amount of damages to which the defendants are entitled, Judge Kinne was unable to decide, and he has ordered the case to be re-opened on Monday, Feb. 24, for the purpose of hearing any further testimony that either party may have in relation to the damages, and to hear a re-argument of the case on this point.

New sidewalks were ordered built as follows: On the south side of Fuller-st, from Detroit-st to State-st; on W. Fourth-st, in front of the property owned by the Michigan Furniture Co.

The council then adjourned.

MONTHLY POMOLOGICAL MEETING.

Lecture on Fungus Diseases of the Grape Vine.—Something New in Berry Baskets.—Exhibits of Various Kinds.

The lecture by Mr. F. C. Newcomb of the U. of M., was illustrated on a chart and so well stated and explained that all present were greatly benefited and a vote of thanks tendered Mr. Newcomb.

The principal points of the lecture were: Applications of the Bordeaux Mixture just at the proper time as soon as any appearance of reddish-brown spots under the leaves is detected. The mixture is also a preventive of the downy mildew (peronospora viticola.) Proportion of the mixture: Sulphate of copper, six pounds, dissolved in four gallons of cold water. Mix the two solutions well, and when desired for use dilute with twenty-two gallons of cold water.

The Japy pump which stirs the solution during application is offered by the Columbia Brass Works, 1216 D. Street, Washington, D. C., cost $21. Another pump equally as good as the Japy is the Eureka, manufactured by Adam Webster, of Vineland, New Jersey, cost $21.65. Warm and damp weather favors the disease, dry weather is against its spread. Burn in the fall the trimmings and diseased leaves and grapes. Mr. Ganzhorn stated that his vines planted in the rows of his apple orchard were not attacked by the black rot, while 75 per cent. were destroyed by the rot in open culture. He will try bagging of the clusters, and the application of lime.

Mr. F. S. Elwell, President of the Detroit Paper Novelty Co., who was present by invitation, was called upon by the president, Mr. Baldwin, to show and explain the folding paper berry basket. Mr. Elwell, a very intelligent and well appearing gentleman, stated that there must be something in bagging grape clusters from the fact that one grape grower from Donni on, Texas, had given him an order for 65,000 waterproof grape bags at $1.12 per thousand. His 24 quart crates filled with baskets cost 22 cents, but he thin they can be made for 17 cents next year! The berry basket is made of heavy water proof manilla with or without perforation. It has a wire handle. It was tried by those present whether it would hold a quart of beans, and there was still some vacant space.

Mr. Elwell gave a written agreement that all orders by members of the society shall be and are hereby protected against loss to the buyer by a guarantee that the basket will give satisfaction or shall cost nothing; that on all orders for their baskets and crates, where the said crate, in order to be used, replaces any other style or size of crate, to rebate to the customer the price of his crate—per measure—on his first order or on successive orders. The paper basket has a cover on which the name of the grower can be printed.

Mr. Elwell received orders from nearly all the members of the society. Mr. Chas. Parshall exhibited his bushel berry crates with a new patent lock which will hardly be opened during transportation as only those acquainted with the secret can open it. His crates are made of the best material and will suit those that use the wooden exhibit of the apples and pears.

Mr. C. C. Clark exhibited peach buds developed in water. This experiment promises a great peach crop as the twigs were full of buds and each bud perfect. The meeting was largely attended. All fruit-growers will find it very beneficial to join the society. Selfishness don't pay. EMIL BAUR, Cor. Sec.

The Commander's War Record.

J. T. Jacobs, the newly elected commander of Welch Post, G. A. R. of this city, saw considerable service during the war, and saw all the different phases of a soldier's life—active engagements, skirmish duty, garrison duty, and imprisonment. From the Roster of Ohio Volunteer Soldiers the following facts in regard to his army record have been gathered.

He enlisted as a private in Co. B, 96th Regt., O. V. I., on Aug 11, 1862, and was appointed corporal on Apr. 4, 1863. At the battle of Grand Coulee, La., on Nov. 3, he was captured and was in prison until Christmas day, when he was exchanged. He received his discharge from the 96th Regt. on Sept. 21, 1864, to accept a promotion as Adjutant of the 178th Regt., which office he held until he was mustered out at the close of the war.

During his term of service he was engaged in the following battles: Chickasaw Bluffs, Miss., Dec. 28-29, 1862; Arkansas Post, Ark., Jan. 11, 1863; siege of Vicksburg, May 18-July 4, 1863; Jackson, Miss., July 9-16, 1863; Grand Coteau, La., Nov. 3, 1863; Sabine Cross Roads, La., Apr. 8, 1864; Siege of Murfreesboro, 1864; Skirmish at Wise's Forks, N. C.; Garrison duty at Charlotte, N. C., at close of war.

Soldiers and the Census.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The Grand Army of the Republic is to be invited by Sup't. Porter to co operate with the census enumerators in making as complete as possible the list of names of the surviving veterans of the late war. These enumerators, in addition to their other duties, are required to secure the names of all veterans, to name the regiment in which each served, the length of service disability, if any, etc. The pension rolls, and the rolls of the Grand Army posts, will be used to insure accuracy.

I would call attention to above item and advise all old soldiers to join some G. A. R. Post before the first of June, 1890. It may be of great benefit to them.

All sons of soldiers should get into some Camp S. of V. soon as possible. The eligible age is eighteen.

Yours in F. C. and L,
J. T. JACOBS.

She Hit Him With a Poker.

Frank E. Place of Ypsilanti has filed a bill for divorce against Anna M. Place. The parties were married at Kalamazoo in 1881, and lived together until May 18, 1889. The plaintiff claims that he was earning but $30 a month and that his wife was extravagant and spent more than he could afford. She also brought other members of her family to live with them, a fact that greatly increased his expenses. But the last straw came when the defendant hit him over the head with a stove-poker. The wife left his home last May and is now living at Jackson.

