COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Routine Business—Final Disposition of the Old Cemetery Case—Whitman to get $1,300 and the City to get a Clear Title to the Land—A Good Deal for the City.

The common council met in regular session Monday evening, all the members being present except Aldermen Allmendinger and Spokes.

A communication was received from the Board of Public Works recommending that the plat of J. D. Baldwin's addition to the city be vacated as requested in the petition of the officers of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Society, Mrs. Israel Hall and E. B. Hall, being the entire plat except Baldwin ave. south to Wells-st., and Wells-st. This action is made necessary in order to gain an encroachment the new fair grounds, and also in order to plat the old fair grounds. They also recommended that new sidewalks be ordered built on E. Washington-st., in front of the property owned by Cornelius and Nancy Porter, Jacob Hoffstetter, Susan Dillon and Aretus Dunn.

A petition was received from W. W. Tozer, asking that $17.45, which he paid for taxes on personal property which he claims he did not own, be refunded. The supervisors and assessor recommended the claim. Referred to the finance committee.

The finance committee reported that they had had bills against the various funds under consideration, and recommended that warrants be drawn as follows:

Contingent Fund.....	$648.06
Street.....	152.41
Police.....	282.59
Firemen's.....	282.59
Poor.....	269.98

Total..... $147.07

An ordinance relative to changing the names of number of streets in the city, came up for first and second readings. The committee on streets submitted a report favorable to changing the names as provided in the ordinance, which was adopted.

The street committee recommended that sidewalks be ordered built on E. Washington-st., as asked for by the Board of Public Works. Adopted.

The marshal reported 23 arrests during February as follows: Drunk, 13; violating city ordinance, 6; vagrant, 1; burglary and licenses, 2; arson, 1.

The Superintendent of the Poor reported expenditures in the different wards during February as follows: 1st ward, $22.32; 2nd ward, $9.55; 3rd ward, $46.16; 4th ward, $81.18; 5th ward, $21.57; 6th ward, $2.75; total, $184.53.

The city recorder submitted his report. The city treasurer submitted his report for the month, showing the following: Balance overdrawn at last report, $18,439; receipts, $32,284.56; disbursements, $2,680.02; balance, $11,165.54, from which the estimate of taxes to be returned, $499.47, leaves a cash balance of $10,666.07. The balances in the various funds are as follows:

Contingent Fund.....	$122.73
Street.....	1790.15
Firemen's.....	2761.86
Police.....	983.07
Poor.....	1783.34
Water.....	362.05
Cemetery.....	176.18
Dog Tax.....	100.00
Delinquent Tax Fund, (overdrawn).....	231.80

Less remaining taxes to return..... $11,165.54

Cash Balance..... $10,666.07

The climax of the evening was reached when Ald. A. F. Martin offered the following resolution:

Resolved that the sum of $300 be appropriated from the contingent fund, in addition to the $1,000 already appropriated, to pay C. R. Whitman for his title and the title of Ann Arbor town in and to the old cemetery, the order therefor not to be drawn or money paid to Whitman until decree quieting title in said land shall have been passed and enrolled.

President Belser ruled the resolution out of order, but on an appeal by Ald. O'Mara, this ruling was set aside. Ald. A. F. Martin, Barker and Dieterle had changed their original position and were favoring the resolution which they had previously opposed. T. J. Keech was invited to say a few words on this subject, which he did. He had investigated the matter thoroughly and advised the council to pass the resolution, as it was by far the cheapest and best method of disposing of this vexing question. Ald. C. Martin was not disposed to favor the resolution, and it would have been laid over a week under his objection had not Ald. O'Mara moved to suspend the rules, which was done. The resolution was then adopted, only Pres. Belser and Ald. C. Martin voting against it.

The council then adjourned, but the members remained in the room for some time discussing the resolution just passed, the final conclusion being that the action taken was the cheapest way out of the case, besides which it would give the city the finest park site in this vicinity.

A GERMAN STUDENTS' DUEL.

Queer Sort of Fun.
STRASBURG IN ELSASS, SPRING STREETS, 4,
GERMANY, FEB. 12, 1890.

