RAISIN CULTURE IN SOUTH CALIFORNIA.

Interesting Facts for Register Readers.

Few people are aware of the amount of labor, expense and pains required to grow, pick and properly cure the raisin, to say nothing of the packing after it is cured. As some of your readers may be interested to know how it is done, I will endeavor to give a description—short enough to find a space in the columns of your paper—of the manner in which it is done on the Boston ranch, in Cajon valley.

The vines on this ranch are planted in rows, ten by twelve feet. The most of the vines are three years old, and the first crop was picked last year.

The ground between the rows is plowed in the winter, and from that time until July, the one, two and three-horse cultivators are kept moving, to keep down the weeds, and to keep the soil mellow. The finer the soil is pulverized and the more it is stirred, the more moisture it will retain.

Hand hoes are used twice during the summer, or latter part of the winter, and in May all the shoots, or "suckers," which have no grapes, are pulled off. In June the vines are "summer-pruned," or cut back.

In the latter part of July the grapes begin to ripen, but picking does not begin until the second week in September. The bunches are cut from the vine, and placed on wooden trays, which measure two by three feet in size. These trays are placed on the ground between the vines, and they are allowed to remain exposed to the sun until the grapes change from a greenish yellow to a brown color. An empty tray is then placed, bottom side up, on a filled tray, and, taking a firm hold of both trays, two men turn them bottom side up, and the tray which was filled is taken off empty.

When both sides of the bunches are brown, the sorting begins. The best clusters are picked out for "London layers," and the smaller bunches which are dry enough are taken to the packing house, where they are run through a "stemmer," a machine which breaks all the raisins off the stems.

From the stemmer they go to the fanning mills, which blows out the stems, and sorts the raisins into different sizes and qualities.

They are then sorted over again by hand, and all remaining stems and such raisins as are not sufficiently cured are thrown out, and a sheet of paper being placed in the bottom of a box, covering bottom and sides, fifteen pounds of raisins are weighed into the box, and five pounds placed in a "form," with fancy picture paper in the bottom, which is placed in a press and slightly pressed down, and then transferred to the box, already partly filled, by drawing out the bottom of the "form." The paper folds over the top, and the "loose Muscatels" are ready for the box-closer and stenciler.

The "London layers" are placed in "sweat-boxes," which are two by three feet, and from eight to ten inches deep, when they are piled and allowed to remain from twenty-four hours to a week, to go through a process of sweating which softens and toughens the stem and fits them for packing.

The best grade is called "London layers," but this ranch also packed a second grade of layers, under the brand of "Two Crown layer," which was equal to the "London" in quality but slightly inferior in size.

The layers are carefully sorted, and all poor grapes clipped out with shears, and the clusters packed in forms holding five pounds each, with paper in each form large enough to fold over the top. The contents of four forms are then dropped into a box, by placing the "form" on the box and pulling out the sliding bottom. A chrome is then placed on top and the box nailed up.

GRADES.

There are three grades of "loose Muscatels" packed on this ranch, and two grades of layers. There are five hundred and eighty-five (585) acres of vines on the Boston ranch, and over forty acres of orange trees have been planted this season, besides thousands of olive trees along the avenues.

It required a force of from twenty-five to fifty men to attend to the vines and trees this summer, and it will require a small army to do the work in picking, curing and packing, and the crop will nearly double every year for several years to come.

Charles Dudley Warner, on his recent trip to South California, said of the El Cajon raisin: "They were the most delicious raisin I ever tasted and I have had a great desire to see the valley where they were produced. The skin is so thin, and the flavor so delicious that I cannot see why the packers have not taken advantage of the superiority of their product to have it widely known by the name of their beautiful valley, by dropping the name of 'London layers' and calling it 'El Cajon layer.'"

Some time in the future I may give a description of ranch life, etc., in these parts if you have space and think it will interest your readers. "PRAOIES"

They Were Right Too.
EDITOR OF REGISTER: In alluding to the meeting of executive board of the Farmers' Picnic Association, last week, you stated that the board were waiting for bids.

