SOCIAL DOINGS.

RECORD OF A WEEK'S PARTIES. ENTERTAINMENTS AND VISITS.

Freshman Feast and Dance—A Quiet Wedding—The Tennyson Entertainment—Interesting Notes and Gossip, Personal and Social.

The freshman banquet, given at Nichel's hall, Friday night by the fraternity faction, was an elaborate affair. The hall was tastefully decorated. Fifty couples were present. H. F. Worden acted as toastmaster, in a graceful manner. The following responses were given: "The Faculty," Ross Whitman, "But thou, through good and evil, praise and blame," "Our class," T. P. Bradford, "And ever climbing higher," "The boys," Miss B. A. Lewis; "Not grave through pride, nor gay through folly," "The girls," H. G. Effinger. "Here is a spirit deep and crystal; clear, calmly beneath her earnest face it lies." Dancing followed the banquet proper. The entire affair was a brilliant one.

KEYES-MATTHEWS

A quiet wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Matthews. The contracting parties were Miss Ella Matthews, of this city, and S. B. Keyes, of Lansing. Rev. Henry Tatlock performed the ceremony according to the Episcopal rite. Only the immediate relatives were present. In the evening the newly wedded couple took the train for the west. They will make their future home in Lansing, where Mr. Keyes holds a good position. Miss Matthews has lived in this city all her life and has won a host of friends.

J. C. Shaw, a former resident of Ann Arbor, now living in Ithaca, was in the city Tuesday.

Emanuel Burkhardt, of Grand Rapids, has been the guest of his sister, Miss Mary Burkhardt.

Eugene K. Frueauff, of the Times, and wife spent Saturday and Sunday in Saginaw and Bay City.

J. T. Sullivan and wife, of Chicago, are visiting Mr. Sullivan's father, J. T. Sullivan, of North State-st.

Philip Bach has received from his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Warner, of the City of Mexico, a handsome onyx paper weight.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard, of Ypsilanti, are spending the week with Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O'Brien.

Mrs. George C. Hoppen, of Detroit, is visiting her daughter Katie, at the residence of Mrs. Will Douglass, on Washington-st.

Miss Ruth Mitchell, of Corunna, sister-in-law of Regent P. N. Cook, has been visiting Miss Fanny Cook, of the University.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whedon, of Norwood, Mass., arrived Saturday for a visit with Mr. Whedon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whedon.

Prof. W. H. Hawkes, of Howell, was in the city, Tuesday, for the purpose of engaging the glee club for the junior exhibition in his school.

F. A. Maynard, wife and family, of Grand Rapids, will spend next Sunday with Mr. Maynard's parents. They expect to sail for Europe immediately.

Dr. A. C. Kellogg, E. S. Manly and W. F. Lodholz left, Tuesday morning, for Rush Lake, where they are carrying on a campaign against the Pisces tribe.

Jacob Katz, engineer at the furniture factory, and Miss Rika Gruner were married, Tuesday evening, at the bride's residence, on west Fourth-st.

The A B C Whist Company (limited) met Monday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Martin, and closed up business for the season. Over thirty ladies and gentlemen were present, and seven tables were in use. Mrs. M. Duke took the head prize, and A. K. Holmes, of the University, took the booty.

A barn party was given Friday night by Robert Speechly, who lives near Geddesburg. The floor was nicely canvassed and good music was furnished. Dancing continued till 3 o'clock a. m. From forty to fifty couples were present, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and all the neighboring country being represented. A very enjoyable time was had.

The Tennyson program which was so admirably rendered at the Unity Club last Monday evening is to be repeated to-morrow evening. The program consisted of a paper on Tennyson, by Miss Grace Taylor; special songs and tableaux; dramatization of scenes from the "Idyls of the King"; and "Lancelot and Elaine," in six scenes. Then followed that beautiful picture "Guinevere," in one scene. The entertainment was managed by Miss Carlotta Bullis and Miss Gertrude Sunderland.

The Oratorical Contest.

The oratorical contest of the Northern League drew out a somewhat small audience on Friday evening—quite too small, when the excellence of the speeches delivered is taken into consideration. G. E. Morton, president of the league, presided, and the Chequamegon furnished the music. A. C. Gormley, of Michigan, was the first speaker. His theme was the power of Mammon, which was treated with masterly incisiveness and sarcasm. "Luther at Worms" brought forth the best efforts of Theodore Kronsage, of Wisconsin. His delivery was forcible and dramatic. F. W. Gurney, of Oberlin, brought out clearly the danger impending from the incursions of King Phillip (the liquor traffic) in America. A magnificent bass voice and an inspiring presence rendered his delivery almost perfect. John B. Adams, Northwestern's representative, discussed "Webster's Defense of the Constitution" in a thoughtful manner. His delivery was polished but hardly as effective as that of the preceding speakers. The judges were: On thought and composition, Mrs. Horace Hitchcock and Hon. Alfred Russell, of Detroit, and Prof. Gallagher, of Appleton, Wis; delivery, Rev. H. A. Cleveland, of Indianapolis, Prof. Atwater, of Bloomington, and Prof. Griffith, of Indianapolis. The points received by each speaker were as follows:

	Thought.	Delivery.	Total.
Gormley	270	357	627
Adams	265	376	641
Kronsage	265	365	630
Gurney	258	278½	536½

After the decision was announced the speakers and the other members of the league adjourned to Odd Fellows hall, where a banquet was served.

The Regents' Meeting.

A long session was held by the regents on Friday last, and important business was transacted. They decided to locate the gymnasium on the campus. The library appropriation, $15,000, was divided as follows: For 1891—general library, $5,000; law, $1,500; medical, $1,000; 1892—general, $5,000; medical, $1,500; law, $1,000. The thanks of the board were tendered to Mrs. Alexander Winchell for books donated to the library, and to Frederick Stearns and Theodore Hinchman, of Detroit, for gifts to the chemical laboratory. Appropriations were authorized as follows: For illustrative material in archeology, $450, and balances in chemical department, $290. The committee on buildings and grounds was authorized to proceed with the additions to the law and dental buildings. Permission was given Secretary Wade to fit up the old hospital building for the use of the dental college and to make other changes and improvements on the campus. The medical faculty was asked to prepare plans for a training school for nurses, to be established in connection with the new hospitals. F. G. Novy was appointed instructor in bacteriology, with a salary of $1,000; Alexander Ziwet, assistant professor of mathematics; G. W. Patterson, assistant professor of physics; Mr. Rowe, assistant chair of physics, $600; C. W. Belsler, assistant professor of oriental languages. Other business of minor importance was transacted.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

THE CITY COUNCIL HEARS THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

And Confirms his Appointments—New Liquor Bonds Accepted—A Round of Routine Business which Takes up Much Time.

The mayor's message was presented in person, Monday night, to the city council. It was a long and exhaustive document. After some preliminary remarks Mr. Doty touched upon various departments of the city government. With regard to the board of public works, he said: "I deem it fortunate for the city that my predecessors were enabled to secure the assistance of the able and experienced men who have administered this important branch of our civic mechanism. Messrs. Hutzler, Schuh and Keech have proved themselves the men for the place, and I deeply regret that the pressure of private business has compelled that faithful official and good citizen, Mr. Herman Hutzler, to ask to be relieved from the service during the coming term. * * * I am glad to note in this connection that the expenditures of this Board for the past fiscal year have been only $9,425.24, against $11,437.06 of the year preceding, and it is to be hoped that equally good results with like economy will characterize the work of the coming year." The Board of Fire Commissioners was next touched upon. Said the mayor: "It is to be regretted, for the sake of the department, that a call to a more extended field of usefulness in the city's service has severed the immediate connection with it, of him who is now your President, Prof. M. E. Cooley. * * * While I would in no wise counsel or advise a lavish outlay in this department, yet I feel it my duty to say to you, that in a prudent generosity here, there may be a wise economy. * * * The figures which I append, are suggestive of the increasing excellence of our department in the prevention of loss by fire:

Losses.	Ins. Paid.

and I respectfully suggest to those interested that a continuation of this excellent work ought to bring about a lower rate of insurance on the part of the companies doing business here." The mayor dwelt at some length upon the necessity of preserving the good sanitary condition of the city and spoke highly of the efforts made by the board of health. He treated the police department as follows: "I shall not attempt any argument upon this question, neither shall I attempt at this time to outline an elaborate policy, perfect in all its detail, relative to the morale and efficiency of the force. It will suffice me to say that we shall endeavor to secure and preserve the peace and tranquility of all our citizens and yet at the same time it is but just to say that the efficient policing of so large a city as ours, with its miles of territory, its widely scattered business interests and places, its complex population, its daily growing metropolitan customs and accessories is not perfectly possible with a force of one man for day duty and two for night patrol. I am satisfied, after diligent inquiry and personal observation, that the force has faithfully labored to perform its duty, yet if cause for complaint has arisen I ask leniency in passing judgment and promise for the force their best endeavors for the public tranquility in the year to come. As an indispensable requisite to this consummation I also entreat our citizens who, I know, are as law abiding, peaceable and industrious as the state can boast, to aid and assist, by their example, in the maintenance of a decent respect for law and constituted authority. It is only thus that we can hope to continue in the future, as in the past, among the quietest, safest and the most virtuous of the larger cities of the state. And it is for our material interest that we should so continue, so that many an anxious parent who commits a child or children to our care, and that of the great institution of learning which is here, will rest unshaken in his confidence, despite the voice of detraction in which it pleases some to indulge." The message referred to the meeting of Arbeiter Verein in June and the military encampment in July. In conclusion, the mayor strongly advocated the practice of strict economy by the council. The message was received and referred to the committees.

NEW CITY OFFICERS.

