THE GREAT DR. TALMAGE.

PREACHES IN UNIVERSITY HALL TO A VAST AUDIENCE.

Temptations Besetting Young Men Abridged by the Brooklyn Divine.—University Hall Jammed to the Doors.

Never before did so large a concourse of people assemble in University Hall as came Sunday night to hear the celebrated Brooklyn preacher. By seven o'clock every seat was full, the aisles were packed and hundreds were standing. The number of persons actually in the hall could not have been less than 4,000, while many hundreds failed to enter at all.

Dr. Talmage was introduced to the audience by the president of the Students' Christian Association. He announced as his text the following passage from Proverbs, 1, 17:

"Surely in vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird."

Using the figure of the fowler who attempts to ensnare a flock of birds, he introduces the subject of temptation and sin. A few passages from the sermon will convey a good idea of what it contained.

"There are two classes of temptations—the superficial and the subterranean—those above ground, those underground. If a man could see sin as it is, he would no more embrace it than he would embrace a leper. Sin is a daughter of hell; yet she is garlanded and robed and trinketed. Her voice is a warble. Her cheek is the setting sun. Her forehead is an aurora. She says to men 'Come, walk this path with me. It is thymed and primrosed, and the air is bewitched with the odors of the hanging gardens of heaven. The rivers are rivers of wine, and all you have to do is to drink them up in chalices that sparkle with diamond and amethyst and chrysoprasus. See! It is all bloom and roseate cloud and heaven.'

"Oh, my friends, if for one moment the choir of all these concerted voices of sin could be hushed, we should see that orchestra of the pit with hot breath blowing through fiery flutes, and the skeleton arms on drums of thunder and darkness beating the chorus, 'The end thereof is death.'

"I want to point out the insidious temptations that are assailing more especially our young men. The only kind of nature comparatively free from temptation, so far as I can judge, is the cold, hard, stony, mean temperament. What would Satan do with such a man if he got him? Satan is not anxious to get a man who after awhile may dispute with him the realm of everlasting meanness. It is the generous young man, the ardent young man, the warm-hearted young man, the social young man that is in especial peril.

SKEPTICISM.

"The first class of temptations that assaults a young man is led on by the skeptic. He will not admit that he is an infidel or atheist. Oh, no! he is a 'free thinker,' he is one of your 'liberal' men; he is free and easy in religion. Oh, how liberal he is; he is so 'liberal' that he will give away his Bible; he is so 'liberal' that he will give away the throne of eternal justice, he is so 'liberal' that he would be willing to give God out of the universe; he is so 'liberal' that he would give up his own soul and the souls of all his friends. Now what more could you ask in the way of liberality?"

"On Saturday the skeptic says to him, 'Well, what are you going to do tomorrow?' He says, 'I am going to church.' 'Is it possible?' says the skeptic. 'Well, I used to do those things; I was brought up, I suppose, as you were, in a religious family, and I believed all those things, but I got over it; the fact is, since I came to town, I have read a great deal, and I have found that there are a great many things in the Bible that are ridiculous. Now, for instance, all that about the serpent being cursed to crawl in the Garden of Eden because it had tempted our first parents; why, you see how absurd it is; you can tell from the very organization of the serpent that it had to crawl; it crawled before it was cursed just as well as it crawled afterward; you can tell from its organization that it crawled. Then all that story about the whale swallowing Jonah, or Jonah swallowing the whale, which was it? It don't make any difference; the thing is absurd; it is ridiculous to suppose that a man could have gone down through the jaws of a sea monster and yet keep his life; why, his respiration would have been hindered; he would have been digested, the gastric juice would have dissolved the fibrine and coagulated albumen, and Jonah would have been changed from prophet into chyle. Then all that story about the miraculous conception—why, it is perfectly disgraceful. Oh, sir! I believe in the light of nature. This is the nineteenth century. Progress, sir, progress. I don't blame you, but after you have been in town as long as I have you will think just as I do.

"Thousands of young men are going down under the process day by day, and there is only here and there a young man who can endure this artillery of scorn. They are giving up their Bibles. The light of nature! They have the light of nature in China; they have it in Hindostan; they have it in Ceylon. Flowers there, stars there, waters there, winds there, but no civilization, no homes, no happiness. Lances to cut and juggernauts to fall under and hooks to swing on, but no happiness.