DEAR REGISTER:
This morning I had the privilege of witnessing a duel, and thinking that a description of this characteristic and very disgusting feature of German student life might be interesting at Ann Arbor, I send the following:

The interest in this barbarous custom is kept up by a class of fraternities (Vereine), whose members on joining the society, agreed to answer unconditionally any challenge made them. Generally speaking there are two kinds of duels: one, the most common among students, is fought for the fun of it or for practice; the other is fought to retrieve insulted honor. The former is often brought about as follows: A new recruit (freshman or such) after practicing fencing a little begins to long for some real practice, and informs the leader of his fraternity of the fact, who goes to the leader of another fraternity with a challenge for a duel. Sometimes a definite person is challenged and sometimes the fraternity itself is to appoint a representative to give the desired satisfaction. It often happens that the duelists are good friends, both before and after the combat. In the latter case the challenge is usually sent by a person who has been or who imagines that he has been insulted and wishes in this way to clear his honor of a stain. This is much more liable to be a serious affair than the other. The students are very proud of their haggled faces and every hideous scar adds beauty, in their estimation. If the wounds seem to be healing so as to leave no scars, they often open them and inject some irritant. Dueling is prohibited by law but like some laws in other lands, it is scarcely noticed.

About eight o'clock, in company with two students, I started for the scene of action, which was a little suburban village about a mile distant. Upon arriving we entered what seemed to be an ordinary saloon. Then passing through the front room and another back of it, we entered a large hall entirely secluded from the front drinking room by curtains. In this room were some twenty-five or thirty German students, smoking, drinking, and talking. About half of them wore little round, red flat topped caps, and the other half wore blue caps of the same shape, the color indicating the fraternity to which they belonged. On two tables in different parts of the room lay several swords about four feet long, without points, but very sharp on both edges for a distance of about six or eight inches from the end. Over the handle was a large metal basket to protect the hand. On two other tables were outifts of surgical apparatus, each in charge of a physician. The floor was covered with a heavy coating of saw-dust, to absorb the blood, and lines were drawn about four feet apart upon which the combatants were to stand. Of the two duelists, one was a young man of nineteen or twenty, whose face was free from scars, while the other's face told the story of considerable previous experience. The outer clothing of the upper part of the body was removed and then began a long process of padding and wrapping. On the right hand was drawn a heavily padded glove; heavy leather wrappings were fastened around the shoulders and upper arms, and a large quilted sleeve was drawn on, which was thickly bandaged at the wrist and shoulder. A sole leather breastplate protected the heart and lungs, and the neck was wrapped to the thickness of an inch and a half. Then over the front and sides of the body and down to the knees was fastened a heavily wadded, blood-stained, and blood-stiffened mantle. The eyes were protected by heavy leather or metal goggles. The left arm below the elbow was unprotected, but was fastened behind the back.

After these preparations, the two men took their places and the only parts of their bodies above the belt that were vulnerable were their cheeks, nose, and that portion of the head above the eyes. By the side of each man stood his second, partially protected by padding. At a given signal the two men began striking at each other like demons. During the first moment the inexperienced man received a cut just below the left temple, when they were stopped and the wound pronounced not serious by the physicians. Again they went at it, the same man received another cut during the next round, and the older one lost a piece of his scalp. This was kept up four and one-half minutes, when the duel was stopped and the record showed four blood drawings on the younger and one on the older man. By this time the younger man's face and head was covered with blood, which was running profusely from his four wounds. They were all quite good sized and the largest was between three and four inches long and clear into the bone. His padding was removed and then began the operation of sewing up. Although having lost enough blood to make an ordinary man weak, he underwent the sewing without a twich or murmur, very much to his credit according to the dueling code.

Although a most hideous and disgusting sight, the pluck and nerve they showed was worthy of admiration. The striking was all done with an arm and hand movement and except the strokes of the right arm, their bodies seemed to be anything but human. They did not dodge nor tremble, and even after a vigorous blow had given a ghastly wound no movement was visible. Such weakness would be regarded as very unbecoming. This one was followed by four more, which in preparation, operation and reparation consumed the entire morning. All ten of the participants were more or less cut up, the average number of gashes being 21-5 each.

I remained through the first one and the surgical operations following it, and then, having lectures at the University and having satisfied my curiosity, I left, very glad to have seen a duel but not caring especially to see any more.

EDITOR REGISTER:

You hit the nail on the head in your short editorial of last week in regard to Congressman Allen. No matter what our personal feelings may be, the question is: What is for the best interest of the people of the district? Many a man might be in Congress ten years and not have the standing Allen has. His having been called to preside over that body of men so many times, is more honor than to have been made chairman of most any committee. Respectfully, J. T. JACOBS.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

The recent "Deesctrik Skule" at Ypsilanti netted $313.50.

The question of building a new church is being agitated by the Methodists of Ypsilanti.