Now all the association asks is that the business men of the place where the picnic is held assume the financial responsibility and seat and arrange the ground. The people of Whitmore Lake have done this for years, and done it gladly, but last year a liquor fender got in his work some distance north of the hotels, and retailed beer to the amount of several hundred dollars, and the board refused to locate at the lake or any other place until they were assured no intoxicants should be allowed at or near the place of meeting.

The people of Whitmore Lake have very promptly raised the necessary funds and promised the required protection and the picnic is to be held at that place on Saturday, the 23rd day of August. DEXTER.

Commencement Day.

Commencement day June 26th, which arrived too late last week to be included in our fall report of the commencement exercises was about the warmest of the week, but this fact did not prevent the assembling of a packed audience in University Hall, to listen to the concluding exercises. Five hundred and forty-five graduates formed in line near the law building and marched into the hall, under the direction of Major Soule. A number of notables, including among others, Justice Harlan, Hon. Andrew D. White, Ex-Gov. Blair, Prof. Estabrook, President Sill, Bishop Davies, together with the faculty, occupied seats on the stage. President Angell made the opening prayer. After a selection by the orchestra, the orator of the day, Andrew D. White, was introduced. He announced as his subject, "Evolution and Revolution," or, in other words, progress by natural growth or progress by catastrophe. The speaker drew largely from his great historical knowledge and argued his thesis with almost invincible logic. The address lasted one hour and three-quarters and, owing to the speaker's weak voice, was unfortunately not heard at all by a large part of the audience. After another musical selection, the conferring of degrees took place. President Angell announced that the board of regents had voted to confer four honorary degrees, which were as follows: Dr. Henry E. Baker, Secretary of the State Board of Health, M. A.; Prof. A. A. Stanley, M. A.; Mrs. L. H. Stone, Ph. D.; Ex-Gov. Blair, LL. D. In conclusion, the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Davies.

At two o'clock a large number of alumni and friends of the University partook of the commencement dinner in the law lecture room. President Angell made a few appropriate remarks. Responses to toasts were made as follows: "The United States," by Justice Harlan; "The State," by Ex-Gov. Blair; "College Life," by Ex-President White; "Religious Influence of the University," by Bishop Davies, and "The Alumni Society," by the president of the Alumni Association, Mr. H. H. E. Miller, '68, of Chicago.

Marshal Walsh Not to Blame.

Some time during 1887, a man named June, of Jackson county, had, or pretended to have, a claim against John Antcliff, a farmer who lives in the township of Manchester. June secured the services of J. Reed Crowell, a Brooklyn lawyer, who, it appears, assisted him in obtaining a fraudulent execution against Antcliff. Crowell secured a transcript and placed it in the hands of Sheriff (now Marshal) Walsh, of Ann Arbor. Soon after, the Brooklyn lawyer succeeded in bulldozing Antcliff out of $240, of which Crowell retained all except $57 and the sheriff's fees. Antcliff brought suit against June and Crowell, but lost the case. The supreme court, however, on Friday last reversed the decision of the Jackson court and granted a new trial. The opinion of the supreme court reflects somewhat upon Mr. Walsh, for it states that the bill of execution was in his hands ten days before he gave notice to Antcliff. Mr. Walsh asserts that he waited only three or four days instead of ten. The supposition that he was a party to the conspiracy is completely refuted by the fact that Mr. Walsh was wholly unacquainted with Mr. Crowell at the time—in fact, he had never heard of him until the transcript was sent. Upon the whole, it seems that Mr. Walsh is quite free from blame in the matter.

What I Know About Fly-Fishing.