Attorney—E. B. NORRIS.
Treasurer—S. W. BEAKES.
Marshal—JAMES MURRAY.
Fire Commissioner—TRUS F. HUTZEL.
Board of Public Works—W. H. MCINTYRE.
Member Board of Health—E. W. MOORE.
DAVID COLLINS,
Patrolman.
CLARENCE TICE,
GOTTLIEB LUCK,
HERMAN KRAFF,
JOHN KOCH,
Building Inspectors.

The foregoing nominations of the mayor were unanimously confirmed by the council, except that of Mr. Norris, against whom Alderman Wines cast a dissenting vote.

LIQUOR BONDS.

The following saloonkeepers' bonds, with sureties, were accepted by the council:

Gibney & Wall—Jeremiah Walsh, John Delaney, Polhemus & Sexton—W. E. Walker, J. A. Polhemus.

Hugh Shields—H. J. Exinger, Jos. Baumgartner, Adolph Kemper—Henry Apfel, Matthias Fischer, Millman & McNally—H. Hardinghaus, H. Kittridge.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The bid of the Ann Arbor Savings bank, offering to pay 3 1-10 per cent. on all deposits and to charge 5 per cent. on all over-drafts, was accepted by the council. Three petitions were received and referred to the proper committees: One, from residents of the third ward, asking for a bridge across the mill race on Felch-st; another, that Summit-st, at its intersection with Main-st, be widened and that sidewalks be built on both sides from Main-st to Spring-st; another, that the ordinance licensing draymen be repealed. A large number of sidewalks were ordered built. The street railway ordinance, granting extensions in various parts of the city, which was referred at the last meeting, was, upon motion of Alderman Herz, laid upon the table. A petition, asking that the city order the water works extended on east University-ave from Hill-st to Packard-st, was received and placed on file. The company, was, upon recommendation of the water committee, ordered to extend the main on Hill-st from Washnetaw to Forest-ave and to locate a hydrant on the corner of Forest-ave. The bonds of the city treasurer were fixed at $80,000. Dr. E. A. Clark was appointed city physician at a salary of $100. The sum of $180 was appropriated, to re-imburse Philip Visel for the injury to his property caused by removing gravel from Ashley-st. The board of public works were authorized to survey Main-st at the crossing of the Toledo road, in order that the company might be enabled to locate its new bridge properly. The annual report of the poor superintendent and the regular monthly reports of city officers were read and filed. The sum of $250 was voted the Nowland heirs in payment of their claim to a part of the old cemetery. Other routine business was transacted and the council adjourned.

APPLES AND PEACHES.

What the Horticultural Society Had to Say About Them Saturday Last—Diseases and Lice.

The monthly Horticultural Society's meeting last Saturday was presided over by President J. Austin Scott. In the absence of Mr. Ganzhorn, Mr. Markham was chosen secretary. The different committees reported. There are still some fruit growers who have postponed paying the small tax they owe to agencies employed for the transportation and distribution of their fruit. A. A. Crozier, chairman of the committee on diseases of the peach tree, reported that the committee sent twigs of diseased peach trees to Mr. Erwin F. Smith, of the department of agriculture at Washington. Prof. Smith answered that he would be here at an early date to investigate the diseased trees. The report of the committee was accepted and the committee requested to continue. The discussion on prevention of washing in vineyards, opened by W. F. Bird, elicited a good many practical ideas. Mr. Tucker presented to the meeting some apple buds infested by a green louse, which bores holes into the heart of the bud, as the green grapevine beetles bore holes into the grapevine bud. Mr. Tucker is afraid that the crop of early apples at Ypsilanti is already destroyed. He addressed Prof. A. J. Cook, of the Agricultural College, in regard to the remedy. The professor recommends kerosene emulsion. Formula: "Dissolve in two quarts of water one quart of soft soap, or one-fourth pound of hard soap, by heating to the boiling point, then add one pint of kerosene oil, and stir violently for from three to five minutes." This is best done by pumping the liquid into itself through a small nozzle, so that it shall be thoroughly agitated. This mixes the oil permanently so that it will never separate and can be diluted easily, at pleasure, by simply shaking or slightly stirring, after adding the water to dilute it. As these lice seem to infest every apple tree at Ann Arbor and vicinity, perhaps all through the county, the kerosene emulsion should be applied by a force pump at once. H. C. Markham exhibited the following best medium and late varieties of potatoes: Empire State, Sylvan, Thunderbolt, White Flower, Bonanza, Morning Star, Farina and Snow Queen. Many very important matters were discussed, especially by the president, whose experience in tree culture for four-score years is highly appreciated by all horticulturists.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

Hamburg has but two saloons. Chicken thieves are scouring Chelsea. Dexter expects to have another meat market. Dr. Bush, of Chelsea, has removed to Jackson. Four saloonkeepers will dispense "jags" at Chelsea. A "clip" social will be given at Dexter tomorrow evening. A lodge of the Knights of Pythias will be instituted in Salem. Now, chapie, get your hair cut—Manchester Enterprise. Counterfeiters have created a great sensation at New Hudson. A pile bridge for the Lake Shore road is being built at Manchester. Luther Palmer, of Dexter, sold 6,000 strawberry plants one day last week. The Friends, of Willis, have decided to hire a white, instead of a colored, preacher. The sparrows are building their nests again; Johnie, get your gun.—Manchester Enterprise. Smart alecks tore down the Saline Observer's sign one night last week. Ed for Warren is hot. The postoffice at Woylen has been removed from the abandoned depot to the store of J. T. Berry. The prohibitionists of Augusta are to hold an all-day mass meeting or grove meeting in the early part of June. Snakes are said to be very plentiful throughout the county. We fear that the saloons are to blame for this. "Uncle" Abe Vanderpool and wife, of Willis, are respectively eighty-three and ninety years of age. They live quietly and are in the best of health. There was some talk last week that Dexter was to have a bottling works, but that they were to bottle (unless it was gas), we were unable to ascertain. Leader. The following will graduate from the Chelsea high school, May 15: Mary Miller, Herbert Dancer, May Judson, Amelia Neuberger, Walter Woods and Hanson Armstrong. The W. C. T. U. of Chelsea has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. D. H. Hoag; vice president, Miss Libbie Taylor; secretary, Miss Olive Conkling; treasurer, Mrs. J. Everett. J. A. Fowler is proud of an egg weighing four ounces and measuring eight by six and one-eighth inches, as if he had laid it. His hen is a Plymouth Rock and the egg a giant—Ypsilanti Sentinel. The farmer who recently inquired the value of ground as a pasture crop showed wisdom. It is an unaccountable thing that peas are so little used for pasture. They are good for all kinds of stock.—Manchester Enterprise. Two youthful prisoners, aged respectively two and four years, have been staying with the sheriff of Livingston county. Their father and mother separated and it is supposed that the former had abducted them. They were found near Howell. Thos. Birkett is making a considerable addition to his valuable peach orchard by putting out this spring 1,550 peach trees and 100 pear trees. Mr. Birkett thinks the prospects at present for a large fruit yield are unusually good.—Dexter Leader. One of the most comical sights beheld of late was a young lady of our village with her hands in the wash-tub, scrubbing away and singing, "Nearer my God to thee"—Manchester Enterprise. What is there funny about that; is not cleanliness next to godliness? The Southern Washtenaw farmers' club meets tomorrow afternoon at the residence of Frank Spafard. The program consists of press clippings, by Miss Mary Hitchcock, essays by Mrs. H. C. Calhoun and W. E. Pease, election of officers and question box. A prominent fruit grower calls attention to the well known fact that the time to spray fruit trees is after the blossom falls, and not when the trees are in full bloom. In this way the spray falls directly upon the fruit grove and not upon the petals of the flower too. Chelsea, highly moral Chelsea, is to have another saloon.—Dexter Leader. We are thankful that it is not another saloon, but simply one to take the place of one which goes out of commission. As to morality—well—Standard. You should not run down your own town, brother Emmert. The republican policy brings shekels to the pockets of free-traders and protectionists alike. Here's Robert Martin, of Superior, who sold, a few days since, seven head of fat cattle, each weighing 1000 lbs., and received four cents per pound for them. Three cents was the price before the McKinley bill got in its work.—Ypsilantian. The Seters Club is one of Hamburg's prides. The first by-law of the organization is as follows: "It shall be the duty of each member to sit on dry goods boxes and steps before the different places of business and talk about their neighbors and everybody passing by, to inquire tobacco juice on the steps and interfere with business men that are trying to make a sale and bust it up if possible." Again we credit another old Saline boy who has gone west and made a success of it. Our old friend and schoolmaster, P. A. Haynes, better known to many as Farmer, having for several years been associated with the Evansville Mercantile association at Brooklyn, Wisconsin, has now pulled stakes and set out for himself, and he and his brother-in-law, Mr. Baldwin, have opened up a new stock of merchandise at that place.—Saline Observer. The Chelsea Standard wants its subscribers to believe the following: "In April, 1878, Ira Glover, while plowing, ran across a small land turtle, and just for fun cutted his back with a cross, his initials, and the date, and then set him free. Two weeks ago, while passing through a piece of woods, but a few rods from the place where he found the turtle in '78, he saw a full grown land turtle, and when within a few feet, saw the marks on his back. He remembered the circumstances, caught the turtle and took it home."

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

The heroine of a Nebraska blizzard Wedded to a Michigan Man. Many will remember that one of the heroic figures in the tragedies of the blizzard that swept from Dakota to New York in January, 1888, was a Nebraska school-teacher named Miss Lois M. Royce. She it was who gathered up the only three children who came to school on one of those bad days and started for the nearest house. Two of them froze in her arms and were so found when the party was discovered, while the third wandered away to die. The brave girl's own loss was that of her two feet, amputation being necessary. Her subsequent experiences, however, were of happier hue. Gifts, letters, offers of marriage and congratulations poured in upon her; she spent some time in California, and finally she was married to Charles S. Thomas, of Bay City.

SUICIDE OF A WIDOW.