Rev. Mr. Conrad commenced his duties as pastor of the Baptist church at Dexter, last Sunday.

G. B. Mason and Dr. S. W. Chandler have been appointed ruling elders of the Saline Presbyterian church.

A. Rheinfrank, of Bridgewater, now wears one foot in a sling. He dropped a barrel on it and smashed a toe.

The rails are now being laid on the double track for the Michigan Central, near Dexter. Forty men are at work there.

The assets of John Weimeister's estate at Howell, foot up $12,134.06. The liabilities will reach considerable more than this.

Uncle Sam will have to hunt around for another location in which to do business at Howell, as the postoffice building has been rented.

A Monroe county man is trying to induce the Sharoy farmers to go into the P. of I. business. At last accounts, he was unsuccessful.

Brighton shipped five boxes of clothing to the Dakota sufferers last week. Why wouldn't it be a good scheme for other places in this vicinity to follow Brighton's example?

We have this morning the important announcement that Dr. E. O. Pratt has bought the Forest Avenue Sanitarium, and will take possession the middle of March.—Ypsilanti.

Our efficient fire department was out in full force Saturday night and did effective work—better work than some village fire departments with more expensive apparatus.—Milan Leader.

N. A. Wood last week made a very satisfactory sale of a fine wool ram to the Australian buyer who was in this vicinity, the price received being $90. Who says sheep don't pay.—Saline Observer.

A. Steger of Chelsea, returned home last week from Florida where he has enjoyed a delightful trip. He tells the biggest kinds of stories about that section of the country.

We learn that Fred Macomber, formerly of this village, has gone home to Ellsworth, Maine, and rented the old farm on which he was raised and will open a stone quarry next Spring.—Manchester Enterprise.

Chelsea Standard: Jas. P. Wood & Co. have their new warehouse, which is 28x60 feet, up and enclosed. It is a much larger room than they formerly had, and will be very convenient.

Peter Comeau of Milan will build a new house in the spring. The one he did live in was burned to the ground last week. Mr. Comeau's loss amounts to $1,500, on which there was $700 insurance.

Brighton Citizen:—It is said that a pair of large eagles have taken up their abode on the farm of N. S. Sweet in Genoa, and the farmers are now figuring on how to get rid of them before the time for young lambs arrive.

Milan Leader: Last Saturday was a legal holiday, but to the brotherhood of drinkers of fire water it did not count. Fire water will leak through open windows of back doors in whole bottlefulls just as easy as over a bar.

Sentinel:—Con. Howard and Jacob Price, employed on the Central's construction train, were both hurt yesterday, the former slightly by a falling nail. Price was more seriously injured by being thrown from a car by a sudden jerk of the engine.

Howell capitalists seem to think that they have as good as got the South Lyon School Furniture Company, while the South Lyonites claim that the company has no intention of moving the plant. How is it?—Brighton Citizen.

The general belief now is that this year will be a most prosperous one for Chelsea. A number of handsome new houses are to be erected, and many persons are contemplating making improvements to their homes.—Chelsea Herald.

Last Saturday while Jas. Hudler was riding on his ice boat on Cavanaugh lake, he was thrown off near the landing, striking a plank which injured him quite badly.—Chelsea Herald. Everybody knows Jim and will sympathize with him in his misfortune.

Farmers who come into town to remain several hours should see that the blankets on their horses are securely fastened. When walking around town one can see about as many blankets on the ground or around the horses' feet as upon their backs.—Ex.

'Tis now settled. At the last meeting, the Dunc. P. of I. decided that "farming is more profitable than the mercantile business." If it is so, the farmers are wondering how the merchants keep from starving, as it has been all that the farmer could do to make a living for several years past.

Judge Pratt of Ashland, Wis., interested in the Washenaw Iron Mining Company, is in this city. He reports the organization of a new company, yesterday, called the Michigan Iron Mining Company. Some of our substantial citizens are interested. Full particulars will be given soon.—Ypsilanti. The "full particulars," will probably come in the way of assessments. That's the experience our people have had with mining ventures.

We noticed a farmer plowing while passing on the T. & A. A. near Dundee last week. Not a month this winter but that the plow has been used in this section. How is that for Michigan?—Saline Observer. That's nothing. Hon. John J. Robinson says that he saw a farmer "putting in" a large amount of "barley," and another one "planting" a large crop of "corn," last week. It all happened in a saloon in this city, however.