Fly-fishing is not one of the ordinary methods employed in securing the finny tribe in the streams about here, and when Prof. M. E. Cooley and J. A. Robison, of the Detroit Free Press, started in to enjoy a little of this interesting sport in the river, Saturday afternoon, everybody was sure that not a fish would be left in the stream. They took to the middle of the river near the Swift's dam and in the water waist high waded down the stream, making cast after cast without even having a bite. But Cooley had something else—he had one of the best duckings in his long experience. It happened thus: As the professor was stepping majestically along, not knowing or dreaming of danger, he struck his foot against a hidden rock, and forgetting his dignity in his wild efforts to keep his balance, our jolly fish commissioner, like the immortal McGinty, "went to the bottom of the sea." As he came up, Robison managed to save him, but in the wild laugh which followed as each looked at the other, the only wonder is that both were not drowned. It is unnecessary to remark that fly-fishing is not as popular as it was with the professor.

The Art of Making Money Plenty in Every Man's Pocket.

At this time, when the general complaint is that money is so scarce, it must be an act of kindness to inform the moneyless how they can reinforce their pockets. I will acquaint you with the true secret of money getting, the certain way to fill empty pockets and how to keep them always full. Two simple rules, well-observed, will do the business. First, let honest industry be thy constant companion. Second, spend one cent every day less than thy clear gains, then shall thy pockets soon begin to thrive, thy creditors will never hunger thee, nor want oppress, nor hanger bite, nor cold freeze thee, the whole hemisphere will shine brighter, and pleasure spring in every corner of thy heart. Now, therefore, embrace these rules and be happy.—Benjamin Franklin.

We can cordially recommend the above good advice to about seven-tenths of those who so loudly proclaim that the tariff accounts for any "hard times" that any class of our countrymen may be enduring. "Honest industry" is paid better in this country than in any other in the world, and if Franklin's rules are not applicable here now they were never.

Ypsilanti Sentinel: Ypsilanti needs night police to patrol her streets and make an example of some of the young men who use "emphatic" language. Ladies living on streets must used as thoroughfares must shut themselves up or listen to the vilest obscenity and most shocking blasphemy, as it is now.

Milan Leader: Mrs. Eliza Van Vleet, of Dundee, who has been visiting relatives in this vicinity for several weeks, died Monday forenoon at the residence of her sister, Mrs. L. Van Worman. On Saturday she had been to Dundee and sold her property there, and returned to this place; in the evening she was taken with neuralgia of the heart, to which she was subject, and grew worse until relieved from the pain by death at the time above mentioned.

Dundee Reporter: Saturday while Miss Lettie Hibbard was coming down the outside stairs of Rawson's store building on Tecumseh street, leading to the upper story occupied by A. Glean for a residence, the stairs gave way, letting her and a portion of the stair-frame fall to the ground beneath. She was assisted from the wreck and taken to the home of her brother, Harvey Hibbard, and found considerably bruised and injured, and shoulder dislocated.

Manchester Enterprise: Last evening Mrs. Jacob Groff, of Bridgewater, was driving home when on that narrow piece of road this side of the "Wier bridge," her horse became frightened in passing a load of wood, and overturned the carriage into the ditch which had two or three feet of water in it. Her baby fell into the water but was quickly rescued by her, but her young sister was caught and held down by the buggy, her head only being above water. Dr. Conklin and others happened to pass at the same time, and he rescued the little girl who was nearly frightened to death.

Saline Observer: The first chapter of what promises to be a first-class family scandal was enacted in the western part of the township last week. The wife of Geo. Seitz departed his bed and board and went to the home of her grandmother, taking with her the children, being assisted in her flight by a hired man named Hill, who procured a horse and buggy and carried the woman to her grandmother's. Seitz thereupon caused the arrest of both Hill and his wife on criminal charges, but they were acquitted. The woman claims extreme cruelty and has applied for a divorce. And thus endeth the first chapter.

A Model Railway. The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety, comfort, equipment, track, and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none.

LITERARY NOTES.

Long before Stanley, Paul Du Chaillu discovered the dwarfs in the great forests of equatorial Africa. When his narrative of his adventures was first published, the Royal Geographical Society was inclined to doubt his amazing account of these diminutive people; but his testimony is now amply confirmed by the experience of Stanley. Du Chaillu has condensed and rewritten his old work entitled, "Adventures in the Great Forest of Equatorial Africa and the Country of the Dwarfs," and it will be published early in June by Messrs. Harper & Brothers. The book will contain a map and illustrations. Harper Brothers, New York.