Always Helped Others.

Mr. E. L. Frieze is a pleasant reminiscence of the lamented Dr. Frieze is worthy of mention. In 1862-3, while the Presbyterian church was progressing toward completion, Dr. Frieze generously volunteered to train a class of young ladies and gentlemen in music, with a view to giving one or more concerts for the benefit of an organ fund for the new church.

The class was formed and held their rehearsals at the home of Mrs. Henry Wells. Two excellent concerters were given, and a fund of $175 to $180 was raised and presented to the church. This disinterested act so characteristic, is held in grateful remembrance by some of the older members of that church. H.

Dumplings with Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be dainty and wholesome, and may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

Recipe.—One quart of flour; thoroughly mix with three teaspoons of Royal Baking Powder and a small teaspoon of salt; rub in a piece of butter or lard the size of an egg, and then add one large potato, grated in the flour; after the butter is well mixed, stir in milk and knead to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; break off pieces of dough large enough to close over four quarters of an apple (or other fruit as desired) without rolling, and lay in an earthen dish (or steamer) and steam until the fruit is tender. Bake if preferred.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes food more appetizing and wholesome food and is more economical. Royal Baking Powder is especially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.

N. Schmid, of Manchester, is a man who believes in not tempting burglars, and so has recently purchased a new safe. He carefully deposits his valuables therein without doubt of their safety. And he is right, for not even a lockpick could induce the lock to work last Thursday, and it was necessary to send for an expert.

A warning to ministers not to preach long sermons and to boys not to go to sleep in church comes from Northville. A young man went to sleep during the services at the Baptist church on a recent Sunday evening. He awoke later and endeavored to get out through a window. As he was partly through the window came down and held him fast. His screams finally attracted attention and he was rescued, but when he goes to church now he doesn't even wink during the service.

The late Michael Kappler of Sharon Hollow had a safe in which to keep his money and private papers. After his death an attempt was made to open it but without avail. Mr. Kappler, it is said, made his will last spring and Mr. Kempf drew it. All sorts of rumors are rife regarding the contents of the will as well as of the safe, some claiming that there is a large amount of money in the latter. But on Saturday the safe was sealed by Fred Vogel and will probably remain so until the will has been read and the executor has given bonds.

Saturday evening, about 8 o'clock, A. Goodman, proprietor of the second-hand store at the east end of Congress street bridge, was aroused by a noise as of something falling. He was at the time in his room over the store. Seizing a revolver he ran down stairs, finding two men in the room. He attempted to shoot but his weapon missed fire, and both escaped, one by a rear window through which they had entered and the other by dashing boldly through a front window. Their booty consisted of a cheap watch.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

LITERARY NOTES.

The frontispiece of the Magazine of Art for February is a beautiful etching by James Dobie, from the painting by E. J. Poynter, R. A., called "A Roman Boat Race." The piece de resistance of the number, from a literary standpoint, is Mr. Swinburne's poem, "Loch Torridon," which, with its illustrations, covers four pages. Following is a paper on "The Art of Dry Point," by Mortimer Menpes illustrated by the author. All readers of the "Journal of Marie Bashkirtseff" will be interested in the paper of "Personal Reminiscences of Jules Bastien-Lepage, by the Prince Bojidar Karageorgevitch. Space forbids mention of other very attractive features.—Cassell & Company, Limited, New York. 35 cents a number, $3.50 a year.

Bacon. VIII. The Immigrant's Answer—Judge John P. Altgeld. IX. Mrs. Grundy's Kingdom—Eliza Lynn Linton. X. Writing for the Stage—Prof. Alfred Hennequin.

The Eclectic for January contains a choice selection of papers taken from the best periodicals. Among them may be mentioned: "A Problem in Money," by Robert Giffen from the Nineteenth Century. "Women of Today," by Lady Gaskell, from the same magazine. "Rabies," by Louis Pasteur from the New Review, and "From Africa," by Grant Allen from the Gentleman's Magazine. Numerous other articles complete this excellent number. E. R. Pelton, Publisher, 25 Bond St., New York. $5.00 a year.

Miss Carrie Norris Horwitz charming adaptation of certain German fairy tales under the title of "Svanhilde" is attracting general attention not only by the merit of the tales themselves but by the dainty and altogether delightful outline illustrations drawn by Mr. Bridgman and plentifully scattered through the text. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

Mrs. Lamb's article, "American Congress of Scholars" is a great attraction in the February Magazine of American History. "Recent Historical Work in the Colleges and Universities of Europe and America," a scholarly survey by President Adams, LL. D., of Cornell University, is the longest paper in the number and a brilliant work with information upon a popular subject. "The Spirit of Historical Research" is discussed in the next contribution by James Schouler, the author of the History of the United States. Other excellent papers complete this notably rich number. Price $5.00 a year. Published at 743 Broadway, New York City.

The Pastor's Daughter.

Worthington Company announce as their next new volume in their International Library, "The Pastor's Daughter," by W. Heimberg, translated by Mrs. J. W. Davis with photogravure illustrations. It is an intense, interesting, and touching story, presents powerful sketches of character skillfully contrasted, and has a peculiar charm of its own. Price in paper, 75 cents. For sale by Andrews and Co.

Harper's Magazine for February.—George Parsons Lathrop contributes "Talks with Edison," affording a vivid perception of "How an inventor invents." James Hogg gives to the public his reminiscences of his friend De Quincy. Portraiture of another kind will be found in the article on "The Standing Army of Great Britain."—Mark Twain gives examples from the awful record of "A Majestic Literary Fossil." Lafcadio Hearn, the author of "Chita," concludes his new story, "Youma," which is sympathetically illustrated by Howard Pyle. Among the other contents are the following elaborately illustrated articles: "Benvenuto Cellini," by Mrs. Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. "The Lake Dwellers," by S. H. M. Byers, and "The New York Banks," by Richard Wheatley. This number is also notable for seven poems, one of which is by the Canadian poet, A. Lampman. Harper Brothers, New York.