A Woman Takes Her Life Because Her Betrothed Tires of Her. Mrs. Ruth Ann McCreedy, of Lansing, a widow aged 46 years and the mother of four children, last fall became infatuated with George Ford, a fruit-tree agent sixteen years her junior. The woman's love for Ford increased as their acquaintance extended, and he apparently reciprocated her affection for a time. They finally became engaged and were to have been married. Later, however, Ford's ardor perceptibly cooled and he tired of his fiancée. This so affected Mrs. McCreedy that she took her life with poison. She left a note addressed to Mayor Johnson in which she stated that she was dying and requested him to take charge of her affairs and concluded by saying: "George Ford is the cause of my death."

Two Prisoners Killed.

Moses Dennis and Edward Blackburn, two negroes in jail at Monroe awaiting trial on charge of burglary, made a desperate attempt to escape. When Turnley Tedder went into the corridor where they were confined he was seized by both men, who tried to secure his revolver and keys. In the struggle Tedder was thrown upon the floor, but finally succeeded in releasing his arm and revolver from his assailants and at once opened fire upon them, firing five shots, killing Blackburn instantly and mortally wounding Dennis.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health by fifty-seven observers in different parts of the state for the week ended April 25 indicated that cholera morbus, dysentery, whooping cough, diphtheria, typhoid fever and scarlet fever increased, and inflammation of the brain, membranous croup and cerebro spinal meningitis decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at eighteen places, scarlet fever at thirty-two, typhoid fever at nine and measles at forty-five places.

A Mountain of Charcoal on Fire.

A small mountain of charcoal containing over 250,000 bushels was slowly burning to ashes near the Pioneer furnace in Negaunee. The fire, though under control, might burn for a month. The charcoal belongs to the Pioneer Furnace Company, was worth $25,000 and was insured for $15,000.

Short Hay Harvest.

The new ore dock at Escanaba is the largest in the world. The Michigan Woman's Press association will hold its annual meeting at Battle Creek June 9, 10 and 11. The Muskegon lawyers have organized a bar association with Hon. Thomas L. Keating as president. A new basket factory is to be started at Gobleville with a large force of men. About 300,000 feet of lumber piled in the yards of D. Wright & Co., at West Branch, were burned.

The Grand Rapids Street Railway Company has made a contract that calls for $180,000 for electrical equipment.

Mark Peppin's house and saloon at L'Anse was burned with a loss of $4,000; insured for $3,100. Rev. J. A. Ranney, of Kalamazoo, and Mrs. P. Y. Stewart, of Bloomington, Ill., were married. The groom is 82 and the bride 62 years of age. Work on the new public building at Bay City has commenced. The Calumet & Hecla pay roll is $200,000 each month. It is the largest in the copper country. Charles E. Nash, aged 72 years, and a Lansing citizen for thirty-four years, was found dead in bed. The new Presbyterian church in Bay City will be the largest edifice of the kind in the city, having a surface measurement of 95 by 165 feet. Forest fires in Clare and Gladwin counties caused a loss of over $125,000. Fire in the stock house of the Pioneer furnace at Negaunee destroyed $5,000 worth of property. John Johnson was killed at Reed City by being struck by a piece of an emery wheel which had burst. Grover Buell's house in Cheboygan was burned with a loss of $2,500; insured for about half. The Grand Rapids officers found a 11-year-old boy drunk on the streets. Fourteen women attended the meeting of the North Muskegon council to prevent the aldermen from issuing licenses for selling liquor, but the licenses were granted. There has been a lot of horse stealing in Alpena county of late, and Sheriff McLaughlin laid a trap which resulted in the landing of John Clause, a Pole. An infant daughter of J. B. Banta, of Woodland, was playing about the well curb when it fell in and was drowned before help could reach it. The Michigan Central station agent at Charlotte was bound and gagged by robbers, who cracked the safe and secured $50. Herbert Tyson, 7 years old, attempted to jump on a moving freight train in the Michigan Central yards at Kalamazoo, fell under the moving wheels and both feet were cut off.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

SENATE. LANSING, Mich., April 29.—The senate yesterday passed a bill for the purchase or condemnation of the purchase of plank toll roads by electric or street railway companies, and in committee of the whole agreed to the patronage of industry congressional apportionment bill; also a bill regulating the practice of embalming dead bodies, and a bill appropriating $3,000 for the purchase of books for the state library. LANSING, Mich., April 30.—The bill providing for the election of presidential electors by congressional districts, with two delegates at large, one from the eastern, the other from the western district, passed the senate yesterday. It was already passed by the house. The senate also passed the congressional apportionment bill which, as calculated, will give seven of the twelve districts to the democrats. LANSING, Mich., May 1.—The senate yesterday passed by a vote of 18 to 13 the bill to divide the state into 100 representative districts. This measure and that providing for the choice of presidential electors by congressional districts having passed both houses now go to the governor for approval. The senate also passed the Bastone general election bill, an almost exact copy of the Indiana law. The committee on the mining school at Houghton submitted a report warmly commending the work of that institution and recommending a bill appropriating $115,397 for various improvements. Numerous petitions were referred to the donors of the bill to the retention of the present law prohibiting the killing of deer in that section except between September 25 and November 15 of each year.

LANSING, Mich., May 1.—The senate yesterday passed the bill authorizing the board of state auditors to adjust the claim of ex-Gov. Begole, amounting to $1,000, for expenses incurred in an unsuccessful suit to remove a member of the board of control of one of the state banks. The bill also provides for the retention of Wild Fowl law, as a public shooting ground; to prevent fraudulent entries at speed contests. A resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the effort of the state senate committee now in session at Detroit to secure closer commercial relations with Canada. Adjourned to the 4th.

LANSING, Mich., May 1.—The house yesterday passed the Carpenter bill prohibiting railroad companies from abandoning lines and taking up the tracks without paying to the subscribers any bonus they may have received and setting apart Warner Island in Wild Fowl law, as a public shooting ground; to prevent fraudulent entries at speed contests. A resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the effort of the state senate committee now in session at Detroit to secure closer commercial relations with Canada. Adjourned to the 4th.

RUDINI'S MISTAKE.

Secretary of State Blaine Replies to the Italian Premier.

The American Statesman Flatly Contradicts the Assertion That He Was Guilty of Making Use of a Confidential Dispatch.

BLAINE AND RUDINI. WASHINGTON, May 5.—The following dispatch was sent by Secretary Blaine Monday: "DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, May 4, 1891.—Porter, American Minister, Rome: A series of statements addressed to the Marquis Rudini from Rome yesterday and was published by the press of the United States today. The only part of the Marquis Rudini's communication which this government desires to notice is the one here quoted—namely: "I have now before me a note addressed to you by Secretary Blaine April 14. Its perusal produces a most painful impression upon me. I will not stop to lay stress upon the lack of conformity with diplomatic usages displayed in making use, as Mr. Blaine did not hesitate to do, of a portion of a telegram of mine communicated to him in strict confidence in order to get rid of a question clearly defined in our official documents, which alone possesses diplomatic value."

"The telegram of March 14, concerning whose public use the Marquis Rudini complains, is the following which was quoted in full in my note of April 14 to the Marquis Imperiali, chargé of Italy, at this capital: "ROME, March 14.—Italian minister, Washington: Our requests to the federal government are simple. Some Italian subjects acquired by the American magistrates have been murdered in prison while under the immediate protection of the authorities. Our first therefore to demand is the punishment of the murderers and an indemnity for the victims is unquestionable. I wish to add that the public opinion in Italy is justly impatient, and if concrete provisions were not at once taken I should find myself in the painful necessity of showing openly our dissatisfaction by recalling the minister of our majesty from a country where he is unable to obtain justice." "The intimation of the Marquis Rudini that the telegram in question was delivered in strict confidence is a total error. As the telegram expressed the demand of the Italian government it was impossible that Marquis Rudini could transmit it in strict confidence. As I have already stated, it was communicated to me in person by Baron Fava, written in English in his own handwriting, and not a suggestion of privacy, and the telegram itself has not a single mark upon it denoting a confidential character. I have caused a number of copies of the telegram to be forwarded to you in fac simile. The usual manner of transmitting it was by me under four lines and they appear in the copies. You will use the fac similes in such manner as will most effectively prove the error into which the Marquis Rudini has fallen. BLAINE."

"I was a Fool. Yes, they said I was a fool not to try Sulphur Bitters for Rheumatism, from which I had suffered over two years; but I had tried so many doctors and medicines without getting relief that I was discouraged. I am now on my fourth bottle and almost cured. I was a fool that I did not try that wonderful remedy before.—G. G. Pratt, Manchester, N.H."

"MILITARY AND MOB. They Encounter Each Other in Several European Cities. POLIEMES, France, May 3.—There was a bloody collision here last night between miners and the police, in which seven persons were killed and twelve wounded. PARIS, May 2.—A mob threatened the police station at Cliechy and a pitched battle ensued in which four policemen were wounded and all will probably die. ROME, May 3.—May day was a day of riot and bloodshed in Rome. Several conflicts took place between workmen led by anarchists and the authorities. Two men were killed outright and a number were fatally hurt, among whom was Sig. Cipriani, the anarchist leader. FLORENCE, May 2.—The police of Florence dispersed a mob of 1,000 workmen, who fled, but broke all the store windows on the routes of their flight. LONDON, May 2.—There was not a sign of labor day here, and dispatches received here from all over the continent report as quiet a day as could be expected. Berlin advices state that everything was quiet, most of the workmen going about their occupations as usual. The Hungarian government forced all demon-strations and processions and the police vigilantly enforced the order. Big Fire in Scranton, Pa. PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 4.—A special from Scranton, Pa., says: Fire destroyed the barns of the Scranton Electric street railway, with over thirty cars damaged. The Republican building and many other buildings close by, St. Luke's Episcopal church and rectory and the Young Men's Christian association building had narrow escapes. The total loss will reach over $200,000. Arbor Day in Wisconsin. MILWAUKEE, May 2.—Arbor day was becomingly observed by most of the public schools. Trees were planted in the school-house yards and literary programmes were gone through with by the pupils. At the high school class day and arbor day were celebrated jointly. Dispatches received denote a general observance of the day throughout the state. Tragedy on a Train. VIENNA, May 2.—A passenger on an express train between Cracow and Semberg, Thursday night, drew two revolvers and demanded the valuables of his three fellow travelers. The demand was resisted and two of the men were killed by the robber, who then jumped from the train and escaped. A False Report. PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., May 2.—Members of the Alaskan exploring expedition sent out a year ago from New York under the guidance of Hazard Wells have arrived here, thus contradicting the report that the party had perished. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 211. Served Him Right. WACO, Tex., May 2.—William Reel, of this city, who confessed to having slandered honest men and women, was whipped, ridden upon a rail, tarred and feathered and ducked in a pond by a posse of citizens. Fatal Powder Explosion. NEW YORK, May 5.—An explosion of powder in a little one-story structure caused the death of Lillie Hammond, 19 years old; Mary Lynch, 17 years old; Jennie Herpley, 17 years old, and Lottie Horn, ages 14.