The second number of "The Republic Magazine" contains a large amount of interesting reading for all veterans and sons of veterans and for those connected in any way with the G. A. R. association. It is full of historical reminiscences, and accounts of various departments and orders among military men. One of the best articles is a "Biographical Sketch" of Gen. Wm. T. Sherman. Another excellent one by Col. Ch. Chaille-Long on "Corean Fetes and Festivals." Price $4.00 a year. Single number 35 cents. The Republic Association, Tribune building, New York.

Number five of Vol. I, of La Revue Francaise has been received. This magazine is intended to meet the wants of students and teachers and other cultivated Americans who wish to read some of the best periodical French literature. It will contain reprints from the best sources and some original articles of interest and importance. $4.00 a year; single numbers, 35 cents. La Revue Francaise, 39 W. Fourteenth-st., New York.

Mr. Thomas Stevens' "Scouting for Stanley in East Africa" will soon be ready. The book will have numerous illustrations made from photographs taken by Mr. Stevens with his Hawk-eye camera. For pictures of savage life they probably have no equals, for it is not often that an amateur photographer has been able to focus his camera on the war dances of Africans in their native wilds. Cassell & Co., New York.

A publication by the National School of Elocution and Oratory, entitled "My Country; a Fourth of July Exercise," by Mrs. L. A. Bradbury, has recently been received. It contains dialogues, songs and quotations suitable for schools or young people wishing to celebrate in some appropriate way our National festival. Price, 35 cents. Publication Department of the National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia.

"Base Ball, How to Become a Player, with the Origin, History, and Explanation of the Game," by John Montgomery Ward, is a little book sure to be of interest to all lovers of our National game. Its principal aim is to produce a hand-book of the game and to give a picture of the game as seen by a player. Price, cloth, 50 cents; paper, 25 cents. Penn Publishing Company, 1124 Arch-st., Philadelphia.

A product of modern industry. To make them the Animal Kingdom contributes from the herds of the Western Plains; the Vegetable, from groves of oak and hemlock or from the great forests still left to us; great factories supply cloth and thread; mines, furnaces and forges combine to furnish nails or wire. Through scores of processes, the forty-two pieces of a pair of saoes require to bring them together, the co-operation of fifty men and women, whose division of labor is so thoroughly systematized that everything goes with the same regularity attributed to the works of a clock, until as a result, you well shod reader, who wear the W. L. Douglas's shoes, can buy a pair from three to five dollars that would have cost your forefathers from six to twelve.—Ex 10

THEON F. GIDDINGS, of Kalamazoo, is receiving the hearty support of the press of this section for the office of auditor-general, on the republican ticket.

The Western Plowman says "the hope of the American farmer is in raising a greater number of products." That is especially true of this region, where the farmer who depends on one or two crops for his income is not wise.

The name of Joseph R. Moore, the able cashier of the Peninsular Savings bank of Detroit, seems to be mentioned far oftener than any other when the question of a candidate for state treasurer is spoken of by republicans.

To indicate what an immense business Armour & Co., of Chicago, are carrying on, the one item of $8,000,000 worth of cotton seed oil used by them annually in their production of pure leaf lard and high grade dairy butter is bewilderingly suggestive. Armour must have reached much higher than he ever dared to aim, when he started in his business career. To beat Armour is certainly high enough for any of our enterprising young business men.

The Argus unwittingly pays THE REGISTER a compliment in its Tuesday's issue, by imitating its methods. As soon as it learned that THE REGISTER was arranging to give a series of sketches of well-known farmers, it immediately caught up the idea and started the same thing. THE REGISTER certainly has no objections, for we think such a plan will have good results. We only wish that our contemporary would itself think of something original. If it would do so, people would have more respect for it.

