MERCHANTS' ORGANIZATION.

System of Protection for Retailers Against Dead Beats and Others who Pay Slowly.

A branch of the Merchants Retail

Commercial Agency of Chicago has been organized in this city. This system cannot work a hardship on any person who is disposed to do the square thing. Any person, no matter how poor, how unfortunate his circumstances in life, if he is honest, he need have no fear, because he can and will make known his circumstances in such a way as will be satisfactory to the person he owes. No merchant will ever crowd a poor man who is honest; but that class of persons who do not care for their promses to pay; who go from one store to another, from one town to another, contracting a debt wherever they can get it blind, never stopping to consld r how they can pay; never trying to pay-paying their honest debts being the last thing they think of-it is to such persons that this system pays attention. It is no hardship to ask men to be honest in their deals with a merchant who trusts them. Every farmer, every mechanic, every person in the community in which we reside, who pays hishonest debts is interested in the success of a system which seeks to make those who can pay, and won't pay, pay their honest debts, because it is those who pay cash, or pay their debts promptly, who furnish the money which enables the merchant to successfully conduct his business and carry on his books that class of people styled slow payers and "dead beats." Every dollar lost by the merchant by reason of bad debts is indirectly loaded onto the shoulders of those who do pay, and any system that forces payment by slow payers and "dead beats," or compels them to pay purchase, unloads the percentage from off the shoulders of the honest paying classes. A man cannot exist in this world and pay nothing without proving a direct burden on those who supply themselves with the necessaries of life by honest purchase. The do-nothing, pay nothing class are what this agency is after. The merchants have no law for their pretection; they must be a law unto themselves by combination for the protection of each other. They owe it not only to themselves, but to the cashpaying, prompt-paying, customers to combine together and drive to settlement or cash that class of persons which infests every community, who do nothing, live well, and contribute nothing. This system is being adopted by all the Miss Helen Terry, of Toledo, will leading merchants throughout the west. spend a few weeks with Miss Josie It deals honorably with both debtor and creditor and should have the support not only of merchants but honest con-

MILITARY MATTERS.

COMPANY A AND THE NEW OR-GANIZATION.

The Ann Arbor Light Infantry Elect Officers and Adopt Bye-Laws-Meeting in Behalf of Company A. During the past few weeks there has been great commotion in Ann Arbor military circles. Dissatisfaction with the present Company A has induced about sixty of the young men of this city to form an entirely new organization, which they propose to call the Ann Arbor Light Infantry. The prospective members are: Chas. Kline, John C. Fischer, Simon Dieterle, E. H. Allmendinger, W. J. Finnegan, J. F. Rentsch'er, Thos. Slater, Robert Gerner, E. P. Lutz, C. F. Gruner, James S. Quarry, Fred the chance to open an account; who go | Phelps, J. F. Breakey, Ed. I. Taylor, James N. Riley, Theodore Stierle, Eugene Koch, Nate Stanger, Sam Henne, Wm. F. Fisher, H. E. French, Sam Mclaren, Robert Ross, Thomas Cooley, jr., John Condon, James Duffy, George Dygert, Wellington Tate, Gustave Brehm, Chas. Bailey, Sam Kinne, Harry Douglass, A. R. Taylor, Edward McAllister, Edward Seyler, Geo. H. Fischer, E. V. Hangsterfer, Ed. F. Duffy, Chas. Meyers, C. E. Hiscock, Louis C. Weinmann, Fred McOmber, George Vandawalker, W. W. Watts, T. H. Goodspeed, Ross Granger, W. F. Armstrong, Jas. R. Bach, Elmer E. Beal, Carl Miner, H. O. Walters, J. Gwinner, Girt W. Collins. A. C. Pack, Austin McGuire, Emil Baur, jr., Wm. Gates, V. Crittenden. Forty-two of the gentlemen just mentioned met Monday evening in the rehearsal rooms of the Chequamegon orchestra. C. H. Kline was elected chairman and Jas. Quarry secretary. The proposed constitution, prepared by W. W. Watts, Edward Seyler, Wellington spot cash or secure for everything they Tate, Fred McOmber and James Breakey, was adopted. It establishes a membership fee of $5.00. Every new name must come before the whole company for consideration. It is first referred to the board of directors, who post it up in the armory for one week. It is then acted upon by the company. Three adverse votes reject a candidate. The following officers were elected Monday evening: Captain, C. E. Hiscock; first lieutenant, W. W. Watts; second lieutenant, W. F. Armstrong; clerk, C. H. Kline. The board of directors comprises the three commissioned officers and the following five citizens: Major H. Soule, [Col. H. S. Dean, S. W. Beakes, Zac Roath and Edward Duffy. The section relating to membership is modeled

> The friends of the present company met Monday evening at Armory Hall, for the purpose of securing the retention of a military company in Ann Arbor. Arthur Brown was elected chairman. Speeches were made by several of those present. Dr. George thought that no steps should be taken for the disbandment of Company A until the Dennison case had been disposed of. J. F. Schuh agreed with him. It had been urged on many sides that the weakness of the company was due to the inefficiency of its officers. On his motion, a committee, consisting of J. F. Schuh, Dr. George and Col. Dean, was appointed to draft a memorial which should be presented to the governor. C. E. Hiscock wanted the whole trouble between the present company and those who desired a change compromised. He would like to see Company A remain in the city. On his recommendation, it was decided that a committee, consisting of one representative from each faction and three citizens, should be appointed, for the purpose of settling the difficulties between the factions. The present Company A appointed John T. Kinney, J. F. Schuh and L. J. Liesemer as a committee to confer with the new company, who are represented by W. W. Watts. At present writing nothing definite has been done. It is doubtful if a compromise can be effected.

after that of the Detroit Light Infantry.

Another Drowning. J. Bush was drowned in McNally's lake on Thursday afternoon. He was fishing with John Kane and Fred Schuhmacher and accidentally fell into the water. His comrades were unable to rescue him. On Sunday a party of men commenced to drag the lake and succeeded in finding the body about four o'clock in the afternoon. Bush was a comparative stranger, having come to this city about three weeks ago.

University Minstrels.

Their first appearance will be in Ypsianti next Saturday evening, May 16, at Draper's Opera House, and they should draw a big crowd from Ann Arbor. The dancing giraffe will be there, as will the acrobats, the spirit dancers, the banjo quintette, the mandolin serenaders, and many more that we have not room to mention. We feel justified in recommending the minstrels to the public of both Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, for we feel sure their performance will be the finest thing ever gotten up | ton touched upon the religious sepect by U. of M. students. Klage der Jungfrau," (in German) by

The Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat says of Dr. Vaughn: "In the laboratory of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor a series of experiments with water has been completed recently. The idea was to test water which appeared pure. Dr. Vaughn, who conducted the tests, tried 119 samples. In 36 of them, nearly one-third, the chemist found poisonous germs. He tried the germs on white rats and thus proved their dangerous character. The principal deduction drawn from these experiments was that the appearance of water was very misleading. Some of the water was as pure to the eye as it could be, yet the germs were found. One of the greatest surprises encountered by Dr. Vaughn in his examination was with some water of Lake Superior, which was beautiful to look upon. This lake water had always borne the reputation of being pure. Yet the tests showed beyond question that it contained poisonous germs and furnished the explanation for 1,500 cases of typhoid fever with which, in epidemic form, the city of Duluth was afflicted some time ago. Dr. Vaughn has a theory of his own about typhoid fever. He does not believe that this dread disease is due to any one germ found in the water, but that there are various germs which may produce the fever. Dr. Vaughan is known to fame as the man who discovered the real cause of so much unhappiness during the picnic season. His searching tests revealed in milk the poisonous element, tyrotoxicon, which so often reveals itself in ice-cream and plays havoc with stomachs."

The Late Dr. Winchell.

Eloquent tributes to the memory of the late Dr. Winchell were paid at the Methodist church Sunday evening. Prof. Carhart gave a short sketch of his life and character; J. E. Beal spoke of him as a teacher, ranking him with President Haven and Dr. Cocker; Dr. W. F. Breakey pictured the professor as a citizen; Prof. Walter eulogyzed him as a man of culture, and Prof. Harring-

THE MINING SCHOOL.

The Annual Report Shows the School to Be in a Prosperous Condition.

The annual report of the Michigan mining school shows that last year there were thirty-five pupils enrolled, and this year there have been sixty-two enrolled, which number will probably be increased before the close of the year. There are graduate students, four; class of '91, nine; class of '92, eight; class of '93, forty-one. This shows a great increase for this year, which is really the first that the school has had anything like proper equipment. It is expected, from statements received, that next year's class will be as large or even larger than this. The have entered since the school opened have come from eight states and from Europe, Canada and Japan, and of these eighty-nine are from Michigan.