DR. HARTMAN.

LA GRIPPE

As Explained in Dr. Hartman's Famous Lecture on That Subject.

Reported for the Public Press.

La Grippe is a French term which translated into English, is "The Influenza," and translated into German is "Die Einflusskrankheit." The epidemic which is at present prostrating so many people in all parts of the civilized world is not a new disease, but an old one.

I have been acquainted with La Grippe, or epidemic Influenza, many years. The first time I had any personal knowledge of this disease was in 1874, while yet a boy studying medicine. My study of it at that time was so thorough and careful that thirteen years afterward (1860), when a terrible epidemic of it swept over the country, I at once recognized it, and was able to cope with it. It was ten years before it made its appearance again—the famous epidemic of 1870. It was at this time it was first called "Russian Influenza," because of the fact that it originated in Russia and spread rapidly over the Asiatic and European countries before it was noticed in this country. Twenty years had elapsed before the present epidemic (originating in Russia as before) suddenly appeared among us again, this time bringing its French name across the Atlantic with it.

SYMPTOMS.

First, a "tired-out" feeling, general lassitude, cold feet and hands. Second, aching of the bones, transient, fleeting pains throughout the whole body. Third, chilly sensations, from indistinct, creeping rigors in slight cases, to pronounced chills in more severe ones. Fourth, fever, with temperature ranging from 102 to 104 degrees Fahrenheit. Fifth, congestion of the eyes, lining membrane of the nose; sometimes throat and bronchial tubes. Sixth, profuse sweating occurs in some cases, especially after the disease has run a few days. Seventh, sneezing, and less frequently coughing, are among the earliest symptoms. Eighth, usually an intense frontal headache, which continues more or less during the whole course of the disease. Ninth, aching and soreness of the muscles of the whole body. Pneumonia, consumption, congestion of the lungs and brain, acute rheumatism, typhoid fever and typhoid malaria are frequent followers of La Grippe. However different observers may account for it, the fact remains that every epidemic brings with it a fearful death rate.

At the appearance of the first symptoms treatment should be begun at once, and kept strictly to the house for a few days. No treatment, however effectual it may be, will always prevent quite a long siege with this disease, but no other medicinal treatment is necessary than Pe-ru-na. The directions, as they are given on the bottle, are more applicable to chronic diseases, and it is advisable, during the acute stage of the disease, to take smaller doses, but often. I would direct a teaspoonful of Pe-ru-na every hour for adults, and a correspondingly less dose for children. During the night, if the patients are quietly sleeping it is not, my custom to wake them to take medicine, but if restless Pe-ru-na should be given regularly the whole twenty-four hours. The recovery is generally slow, even in slight cases. For many days the patient will complain of weakness, slight headache, want of appetite, etc. Pe-ru-na should be taken until the recovery is complete, but after the fever has subsided and the acute stage is past it is better to take it according to directions on the bottle. Beef tea, mutton broth, and milk should be freely given according to the preference of the patient. People who have had La Grippe, the acute stage having passed and recovery has come to a standstill, as is frequently the case, will find in Pe-ru-na exactly the remedy that is suited to the case. It invigorates the whole system, restores the appetite, and produces natural sleep.

Even after pneumonia or consumption has begun to develop it is not too late to expect a perfect cure from Pe-ru-na without any other treatment whatever. Many physicians are using it extensively in their practice; at the same time a vast number of people are buying it at the drug stores and treating themselves, and the result is, if there is another remedy the equal of Pe-ru-na for La Grippe, it is unknown to me.

NATIONAL CONGRESS.

Proceedings in the Senate and House at Washington.

Bills Introduced and Passed and Resolutions Offered and Adopted—A Complete Summary of Daily Transactions.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Senate yesterday passed the direct-tax bill, which passed the last Congress and was vetoed by President Cleveland. The bill appropriates $20,000,000 for the payment to the States and Territories all moneys collected under the direct tax levied by act of Congress in 1861. A memorial was presented for the establishment of a republican form of government in the State of Mississippi. A long argument took place against the resolution in relation to the maltreatment of Henry J. Faunce, of Indiana, at Aberdeen, Miss.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Ingalls (Kan.) presented a joint resolution for the erection of a monument to Abraham Lincoln on the Gettysburg battlefield. The House bill granting honorable discharge to the sailors and marines who have lost their certificates of discharge was passed. After the introduction of a few unimportant bills Senator Mitchell (Ore.) called up the bill relative to the free coinage of silver, which he supported in a speech of some length.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—In the Senate yesterday the bill instructing the superintendent of census to gather information regarding mortgages on homes and farms was passed. Mr. Vance (N. C.) spoke on the negro emigration bill in answer to Mr. Ingalls. The President sent in the following nominations: William H. Taft, of Ohio, to be Solicitor-General; Robert Adams, Jr., of Pennsylvania, now accredited Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Empire of Brazil, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States of Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Cameron announced the recent afflictions in the families of two members of the Cabinet and moved an adjournment, which was agreed to unanimously.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—In the House yesterday a bill was passed providing that in cases of pension claims of dependent parents it shall be necessary only to show to the pension office that the parents are without other means of support than manual labor. A bill was reported to provide for the issue of circulating notes to National banking associations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—In the House yesterday the election case of Smith versus Jackson from the Fourth West Virginia district was taken up. The Democrats generally refused to vote and made the point of no quorum. The Speaker, however, counted the members refusing to vote and declared a quorum present. This ruling caused a long debate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—In the House yesterday the time was occupied in wrangling over the ruling of Speaker Reed that members present but not voting shall be counted in order to make up a quorum. The Republicans sustained the ruling and the Democrats denounced it.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Speaker Reed yesterday succeeded in suppressing the filibusters, and the West Virginia contested-election case is now before the House. The uproar yesterday was similar to that which occurred Thursday, Mr. Springer (Ill.) and Mr. Bland (Mo.) being the principal participants. The Speaker declined to recognize any one who arose to make a dilatory motion, and refused to allow appeals from his decision. When the Democrats refused to vote he ordered the clerk to record that a sufficient number of them to make a quorum were present and not voting, and then declared a quorum present. The fight was brought on by the Democrats, who attempted by filibustering to prevent the consideration of the case of Mr. Smith, of West Virginia, a Republican, who contests the seat of Mr. Jackson, a Democrat.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—In the House Saturday the stormy scenes of the past few days were repeated, but Speaker Reed firmly maintained his position, and finally several arguments in the contested election case of Smith vs. Jackson, of West Virginia, were made.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the House yesterday the Republicans had a quorum present, and in the contested election case from West Virginia Smith (Rep.) was given the seat occupied by Jackson (Dem.). No other business was transacted.