Bert Walker, whose home was in Stockbridge, but during the past few years in the employ of an uncle in Aurora, Ill., met with a fatal accident last week. While trying to back a horse attached to a delivery wagon out of a barn, the horse became frightened and jumped, throwing the young man out, his head striking a piece of iron and causing instant death. The deceased was a son of Mrs. Walker, widow of Roger Walker, formerly a farmer in Dexter township.—Dexter Leader.

Here's the way the Dexter Leader starts a boom for that village: Dexter is getting to be quite an export town though we hear but little about it. At present the principal shipments are baled straw by the carload to Detroit and Philadelphia; oak timber and lumber to various points in this country and Europe; live stock to Detroit and Buffalo and flour to various eastern points. Add to this the annual exportation of farm produce, fruit and grain and you will find that Dexter is by no means the most insignificant station on the line.

Communication.

ED. REGISTER:—I was not a little surprised in finding that the Ann Arbor papers were partial to some portions of Northfield. Two weeks ago when Edward Burke and his brother Anthony, two boys under sixteen years of age, were arrested on complaint of Jas. Loughran, a school teacher, for assault and battery, every city paper showed its vigilance in giving an account of the same to the public. A few weeks ago John Kearney, of Northfield, was arrested and brought before Justice Butts for a serious offense, had his examination, and was held to the circuit court for trial on complaint of Miss Nora Gast, a poor German girl, who was employed as a domestic in his father's family, without friends, except a father ignorant of our language, and an invalid mother. Why was one case given publicity and the other suppressed? Cases of the latter kind have always been given publicity, and never before have the city papers been partial to any portion of Northfield. Why in this instance?

The Ladies' Home Journal at Northfield

The Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia, proposes to give to any young girl 16 years or over, who will send to it, between now and Jan. 1st, 1891, the largest number of yearly subscribers to the Journal, a complete education at Vassar College or any other American College she may select. The education offered includes every branch of study, with every expense paid, the Journal agreeing to educate the girl irrespective of the time required or the expense involved. To this is also pinned a second offer, which guarantees to any girl of 16 years or over who will secure 1000 yearly subscribers before Jan. 1st, a full term of one year at Vassar or any other preferred college. Address: Ladies' Home Journal at 435 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

LITERARY NOTES.

Miss Grace Dean McLeod, a young Canadian author, is contributing to WIDE AWAKE a really remarkable series of stories from Acadian Old-Folk Lore, which she gathers from original sources. "The Kadusak Giant," in the March number, is a startling illustration of truth stranger than fiction, and Kit Carson is the subject of a notable and intimate article by Jessie Benton Fremont. The peculiar relations of Kit Carson and General Fremont in the old pioneer days give this recital unusual interest. A fine and surprising portrait accompanies this article. D. Lothrop & Co. Boston.

Dr. Albert Shaw of Minneapolis gives in the March Century one of his most important papers. It is entitled "Glossow; a Municipal Study." Major Powell, Director of the Geological Survey, begins a series of three papers, illustrated with maps, on the subject of Irrigation. His first paper is "The Irrigable Lands of the Arid Region." Professor Fisher closes his very timely series of religious papers, the last one being "Revelation and Faith." These papers have a direct bearing upon the discussions now in progress on creed revision. Century Co. New York.

Chauncey M. Depew in the characteristic pose of an after-dinner speaker was the subject of a full-page drawing from life, by Te de Thulstrup, published in Harper's Weekly, February 26th. Professor William M. Sloane, of Princeton University, contributes an article on "College Athletics." The history of army uniforms in the United States, from Revolutionary times to the present, is the subject of a four-page supplement. The article is from the pen of Henry Loomis Nelson, and is adequately illustrated. Harper & Brothers, New York.

Mr. Nathaniel P. Langford's book, "Vigilante Days and Ways: The Pioneers of the Rockies. The Makers and Making of Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming," is well worth the attention of all interested in how the Great West was built up. The book is fully equal to Kendall's noted "Santa Fé Expedition," and occupies a field as previously untouched as did that classic of forty years ago. Illustrated. Two vols. Sold only by subscription. Cloth, $6.00. Agents wanted. G. C. Cupples & Co., Boston.

The March number of the "Magazine of Art," has an excellent frontispiece in photogravure of Charles Jacque's "The Return of the Flock—Moon-light," one of the best examples of Jacque's poetic brush. It reminds one of Millet's "Sheepfold," another full page illustration is an engraving on wood of "A German Lady," Sir Thomas Lawrence's portrait of Queen Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent. The opening number, "Current Art," contains a number of good engravings from some of the best pictures recently exhibited in London. Cassell Pub. Co., New York. 35 cents a number, $3.50 a year, in advance.