LANSING, Mich., May 7.—The house yester-day defeated the bill appropriating $30,000 to aid in entertaining the National G. A. R. en-campment at Detroit in August. The vote was reconsidered and the bill tabled. Bills were passed creating the Thirty-first judicial circuit from the counties of Outcomeson and Gorgebic. from the counties of Ontonagon and Gogebic; appropriating $10,000 for the collection of labor and industrial statistics. The joint commit-tee on military and state affairs reported favorably the Dodge bill providing a bounty of $100 each to soldiers of the rebellion, and in committee of the whole agreed to the agricult ural college appropriation bill. The bill increasing the specific tax on railroads from 2 to 8 per cent. of the gross earnings was passed, and if it becomes a law it will place $250,000 ad-

from the Cold Wave. LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.-A sum mary of reports received from all sections of this state, northern Tennessee and southern Indiana indicate the des truction by the frosts of Tuesday and Wednesday nights of nearly all of the garden vegetables ex cept strawberries, which will prob ably still average half a crop with favorable weather. Grapes are generally killed, but peaches and other fruits did not suffer greatly south of the Ohio river. In bottom lands along water courses and the lower valleys growing wheat and corn have received more or damage, while on uplands to and other crops and most forms vegetation escaped compara uninjured. At numerou points ice was formed on Wednesda night, but, singularly, this did not a pear to affect plants as unfavorably as might have been expected. The approach of higher temperatures and the prospect of showers will lend encour agement to fruit growers and market gardeners and without doubt eventually reduce the frost damages below present estimates.

RIVALS UNITED.

St. Joe and Benton Harbor Made One. with a New Name.

LANSING, Mich., May 9. - The house Thursday by a hasty vote passed the once defeated bill creating the new county of Dickinson out of territory taken from Iron, Ontonagon and Marquette counties. The senate passed the house bill changing the method of inspecting kerosene oil and reducing the test about 17 degrees, which will reduce the price two and one-half cents per gallon. The long-standing row between St. Joseph and Benton Harbor was settled in the house Thursday by consolidating the two. The proposed name of St. Joe Harbor for the new city was rejected and Port Michigan selected instead.

Messenger Boys Steal $1,000.

NEW YORK, May 9 .- Charles Wagner, of No. 247 West Forty-first street, and his chum, Charles Gleason, of No. 851 First avenue, both of whom are 20 years old and were employed by the American District Telegraph Company at Thirty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, absconded Wednesday afternoon with $1,000. Wagner had been intrusted with the package to deliver it to Mis-May Kellard at No. 3 West Forty-sixth street. Late Thursday afternoon two Central office detectives captured Gleason on First avenue and took him to police headquarters. Wagner, who appears to have been the principal in the affair, has disappeared.

Fourteen Persons Burned to Death. Berlin, May 12.-Seventeen houses were destroyed by fire in the hamlet of Kolzow on the island of Wallin, off Stettin, Sunday night, and fourteen persons were burned to death. The fire spread so rapidly that the sleeping people were not aroused until too late for escape.

Two Men Fatally Wounded and Others Seriously Hurt-An Employer and His Men Fire Upon Strikers-A Men Killed in Ohio.

DENVER, Col., May 12.—A terrible fight took place Monday afternoon be tween a party of striking brickmakers and a gang of colored men who had been engaged by F. N. Davis, the proprietor of the brick yard, take their places. Davis, son and seven negroes, all heavily armed, were going to work when they were intercepted by a band of strikers and ordered back. Davis warned the strikers to get out of the way. The latter refused, and Davis and his men opened fire. Two of the strikers were mortally wounded. Thomas Kelly was shot in the back and died in a few minutes. John Redenear was also shot in the back and cannot live. Ten other men were slightly wounded. Davis and his men when arrested did not deny that they shot to kill, but claimed that it was in self-defense, after they had been attacked by strikers. Davis says the strikers were armed, but the men deny it.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 12.—There was a terrible riot between Italian and American laborers in the employ of Alexander Graham, a Belmont county (0.) pike contractor, at Pipe Creek Monday morning, which resulted in one man being killed and two others fatally wounded and from six to ten more or less hurt from cuts and blows. Pipe Creek is 10 or 12 miles from Bellaire, and there being no other communication than a country road the details cannot be had. It is known that the trouble was inaugurated by an Italian strik ing an American over the head with an iron bar.

Duquoin, Ill., May 12.-Sunday evening a colored boy named Anthony Chafton, who had been trying to court Bertha Coleman, followed her as she was going to church and struck her or head with a rock, crushing her skull. Miss Coleman lived near Mattoon, Ill., and was visiting relations here. Chafton escaped, and before the police were notified took a train going south, but it is reported he was captured at Carbondale. Miss Coleman died of her injuries.

Holding the Train for Their Pay, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9. - Citizens of Waynetown, Wayne county, and a number of the employes of the Midland raflroad captured a train Friday morning and are holding it at that place. They say that no trains shall pass through the place till the employes are paid. The men are backed by the most substantial citizens of the town. The trainmen called upon the local officers when the train was stopped, but they refused to interfere.

Sacrificed Her Two Children. BERLIN, May 9 .- At Hardebeck the wife of a locksmith named Homfeld, while possessed with a religious mania dressed her two children in white, held them over a vessel, and cut their throats, letting the blood fall into the receptacle. When life was extinct she endeavored to cremate the bodies, apparently with the idea of making a sacrifice. She was discovered before she could carry out this part of her

AFTER THE ITATA.

The Warship Charleston in Pursuit of the Chillan Steamer.

A Battle on the Sea Expected-Uncle Sam's Cruiser Most Bring Back the Boat or Fight -The Exmeralda May Take Part in the Contest.

IN HOT PURSUIT. SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—The fact no longer is concealed, even in official naval circles, that the swift cruiser Charleston is off on hot chase after the Chilian transport Itata, which left San Diego last Wednesday while under arrest, and carrying off the deputy United States marshal. The Itata, after leaving San Diego, took on board a consignment of rifles and ammunition which had been shipped from Francisco on the schooner Robert and Minnie. The transfer of the latter's cargo is believed to have occurred off the San Clemente islands, northwest of San Diego harbor; and it is believed the Itata steamed south Friday night or Saturday morning. The Chilian cruiser Esmeralda is believed to be lying off Cape San Lucas, which is the southernmost point of the land in Lower California, awaiting supplies carried by the Itata. The sea run to that point is about 700 miles. The Itata being heavily loaded, and although reputed as a fast craft, it is estimated she cannot exceed 6 to 8 knots, and the Charleston, which left San Pedro at 4 a. m. Monday, it is thought certainly can overtake her or reach San Lucas in advance of the transport. If not found there the Charleston will proceed direct to Acapulco, which will be the first point at which any further intelligence can be received. Even though the cruiser Esmeralda is met as convoy of the Itata, it is understood that the orders to the Charleston are explicit on point of capture, and if the Itata is sighted it is believed certain now that there will be a capture or

The fact that there appears now a very strong likelihood of a meeting of the two evenly matched warships under conditions that will require fine management to prevent a fight is thoroughly recognized by naval men on this coast. The orders to Capt. Remy, of the Charleston, are well authenti-cated to be binding in the matter of the recapture of the Itata, if sighted, and on the part of the Esmeralda, it is believed as fully that she will fight if she can reach the scene in time. The Charleston and in time. The Charleston and Esmeralda are sister ships as to general plan and possess nearly the same armament. The Esmeralda, nowever, has two pivot guns of 10-inch calliber, with a weight of twentyfive tons each, while the Charleston has two 8-inch rifles, fore and aft, weighing twelve and a half tons.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 12.-Foreign Minister Mariscal says that all neces sary step, have been taken so that when the Itata reaches any Mexican port she will not be allowed to land. She will, however, be allowed to pur-chase a small quantity of victuals, but no coal. The government, the minister says, is resolved to observe strictly the treaty obligations with Chili and not to harbor insurgents.

Vice Consul Pomo. of the Italian consulate of New York. will act for Consul Corte in the interim. It is believed here that Italy is seeking to obtain the moral support of its allies in the triple alliance in the position it has taken against the United States.

A Fool and His Money.

FREEPORT, Ill., May 12. - James Crouch, of Stockton, Ill., a young railroad man, was injured in a wreck on the Kansas City road last April. He sued the road for damages and a few days ago received a verdict for $4,000 in his favor. He secured the money, paid his lawyer $1,000 and came to Freeport with the balance in his pocket. While here he fell in with a number of gamblers and the result of their short acquaintance was a game of draw poker. Just one hour after the railroad man had bought his first chip he was skinned out of $1,700.