SELF-RIGHTHOUSNESS.

"There is a mistake we make about young men. We put them in two classes; the one class is moral, the other dissolute. The moral are safe. The dissolute cannot be reclaimed. I deny both propositions. The moral are not safe unless they have laid hold of God, and the dissolute may be reclaimed. I suppose there are self-righteous men in this house who feel no need of God, and who will not seek after Him, and they will go out in the world, and they will be tempted, and they will be flung down by misfortune, and they will go down, down. Oh! self-righteous man, without God we are in peril. Seek after Him today. Amid the ten thousand temptations of life there is no safety for man without God.

"But I may be addressing some who have gone astray, and so I assault the other proposition that the dissolute cannot be reclaimed. While I speak, are you troubled? Is there a voice within you saying 'What did you do that for? Why did you go there? What did you mean by that?' Is there a memory in your soul that makes you tremble? God only knows all our hearts. Yes, if you have gone so far as to commit iniquities and have gone through the whole catalogue, I invite you back this hour. The Lord waits for you. 'Rejoice! O young man in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth; but know thou that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.'

A Worthy Institution.

The Ladies' Library of Ann Arbor is an organization which has been in our midst for over twenty-five years. Like all benefits made familiar through long association its advantages perhaps are not rightly estimated.

It has been said that it has passed its days of usefulness in the increase of other libraries and the opportunities afforded by that of the University.

We do not think so. It supplies a demand met only by a circulating library, supplying reading matter to aged persons, to invalids, and the many to whom it is impossible to make use of a library where the books cannot be drawn.

The history of this association, organized by three or four ladies of the town, when its advantages in all directions were limited and it was a pioneer movement, is well known.

The successors of these laborers, through continued effort, were able, in 1885, to erect on Huron-st a building on which $800 remains to be paid.

David Henning has kindly offered to donate $100 toward the liquidation of this debt, if it is paid within the library year, which expires next April.

John Lawrence has promised to do the same. Several other friends have made pledges of various sums, until the amount is reduced to $300. This is very encouraging indeed, to have the prospect of so small a sum to raise, but as the $500 is pledged on condition that the $300 is raised before next April, it is urged most earnestly that all friends of the library come forward and substantially aid the ladies, that they may not forfeit the amount already promised them.

It is proposed to hold a sale of dolls, fancy articles, and candies, suitable as gifts for Christmas, at the Library, on Saturday, December 19, to aid in some measure toward the desired end. Contributions in money or articles for the sale are earnestly requested for that day, Saturday, December 19. The sale will be held both morning and afternoon.

Its Success Assured.

There no longer remains much doubt but that Ann Arbor will soon have a school of music. The business men's committee met Monday evening and enthusiastically adopted a plan of procedure. They propose to raise a guarantee fund of $6,500, in sums of $65 per individual. Of this $2,500 is to be paid on April 1, 1892; $2,500 more, if necessary, on April 1, 1893, and the remaining $1,500 in 1894. It is expected that 100 shares will be taken by the business men, and the University men promise to take twenty. If the school is placed on a paying investment within two years, the sums paid in by the association will be refunded. Every member of the citizens' committee placed his name on the list Monday evening. The plan will be submitted to the University Musical Society tonight.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

NEWS AND GOSSIP GLEANED FROM THE CAMPUS.

A Sensation in the Inlander—Co-Education Attacked by an Alumnus—Talmage's Lecture—Elections and Other News Around the Campus.

Is co-education after all a failure? A writer in the December Inlander, A. P. Jacobs, of Detroit, appears to think so. His article, entitled "A Consequence of Co-Education," has attracted widespread attention, and the demand for this number of the magazine has been, for that reason, unusually large. Mr. Jacobs, it may be remarked, graduated in 1873, at a time when great hostility was felt toward co-education.

Mr. Jacobs treats his subject almost entirely on the basis of figures. Comparing the attendance of 1870 and 1891, he figures an increase of 1309. But of this number he finds that 440 are women. The increase in the number of law students, among whom the influence of co-education is not felt, was 270, and the number of men enrolled in the homoeopathic and dental departments, which were founded after 1870, was 180. Subtracting these figures from the total increase, it appears that in the period of twenty-one years there was an increase of only 369 men.