Van Phou Lee's reminiscient volume of his young life in the Orient, "When I was a Boy in China," which D. Lothrop Company have just put to a new edition, has been placed upon the Reading Course of the Chautauqua Young Folks' Reading Circle. Grant Allen's "Common Sense Science" has also gone into a new edition and has been reduced in price from $1.50 to $1.25. A study of the character that is developed by the many phases of our modern life is the main-spring of Mrs. Lawrence Turnbull's new novel, "The Catholic Man," just issued by D. Lothrop Company. Many questions affecting daily needs and duties are treated in its pages under the guise of definite fiction. D. Lothrop Co., Boston.

LECTURE ON CHRONIC SKIN DISEASES.

Read this Lecture and Find How to Rid Yourself of Them.

The common chronic skin diseases are of three classes: First, those that cause pustules; second, those that cause scaly or branny skin; third, those that cause pimples. The first, or pustular skin diseases, can be easily recognized, as they always produce pus (or matter as it is often called). Large, yellow pustules, boils, carbuncles, skin ulcers, syphilitic skin diseases, buboes and chancre, are common examples of the pustular variety of skin diseases. Those who are subject to boils, sore lips, styes or red eyelids, running at the ears, are of the same class, and are cured by the same treatment. I treat a great number of this class of skin affections every year and I invariably prescribe La-cu-pi-a. La-cu-pi-a can be depended on every time, and no other medicine is required, except when the bowels are constipated when Man-a-lin should be used also.

The scaly (Squamous) skin affections include salt rheum (eczema), scald head, cracked lips, and chapped hands, and they all indicate a bad condition of the blood. La-cu-pi-a, the greatest constitutional remedy I have ever known, strikes at the root of this class of affections by purifying the blood and cleansing the whole system. That most stubborn affection of scald head in babies I have never known La-cu-pi-a to fail to cure. It can be relied upon to permanently cure all skin diseases due to blood contaminations or constitutional taints. It greatly assists and hastens the action of La-cu-pi-a to keep the bowels regular by using some good laxative. The one I have found to be the most reliable is Man-a-lin, which works splendidly with La-cu-pi-a.

The third class of skin affections, or those that produce pimples, include some very common, every day annoyances. Hives and prickly heat are examples of the more acute variety of pimeloid skin diseases. There are many people who have red pimples on the face, between the shoulders and on the shoulder blades, which are worse at times than others, but are always a great disfigurement and source of discomfort. Another quite common trouble, especially of young people of both sexes, is the appearance of pimples on the face which contain a cheesy substance, and when forced out has a close resemblance to a small worm or grub, which many people really suppose them to be. These are often black at the end, which makes them doubly unsightly additions to the youthful complexion. This class of pimples are called by the medical works "acne punctata," and, disgusting as it is to be a victim of it, yet it is worse to have to endure another too common variety, called "acne rosacea." No one can mistake it for any other affection, as it thickens and reddens the nose, and sometimes the cheeks also. Because of the frequency in which temperate habits has been the cause of this form of acne, it has often been called "rum blossom," but many people of temperate habits are so afflicted.

Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin are the remedies that will not disappoint any one who will give them a fair trial. This class of skin troubles are all dependent on sluggishness of the excretory ducts, especially those of the skin. Pe-ru-na hastens the expulsion from the system of all effete matter, which, if allowed to clog up the millions of tiny ducts of the skin, will produce pimples.

Pe-ru-na will produce a clear complexion and smooth skin. Many young people about the age of puberty are anxiously trying every remedy which is reputed to remove the annoying pimples so common to that age, but rarely find any relief. I feel sure that Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin will never disappoint any such person by any reasonable use of it—the Man-a-lin to be taken in sufficient doses to slightly stimulate the action of the bowels, and Pe-ru-na taken exactly as directed on the bottle. I should not be doing them justice if I spoke less positive language, for years of experience with them has taught me that there are practically no failures.

IT IS FOOLISH

To send for the doctor every time you don't feel just right. My doctor's bill for years was over one hundred dollars a year, which made a pretty big hole in my wages. For the past two years, I only spent ten dollars, with which I bought a dozen bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and health has been in my family since using them. Robert Johnson, Machinist.

ROYAL FLUSHES.

Emperor William's visit to Constantinople cost the sultan over $1,000,000.