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

He Meets with Cordial Welcomes All Along the Route.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T., May 9 .- President Harrison and his party reached Boise City, Idaho, at 7 o'clock Priday morning and were wel-comed by Gov. Willey and Mayor Pinney. Two troops of the Fourth cavalry and a large number of civic organizations escorted the president to the state house, where addresses of welcome were delivered by the governor and mayor and replied to by the president. The latter, after holding a reception in the governor's parlors, assisted the school children in celebrating Arbor day by planting a tree on the capitol lawn. At 1 o'clock the train left for Salt Lake City. At Pocatello the party was met by a special train, containing large delegations from this city and Ogden, which preceded the president's train to this point.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T., May 11 -The presidential train arrived at 3 o'clock a. m. Saturday and the party was welcomed by Gev. Thomas, Mayor Scott, Congressional Delegate Cain and a large reception committee. Many buildings were decorated, and for the first time in its history the Mormon tabernacle floated the stars and stripes from its roof. Public exercises took place at Liberty park and were with nessed by several thousand people. In his speech the president said:

his speech the president said:

"Purity of the ballot box, those wise provisions and that careful guardianship that shall always make the expression of the will of the people fair, pure and true, is the essential thing in American life. We are a people organized upon the principles of liberty, but, my fellow countrymen, it is not license; it is liberty within and under the law. I have no discord as a public officer with men of any creed, religious or political, if they will obey the law. My oath of office, my public duty requires me to be against those who violate the law. GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Col., May 41. The presidential party arrived here early Sunday morning. The president, Postmaster General Wanamaker and Mrs. McKee attended divine services at the First Presbyterian church, and in the afternoon a children's mass meeting was held at Durand's opera house in honor of the visitors, and it was attended by an immense crowd.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 12 .-The people of Colorado Springs turned out in force last evening to welcome the president, who arrived at 6 o'clock. The president visited Leadville and was presented with a brick weighing eighty ounces, or nearly seven pounds made of Leadville silver, 999 fine. It is an exact fac-simile of the silver bricks as they come from the refineries. The party spent an hour in Pueblo in the afternoon.

Nearly $60,000 Raised by the International Convention at Kansas City. KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 9 .- Indianapolis was chosen Friday as the place of meeting of the thirtieth biennial convention of the Young Men's Christian association. The most interesting feature of the day's meeting was the securing of money for the next two years' work. Almost $60,000 was raised in thirty minutes by general popular subscription. Among the heavy subscribers were: John D. Rockefeller, $2,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $2,000; W. K. Vanderbilt, $1,000; C. H. McCormick, Chicago, $2,000; C. L. Colby, Milwaukee, $2,000; Morris K. TORTURED BY FLAMES.

DETROIT, Mich., May 11.-A fire raged in the upper central counties of the lower peninsula Saturday the like of which has never been known. The line of flames reached almost without break from Mason county, on Lake Michigan, to Iosco county, on Lake Huron, with the forests of Lake, Osceola, Claire, Gladwin, Ogemaw and Alcona, where Gen Alger owns large interests, all ablaze Another fire of scarcely less magnitude exists in the lower peninsula. The incline of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad through Marquette, Houghton, Baraga and Ontonagon counties is in the path of the flames. Two railroad bridges have already gone on that line, and the telegraph lines are in bad shape. Friday night the flames swept into Oscoda and burned out $200,000 worth of property. Two houses and 7,000,000 feet of lumber were burned. Great apprehension is felt at Au Sable. An appeal for help has been sent to Alpena. It is feared that the city will be swept away if the wind shifts. Millions of acres of pine are burning. Additional reports now coming in show that a wide district is devastated. Reports from Marquette say that forest fires are burning all over the copper country. A special from Evart, in the southern center of Osceola county, states that a belt of fire extends clear through the county to the north Specials from Harrison, the county seat of Clare county, say that the village of Meredith is destroyed.

Gladwin, the county seat of the county of the same name, sends information that the entire north part of the county is in flames. To the northeast is the county of Ogemaw, known to be burning fiercely, and also Oscoda county. Word reached here that the little hamlet of Walkerville, Oceana county was wiped out, and that Altona, a small village in Mecosta county, was in ashes. Clinton, a small station on the Toledo Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad was wiped out, and Wagner & Pierce had 2,000,000 feet of logs and Hyde Bros. 1,000,000 feet burned. Farwell was also burned, with all the houses in the settlement. At Batchelor 1,000,000 feet of lumber, 1,000,000, shingles and 1,100 feet of railroad track were burned. The latest advices from Clare Lake, Evart, Roseommon, Frederick, West Branch, Gladwin, Farwell, Custer, Manistee and Grayling show that fires are raging flercely in the vicinity of those places

EMMETSBURG, Ia., May 11.-A fire was started on the prairie near Ruthven Friday which ran on to the premises of Mr. Ennis, burning his barn with ten head of horses. While endeavoring to save the horses a 20-year-old son was caught in the flames and burned to death.

KEATING SUMMIT, Pa., May 11 .- One of the largest forest fires known for many years is raging south and west of Austin, on the land of F. B. and C. W. Goodyear. The fire started in a large tract of old bark, where the dead hemlock, felled and standing, afforded material on which it fed and spread with fearful rapidity. Millions of feet of lumber and thou sands of cords of bark were destroyed in a short time.

The fires are worst on the lands of the Goodyears, near Austin, Pa. The forest has been burning since Saturday. It is estimated that 30,000,000 feet of logs and 10,000 cords of bark have been destroyed, besides 10 miles of tram railroad.

THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1891.

A LITTLE less liberty, of the wrong sort, and a little more law, of the right sort, would be a good thing for this country.

REPRESENTATIVE ORTH is straining every nerve to pass the bill making the liquor license uniformly $300. This is Democratic economy.

UNDOUBTEDLY the striking carpenters in this city have some grievances, but is it fair for them to demand higher wages or shorter days, after contracts have been let, based on the present scale?

Or course the Democratic legislature does not favor an appropriation for the Grand Army encampment at Detroit. Shall they vote money to entertain a lot of union soldiers! Not much.

THE next measure which the legislature will pass, in order to secure Democratic supremacy, will probably be a law forbidding all educated persons to vote. Such a law would certainly attain its end.

Ir is now known to a certainty that the University of Michigan can play ball. Let Harvard, Yale, Columbia and the other oriental and effete institutions tremble, for the great western nine is going to treat them as it treated Cornell.

THE best lawyers of the state are of the opinion that the Miner bill is unconstitutional, because it is, in effect, an attempt on the part of the state to delegate its power to congressional districts. They are undoubtedly right. The probability is that Michigan will, after all, choose no Democratic electors next fall.

ANOTHER theory of the free traders has been punctured. It is said: "If we do not buy of other nations, we cannot sell to them." The fact is that in thirty years, despite "high protection," the value of exports has increased from $316,000,000 a year to $845,000,000. What is the matter with the theory, Mr. Mills?

THE many prosecutions for heresy, begun or threatened, of noted divines in the protestant denominations, indicate a widespread disturbance in religious matters, another phase of the perrennial struggle between the old and new. Whether it will result in agnosticism or greater faith in the established creeds cannot be foretold as yet.

By refusing to indict the leaders of the mob who slew the Italian murderers, New Orleans has disgraced itself. It has countenanced a new Mafia which is equally as criminal as the old. Both the eyes of the American people to this

THE REGISTER generously gives a small amount of its space each week to the University Prohibition Club. This club elects an editor, who is responsible for what goes in their department. Last week the proof reader unfortunately overlooked a mistake in a number in one of their items. As a result a wild statement was made. Any sensible man, unless determined not to do so, would have at once understood that there was a mistake. Both the Courier and Argus. however, take the matter up and attempt to make capital of it. Evidently they were hard pressed for something to say to fill up their columns.

FUTURE historians will speak of the present age as an age of conceit. Much of the cant which is indulged in to a sickening extent by editors, lecturers and preachers tends to confirm this view. Men of frankness and broadness are growing very tired of such hackneyed expressions as the "boasted achievements of the nineteenth century," "this age of progress," "the grandest epoch," etc., ad nauseam. It is ail very well for King Gould or Emperor Rockefeller to talk in this fashion. perhaps, but the industrial slave, who pays tribute to these monarchs, does not take so rosy a view of the present age. The millenium is coming, but it is a leng, long way off, at the present writing.

WHILE the Democrats are gerrymandering northern states and passing bills which divide the electoral vote, they should look a little closely after the "solid south." Even in South Carolina matters are beginning to appear very gloomy for them. The old aristocratic gang, whose watchword has been "no nigger rule for us," is rapidly being pushed to the background, and the young men who see in the state wonderful facilities for manufacturing are flocking to the ranks of the protectionist party. It will soon be necessary for the Bourbons to bid for the negro votes in order to retain power. As they are not likely to gain many converts from members of the black race, it is possible that even South Carolina may poll a Republican majority in 1892. Who knows?

AN ENEMY TO THE CITY.