The National Land League.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 1.—A preliminary report was made yesterday by the committee in this city auditing the accounts of Dr. O'Reilly, of the Irish National League. Twelve More Ballots in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 4.—The House met at 2:30 p. m. Monday. There were twenty pairs announced, and the result of each of the twelve ballots was: Wilson 30, Hamilton 30, after which the House adjourned until 10:30 a. m. today.

It is funny to hear two women talking to each other across a fence as they are hanging out clothes, each with a half dozen clothes-pins in her mouth.

The fifth anniversary banquet of the Michigan Republican club, to be held at Detroit, Feb. 21, will be one of the most notable events of the year for this state; and fortunate will be the possessor of a seat within hearing of the patriotic speakers on that occasion.

The question of better highways is beginning to agitate the minds of our citizens. Our merchants are vitally interested in this subject. Besides those who actually use our roads nobody would reap more direct or greater benefits from better roads than our businessmen.

The Brush Electric Light Co., of Detroit, has come to grief. If it had paid more attention to reducing its expenses and thus enabled it to lower its bid, and spent less time trying to "fix" some of Detroit's famous boodle aldermen, it would probably now have had the contract for another period.

The Detroit bridge or tunnel, whichever it is to be, seems to be in hard luck. Why don't somebody propose to change the course of the river, or to carry trains across the stream in balloons? Neither of these schemes would probably meet with any more opposition than the much needed bridge.

A copy of the American Sentinel has been handed us with the request that we make some mention of what is said in that journal about the Blair Sunday bill. The bill itself is so objectionable and the comments upon it by the Sentinel are so irrelevant to the subject in hand, and so unreasonable in many respects, even more so than the bill itself, that we do not care to give any review of it.

The meeting of the Farmers' Institute at Saline Tuesday and Wednesday of this week was an enjoyable as well as profitable affair notwithstanding the conditions of the weather and the almost impassible roads. Such meetings have many beneficial results. It is to be regretted that more do not attend and that such meetings are not of more frequent occurrence.

The Detroit Tribune offers a prize of $5.00 for the best program suitable to the observance of the coming Washington's Birthday celebration. The Tribune has accomplished a great work in the education of the school children of this state in the duties they owe to the nation as patriotic, liberty-loving subjects. Over 400 flags now float over our school houses as the result of its liberal actions.

The Sentinel of our sister city, Ypsilanti, is opposed to any improvement on the old method of voting. From his solitary watch-tower he announces to the owls and bats his solemn determination never to vote again if any new fangled improvement on the old system is adopted. "More offensive, if possible," croaked the Sentinel, "to a free democratic voter, one who like Jefferson, really believes in the capacity of the people to govern themselves—is the 'official ballot' than the machinery for casting it. While this sentiment exists strongly among the older, and more intelligent members of the party, thousands will firmly refuse to approach the polls. The writer of this article for one will never cast an 'official ballot,' or go near a poll held under machine methods, except to cast a vote against their adoption, or for their abolition, and he does not claim to be the most deeply dyed-in-the-wool, or most intelligent democrat either."

The following pitiful story of children robbed of their childhood and healthful physical development, condemned to ignorance, a sickly existence and an early death, the victims of an atrocious industrial system, ought to so stir up the sympathy and indignation of the citizens of this commonwealth that they will put a stop at once to such inhuman proceedings. If any state will not protect its defenceless citizens from such barbaric treatment, let the general government compel it to do so, even if it has to resort to force. It is a disgrace to the whole country that such unnecessary cruelty and injustice is permitted to exist in any part of its rich domains. "In the thirty-three cotton factories of Georgia, two thousand white-children between the ages of seven and twelve are employed. Only seventeen out of the two thousand can read and write. The lowest number of hours worked by any of these operatives is sixty-eight per week, being fourteen more than is required of English operatives in the same industries. The wages paid, range from twenty cents up to sixty cents per day for women and girls. The Legislature refused to investigate or interfere in their behalf, because of the danger of exposing the illiteracy of the people."

A GREAT deal of sound sense is contained in this from the Chicago Tribune: "The question as to whether the tariff is or is not a tax agitates about every dry goods box loafer in the country. Men leave their wives at home washing and sewing to support the family and from their perches contend over the proposition whether or not the tariff is a tax. They spend their Sundays down town with lager and cards and continue their cry that 'the tariff is a tax.' They get home late at night try to unlock the door with a corkscrew and swear at wife and babies while they inwardly mutter that 'the tariff is a tax.' Some of the more ambitious put big mortgages on their property, buy a fine carriage team, build as good a house as men who are worth ten times as much as themselves, dress in the fashion and when the sheriff sells their farms are heard to curse the 'robber tariff which is a tax.' All the ills they have are caused by the robber tariff which is a tax. Suppose we admit that it is a tax. Certain it is that if we had no tariff or internal revenue we would have to provide for our national expenditures by direct taxation. Most of those who denounce the tariff would be as strongly opposed to direct taxation. While all parties believe in a reduction of the tariff, none would remove it altogether. The difference between the parties is in the manner of accomplishing the reduction. Cleveland's administration administration to act in the future, but in the meantime our dispirited might undertake a personal combat with three robbers that are most heavily taxing them. These are Tobacco, Whiskey and Laziness. Any one of these is a heavy burden, two will make a healthy man dependent upon his wife for support and all three will send a fellow to the poor-house swearing that 'the tariff is a tax.'"