The attempt made by Detroit parties to oust Dr. Martin from his position was, we are happy to say, unsuccessful. The doctor has given the very best of satisfaction and is one of the most popular men in the medical department. His record since he has held his present position has been unparalleled. It is questionable if the University could find a more earnest and conscientious worker than Dr. Martin has ever shown himself to be, or one who has brighter prospects before him. The medical department could ill afford to lose a man whose character is above reproach and whose talents are admitted by all.

LOUISIANA will continue to be disgraced by the miserable lottery that has been allowed to rob the people of this nation unstintedly for many years. It has taken millions to purchase corrupt legislators besides the twenty-four million dollars to be paid into the state treasury; but the lottery managers will soon draw this from the pockets of the millions of gullible people of this nation, if congress does not pass laws to restrict the corrupt business to the state that shields it. Should congress pass stringent measures that would confine the degrading traffic to the state in which it is located, it will be a turn of affairs all connected, which it justly deserve, and good people will rejoice exceedingly.

A NUMBER of the papers in the state have taken an aggressive stand against advertising the Detroit exposition. This is wrong. The Detroit exposition is of unquestionable value to the whole state. The exhibits displayed there are far ahead of any seen at the state fair or at the fairs given at every four corners in the state. The Detroit exposition is to be a permanent affair and although it is backed by private capital, it is of by far more public benefit than any of its smaller competitors in the state. The press of Missouri stand by the St. Louis exposition, Illinois by the Chicago exposition, Louisiana by the New Orleans mardi gras, and to make an exposition of like rank the press of Michigan must stand by the Detroit exposition.

It is something of a disappointment to many of us that our city has not shown an increase in its population that would acquire at least five figures to represent. If it had been only half a dozen more or less over the four figure unit, it would have answered the demands of the case and relieved the monotony. But we have the satisfaction of knowing that we have had a substantial growth in the past six years, since the last census was taken; and that we are sure to pass the 10,000 mark next time. We realize too with some satisfaction that when our student population is here we are fully 12,000 strong, and have as fine natural and artistic beauty and as grand educational facilities as are offered in any city of its size or double its size, in all the land.

FOR some weeks past THE REGISTER has been interviewing a number of the more successful farmers in Washtenaw county with the view of obtaining data for the purpose of giving, during the summer, a series of sketches of their lives. Some very interesting and profitable reading matter may be expected in these brief articles. The young people among our readers would do well to learn how some of the most respected and prosperous people among this class have acquired a competency and a highly respected name. If many of the youth in the country, who are longing to leave the farm, could appreciate the ease and contentment enjoyed by our farmers, as compared with the constant worry and nervous strain to which the average business man is subjected, they would be much more contented to remain where they are.

FOR the first time in many years the voters of Ann Arbor have refused to vote money asked for by the Common Council. Much opposition to the measure voted for Monday, was shown by the people of the second and third wards who feel that frequent and large appropriations are made for the benefit of the eastern part of the city while very little is done for the western half, thus making, it is claimed, a large increase in values on the east side while the value of real estate west of Main street is practically at a stand still. It would be well for those who have the distribution of the city's funds to look into the merits of this claim and answer it, if they can. Many votes were also lost to the proposed measure because of the belief that the Common Council is not economically expending all the money now at its disposal. To this is in all probability due its defeat. As an instance of this, the disposition of the city printing is a case in hand and justifies the feeling. Some members of the Council have evidently forgotten that they are the servants of the city and not of a party. The people of Ann Arbor are not ready to vote a $5,000.00 tax to indirectly boom a party. The fact that there was no general call from the people for such a measure will also account for a great deal. In this respect it greatly differed from the proposition brought forward by THE REGISTER a few months ago, for a sewerage system. The latter had received indorsement from prominent University authorities, from nearly every physician in the city, from the Board of Health, from the Board of Public Works and from the Business Men's Association. Yet on the merest technicality, it was vetoed, and, by a bit of sharp practice, the printing of the report by Prof. Greene, though ordered by the council, was suppressed. A vote on another subject was, however, ordered, though but few citizens requested it. Naturally defeat followed. The thing for the council to do is to heed the call of the public, and then use the money, economically, and they will never be refused necessary funds by the citizens of Ann Arbor. If, however, some of them have schemes to work for the benefit of themselves and party friends, money even for worthy purposes will be withheld. Under a different city administration we believe that the vote, Monday, would have shown entirely different results.