Tuesday's Argus makes a virulent attack upon THE REGISTER, accusing it of being an enemy of the city and of the university. Every friend of good government in our city will be disgusted with the position taken by the above named paper. Even many of those who desire that the same disgraceful condition of things which has existed here during the past year should continue, must, if they have any judgment at all, regret that the Argus should have allowed such a senseless tirade to appear in its columns. Such attacks, however, can in the end only strengthen the cause of reform, since they show so very plainly to what lengths opposition to law and order will go, even when it has squeezed into office by a majority of but one doubtful vote. Even with a large majority behind it, one would scarcely have believed that the Argus would willingly have courted the severe criticism of all intelligent people by publishing an article so entirely devoid of reason or truth. But it has been done so, and people are asking why? We shall endeavor to explain. There are two things that have led up to this result. First, the editor of the Argus is under obligations to the party in power. That party has given him one of the best paying offices it had to bestow, and an office of some kind is what he has been seeking for lo, these many years. Now he must pay for it. In what way do the party bosses demand this pay? Let us see. THE REGISTER has opposed the almost utter disregard of law and order in Ann Arbor during the past year. This naturally has offended the bummer element, and the bosses at once decided what should be Mr. Beakes' first payment on the debt he owes. Hence, the vigorous slap at THE REGISTER this

In the second place, the editor of the Argus knows that, unless very decided measures are taken to down the influence of THE REGISTER, the law and order party, which came so desperately near getting control of the city at the last election, will succeed in doing so next spring, and he will lose the pap which he now receives from the party in the way of city printing and appointment to office. The danger which such a possibility threatens a politician, with such a hankering for office as our friend of the Argus has, is sure to drive him to do just such a desperate and unreasonable thing as to publish an article like the one which appeared in the Argus this week.

THE REGISTER is accused of being an enemy of the city because it has opposed the manner in which the laws have been enforced, or rather non-enforced, during the past year. We do not deny our opposition to the condition of things. But is it not the sheerest nonsense to argue that to oppose open violations of the law makes one an enemy to the city? Here is a man apparently sound in every respect except that he has a vile ulcer. It will ruin his health unless vigorous measures are taken to cure it. The Argus would plaster it over and then, after giving it a Mafias are alike bodies of assassins, and | coat of whitewash, would endeavor to no amount of drivel about bribery of make people believe that the man was juries and miscarriage of trials will blind perfectly healthy. We believe that the Argus knows better, and feeling so, we cannot help being amazed that it should submit to the payment of such an enormous price for the patronage it receives. It further declares that nothing whatever is gained by agitating the question of city government as was done by THE REGISTER last week. Was it not this same kind of opposition which gave life to the citizen's movement this spring and did not that movement compel the Democratic party to put up the very best man that it had, a thing which every one well knows would not have been done, but for the fear that unless it did so the citizen's movement would overwhelm it? Is not this alone a distinct gain?

> The Argus further says that "No city in Michigan is better governed than Ann Arbor." Suppose we admit this to be true, the best we can say is that it is certainly a sad commentary on local city government in Michigan. But it is not true, and we do not think there is any intelligent citizen in Ann Arbor that believes it to be true. The Argus further accuses THE REGISTER OF not having made specific charges. Our readers, know better. But to satisfy Mr. Beakes we will make another specific charge, and in doing so prove one of his statements untrue. He says "the very night before THE REGISTER reached its readers complaints were made by saloon frequenters that they could not get in saloons." THE REGISTER reached its readers here in the city last Thursday night, having been sent to the postoffice Thursday afternoon. On the night preceding, the writer had business down town at a late hour. So many saloons were open that he took occasion to count them and found at least fifteen in full blast after the legal closing hour. Possibly they were so crowded that the people referred to by the Argus could not get in, hence the complaint! The object the Argus had in making the statement about the saloons being closed was to lead its readers tobelieve that the mayor had, of his own free will, set about seeing that the laws in regard to saloon-closing were obeyed. The facts in the case are as follows: Mr. Doty had been elected mayor over four weeks. All that he had done good work.

up to last Thursday in regard to the city government was to reappoint the old police officers. This had caused much unfavorable comment by both Democrats and Republicans. THE REGISTER, in order to inform those in authority as to how our people felt about this, set about obtaining from prominent members of both parties their opinions as to the condition of affairs. As no effort was made to keep secret the fact that those interviews were being obtained it soon reached the ears of our mayor, and what was the result? He immediately hastened to the city marshal and ordered him to see that the saloons were closed when the law says they shall be. Of course it will be denied that there is any connection between the two. Possibly there is not, but it is, to say the least, a very suggestive co-incidence. The Argus says we could not wait long enough to give the new officers a chance to show what they would do. This is ridiculous. The police officers had already been in office for months and the mayor had four weeks in which to act if he had intended to do so. We, thought this was long enough. We are glad to know, however, that our course stirred up his honor to act and it is to be hoped that good results will follow. If the mayor will continue to do his duty, we assure him of our most hearty support. If he does not he must expect the opposite. We shall not cease in our efforts to lay bare all lawlessness that may come to our knowledge and shall keep at it until a better state of things exist here. The good name of our city and University demands this. He is a traitor to the best interests of both who endeavors to make people believe that we should conceal lawlessness rather than that our neighbors should hear about it.

"THE BIRD THAT BEFOULS." A Correspondent Makes Some Pertinent Observations in Reply to the EDITOR REGISTER: It is an old saying that a bird that will befoul its own nest is to be severely condemned. It might be added, a bird that neglects or refuses to cleanse its own nest, which is admitted to be befouled, is deserving of much greater condemnation. The Argus says that our city is as well governed as others in the state. When every intelligent man admits that our cities are the worst governed of any in civilized countries, this is not saying much. But, in any event, the public demands that it shall be much better governed than other cities. The preacher and the teacher must observe a higher standard of conduct than the ordinary citizen. The seat of a great University must maintain a very high standard of municipal government, or the University cannot prosper. The very first care of parents is for the moral welfare of their children. The most perfect means of mental culture will not tempt parents to send their sons and daughters where there is danger that they may in any degree be injured morally. It is admitted that the laws of the state and city for the restraint of saloons, gambling places and other evils, are not enforced. It is notorious that saloons are allowed to be open nights and Sundays, hat cambling places and other s evils are allowed to exist. The city government has ample power to remove all these evils, but it has persistently neglected and refused to do so. Reputable citizens have found large numbers of students in our saloons late at night and on Sabbath days, and have reported these facts at public meetings The Argus says, yes we know there is more evil here than there ought to be, but keep still, don't make too much noise about it, don't discuss it in the press, corner it up, or the state at large will learn about these evils and the city will be injured. It is said that the ostrich will hide its head and then imagine that it is concealed, while its large body is full exposed. It is thus with evil, especially in a city like ours. Thousands of keen, anxious eyes are upon us, rendered more keen and piercing by the great interests centered here. We cannot conceal the evil if we would, we ought not to try to conceal it if we could. He is the true friend of our city and University, who seeing these evils, openly and boldly proclaims and exposes them, and as openly and boldly endeavors to remove them. These evils will all flourish in the hot bed of ilence and inaction. All classes of our citizens are inerested in our educational institutions. We receive over a million dollars per year from these institutions, and ought to be and are interested in their high-est welfare. As the Argus suggests, there is now sharp competition with other institutions, and in the near fut-ure this competition will be still sharp-er. The standard of our school is very high and we need fear nothing from that source. The only danger is in the moral evils that are admitted to exist in our community, and which the constituted authorities have not thus far made any efforts to check. Our educational institutions will be liberally sus tained by the people of the state just so long as we maintain a city that is worthy of such a trust and no longer. The people will stand by us and support us, if they see we honestly admit the evils that exist here, and are earnestly endeavoring to remove them. Conceal ment will deceive no one, and will only add to the evils that already exist. The REGISTER is simply endeavoring to second the earnest efforts of the clergy and other good citizens of our city, in their very earnest efforts to bring about the enforcement of our laws, the protection of the youth en-trusted to us by the state and nation, and at the same time protect the highest and best interests of the city and University. The Argus has given us additional freasons for continuing the

From the Wine and Spirit Gazette of From the Wine and Spirit Gazette of New York we quote the following, which shows not only how New York is ruled but how the other states of the Union, and the United States are ruled; and from the mouths of the strong party itself: "Do you deny that the liquor vote controls the situation in this state? What defeated Warner Miller and elected Governor Hill? What gave and elected Governor Hill? What gave and elected Governor Hill? What gave the Democratic party its present majority in the Assembly? EDITED BY UNIVERSITY PROHIBITION CLUB. | The test for insanity in a certain insane asylum is as follows: The suspected is led into a large room containing a tub filled with water. The tap is turned on, the water overflows, the floor is submerged, while the doubtful patient, if insane, frantically grasps a tin basin conveniently at hand and madly dips the water from the tub, to prevent destruction. He is led away, the insane of insane, the fool of fools. But what does the sane man do? Why, he turns off the tap. You see, my dear brother, that means Prohibition.