Mr. Jacobs sums up as follows: "The admission of women was soon followed by a decline in attendance upon the University, by a considerable decline in numbers attending the literary department, by a large decrease in the male academic attendance, by a serious and still continuing diminution in the number of male classical students and by a noticeable reduction in the annual number of male academic graduates, many classes being smaller than their predecessors of ten or fifteen years before. The medical department, where many women have studied, has lost men, while the law school and the school of pharmacy, two schools where few women enter, show a large growth."

At times Mr. Jacobs becomes extravagant as well as disloyal. For instance, in one passage he charges that the name of the University has been 'stricken from its place among universities like Yale, Harvard and Princeton and listed with Oberlin, Hillsdale, Genesee and Albion.' He thinks that college life also has sadly degenerated—(perhaps he would like to return to the rough, boisterous days of '70-'75!)

As a remedy, Mr. Jacobs suggests that a separate college be organized for women.

He believes that this plan would involve but little additional expense.

The other articles in the December Inlander are the following: "Two Dancers," by Isabella M. Andrews; "James Russell Lowell," Dr. S. A. Jones; "A Mind Tragedy," A. S. Warthin; "The Musical Education of a Musical Ignoramus," Mary S. Case; "Ebe and Sarpent," A. H. Holmes; "The Scholastic and the Speculator," John Dewey; "A Diplomatic Blunder," H. A. Chaney; "Charles Lamb's Falling Out with Coleridge," and the usual miscellany.

AROUND THE CAMPUS.

The Christmas vacation will commence tomorrow.

George B. Dygert, '93 lit, has been chosen foot ball captain for next year. The latest debating society in the law department is the Cosmopolitan. Its membership is limited to nineteen. Oracle prizes have been awarded as follows: Cover, H. W. Wyckoff; title page, G. A. Damon; cartoon, J. H. Sawyer.

Rev. Dr. Fulton, of New York, gave a short talk Monday before the junior laws on "The Origin of Equity Jurisprudence."

At the meeting of the Biological Society Tuesday night, Prof. Reighard delivered a paper on the "Work of the State Fish Commission."

The regents yesterday authorized the executive committee to purchase the Rominger collection in the museum. They transacted no other business of importance.

The senior medics decided Saturday, by a vote of 42 to 41, not to wear the caps and gowns. The senior lits will adopt this uniform, provided two-thirds of the class will promise to wear them.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage's lecture on the "Science of Good Cheer," was heard by an audience which filled every seat in University Hall. Some of the jokes were a little old, but no one failed to laugh at them.

The Junior "lits" celebrated their base ball victories Thursday night by giving an elaborate banquet in the Light Infantry Hall. About seventy-five persons were present. The following toasts were given: "The Foot Ball Team," Capt. Nicholson; "The Freshman-Sophomore Rush," Dodge; "Base Ball," Dodge; "The Tug of War," Fassett; "The Class of '93," Mayhew; "The Oracle," Jennette; "Journalism," Parker; "A Story," Cleveland; "The U. M. of A. A.," Griffin.

An inter-fraternity indoor base ball league has been formed. It is comprised only of those societies which are represented on the Palladium board. Mr. Vandewenter, of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, is president.

The freshman lits succeeded in completing their election last Saturday, all on the independent ticket being elected Holt, for orator, won against Handy, in whose behalf the "frats" and a portion of the independents had united.

An animated pronouncing contest took place in University Hall, Friday night, between corps of twenty-four persons taken from the literary and law departments respectively. Miss A. E. Tanner, of the literary department, carried off the palm, a fine copy of Webster's unabridged dictionary. When the last law fell, five lits were still standing.

The County Fair.

President F. B. Braun, of the Washtenaw County Fair Association, submitted his annual report on Tuesday last. He remarks upon the great success with which the last fair met, the exhibits of horses and cattle being in his opinion especially fine. Sheep and swine were not so largely exhibited. Mr. Braun thinks that the grand cavalcade was an excellent method of exhibiting live stock.