The Beautiful Guild.

ANN ARBOR, June 7th, 1890.
MR. WILSEY,
DEAR SIR:—I enclose the testimonial for which you asked. It gives me pleasure to send it to you, as I like my piano so much. When you can make it convenient, come out and see how it has stood the wear and tear of nine years.
Yours Truly,
LILLIE BAESSLER.
* * * With regard to the Guild purchased of you nine years ago. * * * Its tone is as mellow and sweet as ever, and in standing in tune I have never seen its equal. Any one contemplating the purchase of a piano, will find it to their interest to examine the Guild.
Respectfully,
LILLIE BAESSLER.

The Guild has stood "wear and tear" better, and held its own better than any piano I have ever sold. Over 25,000 have been manufactured, and sold very largely in Boston and vicinity. The great music publishing house of Ditson & Co. has sold over 800 of them in the City of Boston. The simple (patent) tuning device is the greatest improvement of the day, and will save expense to the owner, besides the satisfaction of having a piano constantly in tune.
The swinging music desk running the entire length of the piano is perfection. They please, they sell. Why? See them, and you will learn. Manufactured in Boston for nearly thirty years.

ALVIN WILSEY, State Agent.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the State Board of Health by sixty-seven observers in different parts of the State for the week ended on June 21 indicated that cholera morbus, cholera infantum, scarlet fever and membranous croup increased, and malarial fever, cerebrospinal meningitis, remittent fever and erysipelas decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at twenty-two places, scarlet fever at twenty-seven, typhoid fever at fourteen and measles at thirty-three places.

Wrecked the Fast Express.

The east-bound Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee fast train was wrecked in Grand Rapids the other evening and Fireman Herbert Nesser was killed. An oak the sixteen feet long had been placed by an unknown person on the track, and the engine struck it while going at the rate of twenty miles an hour. The passengers were badly shaken up. The detectives said they had a clew to the perpetrators of the deed.

Detroit Carpenters Lose.

The carpenters' strike in Detroit which had lasted eight weeks ended the other day in favor of the employers and in the defeat of the unions. The lack of funds compelled the committee to cut down the weekly allowance of the unmarried strikers to $2.50. They had been getting $4. This led to their desertion in large bodies, and the strike was ended.

A Genuine Hermit.

Isabella County has a genuine hermit. His hut is full of scientific instruments, and two of his brothers are professors in Leipzig and Heidelberg. His Greek and Latin are proficient enough to make the text-book makers blush for ignorance. What fate drove him to his lonesome, friendless and studious life in the woods nobody knows.

A Millionaire Dead.

Hon. William Brigham Weston, one of the most highly-esteemed citizens of Detroit, died at his residence the other day after a long illness. He was born at Hardwick, Mass., in 1820. Mr. Weston was connected with numerous enterprises and a prominent real estate dealer. His estate was valued at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

John Wilson, a colored man living on a farm near Farmington, was accidentally shot the other afternoon by Miss Conroy, a young lady of the neighborhood. She pointed a revolver at his head, exclaiming: "Your money or your life!" She didn't know it was loaded, and the bullet entered his skull and proved fatal.

Went Crazy from Fright.

Thomas Colsgrove, of Burlington, N. Y., was obliged to remain in Sidnaw, Ontonagon County, the other night, and was given a room in a rough boarding-house where he was routed out and roughly handled by miners. He went violently insane from the excitement of his experience.

A Novel Suit.

If Marshall will donate the site and water power capitalists from Chicago will erect a $50,000 paper mill there. Cut worms are feasting on the newly planted corn in some portions of the State and many fields will have to be replanted. The Buckeye saw and shingle mill at Clarion, together with contents and stock in the yard, were burned the other afternoon. Loss $8,000. Victims Claimed by the Score—The Death List from the Extreme Heat is Appalling—Reports from Various Places.