Pat Murphy explains his license to the people. He says, "You see you temperance people, and Ann Arbor business men, as well as all radical reform people in city government, are at the wrong end of the business to do much harm. You blame Mayor Doty and his police force, but they are merely instruments of the law, (the tin basin hung up conveniently at hand just to do a little foolish dipping.) You blame also us saloonkeepers for keeping open after hours, and on Sunday and for, I don't know, what not, but it is perfectly natural for us to do that, (as it is for the tub to overflow with the tap turned on.) You can't guage us any more than a man can truthfully say that only one grain of powder in a barrelfull shall explode. My partners are backing me. My li cense is granted by the authority of the government of the United States, by for, and of the people, by the authority of the State of Michigan, and by the consent of the people of the city of Ann Arbor. These are my partners, and do you suppose Mayor Doty dare snub President Harrison and the National troops, do you suppose he will call down upon himself the wrath of Gov. Winans and the righteous indignation of the people of Ann Arbor? The United States Government takes off its revenue tax of 90 cents a gallon distilled, and $1.00 per barrel malt liquors, the local government gets its $500.00 per annum, for license, and when my partners have taken out their share in the trade, there's mighty little left for Pat. Mur-phy. But I guess they are about as anxious for their share as I am for mine You people want to hem in or oust the saloons, but, confidentially, let me say again, that you are at the wrong end of the business. I and my fellow saloon-keepers could not live even in Ann Arbor six months if we did not have such respectable partners as the people thereof, who, by their State and Na-tionl government, help to grant us the icenses and take a share themselves in the saloon business. Of course the Pro-hibitionists have all the argument on their side to undo this partnership, but up to date, we saloonmen have the law on our side, and we hold the key to the situation so long as we hold a neutral balance of power position in both Democratic and Republican parties, one or the other of which is at present or has been for the last forty years making the laws of the land, state and national.

If a man will engage in this destruc-ive traffic, if he will stoop to degrade his reason and reap the wages of iniquity let him no longer have the law book a pillow, nor quiet his conscience by the piate of a license.

The United States government has appointed a beer drummer for the South American trade. The Alleged Generosity of the Courier and its Proprietor Shown in its

Register. EDITOR REGISTER: - In last week's Courier appeared a communication

REGISTER had poked a little fun at the Courier and this long serious article is a reply. The writer takes every opportunity to attack THE REGISTEE and all the members of the printer's union, not omitting to laud Mr. Beal and the Courier at every conceivable opportunity. In behalf of the printer's union, I wish to correct some of the glaring misstatements in the above mentioned communication. This will be sufficient, as it will show that J. B. S. did not know what he was talking about, a fact that will destroy what little weight his letter may have had. Had it not been for this rushing into public print by J. B. S. the printers would have remained quiet and let matters take their own course, they being reluctant to thrust their troubles before the public. The matter would have remained thus had not J. B. S. had such a strong desire to see his initials in print, or else been obliged by his master to do his dirty work. Now a few words in reply to Mr. Beal's tool. Mr. Beal was not asked to be the first one to sign the scale, in fact he was the very last one approached. This can be proved and will nail lie number one. Again he says the Times man was the first to sign the agreement. In this also he shows his utter ignorance of matters relating to the disagreement between the Courier and the union men. It is a little thing, of course, but shows that either J. B. S. did not have the least idea what he was talking about, or, if he did, how necessary it is, when a man sets out to deceive people, he must tell more than one falsehood. The fact is the Times man was the last one to sign the scale asked. Then J. B. S. proceeds to attack one of the union men who had the matter of increase of wages in hand, and says that he could not average anywhere near what was asked by the scale proposed. The reason is because he was not regularly furnished with copy, and when he was given something to do his "takes" were always culled, he receiving only the lean and the time hands all the fat When a second committee appointed to confer with Mr. Beal for the purpose of attempting to reach a mutual agreement, J. B. S. states that his master refused to have anything to do with it, and he further says that the older heads in the union were opposed to any change in the scale. This is nothing more nor less than a glaring falsehood. The union men, wishing to be en-tirely fair, notified Mr. Beal what the decision was. The men were met in an different spirit, being dis entirely charged without an hour's notice, every man in the office being dismissed except one who has shown himself willing to go back on the principles he had avowed and be the dupe of his em-When a man will go so far as ployer. to discharge an employe simply be-cause he belongs to some particular or-ganization, one is justified in believing that he would go even further and make the Courier is plainly shown in his at-tempts to ape the methods of his adopted father, long since deceased. In doing this he has determined to crush out every competitor by doing all kinds of work at shamelessly low rates, simply because he happened to inherit a large sum of money which he never could have made himself and which has enabled him to do work at the rate he does, well knowing that if he were obliged to meet his competitors upon an equal footing and do business in a legitimate manner he could not run his office twelve months. It is this, more than all else combined, that has kept the wages of printers in Ann Arbor at such a low rate. Knowing this, can the printers be blamed for demanding of such a man an increase of wages or de-ciding to stop work when it becomes clear that he is trying to make his workmen stand, in low wages, a part of the losses which he foolishly incurs by trying, in such a contemptible manner, to drive a competitor to the wall? I pre-sume, of course, that Mr. Beal will not appreciate this any more than he appre riates the fact that his senseless antag onism to the REGISTER office, in particular, has had-no effect upon that office unless it is to continue to make it mor friends. Of course he expects some day to drive that office out of business Whenever anybody thinks of this idle dream of his the thought invariably brings a smile. But to the printer it is of things is sure to keep him ground down to the very earth, for business men who are not born rich cannot afford to pay a decent price for their

AN ANSWER TO J. B. S.

SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO THE PRINTER'S UNION.

True Colors - The Desperate Attempts of That Office to Down the signed J. B. S. The week before THE the request was granted. This is all there is about the trouble. We believe that every right thinking man will justify the printer's union in deciding to do this, and will sympathize with every one of the men who were obliged to give up a job rather than to give up their principles. Respectfully, A QUESTION OF ORTHOGRAPHY. Humorous Correspondent Insists that "The Right Thing" Shall be Placed in the "Right Place."

labor when competition makes the price of labor greater than what they can obtain for the work they turn out. As for the attack of J. B. S., upon the position of the present manager of the REGISTER office, it is simply foolish. What a former proprietor did years ago, whether just or unjust (I believe he gave justice in every case) should be no reason why the present manager should be blamed by those who think a former proprietor was unjust. The present manager of the REGISTER office had no more interest or say in what the former proprietor did at the time referred to, than did the proprietor of the Courier himself. The fact in the case is that Mr. Beal undertook to defeat a competitor in husings have included. petitor in business by raising the scale, believing that the other offices could not afford to do so. This fact was taken advantage of by J. B. S., who for this act praises the magnanimity of the Courier proprietor. Mr. Beal's scheme, however, did not work, and so he tries another one that is of giving tries another one, that is of giving lower wages or, what is equivalent, continuing the old rate, when the rate of living in Ann Arbor has increased and is recognized by the other offices by higher wages) in the hope thus to be better able to underbid the other offices in the city to such an extent that they cannot live. It is unreasonable that the printer should be compelled to suffer in this way simply in order that Mr. Beal should be able to gratify his unreasonable hatred of competition, which he is so unable to stand in a legitimate way. It is, there-fore, decided by the union to ask an increase in pay and to quit work unless

H. A. SWEET.

EDITOR REGISTER: In printing the name of the latest combination, I observe that your proof-reader gets it "Courargus." am sorry to see this in the usually scholarly REGISTER. Will you, then, kindly inform your proof-reader that it is properly spelled-Cur-Argus.

So much for the spelling; but allow me to remark that a well-regulated publishing house should have "a place for everything, and everything in its place." This leads me to ask, to which end does a dog's tail belong? Did you ever behold that appendage on a dog's nose? No; politics. Then put the tail of the dog where it belongs. You have got it exactly-Argus-Cur. That name is yard wide and all wool-"free wool," of course!

But, you ask, "Is thy servant a dog that he should do these things?" Now, I'm not calling you dog, but I insist that the "combination" is nothing but dog. Let me demonstrate the proposition Even the most careless observer will tell you that the dog has a curious way of making both ends meet. The single dog can do it, but a couple of dogs can do it with less strain on the backbone. No-body ever accused the "leading" Democratic and Republican "mouth organs' of any particular strength of backbone; hence their present combination to make both ends meet. Q. E. D. Resolutions of Respect.

We, the class of '93 of the Ann Arbor High School, desiring to express our grief at the loss of our classmate, Agnes Cropsey, and to extend our sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives, offer the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, We are called to mourn the death of our friend and beloved classmate, Agnes Cropsey; therefore, be it Resolved, That in her untimely death we sustain the loss of one of our brightest and most exemplary members, who, by her kind and gentle bearing, won the love and kindest regards both of the teachers and classmates. In her death the parents lose a dutiful and loving daughter, and the sisters and brothers a kind and gentle sister; her associates a true friend; and we, as a class, a much loved and highly respected classmate.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing family and relatives, and while we mourn with them the fair and promising, cut off in life's bright morn, with them, too, we would bow to the sovereign will of Him who doeth all things well.

TO THE ART LOAN EXHIBITION AT NEWBERRY HALL.

Something about this Great Undertaking-The Floral, German, Colo-nial, Bric-a-brac and Oriental

An art loan exhibition has been prepared by the ladies of Ann Arbor and will be held in Newberry Hall, from May 16 to May 30 inclusive. The work is progressing rapidly, and committees are now preparing the building to receive its choice collections of pictures, bric-a-brac and other art wares. Where so many attractions exist, it is impossible to make distinction, but a bower of beauty that cannot fail to attract the attention of every art loan visitor is the FLORAL BOOM. This is the first room at the right of the main entrance, and is exquisitely decorated with soft draperies of applegreen festooned with silver cords. Tall palms, feathery ferns, potted plants and a profusion of cut flowers will transform this room into a veritable Flora's bower, which will be presided over by flowercostumed young ladies. Communicating with the floral room is the GERMAN BOOM, containing a fine collection of German carvings and many other art products of that nation. The German flower, the fragrant lily of the valley, will be represented here. The near neighbor of the German room is the

COLONIAL ROOM.