Mrs. Anna Mozart Chamberlin has been engaged as musical director and leading soprano of the Minneapolis Immanuel Baptist church, at a salary of $325 a year. She has a double quartette under her charge. Her husband still holds a good position on the Minneapolis Journal which has the largest circulation of any daily in that enterprising city. Mr. Harry Hawley is a stockholder and his share of profits is making him a rich man although his health is so poor he is obliged to spend most of his time in a sanitarium. All of these persons were formerly connected with THE REGISTER office and their success is noted with much interest.

Two hundred dollars was appropriated Monday evening to pay the fire companies of the 5th and 6th wards. The city owns property valued at several thousand dollars which is used by the departments of these two wards, all of which is rendered of little practical value by the efficiency of the department as organized. Would it not be a good idea to disband these two branches of the department, dispose of the property now in use there, and invest the proceeds in a complete fire alarm system for the city? The money now invested in these two wards would go a long way towards paying for such a system, and the matter is one that deserves consideration at the hands of the fire commissioners.

TO CLOSE THEM OUT
We'll Give You the Advantage.
TWO NEW PIANOS AND FOUR ORGANS AT COST.
We have made contracts with certain Piano Manufacturers to sell our Organs, we selling their Pianos. This exchange system enables us to buy lower than we otherwise could do.
We have in stock two Pianos, the manufacturers of which are also makers of, or interested in, the manufacture of Reed Organs. With these firms, therefore, we could not make similar contracts, and shall close out the following Pianos of these manufacturers at any price above actual cost, to enable us to use the money in different directions.
ONE KRANICH & BACH CABINET GRAND PIANO, Style E, 7 1/2 octaves, Ebonized Case; round corners; fancy carved moldings; patent metal action rail; repeating action; new swinging desk; new nickel-plated continuous hinge; height, 4 feet 9 1/2 inches; width, 5 feet 5 inches.
The instruments of this company are well known, having been manufactured since 1864, and possessing some of the most valuable patents known in Piano manufacture, being thoroughly reliable, of easy touch, and of most excellent wearing qualities, and used by many of the most prominent artists.
We ask your examination of this Piano and an inspection of catalogues, testimonials, etc., as we will make it an object in price to any intending purchaser.
Also ONE KIMBALL, Style 4, (7 1/2 octaves, 3 string and agraffe. Handsome case, with patent rolling fall board and new design trusses). Manufactured by the well known Kimball Piano, Organ and Manufacturing Co., being one of the largest manufacturers of Reed Organs in the world. This Piano has received the endorsements of some of the most prominent artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company, by whom it was used during the engagement of this company in the series of German Operas given in Chicago during the past year.
We will sell, also, TWO 5-OCTAVE ESTEY ORGANS, ONE 6-OCTAVE ESTEY ORGAN and ONE 6-OCTAVE Chicago Cottage Organ, at equally low rates.
This offer is no bluff or loud talk. Our company has the reputation of doing as they agree. We shall drop this line of goods, for the reason mentioned, and if you want a Piano or Organ, you will never have a better chance to buy such standard instruments for so little money. Not one of the instruments has ever been rented, sold or used, and we wish it understood that they are not second hand instruments, (although we have a large number of this class of instruments which we are able to show customers desiring them.)
If you are interested, call early, as the first one paying us enough to enable us to get out whole, will get these instruments.

Yours truly,

ALVIN WILSEY, Esq., Dear Sir:

The Boardman & Gray Upright Piano that I purchased of you five years ago has been in almost constant use, much more so than is usual. It wears like iron, and stands in tune remarkably. The B. and G. is a very reliable piano.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." George A. Page, Watertown, Mass.

THE SAINT IN TEXAS.

How an Editor Used a Cheap Valentine to Some Purpose.

The custom of sending valentines prevails to some extent in Texas. Some years ago, having occasion to stop over for a few days in a Texas town, I dropped into the office of the local newspaper, the Bugle, and made the acquaintance of the editor. He was a pleasant-faced young man, with a rather shrewd expression. We talked about the weather, the crops, politics, and finally we conversed about St. Valentine's Day, which was not far off.

"Do they celebrate it much here?" I asked. "As a general thing it is not observed very much, but last St. Valentine's Day was an exception."

"What was the occasion of the exception?" "I caused it myself. There was one man killed and a drug store wrecked."

"My curiosity was aroused, and I asked my new acquaintance to dispel the mystery that seemed to enshroud the celebration of the previous St. Valentine's Day."

"I'll tell you how it was. I had just moved here and started my paper. I was getting along very well. Subscribers were pouring in at the rate of ten or twelve a week."

"The people liked your paper, then?" "Yes, with the exception of two men. One was a druggist, who took a dislike to me, and tried to hound me to death."

"In what way?" "He not only refused to advertise in the Bugle, but he told every body that the paper would not last three months."

"Who was your other adversary?" "He was a regular tough. He came here with a circus, and was a bad man. He looked like an ex-prize-fighter. Some people said he was a New York alderman, and hence a fugitive from justice."

"What did you do to incur his enmity?" "Nothing at all, except I published a little paragraph to the effect that there was a suspicious character in town. He said at once that it couldn't mean anybody else but himself, and that he was going to break me in two for it the first chance he got."