Some merchants get the best they can; some get the meaneast they can. Your dealer in lamp-chimneys—what does he get for you? There are common glass and tough glass, tough against heat. There are foggy and clear. There are rough and fine. There are carefully made and hap-hazard. You can't be an expert in chimneys; but this you can do. Insist on Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass" which ever shape you require. They are right in all those ways; and they do not break from heat, not one in a hundred. Leaf by the roses fall. One by one our dear ones die. O, to keep them with us still. Loving hearts send up the cry. Wife and mother, O how hard, Fading like a mist away, Faithful, us keep them here. Fearfully to God we pray.

Many a wife and mother, who seems doomed to die because she suffers from diseases peculiar to women, which sap her life away like a vampire, and baffles the skill of the family physician, can be saved by employing the proper remedy. This remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the greatest boon ever conferred by man on weak, suffering and despairing women. It is a specific for all phases of female weakness, no matter what their name.

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

He Meets with Cordial Welcomes All Along the Route.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—The president and party returned from the landing committee of citizens headed by Mayor Sanderson met the party with carriages and the president, Postmaster-General Wamamaker and Secretary Rusk were taken to the rooms of the chamber of commerce, while others of the party proceeded to the Palace hotel, where they had lunch.

President Harrison, accompanied by a committee of business men, ascended to the rooms of the chamber, followed by members of the commercial organization of the city and of the Mexican veterans, California pioneers, and scientific and other associations. President Taylor of the chamber of commerce then delivered an address of welcome, to which the president responded.

The banquet at the Palace hotel at night in honor of President Harrison was attended by 250 guests. The affair was conducted on an elaborate scale and was the closing feature of the president's visit to this city.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—President Harrison obtained much needed rest Sunday. In the morning he attended the First Congregational church. The rest of the day he remained in his rooms. In the evening he crossed over to Oakland, where his train was waiting, and shortly after midnight started for Portland, Ore.

ASHLAND, Ore., May 5.—The president and party arrived here shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night and received an enthusiastic welcome. The special committee of the Oregon state legislature boarded the train and welcomed the president to Oregon. After a stop of about thirty minutes at Ashland the presidential special pulled out, preceded by a special train carrying the legislative committee.

STEM THE PAUPER TIDE.

No Room for Bad Foreigners—Secretary Foster to Enforce the Overt Law.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Foster has decided to stop the influx of foreign paupers and criminals notwithstanding several defects of the recently passed immigration law which were regarded as making it practically inoperative. Representative Owen, of Indiana, got up the law and inserted a provision that there should be a superintendent of immigration at a salary of $4,000 a year, but while this fixing the amount of the salary the act failed to specifically appropriate the $4,000 necessary to pay the salary. Attorney General Miller has therefore ruled that the office of superintendent of immigration cannot be filled, as there is no way of paying his salary. It appeared to put an end to enforcing the law, for the entire theory of it was that the superintendent was the special officer to execute the law. Under the circumstances it has been feared by the treasury department that there could be no means of damming up the tide of pauper and criminal immigration which is flowing into this country.

Secretary Foster has concluded to take the office of superintendent of immigration upon his own shoulders, and has made his first ruling in the case of Josef Piasceki, landed in New York by the Lloyd Steamship Company. He is a cripple and so deformed that it is evident that he could not earn a livelihood. He has no money and no friends, and Secretary Foster ruled that the penniless cripple would have to be returned to Germany at the expense of the steamship company, unless the company furnished a $20,000 bond that Piasceki would never become a public charge.

Assistant Secretary Nettleton has gone to New York to make further arrangements to carry out Secretary Foster's plan of stopping immigration.

SWEEP BY A HURRICANE.

A Tornado Wrecks Over 100 Buildings at Paducah, Ky.

PADUCAH, Ky., May 4.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock Saturday evening a hurricane with heavy rain and hail swept into this town from the west. The funnel-shaped cloud characteristic of tornadoes was present. In a few minutes the streets were rivers of water. One hundred buildings were either totally wrecked, moved from their foundations or unroofed. Mrs. Henry Meyers and her three children were badly cut by flying glass and debris on Third street.

Home Again.

CHICAGO, May 4.—B. P. Hutchinson returned to the city Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois train from Terre Haute, and was around his usual haunts in the neighborhood of the board of trade Sunday. Mr. Hutchinson would not talk about his trip.

Coinage During April.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Director Leech's statement of coinage during April shows that 117,000 gold pieces were coined, of the value of $1,920,000; 4,438,000 silver pieces, of the value of $2,893,000, and minor coin amounting to $2,072,000 pieces, of the value of $50,400.

Thousands of Immigrants.

NEW YORK, May 2.—During the month of April 60,449 immigrants landed at this port, the largest number for April since 1882. At Baltimore 11,700 persons were landed in the same period.

SWEEP BY FIRE.

New Jersey Forests Go Down Before the Red Fiend.

The Inhabitants of Villages in the Path of the Destroyer Panic-Stricken—Many Towns in Danger—Houses and Barns in Ashes.

A SEA OF FLAME.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A great section of southern New Jersey has been made desolate by fire, and unless rain comes soon the pine and cedar forests are likely to be wiped out. The cranberry bogs have been ruined in many places. The fire has been the most disastrous in many years. In many of the villages within the afflicted district it is difficult to breathe, so thick is the smoke. So far as is known no lives have been lost, but there are unconfirmed rumors that the Hebrew colony in Cumberland county has been destroyed. The fire extends from Point Pleasant to the southern extremity of the state. Many towns were only saved from destruction by the great efforts of the residents. Galloway and Oceanville, in Atlantic county, were scorched, and Port Republic was nearly burned out. Near Oceanville thirteen buildings were destroyed, while at Port Republic two schoolhouses and other structures were burned. At Absecon the people had to rush from their houses at daylight. Many houses were burned.

DETROIT, Mich., May 4.—Fires broke out in the forest back of Harrison, Clare county, Tuesday, and since then have been spreading in all directions. Latest reports indicate that the counties of Osceola, Clare, Gladwin, Roseconum, Alcona, Ogemaw, Osceola and Iosco are ablaze. Fire Friday reached Corn Brook mills at Harrisville, where it consumed $10,000 worth of logs. It also lapped over Clare county to Penasa, where the schoolhouse and three barns were burned.

ENH, Pa., May 4.—The forest fires are raging with great severity along the line of the Philadelphia & Erie railroad, and it is almost impossible for the trainmen to endure the suffocating smoke in some parts of the mountain passes.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 4.—A special dispatch to the Sun from Oakland, Md., says: Forest fires are raging in almost every direction, and clouds of smoke ascend from every mountain and hilltop of Garrett county.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The forest fires in the May's Landing and Pleasantville (N. J.) districts have been quenched by rain. The losses in timber, game and berries are very heavy.

FARMERS IN POLITIC

The Iowa Alliance Will Have a Full State Ticket in the Field.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 5.—A call signed by about sixty leaders of the Farmers' Alliance and other industrial organizations of Iowa has been issued for a people's independent state convention to be held in Des Moines June 3 for the purpose, as stated in the call, of adopting a platform of principles upon which all patriotic citizens of the state can unite in nominating a state ticket to be voted for at the ensuing election, each county being entitled to ten delegates, to be selected by a county convention, in which members of all industrial organizations and other individuals who favor independent political action in Iowa this year shall be entitled to participate.

President Harrison's Summer Home.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—When the president and Mrs. Harrison return from their western trip they will take up their residence at Cape May Point. It is Mrs. Harrison's intention to have a number of improvements and changes made in the white house during her absence. The president will spend as much of his time as possible at Cape May Point.

Four Negroes Burned.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 5.—The most horrible casualty the small city railway construction out of Chattanooga occurred at the camp on the Chattanooga Southern railroad at Duck creek Sunday about midnight Sunday night. The kitchen car of a construction train burned, consuming four negroes. How the accident occurred is not known.

Double Tragedy Caused by Drink.

Houghton, Mich., May 3.—Friday afternoon August Nikkila, a miner, while in a fit of delirium, caused by drink, shot his wife through the head and then blew his own brains out. The woman is still alive, but Nikkila died in about an hour.

Tragedy at Ashland, Wis.

ASHLAND, Wis., May 2.—Christ Ludue shot and fatally wounded Ernest Hague in a saloon row Friday. Lund then went to a room over his saloon and shot himself through the head four times. He was dead when found.

UNIONTOWNS, Pa., May 5.—Another collision between the coke workers and the guard of deputies occurred here yesterday, and one of the strikers was killed and another mortally wounded.

Steel Works Burned.

TROY, N. Y., May 5.—A fire in the steel works at Broekt Island Monday caused a loss of $400,000. Several Westinghouse engines were destroyed. Nearly 1,000 people are deprived of work.