This room is designed to be so close a counterpart of "ye good old colony times," that one might almost fancy the shades of long-departed ancestors walking there. Furniture nearly two hundred years old will be arranged to represent two "old colony" rooms. Colonial draperies, tables, portraits, and a magnificent old colonial bedstead may be found here. In the rear of the building and communicating with the colonial room upon one side and the bric-a-brac room upon the other is the

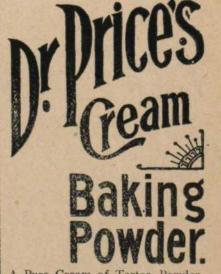

ART GALLERY.

The walls of this gallery are covered with hangings of chocolate-brown. Daylight is excluded, and light for pictureviewing is furnished by electricity. This gallery will contain a fine collection of oil and water color paintings, including the work of some of the best German artists. Here is the "Flower Girl," painted by Von Bremen, and "Roasting Apples," by F. D. Millet, the artist who painted the beautiful "Aenone," now owned by the Detroit art museum. The art gallery will also contain exhibits of fine decorated china sent by Bischoff, of Detroit, and also by King. Leaving the art gallery the visitor may enter the BRIC-A-BRAC ROOM. Here a choice collection of bric-a-brac both antique and modern, rare old ewels, etc., await the admiration of the observer. Several well-filled showcases invite inspection.

ORIENTAL ROOM. Aside from unique Japanese and Chinese draperies, costumes, etc., this room will contain some rare oriental wares. Fine old Satsuma, Cloissenne, and Moradabad wares, together with a choice bit of Benares brass, are found here. Young ladies and gentlemen in oriental costume will preside. Last, though not least in the least, is the REFRESHMENT ROOM.

In this daintily appointed room the visitor may refresh himself with well-flavored ices, delicate creams, fragrant coffee, etc. Delicious pink teas, white teas, Russian teas, quaker teas, etc., will be served by the ladies presiding here. This room will prove a very acceptable feature of the loan for, though we may live without art, yet "Where is the man who can live without din

The finale of the first act is made exceedingly effective by the showing of a panoramic view of New York harbor and lower bay. The first scene in the second act is the interior of Knickerbocker's villa at Newport, and there Alvin Barry appears disguised as Lord Dolphin, while Rufus appears as a counterfeit presentment of disguised as Lord Dolphin, while Rufus appears as a counterfeit presentment of Teddy, the Irish valet of Dolphin. Knickerbocker is about to give his daughter to the fraudulent Dolphin, when the real Dolphin and his valet come on the scene, and the audience sees four dromios. Alvin is ordered out of the house, but, not dismayed by defeat, disguises himself as the Great Tycoon of Japan, and is received at a lawn party by Knickerbocker, who, not perceiving the repeated deception, gives him Violet in marriage. Then the disguise is discarded. Alvin takes Violet, old Knickerbocker proposes to Miss Hurricane, a comical old maid, and the people on the stage and in the audience are made happy.

Days and Nights. The buzzing of machinery and the screech of the big whistle announce to people that the box factory is occupying the fine Glover block on Pearl-st. Quite a commotion was caused on the Normal grounds, Monday morning, by a foreign man who was distributing questionable literature to the gentlemen students. He was suddenly overtaken by a warrant, tried, convicted and fined $10 and costs. He protested against the vigorous treatment and assured the officials Mrs. Belle Taylor left for Saginaw the last of the week. that the "bolice" had allowed him to distribute the same literature in big distribute the same literature in big cities; but evidently there were no President Sills in those cities or he'd have suffered. Great interest was manifested in the Normal news oratorical contest last Friday evening. If the opinions of the judges can be relied upon, each and every one of the contestants are able to wipe out the world most any time, at a flood-of-eloquence bee, and U. of M. and other small college orators may hang up their violins in despair. The Sapphos gave a public at the home of Miss Ger-trude Rorison on Tuesday evening. A fine musical and literary program was carried out and the evening greatly en-ioved by all. Among the people on the joyed by all. Among the people on the sick list are R. C. Hemphill and John Taylor—both are in a critical condition at present writing. Mrs. Andrew Ryan, who has been a sufferer for some time from heart trouble, died quite unexpectedly Monday morning. Some excitement is promised this week by the much advertised sale of the old Watling farm, just on the southern limits of the city, just on the southern limits of the city, into city lots. The location is certainly desirable and there are good prospects of quick sales. The light guard, accompanied by the "kid" drum corps, did some hard marching Monday night. An Interesting Meeting.

The Webster Farmer's Club met at the esidence of H. T. Phelps last Saturday. The day was fine, and a goodly number attended, although work is now quite pressing. Among those present were Rev. Mr. Morris and Mr. Reeves, of Dexter. The forenoon was spent in a social way, after which a sumptuous dinner was served. At 1:30 P. M. the president called the club to order. The male quartette rendered music and Rev. male quartette rendered music and Rev. Mr. Morris offered prayer. Miscellaneous business followed. Erwin Ball resigned the corresponding secretary-ship, but the resignation was not accepted. The next part of the program was a reading by Jennie McColl and a recitation by John Queal. Henry Scadin then gave an account of his couthers. then gave an account of his southern trip and the pictures which he took. He brought with him some of the soil, which seems to be quite light sand. For fruit trees it is necessary to fertilize the ground quite well, as Florida soil in itself is not productive. This seems strange, when we know that there are a great many groves of oranges and lemons, and grape fruit, resembling oranges. On his return he spent a week with Jay McColl, at Knoxville, Tenn. He was not much impressed with the climate, as rain was quite abundant that week

A Suggestion for the Theorist.

France is becoming afflicted with Bellamyism. The more the theory is evidences of its inapplicability to the present condition of society. There will always be discontented people as long as people think. If some of the theorists were to invent a plan of converting men into vegetables, dilate on the happiness of unconsciousness, the pleasure of living without toil, there would be many fools who would plant their feet and make an honest effort to take root.—Toledo Commercial.

We clip the following from Presto, one of the leading musical journals of this country: "From many sources Presto learns of the increasing popularity of the Guild piano, manufactured by the Guild Piano Mf'g Co., 101 Bristol street, Boston. Among the representatives of the Guild is Mr. A. Wilsey, Ann Arbor, Mich., who recently gave an order for fifty of the instruments. In his advertisement he says: 'The improvements in the Guild are vital. They are in the very heart of the piano. No slipping, or springing tuning pins. None are more honestly made. There is nothing shoddy about them. People like them, and buy them. We have never been able to get enough of them. More of them sold in Ann Arbor last year than all others combined.' Mr. Guild has moved into his new factory premises, which have been enlarged and fitted with additional machinery and othe facilities."

LITERARY NOTES.

The initial article of the New England Magazine for May is "Walt Whitman at Date," by Horace L. Traubel, and his revelations of the everyday life and struggles of the good gray poet, whose limbs are now paralyzed, will interest thousands of admirers on both sides of the Atlantic. Walt Whitman's portrait, a new picture recently taken, forms the frontispiece of the number, and the article is enriched with sketches and photographs of his bedroom and study, his nurse, his house, and the little sunny street in Camden, N. J., in which he has lived so long. Published at 86 Federalst. Boston, Mass.

Baron Hirsch, the renowned financier and philanthropist, has consented to explain for the North American Review, at a very early date, the principles which have animated him in the distribution of his princely philanthropies. His views have special pertinence at the present time because of the important discussion on the "Responsibilities of Wealth," which is being carried on in the pages of the Review by such eminent authorities as Cardinal Gibbons, Professor Ely, Bishop Potter, Hon. Edw. J. Phelps, and the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. North American Review, published at 3 E. 14thst, New York.

In its May issue, the Magazine of American History admirably maintains its high reputation. The editor's hand appears in the leading article, "A Great Public Character," in which the interesting career of William H. Seward is concisely traced. The second paper, "An Early West Pointer," by Hon. Charles Aldrich, of Iowa, is also illustrated. Then comes a scholarly treatise, entitled "A Lost Chapter in American History," by Rev. Dr. George Patterson, F. R. S. C., of Glasgow, in which the early attempts of the Portuguese to colonize the northeastern coast of America are pointed out in the most comprehensive manner. The Notes and other departments furnish curious and readable data. Price $5.00 a year. Published at 743 Broadway, New York.

The Magazine of Art for May has for its frotispiece a photogravure of Sir Everett Millais' painting, "Jephthah's Daughter," one of the most striking paintings of this popular artist. The opening article is devoted to Benjamin-Constant, who is well known in this country, not only by his paintings, but personally, he having had a studio in New York City off and on for several years. There is a portrait in red crayon of Benjamin-Constant, by himself, and there are reproductions from his most famous pictures, and a page is devoted to showing us the artist in his studio, a gorgeous place, devoted almost exclusively to oriental art. A poem by J. Murray Templeton accompanies Constant's picture of "The Moonlight Sonata." Cassell Publishing Company, New York; 35 cents a number, $3.50 a year in advance.