The publication of the premium book was this year a profitable undertaking. The president succeeded in getting advertisements to the value of $360 and 3,000 books were printed at an expense of $217.55. The charges for soliciting advertisements, etc., amounted to $56.00, leaving a balance in favor of the association of $86.45.

Mr. Braun thinks it advisable for department superintendents to study carefully the rules and regulations, so that there may be no mistake in the awarding of premiums. Closing the entries of live stock one week before the fair opened proved very satisfactory; otherwise it would have been impossible to take care of the animals.

The president recommends that the offices of general superintendent and recording secretary be combined, and that a compensation be paid to the officer who fills these two positions.

Mr. Braun further recommends, first, that, in classes where there is no competition and the animal or article is worthy, the awarding committee should award first premium and give second premium money; second, that all exhibitors furnish their own hay.

Mr. Braun hopes that the board of managers will never ask for another balloon ascension and parachute drop, as they are dangerous and unprofitable.

The race track so far has cost $1,100. Seventy-five dollars additional will be required to finish it. Through a mistake the track was made twenty-five feet too long and had to be shortened.

The president refers to the speeches of Governor Winans, Mayor Doty, Col. Dean, Frederick Schmid and Mr. Gibbons, editor of the Michigan Farmer.

Lovers of the Beautiful.

Ann Arbor is already the literary center of the north-west and is likely to become the artistic and musical center as well. One evidence of this might be seen in the very fine display of water colors and oil paintings at the ladies' library last week.

Without attempting to describe the pieces in detail, it would be interesting, perhaps, to point out a few pieces particularly noteworthy, such as Miss Elsie Whitman's study of Spanish life and sketches of local buildings, Mrs. D. M. Tyler's rosary and fruit; Miss Fannie Fisher's representation of cherries falling out of a basket; Mrs. Lulu Walker's domestic and southern scenes; Mrs. J. W. Dewey's strawberries and roses; Mrs. Orcutt's pears; Mrs. W. S. Perry's teales and Jonquils; Miss Kate Douglas' fireplace, outdoor scenes and ornamental screen; Miss Randall's rustic scenes; Miss Hunt's scenes on the Huron river and sea shore, and her strawberries and roses (twenty pieces in all); Miss Mary Richmond's flowers; Miss Birdie Bliss's scenes in still life; Mrs. M. A. Campbell's miscellaneous scenes; Mrs. Zina P. King's sketch of the old barn near Cedar Bend Avenue; Mrs. Sutherland's charcoal sketch representing book and tea set; Mrs. Patterson's table scene; Miss Carrie Wheeler's sketches from still life; Mrs. Randall's and Miss Ruth Trueblood's miscellaneous sketches; Miss Mary Trueblood's charcoal sketch; Mrs. L. E. Smith's scene on Niantic Bay, Conn.; Miss Susa Whedon's oil paintings representing shells, medicine bottle, cider; Mrs. W. E. Walker's landscape, and others. The display, as a whole, was as rich as it was diversified, and only a connoisseur could tell which particular piece was to be rated the highest.

Other noticeable features of the exhibit were the china paintings by Miss Mattie Harriman and the various bon bon boxes and calendars which were offered for sale.

ANN ARBOR CARRIAGE WORKS. Carriages, Coaches and Sleighs. REPAIRING PROMPTLY DONE. 9 AND 11 W. LIBERTY AND 21 23 SECOND ST., ANN ARBOR, MICH.

THE REGISTER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
SELBY A. MORAN,
ANN ARBOR, MICH.

TERMS:
One Dollar per Year in Advance.
$1.50 if not paid until after one year.

Five Cents per Year additional to Subscribers outside of Washtenaw County.
Fifty Cents Additional to Foreign Countries.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1891.

THE REGISTER requests all of its friends, who have business at the Probate Court, to send their printing to this office. Reasonable rates only are charged.

Those people who believe that Providence rules in politics as well as other spheres of activity will see in the defeat of Mills and the probable shelving of Grover Cleveland a righteous judgment. Cleveland lost the respect of all enlightened men when he openly championed the cause of Tammany.

To DAVID B. HILL'S shameless history was added last week a further infamy. His removal of two county clerks because they would not sign false election returns, was a proceeding which, in some nations less patient than the United States, would lead to revolution. The people of this country cannot forever tolerate such devilish politics. As for elevating to the presidency a man of Hill's stamp—banish the thought!