THE FEARFUL HEAT.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The thermometer reached its highest point yesterday at 3 o'clock p. m., when it registered 90 degrees above zero. Five fatal cases of prostration by heat were reported; twenty-five likely to prove fatal, and twenty-seven of a less serious character. Hundreds of horses have died from the effects of the heat.

Since June 23 there have been reported to the coroner's office fifty-six deaths, all of them resulting from heat prostration.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 1.—A number of sudden deaths were reported Sunday and Monday, and it is presumable that the heat has been the cause of them all. Farmers are losing horses daily.

JOLIET, Ill., July 1.—Last week's fatalities in Joliet exceed those of any previous week ever known. The thermometer ranged as high as 109 degrees. Farmers complain of unparalleled loss of live stock. Contrary to expectations the heat does not seriously affect the convicts at the prison. Although the heat is intense in the yards the shops are kept cool by fans. At the rolling-mills the prostration has been most severe, the men giving out in great numbers. Work on buildings and in the quarries has been stopped. Several factories have closed until a change of temperature takes place.

TUSCOLA, Ill., July 1.—During the last three days over twenty horses have dropped dead from heat in the fields and many farmers have ceased plowing under the sultry sun and work by moonlight. The mercury hovered about the 100 degree mark Monday.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 1.—The excessively warm weather of the last few days has resulted in a milk famine. Cattle lie panting in the shade and refuse to eat, diminishing the supply to such an extent that dealers find it simply impossible to supply their customers.

CAIRO, Ill., July 1.—This month has been the hottest ever known here, and the fatalities from the heat have exceeded any ever recorded. Five deaths have occurred in the last ten days, three of which occurred in the last twenty-four hours. The three victims were John Kennedy, Andrew Sherrick and James Boren. All of them had been drinking and were overcome by the heat and died in less than an hour.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—Monday's list of prostrations from the heat numbered eight, two of them fatal.

CINCINNATI, July 1.—Fourteen or fifteen cases of sun-stroke were reported here Monday. Three of them resulted fatally.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 1.—Mrs. Bridget Murphy was sun-struck Sunday afternoon and died within an hour. Four other cases occurred, but none of them turned out fatally. The thermometer ranged above 100.

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 1.—In addition to the four cases on Saturday several more deaths were reported Sunday on account of the hot weather. The mercury fell to 85 degrees Monday morning.

MILWAUKEE, July 1.—Five deaths from sun-stroke were reported at the health office Monday, all of them victims of the extreme heat of Saturday and Sunday. This makes a total of fifteen deaths from the heat within a week. But three prostrations from the heat were reported Monday. Although a cooling breeze prevailed all afternoon the temperature reached 88 degrees. A heavy shower in the evening was followed by cooler weather.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 1.—From June 22 to June 29 there were sixty-two deaths in Kansas City, forty-two of which were of children under 3 years of age. Of this latter number thirty-six died of cholera infantum.

DAMAGING STORMS.

Hurricanes Work Great Losses to Indiana and Wisconsin Farmers.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 1.—A terrific storm passed over a portion of Allen County Monday afternoon, doing considerable damage to farm property. Houses and barns were unroofed, out-houses blown down and trees, fences and growing crops leveled to the ground.

MADISON, Wis., July 1.—Reports from the country show that a widespread storm prevailed Sunday night working great damage to crops, especially around Cottage Grove, Token Creek, Waunakee, London and Cambridge. Small grains were laid flat with the ground in many places while corn and tobacco were badly riddled by hail. A cloud-burst occurred in the town of Westport, two inches of water falling in almost as many minutes.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 1.—A hard wind and rain-storm passed over Calhoun County yesterday, blowing down many small buildings and doing other damage.

A Distillery Burned.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 1.—The immense plant of the Allen Bradley Distillery Company at Southall and Thorn streets was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning entailing a loss of not less than $150,000; fully insured. The distillery was formerly the celebrated Newcomb-Buchanan Company.