The mikado of Japan is very fond of horse racing. He is, in fact, a stable monarch.

The new king of Portugal is a crack shot, and two years ago took the first prize at Wimbledon.

The young empress of the Germans is having 1,500 diamonds set. Eleven pearls will relieve their brilliancy.

Queen Louise of Denmark lately celebrated her seventy-second birthday at Fredensborg, surrounded by her children and grandchildren.

Princess Militza of Montenegro divided the 1,000,000 roubles presented to her by the czar of Russia as a wedding present among the nearly inhabitants of Montenegro.

The dowager empress of China takes a great interest in the development of the Celestial kingdom, and spends a great deal of time in consultation with railroad projectors.

King Dinal, the Senegambian who made a success in Paris, started for his native land in a precarious condition. His constitution had been wrecked by his life in the French capital.

The king of Bavaria smokes 100 cigarettes every day, and is so fond of seeing blazes that each time he lights a cigarette he sets off a box of matches just for the fun of seeing them burn.

The prince of Patagonia and king of Araucania lives in Paris. He is not holding his throne for fear of the Chileans. His name is Achille, and he is of Irish origin. In 1878, after many adventures, he was made king of Patagonia.

Prince George of Wales commanded a torpedo boat during the recent British naval maneuvers. When at last the pennant was hailed down he personally thanked and shook hands with every member of the crew and gave to each his photograph and a sovereign.

The king of Siam is a magnificent object in state attire. He glistens from head to foot with jewels worth more than $1,000,000.
He was a father at the age of 12, and is now only 36 years old. The king is a good fellow, and very kind to his 300 wives. He is very progressive, and has done a great deal of good to Siam.

Queen Victoria is one of the four most accomplished linguists among women of imperial rank, the other three being her daughter Victoria, the widowed German empress;
the Russian czarina, and the Austrian kaiserin. The queen is master of French, German, Italian and Spanish, not to mention Gaelic and the Indian tongue.

KANSAN PHILOSOPHY.

It is the guilty man who makes explanations.

Some men should never be seen except in a crowd.

Everything that is nice grows on the other side of a barbed wire fence.

If you want to sleep late in the mornings make up your mind to get up early.

A whipping never hurts so much as the thought that you are being whipped.

If you put your eyes on your neighbor's row the weeds will grow up in your own.

Never think. Thinking of a trouble makes it larger, and thinking of a joy makes it less.

Only a very pretty young girl and a very old man can afford to be independent of pleasing others.

You are even with the weeds now that the frost has come; but the killing frost always comes too late to do you any good.

Any boy will save money to buy a gun. It is the boy who saves money who has no gun in view, who deserves the most credit.

An unfair thing in this world is that we never know there is an ounce of prevention until after we have taken our pound of cure.

If your heart is larger than your head you injure yourself, and if your head is larger than your heart you injure your neighbors.—

High Winds Cause Great Destruction of Property in Parts of Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas and Other States.

WRECKED BY WIND.

CARTHAGE, Miss., March 1.—A cyclone caused considerable damage here Thursday. The court-house was first struck and the cupola, chimneys and roofing carried away. Several residences were demolished, including that of C. P. Brennan. The Brennan family, consisting of the husband, wife and four children, were buried in the debris. All were severely hurt, one of the children having since died of his injuries.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—A cold norther prevailed in the vicinity of Austin, Tex., Thursday night and the mercury went down to 20 degrees below zero. Growing corn, oats, fruit and vegetables were destroyed and hundreds of fig trees were killed. A north wind is blowing in Mississippi and the temperature has fallen to the freezing point. The fruit and vegetable crops will probably suffer.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 3.—The first hard freeze of the winter here occurred Sunday morning. The damage to truck crops can not be estimated. Light snow, the first in many years, fell Sunday morning.

ST. LOUIS, March 3.—Reports from Northern Texas say that hundreds of range cattle have been frozen to death during the present cold spell, and that unless the weather speedily moderates the loss of stock will be severe.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 3.—A killing frost occurred here Sunday morning destroying, in all probability, the fruit crop throughout this county. Reports from Western Florida are to the effect that the fruit crop in that section is badly damaged and will probably be a total loss.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 3.—Late reports from the lower Cumberland river represent much distress on the low lands. Nearly 1,500 people have been compelled on account of the flood to drive their stock on high ground, and many of them have been compelled to leave their own homes for more elevated positions.