"Do you think he really meant it?" "I know he did, so I resorted to strategy. Every thing is fair in love or war."

"Where does St. Valentine's Day come in?" "That's just what I was going to tell you. I was becoming prematurely swayed by a pistol, so I put up a job on the pair. It was risky, but out on the frontier you have to learn to take risks."

"What did you do?" "I bought a cheap valentine of a tough with a wart as big as an egg plant on his nose, and blue hair, and mailed it to the tough after writing the druggist's name on it. I calculated the tough didn't have brains enough to suppose it might be a trick, and I was right about it."

"What did he do?" "Just what I expected. He walked in careless-like and hit the druggist on the jaw."

"Hurt him much?"

"Hurt him much?"

"He turned two summersaults over the soda fountain and brought up with a thud against the side of the drug store, so that he crushed one of the boards with four of his front teeth."

"That was pretty bad."

"That wasn't all. He jarred the drug store so that five or six large bottles of liver regulator tumbled down on him from the top shelf and drenched him with healing balm. However, he retained his presence of mind, and hurled an unbroken bottle through the plate-glass window as the tough dodged. He could have put a full-page ad in the Bugle for a year for the price of the window, with a complimentary personal notice thrown in."

"What did the tough do?" "The tough grabbed up a box of healing ointment and shivered it on the lachrymal gland of the druggist. The druggist retaliated by doubling up the tough with a bottle of queer-colored tonic. According to the directions on the bottle the tonic was to be taken one teaspoonful every half hour, but the tough had taken enough at one dose to tone up the stomach of an ordinary man for a month."

"What next?" "The tough followed up his victory by vaccinating his adversary on the ear with a box of carbolic salve, while the druggist raised a wen on the tough's articular muscle with a bottle of female bitters."

"How did it end?" "It ended very tragically. While the whole neighborhood was smelling like a drug store with a barrel of asafetida leaking in the cellar and a chunk of Limburger cheese on the stove, the druggist sneaked up behind the tough and fractured his skull with a compound cathartic poultice tied up in a towel, and a fearful whack at the base of the ductus arteriosus."

"And all from a cheap valentine judiciously administered?" "Yes, the tough sleeps in a shady dell. The druggist, crazed by his losses has taken to drink, while I got out an extra about the tragedy and made seventy-five dollars in cash, so you see, even the cheap valentine has its uses."

ALEX. E. SWEET.

LOVE'S MESSAGE.

UPID, little did you know What a love-match you were making, When you whispered words that set my heart a-quaking;

When your lips so coyly red Took the question out of mine, And you flew to her and said: "Will you be my valentine?"

How I trembled at the test, Which till then had been untried; Little rogue, you never guessed What that questioning implied.

Yet on wings of love you went With that precious, weighty line; What a world to me it meant: "Will you be my valentine?"

I have wondered, did she press On your lips her kisses warm; Did she lavish fond caresses On your dimpled forehead form? Saucy boy! a kiss, or more, Were a tribute far too fine For the message that you bore: "Will you be my valentine?"

Had she coldly turned her head, Tossed aside her golden tresses, Gathered up her gown and fled, Chary been of her caresses, Then I would not wonder much, For my lady could divine All the daring in that touch: "Will you be my valentine?"

Cupid, let the matter go. What she did was right and proper, And, at that time, as you know, I made no pretense to stop her. All she said I never learned— All I heeded was that line Of the answer you returned: "I will be your valentine."

Saucy, dimpled, rosy boy, You are just as dear to-day. Bearing messages of joy To a sweetheart far away, As when years ago you flew With that daring wish of mine; Cupid, we have both been true: Love has been our valentine!"

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

Something About the Day and its Pretty Customs.

AMONG the days specially honored in the calendar with names of their own is that of St. Valentine, although history fails to inform us why the 14th of February should be honored as St. Valentine's Day. No connection of the day with any of the legends of saints of that name is found in the "Arctia Sactorum," but so it is, and long-established usage has confirmed its right to the title, though its observance is fast becoming a thing of the past.

We have in our day no feast of St. Valentine, as did the merry people of ancient times in the old country. Jubilant occasions for the youth of those days they must have been! How the interest must have culminated in the drawing of the valentines, when to each participant in the game was awarded by lot the name of some person of the opposite sex, who was then regarded as his or her valentine for the ensuing year.

Suitable gifts, such as sweetmeats, bonbons, trinkets and the like were interchanged, and to each brave lad be- longed the privilege of escorting his fair valentine to the various gatherings, festivities and merry-makings which should intervene for a twelve-month. Certainly in those times St. Valentine's Day held favors not to be disregarded, and since human nature remains pretty much the same the world over, it may be surmised that the valentine drawing must have been attended with considerable anxiety, and, perhaps, even a little harmless stratagem may have been resorted to in mating the valentines.

Gone are the old-time bachelors and maidens, the valentines of other days, but in memory of them still lingers the pretty sentiment of valentine gifts or favors, as witness the thousand and one charming devices, valentines so-called, which begin to throng our shop windows and counters soon after the holiday season, replacing the beautiful Christmas and New Year's cards and leaflets.

In these days when, as some one has satirically observed, referring to the almost universal craze for decoration, "even our almanacs and calendars are works of art," it is no wonder we have valentines of the very daintiest sort and design.

The sending of the valentine is, of course, shrouded in mystery, and this fact is often alluded to in the inscription, as: "A message of love from the heart of a friend, On Valentine's Day I venture to send. The name of the sender a secret shall be, Unless thine heart's whisper reveal it to thee."

Many of the inscriptions are imitations in sentiment and orthography of the old-time valentines, as the following, which may be a preservation of some quaint old lines and have done a similar duty scores of years ago: "O Ladye faire, before thy shrines Behold this doubting heart of mine! If hope of mine Meet wish of thine, I pray thee for my valentine."