Perished in the Flames.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 5.—At 3 o'clock a m., Monday a two-story building at 145 Nassau street was destroyed by fire and Herman Stephanski and his wife were burned to death.

Short in His Accounts.

TOLEDO, O., May 4.—William H. Cook, clerk of the police court, has confessed to the mayor that he is short in his accounts from $20,000 to $25,000.

Five Children Burned to Death.

UPPER MERIBORO, Md., May 5.—Saturday night the house of James Cole (colored) was burned and his five children perished in the flames.

A TEMPERANCE TEMPLE.

A Mammoth Structure on Staten Island—Distinguished Orators Secured.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The prohibitionists are building a tabernacle in the National Prohibition park on Staten island. It will be completed about June 1. It is an arched building wholly of wood, and will, when the galleries are constructed, have a seating capacity for nearly 5,000 people. A large organ will furnish the instrumental music and electricity the lighting. Among the other buildings are two hotels which will accommodate 300 guests. Many prominent prohibitionists will have their summer residences near the tabernacle. The speakers who have been retained to make addresses during the ensuing summer include: John J. Ingalls, of Kansas; George William Curtis and Rev. R. S. McArthur, D. D., of New York; John B. Gordon, of Georgia; Roger C. Mills, of Texas; Rev. Thomas B. Dixon, of New York; W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky; William McKinley, of Ohio; A. H. Colquhoun, of Georgia; Rev. John Jasper, of Richmond, and Prof. Axel Gustafson.

A RADICAL PLATFORM.

Programme for the National Union Conference to Be Held at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, May 4.—The bulletin for the coming National union conference to be held in this city on May 19 was published Friday. The principal features of it are as follows:

Advocacy of the abolition of national bank currency and the substitution of legal tender notes; demand for free coinage of silver; an issue of fractional currency; government ownership of means of transportation and communication; the restriction of immigration; the abolition of convict labor; equal pay for equal work; irrevocability of the establishment of government deposits where money may be loaned to the people; the prohibition of alien ownership; a graduated land tax; the imposing of an income tax; the prohibition of dealing in futures in agricultural and mechanical products; the government control of patent monopolies; reposing of the arrears and the equalization of the differences in the pay of soldiers and sailors in the late war; election of senators and postmasters; the taking away of the veto power of congress on measures superior to that of the president; free speech, schools, books, and necessary clothes and education for indigent children; and municipal ownership of gas, electric light, street cars, etc.

THE REGISTER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY SELBY A. MORAN, ANN ARBOR, MICH.

TERMS: One Dollar per Year in Advance. $1.50 if not paid until after one year.

THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1891.

WHAT PEOPLE THINK.

THE REGISTER gives below the opinions of a number of citizens, representing all factions of the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition parties, in regard to the mayor's police appointments. Evidently Mr. Doty has disappointed some of his political friends as well as opponents. We were greatly surprised at the reluctance which many Democratic politicians showed after expressing themselves, even after they had been assured that no names would be given.

"During the past year the feeling in Ann Arbor has become strong that our police was engaged rather in protecting saloons and resorts of low character from the law than in protecting our citizens from these places. In view of this widespread belief, the re-appointment of the old police force strikes the observer as a pretty thin proceeding on the part of the mayor, especially in view of his expressions in favor of law and order."

"Mayor Doty in his police appointments shows plainly that he was not entitled to the support of those who favored the citizens' movement, and testifies to their wisdom in not endorsing him. His message of flattery and good will to all (in whatever business they may be engaged) plainly indicates what his policy will be."

"I am not disappointed in the character of the police appointments. It is the democratic party not Mr. Doty, that dictates the appointments. No better man than Mr. Doty could have been nominated by either party, nor one more capable; but the appointments simply demonstrate the well known fact that the party back of the man is usually 'bigger' than the man. When in a city like Ann Arbor, the saloons keep the party in power; they always collect their pay, and the appointments noted are the first installment for the current year."

"There is of course no reform whatever in the police department over last year's force; while in the legal department there is a decided degeneration. I think that the whole question lies with the mayor. The matter of the enforcement of the law depends upon whether Mayor Doty will see to it that the police enforce the law. I think they will, if he orders them to do so."

"The appointments are good. No man can take the position of city marshal and make a bad job of it. If he does not do his duty, the class of people will surely be down on him; and if he enforces the law, the saloon element will see that such a name is given him that his reputation will be ruined. I understand that Mr. Murray has told the mayor that he was willing to do whatever was asked of him. This lays the whole responsibility of enforcing the law on Mayor Doty."

"If the law is to be enforced, it is to be done by the direct order and will of the mayor, and not by the voluntary action of the police force, no matter who is appointed to serve as policemen."

"The mayor's police appointments have been a great disappointment to our better class citizens without distinction of party. The police force of the past year have been quite active in arresting friendless tramps, especially those who have no money to buy whiskey, but not the slightest attempt has been made to enforce the law against saloons. There are saloons in Ann Arbor which have not been closed night or day on Sundays for the entire past year. Perhaps the police with their past year's experience are just the men to enforce the law during the coming year. The public will see, and the public will not be deceived."

"The mayor's appointments are all right. The men will do what they are instructed to do and that is all you could ask of any police force."

"I think that if I were in the mayor's place I should have made a change, but am not disposed to find fault. Am of the opinion that the men re-appointed will do as instructed, and I believe that our mayor will see to it that the proper instructions are given them."

"The average policeman, as well as men in other business, works for the pay he receives. I have no doubt that the police force here, though too small, would see that the laws were observed, if they were given to understand that their salaries depended upon it. I am waiting patiently to see whether our mayor will give the proper instructions. I doubt if the party that elected him will allow any such instructions to be given."

"What do I think of the police appointments? Why, sir, I think them a colossal 'straw,' showing very conclusively that the mayor is in the hands of the 'gang.' If, however, he orders the police to enforce the law, and they do it without fear or favor, I shall be entirely satisfied."

"The first five expressions are from Republicans, the next six from Democrats and the last two from Prohibitionists."

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

EDITED BY MRS. ALLIE LUSE DICK, FOR THE W. C. T. U.

And by the University Prohibition Club—Facts and Arguments Pertaining to the Cause of Temperance.

[EDITED BY MRS. ALLIE LUSE DICK, A. M.]

The opinion of ninety-seven bishops concerning the opening of the World's Fair on Sunday are published in the Independent. These chief pastors represent the Roman Catholic, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal South, United Brethren, Evangelical Association, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion, Moravian and Reformed Episcopal churches. It is significant that nearly all these eminent men have spoken clearly and strongly in favor of maintaining the common custom of our country with reference to the Sabbath day at the Columbian exhibition.

We understand that at the convention of the inter-collegiate prohibition association, held last week in Ypsilanti, a plan was suggested for a college prohibition lecture bureau, each college to furnish four or five men who shall be prepared to answer the calls of local clubs or other temperance societies at any time.

We are to have a W. C. T. U. hymnal. Miss Anna Gordon has prepared the book by order of the national W. C. T. U. and it will be published in a few weeks. It will be another link in the chain of white ribbon achievements.

The prize of $80 offered by the National W. C. T. U. for the best essay by a college student on "The Relation of the Temperance Question to Political Economy," was awarded to F. S. Dietrich, of Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kansas. Twenty different colleges were represented by the contestants. The essay ranking second in merit was by a young lady of Swathmore College, Pennsylvania.

The Army Temperance Association in India numbers 15,351.

A Missouri woman writes: "I have been told of a piece of legislation, or rather two legislative acts, whose juxtaposition seems like the delicate irony of fate. On the same day the Missouri legislature defeated the bill forbidding the sale of cigarettes to boys, and passed the bill for penning up geese. Verily, this government seems to be of, by and for the geese, instead of for the boys."

[EDITED BY UNIVERSITY PROHIBITION CLUB.]

There are thirty-eight licensed saloons in Ann Arbor. By actual investigation sixteen saloons, out of eighteen visited, were found open on a recent Sunday night. High license regulates, etc. Ann Arbor citizens last year dug the graves and filled them with the soulless bodies of two hundred drunkards. Prometheus chained to the rock was not more impotent than these men chained to the habit of drink. They are dead, but the forging of the chains goes on.

It is well known that many of the students obtain intoxicating drinks; but it has been carefully estimated that at least one-half the University faculty would sign a total abstinence pledge, so it seems highly probable that in a few years the law will be strictly enforced.

Let us as temperance workers give our patronage and influence in favor of those who have the moral courage in the face of present difficulties to stand firm for the right and good government. We ought not to favor the boycott, but "turn about is fair play," and we should especially favor temperance men as a means of self-protection.

Why not have a saloon exhibit at the world's fair? It does a mammoth business. Many of its manufactured wrecks are right here in Ann Arbor. Several hundred are here already in the process of completion. Boys and girls and students make up its raw materials for drunkards. A very fine assortment of wrecks would adorn the Chicago fair. Bloats from the police courts, not from Ann Arbor, however, because the police are not instructed to interfere with her saloons; wreches from the poor houses, maniacs from insane asylums, criminals from the prisons and murderers from the gallows. Then, to make a success of it, there should be some saloon fights and murders in cold blood, drunken husbands reeling home to break the furniture, beat their wives and kick their children out of doors. Several sights of delirium tremens just to touch up the scene for panoramic effect, and one or two processions of fevers, scrofula, and consumption for relief. Two or three touches of Debt, Disgrace, Despair and Death, deferring, however, that horrid, ghastly, hellish scene of the death hereafter. The saloon should exhibit at the world's fair, so long as the nation worships Gambrian and licenses this enormous evil.