EDGEFIELD & NASHVILLE Manufacturing Company was obliged to close its shops on account of back water. The Prewitt & Spurr Company have a force of hands engaged in removing lumber and making the rafts fast to the banks of the river. The loss by flood will reach from $700,000 to $1,000,000. Kentucky lumber companies will be the heaviest losers.

TALLADEGA, Ala., March 3.—A terrible storm passed over this section, destruction marking its entire course. Fortunately it did not pass through a thickly populated part of the town. Houses were blown down and boards and beams and rafters carried a considerable distance. Trees were snapped off or torn from the ground by the roots. Cows, horses and other domestic animals were killed, and a number of people living in the houses blown down were seriously injured, but none fatally.

DICK HAWES HANGED.

The Noted Murderer of His Wife and Two Children Executed at Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 1.—Dick Hawes was hanged yesterday for the murder of his wife and two children on December 4, 1888. He made a statement that a previous confession was true. He said he paid John Wylie $20 to put his wife and children out of the way, because his wife refused to leave as promised, having heard of his intended marriage to another woman. The trap fell at 12:30; life was extinct in thirteen minutes.

[Hawes murdered his wife and two daughters, drowning them in an artificial lake near Birmingham in December, 1888. Two days after the commission of the crime he married a young girl named Story, of Columbus, Miss., and was on his wedding tour when arrested. Attempts were made to lynch him and resulted in a riot, the sheriff and his posse firing into the mob and killing twelve citizens. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to death, and on January 12 last Judge McClellan of the Supreme Court, rendered a decision affirming the verdict.]

FOUR CHILDREN ROASTED.

Henry Greenlee, Living Near Endora, Miss., Loses His Little Ones.

GREENVILLE, Miss., March 4.—News reached here Monday that at 10:30 Sunday morning the cabin of a negro named Henry Greenlee, one and one-half miles north of Endora, Miss., was discovered to be on fire. Before anybody could reach it it was burned to the ground. Four children, the oldest being 5 years old, were burned to a crisp. The parents about 9 a. m. went to church and left the oldest in charge of the little ones.

Oklahoma and the Negro Colony.

GUTHRIE, Ind. T., March 4.—Great indignation is expressed here at the statements in the special telegrams from Topeka in regard to the alleged negro colonization of Oklahoma. The lands in Oklahoma are all taken up and among the settlers there is only a handful of negroes. It is difficult to understand how thousands of negroes are to be colonized on lands already occupied by legitimate claimants.

A Bold Thief Killed.

VALLEY FALLS, Kan., March 3.—Hicks & Gephart's Bank at this place was robbed Saturday afternoon of $3,000 by a man named Robert Robertson, who held up the cashier. On Sunday the robber was found at Meriden and was shot dead while resisting arrest and the money recovered.

One noticeable feature in French horses is that in all sizes they are bred for speed in trotting. The composition of the ground in the Palais de l'Industrie is suited to this peculiarity, being hard and not covered with tan, as in the case of our shows. This is a point which we seem to have lost sight of in favor of show action. And yet trotting speed must be inherent in the breed that comes from the loins of Marshland Shales, who did his 17 miles in 56 minutes, carrying 13 st., or from Wroot's Pretender, who is credited with 16 miles to the hour, carrying 16 st., as well as in the stock of that Yorkshire coach horse, a brother to Wonderful, of whom we find the almost incredible record of 18 miles in the hour, carrying 18 st. In our competitions the pace which will make a horse raise his knee to the highest point is the only one sought after, but any one who has visited one of the real old-fashioned Yorkshire breeders and seen these horses trotted without breaking on a long rein to a gallop, the latter galloping alongside as fast as he can lay heels to the ground, or any one who remembers the large part which old Bellfounder played in the creation of the American trotting horse, will understand how easily the characteristic of speed could be resuscitated in these English breeds."

Box Sluice.

A correspondent of the Ohio Farmer sends to that paper the following sketch of an improvement in building box sluices. The old plan of covering with a plank placed lengthwise is very defective, as the weight of the dirt it is compelled to support depresses the plank in the center, causing it to hold water, which hastens decay; the plank drops into the sluice, followed by part of the road-bed, which washes out until the covering of dirt is entirely gone. With the plan here illustrated the sluice cover is thoroughly drained, the full strength of the material is utilized, and when saturated with gas-tar, or something similar, is rendered almost indestructible.

"QUALITY" IN FRENCH HORSES.

An English Horseman's Comments on the French Horse and His Points.