Fire-Crackers to Be Shipped.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The ship Great Admiral is now unloading a cargo of 4,000,000 bunches of fire-crackers at pier 46, East river. She was 104 days on her voyage from Hong Kong.

Wholesale Indictments.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—The grand jury has indicted every brewer and distiller of this city for violation of the high license law passed by the last Legislature.

Charles C. Warner and wife visited friends at Silver Lake, Livingston county, Sunday, but didn't have as pleasant a time as they anticipated. August Kauske, who drives Dean & Co's delivery wagon, had a narrow escape Saturday afternoon. While driving on Broadway during the storm, a tree was blown over on his wagon, pinning the horse and wagon to the ground. The barn was insured in the Washtenaw Mutual for $1,000, which will not cover the loss.

The readers of the Detroit Free Press last week noticed an account of a young, well-dressed deaf and dumb woman who was getting wealthy by traveling about the country and working upon the charity of the people. She reached Ann Arbor, Friday, and it was not until a number of our merchants had contributed liberally that they remembered the fraud exposed by the Free Press. Careful estimates place the census just made of this city at about 9,400, far below what was anticipated. There is considerable complaint, and just complaint too, at this poor showing and it is said that at least one of the enumerators did his work in such a careless manner that there is no way of knowing how many he failed to get. In one block there were fifteen persons who were skipped by this enumerator, and it is by no means certain that he did any better in the other parts of his district.

The following epistle, written on a postal card and displayed on the bulletin board in the postoffice, has given rise to the fears that a suicide must soon be chronicled. With a change in the names, it is as follows: "Be sure and come up here the 4th, come the 3rd. We are going to Whitmore Lake. Anticipate a fine time and am anxious to have you come. Clara will commit suicide tomorrow if the mail carrier doesn't come in the A. M. and bring your letter which she expected this A. M. Yours, Katie." To this was appended a postscript, evidently written by the aggrieved maiden herself: "You chump, why don't you write? Hello, Billie. (Signed) Clara."

Mrs. Daniel Hiscock met with a painful and serious accident, Sunday afternoon, from which she will be sometime in recovering. She was sitting on the cellar stairs at her house, instructing her servant about doing something. As Mrs. Hiscock arose, either from the extreme heat or from an attack of vertigo, she suddenly became unconscious and fell headlong down half a dozen steps upon the cellar floor. Mr. Hiscock heard her fall and running to her assistance found the blood flowing freely from a bad cut on her forehead, her face bruised considerably and her left arm broken in two places. A doctor was summoned and Mrs. Hiscock is now doing as well as could be expected.

Clare P. Tallman, who graduated from the law school on Thursday last with the degree of LL. B., died on Saturday afternoon, June 28, at four o'clock of congestion of the lungs. Mr. Tallman was from Jersey City, N. J. He had spent two years here, and had shown himself to be a young man of irriproachable character, an excellent student, and faithful in the discharge of every duty. His untimely death will be mourned by all who knew him. He had been sick about ten days, but his death had not been looked for. His father had been summoned, however, and reached here before his death. His remains were taken east for interment. That a young man of promise and pure character should be thus cut off just as he was about to enter on active life seems peculiarly sad.

Friday evening last, in the high school hall, a pleasant piano recital was given in honor of Miss Mary Louise Wood, of Chicago. Miss Wood was assisted by Mrs. T. C. Phillips, of Milwaukee, and by Misses Kate Jacobs and Caroline Ball, of Ann Arbor. The program was very well received. Miss Wood has been a pupil of Prof. C. B. Cady for nearly ten years. In 1886 she went to Milwaukee and was for some time a teacher in J. C. Filmore's conservatory of music. At present she is connected with W. S. Tomlin's musical academy, Central Music hall, Chicago. During her stay in Ann Arbor, Miss Wood has been the guest of Regent Whitman. She expects to leave for Charlevoix soon, and during the latter part of July, she will play in piano recitals at the Bay View Assembly, illustrating lectures which will be given by Prof. C. B. Cady.