Justice Grant, in a recent address at Lansing, made a few very pertinent remarks. The central idea which the judge advanced was that it was not the duty of citizens to take the enforcement of the law into their hands. The enforcement of the law should be left entirely with the officers delegated and paid to perform such work. He declared that the doctrine that the law could not be enforced because public opinion was against it was infamous, and contended that if put to a vote the public would sustain every law on the statute books. Judge Grant read the riot act to all saloon keepers, gambling houses and places of prostitution, and commented strongly on the failure to enforce the laws respecting these places.

AROUND THE CAMPUS.

The class '94 has adopted brown and white as its colors.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon club has filed articles of incorporation.

P. W. Ross has been elected president of the Students Lecture Association.

Prof. Tufts and Dr. Fay will go to Germany next year to continue their studies.

The Engineering banquet, held Friday night at Hangsterfer's hall, was a fine affair.

James Van Inwagen and H. J. Hatch attended the Psi Upsilon convention at Amherst college.

Oberlin failed to make a point at the base ball game on Friday last. The score stood 25 to 0.

M. C. Murphy, trainer for the D. A. C., has been instructing the contestants for the spring field day.

The Northern Oratorical League has admitted the Iowa State University but rejected Knox College.

M. R. Sherman, lit. '87; J. B. Bartt, lit. '88, and C. V. Nafe, lit. '89, have established a law partnership in Chicago.

An addition to the Psi U. house, to cost $4,500, will be built this spring. It will include library, study and chambers.

Another fine moose skin has been received at the University from northern Manitoba, and Taxidermist A. B. Covert is putting it up for the museum.

The glee and banjo clubs will appear in University hall on the evening of May 15. They will wear, for the first time in Ann Arbor, the Oxford cap and gown. This concert will be the twentieth which they have given this season.

The oratorical contest of the northern league which takes in the university, the Oberlin college, the Northwestern university of Wisconsin and the university of Milwaukee will be held at Ann Arbor Friday night. The Ann Arbor boys expect to get away with the lion's share of the prizes.—South Lyon Excelsior. Very good, but please tell us where the "Northwestern university of Wisconsin" and the "university of Milwaukee" are located.

What The Art Loan Is.

The Art Loan is the helpmeet of the S. C. A. Besides this, it is to be a fine exhibit of pictures, bric-a-brac, oriental drapery, oriental costumes, etc. The loan proper will open May 16, though there will be some preliminary serving of refreshments after the glee club concert on the evening of May 15. One of the delightful features of the loan will be the German room.

The committee appointed to arrange and preside over this room is Mrs. M. L. D'Ooge, Mrs. L. P. Hall and the Misses Schmid, Neumann, Gruner and L. Condon, with Miss Clara Mack as chairman. The committee are putting forth commendable efforts and expect to make the room a fac simile of the usual German interior. Every man and woman who loves the fatherland should see the German room, even if he or she sees no other department of the art loan. This room will contain furniture, etc., distinctively German, much of which has been brought from beyond the ocean. Another grand feature of the loan is the art gallery. Do you enjoy a fine picture? Then visit the art loan and see some of the finest pictures from the famous McMillan collection, all of which have been painted by the masters of the brush and have been purchased at a cost of hundreds and, in many instances, of thousands of dollars. Let every individual possessing an artistic eye and an artistic love of beauty visit the art gallery and partake of an artistic feast.

Memorial Services.

Memorial services, in honor of the late Dr. Winchell, were held Sunday afternoon at University Hall. A large portrait, executed by Jas. P. Robertson, a post-graduate student, stood on the stage. President Angell read appropriate scriptural passages and Prof. D'Ooge offered prayer. Music was furnished by the choral union. Prof. M. W. Harrington delivered the memorial address. It was an exhaustive history of Dr. Winchell's life, and contained tributes to his achievements as a scholar and his virtues as a man. It was written with that appreciation and sympathy which only intimate acquaintance with the deceased could give.

In Aid of Newberry Hall.

In discussing plans for finishing Newberry Hall, it was suggested that the young people's societies of the state should co-operate by giving entertainments or otherwise. The Young People's society of the Congregational church will give an entertainment for this purpose, Friday evening, consisting of the "Cradle Songs of the Nations," to be followed by refreshments and a social time. The program of cradle songs is: English, Miss Hazard; Spanish, Miss Garza; German, Miss Reyer; Irish, Miss Grace Taylor; Ethiopian, Miss Lovell; French, Miss Martha Taylor; Japanese, Miss Hanford; Hungarian, Miss Peavey; Indian, Mrs. Hoff; Italian, Miss Fountain; American, Miss Peck.

A LIST OF DONORS.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE S. C. A. BUILDING FUND.

Names of Those Who Have Contributed Something to Aid This Great Project.

EDITOR REGISTER: I find that in making a list of those who had given to our fund before March 1, 1891, I omitted some. This was wholly unintentional, but some names have not been reported to me. As we desire to make an accurate list of all who have given, I will consider it a personal favor, if any who do not find their names in either list will report to me their names and amount given. A. E. JENNINGS, 27 East Ann-st.

A Great Success.

Talk about fun, music, song, dance, repartee, and all the adjuncts that go to make life pleasant and agreeable, and then listen to the funny comedy, "Running Wild," as presented by Schwartz's coterie of artists employed with this talented organization. The performance must be noted as a hilarious success. There is more fun and more laugh crowded in its two hours' presentation than any comedy that has ever been seen here. Philadelphia Press. "Running Wild" with its lot of pretty girls, and host of comedians returns to the grand opera house, Saturday night, May 9. Seats now on sale.

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, J. S. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Saturday, the second day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one. Present, J. WILLARD BABBITT, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of BENJAMIN DEPREUX, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified and sworn to by the persons interested in said estate, and on the hearing of said petition, and on the instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that administration of said estate may be granted to Freeman F. Galpin as executor, or to some other suitable person. Whereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the first day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the devisees, legatees, and heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, may be required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Ann Arbor, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and of the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the ANN ARBOR REGISTER, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. J. WILLARD BABBITT, Judge of Probate. [A true copy.] Wm. G. Doty, Probate Register. 57

LATEST COUNTY NEWS.

Stony Creek. Mrs. Harrison is recovering from her late illness. Ben McGraw and daughter Minnie visited at this place last Sunday. Mr. Suthard suffered a paralytic stroke last week and is now very low. The lawsuit at Barr's Hall last Wednesday, before Aaron Kelsey, was decided in favor of Chas. Coombs. E. Dunsmore, so we are informed, will appeal. Coombs' attorney was Jones, of Saline; Dunsmore's was Kendall, of Milan.

Dexter. Mrs. Weeks' house is now enclosed. It is a tasty structure. Henry Booth's new house has just received its first coat of paint. Mr. Rogers was taken last Saturday with a stroke of paralysis. He is, however, able to be around the house again and doing well for one of his extreme age.

Webster. Miss Ida Kenny visited friends in Lansing last week. The Congregational Sunday school will observe Children's Sunday. D. C. Fall, of Ann Arbor, called on relatives in Webster last week. School district No. 2 commenced this week, with Miss Moore as teacher. Misses Maggie, Nannie and Mamie Phelps, accompanied their grandfather to Lansing last week.

Milan. Presiding Elder Joslin preached at the Methodist church Sunday. Mrs. Wily Dexter entertained a few ladies at tea Friday evening. Miss Millie Hitchcock is teaching school at Whitaker this spring. L. Rouse, of Homer, was the guest of his father, J. C. Rouse, over Sunday. Miss Della Holcomb is teaching No. 3 district school at London this spring.

The receipts of the Baptist ice cream social Wednesday evening were $11.60. Eight persons united with the Baptist church by baptism Sunday, thirteen receiving the right hand of fellowship. Mr. Torrence had a runaway Saturday. His wife and daughter were thrown out of the wagon, and the latter was quite badly hurt.

Wm. Lee, while walking to Milan on the Ann Arbor track Monday morning, had a narrow escape. Attempting to cross a cattle guard in front of an approaching train, and trying to disengage himself, he hurt one of his legs quite badly and lost one of his heels. Miss Ella Springer was quite badly burned Wednesday evening in trying to extinguish the flames in her sleeping room, which had caught in a lace curtain from a parlor match. By the timely assistance of the neighbors, the flames were extinguished without much damage.

Chelsea. Mrs. L. H. Wood visited Jackson last week. Dr. Bush and family have moved to Jackson. Dr. E. Wright returned from the east last week. Rev. C. Hoag and family are visiting in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sparks, of Jackson, visited in town last Wednesday. Rev. J. H. McIntosh has recovered and was able to preach last Sunday. Theo. Wood has had an addition built on the south side of his residence. Mr. and Mrs. Lighthall were called to Laingsburg last week, by the death of her sister, Mrs. Royce. R. F. Armstrong & Company have united their two stores, and are now located in the Winans building.

The Washtenaw Baptist Association and Sunday school convention met at the Baptist church on May 5, 6 and 7. Geo. Greening has returned to his law practice in Alpena, and his brother Frank has resumed his work as postal clerk. The gymnasium society gave an ice-cream social and club-swinging exercise on Saturday evening. The receipts were $6.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, since the death of Mrs. Cook's mother, in Ypsilanti, have returned to their old home on the farm. The W. C. T. U. have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. D. H. Hoag; vice-president, Mrs. L. Taylor; secretary, Miss O. Conklin; treasurer, Mrs. J. Everett.

Salem. Mrs. Chas. McLachlin is visiting her parents in Belding. Martin Briggs, of Plymouth, was in the village Tuesday. Chas. Merritt shipped a car load of cattle to Detroit Tuesday. Mr. Wilson, of Walled Lake, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. W. Ryder. Chas. McLachlin is serving on the jury at Ann Arbor this week. Salem Tent K. O. T. M. No. 417 met Tuesday and initiated officers.

Arbor day was well observed in the village, a large number of young maples being set out. Rev. W. H. Shannon preached a special sermon to young men last Sabbath evening. Rev. W. H. Shannon will preach to the children the first Sabbath morning of each month. A gang of workmen are constructing a road bridge on the D. L. & N. railway, just south of the village. Fred Sudeberg has been appointed foreman of the Greenfield section of the D. L. & N. railway.