Speaking of the quality of the native French horses exhibited at the Paris show last spring, Mr. Burdette-Coutts, in London Live-Stock, Sports and Pastimes, says: "I have two general remarks to make. First, that up to 15.2, or possibly up to 15.3, hands our English horses, particularly now when the study and attention given to the Hackney breed has in five or six years produced such marked improvement, are immeasurably superior in every respect to any thing that is bred in France. For barouche horses from 16 to 17 hands high I reluctantly admit that the French breeder takes the brioché. The French have a race of carrossiers—that is, by constantly crossing the Hackney stallion with the big mares of Normandy, the latter probably enlarged by an earlier admixture of Cleveland or Yorkshire coach-horse blood, they have created a race from which their barouche horses are produced. I am by no means satisfied with them. Their hind action is indifferent, their shapes are vastly inferior to our best Yorkshire type, showing neither the lengthy and level quarter nor the long, elegant top line of the latter. But that which really shows a horse in harness, and which sells him at a high price for that purpose, viz.: high action in front, is very much more marked throughout the French-bred barouche horses than in our own."

"It is not the best of action; it is often up and down, 'loppety,' and 'dishing,' but there is no doubt about it they do 'pop it up.' A pair of Yorkshire coach horses or of Cleveland bays—of that fine quality which my friend Mr. A. E. Pease, M. P., does not appear to consider either a natural or valuable characteristic of the latter breed, but which I believe, by careful attention can easily be produced from it—if they had really high action in front, would be worth, in the eyes of any one who knows a horse's tail from his head, double the money that any French-bred pair ought to fetch. But, as a rule, in our big horses of this type we have not got the action. There are one or two famous exceptions, and if these should succeed in reproducing their own action while preserving their fine shapes we shall have solved the difficulty which to my mind should be a matter of grief and consternation to English horse-breeders—viz.: that we can not or do not at the present time produce big carriage horses suitable for the London state carriage."

"It is a well-known fact that most of the big bay horses which we see in the Mall on a drawing-room day, whatever black blood may be in their veins, are strangers in a strange land. I do not deny that some big horses with action are produced in Great Britain, but for the most part they are 'carriage' hunters from Ireland or the produce of Hackney stallions and cart mares, and in neither case do they possess the curvilinear and sweeping form which, to a practiced eye, is most beautiful for a big harness horse. I have little doubt that some of the coarseness of shape, and particularly the low-set tail in the French carrossier, is due to the fact that many big so-called Hackney stallions have been imported into that country which get their size from a cross of carting blood. It remains to be seen whether in this country we can not produce an animal with the requisite action and shape by crossing the Cleveland bay or the Yorkshire coach horse with a pure Hackney possessed of extra size and quality. Without the latter we shall do nothing in this business."

"One noticeable feature in French horses is that in all sizes they are bred for speed in trotting. The composition of the ground in the Palais de l'Industrie is suited to this peculiarity, being hard and not covered with tan, as in the case of our shows. This is a point which we seem to have lost sight of in favor of show action. DEATH IN THE STORM.

Terrible Tales of Destitution in Portions of Kansas.

WICHITA, Kan., March 1.—The mercury continues to hover about ten degrees below zero, which is two degrees colder than it was at any time last year. It is now certain that the fruit crop in this State this year is almost totally destroyed, and the winter wheat is badly damaged.

The news from the Southwest indicates great suffering of cattle in the Cherokee strip and in the western part of the State. Cold weather so late in the season was not expected and feed has been consumed. Many hundred head of cattle have already died, and should the blizzard continue a few days cattlemen say the loss will be as great as that sustained eight years ago.

The situation in Morton, Stevens and Hodgeman counties is pitiable. The authorities here have a message from the county commissioners of Stevens stating that their greatest and most pressing need is for fuel. The fuel has all been consumed, and the intense cold has caught many people who have a scanty supply of provisions without fuel. Most of the supplies sent to the distressed districts have consisted of corn and flour, and now that it has been received there is no fuel to cook it with. The section most in need of aid is from fifty to 100 miles from railroads. The distributing committee in Stevens has had out many wagons and agents looking after the poor, but the cold is so intense that it is impossible to make long drives.

In the northwestern part of Stevens County Sam Woodsdale, his wife and three children were found dead Thursday. Two men—Ira Canfield and Henry Wedd—who lived in the western part of the county were also found victims of the blizzard. It is believed S. C. Campbell was caught in the storm Wednesday night and perished while trying to reach Woodsdale. He has many friends and relatives near Zanesville, O. In Morton County two deaths have been reported. Efforts are made to supply relief as in Stevens County.