The puerile Argus last week indulged in another of its vicious thrusts at THE REGISTER—all because, a few weeks ago, this paper hinted that the use of next year's money for paying this year's debts is not good financing. No amount of misrepresentation will help the case of the Argus at all. As for croaking, it is sufficient to say that no other paper has done so much to advertise the advantages of Ann Arbor as has THE REGISTER. The Argus knows this; hence its childish whimpering.

The attendance at the meeting of the Business Men's Association a week ago last Tuesday night, and the interest shown in the matter in hand proves very clearly that this association is not organized as it should be. THE REGISTER wishes to propose a plan for the consideration of our business men who are really in earnest in the matter of building up Ann Arbor. In the first place, strike off from the list of members the name of every man who is not willing to attend regular meetings, to be held say once every two weeks, or at least once a month. This will reduce the number of members of the association, of course, but it will give a working membership that will not be encumbered or held back by dead heads. We believe there will be plenty of men left who are sufficiently interested in the welfare of our city to take hold of the work and do their part in building up the town, if a feasible plan for doing so were proposed. Then let the association appoint a standing committee, consisting of say five men of recognized business ability, men in whom our capitalists will have perfect confidence. Let it be the duty of this committee to look into the merits of all proposed new business enterprises and report to the association upon the same. If their report is favorable, let this be conclusive evidence that the business enterprise upon which the report is made is one in which our business men who have money to invest can do so with a reasonable degree of safety. Such a plan as this would discourage illegitimate schemes, while it would make it possible for any new enterprise which was really desirable to secure such capital as would be necessary to insure its financial success. We are aware that the one difficult point in this matter would be to get a committee who would act conscientiously and whose judgment would carry with it the confidence that such a plan would demand. We believe, however, it can be done, and with a committee of this kind in whose business judgment our capitalists would have the utmost confidence, we could certainly expect a more healthy growth in a number of new business enterprises in Ann Arbor. We wish to urge our Business Men's Association to give this plan their careful consideration, as we are sure that such a plan would bring about far more desirable results than will ever be accomplished by the Business Men's Association as now organized.

People making Christmas presents of books, pocket books, portmonies or any other articles on which they desire to have the name of the receiver neatly printed in gold letters, can have such work done promptly and in the very best of style at The Register Publishing Company.

Sheehan & Co., the University Book-sellers have as usual the finest line of holiday gift books, in the city. Art Calendars and Diaries for the year 1892. They have just received five hundred Oxford Teachers' Bibles, the American Edition, which they sell at nearly half what you paid last year. Their stock of Prayer and Hymnals, Fine card cases and other useful and beautiful articles is complete and prices are right. We would advise all to go and see their store now it is worth the while.

Does it Contain Ammonia?

The charge is being made that the Royal Baking Powder contains ammonia. We would have supposed that the emphatic condemnation of ammonia baking powders by the most eminent physicians throughout the land, and the fact of the three leading chemists of Minnesota making their report to the Senate Committee recently showing that bread baked with the "Royal" contained ammonia and the hostility now being manifested by the public against all ammonia and alum baking powders would have driven them permanently from the market.

In view of the fact that Baking Powder has become an indispensable article in every kitchen, it is gratifying to know that there are brands in the market to which no suspicion of any kind has ever attached. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a pure cream of tartar powder free from every taint of ammonia, alum or other harmful substance.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

Against the Saloons.

The opponents of the saloon in Ann Arbor met Sunday afternoon in Newberry Hall for the purpose of agitating the proposed five-mile law. Rev. Messrs. Cobern, Young, Carman, Gelston and Bradshaw occupied seats on the platform.

Mr. Cobern was the first speaker. He compared the saloon evil to the vulture which preyed on Prometheus' vitals. Students were in particular danger because they were young, away from home, many unused to city ways, each influenced by companions, lovers of excitement. What can be done about it? He thought the proposed five-mile act practicable, and scouted the idea that it was an abridgment of personal liberty. He did not believe that forty saloon-keepers could exert more influence than eighty professors. All that was needed to destroy the great evil was uniformity of aim and effort and unbounded faith.