And so on, ad infinitum, run their greetings, and not to be forgotten in this connection are the comic valentines. Who has not at some time received one of the two-penny sheets, hideous with daubs of color and doggerel rhyme? What perfect delight in their startling array of pictorial talent is afforded the mischievous school-boy! He has only to make a choice and select the victim.

Yet harmless fun after all and innocent amusement is that invoked by St. Valentine.

The Good Saint. The good St. Valentine was beheaded about 250 years after Christ. He was a man of great learning and piety and charity, and every body loved him but the wicked Emperor Claudius, and so the people commemorated his virtues by making the day of his death a notable day. As he loved every body and every thing, they got up that pretty superstition about the birds mating. Afterwards the boys and girls took it up and said it was a good time of the year for them to mate, and so they started the custom of writing love letters and playing sweetheart for a little while. At first they drew lots for their mates, and a pretty, sweet girl had to play sweetheart to a knock-kneed, cross-eyed, twist-nose booby if she drew him.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS.

THE SHETLAND PONY.

Some Information Concerning a Noble Little Animal and a Great Favorite with Most Boys and Girls.

Away far beyond the north of Scotland, in the bleak, wind-swept Shetland Isles, is the home of the Shetland pony or Sheltie. It is the product of its environment, which necessarily makes it small and hardy. Of the one hundred Shetland Islands, comprising about four hundred and fifty square miles and scantily supporting a population of about thirty thousand, not more than one-fourth are inhabited. Their bold and precipitous coasts vary in height from five hundred to twelve hundred feet. The rugged, rocky interior is not much higher, and is generally covered with scanty herbage or, more commonly, with a thick coating of moss, the only tolerably fertile soil being in a few valleys opening on the bays in the larger islands. A northern trend of the gulf stream tempers somewhat the extreme cold of the islands due to their far northern latitude, but for a large part of the year the weather is wet and wildly tempestuous and fogs are heavy and frequent.

Like the usual products of an inclement climate and sparse means of subsistence, all the live stock of the group are very diminutive, and of them the Shelties are much the most important. Great numbers of these are bred on the heaths and niggardly pastures of the interior, their rough, shaggy coats and vigorous constitutions enabling them to withstand all the severities of the long, bleak, dark, cheerless winter on the scantiest fare. When the depth of snow on the uplands prevents them from picking up a meager subsistence from the withered pastures, they make their way down to the sea-shore and manage to make as good a livelihood on the kelp and sea-weed tossed upon the tempest-beaten beach. So large has been the demand for these diminutive ponies of late that much more attention than was formerly given to the matter has been recently bestowed on breeding and rearing them; but the condition of the climate and vegetation of their birth-place still keep them stunted and hardy.

When captured and tamed, they require little feed or care. They are the smallest variety of the horse, their height varying from thirty-four to forty-four inches, few reaching the latter size. They are round, close-headed, with small, well-shaped heads; ears small; eyes large, bright and intelligent; neck short and thick, set off by a long, coarse mane; shoulders long and muscular; loins broad and well formed; quarters moderately large; back gently curving; legs and feet well formed and of a splendid texture; tail long and abundant; color chiefly bay, brown or a rusty black, chestnut and grays being extremely rare.

The endurance of Shelties is great and their strength is vastly disproportionate to their size. Indeed, they can easily carry a man upwards of one hundred and fifty pounds in weight if he can only arrange his legs so as to keep them off the ground. They can be easily trained and are affectionate and very good-tempered.

Their amiability and size will adapt them for the use of children, with whom they are prime favorites. For years large numbers have been imported into England for the use of her aristocratic little ones, and of late years considerable importations have been made into this country, where they have brought remunerative prices. The exported animal, however, nicely clipped, neatly trimmed and well fed, presents a vastly more handsome though less picturesque appearance than did, erstwhile, the same spare-boned animal with coarse, shaggy coat, long, tossing mane and sweeping, bushy tail in its inclement Northern home. Our illustration, however, engraved from the London Live Stock Journal, represents a Sheltie in its natural condition, except that he has somewhat more flesh than his untamed brethren usually carry.—Rural New Yorker.

An Intelligent Dog. The evident thought and reasoning frequently displayed by animals in attaining some desired end is but little less than remarkable. A gentleman in Alton tells of the performance of a pet dog showing almost human intelligence.

It was early last spring when a little pool not far from the house had frozen over during the night. In the morning it so happened that the dog's water-dish was empty, and after snuffing around while the dog went to the pool to drink. Here the ice proved an obstruction, and after selecting a spot where it afterward appeared the ice was thin, he jumped upon it as hard as possible until it cracked and then broke, giving him the drink he had so long desired.

A Necessary Delay. Frost—Hello! Bought your wife a Christmas present yet! Snow—No, I shall probably wait till the last minute.

Frost—What makes you do that? Snow—Well—well—I had to give her all the money I had to buy a present for me with, and now I am saving up so as to be able to reciprocate in good style.—Lowell Citizen.

Disagreeably So. Hospital Physician (looking into the ambulance)—The man is dead. His skull has been fractured, and his face is beaten to a pulp. Where did you find him? Officer 7,001—At the surprise party down the street, sir.

"Who was surprised, did you say?" "The corpse, I think, sir!"—Boston Times.