It Was All Talk. The Chicage election has at least put an end to all talk about General Palmer as a possible Democratic candidate for President or Vice President.-St

Say many poor men and women, who seem overworked, or are debilitated by change of season, climate or life. If you could read the hundreds of letters Hood's Sarsaparilla which comes from people who have been re-stored to health, you would be convinced of its merits. As this is impossible, why not try Hood's Sarsaparilla yourself and thus realize its benefit? It will tone and build up your system, give you a good appetite, overcome that tired feeling and make you feel, as one woman expressed it, "like a new creature."

HOW DEEP TO PLANT POTATOES.

Answers Gained by Some Very Interesting Experiments. While no one depth can be named as best in all soils, it is a fact that the old method of rather shallow planting and hilling up around the growing plants has, by many potato growers, been superceded by deep planting and compara-tively level culture. In 1888, on The Rural New Yorker's experiment grounds three out of five rows of a small plot were by high culture and fertilizing made to produce at the rate of 1,076, 683 and 605 bushels to the acre, respectively. The seed was planted in trenches 8 inches deep and 12 inches wide. No one has experimented more on the subject of deep or shallow planting than Mr. Carman, who conducted these experiments The following are given as the average results for three seasons' trial on The Rural grounds on a different soil.

At 2 inches deep, 245 bushels per acre.

At 4 inches deep, 280 bushels per acre. At 6 inches deep, 230 bushels per acre. At 8 inches deep, 257 bushels per acre. At 10 inches deep, 240 bushels per acre.

The soil was naturally poor and thin and had never received any manure. For the three trials mentioned Mapes' potato fertilizer was used each year at the rate of 1,000 pounds to the acre. As seen above, the fourteen inch trenches give the largest yield as the average of three years' experiments on this kind of land. As reported by The American Agriculturalist, the late Alfred Rose, of Penn Yan., N. Y., raised in 1889 1,039 bushels as a single season's crop from two separate plantings on the same acre. Trenches eight inches deep were graded to an even depth of six inches. The seed was dropped in the bottom of these trenches and covered with two inches of soil. As the plants grow the soil is gradually filled in. Other experiments with large results from similar modes of culture, including the great crop of Mr. C. B. Coy of 738 bushels from a single planting, on one acre, might be men-

Lime as a Fertilizer and Insecticide.

In a paper read before the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science J. B. Smith had the following to say about lime:

Lime is in general use as a fertilizer. and to a limited extent also as an insectiride. Testimony as to its value is conflicting, and this I am convinced is due to the condition when applied. Lime used as an insecticide ought to be in the form of a dry hydrate. To shell or stone lime just enough water is to be added to slake; then sift through a moderately fine seive, and dust on the insects when they are wet. Only soft bodied insects can be reached by this substance, and the application must be so made that the caustic properties of the lime may have a chance. The larvæ of the potato beetle and asparagus beetle are good subjects, and testimony of its effectiveness on the cabbage worm is not wanting.

Renewing Seed.

There is no question about the wisdom of renewing seed, and especially small grains, from a distance. Grain that has been repeatedly sown in the same vicinity will "run out"-that is, have a gradually weaker vitality, and to resist these adverse conditions we must renew the life of the seed. Renewals from the same county or the same parallel of latitude are not sufficient, but the new seed should be brought from a locality that' has essentially different climatic conditions. The general principle, according to Field and Farm, is that we should work from the north toward the south in these renewals, but this rule, of course, has its limitations from natural causes. With wheat and oats the same seed should not be used for more than three successive seasons.

Killing Hogs.

It is not altogether easy to describe the process known as sticking a hog, but with the assistance of a cut Prairie Farmer manages to make it understood.

To begin right get the hog securely in a pen that will just hold him. Stun him by a blow sharply given in the forehead, with a pole ax or similar weapon, half way between the eyes and top of the head, or shoot him in the forehead with a revolver. Then before the animal begins to struggle turn him square on his back, place a foot on each side of the head, facing the animal, hold the head down to the ground by placing the left hand on the snout. Now place the point of the knife-a seven-inch blade is long enough for any hog-on the animal's throat, at the same time looking over the carcass, and push the knife in a straight line in the direction of the root of the tail, as shown. Withdraw the knife quickly, and a gushing stream will follow it out.

The idea is to cut the aorta, the great artery rising from the left ventricle of the heart. If you do not stick just right the first one you will see why when the hog is opened. A little observation, however, will soon enable you to become

Professor Cook says on this subject in his book on bee keeping: It is safe to purchase any time in the summer. In April or May (of course you will purchase very strong stocks), if in the latitude of New York or Chicago-it will be earlier further south-you will be able to pay more, as you will secure the increase of both honey and bees. If you desire to purchase in autumn that you may gain the experience of wintering, either demand that the one of whom you purchase insure the safe uniting of the bees, or else that he reduce the selling price at least one-third from his rates the next April. Otherwise the novice had better purchase in the spring. If you are to transfer at once, it is desirable that you buy in the spring, as it

A Little Fatherly Advise. "If ever you marry," said an old gentleman to his son, "let it be a woman who has judgment enough to superintend the getting of a meal, taste enough to dress herself, pride enough to wash her face, and sense enough to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, when-ever, she needs it." The experience of the aged has shown the "Favorite Prescription" to be the best for the cure of all female weaknesses and derangements. Good sense is shown by getting the remedy from your druggist, and using it whenever you feel weak and debilitated. It will invigorate and cannot possibly do harm.

A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK. Windward Bassett, Esq., attorney-atlaw, was supposed to be found during the year following his graduation from the law school in a small, dark back office up two flights of stairs in Nassau street, New York. The room might, however, have served as a trysting place for secret lovers, or a pirate's lair, or a nun's chamber, so removed was it from interruption from a busy world. But Windward made a duty of going there nearly every day, and now and then a friend, if not a client, would drop in. He read law, too, when he felt ambitious, so that the time was not wholly wasted. Still it would have been hard to find a better illustration of the gentleman of leisure, for the young lawyer in his first year of independent practice in New York city who is not absolutely forced to work for his meals has probably more leisure between them than any of his Windward lived at this time on East Tenth street, in a little Yale colony of crude surgeons, theoretical lawyers and newspaper writers, all "hard up" and merry bachelors together. The very little their hands found to do they did with their might, and when their alleged business was over for the day they had their boyish relish yet for a ball game, a salt water picnic, a cheap seat at the theater, and a frugal German night of beer and dominoes. That they had no money for clubs, suppers and fashionable society was their salvation.

Life was thus slipping smoothly away when, one morning in the fall of 1879, Windward was startled by the strange face of a client. The man was evidently from the country, and his earnest manner showed that he came on business.

"You are Mr. Bassett?" he asked. 'You are Mr. Bassett?" he asked. "That is my name. Take a seat, sir," replied Windward.

Then you know something about the French spoliation claims, I guess?" said Windward smiled knowingly, and nodded his head, and wondered what was coming next. "I knew old Tom Bassett-he was your grandfather?" "My great uncle," explained Windward.

"Well, why he never got those claims through is a mystery. He was a mighty smart man-as smart, sir, as they make em-and he worked hard at it all his

"Curious," said Windward. "Very; it beat all!" exclaimed the countryman. "However," he continued, "I'm in hopes they really will go through this winter. Our member of congress promised me personally that he would ntroduce the bill and 'push it'-those were his words. Said he, 'Mr. Blamms, I will push it.'"

"I hope he will," said Windward. "I'd like to get my $30,000. "Well, I've only four thousand and odd dollars, but they would come handy, all the same," said Mr. Blamms, "especially as I've got a mortgage to raise next spring. Now, Mr. Bassett, you are interested in this thing. You see, here it is. Our member will push the bill, but there ought to be somebody to push him. Now, then, couldn't you go down to Washington and see how it looks? We can't pay much; but there are a number of us where I belong whe are interested, and I guess we could make up a fee of $500 in case the bill went through -unless you're as squeamish as old Tom Bassett was."

"How so?" asked Windward. "Why, he used to say he wouldn't talk money. 'If I succeed,' he said, 'I'll have money enough, and I wouldn't charge anybody for failing.' He was a great man, Tom Bassett was; yes, sir, a big

"Well, I will think about it," said Windward; and after some further conversation on the subject Mr. Blamms departed, much encouraged by the young lawyer's interest.

"He's a chip of the old block," thought Mr. Blamms as he thumped on down the long stairways to the street. Windward did think about it that day, and very seriously, and something in this vein: Here are claims aggregating $12,000,000. I have a small fortune at stake myself. The claims are just. Congress has so confessed time and again. They must be paid, and some time will be paid. I am familiar with the case. It offers splendid chances for good work. I can make a reputation at least. I am doing nothing here. Why is not this my "opening?" I believe I'll run down to Washington, if only for a few days, and take a look around. Feeling thus, he wrote two letters— one to his mother, in which he antici-pated and did his best to remove her objections, and one to his old college chum, Peter Stevens.