Chas. Utley and wife attended the funeral of Zachariah Suley, uncle of Mrs. Utley, at Orchard Lake, last Wednesday. The senior scholars of the public school will give an entertainment in Smith's Hall a week from next Saturday. Proceeds to go towards purchasing a flag. Rev. W. H. Shannon held a service for children in the Congregational church, Sunday morning, and preached a special sermon to young men in the evening.

Whitmore Lake. Supervisor Duffy is taking the assessment. C. L. Rane is enlarging his ice cream parlor.

Will Osborne will run steamer Oceola this season.

Miss Mabel Stiles has been severely ill with rheumatic fever. T. M. Dodge has been at Laingsburg overseeing the work of his farm. The Silson mansion (?) is being torn down and will be replaced by a cottage. The Ann Arbor company is attempting to fill the sink hole at Horseshoe lake with gravel.

Another one of the Hilderbrand-Rorabacher lawsuits was tried at Howell last week. Judgment not yet awarded. The Ann Arbor road will soon put on the long needed train and have one going south in the morning and one north at noon. It appears that we will have a bus line here this season with Michael Duffy as proprietor. He bought the green bus at Green's auction at Ann Arbor.

The game warden dropped on to twelve law-breakers spearing at Hamburg last Sunday night. It is getting to be dangerous business and that makes the sport the more pleasant. About thirty of the U. of M. boys would be sorry to have their friends know of some of their actions here last Sunday. Many highly respected young men too.

OUR YPSILANTI RAMBLER

Tells What He Has Seen and Heard in that Burg During the Past Seven Days and Nights.

H. P. Glover has returned from his western trip, and everybody seems particularly well pleased to see him home again. Ed. Cornwell arrived home Sunday from his trip around the world, looking healthy and seeming in excellent spirits. We understand that Misses Ruth and Mary Putnam will accompany Miss Anna May Soule on a continental tour next month. Miss Ruth will remain in Dresden a year, the other ladies returning in September. We notice that Edmund Hewitt is again in charge of his old boot and shoe store. The stock was purchased for him at the sale last week. The Normal seniors gave a very swell reception at the Normal last Friday evening to the faculty and students. Misses Julia Stebbins and Lizzie Millsap have returned from New York, where they have been taking lessons in voice culture for some months. Rev. J. T. Sunderland gave his last lecture at Cleary Hall last Sunday evening. His choir came with him and rendered some fine music. The Y. M. C. A. held a parlor conference at the residence of A. J. H. on Tuesday evening with a fine attendance. The Normal news oratorical contest, Friday evening, May 8th, promises to be of special interest, and without doubt there will be a attendance to witness the triumphs of the lucky orators. The medals which will be given are valued at $100. A goodly number of our musical people heard the Boston Symphony concert at the University Tuesday evening and were more than pleased, as a natural consequence.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Ascension day services were held at St. Andrew's, St. Thomas' and the German churches. The forty-hour devotion will begin at St. Thomas' church next Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock. Bishop Keane, rector of the new Roman Catholic University at Washington, will lecture at University Hall, Friday evening at eight o'clock. His subject is "The American of the Future."

Services will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday evening, in memory of the late Prof. Winchell. Professors Carhart, Walter and Harrington, Dr. Breakey, J. E. Beal and others will speak. The Every Day Workers' circle of the King's Daughters of the First Baptist church will give a pie social in the church parlors next Friday evening, May 8, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. They will also have kitchen towels for sale. The admission price is ten cents.

Bishop C. D. Foss delivered an eloquent, simple and cogent discourse at the Methodist church, Sunday evening, in answer to the question, "Who was Jesus?" His line of reasoning was designed to prove that Christ was not only a marvelous man, but divine as well. The Young People's society of the Baptist church have provided a rich treat in securing the celebrated preacher and lecturer, Rev. Dr. Henson, of Chicago, to deliver their annual address on Monday evening, May 11. Dr. Henson's address before the S. C. A. several years ago is still spoken of with enthusiasm.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet effectively. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind. Headache "I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

A STORY OF RETRIBUTION.

(COPYRIGHT, 1893.)

Here Percy proffered a suggestion. "If you ladies would prefer sailing on some other vessel, I will secure passage for you. For my part, I do not wish to leave the prisoner again, until I leave him in a felon's grave. I want to know all the time that he is safe."

"Exactly my feelings in the matter," said Mrs. Delaro.

This seemed to settle the question, for Armida said: "Then, since you are determined, I suppose I must consider myself overruled."

Consequently, arrangements were completed and a few days later the party started for Liverpool.

The ship on which their passage had been secured was the "Dunrobin Castle." It was an unpopular steamer and had been purposely selected to avoid publicity and gossip on account of the prisoner. As they steamed down the Mersey and over the bar the day was one of the most enjoyable which could have been wished for. There was a delightful breeze blowing from the sea, and the temperature was agreeable.

With this kind of weather they were favored until they passed the Fastnet Point, when a deep fog settled on them. This in turn passed away by the evening of the next day, and they were once more steaming under sunny skies. But only for about twenty-four hours, at the end of which time they encountered a storm and were tossed about in a violent manner for days together. The old steamer which carried them was none too good a seaboat at the best of times, but now she acted in a most eccentric manner and seemed entirely at the mercy and will of the waves.

Neither Mrs. Delaro nor Percy had as yet felt alarmed, but Armida, who was, in the most favorable weather, only a poor sailor, experienced terrible torture and claimed her mother's attention all the time. What with the state of the weather and the cries and moans which rose from the emigrants in the steerage, the "Dunrobin Castle" was any thing but the pleasantest place on the Atlantic.

For days together the raging storm continued, and it was not until the slow old boat had been ten days at sea that the tempest subsided. When it did there was a worse danger in store for them. They were on the Newfoundland banks in a fog so thick that the officers on the bridge were entirely unable to see the ship's nose as she plunged through the heavy swell left by the storm. The fog-whistle's continuous roar only added to the general confusion which reigned on board, and when the responding whistle of a passing steamer was heard it only increased the dread and apprehension of the passengers. After about thirty-six hours of this commotion the people quieted down and many seemed to have become as much accustomed to it as old seadogs with the experience of a life-time. But at daybreak one morning a dull, heavy taut was felt through the vessel, and a second later shrieks and cries rent the air, which would have made the heart of any listener other than an old sea captain stand aghast. Then followed a few moments of suspense which was quickly changed to horror when the engineers ran up on deck shouting: "The ship is filling. To the boats!"

Then followed the rush of hurrying, scurrying humanity from the steerage, terror plainly graven on every face, while over and above the noise and confusion rang out the resonant tones of the Captain's voice shouting orders to the boatswain. The force of habit appeared even on that scene of danger as the sailors shouted, "Y heave Ho," while they lowered the life-boats from their davits. Louder than all these sounds and far above the general excitement reigning on the "Dunrobin Castle" could be heard the shrieking whistles of the steamer which had struck her, and which was rounding to, in order to give all possible assistance in saving the lives of those on board the fast sinking boat.

It was not long before the unknown steamer was almost alongside, and then commenced the work of transferring the passengers—not an easy matter in a raging sea. The patience of the officers was tried to the utmost. Strong, rude men would try to push women and children aside in their wild efforts to be first to enter the life-boats, only to be driven back by the ship's officers at the noses of their revolvers. Occasionally one more daring than the rest would thrust a woman aside and try to pass her, but with a blow from the butt end of his revolver, the captain would knock him senseless, with the promise of similar treatment to the next who should dare to make the attempt.

All this time the ship was rapidly filling and it became apparent beyond a peradventure that before many more minutes the "Dunrobin Castle" would sink forever into the depths of the ocean. It required several trips of the life-boats to transfer all the passengers, but this difficult task was finally accomplished. The last load was being taken and none but the officers were supposed to be on board, when suddenly the two detectives in charge of Velasquez came rushing up the companion ladder excitedly exclaiming: "We can not reach the prisoner! What shall we do?"

"That should have been thought of sooner," said the Captain. "Follow me!" he shouted. "We will rescue him if it is possible."

"Let him go," said one of the detectives. "He'll be hung anyhow." But the Captain knew that although the prisoner was accused, he was not yet found guilty and his brave heart would not permit him to leave even such a cur as Velasquez to a horrible death without an effort to rescue him.

Accompanied by one of the officers the big-hearted commander hurried from whence he attempted to descend to the lower deck on which Velasquez was confined. But brave as the old Captain was, there was an obstacle in the way which even he was powerless to overcome. The water was up too high and the rescuers could go no further. Already the imprisoned man must be driven back to his bunk near the top of the room in which he was confined; the wretched prisoner could not pass out now alive, and certainly none could reach him. Doubtless he was alive—just alive—his life's span now to be measured by moments. Now he could see how relentlessly the mills of retribution grind—so surely—so surely—aye, and so quickly, so much more quickly sometimes than even those who manipulate the machinery of the mills can foresee. Almost Velasquez had paid to the uttermost the penalty of his crime committed long years before in the sunny Californian valley—almost!

The ship might go down at any moment now, and unless his would-be rescuers at once retraced their steps they might go down with it, so with regrets the Captain led the way to the deck. Sorrowfully he took his place in the life-boat, and as the sailors pulled away, he looked longingly at the old ship that had carried him through so many thousands of miles of fair and stormy weather. Before they reached the waiting steamer the "Dunrobin Castle" settled on her beam ends and sank in old ocean with a mighty rush, taking with her, to a higher tribunal than that of man, Leon Velasquez.