Lines of Etiquette. My dearest girl, I beg you'll not begin your sentences "Oh, say!" Eschew likewise "the soup," "Great Scott!" For slang, my love, is not an art. —Carlyle Smith in Life.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Among yesterday's nominations is that of Blanche K. Bruce, the colored ex-Senator of Mississippi, to be recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—In a statement to the public on Saturday concerning the Republican position in the controversy in the House Speaker Reed says he believes he is justified in the course he has adopted, and quotes Mr. Carlisle as a precedent. "In Mr. Carlisle's own State," he says, "in Democratic Tennessee, in Democratic New York, in Democratic Ohio, in Massachusetts and in the courts everywhere—the doctrine upheld by the House is the law of the land—and it ought to be if good government is not to perish from the face of the earth. Not a ruling has been made in the House to suppress filibustering which has not the full sanction of parliamentary law."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The statement of the public debt issued on Saturday showed the total debt to be $1,611,281,183; cash in the Treasury, $31,894,200; debt less cash in Treasury, $1,040,717,016. Decrease during January, $12,245,895. Decrease since June 30, 1899, $35,939,005.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Supreme Court of the United States yesterday rendered an opinion confirming the constitutionality of the Edmunds-Tucker Idaho test oath intended to prevent Mormons from voting. The case came up on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, made by Samuel D. Davis, who is in jail in Idaho, having been sentenced for unlawfully taking the prescribed test oath when he was a member of the Mormon church. The court denies the application for a writ of habeas corpus, holding that polygamy is a crime and that the constitutional provision guaranteeing freedom of religion is not intended to prevent punishment of any person who, in the name of religion, commits a crime in the eyes of the law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Mr. Carlisle has prepared for publication a statement of the present position of the Democratic members of the House in which he declares that the rulings of Speaker Reed are dangerous to the integrity of future legislation; says that by his arbitrary rulings the Speaker has subverted nearly every principle of constitutional and parliamentary law heretofore recognized in the House; declares that every presiding officer in the Senate and every Speaker of the House except the present one has held that when less than a quorum voted on a call of the yeas and nays, no matter how many might be actually present, it was his duty to take notice of the fact and declare that the pending bill or motion had not passed, says that constitutional idea of a quorum is not the presence of a majority of all the members of the House, but a majority of the members present and participating in the business of the House, and declares that the minority is not contending for the right to govern, but are contending that the majority shall take the responsibility which properly belongs to them, and shall come to the House of Representatives and vote if they desire to control the proceedings, but are protesting against their right to carry their measures by counting the minority when they do not vote.

BURNED TO DEATH.
Ten Lives Lost in a Fire in a Boston Tenement House.

Escape of the Inmates Cut Off—The Terrified People Flee to the Upper Rooms, Where They Are Roasted to Death.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—In July, forty-four years ago, nine persons were burned to death in a fire on North street. Boston had not recorded a counterpart in fatality to that disaster until Sunday morning shortly after midnight, when fire broke out in the dwelling house Nos. 259 and 261 of that same street, occupied mostly by Italians, and ten persons were quickly burned to death, three others fatally injured and six more seriously if not mortally hurt. There is a diversity of accounts as to the origin of the fire. It is believed that the fire started in the clothing store of Maurice Rubey on the first floor, and some minutes before it was discovered it had eaten through the partition wall of the hallway which contained the stairs leading to the tenements above. The wooden stairway was like a tallow candle and the flames swept up it like a flash and took hold of the rear stairways ascending from the same hallway and thus cut off all escape for the occupants. The scenes which occurred among the inmates when they were awakened were of the most exciting description. There was no way for them to get down, and as they ascended to the attic the flames followed swiftly upon them. Shrieks of terror, groans of agony and cries for help filled the air. Men, women and children filled the windows and piteously pleaded for help. Some of the more venturesome even hung from the windows by a slight hold on the sills. Ladders were hurriedly hoisted, lines of hose quickly run off and "pipe" from the chemical engine was rushed into the flaming mass. In ten minutes those whom it was possible to save had been taken from their positions of peril and the wounded had been taken to places where their injuries could be cared for.

It was not until after the fire had been practically extinguished that the interior of what was then but a shell could be examined. Chief Webber, followed by several firemen, went into the building at a little past 1 o'clock and with difficulty ascended to the upper floors. The stair-ways from the street to the second floor were completely burned away. When the chief and his companions reached the upper floor they found under one of the windows a human form, burned to a crisp almost, the two palms clasped together, kneeling as though at prayer. Further search showed in other parts of the top floor seven other human forms, almost covered with cinders and ashes. Seeing their escape from the flames below to the street impossible, because the stairs were roaring masses of fire, the terrified victims had evidently rushed to the upper floor in their attempt to escape and had there been roasted as though held in a furnace. Later two bodies of infants were removed from other parts of the building, and the completed list of ten human lives was made up. The injured were removed to hospitals and the dead bodies were taken to the morgue for identification.

LAMPSON IS OUSTED.
The Ohio Senate by a Party Vote Elects the Lieutenant-Governor from Office.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—The hearing in the Marquis-Lampson contest for the Lieutenant-Governorship was concluded in the Ohio Senate Thursday evening and Lampson (Rep.) was ousted by a strict party vote. The Republican members filed a number of protests against the manner of proceeding, and the conclusion was attended with stormy scenes.

The question carried by 18 to 16, a strict party vote. Lampson said in a short speech that he had been legally elected Lieutenant-Governor, and that he proposed to perform his duties till the Supreme Court decided otherwise. The vote for Lieutenant-Governor on the face of the returns stood: Lampson (Rep.), 375,090; Marquis (Dem.), 375,068, the former thus having a plurality of 22.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1.—There was no trouble in the Senate yesterday morning. President pro tem. Adams took the chair in the absence of Lieutenant-Governor Marquis, and Mr. Lampson did not try to take the chair, as he said he would. Later he left for home.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—Mr. Patterson, one of the counsel for Lampson, says the next move by the Republicans will be to secure the issuance of quo warranto papers to Mr. Marquis from the Supreme Court compelling him to show by what right he is acting as president of the Senate. The Supreme Court is solidly Republican, and is relied upon to oust Mr. Marquis and reinstate Mr. Lampson.