The replies were such as he had expected. Mrs. Bassett opposed the visit, but gave a grudging consent, and Stevens overflowed with cordiality and pressed him by all means to come. "I advise you to wait, however, till January," he wrote, "as congress does little before the holidays. From January on everything jumps. This is the political session, however. We are all president making, and I can't promise that French claims will get much attention. I still hang on to my office, as I find the same scarcity of clients of which you complain, I only know McArdle, of whom you wrote, by his reputation, which is that of a man who says less and does more than any lobby lawyer in town. They tell many strange stories about him; he used to spree dreadfully, but I understand is sobering down. He lives in good style, and has a very handsome

CHAPTER V.

THE EDUCATION OF A HEART. Miss Louise Sheffield, the niece and housekeeper of Col. McArdle, was indeed a very handsome woman. And, more than that, every one knew and celebrated her graceful, gentle and refined manners, her goodness and her kindness of heart. "What a pretty woman, and how amiable; what taste, what tact!" exclaimed her acquaintances. And some would add: "And how strange that a woman who has been a belle for ten years, the center of fashion, the pet of society, the toast of all the male and the envy of all the female flirts, should be so unspoiled, so unsullied, so true and good and lovely!" Strange indeed it was, but not inexplicable, as will appear if we follow for ten years the adventures of a pretty woman

Louise Sheffield "came out" at 19, and took rank at once, by right of nature, as a leader in society. Any woman can be pretty, but beauty is the gift of God, and this she had in lavish measure. Her mind was fit tenant for her body, quick kind and good. She was fairly well ed ucated, and had a native instinct for so ciety that was more serviceable than any stores of learning. She was well and enjoyed life. Her heart was fresh and the world new. Finally the family were in comfortable circumstances, without being wealthy, so that within moderation she could dress and occupy herself as became a lady. Such, briefly, was Mis-Sheffield when she formally entered

Washington society at 19. On that evening three young gentle men fell in love with her, and one at least in earnest. And from that night on she heard a ceaseless jargon of pro testations, petitions, vows and desperate threats. Her beauty, grace, wit, kind ness and taste were the theme wherever she went. She was a goddess, and in cense and sacrifice were ever before her. It was delicious. Her soft and innocent heart overflowed with girlish delight and, like Miranda, she exclaimed, "Oh! brave new world that has such people

And suddenly in the midst of this sweet tumult she found her young heart responding strangely to one favored wor shiper. Every one was kind and good, and yet there was one-well, perhaps! "Pshaw!" cried her bosom friend, and pshaw! is an argument, though it is not mentioned in works on logic. "What folly!" said Mrs. Sheffield. "It will be time for that five years hence.

Don't take the first man that comes along, child. Enjoy your youth-it will be short; keep free, be happy, and of all things don't believe what the men say. In a year or two you will have some experience, and can tell what kind of a husband you want." And the child, taking counsel of age and friendship, waited one year, two years, three, four, five-always a belle, very popular, universally admired, much sought, the cause of many sighs, listening to pleas, but deaf to every lover. And thus by perseverance Louise Sheffield at 24 had succeeded in living down her heart. Love had become sport. She now knew every step and phase, could tell a new lover at sight, and anticipate every move he would make in the game till the checkmate. She had heard the changes rung on her hair, her eyes, her smile, her poetic grace, her charm of presence, her sweetness of manners and disposition, her goodness of heart, until these rhapsodies, though ever sweet and more and more necessary to her, were familiar and monotonous. She had come to know men, not in their vicious and wicked relations, of course, but in their social habits and character, and they had

And yet this knowledge, though in one sense thorough, was one sided and unfair. Herself the center of a planetary system, she saw only the bright side of her satellites, as they turned toward her. The sterner virtues, the side men seldom show to reigning belles, she could not see in the very nature of things, and hence she misjudged men, not in spite of, but on account of, her knowledge of

But above all she vulgarized the senti ment of love. She could not help doing so; it was part of her education as a lady of fashion and society. She learned that men did not mean what they said; that few or none died of love; that rejected suitors soon married other women and settled down very comfortably and hap pily as commonplace husbands. Then her female friends married and told her stories of their new life which took away its glow of romance.

Moreover, in her works of benevolene and charity she was often brought in contact with hard facts in social life high and low, which robbed it of beauty. Men she-had trusted turned out badly she heard disappoining news of this one, disgraceful gossip about that. Men sank while her standard rose. And so she remained single; more beautiful yearly, in as great request as ever, a happy, cor dial, winsome woman, only "not of the marrying sort." As lovely as ever-and yet a trained eye could vaguely see a change, a difference. In a word was she not becoming shopworn? Had not five years of balls, teas, drives, picnics, calls, flirtation and miscellaneous wear and tear brushed the velvet from the butterfly's wing? Was her soul as chaste, her eyes as pure, her speech as frank, her mind as quiet? And was she really satisfied with her life, and making as much of it as she might? She was a king herself these questions very seriously one day after an hour's call from one of her old friends who had talked, talked about her babies. Here, then, was Lottie Faucett, once the gayest of the gay, scornful of men and matrimony, now a boastful mother incapable of conversation beyond the cradle. There is some mystery about this thought the beautiful Miss Sheffield.

She was pondering this matter so earnestly because much concerned over another, for she was besieged by an indefatigable lover-a prosperous, gallant handsome banker-who simply would not take "no" for an answer. Miles Powers knew women and loved Louise Sheffield. He was bound to win her. And he did-to the astonishment of the gossips, who held up their hands in won-"Lulu Sheffield engaged at last! Well, well; there is then no longer dependence to be placed in woman!" They approved the match, however, and Louise, on her part, was as happy as pride and victory and such love as she was now capable of could make her. She had taken advice, had been prudent and indicious, and had succeeded.

At 19 she had so much to learn; at 24 she had so much to unlearn. The disease of worldly wisdom had grown desperate and the appliance must be heroic. Ruined by success, she was to be rescued by misfortune. It happened thus: One day, shortly before that set apart for the wedding, she learned, without her seeking, such explicit proof of her lover's treason and sinfulness that love shriveled into disgust and marriage was impossible. She indeed-the one so sought, the very queen of hearts-to be made a convenience, to be one of several to await his lordship's leisure and take what share of his favors he might deign to bestow! Oh, it was cruel; her shame her humiliation was complete! And be sides, what after all was the important thing, she had loved him-loved him truly, wholly, honestly. Her heart might be worn, but, such as the world had left it, it was his, and he broke it and saved her soul!

When he called on the morning after the discoveries she received him-calmly and politely, but, shrinking from his caresses, said: "Mr. Powers, our engagement is over, and it will not surprise you to hear it if I say that I have discovered your real character and habits. If you must learn more I refer you to my uncle, Col. McArdle.

"I don't understand you," said Powers but I shall see the colonel at once." And to McArdle's office he went with what assurance he could command. He found him busily engaged on a legal document. "Colonel," he said, plunging at once into his business, "Miss Sheffield has broken our engagement, and says you can tell me the re

McArdle prided himself on his brevity. His explanation in this instance was made in four words. Turning sharply around in his chair so as to mee his visitor face to face he said, with a frown, "Habitual and systematic licen-

The two men-men of affairs, men of the world-stared at each other a second or two in silence; then Mr. Powers rose with easy dignity and turned to go. "Good morning, colonel," he said.

"Good morning, sir," replied McArdle, and resumed his writing.

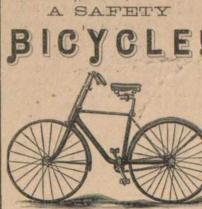

It made a great stir, of course, and society was divided. Many took her side at once; others said she was a hope less flirt; that Powers never claimed to be a saint and she knew it, but wanted an excuse to jilt a lover who was no worse than other men, and who certain ly was in every way her match.

Four years had now passed since that dreadful time, years of pain and burdens, but years that out of sorrow brought true happiness. For a time she had to bear the averted looks of friends, but the subsequent actions of Miles Powers soon openly ratified her verdict and justified it before the world. Hence her popularity returned, though not her de sire for conquest. Henceforth she was in the world, but not of it. Her charities increased, and she became a notable churchwoman, for she found the best relief for her own bruised heart was in healing the wounds of others. And her charities began at home, for McArdle was missionary ground. The colonhad once described himself, with his usual laconic accuracy of definition, as "a man of good principles and bad habits," but of late years, and particularly since the death of Mrs. Sheffield. in 1877, these habits were improving thanks mainly to the wise and loving "management" of Louise.

He was dozing before the open fire in the library one stormy night in January, 1880, with his niece, busied with lady's knitting, by his side, when the servant brought in a card. The colonel took it languidly, but on reading the name started up with animation, nodded his wish to the servant, and said to Louise, "My dear, it's Windward Bassett; old Tom's nephew."

In another moment the servant, skilled in the taciturn colonel's language of signs, brought the visitor back to the family room. McArdle met him on the threshold and gave him a cordial welcome, introduced him to Louise and sat him down by the fire.