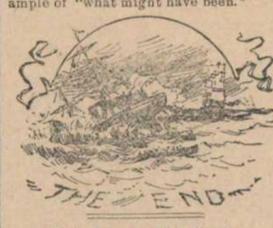

It was a tragic death. In some sense it was too grand a death for so mean a man—to exchange the ignominy of the gallows and the felon's grave in a prison yard for a burial beneath the rolling waves of the Atlantic, confined in a noble ship. And yet it was a horrible end—a lonesome, solemn end, for the man who had lived in tumult and excitement all his days to meet the Grim Monster and Great Avenger alone with his torturing memories of the past—to know, while the merciless flood closed over him, that he died un mourned and unregretted.

Perhaps it was a poor satisfaction to the widow of Mario Delaro to know that her husband's murderer, the destroyer of her happiness, was never convicted of his crime—but when Leon Velasquez, one of the meanest villains who ever trod this earth, went into the unseen world to meet his Maker, it surely was a powerful illustration of that infallible truth:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly,
Yet they grind exceeding small;
Yet with patience stands He waiting,
With exactness grinds He all."

Not long ago a small wedding party passed down the carpeted steps of a church in New York City. The principals of that party were a handsome, sunburned man of forty years and a lovely woman many years younger. They seemed very happy—they were very happy. They were Percy Lovel and his wife—whom we have known so long as Armida Delaro.

On the same day there left, from one of the poorer French lodging-houses near Leicester Square, London, a funeral hearse and one mourner's carriage. In that hearse lay the body of Emilie Bregy, and in the carriage was a man who looked the picture of misery—his name was Eugene Bregy—a living example of "what might have been."

was presentation day, duly attended the ceremony, to tell the truth—s were very careful not to be measured by moments. Now he could see how relentlessly the mills of retribution grind—so surely—so surely—aye, and so quickly, so much more quickly sometimes than even those who manipulate the machinery of the mills can foresee. Almost Velasquez had paid to the uttermost the penalty of his crime committed long years before in the sunny Californian valley—almost!

Wednesday the older boys had their holiday, and were left in possession of the college grounds, to tell all their old stories over again, and make their customary annual speeches and pleas for increased academic funds, while our party of four, costily filling a coach, drove about the beautiful city and its suburbs. It was a quiet, drowsy drive, for all four felt the reaction from yesterday's exertions—but languor became Florence fully as well as gayety.

It was certainly very pleasant indeed, Stevens thought, to be admitted so cordially into this winsome family circle and share their cultured, happy hearted and affectionate companionship. Not that any smart or wise things were said, but he could see the family traits of sincerity, fidelity and loving kindness reflected in all their actions and conversation. And Florence and a bunch of pink pussies who wore on her breast certainly went well together. He recalled a floating item he had read somewhere that in the Malay tongue the same word was used for flower and woman, and he thought to himself that these Malays were not such barbarians after all, for horticulturally speaking, women were flowers and men only weeds, or at best only substantial, nutritious vegetables. How he wished he dared say so, and how he reproached himself that night because he had not said so, and because, too, he had not asked Florence for a bid as a keepsake of the ride. It would have been a natural, proper and delicate bit of attention, he reflected, and would have gratified her. What with his chagrin over the wasted roses of the past and his anxiety respecting the "Dangers of Representative Institutions" in the future Stevens made a rather bad night of it. But morning came at last, and with it the final scenes of college life.

The bell rang merrily, the procession was formed and marched to the historic old Congregational church on the city green, and the crowd poured in. The platform groaned under a learned load of professors and eminent guests. The graduating class sat in the seats of honor, where they could see and be seen. That famous north gallery, sacred on these festivals to ladies, never looked more radiant, and no one of the many noted beauties there outshone the lovely young Miss Bassett.

It was an audience to test the nerves of any orator, and Peter Stevens' stout heart beat fast and hard as he mounted the platform and made his bows. He saw nothing but a confusion of forms and colors, and his ears were filled with a whirl of dizzy noises. Oblivion came down like a mist on his memory, but he held fast to the opening sentence of the speech, and there was nothing to do but to charge the fog bank and trust to luck. So to it he went, and to his great comfort soon found he could always see one or two sentences ahead as he progressed. He began, therefore, to feel more at ease and able to pay due attention to the groans of emphasis and pectification, as in turn he dwelt with suitable apprehension on the peril we are in from centralization, ignorant suffrage, machine politics, labor and corporate combinations, the accumulation of large fortunes and the evils of luxury. Then a few graceful phrases in closing and the speech was done.

And suddenly, as he bowed his farewell, a splendid bouquet was tossed from the north gallery and bounded on the platform at his feet. Blushing and confused, he stooped for the prize, while the applause broke out afresh, bowed to the glorious garden whence this nosegay had been detached, and left the stage.

Excited and unblinded by his triumphs, he dodged his friends and sought the quiet and privacy of his room. "I am very glad it's over," he thought to himself, "and I don't see now how I ever got through. What a superb bouquet I can guess who threw it, but here is the tag. 'With the congratulations and best wishes of Windward's mother and sister.' What delightful people they are anyway? And Miss Florence—but no, no, I must not think of it; I must not, I will not. I have my life to make yet. It won't do, Peter!"

And having thus reached for the third or fourth time this very sensible decision, he chose one dewy pink rosebud from the bouquet, kissed it and laid it gently between the leaves of the manuscript, folded the speech up, and carefully put the roll away among his treasures, insisting, as he did so, that he must not think of it, and was not thinking of it, and that it would not do.

CHAPTER III.
TOM BASSETT'S GUEST.
"Well, and did you find him?" laughed old Tom when Floy got back. She bore his searching glance without wincing. "Not yet, uncle," she said. "How about that Stevens?" he asked. "Oh, he was attentive and very agreeable," she answered, "and he is very smart, I suppose."

Shrewd old Tom saw there was nothing alarming in that quarter. And then he turned to his favorite nephew. "Well, Windward, now what in the world are you going to do?" "Study law," said the youth.

Stevens thought you might be as a profession," remarked Windward, meditatively. "I don't put that into his head!" remonstrated Mrs. Bassett, who was sitting by.

"Why, Fanny," said Uncle Tom, with the sober air he put on when he was teasing people, and yet was more than half in earnest after all, "it's our ruin. Don't disparage our ruin. In this new country ruins are scarce. They're an 'infant industry,' and need protection, not attack. Why, just see how carefully congress preserves them!"

"It will be our ruin," said Mrs. Bassett, "if we keep at it."

"Oh, mother!" shouted Windward. "Say, Florence, mother has made a joke on the claim!"

His end was easy and peaceful.

Uncle Tom smiled at this by-play and went on, rather grimly: "Foreigners say we have no ruins, but I could show them some about Washington."

"Yes, it's a dreadful place," broke in Mrs. Bassett. "I hope Windward will never go near it."

"Except as a justice, mother, except as a justice," exclaimed the youngster.

"Mighty little 'justice' there!" retorted Mrs. Bassett.

"Washington," said old Tom, with the calm confidence of a real estate agent in his tone, "is rapidly becoming one of the most beautiful cities in the country, and I wish I was there, if it is summer."

"Peter Stevens is going there, uncle, for the summer," said Windward. "His member of congress got him a clerkship so that he could lay up a little money to start on in the autumn, when our law term begins."

Old Tom's blue eyes rested on Windward with a curious expression. "So your friend is going to Washington—temporarily," he said. Then the old gentleman fretted a moment in his armchair and began on an anecdote. "I remember," he remarked, "when I was in Washington, in 1853, that a youngster named McArdle came to the city—temporarily. Well, but just here one of the young gentlemen who hovered around Miss Florence came up the path to the family group, and the conversation became general.

"I'll tell you about McArdle some other time," said Uncle Tom to Windward quietly. "It's a long story, and a pretty good one. If you ever do go to Washington you must be sure and look him up."

As Windward had said, Stevens spent the summer months in Washington. And when the autumn came young Mr. Bassett learned to his sorrow that his friend had decided to stay on through the year, as he could hold his place, which gave him a good salary, and study law in one of the local colleges in his abundant leisure. Windward's first impulse was to go where he could be with his friend, but Mrs. Bassett would not hear of it, and, moreover, to Windward's surprise, Uncle Tom added his veto to the suggestion. So friends were parted.

With the following two years these chronicles have little to do. Windward pursued his law studies quietly and well, with but one notable interruption. One day that inevitable guest, Death, came up the path to the family group and laid his hand of consecration and blessing, kindly and gently, on the white head of old Tom Bassett.

His end was easy and peaceful. Windward fortunately reached his bedside in time to receive his fond and wise dying messages. "You are going to see the twentieth century, Windward," he said. "I wish I might, and I hope I shall, for we read that the gift of God is eternal life. But, candidly, I had about as lief be a citizen of the United States for fifty years longer as an angel. But I have no quarrel with death. He has been very patient. Sometimes I have thought it was the claim. I've noticed in others that a claim, like the asthma, often prolongs life." He talked in this cheerful, playful tone constantly, without mocking, however, or frivolity; and at times he grew very earnest, as when he turned to Windward after a long silence and said: "Believe in your country, its justice, its greatness, its value. Above all the pettinesses of the scrabble for life rises the grand ideal of self government, like the white dome of the capitol above the shanties at its base. If the times look sordid and great men small, think of the noble services, the splendid sacrifices of these same men in the heroic times. They would do the same again. But I wish people would live for their country as willingly as they die for it."

As the end grew nearer he wandered at times, and in his delirium seemed to be revisiting the favorite haunts of his younger manhood. "He is talking about Rufus Choate," whispered Mrs. Bassett to her children; "they were great friends. He can't last long now, children."

"Poor uncle!" exclaimed Florence, bursting into tears.

"I don't know about that," said Windward stoutly, though his eyes were filling too.

Just on the horizon the sun burst through the clouds. He recognized them, kissed and blessed them. Then, after a struggle for breath, he said in his familiar, kind tones: "The bill entitled a bill for the relief of old Tom Bassett has been read a third time, and is now put upon its final passage."

Some inarticulate sentences followed, and then he pressed the hand of his niece and expired.