Rev. Mr. Young thought that the objections to the proposed law were futile. He had seen a similar measure succeed in Missouri and he believed that the obstacles were not insurmountable in Michigan. What if the proposed law did not entirely stop drinking. Could an intelligent man expect anything of the kind so long as human beings have appetites? Duty demanded simply that temptation should be taken out of the way. As for another objection, that many of the citizens would leave the city, if the saloons were abolished, he could only say that such citizens were not wanted, anyway.

Rev. Mr. Carman said that the entire Baptist church supported the proposed measure. Nevertheless there were many good people who were not represented at the meeting. The citizens might be divided into three classes: First, those who favored even radical measures; second, those who were just as emphatically on the other side, and, third, the great middle class, including many who in their minds favored the movement, yet feared the sacrifice of business interests or the loss of social standing. He felt much charity for these men. Yet he thought they would be brought to support the five-mile law on the grounds that they supported the many restrictions already imposed on the liquor traffic. He believed that any pecuniary loss that might come from the abolition of the saloon would be fully compensated by the gain in the University attendance which would come about if the saloon danger no longer existed.

After brief remarks by Rev. Messrs. Gelston and Bradshaw, the meeting adjourned.

DR. FRUTH.

He has Performed More Cures Than any Physician in Genesee County.

We clip the following highly complimentary notice from the Wolverine Citizen, Flint, Mich.: "Dr. Fruth has made professional visits to our city for four years, and in that time has performed more cures than any physician in Genesee county, as the records of his cases will prove,—the exact number being 1,004, cases—too, that our home physicians had pronounced incurable or were unsatisfactorily treated. Can you doubt who is the physician? It is the man who honestly earns a reputation of this kind or the man who stays home and seldom sees one case to Dr. Fruth's hundred? We think your intelligent mind will be able to arrive at a correct conclusion, and if you are a sufferer you will not allow some well-meaning friend or physician to influence you against consulting a Specialist on your disease. You need not take any risk whatever, if the doctor can be persuaded to take your case and guarantee a cure, you cannot afford to put off the treatment any longer when day after day only bring you nearer the fate which you must meet sooner or later, unless you apply for treatment, as others have done, and get well. Then you may be happy once more, and enjoy this life as you should. You owe it to yourself and your friends who you are more or less dependent upon for the every day cares, which your invalid life brings.

In order to obtain treatment from Dr. Fruth it must be understood that you are no longer a patient of any other physician and cannot find relief with your home physicians, then if he can cure you the Dr. will gladly take your case under his careful treatment and get you well if you are not beyond help. If you are he will tell you so, and advise you what to do.

A Lively Meeting.

The Webster Farmers' Club met at the Congregational church last Saturday afternoon. Messrs. E. N. Ball and E. S. Cushman rendered music. Rev. Mr. Morris offered prayer. The treasurer reported $10 30 on hand.

After the usual routine of business, the feasibility of putting a basement under the church was discussed. The committee appointed to investigate the matter met in the morning for that purpose. Mr. Cushman stated that no guesswork was tolerated in arriving at the conclusion that $500 or thereabouts was amply sufficient to meet the demands. A committee was appointed, to act with the church committee, to solicit subscriptions. It consisted of Wm. E. Boyden, G. W. Merrill and E. A. Nordman.

The club then listened to Miss Etta Drew, who rendered, in a very good manner, a recitation entitled, "The Lost Steamship."

Rev. Mr. Morris was then called upon for a talk. He spoke of the interest shown in the club, and instructive topics for discussion. He has been much impressed with the subjects of the Railroad reform of this country, and with the ballot reform of this country. He spoke also of the eccentricities of great men. He referred to Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Great men even have weaknesses. Kings and giants are different when viewed in private life. Poets are censured as having no feelings and philanthropists lay off their garb of benevolence while in their homes and become themselves. Absent-mindedness is a great peculiarity in human nature. Archimedes, for instance, wanted to finish drawing his circle, before the soldier would take him prisoner, so absorbed was he in his study. But now we are becoming more united; not one person nor one nation. The doctrine of reciprocity is doing grand work. We can soon shake hands with the Jews and the Japanese. All are improving. The agricultural interests are growing and the speaker was proud of it. We are taking a step forward.
